o These and the following Words are Ambiguous: for they may be understood, either of the Southern parts of Judah, &c. which he would have Achish understand: or, of another Country lying Southward from Judah, &c. which David meant, and which was the truth. So though it was not a downright lye; yet it was an Equivocation, with an intention to deceive, which is the formality of a Lye, and was contrary to that simplicity which became David both as a Prince, and as an Eminent Professor of the true Religion. p For, that is: for in the following words, he particularly expresseth what part of the South of Judah he went against, even that which was Inhabited by the Jerahmeelites, and by the Kenites. q The Posterity of Hezron, a Family of Judah, 1 Chron. 2. 9, 25. r The Posterity of Jethro, which chose to dwell in the South of Judah, Judg. 1. 16. See Numb. 24. 21.

11 And David saved neither man nor woman alive, to bring tidings to Gath, saying, Lest they should tell on us s, saying, So did David, and so will be his manner all the while he dwelleth in the countrey of the Philistines.

s That the tidings of this Action against this People (who were, it seems, either tributaries to, or confederates with Achish) might neither come quickly nor certainly to Achish his Court: which he might the rather promise himself, because Achish and all his Men were now busily imployed in their Warlike preparations against the Israelites; and if any flying rumour came thither, he thought by his Interest and Artifices he could easily discredit and dash it. Besides the consideration of Gods Curse denounced against the People whom he had now destroyed, and of Gods particular Promises made to him, and of his special Providence which he constantly experienced watching over him, made him more secure and confident in this and in many other hazardous attempts.

12 And Achish believed David t, saying, He hath made his people Israel † utterly to abhor him: therefore he shall be my servant for ever.

t Partly, because of his confidence in Davids Authority and Fidelity: partly, because most Men easily believe what they heartily wish to be true: and partly, from Gods Providence, which blinded him in this and in divers other particulars relating to Davids coming hither, and abiding here.

CHAP. XXVIII.

AND it came to pass in those days, that the Philistines gathered their armies together, for warfare to fight with Israel a: And Achish said unto David, Know thou assuredly that thou shalt go out with me to battel b, thou and thy men.

a Encouraged thereunto by Samuels death, and Sauls degeneration, and Davids presence with him. b This he saith, partly, to try his Sincerity; and partly, in confidence of Davids Fidelity.

2 And David said to Achish, Surely thou shalt know what thy servant can do c. And Achish said to David, Therefore d will I make thee keeper of mine head e for ever.

c He speaks ambiguously, as he did before, that Achish might understand him, as he did, of his acting for him against the Israelites; whereas he meant it of his acting for the Israelites against the Philistines, to which he was obliged both by Gods express command, and by his indelible and manifold Obligations to God, and to Gods People; and by his own manifest interest. Though it is likely he would have managed his Affairs with all possible regard and care of Achish his person, to whom alone, upon the matter, David stood obliged, and not to the rest of the Philistines, who had an ill opinion of him, as we shall see. d For that Valour which I doubt not thou wilt shew on my behalf. e i. e. Of my Body and Life, the Captain of my Life-Guard.

3 ¶ Now * Samuel was dead †, and all Israel had lamented him, and buried him in Ramah, even in his own city f: and Saul had put away those that had familiar spirits, and the wizards g out of the land b.

† This is mentioned here as the reason why Saul did not enquire of Samuel; which, if he had now been alive, he would have done. f Where he had his Birth and Education, and most settled Habitation, 1 Sam. 19. 18. g According to Gods command, Lev. 19. 31. and 20. 6, 27. Deut. 18. 11. This he did either by Samuels instigation: or from a conceit that the evil Spirit came upon him by some of their means: or, that he might gain the repute of a Religious Prince, which was very useful to him: or, that he might quiet his troubled Conscience, and please God, as far as his Interest would give him leave. And this is here related, partly, to shew that an Hypocrite, and wicked Man, may obey some of Gods commands: and principally, to bring in the following History. b Of Israel.

4 ¶ And the Philistines gathered themselves together, and came and pitched in Shunem i: and Saul gathered all Israel together, and they pitched in Gilboa k.

i A Town in the Tribe of Issachar, Jos. 19. 18. k A Mountain not far from the Valley of Jezreel, where the Battel was fought, chap. 31. 1. 2 Sam. 2. 21. So the two Armies seem to be placed in the same manner as they were chap. 17. each upon an Hill, and a Valley between them.

5 And when Saul saw the host of the Philistines l, he was afraid, and his heart greatly trembled m.

l From Mount Gilboa, chap. 31. 1. m Partly, from the greatness and resolutenes of the Host of the Philistines, who were the aggressors: partly, from the loss of David, who might have been of great use to him at this time: partly, from the Conscience of his own manifest Guilt, and just expectation of Divine vengeance oft threatned, and now in all likelihood to be inflicted upon him.

6 And when Saul enquired of the LORD n, the LORD answered him not o, neither by dreams, nor by Urim, nor by Prophets p.

n In his slight and perfunctory way, as chap. 14. 19. as appears from hence, that when God did not speedily answer him, he goes to the Devil for an answer, ver. 7. For which reason he is said not to have enquired of the Lord, 1 Chron. 10. 14, i. e. not seriously, and after the right order. Possibly he enquired by some Prophet then with him, or by the Priest before the Ark. o Because he sought him not in due order, nor by the Urim and Thummim which were in the Ephod, which he by his cruelty to the Priests had lost, chap. 23. 6. and because he did not truly repent of, nor put away his sins, which provoked God, and kept him from answering; as Saul well knew by his own conscience and experience, chap. 14. 37, 38, 39. p i. e. Neither by ordinary means, nor extraordinary.

7 ¶ Then said Saul unto his servants, Seek me a woman q that hath a familiar spirit r, that I may go to her, and enquire of her. And his servants said to him s, Behold, there is a woman that hath a familiar spirit at Endor t.

q Rather than a man; for he thought that Sex most likely to be given to those wicked Arts, as being the weaker Sex, and so apter to be deceived, and most prone to Superstition, and oft-times most malicious and revengeful. r One that converseth with the Devil, and deads mens Ghosts, and by them can discover future things. See Isa. 8. 19. s Instead of dissuading him from this wicked and destructive practice, which they should and would have done, if they had either loved God or their King, they further him in it. t A place in the Tribe of Manasseh, within Jordan, not very far from the place where the Armies were encamped.

8 And Saul disguised himself u, and put on other raiment, and he went, and two men with him, and they came to the woman by night, and he said, I pray thee divine unto me by the familiar spirit, and bring me him up whom I shall name unto thee.

u Both because he was ashamed to be known, or thought guilty of this practice; and because he suspected that the Woman, had she known him, would not practice her Art before him.

9 And the woman said unto him, Behold, thou knowest x what Saul hath done, how he hath cut off those that have familiar spirits, and the wizards out of the land: wherefore then layest thou a snare for my life, to cause me to die y?

x For his Speech and Garb discovered him to be an Israelite, and therefore acquainted with these matters. y By accusing me to Saul as guilty of a capital crime.

10 And Saul sware to her by the LORD, saying, As the LORD liveth, there shall no † punishment happen to thee for this thing.

† Heb. iniquity. So Gr.

11 Then said the woman, Whom shall I bring up unto thee? And he said, Bring me up Samuel z.

z Whose kindness and compassion to him, as he had formerly experienced, so now he expected it in his deep distress. This practice of divination by the dead, or by the Ghosts or Souls of dead Persons, called up by Magical Art, was very usual among all Nations, and from them Saul learned it.

12 And when the woman saw Samuel, she cryed with a loud voice a: and the woman spake to Saul, saying, Why hast thou deceived me? for thou art Saul b.

a For fear of her life, Saul himself being Witness of her Crime. b This she knew, either by some Gesture of Reverence, which this supposed Samuel might shew to Saul, as to the King: or, by information from this Ghost, or from the Spirit by whose help she had raised him.

13 And the king said unto her, Be not afraid: for what sawest thou? And the woman said unto Saul, I saw ‖ gods c ascending out of the earth d.

c i. e. A god, a Divine Person, Glorious, and full of Majesty and Splendor, exceeding not onely Mortal men, but common Ghosts. She useth the Plural Number, gods, either after the manner of the Hebrew Language, which commonly useth that word of one Person: or, after the Language and Custom of the Heathens. But the whole coherence shews that it was but one. For Saul desired but one, ver. 11. and he enquires, and the Woman answers onely of one, ver. 14. d As if it came from the place of the dead.

14 And he said unto her, † What form is he of? And she said, An old man cometh up, and he is covered with a mantle e. And Saul perceived that it was Samuel f, and he stooped with his face to the ground, and bowed himself.

e The usual Habit of Prophets, 2 King. 2. 8, 13. Zech. 13. 4. and particularly of Samuel, 1 Sam. 15. 27. f The Woman pretended, and Saul upon her Suggestion believed that it was Samuel indeed; And so many Popish, and some other Writers conceived. But that it was not Samuel, but the Devil representing Samuel, is sufficiently evident. For, First, It is most incredible, that God, who had just now refused to answer Saul by the means which himself appointed, and used in that case, would answer him, or suffer Samuel to answer him in that way, and upon the use of those means which God detested and contemned: which would have given great countenance and encouragement to Saul, and the Witch, and all Professors and Consulters of those Devilish Arts. Secondly, There are divers passages in this Relation which plainly discover that this was no good, but an evil Spirit: as first, That he receives that Worship from Saul, ver. 14. which good Spirits would not suffer, Rev. 19. 10. and 22. 8, 9. Secondly, That amongst his other sins for which he condemned him, he omitteth this of asking Counsel of one that had a familiar Spirit, to enquire of it; for which transgression, with others, he is expresly said to have died, 1 Chron. 10. 13. which the true Samuel, who was so Zealous for Gods Honour, and so Faithful a Reprover, would never have neglected, especially now, when he takes Saul in the very Fact. Thirdly, That he pretends himself to be disquitted and brought up, ver. 15. by Sauls Instigation, and the Witches Art; which is most false, and impious, and absurd to imagine, concerning those Blessed Souls who are returned to their God, Eccl. 12. 7. and entred into peace and rest, Isa. 57. 2. and lodged in Abrahams bosom, Luk. 16. 22. and rest from their labours, Rev. 14. 13. The onely Argument of any colour to the contrary, is onely this, That the Devil could not so particularly and punctually discover Sauls future Events, as this Samuel doth, ver. 19. But this also hath little weight in it; it being confessed and notoriously known, that evil Spirits both in the Oracles of the Heathen, and otherwise, have oft-times foretold future contingencies; God being pleased to Reveal such things to them, and to permit them to be the Instruments of Revealing them to Men, for the trial of some, and for the terror and punishment of others. Besides, the Devil might foresee this by strong conjectures, as by the numerousness, strength, courage and resolutenes of the Philistine Host, and the quite contrary condition of the Israelites, and by divers other symptoms far above the reach of Mortal men, but such as he by his great Sagacity could easily discern. And for that express determination of the time, to morrow. ver. 19. that word may be understood not of the very next day, but indefinitely of some short time after this, as it is taken, Exod. 13. 14. Deut. 6. 20. Jos. 4. 6, 21. And then it was easie to gather from the present posture of the two Armies, that the Fight and the Ruin of the Israelites was very near. And that it was not the very next day, but some days after this, is evident from the course of the Story, and hath been proved by a late Learned Writer. See my Latin Synopsis on this place.

15 ¶ And Samuel said to Saul, Why hast thou disquieted me to bring me up g? And Saul answered, I am sore distressed; for the Philistines make war against me, and God is departed from me, and answereth me no more, neither † by prophets, nor by dreams h: therefore I have called thee, that thou mayest make known unto me what I shall do.

g As the Devil appeared in Samuel's Shape and Garb, so also he speaketh in his Person, that he might ensnare Saul, and encourage others to seek to him in this wicked way. And God permits him to do so for Sauls greater condemnation and punishment. h He omitteth the Urim here, because he neither did nor could enquire by that, because Abiathar had carried it away to David, and so he expected no answer that way.

16 Then said Samuel, Wherefore then dost thou ask of me, seeing the LORD is departed from thee, and is become thine enemy?

17 And the LORD hath done ‖ to him i, * as he spake by † me k: for the LORD hath rent the kingdom out of thine hand, and given it to thy neighbour, even to David:

i i. e. To David, as it is explained in the following words. The Pronoun Relative put before the Noun to which it belongs, as is usual in the Hebrew Text, as Psal. 87. 1. and 105. 19. Prov. 7. 7, 8. Jer. 40. 5. Otherwise, to him, is put for, to thee; such changes of Persons being frequent among the Hebrews. Otherwise, for himself, i. e. for the accomplishment of his Counsel, and Prediction, and Oath, and for the Glory of his Justice and Holiness. k Still he nourisheth this perswasion in Saul, that it was the true Samuel that spake to him.

18 * Because thou obeyedst not the voice of the LORD, nor executedst his fierce wrath upon Amalek l, therefore hath the LORD done this thing unto thee this day.

l He mentions this as an eminent instance of his disobedience.

19 Moreover, the LORD will also deliver * Israel with thee, into the hand of the Philistines: and to morrow shalt thou and thy sons be with me m: the LORD also shall deliver the host of Israel into the hand of the Philistines.

* chap. 31. 7.

m i. e. In the state of the dead; and so it was true both of Saul and Jonathan. Or, in the state of rest: for though thou shalt suffer here for thy sin, yet after death thou shalt be happy, as dying in the Lords quarrel: So the Devils design might be to flatter Saul into an opinion of his own future happiness, and to take him off from all serious thoughts and care about it. And it is here observable, That as it was the manner of the Heathen Oracles to answer ambiguously, the better to save his credit in case of mistake, (the Devil himself not being certain of future events, but onely conjecturing at what was most likely): so doth this counterfeit Samuel here. For, as concerning the time, he says to morrow: which he understood indifferently for the very next day, or for some short time after. And, as concerning the condition, thou shalt be with me; which may be understood either of a good condition, if understood as spoken in the Person of Samuel; or, of a bad condition, if understood as spoken by an evil Spirit; or, at least indefinitely of a dead condition, be it good or evil: which last he foresaw by circumstances to be very likely.

20 Then Saul † fell straightway all along on the earth n, and was sore afraid, because of the words of Samuel, and there was no strength in him: for he had eaten no bread all the day, nor all the night.

n Being quite dis-spirited with these sad and surprizing tidings, and so unable to stand.

21 ¶ And the woman came unto Saul o, and saw that he was sore troubled, and said unto him, Behold, thine handmaid hath obeyed thy voice, and I have put my life in my hand, and have hearkened hearkened unto thy words which thou ſpakeſt unto me.

o From whom ſhe departed, when ſhe had brought him and Samuel together, that they might more freely converſe together, as being alone.

22 Now therefore, I pray thee, hearken thou alſo unto the voice of thine hand-maid p, and let me ſet a morſel of bread before thee; and eat, that thou mayeſt have ſtrength when thou goeſt on thy way.

p This earneſtneſs did not come meerly from her humanity and reſpect to Saul, but from a prudent and neceſſary care of her ſelf, becauſe if Saul had died in her Houſe, his Blood would have been charged upon her.

23 But he refuſed, and ſaid I will not eat. But his ſervants, together with the woman, compelled him q, and he hearkened unto their voice: ſo he aroſe from the earth, and ſate upon the bed.

q i. e. Did over-perſwade him, by importunate intreaties, as the next words ſhew.

24 And the woman had a fat calf in the houſe, and ſhe haſted, and killed it, and took flour, and kneaded it, and did bake unleavened bread r thereof.

r Not having time to Leaven it.

25 And ſhe brought it before Saul, and before his ſervants, and they did eat: then they roſe up, and went away that night ſ.

ſ i. e. Before Morning. For he came by Night, ver. 8. and went away before Day; not willing to have it diſcovered that he had conſulted with a Witch.

CHAP. XXIX.

NOW the Philiſtines gathered together all their armies to Aphek a: and the Iſraelites pitched by a fountain which is in Jezreel.

a Either, that in the Tribe of Aſher, Joſ. 19. 24. or rather another Town of that Name in Iſſachar, though not mentioned elſewhere in Scripture; this being the caſe of many places, to be but once Named.

2 And the lords of the Philiſtines paſſed on by hundreds, and by thouſands: but David, and his men paſſed on the rereward with Achiſh b.

b i. e. As the Life-guard of Achiſh, as he had promiſed, chap. 28. 2. Achiſh being, as it ſeems, the General of the Army.

3 Then ſaid the princes of the Philiſtines c, What do theſe Hebrews here? And Achiſh ſaid unto the princes of the Philiſtines, Is not this David the ſervant of Saul the king of Iſrael, which hath been with me theſe days, or theſe years d, and I have † found no fault in him, ſince he fell unto me *, unto this day.

I might have ſaid Years, either becauſe he hath now been with me a full Year and four Months, chap. 27. 7. or becauſe he was with me ſome Years ago, 1 Sam. 21. 10. and ſince that time hath been known to me. And it is not improbable, but David, after his eſcape from thence, might hold ſome correſpondency with Achiſh, as finding him to be a Man of more generous temper than the reſt of the Philiſtines, and ſuppoſing that he might have need of him for a Refuge in caſe Saul continued to ſeek his life. * i. e. Since he revolted, or left his own King to turn to me. For that ſenſe Achiſh put upon this eſcape of David (as it is called chap. 27. 1.) and ſo is the Phraſe of falling to a party, elſewhere uſed, Jer. 37. 13, 14.

4 And the princes of the Philiſtines were wroth with him e, and the princes of the Philiſtines ſaid unto him, * Make this fellow return, that he may go again to his place which thou haſt appointed him f, and let him not go down with us to battel, leſt in the battel he be an adverſary to us: for wherewith ſhould he reconcile himſelf unto his maſter? ſhould it not be with the heads of theſe men g.

* 1 Chr. 12. 19.

e Were unſatisfied and offended with Achiſh for this intention and declaration. f Herein the Wiſe and Gracious Providence of God appeared, both in helping him out of thoſe ſnares and difficulties, out of which no human wit could have extricated him, but he muſt either have been, or have been thought to be a Traitor, and an ungrateful unworthy perſon either to the one or to the other ſide; and moreover in giving him the happy opportunity of recovering his own, and his All from the Amalekites, which had been irrecoverably loſt, if he had gone into this Battel. And the kindneſs of God to David was the greater, becauſe it had been moſt juſt for God to have left David in all thoſe Diſtreſſes into which his own ſinful counſel and courſe had brought him. g i. e. Of theſe our Souldiers? They ſpeak according to the rules of Reaſon and true Policy; for by this very courſe, great Enemies have ſometimes been reconciled together.

5 Is not this David, of whom they ſang one to another in dances, ſaying, * Saul ſlew his thouſands, and David his ten thouſands?

* chap. 18. 7. and 21. 11.

6 ¶ Then Achiſh called David, and ſaid unto him, Surely, as the LORD liveth h, thou haſt been upright, and thy going out, and thy coming in with me i in the hoſt is good in my ſight: for I have not found evil in thee, ſince the day of thy coming unto me k, unto this day: nevertheleſs † the lords favour thee not.

h He Swears by Jehovah; either, becauſe he did acknowledge their Jehovah to be a God, being, it may be, convinced and inſtructed therein by David, though he did worſhip Dagon with him, and above him: or, becauſe this was Davids God, and therefore he ſwore by him; partly, out of complaiſance with David, that he might receive his unwelcom meſſage to him with leſs offence; and partly, that this Oath might gain more credit to his words with David. i i. e. Thy whole converſation with me. See chap. 18. 13. and many other places where that phraſe is uſed. k Though before that time there was Evil in thee towards me and my people.

7 Wherefore now return and go in peace, that thou † diſpleaſe not the lords of the Philiſtines.

† Heb. do not evil in the eyes of the lords.

8 ¶ And David ſaid unto Achiſh, But what have I done? and what haſt thou found in thy ſervant ſo long as I have been † with thee unto this day, that I may not go to fight againſt the enemies of my lord the king l?

l This was deep diſſimulation and flattery, but he apprehended it neceſſary, leſt he ſhould tacitly confeſs himſelf guilty of that whereof they accuſed him, and thereby expoſe himſelf to the utmoſt hazards. Theſe perplexities he brought himſelf into by his irregular courſe, in forſaking the Land of Judah, where God had placed him, chap. 22. 5. and promiſed him protection, and putting himſelf into the hands of the Philiſtines.

9 And Achiſh anſwered, and ſaid to David, I know thou art good in my ſight, as an angel of God m: notwithſtanding the princes of the Philiſtines have ſaid, He ſhall not go up with us to the battel.

m In whom nothing is blame-worthy. Or, it may be uſed to expreſs Davids great wiſdom; (as well as integrity) as 2 Sam. 14. 17. and 2 Sam. 19. 27. The Heathens acknowledged good Spirits, which alſo they worſhipped as an inferior ſort of Deities, who were Meſſengers and Miniſters to the Supreme God; only Achiſh had learned the title of Angels, from the Iſraelites his Neighbours, and eſpecially from Davids Converſation.

10 Wherefore now riſe up early in the morning, with thy maſters ſervants n that are come with thee: and aſſoon as ye be up early in the morning, and have light depart o.

n He intimates the ground of the Philiſtines jealouſie concerning David and his men, that they were all Servants of Saul, and therefore had an Obligation, and were ſuſpected to have an Affection to their old Lord and Maſter, againſt whom even David himſelf could not make them Fight, eſpecially with, and for the Philiſtines. o Before the Battel begin, leſt, if you delay, the Lords of the Philiſtines fall upon you, and deſtroy you.

11 So David and his men roſe up early to depart in the morning, to return into the land of the Philiſtines, and the Philiſtines went up to Jezreel.

CHAP.

CHAP. XXX.

AND it came to pass, when David and his men were come to Ziklag on the third day a, that the Amalekites b had invaded the south c, and Ziklag, and smitten Ziklag d, and burnt it with fire:

a To wit, after Davids departure from Achish; for Ziklag was at a great distance from the Camp and place of Fight, as appears from 2 Sam. 1. 2. and Davids men being all Foot-men, could make but slow Marches. b The remainders of that People who lived near those parts where David had destroyed their Brethren, chap. 27. 8, 9. c To wit, the Southern part of Judah, and the adjacent parts: See below, ver. 14. d i. e. Sacked and spoiled it.

2 And had taken the women captives that were therein: they slew not any e, either great or small, but carried them away, and went on their way.

e Which was strange, considering how David dealt with them, chap. 27. 9. But this must be ascribed partly to their selfish or fleshly Interest: for they might reserve them, either to make Sale of them for their Profit, or to abuse them for their Lust; or, it may be, to revenge themselves upon David and his men, by reserving them to extraordinary, and lingring, and repeated punishments; but principally, to Gods overruling and wonderful Providence, who set these bounds to their Rage; and though he designed to chastise Davids sin and folly, yet would not deliver him nor his up to death.

3 ¶ So David and his men came to the city, and behold, it was burnt with fire, and their wives, and their sons, and their daughters were taken captives.

4 Then David and the people that were with him, lift up their voice and wept, until they had no more power to weep f.

f Till either the humour was wholly spent, or the consideration of their Calamity had made them stupid.

5 And Davids two wives were taken captives Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail the wife of Nabal, the Carmelite.

6 And David was greatly distressed: for the people spake of stoning him g, because the soul of all the people was † grieved, every man for his sons, and for his daughters: but David encouraged himself in the LORD his God h.

g As the Author of their miseries, by coming to Ziklag at first, by provoking the Amalekites to this cruelty, by his forwardness in Marching away with Achish, and leaving their Wives and Children unguarded. h i. e. In this that the All-wise, and All-powerful Lord, was his God by Covenant-relation, and special Promise, and true and Fatherly affection, as he had shewed himself to be in the whole course of his Providence towards him.

7 And David said to Abiathar the priest, Ahimelechs son, I pray thee bring me hither the ephod i: and Abiathar brought thither the ephod to David.

i And put it upon thy self, that thou maist enquire of God according to his Ordinance, Numb. 27. 21. See above, chap. 23. 9. David was sensible of his former Error in neglecting to ask counsel of God by the Ephod, when he came to Achish, and when he went out with Achish to the Battel; and his necessity now brings him to his Duty, and his Duty meets with Success.

8 And David enquired at the LORD, saying, Shall I pursue after this troop? shall I overtake them? And he answered him, Pursue, for thou shalt surely overtake them, and without fail recover all k.

k Before, God answered more slowly and gradually, chap. 23. 11, 12. but now he answers speedily, and fully at once, because the business here required more haste. So Gracious is our God, that he considers even the degree of our necessities, and accommodates himself to them.

9 So David went, he and the six hundred men that were with him, and came to the brook Besor, where those that were left behind, stayed.

10 But David pursued, he and four hundred men l: (for two hundred abode behind, which were so faint, that they could not go over the brook Besor.)

l A small number for such an attempt: but David was strong in Faith, giving God the glory of his Power and Faithfulness.

11 ¶ And they found an Egyptian in the field m, and brought him to David, and gave him bread, and he did eat, and they made him drink water n.

m Whom by his Habit they guessed to be a Souldier that had been engaged in that expedition. n Partly, out of humanity and compassion to a perishing creature: and partly, in prudence, that by him they might learn the true state of their Enemies.

12 And they gave him a piece of a cake of figs, and two clusters of raisins: and * when he had eaten, his spirit came again to him: for he had eaten no bread, nor drank any water, three days, and three nights o.

* See Judg. 15. 19. chap. 14. 27.

o Which is to be understood Synecdochically of one whole day and part of two others, as the same Phrase is taken Matth. 12. 40. as appears from the next Verse, where he saith three days agone I fell sick, but in the Hebrew it is, this is the third day since I fell sick.

13 And David said unto him, To whom belongest thou? and whence art thou? And he said, I am a young man of Egypt p, servant to an Amalekite, and my master left me q, because three days agone I fell sick.

p God by his Providence so ordering it, that he was not one of that Cursed Race of the Amalekites, who were to be utterly destroyed, but an Egyptian, who might be spared. q In this place and condition: which was barbarous inhumanity: for he ought, and easily might have carried him away with the Prey which they had taken. But he paid dear for this cruelty, for this was the occasion of the ruin of him and of all their company. And God by his secret Providence ordered the matter thus for that very end. So that there is no Fighting against God, who can make the smallest accidents serviceable to the production of the greatest effects.

14 We made an invasion upon the south of the Cherethites r, and upon the coast which belongeth to Judah, and upon the south of Caleb s, and we burnt Ziklag with fire.

r i. e. The Philistines, as is manifest from ver. 16. who are so called Zeph. 2. 5. s q. d. that part of the South of Judah which belongs to Calebs Posterity, Jos. 14. 13.

15 And David said to him, Canst thou bring me down to this company? And he said, Swear unto me by God, that thou wilt neither kill me, nor deliver me into the hands of my master, and I will bring thee down to this company t.

t For his Master had told him whither they intended to go, that he might come after them, as soon as he could.

16 ¶ And when he had brought him down, behold, they were spread abroad upon all the earth u, eating, and drinking, and dancing, because of all the great spoil that they had taken out of the land of the Philistines, and out of the land of Judah.

u Secure and careless, because they were now come almost to the Borders of their own Countrey, and the Philistines and Israelites both were otherwise engaged, and David, as they believed with them. So they had no visible cause of danger; and yet then they were nearest to their destruction.

17 And David smote them from the twilight ‖, even unto the evening of the † next day: and there escaped not a man of them, save four hundred young men which rode upon camels, and fled.

‖ The

‖ The word signifies both the Morning and Evening twilight. But the later seems here intended, partly because their Eating, and Drinking, and Dancing, was more customary and proper work for the Evening, than for the Morning; and partly, because the Evening was more convenient for David, that the fewness of his Forces might not be discovered by the Daylight. Object. It is not likely that David would fall upon the Amalekites before his Men, who had been tired with a long and hasty March, were refreshed. Answ. Nor is it said that he did. It is probable, that when he came near them, he reposed himself, and his Army, in some secret place, whereof there were many in those parts, for a convenient Season; and then Marched on so as to come to them at the Evening time.

18 And David recovered all that the Amalekites had carried away: and David rescued his two wives.

19 And there was nothing lacking to them, neither small nor great, neither sons nor daughters, neither spoil, nor any thing that they had taken to them: David recovered all.

20 And David took all the flocks, and the herds x: which they drave before those other cattel y, and said, This is Davids spoil z.

x To wit, which the Amalekites had taken from the Philistines or others. y Before those who belonged to Ziklag. z i. e. The Soldiers, who lately were so incensed against David that they spake of Stoning him: now upon this success Magnifie him, and Triumphantly celebrate his Praise; and say concerning this spoil, David purchased it by his Valour and Conduct, and he may dispose of it as he pleaseth.

21 ¶ And David came to the two hundred men, which were so faint that they could not follow David, whom they had made also to abide at the brook Besor: and they went forth to meet David, and to meet the people that were with him a; and when David came near to the people, he ‖ saluted them b.

a To congratulate the Victory; which, it is probable, David had sent a Messenger to acquaint them with. b He spake kindly to them, and did not blame them because they went no further with them.

22 Then c answered all the wicked men, and men of Belial d of † those that went with David, and said, Because they went not with us e, we will not give them ought of the spoil that we have recovered, save to every man his wife, and his children, that they may lead them away, and depart.

c When those two hundred men required, or expected a part of the Spoil; and they gathered from Davids words and carriage, that he intended to give it to them. d So he calls them for their Covetousness, and Injustice, and Churlishness to their brethren. By which Expressions we may judge, how hainous and odious those Sins are in Gods sight. e Which was from their Impotency; not by choice, or design. Herein therefore was their iniquity and unreasonableness, they would punish them for no fault.

23 Then said David, Ye shall not do so, my brethren f, with that which the LORD hath given us g, who hath preserved us, and delivered the company that came against us, into our hand.

f He useth his Power and Authority to over-rule them; but manageth it with all sweetness, calling them Brethren; not only as of the same Nation and Religion with him, but as his fellow-Souldiers. g What he hath freely imparted to us, we should not unkindly and injuriously withhold from our Brethren.

24 For who will hearken unto you in this matter h? but * as his part is that goeth down to the battel, so shall his part be that tarrieth by the stuff: they shall part alike i.

* See Num. 31. 27.

h What wise or just man will be of your opinion in this matter? i A prudent and equitable Constitution, and therefore practised by the Romans, as Polybius and others note. The Reason of it is manifest; because they were exposed to hazards, as well as their Brethren: and were a Reserve to whom they might retreat in case of a Defeat; and they were now in actual Service, and in the station in which their General had placed them.

25 And it was so from that day † that he made it a statute, and an ordinance for Israel unto this day.

26 ¶ And when David came to Ziklag, he sent of the spoil unto the elders of Judah k, even to his friends (saying, Behold, a † present for you of the spoil of the enemies of the LORD l).

k Partly in gratitude for their former favour to him: and partly, in Policy, to engage their Affections to him now, when he apprehended Sauls Death near. l He intimates, that though he was fled to the Philistines, yet he imployed not his Forces against the Israelites, as, no doubt, Sauls Courtiers and Souldiers reported that he designed; but onely against Gods Enemies.

27 To them which were in Beth-el m, and to them which were in * south-Ramoth n, and to them which were in Jatter o,

28 And to them which were in Aroer p, and to them which were in Siphmoth, and to them which were in Eshtemoa, p Not that beyond Jordan, Numb. 32. 34. as many think; which was too remote from David: but another Place of that Name in Judah, where the rest of the Places here named were: This being one of those places where David and his men were wont to haunt, as is expressed ver. 31.

29 And to them which were in Rhachal, and to them which were in the cities of the Jerahmeelites, and to them which were in the cities of the Kenites,

30 And to them which were in Hormah, and to them which were in Chor-ashan, and to them which were in Athach, 31 And to them which were in Hebron, and to all the places where David himself, and his men were wont to haunt q.

q Or, to go. Whither they used to resort in the time of Sauls Persecution, either to hide themselves in some of their Territories; or, to get Provision from thence.

CHAP. XXXI.

NOW * the Philistines fought against Israel a: and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and fell down ‖ slain in mount Gilboa.

* 1 Chro. 10. 1.

a Whilest David was ingaged against the Amalekites. So he returns to the History which had been interrupted, to give an account of Davids concerns.

2 And the Philistines followed hard upon Saul, and upon his sons; and the Philistines slew * Jonathan b, and Abinadab c, and Malchishua, Sauls sons.

* 1 Chro. 8. 33.

b Davids dear friend; God so ordering it for the further exercise of Davids Faith and Patience; and that David might depend upon God alone for his Crown, and receive it solely from him, and not from Jonathan; who doubtless, had he lived, would have speedily settled the Crown upon Davids Head, which would have in some sort Eclipsed the Glory of Gods Grace and Power in this Work. There was also a special Providence of God in taking away Jonathan: (who of all Sauls Sons, seems to have been the fairest for the Crown) for the preventing Divisions, which have happened amongst the People concerning the Successor: Davids way to the Crown being by this means made the more clear. c Called also Ishui, 1 Sam. 14. 49. Ishbosheth was not here, being possibly at home for the management of Publick Affairs there.

3 And the battel went sore against Saul, and the † archers † hit him, and he was sore wounded of the archers.

4 Then said Saul unto his armour-bearer, Draw thy sword, and thrust me through therewith, lest these uncircumcised come, and thrust me through, and ‖ abuse me d. But his armour bearer would not, not, for he was ſore afraid: therefore Saul took a ſword and fell upon it e.

d Leſt they take me, and put me to ſome ſhameful and cruel Death. e And died of the Wound, as it follows.

5 And when his armour-bearer ſaw that Saul was dead, he fell likewiſe upon his ſword, and died with him.

6 So Saul died with his three ſons, and his armour-bearer, and all his men that ſame day together.

7 ¶ And when the men of Iſrael that were on the other ſide of the valley f, and they that were on the other ſide Jordan g, ſaw that the men of Iſrael fled, and that Saul and his ſons were dead, they forſook the cities and fled, and the Philiſtines came and dwelt in them.

f To wit, the Valley of Jezrel, where the Battel was fought. g Or rather, on this ſide Jordan; for theſe were in the moſt danger: and the Hebrew Preposition is indifferently uſed for on this ſide, or for beyond.

8 And it came to paſs on the morrow, when the Philiſtines came to ſtrip the ſlain, that they found Saul and his three ſons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And they cut off his head h, and ſtripped off his armour, and ſent into the land of the Philiſtines round about, to publiſh it, in the houſe of their idols i, and among the people.

h As the Iſraelites did by Goliah. i To give them the glory of this Victory.

10 And they put his armour in the houſe of Aſhtaroth: and they faſtned his body to the wall of Beth-ſhan.

11 ¶ And when the inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead k heard ‖ of that which the Philiſtines had done to Saul:

k Which was beyond Jordan: for the people on this ſide Jordan were fled from their Cities, as was now ſaid.

12 All the valiant men aroſe, and went all night, and took the body of Saul, and the bodies of his ſons from the walls of Beth-ſhan, and came to Jabeſh, and * burnt them there l.

* Jer. 34. 5.

13 And they took their bones, and * buried them under a tree at Jabeſh, and faſted ſeven dayes m.

* 2 Sam. 2. 4, 5. and 21. 12, 13.

m To teſtifie their ſorrow for the publick loſs of Saul, and of the people of God; and to intreat Gods favour to prevent the utter Extinction of his People. But you muſt not underſtand this word of faſting ſtrictly, as if they eat nothing for Seven whole days; but in a more large and general ſenſe, as it is uſed both in Sacred and Profane Writers; that they did Eat but little, and that ſeldom; and that but mean Food, and drunk only Water for that time.

II. SAMUEL.

CHAP. I.

NOW it came to paſs after the death of Saul, when David was returned from * the ſlaughter of the Amalekites, and David had abode two days in Ziklag a.

* 1 Sam. 30. 17.

a Which though burnt, yet was not ſo conſumed by the Fire, that David and his men could not lodge in it.

2 It came even to paſs on the third day b, that behold a man came out of the camp from Saul, with his clothes rent, and earth upon his head c: and ſo it was when he came to David, that he fell to the earth, and did obeiſance.

b From David's return to Ziklag, as the foregoing words manifeſt. c Pretending ſorrow for the loſs of Gods People, in compliance with David's humour.

3 And David ſaid unto him, From whence comeſt thou? And he ſaid unto him, Out of the camp of Iſrael am I eſcaped.

4 And David ſaid unto him, † How went the matter? I pray thee tell me. And he anſwered, That the people are fled from the battel, and many of the people alſo are fallen and dead, and Saul and Jonathan his ſon d are dead alſo.

d He mentions onely theſe two, as thoſe who ſeemed moſt to obſtruct Davids coming to the Crown.

5 And David ſaid unto the young man that told him, How knoweſt thou that Saul and Jonathan his ſon be dead e?

e For the knowledge of this did moſt concern both David and the whole Commonwealth of Iſrael.

6 And the young man that told him, ſaid, As I happened by chance upon mount Gilboa, behold, Saul leaned upon his ſpear: and lo, the chariots and † horſemen followed hard after him.

7 And when he looked behind him, he ſaw me, and called unto me: and I anſwered, † Here am I.

8 And he ſaid unto me, Who art thou? and I anſwered him, I am an Amalekite.

9 He ſaid unto me again, Stand, I pray thee, upon me f, and ſlay me: for ‖ anguiſh is come upon me g, becauſe my life is yet whole within me h.

‖ Or, my coat of Mail: for my embroidered coat) hindereth me, that my, &c.

f i. e. Lean upon me with thy weight and force, that the Spear may come through me: Or, ſlay by me: i. e. Stop thy flight, and tarry ſo long with me till thou haſt killed me. g i. e. I am in great pain of Body, and anguiſh of Mind. Or thus, my coat of Mail: or, embroydered coat, hath hindred me, that the Spear could not pierce into me. Thus divers both Hebrew and other Learned Expoſitors underſtand it. h I am heart-whole, and not likely to die, as well as not willing to live.

10 So I ſtood upon him, and ſlew him i, becauſe I was ſure that he could not live after that he was faln k: and I took the crown that was upon his head l, and the bracelet that was on his arm, and have brought them hither unto my lord m.

i It is most probable this was a Lye, devised to gain Davids favour, as he supposed. For, 1. Saul was not killed by a Spear, as he pretends, but by his Sword, 1 Sam. 31. 4. 2. It is expressly said, That Sauls Armour-bearer being yet living, saw that Saul was dead, 1 Sam. 31. 5. which doubtless he would very thoroughly examine and know, before he would kill himself upon that account, as he did. 3 Sauls death is manifestly ascribed to his own action, even to his falling upon his Sword, ver. 4, 5. k This he addeth by way of caution and excuse, that it might be thought an act of necessity and kindness, and not of choice or ill-will that he killed Saul. But here also he betrays himself: for how could this be true, when Sauls life was whole within him, as he had now said, v. 9.? l Not that he then wore it; which would have exposed him too much, and that unnecessarily, to the Rage of the Philistines; but that he used to wear it. It is not likely that he found it now actually upon Sauls Head, but that he met with it in some part of the Camp, whither Saul had brought it to wear it when he saw fit, m Unto thee, whom, now Saul is dead, I own for my Lord and King.

11 Then David took hold on his clothes, and
* chap. 3. 31. and 13. 31. * rent them, and likewise all the men that were with him.

12 And they mourned and wept, and fasted until even, for Saul and for Jonathan his son, and for the people of the LORD, and for the house of Israel, because they were fallen by the sword.

13 ¶ And David said unto the young man that told him, Whence art thou n? And he answered, I am the son of a stranger, an Amalekite.

n David heard and knew before what he was, but he asked it again judicially, in order to his Trial and Punishment.

* Psal. 105. 15. 14 And David said unto him, * How wast thou not afraid to stretch forth thine hand to destroy the LORDS anointed o?

o Why didst not thou refuse to kill him, as his Armour-bearer had done? For notwithstanding his great danger, something might have fallen out through Gods All-disposing Providence, whereby his Life might have been preserved.

15 And David called one of the young men, and said, Go near and fall upon him. And he smote him that he died.

16 And David said unto him, Thy blood be upon thy head p: for thy mouth hath testified against thee, saying, I have slain the LORDS anointed q.

p The guilt of thy blood-shed or death lies upon thy self, not upon me. q Thy free and voluntary Confession is sufficient proof of thy guilt in killing the King.

17 ¶ And David lamented with this lamentation over Saul, and over Jonathan his son:

18 ¶ Also r he bade them s teach the children of Judah t the use of the bow u: behold, it is written x * in the book ‖ of Jasher.

* Josh. 10. 13. ‖ Or, of the upright.

r Having mentioned Davids Lamentation in general, before he comes to the particular description of it, he interposeth this Verse by way of Parenthesis; to signifie, That David did not so give up himself to Lamentation, as to neglect his great business, the care of the Commonwealth, which now lay upon him; but took particular care to fortifie them against such further Losses and Calamities as he bewails in the following Song; and by his example, and his counsel, to instruct the People, that they should not give up themselves to sorrow and despondency for their great and general Loss; but should raise up their Spirits, and betake themselves to Action. s David being now Actually King upon Sauls Death, takes his Power upon him, and gives forth his Commands. t These he more particularly teacheth, because they were the Chief, and now the Royal Tribe, and likely to be the great Bulwark to all Israel against the Philistines, upon whose Land they bordered; and withal, to be the most friendly and true to him, and to his Interest. u i. e. The use of their Arms, which are all Synecdochically expressed, under the name of the Bow, which then was one of the chief Weapons; and for the dextrous use whereof Jonathan is commended in the following Song: which may be one reason, why he now gives forth this Order, that so they might strive to imitate Jonathan in his Military Skill, and to excel in it, as he did. x Not the following Song, as many think, for that is written here, and therefore it was needless to refer us to another Book for it; but this foregoing counsel and course which David took to repair the last Loss, which is here mentioned but briefly, and in general terms; but, as it seems, more largely and particularly described in the Book of Jasher: of which, See on Josh. 10. 13.

19 The beauty of Israel y is slain upon the high places z: how are the mighty fallen a.

y Their Flower and Glory, Saul and Jonathan, and their Army, consisting of young and Valiant Men. z Heb. upon thy high places; i. e. Those which belong to thee, O Land of Israel. a How strangely! how suddenly! how dreadfully and universally!

20 * Tell it not in Gath b, publish it not in * Mic. 1. 10. the streets of Askelon: lest the daughters c of the Philistines rejoyce, lest the daughters of the uncircumcised triumph.

b This is not a Precept, but a Poetical wish; whereby he doth not so much desire, that this might not be done, which he knew to be vain and impossible; as, expres his great sorrow, because it was, and would be done, to the great dishonour of God, and of his People. c He mentions these, because it was the custom of women in those times and places to celebrate those Victories which their Men obtained, with Triumphant Songs and Dances; as Exod. 15. Judg. 11. 34. 1 Sam. 18. 6.

21 Ye mountains of Gilboa, let there be no dew, neither let there be rain upon you d, nor fields of † offerings e: for there the shield of the mighty f † is vilely g cast away h, the shield of Saul, as though he had not been anointed with oyl i.

d This is no proper Imprecation; which he had no reason to inflict upon those harmless Mountains; but onely a passionate representation of the Horror which he conceived at this publick Loss; which was such, as if he thought every person or thing which contributed to it, were fit to bear the tokens of Divine displeasure, such as this is, when the Earth wants the blessed and necessary Influences of Dew and Rain. e i. e. Fruitful fields, which may produce fair and goodly Fruits fit to be offered unto God. f The Shields of the Valiant men of Israel. g Dishonourably: for it was a great Reproach to any Souldier, to cast away or lose his Shield. h To wit, by themselves, that they might flee more swiftly away, as the Israelites did, and Saul with the rest; as is said, 1 Sam. 31. 1, 2. i As if he had been no more, nor better than a common Souldier: he was exposed to the same kind of Death and Reproach as they were.

22 From the blood of the slain, from the fat of the mighty, the bow of Jonathan turned not back k, and the sword of Saul returned not empty l.

k To wit, without Effect: compare Isa. 45. 23. and 55. 11: Their Arrows shot from their Bows, and their Swords did seldom miss, and commonly pierced Fat, and Flesh, and Blood, and reached even to the Heart and Bowels. l i. e. Not filled and glutted with Blood: for the Sword is Metaphorically said to have a mouth, which we Translate an edge; and to devour, 2 Sam. 2. 26. and 11. 25. Jer. 2. 30. and 46. 10. And this their former successfulness is here mentioned as an aggravation of their last infelicity.

23 Saul and Jonathan were lovely, and ‖ pleasant m in their lives n, and in their death they were not divided o: they were swifter than Eagles p, they were stronger than lions p.

m Amiable, and obliging in their carriage and conversation, both towards one another, and towards their People: for as for Sauls fierce behaviour towards Jonathan, it was only a sudden Passion, by which his ordinary temper was not to be measured; and for his carriage towards David, 1 Sam. 20. 30, 33. that was from that jealousie and Reason of State which usually engageth even good natured and well-nurtured Princes, to the same Hostilities in like cases. But it is observable, That David speaks not a word here of his Piety and other Vertues; but onely commends him for those things which were truly in him. A fit pattern for all Preachers in their Funeral Commendations. n Jonathan was not false to his Father, as was reported; but stuck close to him: and as he lived, o so he died with him, at the same time, and in the same common and good Cause. p Expeditious and nimble in Pursuing their Enemies, and Executing their Designs; which is a great commendation in a Prince, and in a Soldier. q In regard of their bodily Strength, and the courage of their Minds.

24 Ye daughters of Israel r weep over Saul, who clothed you in scarlet s, with other delights, who put on ornaments of gold upon your apparel.

r These he mentions; partly, because the Women then used to make Songs both of Triumph, and of Lamentation, as occasion required: and partly, because they usually are most delighted with the Ornaments of the Body here following. s This he did, partly, because he procured them so much Peace as gave them opportunity of enriching themselves:

ſelves: and partly, becauſe he took theſe things as ſpoils from the Enemies, and clothed his own People with them. Compare Pſal. 68. 12.

25 How are the mighty fallen in the midſt of the battel! O Jonathan, thou waſt ſlain in thine high places t.

t Which were in thy Country, (had not thy Father diſinherited thee by his Sins) in thy Dominions.

26 I am diſtreſſed for thee u, my brother Jonathan, very pleaſant haſt thou been unto me: thy love to me was wonderful, paſſing the love of women x.

u i. e. For the loſs of thee. For beſides the loſs of a true Friend, and all the comfort of friendſhip, which is inestimable; he loſt him who both could, and undoubtedly would have given him a ſpeedy, and quiet, and ſure Poſſeſſion of the Kingdom: whereas now, he met with long and troubleſome interruptions. x i. e. That Love wherewith they love their Husbands, or Children: for their Affections are uſually more vehement and ardent than Mens.

27 How are the mighty fallen, and the weapons of war y periſhed?

y Either, 1. Metaphorically ſo called; to wit, Saul and Jonathan, and the brave Commanders and Souldiers of Iſrael; who might have been called, the chariots of Iſrael, and the horſemen thereof. Or rather, 2. Properly: for together with the Men, their Arms were loſt, which was a very great aggravation of their loſs, and that loſs ſeems to be at this time more irrecoverable and dangerous, than the loſs of their men.

CHAP. II.

AND it came to paſs after this, that David enquired of the LORD a, ſaying, Shall I go up into any of the cities of Judah b: And the LORD ſaid unto him, Go up. And David ſaid, Whither ſhall I go up? And he ſaid, Unto Hebron c.

a By Urim, as 1 Sam. 23. 6, 9. and 30. 7, 8. Thus David begins at the right end, and lays his Foundation in Gods counſel and aſſiſtance, which now he ſeeks. b He asketh not whether he ſhould take the Kingdom; for that was appointed and known before; and he would not offend God, nor diſhonour his Ordinances with frivolous and unneceſſary enquiries; but only where he ſhould enter upon it; whether in Judah, as he ſuppoſed, becauſe of his relation to that Tribe, and his intereſt in it; or whether in ſome other Tribe: for he doth not limit God, but reſolves exactly to follow this Counſels. c Which was next to Jeruſalem (part whereof the Jebuſites now poſſeſſed) the chief City of that Tribe, and a City of the Prieſts: Joſh. 21. 10, &c. and in the very center or middle of that Tribe, to which the whole Tribe might ſpeedily reſort, when need required.

2 So David went up thither, and his two wives alſo, Ahinoam the Jezreeliteſs, and Abigail Nabals wife the Carmelite.

3 And his men that were with him, did David bring up, every man with his houſhold: and they dwelt in the cities of Hebron d.

d i. e. The Cities or Towns belonging and ſubject to Hebron, which was the Metropolis, Joſ. 21. 11, 12. For in Hebron it ſelf there was not ſpace for them all, becauſe it was filled with Prieſts, and with Davids Court.

* 1 Mac. 2. 57. 4 And * the men of Judah came, and there they anointed David king over the houſe of Judah e: * 1 Sam. 31. 13. and they told David, ſaying, That * the men of Jabeſh-Gilead were they that buried Saul.

e This they did upon juſt grounds, becauſe not onely the Kingdom was promiſed to that Tribe, Gen. 49. 10. but David was Deſigned and Anointed by God, whoſe will both they and all Iſrael were obliged to obſerve and obey. And they Piouſly reſolved not to neglect their Duty, though they ſaw the other Tribes would. Yet their prudent caution and modeſty is obſervable, That they make him King of Judah only, and not of all Iſrael. And therefore there was need of a Third Anointing to the Kingdom over all Iſrael, which he had chap. 5. 3. But as for that Firſt Anointing 1 Sam. 16. 13. it was only a deſignation of the Perſon who ſhould be King, but not an actual Inauguration of him to the Kingdom.

5 ¶ And David ſent meſſengers unto the men of Jabeſh-Gilead, and ſaid unto them, Bleſſed be ye of the LORD, that ‖ ye have ſhewed this kindneſs f unto your lord, even unto Saul, and have buried him. ‖ Or, becauſe.

f This reſpect and affection to procure him Burial. For as it is, and ever was eſteemed an act of inhumanity to deny Burial to the Dead; ſo it is an act of mercy and kindneſs to Bury him.

6 And now the LORD ſhew kindneſs and truth g unto you: and I alſo will requite you this kindneſs h, becauſe ye have done this thing.

g i. e. True and real kindneſs; not in words only, but alſo in actions, as you have now done to your King the Lords Anointed. h So far am I from being offended with you for this kindneſs to my late Enemy, that I will requite it.

7 Therefore now let your hands be ſtrengthned, and † be ye valiant i: for your maſter Saul is dead k, and alſo † the houſe of Judah have anointed me king over them. † Heb. be ye the Sons of valour. † Know this for your comfort that i Be not afraid leſt the Philiſtines ſhould puniſh you for this Fact, but take good courage, I will defend you. k Or, though your maſter Saul be dead, and ſo your hearts may faint within you, as if you were now Sheep without a Shepherd.

8 ¶ But Abner the ſon of Ner l, captain of † Sauls hoſt, took ‖ Iſh-boſheth m the ſon of Saul, and brought him over to Mahanaim n. † Heb. the hoſt which was Sauls. ‖ Or, Eſhbaal. 1 Chro. 8. 33.

l Partly, out of envy and malice againſt David; and partly, out of his own ambition and deſire of Rule, becauſe he knew that Iſhboſheth would have only the name of King, whilſt he had the power. m Called alſo Eſhbaal, 1 Chron. 8. 33. and 9. 39. It being uſual with the Hebrews, inſtead of Baal, the name of falſe gods, to put Boſheth, which ſignifies ſhame, or confuſion, or a ſhameful thing; as appeareth by comparing Judg. 9. 53. with 2 Sam. 11. 21. and 2 Sam. 4. 4. with 1 Chron. 8. 34. and from Jer. 3. 24. Hoſ. 9. 10. n A place beyond Jordan, whither he carried him; partly, to ſecure thoſe Brave and Valiant Men of Jabeſh-Gilead to himſelf; and principally becauſe this place was moſt remote from David, and from the Philiſtines too; and therefore here he might recruit his Forces with leſs diſturbance than in other places.

9 And he made him king over Gilead o, and over the Aſhurites p, and over Jezreel q, and over Ephraim, and over Benjamin, and over all † Iſrael r. † the reſt of.

o Largely ſo taken for all the Land of Iſrael beyond Jordan, as it is Joſ. 22. 9. Judg. 10. 8. p i. e. The Tribe of Aſher, as the Chaldee Paraphraſt and others underſtand it. q A large and rich Valley ſcituate in the Borders of the Tribes of Zebulun, Iſſachar and Naphtali, and ſo put Synechdochically for them all. r Except Judah, as it follows.

10 Iſh-boſheth Sauls ſon was forty years old when he began to reign over Iſrael, and reigned two years ſ: but the houſe of Judah followed David.

ſ To wit, before the following War broke forth. Compare 1 Sam. 13. 1. For that he Reigned longer, may appear both from the following Verſe, and from chap. 3. 1. and from the following Hiſtory. Though ſome think he Reigned onely two Years, and that the reſt of Davids ſeven Years the Iſraelites by Abners inſtigation ſtuck to the Houſe of Saul, but were in ſuſpence whether they ſhould confer the Crown upon Mephiboſheth the right Heir, but a Child; or upon Iſhboſheth a grown man, whom with ſome difficulty, and after long debates among themſelves, they preferred.

11 (And the † time that David was king in Hebron over the houſe of Judah, was ſeven years and ſix months). † Heb. number of days.

12 ¶ And Abner the ſon of Ner, and the ſervants t of Iſh-boſheth the ſon of Saul, went out from Mahanaim to Gibeon u.

t i. e. His Officers, and Commanders, and their Army. u In the Country of Benjamin, Joſ. 18. 25. near Judah, to Fight with Davids Army, and to bring back the reſt of the Kingdom to Sauls Houſe.

13 And Joab the ſon of Zeruiah, and the ſervants of David, went out x, and met † together y by the * pool of Gibeon: and they ſate down, the one on the one ſide of the pool, and the other on the other ſide of the pool. † Heb. them together. * Jer. 41. 12.

x To Battel. Qu. How could or durſt this one Tribe oppoſe all the reſt? Anſw. Firſt, This Tribe was very numerous and valiant of themſelves, and they had a King of extraordinary courage, and conduct, and ſucceſs. Secondly, There were great numbers of the other Tribes which favoured them, as appears from 1 Chron. 12. Thirdly, They had the encouragement of ſpecial promiſes of God, made both to their Tribe, and to David. y i. e. Met the oppoſite Army, and put themſelves into a Poſture for Battel.

14 And Abner ſaid to Joab x, Let the young men now ariſe, and play a before us: and Joab ſaid, Let them ariſe.

z Abner truſting to his greater numbers, offers Battel. a i. e. Shew their proweſs and dexterity in managing their Weapons, and Fighting together. He ſpeaks like a vain-glorious and cruel Man, and a Souldier of fortune, that eſteemed it a ſport to ſee Men wounding and killing one another. So this he deſigned, partly for their Mutual Recreation, and trial of Skill and Valour; and partly, that by this occaſion they might be engaged in a Battel.

15 Then there aroſe and went over by number twelve of Benjamin b, which pertained to Iſh-boſheth the ſon of Saul, and twelve of the ſervants of David.

b He ſelected all his Combatants out of that Tribe, both becauſe that was a Warlike and Valiant Tribe; and that he might give the more honour to his own Tribe.

16 And they caught every one his fellow by the head c, and thruſt his ſword in his fellows ſide; ſo they fell down together: Wherefore that place was called ‖ Helkath-hazzurim d, which is in Gibeon.

‖ That is, the field of ſtrong men, or, of ſwords

c By the hair of the Head, which after their manner was of a conſiderable length, and therefore gave their Enemy advantage; which every one of them indeavoured to get, and to improve againſt the other. d Or, the field of Rocks, i. e. of Men who ſtood like Rocks unmovable, each one dying upon the ſpot where he fought.

17 And there was a very ſore battel that day: and Abner was beaten, and the men of Iſrael, before the ſervants of David.

18 ¶ And there were three ſons of Zeruiah there, Joab, and Abiſhai, and Aſahel: and Aſahel was as light † of foot † as a wild Roe.

19 And Aſahel purſued after Abner, and in going he turned not to the right hand, nor to the left from † following Abner.

† Heb. as one of the Roes that is in the field.

20 Then Abner looked behind him, and ſaid, Art thou Aſahel? And he anſwered, I am.

21 And Abner ſaid to him, Turn thee aſide to thy right hand, or to thy left, and lay thee hold on one of the young men, and take thee his ‖ armour e. But Aſahel would not turn aſide from following of him.

e If thou art ambitious to get a Trophy or Mark of thy Valour, deſiſt from me who am an old, and experienced Captain, and go to ſome young and raw Soldier, try thy Skill upon him, and take away his Arms from him.

22 And Abner ſaid again to Aſahel, Turn thee aſide from following of me: Wherefore ſhould I ſmite thee to the ground? how then ſhould I hold up my face to Joab thy brother f?

f He was loth to enrage Joab too much againſt him, becauſe his guilty Conſcience told him that his Cauſe was bad, and therefore he preſaged ill ſucceſs, and that he might need ſuch a Friend as Joab, to make his peace with David.

23 Howbeit, he refuſed to turn aſide: Wherefore Abner with the hinder end of the ſpear g, ſmote him * under the fifth rib h, that the ſpear came out behind him, and he fell down there, and died in the ſame place i: and it came to paſs, that as many as came to the place where Aſahel fell down and died, ſtood ſtill.

g Which was ſharp pointed after the manner. h The ſeat of the Liver and Bowels, where wounds are mortal. i Upon the ſpot, not being able to go one ſtep further.

24 Joab alſo and Abiſhai purſued after Abner: and the ſun went down when they were come to the hill of Ammah, that lieth before Giah, by the way of the wilderneſs of Gibeon.

25 ¶ And the children of Benjamin gathered themſelves together after Abner, and became one troop, and ſtood on the top of an hill k.

k Where, being upon the upper ground, they might better defend themſelves.

26 Then Abner called to Joab, and ſaid, Shall the ſword devour for ever? Knoweſt thou not that it will be bitterneſs in the latter end l? How long ſhall it be then, ere thou bid the people return from following their brethren m?

l It will produce dreadful effects, and many Bloody ſlaughters, if by a further proſecution thou makeſt them deſperate; which is againſt all the Rules of Policy. m By Nation and Religion: whom therefore they ſhould not purſue with ſo fierce a Rage, as if they were purſuing the Philiſtines.

27 And Joab ſaid, As God liveth, unleſs thou hadſt ſpoken n, ſurely then † in the morning, the people had ‖ gone up every one from following his brother.

n Unleſs thou hadſt made the motion that they might Fight, ver. 14. It was thou, not I, that gave the firſt occaſion of this Fight. Withal, he intimates, That Abner was the ſole cauſe of this War; and that if he had not given commiſſion and command, the War had never been undertaken, but all things had been ended by an amicable agreement: which might have been made that very morning, if he had ſo pleaſed.

28 So Joab blew a trumpet, and all the people ſtood ſtill, and purſued after Iſrael no more, neither fought they any more o.

o Either, Firſt, At that time. Or rather, Secondly, In any pitcht Battel.

29 And Abner and his men walked all that night through the plain, and paſſed over Jordan, and went through all Bithron p, and they came to Mahanaim.

p Otherwiſe called, the mountains of Bether, Cant. 2. 17. which were beyond Jordan. Or, ſome other Countrey, now not known by that name: which is the caſe of hundreds of places.

30 And Joab returned from following Abner: and when he had gathered all the people together, there lacked of Davids ſervants nineteen men, and Aſahel.

31 But the ſervants of David had ſmitten of Benjamin and of Abners men, ſo that three hundred and threeſcore men died.

32 ¶ And they took up Aſahel, and buried him in the ſepulchre of his father, which was in Bethlehem: and Joab and his men went all night, and they came to Hebron at break of day.

CHAP. III.

NOW there was long war a between the houſe of Saul, and the houſe of David: but David waxed ſtronger and ſtronger, and the houſe of Saul waxed weaker and weaker.

a For five Years longer: for it is probable that Iſhboſheth was made King preſently upon Sauls Death, to give them countenance for their Rebellion againſt David; and the other Tribes did not ſubmit to David before ſeven Years were expired.

2 ¶ And * unto David were ſons born in Hebron: And his firſt-born was Ammon, of Ahinoam the Jezreeliteſs:

* 1 Chro. 3. 1.

3 And his ſecond, Chileab b, of Abigail † the wife of Nabal the Carmelite: and the third, Abſalom, the ſon of Maacah, the daughter of Talmai king of Geſhur c:

See 2 Sam. 13. 37. and 14. 13. and 15. 8. Her he Married, as it may ſeem, in policy, that he might have a powerful Friend and Ally to aſſiſt him againſt Iſhboſheths party in the North, whilſt himſelf oppoſed him in the Southern parts. But he paid dear for making Piety give place to Policy herein, as the Hiſtory of Abſalom ſheweth. There were other Geſhurites Southward from Canaan, whom David invaded, 1 Sam. 27. 8. and it is not improbable but they were a Colony of thoſe in the North.

4 And the fourth, Adonijah the ſon of Haggath: and the fifth, Shephatiah the ſon of Abital:

5 And the ſixth, Ithream by Eglah Davids wife d: theſe were born to David in Hebron.

d This is added, either becauſe ſhe was of obſcure Parentage, and was known by no other Title but her relation to David: or, to diſtinguiſh her from ſome other perſon of that name, who poſſibly might be of no good fame: or, becauſe this was his firſt and moſt proper Wife, beſt known by her other name of Michal, who, though ſhe had no Child by David after ſhe ſcoffed at him for Dancing before the Ark, chap. 6. 23. yet might have one before that time. And ſhe might be named the laſt of theſe here, becauſe ſhe was given away from David, and Married to another man, when David took the other Wives, and therefore though ſhe had been firſt, yet now ſhe was become the laſt of them. Or, this Title, being put in the laſt place, may belong to all the reſt of the Women above-mentioned, by a Figure called Zeugma, to diſtinguiſh them from his Concubines, 2 Sam. 5. 13. 1 Chron. 3. 9.

6 ¶ And it came to paſs while there was war between the houſe of Saul, and the houſe of David, that Abner made himſelf ſtrong for the houſe of Saul e.

e He uſed all his endeavours to ſupport Sauls Houſe. Which is mentioned, to ſhew the reaſon of his deep reſentment of the following aſperſion. Or, he ſtrengthned himſelf in the houſe of Saul, i. e. he ſo managed all Affairs, as to get all the riches and power into his own hands: which made Iſhboſheth ſuſpect that he aimed at the Kingdom, and ſought to Marry the Kings Concubine in order to it, as the manner was. See 2 Sam. 12. 8. and 16. 21. and 1 King. 1. 17.

7 And Saul had a concubine whoſe name was *chap. 21. 10. *Rizpah the daughter of Aiah: and Iſh-boſheth ſaid to Abner, Wherefore haſt thou gone in unto my fathers concubine f.

f Either, Firſt, To ſatisfy thy own Luſt. Or rather, Secondly, By that pretence to take away my Crown firſt. For this was that which ſtirred up his Jealouſie and Rage, and cauſed him to ſpeak that to Abner which otherwiſe he neither would nor durſt. But whether Abner were guilty or no, it is not evident from the following words: for if it were true, great men cannot endure to be told of their faults, though they be true and great.

8 Then was Abner very wroth for the words of Iſh-boſheth, and ſaid, Am I a dogs head g, which againſt h Judah do ſhew kindneſs this day unto the houſe of Saul thy father, to his brethren, and to his friends, and have not delivered thee into the hand of David i, that thou chargeſt me to day with a fault concerning this woman k?

g i. e. A vile and contemptible creature, as a Dog was. See Deut. 23. 18. 1 Sam. 24. 14. 2 Sam. 9. 8. and 16. 9. Job 30. 1. Eccl. 9. 4. And a Dogs head is put for a Dog by a Synecdoche, uſual both in the Hebrew and in other Languages, as the Head is oft put for the whole Man in the Latin Tongue. h So the Particle Lamed is well rendred, as el, which among the Hebrews is confeſſedly of the ſame nature and uſe, is uſed Eccl. 9. 14. Jer. 34. 7. Ezek. 13. 9, 20. Amos 7. 15. i Which I could oft and eaſily have done. k Either that thou accuſeſt me falſly concerning this matter: or, that thou canſt not wink at ſo ſmall a fault (for ſo he eſteemed it) as converſation with this Woman, who, whatſoever ſhe formerly was, is now ſo impotent and inconſiderable, that ſhe can do thee no ſervice, as I have done.

*Ruth 1. 17. 9 *So do God to Abner, and more alſo, except as the LORD hath ſworn to David l, even ſo I do to him:

l Whence it appears that this wicked wretch did all this while fight againſt his own knowledge and conſcience, and againſt God himſelf.

10 To tranſlate the kingdom from the houſe of Saul, and to ſet up the throne of David over Iſrael, and over Judah, from Dan even to Beerſheba.

11 And he could not anſwer Abner a word again m, becauſe he feared him n.

m Becauſe he durſt not provoke Abner further, leſt he ſhould really execute what he ſuppoſed as yet he only threatned. n As having a greater intereſt in, and power with both the Army and the reſt of the people, than himſelf had.

12 ¶ And Abner ſent meſſengers to David on his behalf o, ſaying, Whoſe is the land p? ſaying alſo, Make thy league with me q, and behold, my hand ſhall be with thee, to bring about all Iſrael unto thee.

o Who in his name and ſtead might treat with David concerning his Reconciliation with him. Thus God over-rules the Luſts and Paſſions of wicked Men, to accompliſh his own Wiſe and Holy Purpoſes. And who then dare contend with that God who makes even his Enemies to do his work, and deſtroy themſelves? p To whom doth this whole Land belong, but to thee? Is it not thine by Divine Right? Sauls Son is but an Uſurper, thou only art the rightful owner. q That thou wilt pardon all paſt offences to me, and to all Iſrael, and thou wilt receive me into thy grace and favour.

13 ¶ And he ſaid, Well, I will make a league with thee r: but one thing I require of thee, † that is, Thou ſhalt not ſee my face, except thou firſt bring Michal Sauls daughter, when thou comeſt to ſee my face. † Heb. ſaying.

r To wit, upon thy terms: which, all circumſtances conſidered, ſeems to be lawful, to prevent the great effuſion of Iſraelitiſh Blood, which otherwiſe would certainly have been ſpilt. And although the principle of this action of Abners was baſe and wicked, yet the action it ſelf was Lawful and commendable, and no more than his Duty to God and David obliged him to; and therefore David might well perſwade and induce him to it.

14 And David ſent meſſengers to Iſh-boſheth Sauls ſon ſ, ſaying, Deliver me my wife Michal t, which I eſpouſed to me * for an hundred fore-skins of the Philiſtines. * 1 Sam. 18. 25, 27.

ſ Whoſe conſent was neceſſary, both to take her away from her preſent Husband, and to perſwade her to return to David. Hereby alſo David opened to him alſo a door of hope for his Reconciliation, leſt being deſperate he ſhould hinder Abner in his preſent deſign. t Who, though ſhe was taken from me by force, and conſtrained to marry another, 1 Sam. 25. 44. yet is indeed my rightful Wife. Her David demands, partly, for the affection he formerly had, and ſtill retained to her: partly, to deliver her from the ſin and reproach of Adultery with another Man, who was not in truth and juſtice her Husband, though he was ſo called and accounted: and partly, upon a politick conſideration, that ſhe might ſtrengthen his Right and Title to the Kingdom.

u For, being forſaken by Abner, he durſt not deny David, into whoſe power he ſaw he muſt unavoidably come: and beſides, he ſuppoſed that ſhe might be an effectual inſtrument to make his peace with David.

x A City of Benjamin, upon the Borders of Judah. See 2 Sam. 19. 16. 1 King. 2. 8.

17 ¶ And Abner had communication with the elders of Iſrael, ſaying, Ye ſought for David † in times paſt to be king over you y. † Heb. both yeſterday and the third day.

y Even in Sauls time you highly honoured him, and prized his conduct, and wiſhed that the power were in his hands; and great numbers of you went to him, when he was in the Hold, 1 Chron. 12. And after Sauls Death you would gladly have advanced him to the Crown, if your reſpect to Sauls Family, together with my Authority and Influence, had not diverted you.

18 Now then do it z; for the LORD hath ſpoken of David a, ſaying, By the hand of my ſervant David, I will ſave my people Iſrael out of

of the hand of the Philiſtines, and out of the hand of all their enemies b.

z You ſhall have my free conſent and utmoſt aſſiſtance in procuring it. a He wickedly pretends Religion, when he intended nothing but the ſatisfaction of his own pride, and malice, and fury againſt Iſhboſheth. b It is very probable God ſpake theſe words, but undoubtedly he ſpake the ſame ſenſe by Samuel, though it be not expreſſed before.

19 And Abner alſo ſpake in the ears of Benjamin c: and Abner went alſo to ſpeak in the ears of David in Hebron, all that ſeemed good to Iſrael, and that ſeemed good to the whole houſe of Benjamin.

c To theſe he particularly applies himſelf, becauſe they might be thought moſt kind to Saul and his Houſe, and moſt loth to let the Kingdom go out of their own Tribe; and therefore it was neceſſary that he ſhould uſe all his art and power with them, to perſwade them to a compliance with his deſign; and beſides, they were a Valiant Tribe, and bordering upon Judah, and ſituate between them and the other Tribes; and therefore the winning of them, would be of mighty concernment to bring in all the reſt.

20 So Abner came to David to Hebron, and twenty men with him: and David made Abner, and the men that were with him, a feaſt d.

d Which in thoſe times was cuſtomary when Perſons entred into Covenant. See Gen. 26. 30. and 31. 44, 46.

21 And Abner ſaid unto David, I will ariſe, and go, and will gather all Iſrael e unto my lord the king, that they may make a league with thee, and that thou mayeſt reign over all that thy heart deſireth. And David ſent Abner away, and he went in peace.

e i. e. The Elders and Chieftains of all Iſrael, Repreſenting and Ruling all the reſt.

22 ¶ And behold, the ſervants of David, and Joab, came from purſuing a troop f, and brought in a great ſpoil with them: (but Abner was not with David in Hebron, for he had ſent him away, and he was gone in peace).

f Of Robbers, either Philiſtines, or Edomites, or ſome others, who taking advantage of the diſcord between the Houſes of Saul and David, made inroads into Judah, as they had occaſion.

23 When Joab and all the hoſt that was with him, were come, they told Joab, ſaying, Abner the ſon of Ner came to the king, and he hath ſent him away, and he is gone in peace.

24 Then Joab came to the king, and ſaid, What haſt thou done g? behold, Abner came unto thee: why is it that thou haſt ſent him away, and he is quite gone?

g Thou haſt committed a great overſight, to diſmiſs ſo dangerous and miſchievous a Perſon, when he was in thy hands.

25 Thou knoweſt Abner the ſon of Ner, that he came to deceive thee, and to know thy going out, and thy coming in h, and to know all that thou doſt.

h To ſearch out thy counſels and ſecret deſigns, and to make uſe of them againſt thee.

26 And when Joab was come out from David, he ſent meſſengers after Abner i, which brought him again from the well of Sirah: but David knew it not.

i In the Kings name, and upon pretence of ſome further communication with him.

27 And when Abner was returned to Hebron, Joab * took him aſide in the gate k, to ſpeak with him ‖ quietly l: and ſmote him there under the fifth rib m, that he died, for the blood of * Aſahel his brother n.

* 1 King. 2. 5.
* chap. 2. 23.

k In the entrance into the City before he came to the King; and in the place where conferences uſed to be. l With appearance of great civility and kindneſs. Or, ſecretly, as having ſome matter of great importance to utter, which none but himſelf muſt hear. m As he did Aſahel, chap. 2. 23. n To revenge the death of Aſahel; and withal (though that be not here mentioned) to ſecure his own ſtanding, and rid his hands of ſo great and powerful a Competitor. And this was Joabs deſign; but God had other deſigns in it, both to puniſh Abners manifold wickedneſs, and particularly his Rebellion againſt David, and againſt God and his own Conſcience therein: and that David might not owe his Kingdom to Abner, and to his revenge and treachery, but wholly to Gods Wiſe and Powerful Providence.

28 ¶ And afterward when David heard it, he ſaid o, I and my kingdom are guiltleſs before the LORD p for ever, from the † blood of Abner the ſon of Ner:

o Publickly before his Courtiers and People; and ſeriouſly as in Gods preſence. p I call the Lord to Witneſs, that this was not done by my Inſtigation or Authority, or by any publick Counſel, but onely by Joabs malice; and therefore I truſt that God will not puniſh me nor my Kingdom, but Joab onely.

29 Let it q reſt on the head of Joab, and on all his fathers houſe r, and let there not † fail from the houſe of Joab one that hath an iſſue ſ, or that is a leper, or that leaneth on a ſtaff t, or that falleth on the ſword, or that lacketh bread.

q i. e. This Blood, the guilt and puniſhment of it. r But children were not to ſuffer for their Parents ſin, Deut. 24. 16. And therefore either this was only a Prediction; or, if it were an Imprecation, David may ſeem to have tranſgreſſed his bounds, and mingled his Paſſion with his Zeal, that ſo he might expreſs his utter deteſtation of this horrid Murder, and how far he was from having any hand in it. ſ Which was not only a troubleſome and ſhameful Diſeaſe, but alſo infectious, both to him that had it, and to all that touched him: ſo that whilſt it was upon a man, he was cut off in a great part from converſe either with God or men. t Through crazineſs, or feebleneſs, or lameneſs, whereby he is rendred unfit for action and publick ſervice.

30 So Joab and Abiſhai u his brother ſlew Abner, becauſe he had ſlain their brother * Aſahel at Gibeon in the battel x.

* chap. 2. 23.

u For though Joab only committed the Murder, yet Abiſhai was guilty of it, becauſe it was done with his conſent, and counſel, and help, and approbation: for by theſe and ſuch like actions men are involved in the guilt of other mens ſins, at leaſt in Gods judgment. x Which he did in the fury of Battel, and for his own neceſſary defence; and therefore it was no juſtification of this unneceſſary and treacherous Murder in a time of peace.

31 ¶ And David ſaid to Joab y, and to all the people that were with him, * Rent your clothes, and gird you with ſackcloth, and mourn before Abner z. And king David himſelf followed the † bier a.

y Him he eſpecially obliged to it; partly, to bring him to Repentance for his ſin: partly, to expoſe him to publick ſhame, and to the contempt and hatred of all the people, with whom he had too great an intereſt, which hereby David deſigned to diminiſh. z i. e. Attending upon his Corps, and paying him that reſpect and honour which was due to his quality. a Which was againſt the uſage of Kings, and might ſeem below Davids Dignity; but it was now expedient to vindicate himſelf from all ſuſpition of contrivance or concurrence in this action.

32 And they buried Abner in Hebron, and the king lift up his voice, and wept at the grave of Abner, and all the people wept.

33 And the king lamented over Abner, and ſaid, Died Abner as † a fool b dieth?

† Heb. Nabal. So Gr.

b i. e. As a wicked man, for ſuch are oft called Fools in Scripture. Was he cut off by the hands of Juſtice for his crimes? Nothing leſs; but by Joabs malice and treachery. Or, did he die by his own folly, becauſe he had not wiſdom or courage to defend himſelf? Ah no. The words may be thus rendred: ſhall or ſhould Abner die like a Fool, or a vile contemptible perſon? i. e. unregarded, unpitied, unrevenged; as Fools or vile Perſons die, for whoſe death none are concerned. Or, How is Abner dead like a Fool! pitying his miſchance. It being honourable for a great Man and a Souldier to fight, if met with an Enemy, and not (having his Arms at liberty) ſtand ſtill like a Fool to be killed, without making any reſiſtance or defence; which, by this treachery of Joab, happened to be his caſe.

34 Thy hands were not bound, nor thy feet put into fetters c: as a man falleth before † wicked men d, ſo felleſt thou. And all the people wept again over him.

c Thou didſt not tamely yield up thy ſelf to Joab, as his Priſoner, to be bound hand and foot at his pleaſure. Joab did not overcome thee generouſly and honourably in an equal Combat, nor durſt he attempt thee in that way, as a General or Souldier of any worth would have done. d Or, before, i. e. in the preſence, or by the hands of froward, or perverſe, or crooked men, by Hypocriſie and Perfidiouſneſs, whereby the vileſt Coward may kill the moſt Valiant Perſon. Thus he reproached Joab to his very face, before all the people: which was a great Evidence of his own Innocency herein; becauſe otherwiſe Joab, being ſo powerful, and proud, and petulant to his Sovereign, would never have taken the ſhame and blame of it wholly to himſelf, as he did.

35 And when all the people came to cauſe David to eat meat e, while it was yet day, David ſware, ſaying, So do God to me, and more alſo, if I taſte bread, or ought elſe, till the ſun be down e, d To refreſh and chear up his depreſſed Spirits; as they uſed to do at Funerals. See Jer. 16. 5. Ezek. 24. 17. e i. e. Till evening, for then Faſting Days ended of courſe.

36 And all the people took notice of it f, and it † pleaſed them g: as whatſoever the king did h pleaſed all the people.

f Obſerved what the King ſaid and did. g They were ſatisfied concerning Davids Integrity, and the method he uſed here for his own juſt vindication. h Either in this matter: or rather, in all things following this Action. The meaning is, By his carriage herein he gained ſo great an Intereſt in the hearts of his People, that they judged moſt favourably of, and put the beſt conſtruction upon all his words and actions; as, on the contrary, when people have a prejudice againſt, or an ill will towards their Prince, they are apt to judge moſt harſhly of all his Counſels and Doings.

37 For all the people, and all Iſrael underſtood that day, that it was not of the King * to ſlay Abner the ſon of Ner.

* Not done by his deſign or good will:

38 And the king ſaid unto his ſervants, Know ye not that there is a prince, and a great man i fallen this day in Iſrael?

i Both for his Illuſtrious Quality, and for his high Courage and wiſe Conduct; and eſpecially, now for his great uſefulneſs and ſerviceableneſs to me in giving me the intire and peaceable Poſſeſſion of all Iſrael. But ſtill obſerve Davids Prudence and Piety, that he doth not commend him for his Vertues and Graces, as men of vendible Conſciences and Tongues uſe to do upon Funeral-occaſions; but onely for that kind of worth which was really in him. Compare 2 Sam. 1. 23.

39 And I am this day † weak k, though anointed king; and theſe men the ſons of Zeruiah l be * too hard for me m: * the LORD ſhall reward the doer of evil according to his wickedneſs.

* chap. 19. 7.
* See ch. 20. 10. 1 King. 2. 5, 6, 33, 34.

k Or, tender, in the Infancy of my Kingdom, not well rooted and ſettled in it. The Metaphor is taken from a young and tender Child or Plant. l Joab and Abiſhai, the Sons of my Siſter Zeruiah. m i. e. Too powerful, They have ſo great a command over all the Souldiers, and ſo great favour with the People, that I cannot puniſh them without apparent hazard to my Perſon, and Kingdom; eſpecially, now when all the Tribes, except Judah, are yet in a ſtate of Oppoſition againſt me. But this, although it might give ſome colour to the delay of their Puniſhment for a ſeaſon, yet it may ſeem to have been one of Davids infirmities, that he did not do it within ſome reaſonable time, both becauſe this Indulgence proceeded from a diſtruſt of Gods Power and Faithfulneſs; as if God could not, or would not make good his Promiſe of the Kingdom to him, without, and againſt Joab and all his Confederates; and becauſe it was contrary to Gods Law, which ſeverely requires the puniſhment of Wilful Murderers, Gen. 9. 6. Exod. 21. 14. Numb. 35. 21. which David had no power to diſpence with. And David might, and ſhould have remembred how dear Saul pay'd for this very thing, that he diſpenſed with Gods Command, and ſpared thoſe whom God commanded him to ſlay, 1 Sam. 15. And it ſeems Davids Conſcience oft ſmote him for this: which made him watch for a fit opportunity to remove, and then puniſh him, and having neglected it till Death, he declareth his ſorrow for that neglect, by giving Solomon a charge to execute it after his Death, 1 King. 2. 5, 6, 34.

CHAP. IV.

AND when Sauls ſon heard that Abner was dead in Hebron, his hands were feeble a, and all the Iſraelites were troubled b.

a His Spirit, and Courage, and Strength failed him. This Phraſe is uſed in the ſame ſence, Ezra 4. 4. Neh. 6. 9. Iſa. 13. 7. and 35. 3. b Becauſe now they were unable to oppoſe David, and doubtful of obtaining his favour, now Abner their peace-maker was dead.

2 And Sauls ſon had two men that were captains of bands, the name of the one was Baanah, and the name of the † other, Rechab, the ſons of Rimmon a Beerothite, of the children of Benjamin c: (for Beeroth alſo was reckoned to Benjamin d; c Of Iſhboſheths own Tribe, whom therefore he truſted the more; and this gave them opportunity to execute their wicked deſign. d This Is added as the reaſon why he called them Berothites, becauſe though Beeroth was now in the hands and poſſeſſion of the Philiſtines, 1 Sam. 31. 7. yet of right it belonged to the Benjamites, Joſh. 18. 25.

3 And e the Beerothites fled to Gittaim, and were ſojourners there until this day).

e Or, Yet, or, But. For this comes in to anticipate an Objection againſt what he had now ſaid. It is true, ſaith he, the Beerothites fled, as others did, upon the overthrow of Saul and his Army; 1 Sam. 31. 7. to a place called Gittaim; 2 Sam. 4. 3. not that in Benjamin, Nehem. 11. 33. but ſome other place of that name more remote from the Philiſtines: and ſo they were Gittaimites by their preſent Habitation; but Beerothites by their Original, and place of their Birth.

4 And Jonathan, Sauls ſon, had a ſon that was lame of his feet f, and was five years old when the tidings came of † Saul and Jonathan out of Jezreel g, and his nurſe took him up, and fled, and it came to paſs as ſhe made haſte to flee, that he fell, and became lame; and his name was ‖ Mephiboſheth h.

f This Hiſtory is inſerted as that which encouraged theſe men to this wicked Murder, becauſe Sauls Family was now reduced to a low ebb; and if Iſhboſheth was diſpatched, there would be none left, but a lame Child, who was altogether unfit to manage the Kingdom, eſpecially in ſo troubleſome a time as this was; and therefore the Crown muſt neceſſarily come to David by their act and deed; for which they promiſed themſelves no ſmall recompence. g The place of that laſt and fatal Fight, 1 Sam. 29. 11. h Called alſo Merib-baal, 1 Chron. 8. 34. See the notes on chap. 2. 8.

5 And the ſons of Rimmon the Beerothite, Rechab and Baanah, went and came about the heat of the day to the houſe of Iſh-boſheth, who lay on a bed at noon i.

i Either from diſcontent of mind, as Ahab did, 1 King. 21. 4. or from ſloth and ſenſuality, as David ſeems to have done, chap. 11. 2.

6 And they came thither into the midſt of the houſe k, as though they would have fetched wheat l; and they ſmote him under the fifth rib; and Rechab and Baanah his brother eſcaped m.

k Or, into the houſe: for the midſt is not always taken exactly, and Mathematically, but for any part within, as Gen. 48. 16, Exod. 8. 22. Joſh. 3. 17. l Which was laid up in publick Granaries in the Kings Houſe, and was fetched thence by the Captains and Commanders of the Army for the Pay of their Souldiers, who, in thoſe ancient times were not paid in Money, but in Corn, as is well known. Upon this pretence they were admitted into the Houſe, and ſo went from room to room, to the place where the King lay. m Which was not difficult to do, when the King was left alone, either becauſe he deſired to compoſe himſelf to Reſt or Sleep: or, becauſe his Guards, if he had any, were very ſmall, and negligent, now at leaſt, in his declining and forlorn Condition.

7 For when they came into the houſe, he lay on his bed in his bed-chamber: and they ſmote him, and ſlew him, and beheaded him, and took his head, and gat them away through the plain n all night.

n i. e. In the way from Mahanaim to Hebron; which for the most part was a plain Countrey.

8 And they brought the head of Ish-bosheth unto David to Hebron, and said to the king, Behold, the head of Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, thine enemy, which sought thy life o; and the LORD hath avenged my lord the king this day of Saul and of his seed p.

o i. e. To destroy it, or take it away; as this Phrase is used; 1 Sam. 20. 1. and 23. 15. and elsewhere. p They thought their Action not only blameless, but Meritorious; because they had but executed Justice upon Sauls House, and Davids Enemies, and made way for Davids obtaining of his Rights. It may seem strange, they were not discouraged by Davids punishing of the Amalekite for killing Saul, 2 Sam. 1. and by his sharp reproof of Joab for Murdering Abner; but they thought the first Case much differing from theirs, because Saul was Anointed King by God: whereas, Ishbosheth was not, but was a meer Usurper: and for the latter, they thought that Davids sharp words proceeded rather from Art and Policy, than from any real dislike of the thing; which they judged, because David contented himself with words, and Joab did not only go unpunished, but continued in his former Place and Power.

9 ¶ And David answered Rechab, and Baanah his brother, the sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, and said unto them, As the LORD liveth, who hath redeemed my soul out of all adversity q, q Who hath hitherto delivered, and will deliver me from all mine Enemies. So that I needed not your wicked help in this way.

10 When * one told me, saying, Behold Saul is dead, († thinking to have brought good tidings) I took hold of him, and slew him in Ziklag, ‖ who thought that I would have given him a reward for his tidings:

11 How much more when wicked men have slain a righteous person r in his own house, upon his bed? Shall I not therefore now require his blood of your hand, and take you away from the earth?

r For so he was comparatively, and in respect of these men, having not deserved Death at their hands.

12 And David commanded his young men s, and they slew them, and cut off their hands and their feet t, and hanged them up over the pool in Hebron u: but they took the head of Ish-bosheth, and buried it in the * sepulchre of Abner in Hebron.

CHAP. V.

1 * Then * came all the Tribes of Israel a to David unto Hebron, and spake, saying, Behold, we are thy bone, and thy flesh b.

* 1 Chro. 11. 1.

a To wit, by their Ambassadors, Ishbosheth and Abner being now dead; and that without Davids concurrence. b i. e. Thy Brethren, or Kinsmen, of the same Nation and Parentage, though not of the same Tribe; and therefore, as Gods Law, Deut. 17. 15. permits us, so our own relation and affection inclines us to choose thee for our King; and we doubt not thou wilt receive us for thy Subjects and People, and Pardon our Offences against thee.

2 Also in time past, when Saul was king over us, * thou wast he that leddest out, and broughtest in Israel c; and the LORD said to thee d, * Thou shalt feed my people Israel e, and thou shalt be a captain over Israel.

* 1 Sam. 18. 13.
* Psal. 78. 71.

c Thou wast our chief Commander in our Expeditions against the Philistines, and therefore art most fit to be King over us. d To wit, by Samuel, 1 Sam. 16. 11, 12, 13. for though the words vary, yet the sence is the same. e i. e. Rule them, and take care of them, as a Shepherd doth of his Sheep, Psal. 78. 70, 71. This Expression he useth to admonish David, that he was not made a King to advance his own Glory and Interest, but for the good and benefit of his People; and that he ought to Rule them with all tenderness, and to watch over them with all diligence.

3 So all the elders of Israel came to the king to Hebron, and king David made a league with them f in Hebron before the LORD g: and they anointed David h king over Israel.

f Whereby David obliged himself to Rule them according to Gods Laws; and the People promised Fidelity and Obedience to him. g Either, 1. Before the Ark; which might be here, though that be not mentioned in this place. Or, 2. Before the Priest clothed with the Ephod; whereby he was in a manner put into Gods Presence. Or rather, 3. In the congregation of the mighty, or Magistrates, where God used to be present, Psal. 82. 1. in the Publick Assembly now met together in Gods name and fear, and as in his Presence to call upon him, to appeal to him as the Witness and Judge of their Transactions. Compare Judg. 11. 11. 1 Sam. 23. 18. h Either by a Prophet, or the Priest, to whom this Office belonged. See 2 Sam. 2. 4.

4 ¶ David was thirty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years i.

i And some odd Months, as it follows.

5 In Hebron he reigned over Judah * seven years and six months: and in Jerusalem he reigned thirty and three years over all Israel and Judah.

* chap. 2. 11.

6 ¶ And the king and his men went k to Jerusalem l unto the Jebusites m, the inhabitants of the land, which spake unto David, saying, ‖ Except thou take away the blind and the lame, thou shalt not come in hither n: ‖ thinking, David cannot come in hither o.

k Having the advantage of so great a confluence of this People to make him King, he thought fit to begin his Reign with some eminent Action, and to lead them forth in this Expedition. Wherein doubtless he asked Advice from God, and the consent of the Elders now present. l As the place which God had designed for his Worship; and in the Center and Heart of his Kingdom, and therefore fittest for his Royal City. m Who continued to dwell there in spight of the Benjamites, to whose lot it fell. See Josh. 15. 63. Judg. 1. 21. and 19. 10, 11. n Or, thou shalt not come in hither, but the blind and the lame shall remove or hinder thee. By the blind and the lame they understand, either, 1. Their own People; and so they imply, that the Place was so Impregnable, that a few Blind and Lame men were able to Defend it against all Davids Assaults. And these may be called, and were the hated of Davids soul, ver. 8. Not because they were blind and lame, but because they were Jebusites, a People hated and accursed by God: and the Jebusites of this place were more hateful to him, than the rest of that Nation; partly, because they Possessed this Place, which David knew was designed for the one and onely Place of Gods Solemn Worship; and partly, because they did so wickedly and insolently defie the Armies of Israel, and consequently, the God of Israel. Or 2. Their gods or images; which, after the manner of the Heathens, they Worshipped as their tutelary gods, and placed in their Gates or Walls. These they call blind and lame sarcastically, and with respect to Davids opinion; as if they said, These gods of ours, whom you Israelites Reproach, as Blind and Lame, Psal. 115. 5, 6. and so unable to direct and protect us, they will defend us against you; and you will find, they are neither Blind nor Lame, but have Eyes to watch for us, and Hands to Fight against you; and you must Conquer them, before you can take our City. And these may well be called, the hated of Davids soul. But I prefer the former sence, as being most easie, and natural, and proper; whereas, the latter is Metaphorical, and seems doubtful and forced. o Concluding their Fort to be Impregnable.

7 Nevertheless, David took the strong hold of Zion o: the same is † the city of David.

o Either, 1. A very strong Fort which they had built upon Mount Sion: which being taken, the City quickly yielded. Or, 2. The City of Zion, which was very strongly Fortified.

8 And David said on that day, Whosoever getteth up to the gutter p, and smiteth the Jebusites, and the lame, and the blind q, that are hated of Davids soul r, * he shall be chief and captain s: ‖ wherefore they said, The blind and the lame shall not come into the house t.

* 1 Chro. 11. 6.
‖ Or, because they had said, even the blind and the lame, he shall not come into the house.

p i. e. Whosoever Scaleth the Fort, or getteth up to the top of it, where the Gutter was. q Or even, or especially (for the Hebrew Particle Vau, signifies both ways) the lame and the blind:

blind: i. e. Thoſe of them who are ſet to Defend that Place; who, as they pretend, ſhould be only the Lame, and the Blind. Others underſtand it, of their Idols, or Images. But they could not properly be ſaid to be ſmitten, i. e. Killed; as that Word is uſed here, and elſewhere. r This belongs to the Jebuſite, and the lame, and the blind; and it is explained in ver. 6. s Theſe words are fitly ſupplyed out of 1 Chron. 11. 6. where they are expreſſed; and they muſt needs be underſtood to make the ſence compleat. And ſuch Ellipſes or defects of a part of the Sentence, are uſual in Promiſes and Oaths, and Conditional Offers, ſuch as this was. t i. e. Whence it became a Proverb, or a common ſaying, uſed by David, and others, upon this occaſion: or otherwiſe, The blind and the lame Jebuſites were ſet to keep the Houſe: i. e. The Fort of Zion; and to keep others from coming into it; but now they are ſhut out of it, and none of them, to wit, either, 1. Of the Jebuſites; or, 2. Of Blind and Lame perſons, ſhall be admitted to come into it again. Which David might reſolve, and ordain, to keep up the memory of this great Exploit, and of the Inſolent Carriage of the Jebuſites, and their unhappy Succeſs. Or, the blind and the lame ſhall not come into my houſe: to wit, Into the Kings Palace. And although this might be a general Rule and Decree of Davids, yet he might diſpenſe with it in ſome ſpecial caſes, as in that of Mephiboſheth. But it is not neceſſary, that this ſhould be a Proverb; for the Words may be thus rendred, as it is in the Margent of our Bible, becauſe they had ſaid, even the blind and the lame, he (i. e. David) ſhall not come into the houſe: or, becauſe they (i. e. Jebuſites) had ſaid, the blind and the lame ſhall hinder him; (which Words are eaſily ſupplied out of ver. 6. where having ſpoken of this more largely, it was ſufficient here to mention the moſt Emphatical Words, as is uſual in ſuch Caſes;) He ſhall not come into the houſe, or hither; as they ſay, v. 6. i. e. Into the Fort: for the Word houſe is uſed very largely and generally in the Hebrew Language, for any place; as Judg. 16. 21.

b With the whole body of the People: for these seem to be a differing Party from the 30000 now mentioned. See 1 Chron. 13. 1, 2. c Quest. How from it, when they went to it; as is evident, both from 1 Chron. 13. 6. and because the Ark was there, and to be fetched thence? Answ. Some Affirm, That the Hebrew Preposition Mem, sometimes signifies to, as Gen. 13. 11. But there is no need of that: for, 1 Chron. 13. 6. mentions their going to Baalah; and this place mentions their going from it; and the one of these doth manifestly suppose the other: for they went thither, that they might return thence. So the sence is plain, They went from Baalah of Judah, to bring (or rather to carry; for the Word signifies either) up from thence the ark. Whereby it is supposed, that they first went thither, which is related 1 Chron. 3. 6. Moreover, this place is commonly called Kiriath-jearim, 1 Sam. 7. 1. and 1 Chron. 13. 5. and formerly Kiriath-baal, Josh. 15. 60. and Baalah, Josh. 15. 9. and here Baale of Judah, so called, because it was in the Tribe of Judah, as is evident from Josh. 15. 1, &c. d Unto Jerusalem, which in many respects was fitter for it than Baalah; because this was a more Publick place, where it would be more observed and regarded; and in the Center of the Kingdom, to which they might more easily come from all parts; and the Royal City, where it might be always at hand for David to enquire at, as occasion required; and the place which God had allotted for it. e Thus whose belongs not to the Ark, but to God: for what follows is not the name of the Ark, but of God. The place may well be, and is by some rendred thus, Upon (or At, or Beside, or Before,) which (Ark) the name, even the name of the Lord of hosts, that dwelleth between the Cherubims is called upon: i. e. By, or before which, they were to present their Prayers to God for Counsel and Succour upon all occasions. And this is mentioned here as the reason why David put himself and his people to so great trouble and charge, because it was to fetch up the choicest Treasure which they had, and so the benefit would abundantly recompence the inconvenience.

But they did not sufficiently consider, that God might wink at the Philistines, because they were ignorant of Gods Laws; and yet be angry with them for the same thing, because they knew, or might, and should have known the Law of God, which commanded the Priests to bear it upon their shoulders, Numb. 4. 14, 15. and 7. 9. But their present transports of Joy at the happy change of their Affairs, and their greedy desire of having the Ark removed, made them hasty and inconsiderate. g Or, on the hill, 1 Sam. 7. 1. h For Abinadab himself seems now to have been dead; or at least, detained at home through infirmity or indispensable occasions.

m With some deadly Disease or Stroke, as it follows. n Either, 1. For his touching the Ark, when he was no Levite, as Josephus reports; nor indeed was Kiriath-jearim a Levitical City: or, that being but a Levite, he touched the bare Ark, which only the Priests might do, Numb. 4. 15. and 18. 3. And though the Ark was ordinarily covered, yet it is not impossible but the covering might be either loose, and so blown aside by the Wind; or worn out, and so he might touch the Ark it self. Or, 2. Because he put the Ark into a Cart, and thereby exposed it to the danger of falling, which would have been a great discouragement to the Israelites, and a reproach to the Ark. And though Ahio also might have an hand in putting it into the Cart, yet Uzzah only is smitten; either, because he was the Elder Brother, and the person to whose care the Ark was more especially committed; or, because he was the chief Author of this counsel of putting it into a Cart; or, because he added a new fault of touching the Ark, and that out of distrust of Gods care over it. o This may seem very severe, considering that his Intention was pious, and his Transgression not great. But, besides that, Men are very improper Judges of the Actions of God; and that Gods Judgments are always just, though sometimes obscure: there are many things to be said of this, and such like cases. 1. That it is fit and reasonable, that God should make some persons Examples of his just and high Displeasure against Sins, seemingly small; partly, for the demonstration of his own exact and impartial Holiness; partly, for the Establishment of Discipline, (for which very reason, even Earthly Princes have oft-times Inflicted great Punishments for small Offences;) and for the greater terror and caution of Mankind, who are very prone to have slight thoughts of Sin, and to give way to small Sins, and thereby to be led on to greater; all which is, or may be prevented by such instances of Severity: and consequently, there is more of Gods Mercy, than of his Justice, in such Actions, because the Justice is confined to one particular person, but the Mercy and benefit of it publick and common to Mankind of that, and all future Ages. 2. That God is justly most severe in those things which immediately concern his Worship and Service; and against those persons who have the nearest Relation to him, and the greatest opportunities of Knowing, and the highest obligations of careful practising those Duties which they neglect: See Lev. 10. 3. 3. That this Punishment possibly was not so great, as it may seem to be; for as for his Body, the Disease, though dangerous, might not be exceedingly painful; and for his Soul, the stroke probably was not so sudden, as not to give him space of Repentance.

8 And David was displeased p, because the LORD had † made a breach upon Uzzah: And he called the name of the place ‖ Perez-Uzzah to this day.

‖ That is, the breach of Uzzah.

p Or, grieved, both for the sin, which he acknowledgeth, 1 Chron. 15. 2, 13. and for Gods heavy Judgment; whereby their hopes were dashed, and their joys interrupted, and a good subject struck dead for the circumstantial error of a Pious mind, which he might possibly think harsh and very severe, and therefore be displeased or offended at this sharp Providence.

9 And David was afraid of the LORD q that day, and said, How shall the ark of the LORD come unto me r?

q Either, that God was displeased with him for removing the Ark; and bringing it to his City: or lest God should proceed further in the way of his Judgments upon him and his people: or, lest the Ark being brought to his House, might be the occasion of inconveniencies and great calamities, for some neglects or errors which they might easily and frequently commit. r How may I presume, or how shall I dare do it, when God hath shewed his displeasure for my attempting it? I will therefore wait further upon God for his direction in the case, and at present forbear. But why did not David consult God presently by the Urim, as he used to do? This therefore seems to have been his infirmity and neglect.

10 So David would not remove the ark of the LORD unto him into the city of David: but David carried it aside into the house of Obed-Edom s the * Gittite t.

* Josh. 21. 24. 1 Chro. 13. 13.

s Which doubtless was done by the consent and desire of the owner of it, who for the enjoyment of so great a Priviledge, was willing to expose himself to some hazard; and wisely considered, that the late Judgment was not to be imputed to the Ark, but to Uzzahs carelessness in managing it. t He was certainly a Levite, 1 Chron. 15. 18, 21, 24. and 16. 5. and 26. 4. and here called a Gittite, Either, First, From Gath of the Philistines, where he or his Father might be Born or have Sojourned, which might be upon divers occasions: Or, Secondly, From Gath-rimmon, which was a Levitical City, Jos. 21. 24, 25.

11 And the ark of the LORD continued in the house of Obed-Edom the Gittite three months: and the LORD blessed Obed-Edom, and all his household u.

u With happy Success in all their Affairs and Actions.

12 ¶ And it was told king David, saying, The LORD hath blessed the house of Obed-Edom, and all that pertaineth unto him, because of the ark of God. * So David went and brought up the ark of God x from the house of Obed-Edom y, into the city of David, with gladness.

* 1 Chron. 15. 25.

x Understanding that the Ark was entertained without danger or inconvenience, and with great advantage, he apprehended his former miſtake, and brought it to himſelf. y Which is thought to have been either in Jeruſalem, or very near it.

13 And it was ſo, that when they that bare the ark of the LORD, had gone ſix paces z, he ſacrificed * oxen and fatlings a.

14 And David danced before the LORD b with all his might, and David was girded with a linen ephod c.

b To expreſs his inward joy and thankfulneſs to God by his outward carriage, according to the manner of thoſe times. See Exod. 15. 20. Judg. 11. 34. and 21. 21. 1 Sam. 18. 6. Pſal. 149. 3. and 150. 4. c The uſual Habit of the Prieſts and Levites, in their Sacred Miniſtrations, yet ſometimes worn by others, as it was by the young Child Samuel, 1 Sam. 2. 18. before he was come to thoſe years in which the Levites were allowed to Miniſter; and ſo hereby David, who laid by his Royal Robes, and put on this Robe to ſignifie and declare, that although he was King of Iſrael, yet he willingly owned himſelf to be the Lords Miniſter and Servant.

15 So David and all the houſe of Iſrael brought up the ark of the LORD with ſhouting, and with the ſound of the trumpet.

16 And as the ark of the LORD came into the city of David, Michal Sauls daughter looked through a window, and ſaw king David leaping and dancing before the LORD, and ſhe deſpiſed him in her heart d.

d As one of a baſe and mean ſpirit, that knew not how to carry himſelf with that Majeſty which became his place, but behaved himſelf like one of the Fools or vain Perſons in Iſrael.

17 ¶ And * they brought in the ark of the LORD, and ſet it in his place, in the midſt of the tabernacle that David had † pitched for it e: and David offered burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings before the LORD.

18 And aſſoon as David had made an end of offering burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings, * he bleſſed the people f in the name of the LORD of hoſts.

* 1 Chro. 16. 2.

f i. e. He heartily and ſolemnly prayed to God for his Bleſſing upon them: which he did both as Propher, and as their King, to whom by office it belongs, by all means, to ſeek his Peoples welfare.

19 And he dealt among all the people, even among the whole multitude of Iſrael, as well to the women as men, to every one a cake of bread, and a good piece of fleſh, and a flaggon of wine: ſo all the people departed every one to his houſe.

20 ¶ Then David returned to bleſs his houſehold: and Michal the daughter of Saul came out to meet David, and ſaid, How glorious was the king of Iſrael to day, who uncovered himſelf g to day in the eyes of the handmaids of his ſervants h, as one of the vain fellows i ‖ ſhamefully uncovereth himſelf!

Or, ſhe ſpeaks thus, not that he did ſo, but only by way of aggravation of his fault, and to vilify him the more, as is uſual with perſons in ſuch caſes. h Who either bare a part in the Solemnity, as Women ſometimes did, Exod. 15. 20. or, at leaſt were ſpectators of it, and of Davids carriage in it. i As idle and light perſons uſe to do.

21 And David ſaid unto Michal, It was before the LORD k, which choſe me before thy father, and before all his houſe l, to appoint me ruler over the people of the LORD, over Iſrael: therefore will I play before the LORD.

k In his preſence and ſervice, which though contemptible to thee, is, and ever ſhall be honourable in mine eyes. l Which took away the honour from him and his, and transferred it upon me, whereby he hath obliged me to Love and Serve him with all my might.

22 And I will yet be more vile than thus, and will be baſe in mine own ſight m: and ‖ of the maidſervants which thou haſt ſpoken of, of them ſhall I be had in honour n.

3 And Nathan ſaid to the king, Go, do all that is in thine heart d: for the LORD is with thee.

d Purſue thy intentions, and Build an Houſe for the Ark, The deſign being Pious, and the thing not forbidden by God. Nathan haſtily approves it, before he had either ſeriouſly conſidered it in his own mind, or conſulted God about it, as both he and David certainly ought to have done in a matter of ſo great moment. And therefore Nathan meets with this rebuke, that he is forced to acknowledge his error, and recant it. For the Holy Prophets did not ſpeak all things by Prophetical Inſpiration, but ſome things by an humane ſpirit, and prudent conjecture; and therefore they were ignorant and miſtaken in ſome matters, as 1 Sam. 16. 6. 2 King. 4. 27.

4 ¶ And it came to paſs that night e, that the word of the LORD came unto Nathan f, ſaying, e Becauſe Davids miſtake was Pious, and from an honeſt mind, God would not ſuffer him to lie long in his miſtake, nor to diſquiet his mind, or run himſelf into inconvenjencies, in order to the Work, before he gave a ſtop to it. f That the ſame Perſon who had confirmed David in his miſtake, might now rectify it.

5 Go and tell † my ſervant David, Thus ſaith the LORD, * Shalt thou build g me an houſe for me to dwell in?

† Heb. to my ſervant, to David.

* See 1 Kin. 5. 3. 1 Chron. 22. 8, and 28. 3.

g i. e. Thou ſhalt not. Or, wilt ſt thou build, &c.? Doſt thou purpoſe it?

* 1 King. 8. 16. 6 Whereas I have not dwelt in any house,* since the time that I brought up the children of Israel out of Egypt, even to this day, but have walked in a tent, and in a tabernacle h.

h These two seem thus to be distinguished, the one may note the Curtains and Hanging within, the other the Frame of Boards, and Coverings upon it.

7 In all the places wherein I have walked with all the children of Israel, spake I a word i with ‖ any of the tribes k of Israel, whom I commanded to feed my people Israel, saying, Why build ye not me an house of cedar?

i Did I ever give any command about it, without which neither they did, nor thou shouldst attempt it? k In 1 Chron. 17. 6. it is of the Judges, and to them, not to the Tribes, the following words agree, whom I commanded to feed my people Israel. Either therefore the Tribes are here put Synecdochically for the Rulers of the Tribes, as the word Church is sometimes used for the Governors of it: or, the word here rendred Tribes, may be rendred Scepters, as it is used Gen. 49. 10. and Scepters put for Scepter-bearers or Rulers, as is very frequent.

8 Now therefore, so shalt thou say unto my servant David l: Thus saith the LORD of hosts, * I took thee from the sheep-coat, † from following the sheep, to be ruler over my people, over Israel m.

* 1 Sam. 16. 11. 12. Psal. 78. 71. † Heb. from after.

l Lest David should be too much discouraged, or judge himself neglected and forsaken of God, as one thought unworthy of so great an honour, God here gives him the honourable title of his Servant, thereby signifying that he accepted of his service, and of his good intentions, which also was expressed at this time, as it may seem from 1 King. 8. 18. though not in this place. m I advanced thee, and I do not repent of it.

9 And I was with thee whithersoever thou wentest, and have cut off all thine enemies † out of thy sight, and have made thee a great name, like unto the name of the great men that are in the earth.

n i. e. I will make room for them, whereas hitherto they have been much straitned and distressed by their Enemies. Or, I will establish (for so that Verb sometimes signifies) a place for them, i. e. I will establish them in their Place or Land. Some learned Men render the Verse thus, and the Hebrew words will bear it: And I have appointed (or, assigned, or given) a place for my people Israel (to wit, the Land of Canaan) and have planted them in it, that they may dwell in their own place, and be no more driven to and fro, or rather, and they shall dwell in their own place, &c. i. e. As I did long ago appoint it to them, and afterwards planted them, or put them into actual possession, so now they shall continue or dwell in it, in spight of all their Enemies. o Among the favours which God had vouchsafed, and would vouchsafe to David, he reckons his Blessings to the people of Israel, because they were great Blessings to David; partly, because the strength and happiness of a King consists in great part in the multitude and happiness of his People; and partly, because David was a Man of a pious and publick spirit, and therefore no less affected with Israels felicity than with his own. p i. e. In their own Land, not in strange Lands, nor mixed with other people. q Either, First, As in the Land of Egypt: and so he goes downward to the Judges. Or, Secondly, As in Sauls time; and so he ascends to the Judges.

r Nor as they did under the Judges, neither so oft, nor so long. But all this is to be understood with a condition, except they should notoriously forsake God, or rebel against him: which being so oft declared by God in other places, it was needless to mention it here. Or, this may relate to the later Ages of the World, when the people of Israel shall be converted to Christ, and recalled out of Captivity, and planted in their own place; when they shall enjoy a far greater degree of Tranquility than ever they did before. And this agrees best with the Future Tense, I will appoint —— and will plant them, &c. otherwise the work was already done, God had already appointed this Land for them, and actually planted them in it. s i. e. And until this time in which I have given thee rest. But these words though according to our Translation they be inclosed in the same Parenthesis with the foregoing clauses, may seem to be better put without it, and to be taken by themselves. For the foregoing words in this Verse, and in ver. 10. do all concern the people of Israel; but these words seem to concern David alone, to whom the Speech returns after a short digression concerning the people of Israel. And they may be rendred either thus, And I have caused thee to rest, &c. or, And I will cause thee to rest, &c. to wit, more fully and perfectly than yet thou dost. t For thy good intentions to make him an house, he will make thee an house, to wit, a sure house, as is expressed, 1 King. 11. 38. i. e. he will encrease and uphold thy Posterity, and continue the Kingdom in thy Family.

12 ¶ And * when thy days be fulfilled u, and thou shalt sleep with thy fathers, I will set up thy seed after thee x, which shall proceed out of thy bowels y, and I will establish his kingdom.

u When the time of thy life shall expire. This Phrase implies, that his days shall be compleated and prolonged to the usual course and stint of Nature, and not cut off in the midst, by any violent or untimely death. x I will set up in thy stead and Throne, thy Posterity, first Solomon, and then others successively, and at last the Messias. So the following words may be understood diversly, part of his Posterity in general or indefinitely taken; part of Solomon, and part of Christ only, according to the differing nature of the several passages. y Out of thy inward parts, or from thy Loins, who shall be begotten by thee.

* 1 King. 5. 5. and 6. 12. 1 Chro. 22. 10.

z This is meant literally and immediately of Solomon, who alone did build the material House or Temple; but mystically and ultimately of Christ, who is the Builder of Gods Spiritual House or Temple, Heb. 3. 3, 6. 1 Pet. 2. 5. a i. e. For my Service, and Worship, and Glory. b This is not meant of Solomon, for his Kingdom was not for ever. And though the Phrase for ever is sometimes used of the time of a mans life, yet it cannot be so understood here, because the Mercy here promised to Davids Son is of another nature, and of far longer continuance, than that which was given to Saul, ver. 15. who yet enjoyed the Kingdom as long as he lived. But it is to be understood of Davids Posterity in general, but with special respect to Christ, in whose Person the Kingdom was to be lodged for ever, Isa. 9. 7. Dan. 2. 44. Luk. 1. 32, 33.

* Heb. 1. 5. * Psal. 89. 26, 30, 31, 32.

c I will carry my self towards him as becomes a Father, with all affection and tenderness, and I will own him as my Son. This is intended both of Solomon, as a Type of Christ; and of Christ himself, as is evident from Heb. 1. 5. d This agrees only to Solomon and some others of Davids Posterity; but not to Christ, who never committed iniquity, as Solomon did, who therein was no Type of Christ, and therefore this branch is terminated in Solomon; whereas in those things wherein Solomon was a Type of Christ, the sense passeth thorough Solomon unto Christ. ‖ Either, First, With such Rods as men use to correct their Sons, or to beat other Men: which are here opposed to the Rods or Strokes which an angry God inflicts. See Job 23. 6. Psal. 39. 11. Isa. 47. 3. Rom. 9. 22. Heb. 10. 31. and 12. 29. Or, Secondly, With such Rods as are gentle and moderate, and suited to Mans weakness; as a tolerable and resistible temptation is called human, or common to men, 1 Cor. 10. 13.

15 But my mercy e shall not depart away from him, as I took it from Saul f, whom I put away before thee.

‖ Or, but

e i. e. Or, my kindness, i. e. the Kingdom which I have mercifully and kindly promised to thee and thine. f In regard of his Posterity, for the Kingdom was continued to his person during life.

16 And thine house, and thy kingdom shall be established for ever * before thee g: thy throne shall be established for ever.

* 1 King. 1. 48.

g Thine Eyes in some sort beholding it, for he lived to see his Wife and Godly Son Solomon actually placed in the Throne, with great reputation and general applause, 1 King. 1. 39, 40. which was in it self a good presage of the continuance of the Kingdom in his Family; and being considered together with the infallible certainty of Gods promise to him and his for ever, ever, of the accomplishment whereof, this was an earnest, gave him good assurance thereof; especially considering that he had his eyes and thoughts upon the Messiah, Psal. 110. 1, &c. whose day he saw by Faith, as Abraham did, Joh. 8. 56. and whom he knew that God would raise out of the fruit of his Loins to sit on his Throne, as is affirmed. Act. 2. 30. and that for ever: and so the Eternity of his Kingdom is rightly said to be before him. The LXX and Syriack read before me, which is an usual Phrase, which makes no great variation in the Hebrew Text.

17 According to all these words, and according to all this vision, so did Nathan speak unto David h.

h Although it was contrary to his own opinion, and an evidence of his rashness and folly. This therefore is here mentioned as an evidence of his Fidelity and Impartiality, in relating the whole mind of God herein, and of his modesty in taking shame to himself.

18 ¶ Then went king David in, and sat i before the LORD, and said, Who am I, O LORD God? and what is my house, that thou hast brought me hitherto k?

i This word may note either, first, his Bodily gesture: for there is no certain gesture to which Prayer is limited; and we have examples of Saints Praying in that Posture, Exod. 17. 12. 1 King. 19. 4. or, he might sit for a season whilst he was Meditating upon these things, and then alter his Posture (though it be not here expressed) and betake himself to Prayer. Or rather, Secondly, His continuance there, as this Hebrew word is oft used, as Gen. 27. 44. Lev. 14. 8. 1 Sam. 1. 22. and 20. 19. that he did not barely present himself before God, but abode there for some competent time, that he might with Gods leave pour out his Soul freely before him. For howsoever one may in some cases pray sitting, yet it is most probable that David would in this Holy place, and upon this occasion, use a more Humble and Reverent gesture, such as kneeling is, which therefore David prescribeth or adviseth, Psal. 95. 6. and Solomon accordingly practiseth, 1 King. 8. 54. 2 Chron. 6. 13. k How infinitely unworthy am I and my Family of this great honour and happiness.

19 And this l was yet a small thing in thy sight, O LORD God m: but thou hast spoken also of thy servants house for a great while to come n, and is this the † manner of man, O LORD God o?

l To wit, which thou hast already done for me, as he now said, That thou hast brought me hitherto, i. e to that pitch of Honour, and Peace, and Prosperity, in which through thy favour I now stand. m Though it was more than I deserved or could expect, yet thou didst not think it enough for thee to give to me. n For many future Ages, and indeed to all Eternity. o Do men use to deal so freely and kindly with their inferiors, as thou hast done with me? No: this is the Prerogative of Divine Grace, to give such promises and largesses as this. So these are words of admiration: which very well suites with the foregoing and following words. Or, And is this the Manner, or Law, or Custom of mean or obscure men, &c. as the Hebrew Adam is confessed sometimes to signifie, as Psal. 49. 2. and 62. 9. Isa. 2. 9. i. e. Is this the manner of mens dealing with mean and obscure persons, such as I am? So the Hebrew, haadam, is the Genitive Case of the object, which is frequent in the Hebrew and other Languages. And this seems more probable, because it exactly agrees with the parallel place, 1 Chron. 17. 17. where the words are, thou hast regarded me according to the estate of a man of high degree, i. e. thou hast dealt with me as if I had been not a poor mean Shepherd, but the Son of some Great Monarch, to whom such honours best agree.

20 And what can David say more unto thee p? for ‖ thou LORD God, knowest thy servant q.

p Either, First, in way of Gratitude, and praise to thee, words cannot express my obligations to thee, nor my sense of these obligations. Or rather, Secondly, In way of prayer, as appears by the parallel place, 1 Chron. 17. 17. What can I ask or desire of thee more than thou hast freely done? q Thou knowest, Either, First, My deep sense of thy favours, and my obligations to thee. Or rather, Secondly, My condition and necessities, what I do or may need hereafter; and as thou knowest this, so I doubt not thou wilt be ready to supply me accordingly. Compare Mat. 6. 8, 32.

r That thou mightest fulfil thy promises made to me, by Samuel and Nathan, and thereby demonstrate thy Faithfulness. s i. e. Of thine own meer liberality and good pleasure, without any desert of mine. So far was David, though now a very gracious man, from thinking his actions Meritorious. t i. e. That thy gracious and wonderful purposes of Mercy towards me, which lay hid in thine own heart, might be manifested unto me and others, by thy most kind words and actions. So it agrees with 1 Chron. 17. 19.

22 Wherefore thou art great u, O LORD God: for * there is none like thee, neither is there any God beside thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears x.

* Deut. 3. 24. and 4. 35. and 32. 39. 1 Sam. 2. 2. Isa. 45. 5, 18. 22.

u Both in Power and in Goodness, as appears by the great and good things which thou hast done for me. x What we have heard from our Parents, or out of thy word concerning the incomparable excellency of thy Majesty, and of thy Works; of that I have this day eminent experience.

23 And * what one nation in the earth is like thy people, even like Israel, whom God went y to redeem for a people to himself, and to make him a name z, and to do for you great things, and terrible, for thy land, before thy people which thou redeemedst to thee from Egypt, from the nations and their gods?

* Deut. 4. 7, 32. and 33. 29. Psal. 147. 20.]

y To wit, into Egypt. An expression of God after the manner of men. z To advance the Glory of his Power and Goodness, and other perfections. Compare Exod. 9. 16.

24 For thou hast confirmed to thy self a thy people Israel to be a people unto thee for ever: and thou, LORD, art become their God b.

a Partly, by thy Promises, and that sure Covenant which thou hast made with them; and partly, by thy Glorious Works wrought on their behalf, as it appears this day. b In a peculiar manner, and by special Relation and Covenant: for otherwise he is the God and Father of all things, 1 Cor. 8. 6.

25 And now, O LORD God, the word that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house, establish it for ever, and do as thou hast said.

26 And let thy name be magnified for ever, saying, The LORD of hosts is the God over Israel c: and let the house of thy servant David be established before thee.

c i. e. Do thou never cease to manifest thy self to be the God and Governour of Israel.

27 For thou, O LORD of hosts, God of Israel, hast † revealed to thy servant, saying, I will build thee an house: therefore d hath thy servant found in his heart e to pray this prayer unto thee.

d Because thy Promise hath given me incouragement to pray, and assurance of Answer. e Or, found his heart, i. e. taken Courage; as a man is said to lose his heart when he wants Courage.

28 And now, O LORD God, (thou art that God f, and * thy words be true, and thou hast promised this goodness unto thy servant):

* Joh. 17. 17.

f That God who hast declared thy self to be Israels God, and in particular my God.

29 Therefore now † let it please thee to bless the house of thy servant, that it may continue for ever before thee: for thou, O LORD God hast spoken it g, and with thy blessing let the house of thy servant be blessed for ever.

† Heb. be thou pleased and blest.

g And therefore wilt certainly do it, for thy words never fail.

CHAP. VIII.

AND after this it came to pass, that David smote the Philistines, and subdued them: and David took ‖ Metheg-Ammah a out of the hand of the Philistines.

a i. e. Gath and her Towns, as it is expressed in the parallel place, 1 Chron. 18. 1. which are called Metheg-Ammah, or the Bridle

Bridle of Ammah, becauſe Gath was ſituate in the Mountain of Ammah; and becauſe this being the chief City of the Philiſtims, and having a King, which none of the reſt had, was the Bridle which had hitherto kept the Iſraelites in ſubjection, but now was taken out of their mouths.

2 And he ſmote Moab b, and meaſured them with a line c, caſting them down to the ground d: even with two lines meaſured he to put to death e; and with one full line to keep alive: and ſo the Moabites became Davids ſervants, and brought gifts.

b For although the King of Moab, out of hatred to Saul, pretended ſome kindneſs to David, and gave protection to his Parents, 1 Sam. 22. 3, 4. yet the Moabites were perpetual and ſworn Enemies to the Iſraelites, who therefore were forbidden to admit them into the Congregation of the Lord, and to ſeek their peace and proſperity, Deut. 23. 6. And though God commanded them in their March to Canaan, to ſpare the Moabites, Deut. 2. 9, 19 yet afterwards they proved unthankful, and inſolent, and fierce Enemies to God and his people, Numb. 22. 2, &c. and 24. 17. and 25. 17. 18. Judg. 3. 14, &c. 1 Sam. 14. 47, &c. and thereby provoked God to alter his courſe and carriage towards them. c i. e. As with Line, the Particle as being oft underſtood, as Pſal. 11. 1. and 22. 6. and 45. 1. The ſenſe is, Having conquered the Land, he made an eſtimate of it, and, as it follows, diſtributed the Towns, and People into three parts. d i. e. Overthrowing their Towns, and utterly deſtroying their People in manner following. e Which ſeverity was neceſſary for his own and his Peoples ſecurity, becauſe they were numerous and Potent, and Bordering upon Canaan, and very vexatious and miſchievous to the Iſraelites. And now that Prophecy, Numb. 24. 17. was accompliſhed.

3 ¶ David ſmote alſo Hadadezer f the ſon of Rehob, king of * Zobah g, as he h went to recover his border at the river Euphrates.

f Called Hadarezer, 1 Chron. 18. 3. the Hebrew letters Daleth and Reſch being alike, and ſo oft interchanged. g A part of Syria, lying North-Eaſt from Canaan; towards Hemath, 1 Chron. 18. 3. See 1 Sam. 14. 47. h Queſt. Who? Anſ. Either, Firſt, Hadarezer: who being already very Potent, and going to enlarge his Dominion further, David thought fit to oppoſe him. Or, Secondly, David, who remembring the grant which God had made to his people, of all the Land as far as Euphrates, and having ſubdued his Neighbouring Enemies, went to recover his Rights, and ſtabliſh his Dominion as far as Euphrates.

4 And David took ‖ from him a thouſand ‖ charets i, and ſeven hundred horſemen k, and twenty thouſand footmen: and David houghed l all the charet horſes m, but reſerved of them for an hundred charets.

Or, theſe ſeven hundred were the Chief and the Rulers of the reſt, and the remaining 6300 were the common Horſemen, ſubject to their Commanders. l i. e. Cut the ſinews of their Legs, that they might be uſeleſs for War. 5 And when the Syrians of Damaſcus * came to ſuccour Hadadezer king of Zobah, David ſlew of the Syrians two and twenty thouſand men.

* i. e. Who were ſubject to Damaſcus, the chief City of Syria.

6 Then David put gariſons in Syria of Damaſcus, and the Syrians became ſervants to David, and brought gifts n: and the LORD preſerved David whitherſoever he went.

n To purchaſe their peace, and acknowledge their ſubjection to him.

7 And David took the ſhields of gold that were on the ſervants o of Hadadezer, and brought them to Jeruſalem.

o Or rather, which were with the ſervants, i. e. committed to their cuſtody, as being kept in the Kings Armoury: for it is not probable they carried them into the field.

8 And from Beta, and from Berothai p, cities of Hadadezer, king David took exceeding much braſs.

p In 1 Chron. 18. 8. it is, from Tibhath, and from Chun. Either therefore the ſame Cities were called by ſeveral names, as is uſual, the one by the Hebrews, the other by the Syrians: or thoſe were two other cities, and ſo the Braſs was taken out of theſe four cities.

u i. e. Much increaſed his reputation. x Or, Edomites, as they are ſaid to be, 1 Chron. 18. 12. It is likely theſe two people were confederates, and that divers of the Syrians whom David had defeated in Syria, fled to Edom, and there joyned with them againſt their common Enemy, and made up together a very great Army (as the number of the Men ſlain in it ſheweth) conſiſting of the veterane Soldiers of both countries. Although the ſlaughter here following may ſeem not to have been of the Syrians, as the words at firſt reading ſeem to intimate, but of the Edomites; (it not being probable that the Syrians would come ſo far from their own country, as to the Valley of Salt, to fight) and this Verſe may be read thus, and that very agreeably to the Hebrew: And David gat him a name when he returned from ſmiting of the Syrians, in ſmiting (which is eaſily repeated out of the laſt clauſe, according to the common uſage of Scripture) in the Valley of Salt eighteen thouſand men, who were Edomites, as is ſufficiently implied here in the next Verſe, and expreſſed 1 Chron. 18. 12. y A place in Edom ſo called, either from its Neighbourhood to the Salt Sea, or for ſome other cauſe now unknown. z As it is alſo 1 Chron. 18. 12. where alſo they are ſaid to be ſmitten by Abiſhai: becauſe he was then a chief Commander of the Army under David, and it may be, began the fight: as, for the like reaſon, they are ſaid to be ſmitten by Joab, Pſal. 60. title; where alſo there are onely twelve thouſand mentioned; which place, if it ſpeak of this Battel, the ſtate of it was this: Abiſhai begins the Combat, and kills ſix thouſand, after him comes in Joab and kills twelve thouſand more, which makes up this eighteen thouſand. But why may not that be another Hiſtory and Battel? So the Edomites and Syrians together did firſt fight with Abiſhai, and loſt eighteen thouſand men, and afterwards recruited their Forces and fought with Joab, and loſt other twelve thouſand men. Nor is it ſtrange if two Battels were fought in one place; of which there are divers inſtances in Hiſtorians.

They are ſuppoſed to be thus called, either, firſt, from their Office, which was upon the Kings command to cut off or puniſh offenders, and to preſerve the Kings Perſon, as their names in the Hebrew Tongue may ſeem to imply. Or, Secondly, From ſome Countrey, or place to which they had relation. And ſo might the Pelethites be too, though that be not related in Scripture. And theſe Iſraelites and Soldiers of David might be ſo called, either, becauſe they went and lived with David when he dwelt in thoſe parts: or, from ſome notable Exploit againſt, or Victory over theſe People; as among the Romans the names of Aſiaticus, Africanus, &c were given for the ſame reaſon. One of their Exploits againſt the Cherethites is in part related, 1 Sam. 30. 14. And it is likely they did many other againſt them, and againſt other people, amongſt which the Pelethites might be one. i Had the places of greateſt Authority and Dignity conferred upon them.

CHAP. IX.

AND David ſaid a, Is there yet any that is left of the houſe of Saul b, that I may ſhew him kindneſs for Jonathans ſake?

a Davids Wars being ended, he ſet himſelf to the Adminiſtration of Juſtice to all his People, chap. 8. 15. And amongſt others he minds his juſt debt and obligation to Jonathan and his Family. b He ſaith not of the houſe of Jonathan, for he knew not of any Son which he had left, and therefore thought his kindneſs and obligation was to paſs to the next of his kindred. As for Mephibosheth, he was very young and obſcure, and poſſibly concealed by his Friends, leſt David ſhould cut him off from jealouſie of State, as hath been uſual among Princes in like caſe, and therefore was unknown to David, as well he might be eſpecially when Davids head and hands were full of War with divers and Potent Enemies, as they had hitherto been.

2 And there was of the houſe of Saul a ſervant c whoſe name was * Ziba: and when they had called him unto David, the king ſaid unto him, Art thou Ziba? And he ſaid, Thy ſervant is he.

c One who had been a Servant, and, as it may ſeem, a Steward to Saul. See below, v. 10.

3 And the king ſaid, Is there not yet any of the houſe of Saul, that I may ſhew the kindneſs of God d unto him? And Ziba ſaid unto the king, Jonathan hath yet a ſon, which is * lame on his feet.

* chap. 4. 4.

d Either, Firſt, That kindneſs which I owe him for God's ſake, and by vertue of my Oath given to him about it, 1 Sam. 20. 14, 15. But that Oath ſeems onely to oblige him to Jonathans Poſterity, and not to any other of Sauls Houſe. Or, Secondly, Great and eminent kindneſs.

4 And the king ſaid unto him, Where is he? And Ziba ſaid unto the king, Behold, he is in the houſe of Machir, the ſon of Ammiel, in Lodebar e.

e In a place beyond Jordan, chap. 17. 27. where his Friends thought he might be kept out of Davids ſight.

5 ¶ Then king David ſent, and fet him out of the houſe of Machir the ſon of Ammiel, from Lodebar.

6 Now when Mephibosheth the ſon of Jonathan, the ſon of Saul, was come unto David, he fell on his face, and did reverence: And David ſaid, Mephibosheth. And he anſwered, Behold thy ſervant.

7 ¶ And David ſaid unto him, Fear not; for I will ſurely ſhew thee kindneſs for Jonathan thy fathers ſake, and will reſtore thee all the land of Saul thy father f, and thou ſhalt eat bread at my table continually.

9 ¶ Then the king called to Ziba Sauls ſervant, and ſaid unto him, * I have given unto thy maſters ſon all that pertained to Saul, and to all his houſe.

* See chap. 19. 29.

10 Thou therefore, and thy ſons, and thy ſervants ſhall till the land for him, and thou ſhalt bring in the fruits, that thy maſters ſon may have food to eat h: but Mephibosheth thy maſters ſon ſhall eat bread alway at my table. Now Ziba had fifteen ſons, and twenty ſervants i.

h i. e. That he may have wherewith to buy Food for all his Family, and all manner of proviſions (which oft come under the title of Food and Bread) neceſſary for himſelf and them. i For it is probable he had been the chief Steward to manage Sauls Lands: whereby he had great opportunities to inrich himſelf, which alſo he was very intent and reſolved upon, either directly, or indirectly, as the following Hiſtory of him ſhews; and therefore it is not ſtrange that he was ſo rich.

11 Then ſaid Ziba unto the king, According to all that my lord the king hath commanded his ſervant, ſo ſhall thy ſervant do. As for Mephibosheth, ſaid the king, he ſhall eat at my table, as one of the kings ſons k.

k Theſe are the words, Either, Firſt, Of David; the words, ſaid he, or ſaid the King, being ſupplied out of the former and following Verſes. Or Secondly, Of Ziba, being thus rendred and underſtood, Alſo Mephibosheth, if the King ſo pleaſe, ſhall eat at my table, and ſhall be treated there according to his Quality, as one of thy Sons, as thou deſireſt: for the Eſtate will ſuffice for that alſo.

12 And Mephibosheth had a young ſon l, whoſe name was Micha m: and all that dwelt in the houſe of Ziba were ſervants unto Mephibosheth.

l Either, Firſt, Before he was diſcovered and brought to the King; and then David ſeems guilty of a great error in forgetting his dear Jonathan ſo long; although his long and continued tinued Wars both Civil and Foreign, might afford him some excuse, as filling his mind and time with business of another nature. Or, Secondly, After that time: for there is nothing here which determines when this Son was Born. m Who also had other Children and Grand-children, to keep up the name and memory of worthy and famous Jonathan. See 1 Chron. 8. 34, 35. and 9. 40, 41.

13 So Mephibosheth dwelt in Jerusalem: for he did eat continually at the kings table; and was lame on both his feet.

CHAP. X.

* 1 Chro. 19. 1. AND it came to pass after this, that the * king of the children of Ammon a died, and Hanun his son reigned in his stead.

a Nahash, ver. 2. probably the same whose Army Saul defeated and destroyed, 1 Sam. 11. who out of enmity to Saul shewed kindness to David, as it follows; hoping also by fomenting the differences between Saul and David, to make way for his future Conquests.

2 Then said David, I will shew kindness unto Hanun the son of Nahash b, as his father shewed kindness unto me c. And David sent to comfort him by the hand of his servants, for † his father: and Davids servants came into the land of the children of Ammon.

b Therefore there had hitherto been Peace and Friendship between David and him; and therefore the spoils of the children of Ammon are mentioned chap. 8. 12. by way of anticipation, and with respect to the story here following. c Which he might do, either, by offering him his help, if he needed it; or, by supplying him with Military or other provisions upon occasion, or many other ways.

3 And the princes of the children of Ammon said unto Hanun their lord, † Thinkest thou that David doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters unto thee? Hath not David rather sent his servants unto thee, to search the city, and to spie it out d, and to overthrow it?

d To observe where the City is weakest, and may soonest be taken. The ground of this suspition was, partly, the Conscience of their ill deserts and carriage towards the Israelites, whose quarrel David had espoused: partly, the opinion they had of Davids policy: and partly, the severity of Gods Law particularly against them, Deut. 23. 6. which might easily come to their ears. And they knew David was a zealous assertor of Gods Laws.

4 Wherefore Hanun took Davids servants, and shaved off the one half of their beards e, and cut off their garments in the middle, even to their buttocks f, and sent them away.

e Partly, that he might compel them to bear a part in their mourning, and that in such a way as was usual with them, but forbidden to the Israelites, Lev. 19. 27. Deut. 14. 1. which probably was not unknown to them: and partly, to fasten this as a reproach upon them, and to make them ridiculous and contemptible. Compare Isa. 20. 4. and 47. 2. and 50. 6. f This was worse than the former, because the Israelites wore no Breeches, and so their nakedness was hereby uncovered. Compare Isa. 20. 4.

5 ¶ When they told it unto David, He sent to meet them g, because the men were greatly ashamed: and the king said. Tarry at Jericho h until your beards be grown i, and then return.

g He sent them Clothes and other necessaries. h Both because this was one of the first places which they came to in Canaan: and because it was now a very obscure Village, and therefore fittest for them in their circumstances: for it was not built as a City till after this time, 1 King. 16. 34. i For the want or loss of Beards was esteemed a reproach among the Israelites.

6 ¶ And when the children of Ammon saw that they stank before David, the children of Ammon sent and hired the Syrians of Beth-Rehob k, and the Syrians of Zoba l, twenty thousand footmen, and of king Maacah m a thousand men, and of Ishtob n twelve thousand men.

k Near Hamath, Numb. 13. 21. l Of which see 1 Sam. 14. 47. and 2 Sam. 8. 3. m i. e. Of that part of Syria which was under King Maacah: for Syria was a large Country, and there were divers Kings in the several parts of it. This part was near Gilead. See Deut. 3. 14. n Or, of the men of Tob, the Country where Jephthah dwelt, Judg. 11. 3. Besides these, they hired others out of Aram Naharaim, or Mesopotamia, as appears from 1 Chron. 19. 6. and Psal. 60. title. And all these were forward enough to Combine against David, both to revenge their former losses and reproaches, and to give check to his growing greatness.

7 And when David heard of it, he sent Joab, and all the host of the mighty men o.

o Chusing wisely to carry the War into their countrey, rather than to expect it in his own.

8 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battel in aray at the entring in of the gate p: and the Syrians of Zoba, and of Rehob, and Ishtob, and Maacah, were by themselves in the field q.

p To wit, of Medeba, as it is expressed 1 Chron. 19. 7. which was a frontier city. See Numb. 21. 30. This place they chose for the Fight, that they might both defend that city and their country, whereof that was the entrance, and if need were, might retreat into it. q That by their numerous Forces they might fall upon the Israelites on the other side.

9 When Joab saw that the front of the battel was against him before and behind, he chose of all the choice men of Israel, and put them in aray against the Syrians r.

r Which were the most valiant and expert Soldiers.

10 And the rest of the people he delivered into the hand of Abishai his brother, that he might put them in aray against the children of Ammon.

11 And he said, If the Syrians be too strong for me, then thou shalt help me: but if the children of Ammon be too strong for thee, then I will come and help thee.

12 Be of good courage, and let us play the men for our people s, and for the cities of our God t: and the LORD do that which seemeth him good t.

s For the preservation of our selves and all our Brethren from that utter ruin which our Enemies design for us. Our War is not vainly undertaken to enlarge our Empire or Glory, but for our own just and necessary defence; and therefore we may hope for Gods Blessing and assistance in it. t Which are devoted to his Worship and Service, and therefore he will plead their cause against his Enemies. t Let us do our parts, and quietly refer our selves and the event to Gods good pleasure, which we have no reason to distrust.

13 And Joab drew nigh, and the people that were with him, unto the battel against the Syrians u: and they fled before him.

u He prudently falls upon them first, because they were but mercenaries, and not concerned so much in the Success as the Ammonites were, all whose interest lay at stake; and therefore not likely to venture too far in their defence.

14 And when the children of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fled x, then fled they also before Abishai, and entred into the city: so Joab returned from the children of Ammon y, and came to Jerusalem.

x In whose numbers and prowess they had the most confidence. y Not judging it convenient or safe to pursue them; because the Forces were not utterly ruined, but onely dispersed and put to flight, and so might easily rally together.

15 ¶ And when the Syrians saw that they were smitten before Israel, they gathered themselves together z.

z Partly, to wipe out the stain of Cowardize which they had now contracted: partly, to prevent that vengeance which they supposed David would execute upon them for their last attempt: and partly, to shake off the Yoke that David had lately put upon them.

16 And Hadarezer a sent, and brought out the Syrians Syrians that were beyond the river b: and they came to Helam; and Shobach c the captain of the hoſt of Hadarezer went before them.

a The ſame with Hadadezer, chap. 8. 3. b Who having engaged themſelves in the former Expedition, as was noted before, were now obliged to proceed in their own defence, being alſo perſwaded and hired to this ſecond Expedition, v. 19. c Or, Shophack, 1 Chron. 19. 16, 17 And when it was told David, he gathered all Iſrael d together, and paſſed over Jordan, and came to Helam: and the Syrians ſet themſelves in aray againſt David, and fought with him.

d i. e. The Choſen and Valiant Men pickt out of all Iſrael.

18 And the Syrians fled before Iſrael, and David ſlew the men of ſeven hundred chariots e of the Syrians, and forty thouſand horſemen f, and ſmote Shobach the captain of their hoſt, who died there.

e Heb. ſeven hundred Chariots: i. e. The Men belonging to them; that Fought in, or with them; as plainly appears, 1. Becauſe the Men only, and not the Chariots were capable of being killed, as theſe are ſaid to have been. 2. Becauſe it is thus explained in the Book of Chronicles, which was written after this Book, for this end, to Explain what was dark or doubtful, and to ſupply what was omitted here; where inſtead of theſe words, are ſeven thouſand men which Fought in Chariots, 1 Chron. 19. 18. And this is a very common Metonymy; of which, See above Chap. 8. 4. and the Notes on 1 Sam. 13. 5. Although there might be 7000 Chariots in all, whereof 700 were choſen ones; according to the diſtinction made Exod. 14. 7. f For which in 1 Chron. 19. 18. is forty thouſand footmen. Which may be reconciled divers ways. 1. Both theſe may be true, that he ſlew 40000 Horſemen, which being the moſt conſiderable part and ſtrength of the Army, it might ſeem ſufficient to name them, and every one could eaſily underſtand, that the Footmen in that caſe were certainly cut off; and that he ſlew alſo 40000 Footmen, as is ſaid 1 Chron. where he mentions them only, becauſe they were omitted in 2 Sam. and the Horſemen being expreſſed here, it was needleſs to repeat them in 1 Chron. 2. The Horſemen may be here called footmen, in oppoſition to thoſe that Fought in Chariots; becauſe they ſometimes Fought on Horſeback, and ſometimes came down from their Horſes, and Fought on Foot, when the place of the Battle was more commodious for Footmen, than for Horſemen; which it is not improbable was their Caſe here; for David, being a Souldier of great Prudence and Experience, and underſtanding, the great numbers of the Syrian Horſemen; whereas the Iſraelites had but very few, Deut. 17. 16. would doubtleſs endeavour to chuſe a place as inconvenient for their Horſemen as he could. 3. Peradventure the Syrians deſigned to bring the War into David's Country, and therefore haſtened their March, and for that end put their Footmen on Horſeback, (as hath been frequently done in like caſes) who, when they came to the place of the Battle, came down from their Horſes, and Fought on Foot. So there is no need of acknowledging an error of the Scribe in the Sacred Text: which yet if it were granted in ſuch Hiſtorical Paſſages of no moment to the Doctrine of Faith and good Life, it would not ſhake the Foundation of our Faith in matters of great Importance, which it might reaſonably be preſumed the Providence of God would more watchfully preſerve from all depravation or corruption.

19 And when all the kings that were ſervants to Hadarezer f ſaw that they were ſmitten before Iſrael, they made peace with Iſrael, and ſerved them: So the Syrians feared to help the children of Ammon any more.

f To wit, for that time, or in that Expedition to which he hired them.

CHAP. XI.

† Heb. at the return of the year

AND it came to paſs, that † after the year was expired, at the time when kings go forth b to battel c that * David ſent Joab and his ſervants with him, and all Iſrael; and they deſtroyed the children of Ammon, and beſieged Rabbah d, but David tarried ſtill at Jeruſalem.

* 1 Chro. 20. 1.

a When that year ended, and the next begun, which was in the Spring-time, Exod. 12. 2. b Which is, when the ground is fit for the March of Soldiers, and brings forth Proviſion for Man and Beaſt. c Theſe words are to be underſtood here, as Gen. 10. 11. and 14. 8. d The Chief and Royal City of the Ammonites, Deut. 3. 11.

2 ¶ And it came to paſs in an evening-tide, that David aroſe from off his bed e, and walked upon the roof f of the kings houſe: and from the roof he ſaw a woman waſhing her ſelf g: and the woman was very beautiful to look upon.

e Where he had lain, and ſlept for ſome time; being poſſibly diſpoſed to ſleep after Dinner, by reaſon of ſome exceſs committed in Eating, or Drinking; and indulging himſelf in his Lazy Humour, which may ſeem very improper for ſo great a Prince and Captain, who had had ſo many and great Burdens upon his Shoulders, eſpecially in a time of War; and therefore ſuch Practiſes have been condemned by Heathens: and Homer will not allow a General and great Counſellor to ſleep all the Night, much leſs to take any part of the Day for it. And therefore this is thought to be Davids firſt Error, and the occaſion of his following Fall. f Which was plain after the manner, Deut. 22. 8. g To wit, in a Bath, which poſſibly was in her Garden; or in ſome room near to the Kings Palace, where ſhe might waſh her ſelf divers ways, and for different ends; either for health, or coolneſs, or to cleanſe her ſelf from ſome kind of legal impurity: where alſo, the Windows being open, and ſhe careleſs, David might eſpie her.

3 And David ſent and enquired after the woman b: and one ſaid, Is not this Bath-ſheba i the daughter of Eliam, the wife of Uriah the Hittite k?

b Inſtead of ſuppreſſing that Luſt which the ſight of his Eyes had kindled, he ſeeks rather to feed it; and firſt enquires who ſhe was; that, if ſhe were unmarried, he might make her either his Wife, or his Concubine. i Called alſo Bathſhua, 1 Chron. 3. 5. where alſo Eliam is called Ammiel. k So called, either, 1, By his Original, being born either of that Race, but become a zealous Proſelyte; or, at leaſt, among that People. Or, 2. By his Habitation among them. Or, 3. For ſome notable Exploit of his againſt that People: See 1 Sam. 26. 6. and the notes on 2 Sam. 8. 18.

4 And David ſent meſſengers, and took her l, and ſhe came in unto him m, and he * lay with her († for ſhe was * purified from her uncleanneſs n) and ſhe returned unto her houſe.

* Pſal. 51. title.

l From her own Houſe into his Palace, not by force, but by perſwaſion, as deſiring to ſpeak with her. m Into his Palace and Chamber, as he deſired. n To wit, from her menſtruous Pollution according to the Law, Levit. 18. 19. Which is here noted, as the reaſon, either why David purſued his Luſtful deſire; or why ſhe ſo eaſily yielded to it, becauſe ſhe was not under that Pollution which might alienate her from it; or rather, why ſhe ſo readily conceived, that time being obſerved by Ariſtotle and others, to be the moſt likely time for Conception.

5 And the woman conceived, and ſent, and told David, and ſaid, I am with child o.

o Conſider therefore what to do for thy own honour, and for my ſafety, whom thou haſt brought into a moſt ſhameful and dangerous condition.

6 And David ſent to Joab, ſaying, Send me Uriah the Hittite: And Joab ſent Uriah to David.

7 And when Uriah was come unto him, David demanded of him † how Joab did, and how the people did, and how the war proſpered p?

p Frivolous Queſtions which any common Meſſenger could have anſwered: which probably made Uriah ſuſpect that there was ſome other ſecret cauſe why he was ſent for. And he might underſtand ſomething, either by Davids Meſſengers, v. 4. or by ſome of his own Family, concerning her being ſent for to the Court: which together with other Circumſtances might give him cauſe of further ſuſpition. Yet ſuch might be the Queſtions (though not here particularly mentioned) concerning thoſe Heads, as every private perſon might not be acquainted with, nor able to reſolve, but ſuch onely as were acquainted with the Counſel of War.

8 And David ſaid to Uriah, Go down to thy houſe q, and waſh thy feet r. And Uriah departed out of the kings houſe, and there † followed him a meſs of meat from the king s.

q Not doubting but he would there Converſe with his Wife, and ſo cover their Sin and Shame. r As Travellers there uſed to do. s Seemingly as a Teſtimony of Davids Reſpect and Affection to him; but really to cheer up his Spirits, and diſpoſe him to deſire his Wives Company.

9 But Uriah ſlept at the door of the kings houſe with all the ſervants of his lord t, and went not down to his houſe.

t With the Kings Guard. This he did, either upon ſome ſuſpition of the matter, See ver. 7. Or, by the ſecret direction of Gods wiſe and irreſiſtible Providence, who would bring Davids Sin to light.

10 And when they had told * David, ſaying, Uriah went not down unto his houſe, David ſaid unto Uriah, Cameſt thou not from thy journey u? why then didſt thou not go down unto thine houſe?

* Whether of their own accord, or being firſt asked by David, it doth not appear. u Wearied with hard ſervice and Travel, and therefore didſt need refreſhment; nor did I expect or deſire that thou ſhouldeſt now attend upon my Perſon, or keep the Watch.

11 And Uriah ſaid unto David, The ark x, * chap. 20. 6. and Iſrael, and Judah abide in tents, and * my lord Joab, and the ſervants of my lord are encamped in the open fields y; ſhall I then go into mine houſe to eat, and to drink, and to lie with my wife z? As thou liveſt, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not do this thing.

x Which it ſeems, was now carried with them for their encouragement and direction, as was uſual: See Numb. 10. 35. 1 Sam. 4. 4. y To wit, in Tents which are in the Fields. z He might poſſibly add theſe words, to inſinuate his apprehenſion of the Kings Deſign, and to awaken his Conſcience to the conſideration of his Sin, and of the Injury which he had done him. His meaning is, Now when Gods People are in a doubtful and dangerous Condition, it becomes me to Sympathize with them, and to abſtain even from lawful Delights. Whereby he might poſſibly intimate, how unworthy it was for David in ſuch a ſeaſon to indulge himſelf in ſinful and injurious Pleaſures. But Davids Ear was now Deaf, his Heart being hardned through the deceitfulneſs of Sin.

12 And David ſaid to Uriah, Tarry here to day alſo, and to morrow I will let thee depart. So Uriah abode in Jeruſalem that day and the morrow.

13 And when David had called him *, he did eat and drink before him, and he made him drunk a: and at even he went out to lie on his bed b with the ſervants of his lord c, but went not down to his houſe.

* i. e. Being invited by David. a Or, he made him merry, as the Word oft ſignifies. He cauſed him to Drink more than was convenient. b Which it doth not appear, that he did the Night before; but now his Exceſs in Eating and Drinking, might make it more neceſſary for him. c i. e. In ſome Chamber in the Kings Court, where the Kings Servants uſed to take their Repoſe.

14 And it came to paſs in the morning, that David wrote a letter to Joab, and ſent it by the hand of Uriah.

15 And he wrote in the letter, ſaying, Set ye Uriah in the forefront of the † hotteſt battel, and † Heb. ſtrong. retire ye † from him, that he may be ſmitten and die d. † Heb. from after him.

d So far is David from Repenting upon theſe juſt and great Occaſions, that he ſeeks to cover one Sin with another; and to hide his Adultery with Murder, even the Murder of a moſt Excellent Perſon, and that in a moſt Malicious and Perfidious manner.

16 And it came to paſs when Joab obſerved the city, that he aſſigned Uriah unto a place where he knew that valiant men were e.

e Placed there to defend it, becauſe that part of the City was ſuppoſed either the weakeſt, or the place deſigned for the Aſſault. Joab having formerly committed a baſe Murder upon Abner, was ready to execute this wicked Command of the King; that ſo he being involved in the ſame Guilt with him, might the more willingly receive him into favour.

17 And the men of the city went out and fought with Joab: and there fell ſome of the people of the ſervants of David, and Uriah the Hittite died alſo.

18 Then Joab ſent, and told David all the things concerning the war:

19 And charged the meſſenger, ſaying, When thou haſt made an end of telling the matters of the war unto the king;

20 And if ſo be that the kings wrath ariſe, and he ſay unto thee, Wherefore approached ye ſo nigh unto the city when ye did fight? knew ye not that they would ſhoot from the wall?

21 Who ſmote * Abimelech the ſon of Jerubbeſheth ‖? did not a woman caſt a piece of a mil-ſtone upon him from the wall, that he died in Thebez? why went ye nigh the wall? then ſay thou, Thy ſervant Uriah the Hittite is dead alſo f. * Judg. 9. 53.

‖ Called alſo Jerubbaal, Judg. 9. 1. See the note on 2 Sam. 2. 8. f Which he knew would be acceptable news to the King, and therefore allay his Wrath. This indeed might make the Meſſenger ſuſpect that David had an hand in Uriahs Death; and poſſibly Joab might ſay ſo for that very reaſon, that theſe matters by degrees being known, David might be hardned in Sin, and ſo Joab might have the greater intereſt in him.

22 So the meſſenger went and came, and ſhewed David all that Joab had ſent him for.

23 And the meſſenger ſaid unto David, Surely the men prevailed againſt us, and came out unto us into the field, and we were upon them even unto the entring of the gate g.

g We beat them back, and purſued them even to the Gate.

24 And the ſhooters ſhot from off the wall upon thy ſervants, and ſome of the kings ſervants be dead, and thy ſervant Uriah the Hittite is dead alſo.

25 Then David ſaid unto the meſſenger, Thus ſhalt thou ſay unto Joab, Let not this thing † diſ- † Heb. be not pleaſe thee h: for the ſword devoureth † one as in thine eyes. well as another: make thy battel more ſtrong † Heb. So and againſt the city, and overthrow it: and encou- ſuch. rage thou him i.

h Be not dejected or diſcouraged by this ſad occaſion. i i. e. Joab, to proceed in the Siege.

26 And when the wife of Uriah heard that Uriah her husband was dead, ſhe mourned for her husband.

27 And when the mourning was paſt k, David ſent and fet her to his houſe, and ſhe became his wife, and bare him a ſon l: but the thing that David had done m, † diſpleaſed the LORD. † Heb. was evil in the eyes of.

k Which was ſeven days, Gen. 50. 10. 1 Sam. 31. 13. Nor could the nature of the thing admit of longer delay, leſt the too early birth of the Child might diſcover Davids Sin. l By which it appears, That David continued in the ſtate of Impenitency for divers Months together; and this notwithſtanding his frequent attendance upon Gods Ordinances. Which is an eminent inſtance of the Corruption of Mans Nature which is even in the beſt; and, without Divine Aſſiſtance, is too ſtrong for them; of the deceitfulneſs of Sin, and of the tremendous Judgment of God in puniſhing one Sin, by delivering a man up to another. m i. e. His Adultery and Murder, as is evident from the next Chapter.

CHAP. XII.

AND the LORD ſent Nathan a unto David: and * he came unto him, and ſaid unto him, There were two men in one city b; the one rich and the other poor: * Pſal. 51. title.

a The Prophet, chap. 7. 2. 1 King. 1. 8. When the ordinary means did not awaken David to Repentance, God uſeth an Extraordinary Courſe. Thus the Merciful God pities and prevents him who had ſo horribly forſaken and forgotten God. b He prudently uſhereth in his Reproof with a Parable, after the manner of the Eaſtern Nations, and ancient times, that ſo he might ſurprize David, and cauſe him unawares to give Sentence againſt himſelf. He manageth his Relation as if it had been a real thing; and demands the Kings Juſtice in the caſe. Though the Application of this Parable to David be caſie and obvious, yet it matters not, if ſome circumſtances be not ſo applicable; becauſe because it was fit to put in some such Clauses, either for the decency of the Parable, or that David might not too early discover his Design.

2 The rich man had exceeding many flocks and herds c.

c Noting Davids many Wives and Concubines.

3 But the poor man had nothing save one little ew-lamb d, which he had bought e and nourished up: and it grew up together with him, and with his children, it did eat of his own † meat, and drank of his own cup, and lay in his bosom f, and was unto him as a daughter.

d Designing Uriah, with his own and onely Wife. e As men then used to buy their Wives: or, had procured. f Which David might take for Hyperbolical Expressions of his tender care of, and affection to it. Although there want not Instances of some who have treated such Brute Creatures in this manner.

4 And there came a traveller g unto the rich man, and he spared to take of his own flock, and of his own herd, to dress for the wayfaring man that was come unto him, but took the poor mans lamb, and dressed it for the man that was come to him.

g This some make to be the Devil, whom David gratified by his Sin; but it rather seems added for the decency of the Parable.

5 And Davids anger was kindled greatly against the man, and he said to Nathan, As the LORD liveth, the man that hath done this thing, ‖ † shall surely die h.

h This seems to be more than the Fact deserved, or than he had Commission for it, Exod. 22. 1. But it is observable, That David now when he was most Indulgent to himself, and to his own Sin, was most severe to others; as appears by this Passage, and the following Relation, ver. 31. which was done in the time of Davids impenitent continuance in his Sin.

6 And he shall restore the lamb * fourfold, because he did this thing, and because he had no pity.

* Exod. 22. 4.

7 And Nathan said to David, Thou art the man i. Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, * I anointed thee king over Israel, and I delivered thee out of the hand of Saul:

* 1 Sam. 16. 13.

i Thou hast committed this Crime with great Aggravations; and out of thine own mouth thy Sentence hath proceeded, and thou art worthy of Death.

8 And I gave thee thy masters house, and thy masters wives k into thy bosome, and gave thee the house of Israel and of Judah, and if that had been too little, I would moreover have given unto thee such and such things l.

k Or, women, as that Word is elsewhere used; as Numb. 31. 18. And though we read not a word of Gods giving, or of Davids taking any of Sauls Wives into his Bosome; or, which is all one, into his Bed; Yet (which I think to be aimed at here) it might be according to the manner of that time, that the Wives and Concubines of the Precedent King, belonged to the Successor, to be at least at his Dispose. And to pretend to them, was interpreted little less than pretending to the Crown. Which made it fatal to Adonijah to ask Abishag, 1 King. 2. 23. And to Abner to be suspected for Rispah, 2 Sam. 3. 8. And Absalom, Usurping the Crown, usurped the Concubines also; which is looked on as a Crime unpardonable, 2 Sam. 16. 21. nor would this have been reckoned amongst the Mercies and Blessings which God here is said to give him, and which are opposed to that which he sinfully took: but we do read, That Merab, Sauls Daughter, was given to him for his Wife by Sauls promise, and consequently by Gods grant; though afterwards Saul perfidiously gave her to another Man; and that Michal, the other Daughter, was actually given to him, 1 Sam. 18. And it is very possible, that some other of Davids Wives were nearly Related to the House of Saul; whereby David might design to enlarge and strengthen his Interest in the Kingdom. Although there is no absolute Necessity of restraining this to Saul, seeing the Word is Plural, Masters; and may belong to others also, who sometimes were owned by David as his Masters, Lords, or Superiors, such as Nabal was, and some others not elsewhere named might be, whose Houses and Wives, or, at least, Women, God might give to David. l Such other things as thou hadst wanted, or in reason desired.

m i. e. Those Laws of God which forbad thee to do this thing, by not giving them that respect and observance which they deserved. n That Valiant, and Generous, and Noble Person. o This he mentions amongst his other Sins; partly, because he had rewarded her, who by Gods Law should have been severely punished: partly, because he compassed this Marriage by wicked practices, even by Uriahs Murder, and for sinful ends, even for the gratification of his inordinate and sensual Lusts, and for the concealment of that Sin which he was obliged to confess and lament. p Those cursed Enemies of God, and of his People, whom thou hast encouraged and hardned in their Idolatry, by giving up him, and others of Gods People into their hands. And note here, That although David did not kill Uriah himself, nor command any to do it; but only that he should be put upon dangerous Service, (which a General of an Army oft doth to Soldiers under him, on justifiable accounts, without being therefore Legally chargeable with Murder, though the person so employed dye in the Service:) yet in Gods account, who judged of Davids Design therein, it is justly so reputed. And therefore, though the Ammonites slew Uriah, yet David is said to have killed him with their Sword.

10 Now therefore the sword shall never depart from thine house q, because thou hast despised me, and hast taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be thy wife.

q During the residue of thy Life: as appears from the following History.

11 Thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will raise up evil r against thee out of thine own house s, and I will * take thy wives before thine eyes t, and give them u unto thy neighbour x, and he shall lie with thy wives in the sight of the sun y.

* Deut. 28. 30. chap. 16. 22.

r To wit, the evil of Punishment. s From thy own children and Family. t i. e. Openly, so as thou shalt know it as certainly as if thou didst see it, and yet not be able to hinder it. u i. e. I shall by my Providence, give him power over them, which I know he will abuse; and I shall not restrain him from so doing, either by my Grace or Providence. x To one who is very near to thee, even thy beloved Son Absalom. But God expresseth this here darkly and doubtfully, that the accomplishment of it might not be hindred. y In the open Day, and in a Publick Place. The accomplishment hereof, See Chap. 16. 22.

12 For thou didst it secretly: but I will do this thing z before all Israel, and before the Sun.

z i. e. I will Execute this Judgment. This God did by inclining Davids Heart to leave his Concubines, to keep his House, and so to come into Absaloms Power, by giving up Achitophel to his own Carnal Policy, which readily suggested to him that wicked and desperate Counsel; and by exposing Absalom to these Temptations, and leaving him to his own Vicious Inclinations, which God certainly knew would in such circumstances produce that Effect. So the Sin was wholly from Men; but the ordering and over-ruling their Mistakes and Miscarriages to this end, was from God.

13 And David said unto Nathan, * I have sinned against the LORD a. And Nathan said unto David, The LORD also hath put away thy sin b, thou shalt not die c.

* Psal. 32. 5. and 51. 4.

a I now freely confess, that Sin which I have hitherto so wickedly smothered; and I have deserved all these, and far heavier Judgments for it; and I am more troubled for my Sin against my Soveraign Lord and gracious God, than for the shame and punishment that follow it. How serious and pathetical this confession was, [illegible] may see, Psal. 51. b i. e. So far as concerns thy own Life and Eternal Salvation: both which were forfeited by this Sin. c As by thy own Sentence ver. 5. thou didst deserve, and as thou mightest expect to do by my immediate Stroke; though possibly thou mighteſt elude the Law, before a humane Judicature, or there be no Superior to Execute the Law upon thee.

14 Howbeit, becauſe by this deed thou haſt given great occaſion to the enemies of the LORD to blaſpheme d, the child alſo that is born unto thee, ſhall ſurely die e.

d i. e. To reproach both God and his People, and the true Religion. For though theſe were not concerned in Davids Sin, the blame and ſhame of which ſhould have been appropriated to him; yet Heathens and wicked men would, according to their own evil Minds, and malicious Hearts, faſten the Reproach of this upon God and Religion; as if God were unholy, becauſe the man after Gods own heart was ſo; and partial, in conniving at ſo great a Crime, when Saul was caſt off for a far leſs Sin, and negligent in the Government of the World, and of his Church in ſuffering ſuch a Wickedneſs, as even Heathens have abhorred to let go unpuniſhed; and as if all Religion were but Hypocriſie and Impoſture, and a pretence for Villanies. Beſides the Ammonites upon their ſucceſs againſt Uriah and his Party, did doubtleſs magnifie and praiſe their Idols, and blaſpheme the God of Iſrael. e Which, conſidering his Affection to it, and the Puniſhment threatned to the poor innocent Infant for his ſake, muſt needs be grievous to him.

15 And Nathan departed unto his houſe: and the LORD ſtrook the child f that Uriahs wife bare unto David, and it was very ſick.

f With ſome ſudden and dangerous diſtemper.

16 David therefore beſought God for the child g, and David † faſted, and went in h, and lay all night upon the earth.

g Suppoſing the Threatning might be conditional, and ſo the Execution of it prevented by Prayer. h To wit, into his Cloſet, as Mat. 6. 6. to pray ſolitarily and earneſtly as he had done with others. Or this Word may onely note his Progreſs and continuance in the actions here expreſſed.

17 And the elders of his houſe i aroſe, and went to him, to raiſe him up from the earth: but he would not, neither did he eat bread with them k.

i The chief Officers of his Kingdom and Houſhold who were there preſent. k This exceſſive Mourning did not proceed ſimply from the fear of the loſs of the child; but from a deep ſence of his Sin, and from the Divine Diſpleaſure manifeſted herein; and particularly, from a juſt apprehenſion of the injury which he had done to the child by his Sin, which juſtice obliged him to do his utmoſt to repair by Prayer, or other means.

18 And it came to paſs on the ſeventh day l, that the child died: and the ſervants of David feared to tell him that the child was dead: for they ſaid m, Behold, while the child was yet alive, we ſpake unto him, and he would not hearken unto our voice: how will he then † vex himſelf, if we tell him that the child is dead?

l Either, 1. From the beginning of the Diſtemper. Or, rather, 2. From the day of his Birth, which is the moſt uſual way of computation of Mens Days or Years: for it is apparent, that this happened during the time of Davids Faſting, and lying upon the Earth, v. 20. which it is not probable that it laſted for Seven Days. m Whiſpering among themſelves, ver. 19.

19 But when David ſaw that his ſervants whiſpered, David perceived that the child was dead: therefore David ſaid unto his ſervants, Is the child dead? And they ſaid, He is dead.

20 Then David aroſe from the earth, and waſhed, and anointed himſelf, and changed his apparel, and came into the houſe of the LORD n, and worſhipped: then he came to his own houſe, and when he required, they ſet bread before him, and he did eat.

n i. e. To the Tabernacle, to confeſs his Sin before the Lord, and to own his Juſtice in this ſtroke, and the other threatnings, and to deprecate his great and juſt diſpleaſure, and to acknowledge Gods rich mercy, in ſparing his own Life; and to offer ſuch Sacrifices as were proper and required in ſuch caſes. Nor did David tranſgreſs that Law. Numb. 19. 14. in going thither before the Seven Days were expired. For neither is there the ſame reaſon of a Tent, and of a dwelling Houſe, where the ſeveral Rooms of the Houſe are as diſtinct as ſeveral Tents; nor is it here ſaid, that David was in the ſame Room, or in the ſame Houſe where the child died.

21 Then ſaid his ſervants unto him, What thing is this that thou haſt done? thou didſt faſt and weep for the child while it was alive, but when the child was dead, thou didſt riſe and eat bread.

22 And he ſaid, While the child was yet alive, I faſted and wept: * for I ſaid, Who can tell whether God will be gracious to me, that the child may live o?

* See Iſa. 38. 1. Jon. 3. 9.

o For Gods threatning of the childs Death might be conditional, as that was of Nineveh's Deſtruction, Jonah 3. 4.

23 But now he is dead, wherefore ſhould I faſt p? can I bring him back again? I ſhall go to him q, but he ſhall not return to me.

p Seeing Faſting and Prayer cannot now prevail with God for his Life. q Into the ſtate of the Dead, in which he is, and into Heaven, where I doubt not I ſhall find him.

24 And David comforted Bath-ſheba his wife r, and went in unto her s, and lay with her: and * ſhe bare a ſon and * he called his name Solomon; and the LORD loved him t.

* Mat. 1. 6. * 1 Chr. 22. 9.

r Who was now much dejected, both for her former Sin which ſhe truly repented of, as may be gathered from Prov. 31. 1, 2, 3, &c. and for the loſs of that child which was very dear to her, and which might ſeem to be the onely tye of Davids Affection to her; which being now dead, ſhe might think that David would utterly caſt her off, and leave her to that Shame and Puniſhment which ſhe had deſerved. s To wit, into her chamber or bed. t i. e. The Lord declared to David, that he loved his Son, notwithſtanding the juſt cauſe which David had given to God to alienate his Affections from him.

25 And he ſent by the hand of Nathan the prophet; and he called his name ‖ Jedidiah, becauſe of the LORD u.

‖ That is, beloved of the LORD.

u Either, becauſe of the Lords love to him, as the Name ſignifies: or becauſe the Lord commanded him to do ſo.

26 And Joab fought againſt Rabbah of the children of Ammon, and took the royal city x.

x i. e. That part of the City where was the Kings Palace where he ordinarily reſided; though now it ſeems he was retired to a ſtrong Fort.

27 And Joab ſent meſſengers to David and ſaid, I have fought againſt Rabbah, and have taken the city of waters y.

y The ſame Royal City ſo called, becauſe it either ſtood beſide the River, or was encompaſſed with Water, both for defence and delight. Although the words are by ſome Learned Men rendred thus, I have taken, or intercepted, or cut off water from the city. Which well agrees, both with the words, eth being here put for meeth, which is frequent; as Gen. 4. 1. and 44. 4. Exod. 9. 29, &c. and with the Relation of Joſephus the Jew, who ſaith, The Conduits of Water were cut off, and ſo the City was taken; And with a Relation of Polybius concerning the ſame city, which was taken afterwards by Antiochus in the ſame manner, by cutting off Water from the city.

28 Now therefore, gather the reſt of the people together, and encamp againſt the city, and take it z: leſt I take the city, and † it be called after my name a.

† Heb. my name be called upon it.

z For having taken one part of the city, he concluded the remaining part of it could not long ſtand out. a Leſt I have the Honour of taking it. Thus he ſeeks to engratiate himſelf with the King, by pretending great care for his Honour and Intereſt.

29 And David gathered all the people together b: and went to Rabbah: and fought againſt it, and took it.

b Either becauſe Joab needed more help for the Storming of the city: or, at leaſt, for the Proſecution of the Victory, and Execution of Juſtice upon the whole Land: or becauſe he would have them all to partake of the ſpoil of the City,

City, which was there in great abundance, ver. 30. the rather because they were all exposed to the hazard of utter Ruine, in case the Ammonites had prevailed against them.

* 1 Chr. 20. 2. 30 * And he took their kings crown from off his head, (the weight whereof was a talent of gold c, with the precious stones) and it was set on Davids head: and he brought forth the spoil of the city † in great abundance.

c Or rather, the price whereof, &c. For as the Hebrew Shekel signifies both a Weight, and a piece of Money of a certain price; so also may mishkal, as proceeding from the same Root. And in general, the same Words both in Hebrew, Greek, and Latin, are promiscuously used, to signifie either Weight, or Price; as is well known to the Learned. And the addition of precious stones, which are never valued by the Weight of Gold, makes this signification here most proper, and probable. Moreover, the Weight might seem too great either for the King of Ammon, or for David to wear it upon his Head. Although, if this were meant of the Weight, it might be said, that this was not a Crown to be worn ordinarily, but meerly to be put on upon the Kings Head at his Coronation, or upon Solemn occasions, as here where this was done, in token of the Translation of this Kingdom to David; and, it may be, it was held up, or supported by two Officers of State, that it might not be too burdensome to him, and after a little while taken off.

31 And he brought forth the people that were therein d, and put them under saws e, and under harrows of iron, and under axes of iron f, and made them pass through the brick-kiln g: and thus did he unto all the cities of the children of Ammon. So David and all the people returned unto Jerusalem.

d The words are indefinite, and therefore not necessarily to be understood of all the people; for it had been Barbarous to use Women and Children thus; but of the Men of War, and especially, of those who had been the chief Actors or Abettors of that Villanous Action against Davids Ambassadors, which was contrary to the Law of Nature, and of Nations, and of all Humanity, and of the Dreadful War ensuing upon it; for which, they might seem to deserve the severest Punishments. Although indeed there seems to have been too much Rigor used; especially, because these dreadful Deaths were inflicted not only upon those great Counsellors, who were the only Authors of that vile Usage of the Ambassadours; but upon a great number of the People who were Innocent from that Crime. And therefore it is probably conceived, That David exercised this Cruelty whilst his Heart was hardned, and impenitent; and when he was bereaved of that free and good Spirit of God, which would have taught him more Mercy and Moderation. e He Sawed them to Death: of which Punishment, we have Examples both in Scripture, Heb. 11. 37. and in other Authors. f He caused them to be laid down upon the Ground, and torn by sharp Iron Harrows drawn over them; and hewed in pieces by keen Axes. g i. e. To be burnt in Brick-kilns. Or, made them to pass through the furnace of Malcheu: i. e. of Moloch, called also Milchom, and here Malchen; punishing them with their own Sin, and with the same kind of Punishment which they Inflicted upon their own Children: See 2 King. 16. 3. and 23. 10. and Levit. 18. 21. and 20. 2. and Deut. 18. 10.

CHAP. XIII.

AND it came to pass after this, that Absalom the son of David had a fair sister a, whose name was Tamar: and Amnon the son of David loved her.

a His Sister by Father and Mother: See 2 Sam. 3. 3.

2 And Amnon was so vexed, that he fell sick b for his sister Tamar, for she was a virgin c, and † Amnon thought it hard for him to do any thing to her.

† Heb. it was marvellous, or hidden in the eyes of Amnon.

b The Passion of his Mind disturbed his Body, as is usual. c And therefore diligently kept, so as he could not get private converse with her; and withal Modest, and abhorring any compliance with his Lustful Desires, both from her Inclination and Interest.

3 But Amnon had a friend whose name was Jonadab, the son of Shimeah d, Davids brother: and Jonadab was a very † subtil man.

d Called also Shammah, 1 Sam. 16. 9.

4 And he said unto him, Why art thou, being the kings son, † lean from † day to day e? wilt thou not tell me f? And Amnon said unto him, I love Tamar my brother Absaloms sister.

e Heb. from morning to morning: for, whereas in the Day he had many Diversions, and Refreshments; in the Night he was pester'd with tormenting Thoughts and Passions; the Effects whereof appeared in his Countenance in the Morning. f Thy sure Friend and faithful Servant, who am ready to advise and assist thee.

5 And Jonadab said unto him, Lay thee down on thy bed, and make thy self sick: and when thy father cometh to see thee, say unto him, I pray thee, let my sister g Tamar come, and give me meat, and dress the meat in my sight, that I may see it, and eat it at her hand h.

g So he calls her, to prevent the suspition of any dishonest Design upon so near a Relation, whom neither Nature, nor Respect and Affection would permit him to Vitiate. h Pretending, that his Stomach was so nice, that he could Eat nothing but what he saw dressed, and that by a Person whom he much affected.

6 So Amnon lay down, and made himself sick: and when the king was come to see him, Amnon said unto the king, I pray thee, let Tamar my sister come, and make me a couple of cakes in my sight, that I may eat at her hand.

7 Then David sent home to Tamar, saying, Go now to thy brother Amnons house, and dress him meat i.

i It is strange, that so wise and sagacious a Person, as David, did not see through so vain a pretence: but that must be ascribed partly to the Instincts of Nature, which generally preserve near Relations from such Monstrous Actions; and partly to Gods Providence, which blinded Davids Mind, that he might bring upon him the designed and threatned Judgments.

8 So Tamar went to her brother Amnons house, (and he was laid down k) and she took ‖ flour, and kneaded it, and made cakes in his sight, and did bake the cakes.

‖ Or, Paste.

k Upon his Bed, or rather his Couch.

9 And she took a pan, and poured them out l before him, but he refused to eat. And Amnon said, Have out all men from me: and they went out every man from him.

l Out of the Frying-pan into the Dish.

10 And Amnon said unto Tamar, Bring the meat into the chamber m, that I may eat of thine hand. And Tamar took the cakes which she had made, and brought them into the chamber to Amnon her brother.

m An inner chamber: either 1. That wherein he lay sick upon his Bed, where also Tamar made the cakes in his sight, who then carried them out into the next Room, to bring them in again when he called for them. Or rather, 2. Another chamber. Amnon lying upon his couch in one chamber where the company were with him, where also she made the cakes before him, first sendeth all out of that Room, and then riseth from his couch, and, upon some pretence, goes into another secret chamber, where he might have the better opportunity for his intended Wickedness.

11 And when she had brought them unto him to eat, he took hold of her, and said unto her, Come lie with me my sister.

12 And she answered him, Nay, my brother n, do not † force me o: for * † no such thing ought to be done in Israel p; do not thou this folly.

n Whom Nature both teacheth to abhor such thoughts, and obligeth to defend me from such a Mischief with thy utmost hazard, if another should attempt it. o Thou shouldest abhor it, if I were willing; but to add Violence to thy Filthiness, is Abominable. p Among Gods People who are taught better things; who also will be infinitely Reproached for such a base Action.

13 And I, whither ſhall I cauſe my ſhame to go q? And as for thee, thou ſhalt be as one of the fools in Iſrael r: now therefore I pray thee, ſpeak unto the king, for he will not withhold me from thee ſ.

q How can I either endure or avoid the ſhame and reproach of it? r i. e. Loathſome and contemptible to all the people, whereas now thou art in great Reputation, and Heir Apparent of the Crown. ſ This ſhe ſpake, either becauſe ſhe did not underſtand, or not remember that the Law of God prohibited ſuch Marriages between a Brother and his half-Siſter: or, becauſe ſhe thought her Royal Father could or would diſpenſe with it, upon this extraordinary occaſion, to ſave his firſt-born Sons life: or, that by this pretence ſhe might free her ſelf from her preſent and moſt urgent danger, knowing ſhe ſhould have opportunity enough to prevent other miſchiefs.

14 Howbeit, he would not hearken unto her voice: but being ſtronger than ſhe, forced her, and lay with her.

15 ¶ Then Amnon hated her † exceedingly ſ, ſo that the hatred wherewith he hated her, was greater than the love wherewith he had loved her: and Amnon ſaid unto her, Ariſe, be gone.

ſ Partly, becauſe his Luſt being now ſatisfied, his mind and conſcience had a true and clear proſpect, and deep ſenſe of the Natural turpitude and baſeneſs of the action, and of that ſhame, and contempt, and loſs, and miſchief, which was likely to follow it, and conſequently an utter averſion from her who had been the inſtrument and occaſion of his ſin; and principally, by the juſt Judgment of God both upon Amnon and David, that ſo the ſin might be made publick, and way made for the ſucceeding Tragedies: for otherwiſe it would probably produce Love and Kindneſs to her, as it did in another, Gen. 34. 2, 3. eſpecially in him, whom both Nature, and Intereſt, and even Luſt it ſelf, obliged to allay her grief and ſhame, by all poſſible demonſtrations of kindneſs.

‖ To wit, given thee by me. t This ſhe might truly ſay, becauſe though the other was in it ſelf a greater ſin, yet this was an act of greater inhumanity and barbarous cruelty, and a greater wrong and calamity to her (which ſhe means by evil) becauſe it expoſed her to publick infamy and contempt, as if ſhe had been an impudent Strumpet, and had either enticed him to the ſin, or at leaſt conſented to it; and beſides, it turned a private offence into a publick ſcandal, to the great diſhonour of God and of his people Iſrael, and eſpecially of all the Royal Family, and was likely to cauſe direful paſſions and breaches, and miſchiefs among them.

17 Then he called his ſervant that miniſtred unto him, and ſaid, Put now this woman out from me, and bolt the door after her.

18 And ſhe had a garment of divers colours u upon her: for with ſuch robes were the kings daughters that were virgins, apparelled. Then his ſervant brought her out, and bolted the door after her.

u Of Embroidered work. Compare Gen. 37. 3.

19 ¶ And Tamar put aſhes on her head, and rent her garment x of divers colours that was on her, and laid her hand on her head y, and went on, crying z.

x To ſignifie her grief for ſome Calamity which had befallen her, and what that was, concurring circumſtances did eaſily diſcover. y In token of grief and ſhame, as if ſhe were unable and aſhamed to ſhew her face. See Jer. 2. 37. z To manifeſt her abhorrency of the Fact, and that it was not done by her conſent.

20 And Abſalom her brother ſaid unto her, Hath Amnon thy brother been with thee a? but hold now thy peace, my ſiſter: he is thy brother b, a i. e. Lien with thee. Behold, and imitate the modeſty of Scripture-expreſſions. b Therefore thou muſt forgive and forget the injury; therefore thy diſgracing of him will be a blot to us all: therefore thou wilſt not get right from David againſt him, becauſe he is as near and dear to him as thou: therefore thy diſhonour is the leſs, becauſe thou waſt not abuſed by any mean perſon, but by a Kings Son: therefore this Evil muſt be born, becauſe it cannot be revenged. And thus he covers his deſign of taking vengeance upon him at the firſt opportunity. c So as to torment thy ſelf. d Neglected and forſaken by others, none now ſeeking her in Marriage; and through ſhame and dejection of mind giving her ſelf up to ſolitude and retirement.

† regard not this thing c. So Tamar remained

21 ¶ But when king David heard of all theſe things, he was very wroth e.

e To wit, with Amnon: whom yet he did not puniſh, at leaſt ſo ſeverely as he ſhould: either from the conſcience of his own guilt in the like kind; or, from that fooliſh indulgence which he oft ſhewed to his Children: or, becauſe the caſe was perplexed: for if he had been put to death for the Fact, by vertue of that Law, Deut. 22. 23, 24. ſhe alſo, who was innocent, muſt have died with him, becauſe ſhe did not cry out: although indeed that Law did not reach the preſent caſe, Tamar not being betrothed to an Husband: and for the following Law concerning a Virgin not betrothed, that could have no place here: he could not force Amnon to Marry Tamar, becauſe that Marriage had been inceſtuous.

f i. e. He ſaid nothing at all to him; to wit, about that buſineſs. It is a Synecdochical expreſſion, uſed in like manner, Gen. 31. 14. He neither debated it with him, nor threatned him for it; but ſeemed willing to cover it, and paſs it by with Brotherly kindneſs. For if he had wholly forborn all diſcourſe and converſe with him, it would have raiſed great jealouſies in Amnon and David, and hindred him in his intended and deſired revenge. g Or rather, but, or though, as the Hebrew Particle, Chi, commonly ſignifies: for the following Clauſe is not added as a reaſon of the former, but by way of exception or oppoſition. Though he outwardly expreſſed no diſlike of the Fact, ye he inwardly hated him.

23 ¶ And it came to paſs after two full years ‖, that Abſalom * had ſheep ſhearers h in Baal-Hazor, which is beſides Ephraim i: and Abſalom invited all the kings ſons.

* 1 Sam. 25.4

‖ This circumſtance of time is noted, partly, as an aggravation of Abſaloms malice, which was ſo inveterate and implacable: and partly, as an act of Abſaloms policy, that both Amnon and David might more ſecurely comply with his deſires, as being now free from all ſuſpition of revenge. h According to the manner of thoſe ancient times, when Princes did not give themſelves up to ſloth and luxury, but ſpent their time and pains in ſome honeſt imployment. i Either, Firſt, The City called Ephraim, or Ephrem, Joh. 11. 54. Or, Secondly, The Tribe of Ephraim, towards or nigh unto which this place was ſcituate.

24 And Abſalom came to the king, and ſaid, Behold now, thy ſervant hath ſheep ſhearers, Let the king, I beſeech thee, and his ſervants go with thy ſervant k.

k To the Feaſt, which was uſuall upon thoſe occaſions. See Gen. 38. 12. 1 Sam. 25. 7, 11.

25 And the king ſaid to Abſalom, Nay, my ſon, let us not all now go, leſt we be chargeable unto thee. And he preſſed him l: howbeit he would not go, but bleſſed him m.

l Pretending great deſire of his preſence there, to prevent any jealouſies, which otherwiſe he thought would ariſe in the Breaſt of a King ſo wiſe and experienced, and under the expectation of Gods dreadful judgments to be inflicted upon his Family. m Diſmiſſed him with thanks for his kindneſs, and with his Fatherly bleſſing.

26 Then ſaid Abſalom, If not, I pray thee, let my brother Amnon go with us n. And the king ſaid unto him, Why ſhould he go with thee?

n For the King deſigned (as the following words ſhew) to keep him at home with him, as being his eldeſt Son, and Heir of his Kingdom: otherwiſe Abſalom would never have made particular mention of him; which now he was forced to do. Nor did this deſire of Amnons preſence want ſpecious pretences, as that ſeeing the King would not, he who was next to him might, honour him with his company; and that this might be a manifeſt and publick token of that Love and Friendſhip which was between him and his Brother, notwithſtanding the former occaſion of difference.

27 But Absalom pressed him, that he let Amnon and all the kings sons go with him o.

o It is strange that his urgent desire of Amnons company raised no suspition in so wise a King; but God blinded his mind that he might execute his Judgments upon David, and bring upon Amnon the just punishment of his lewdness.

28 ¶ Now Absalom had commanded his servants, saying, Mark ye now when Amnons heart is merry with wine p, and when I say unto you, Smite Amnon, then kill him, fear not: ‖ have not I commanded you q? be couragious, and be † valiant.

‖ Or, will ye not, since I have commanded you?

p When he least suspects, and will be most unable to prevent the evil. q I who am the Kings Son, and, when Amnon is gone, his Heir: who therefore shall easily obtain pardon for you, and will liberally reward you.

29 And the servants of Absalom did unto Amnon as Absalom had commanded: then all the kings sons arose, and every man † gat him up upon his mule r, and fled.

r Which were in use amongst the Israelites. See 1 King. 1. 33. For though they might not promote such mixed kinds of procreation, Lev. 19. 19. yet they might use Creatures so engendered.

30 ¶ And it came to pass, while they were in the way, that tidings came to David, saying, Absalom hath slain all the kings sons s, and there is not one of them left.

s Which was not improbable, when the Sword was once drawn among them, and one of them killed, which might provoke the rest to draw their Swords both to defend themselves, and to revenge their Brothers death, and thereby occasion the death of all. And God suffered this false report to be spread for Davids greater terror and humiliation, that he who had formerly rejoyced in the tidings of Uriahs Death, might now be tormented with the report of the Death of all his Sons.

31 Then the king arose, and tare his garments, and lay on the earth, and all his servants stood by with their clothes rent.

32 And Jonadab the son of Shimeah, Davids brother t, answered and said, Let not my lord suppose that they have slain all the young men the kings sons: for Amnon onely is dead: for by the † appointment u of Absalom this hath been ‖ determined, from the day that he forced his sister Tamar.

t A man of great craft and subtilty, and one that had exact knowledge of Amnons fact, and of Absalons temper. u Or, by the command, Heb. mouth, put for command, Numb. 3. 16. x It was resolved from that time in his Breast: but the word of command was not then given to others; for that would probably have hindred his design. But all this he seems to have spoken from a probable conjecture, rather than of certain knowledge, as appears by the sequel.

33 Now therefore let not my lord the king take the thing to heart, to think that all the kings sons are dead: for Amnon only is dead.

34 But Absalom fled y. And the young man that kept the watch lift up his eyes, and looked, and behold, there came much people by the way of the hill-side behind him z.

y He who had undertaken to defend his Servants, flies for his own life. z Behind the watch-man: for it seems they did not come in the direct Road, where the watchman looked for them, but (for some reason or fancy they had) fetched a compass, and come that way which he least expected them.

35 And Jonadab said unto the king, Behold, the kings sons come: † as thy servant said, so it is.

36 And it came to pass as soon as he had made an end of speaking, that behold, the kings sons came, and lift up their voice and wept: and the king also and his servants wept † very sore.

37 ¶ But Absalom fled, and went to Talmai, the son of ‖ Ammihud king of Geshur *: and David mourned for his son every day.

‖ Or, Ammihur.

* His Mothers Father, 2 Sam. 3. 3. that he might have present protection and sustenance from him; and that by his mediation he might obtain his Fathers pardon and favour.

38 So Absalom fled, and went to Geshur, and was there three years.

39 And the soul of king David ‖ longed to go forth unto Absalom *: for he was comforted concerning Amnon, seeing he was dead.

* To wit, to visit him, or to send for him. And thus this word, the Soul, is here understood, partly, from the Hebrew Verb, which being of the Feminine Gender, agrees not with David, but with Davids Soul; and partly, by comparing this with other places, where the same Verb is used, and the Soul expressed, as Psal. 16. 2. and 119. 81. But as this supplement may seem too bold, so this version seems not so well to agree with that Phrase of going out to Absalom; for David neither desired nor intended to go out to Absalom, but that Absalom should come home to him. And these words may be, and are otherwise rendred, by the most ancient and remarkable Interpreters to this purpose, And King David made an end of going out (to wit, in an Hostile manner, as that Verb is oft used, Gen. 14. 18. 2 Sam. 11. 1.) against (for so the Hebrew Particle, El, is oft used, as Jer. 34. 7. Ezek. 13. 9, 20. Amos 7. 15.) Absalom, i. e. having used some, though it is probable, but cold and remiss endeavours to pursue after Absalom, and to fetch him from his Grandfathers to receive condign punishment, he now gave over thoughts of it. Thus the same Verb, and that in the same conjugation, is used in the same manner. 1 King. 3. 1. he made an end of building. It is to be Objected, That the Hebrew Verb is of the Feminine Gender, and therefore doth not agree with King David, which is Masculine. It may be Answered, That Enallage of Genders is a most frequent Figure; and as the Masculine Gender is sometimes applied to Women when they do some manly and gallant Action, as Exod. 1. 21. so the Feminine Gender is sometimes used of Men when they shew an effeminate tenderness in their disposition; which is the case here, as some Learned Hebricians have noted.

CHAP. XIV.

NOw Joab the son of Zeruiah, perceived that the kings heart was towards Absalom a.

a He desired to see him, but was ashamed to shew kindness to one whom Gods Law and his own Conscience obliged him to punish; and wanted a fair pretence, which therefore Joab gave him.

2 And Joab sent to Tekoah b, and fetcht thence a wise woman c, and said unto her, I pray thee, feign thy self to be a mourner, and put on now mourning apparel, and anoint not thy self with oil d, but be as a woman that had a long time mourned for the dead:

b A City of Judah, 2 Chron. 11. 5, 6. One of Jerusalem was not convenient, lest the King might know the person, or search out the business. And besides, this Woman seems to be of great eminency for her Wisdom, as the following discourse manifests. c Rather than a Man, because Women can more easily express their passions, and do sooner procure pity in their miseries, and an answer to their requests. d As they used to do when they were out of a Mourning state. See Ruth 3. 3. Matth. 6. 17.

3 And come to the king, and speak on this manner unto him: so Joab put the words in her mouth.

4 ¶ And when the woman of Tekoah spake to the king, she fell on her face to the ground, and did obeisance, and said, † Help, O king.

5 And the king said unto her, What aileth thee? And she answered, I am indeed a widow-woman e, and mine husband is dead.

e One of them who most need thy compassion and assistance, and whom thou art by Gods Law obliged in a singular manner to protect and relieve.

6 And thy handmaid had two sons, and they two strove together in the field, and there was † none to part them f, but the one smote the other, and slew him g.

f And therefore there is no witness, either that he killed him, or how he killed him, whether from some sudden passion and great provocation, or in his own necessary defence, or otherwise. g As the avengers of Blood report.

7 And behold, the whole family is risen against thine handmaid, and they said, Deliver him that smote his brother, that we may kill him h, for the life of his brother whom he slew, and we will destroy the heir also i: and so they shall quench my coal which is left k, and shall not leave to my husband l neither name nor remainder † upon the earth.

h According to the Law, Numb. 35. 19. Deut. 19. 12. i So they plainly discover, that their prosecution of him was not so much from love of justice, as from a covetous desire to deprive him of the Inheritance, and to transfer it to themselves; which self-interest might justly render their Testimony suspected. Or, perhaps these words are not spoken as the express words of the prosecutors (who can hardly be thought so directly to express a sinister design) but as the Womans Inference or Comment upon what they were doing: (for this would be indeed the result of it, though they did not say so in express words) thereby to represent her case as the more deserving pity. k The poor remainder of my light and comfort, by whom alone my hopes may be revived and repaired. l She names him rather than her self, because Children bear the names of their Fathers, not of their Mothers.

8 And the king said unto the woman, Go to thine house, and I will give charge concerning thee m.

m That thy cause may be justly and truly examined, and thy Son preserved from their unjust and malicious proceedings.

9 And the woman of Tekoah said unto the king, My lord, O king, the iniquity be on me, and on my fathers house: and the king and his throne be guiltless n.

n The sense is, either, first, this, If I do not inform thee aright, and thou thereby beest drawn to give an unrighteous Sentence on my behalf, I am willing to bear the whole blame of it before God and Men; I acknowledge thou art wholly innocent in the case. Compare Gen. 27. 13. Or, Secondly, this, If through thy forgetfulness or neglect of this my just cause, my adversaries prevail and destroy my Son, my desire is, that God would not lay it to the Kings charge, but rather to me and mine, so the King may be exempted thereby. Whereby she both insinuates her great esteem of, and affection for the King, thereby winning upon him to compass her design; and withal implies, that such an omission of the Kings will bring guilt upon him; and yet most prudently and decently orders her Phrase so as not to seem to blame or threaten the King. Compare Exod. 5. 16. 2 Sam. 20. 16. This sense seems best to agree with Davids answer, which shews that she desired some further assurance of the Kings care and justice in her concern.

10 And the king said, Whosoever saith ought unto thee, bring him to me, and he shall not touch thee o any more.

o i. e. So as to hurt or molest thee, by pursuing thy Son.

11 Then said she, I pray thee, let the king remember the LORD thy God p, † that thou wouldest not suffer the revengers of blood to destroy any more q, lest they destroy my son r. And he said, As the LORD liveth, there shall not one hair of thy son fall to the earth s.

p The sense is either, first, Make mention (as this Hebrew Verb is oft rendred) of the name of the Lord thy God, to wit, in an Oath; i. e. Swear to me by God, That thou wilt protect me and my Son against the revenger of Blood. For so David did in compliance with this desire of hers. Onely she was forced to express her mind in more general and ambiguous terms, because it had been presumption and rudeness for her in plain terms to desire the Kings Oath, as if she durst not trust his word; yet withal she insinuates her meaning so plainly, that the King understood it; and yet so handsomly and elegantly, that the King was much pleased with her Wisdom, and thereby inclined to grant her Request. Or, Secondly, this, Remember the Gracious nature of thy God, who is not too severe and rigorous to mark all that is amiss, nor doth cut off every manslayer, as appears from Numb. 35. and from the Example of Cain, and from thy self, O King: though this she expresseth not, but onely useth such words which she knew would give so wise and good a King occasion to reflect upon himself and upon the goodness of God in sparing him, though a wilful Murtherer, that thereby he might be obliged to imitate God, in sparing the person whom she designed. Or, Thirdly, this, Remember the Lord, in whose presence thou hast made me this promise, and who will be a witness against thee, if thou breakest it. q Heb. lest the avenger of blood multiply to destroy. i. e. lest they cause one destruction to follow another, and add my surviving Son to him who is slain already. Or, lest thou dost multiply avengers of blood to destroy, i. e. lest by thy connivance at their cruel and malicious proceedings against my Son, thou dost encourage Avengers of Blood to the like furious practices, and thereby increase the number of that sort of men, and upon that pretence occasion multitudes of murthers. r Or, and let them not destroy my Son; the Future Tense being put for the Imperative Mood, as is frequent. s i. e. He shall not suffer the least dammage. We have the same Phrase used 1 Sam. 14. 45. 1 King. 1. 52. Act. 27. 34. Compare Matth. 10. 30.

12 Then the woman said t, Let thine handmaid, I pray thee, speak one word unto my lord the king. And he said, Say on:

t Having obliged the King by his Oath in her supposed case, she now throws off the vail, and begins to apply this parable to the Kings and Kingdoms present case.

13 And the woman said, Wherefore then hast thou thought such a thing against the people of God u? for the king doth speak this thing as one which is faulty x, in that the king doth not fetch home again his banished y.

u If thou wouldst not permit the Avengers of Blood to molest me, or to destroy my Son, who are but two persons; how unreasonable is it that thou shouldst proceed in thy indeavours to avenge Amnons blood upon Absalom, whose death would be highly injurious and grievous to the whole Commonwealth of Israel, all whose eyes are upon him as the Heir of the Crown, and a wise, and valiant, and amiable person, unhappy onely in this one act of killing Amnon, which was done upon an high and hainous provocation, and whereof thou thy self didst give the occasion by permitting Amnon to go unpunished? x By thy Word, and Promise, and Oath given to me for my Son, thou condemnest thy self for not allowing the same equity towards thy own Son. y To wit, Absalom, from that Heathenish Countrey, where he is in evident danger of being infected with their Idolatry and other vices: which is likely to be a great and publick mischief to all thy people, if he come to Reign in thy stead, which he is very likely to do. It is true, there was a considerable disparity between her Sons, and Absaloms case, the one being a rash and sudden action, the other a deliberate and premeditated Murther; but that may seem to be balanced in some measure; partly, by Amnons great and lasting provocation; and principally, by the vast difference between a private injury, which was her case, and a publick calamity and grievance, which she affirmed, and the King easily believed was Absaloms case: And what David said in the case of Joabs murther of Abner, That he could not Revenge it, because the Sons of Zeruiah were too hard for him, 2 Sam. 3. 39. the like peradventure might have been said in this case, where the Peoples hearts may seem to have been universally and vehemently set upon Absalom, and the rather, because his long banishment moved their pity, and his absence made him more desirable, as it frequently happens among people; and therefore it might really be out of the Kings power to punish him; and so he might seem to be obliged to spare him for the common safety of his whole Kingdom.

14 For we must needs die z, and are as water spilt on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again a: ‖ neither doth God respect any person b, yet doth he devise means, that his banished be not expelled from him c.

‖ Or, because God hath not taken away his life, he hath also devised means, &c.

z Heb. In dying we shall die, i. e. we shall certainly and suddenly die all of us, both thou, O King, who therefore art obliged to take due care of thy Successor, who is Absalom; and Absalom, who, if he do not die by the hand of Justice, must shortly die by the necessity of Nature: and Amnon too must have died in the common way of all flesh, if Absalom had not cut him off. Therefore, O King, be not implacable towards Absalom for nipping a Flower a little before its time of fading, and restore him to us all before he die in a strange Land. a Which is quickly drunk up and buried in the Earth, and cannot be recovered. b To wit, so far as to exempt him from this common Law of dying. But this version seems not to agree with the Scripture Phrase: for the accepting of a person is never to my knowledge expressed in Hebrew by Nasa Nephesh, which is the Phrase here, but but by Nasa Panim, every where. The words therefore may be rendred either thus: yet God will not take away, or doth not use to take away (the Future Tense oft noting a continued act, as Hebricians observe) the soul, or souls, or lives of men, to wit, by violence. God doth not severely and instantly cut off offenders, but suffer them to live till they die by the course of Nature; and therefore so should'st thou do too. Or, rather thus: yet God hath not taken away his soul or life, the Pronoun, his, being understood here, as it is in many other places, and as being easily supplied out of the context. So the sense is, God hath hitherto spared him, and did not suffer his Brethren to kill him, as in reason might have been expected; nor hath God himself yet cut him off for his Murther, as he oft doth with persons who are out of the Magistrates reach; but hath hitherto preserved him even in a Heathenish Land. All which are intimations that God would have him spared. c Or, but hath devised means, &c. i. e. hath given Laws to this purpose, That the manslayer who is banished should not always continue in banishment, but upon the High-Priests death return to his own City. Whereby he hath shewed his pleasure, that the Avenger of Blood should not implacably persist in seeking revenge, and that the manslayer should be spared. Or rather, thus, but thinketh thoughts, or, but hath designed, or, therefore he intendeth that he who is banished (to wit, Absalom) be not (always) expelled or banished from him, i. e. from God and from his People, and from the place of his Worship, but that he should return home to him. So the sense is, That God by sparing Absaloms life in the midst of dangers, did sufficiently intimate, that he would in due time bring him back to his Land and People. Even as in our Days and Land, Gods miraculous preservation of the Life of our present Sovereign in so many and great dangers, was a pledge and presage that God intended sooner or later to restore him to his Kingdoms.

15 Now therefore that I am come to speak of this thing unto my lord the king, it is because the people have made me afraid d: and thy handmaid said e, I will now speak unto the king; it may be that the king will perform the request of his handmaid.

d The truth is, I was even forced to this bold Address to thee, by the disposition and condition of thy people, who are discontented at Absaloms perpetual banishment, and full of fears; either lest, upon thy Death, which none knoweth how soon it may happen, they should be involved in a Civil War about thy Successor; or lest, in the mean time, if Absalom by his Father-in-laws assistance invade the Land, and indeavour by force to regain and secure his right to the Succession, the people, who have a great opinion of him, and kindness for him, and think he is very hardly used, should take up Arms for him; or lest he who is thy Heir and Successor should by continual and familiar conversation with Heathens, be insnared in their Errors, or alienated from the true Religion and from Gods Worship, from which he is now utterly excluded. e Or, therefore thy handmaid said, either, within my self, i. e. I intended: or, to the people, to quiet them.

16 For the king will hear f, to deliver his handmaid out of the hand of the man g that would destroy me and my son h together out of the inheritance of God i:

f For I know the King is so wise and just, that I assure my self of Audience and Acceptation. Which expectation of hers is cunningly insinuated here, that the King might conceive himself obliged to answer it, and not to disappoint her hope, nor to forfeit that good opinion which his Subjects now had of him. g To grant my request concerning my Son, and consequently the peoples Petition concerning Absalom. h Implying that her life was bound up in the life of her Son, and that she could not out-live his Death; (and supposing, it is like, that it might be Davids case also, and would therefore touch him in a tender part, though it were not proper to say it expresly): and thereby suggesting, that the tranquillity, safety, and comfort of the people of Israel, depended upon Absaloms Restitution, and the settlement of the Succession in him. i i. e. Out of that Inheritance which God hath given to me and mine: or, out of that Land which God gave to his people to be their Inheritance and Possession, and in which alone God hath settled the place of his Presence and Worship. Whereby she intimates the danger of Absaloms living in a state of separation from God, and his House, and amongst Idolaters.

17 Then thine handmaid said, The word of my lord the king shall now be † comfortable k: for as an angel of God l, so is my lord the king † to discern good and bad m: therefore n the LORD thy God will be with thee o.

k I doubt not the King will give a gracious and satisfactory Answer to my Petition. l To wit, in Wisdom, and Justice, and Goodness. m To hear and judge of Causes and Requests, whether they be just and good, and fit to be granted, as mine is; or unrighteous and unreasonable, and fit to be rejected. So she intimates her confidence in the Justice of her Cause, and thereby confirms the King in his purpose and promise to grant her Request, and withal arms the King against the suggestions of them who should advise him to a rigorous execution of Gods Law against Absalom, and be ready to censure him for restoring Absalom, and this for want of that Angelical Wisdom which the King had, who wisely considered many things far above their reach. n Because thou art so wise, and just, and pitiful, and gracious to those who in strict Justice deserve punishment. o God will own and stand by thee in this thy act of Grace: or, God will prosper thee in thy enterprizes: or, at least, not be offended with thee.

18 Then the king answered and said unto the woman, Hide not from me, I pray thee, the thing that I shall ask thee. And the woman said, Let my lord the king now speak.

19 And the king said, Is not the hand of Joab with thee in all this p? And the woman answered and said, As thy soul liveth, my lord the king, none can turn to the right hand, or to the left, from ought that my lord the king hath spoken q: for thy servant Joab he bade me, and he put all these words in the mouth of thine handmaid r:

p Hast thou not said and done this by Joabs direction and contrivance? q As the King is so wise that no man can deceive him by any turnings or windings to the right or left hand, but he quickly searcheth out the truth in every thing; so (it is a folly to dissemble, or go about to conceal it) it is even so thou hast now discovered the truth of this business. r To wit, for the scope and substance of them, but not as to all the expressions which she used, for these were to be varied as the Kings answer gave occasion, which also she did with singular prudence.

20 To fetch about this form of speech s hath thy servant Joab done this thing: and my lord is wise, according to the wisdom of an angel of God, to know all things that are in the earth t.

s i. e. To propose mine, and his, and the peoples desire of Absaloms restitution in this parabolical manner, in mine, and my Sons person. t Or, in this Land, in all thy Kingdom; all the counsels and devices of thy Subjects, which have any relation to thee or thy affairs.

21 ¶ And the king said unto Joab, Behold now, I have done this thing u: go therefore, bring the young man x Absalom again.

u In compliance with thy desire: although in truth it was according to his own desire. He overlooks the Woman in this grant, because she was but Joabs Instrument in it. x By which expression he mitigates his Crime, as being an act of youthful heat, and folly, and rashness.

22 And Joab fell to the ground on his face, and bowed himself, and † thanked the king: and Joab said, To day thy servant knoweth that I have found grace in thy sight, my lord, O king, in that the king hath fulfilled the request of ‖ his servant y.

y i. e. Restored Absalom at my Request. Whereby Joab thought to establish himself for ever, and that he should be both the Fathers and the Sons favourite. Quest. Whether David did well in granting this Request? Answ. Although there be some circumstances which in part extenuate Davids fault herein, as Amnons high provocation of Absalom; Absaloms being out of the reach of Davids Justice, where also he could and would have kept himself, if David had not promised him impunity; the extream danger of Absaloms infection by Heathenish Principles and Practises; the safety of Davids Kingdom, which seemed to depend upon the Establishment of the Succession, and that upon Absalom, to whom the hearts of the people were so universally and vehemently inclined, if the matter was really so, and not pretended or magnified by the art of this subtil Woman; yet it seems most probable that David was faulty herein, because this action was directly contrary to the expres Laws of God, which strictly command the Supreme Magistrate to execute Justice upon all wilful Murtherers, without any reservation, Gen. 9. 6. Numb. 35. 30, 31. And David had no power to dispence with Gods Laws, nor to spare any whom God commanded him to destroy: for the Laws of God did bind the Kings and Rulers, as well as the people of Israel, to observe and obey them, as is most evident from Deut. 17. 18, 19. and from Jos. 1. 8. and many other places. And indeed we may read Davids sin in the Glass of those tremendous Judgments of God which befel him, by means of his indulgence to Absalom. For although Gods Providences be in themselves no Rule to judge of the good or evil of Mens actions; yet where they comply with Gods word, and accomplish his threatnings, as here they did, they are to be taken for the tokens of Gods displeasure.

23 So Joab arose and went to Geshur, and brought Absalom to Jerusalem.

24 And the king said, Let him turn to his own house, and let him not see my face z. So Absalom returned to his own house, and saw not the kings face.

z Lest whilst he shewed some mercy to Absalom, he should seem to approve of his sin, and thereby wound his own Conscience, and lose his honour, and encourage him and others to such like attempts; and that by this means Absalom might be drawn to a more thorough humiliation and true Repentance.

25 ¶ † But in all Israel there was none to be so much praised as Absalom for his beauty a: from the sole of his foot even to the crown of his head, there was no blemish in him.

a This is here noted as the occasion of his Pride and insolency, and of the Peoples Affections to him, and consequently of the following Rebellion.

26 And when he polled his head, (for it was at every years end that he polled it: because the hair was heavy on him, therefore he polled it) he weighed the hair of his head at two hundred shekels b, after the kings † weight.

b Whereas ordinarily the hair of a mans head which grows in a years space, comes not to half so much. But some Mens hair grows much faster, and is much heavier than others. But others understand this not of the weight, but of the price of his hair which was sold by him that Polled it at that rate.

27 And unto Absalom there were born three sons c and one daughter, whose name was Tamar d: she was a woman of a fair countenance.

c All which died not long after they were born, as may be gathered from chap. 18. 18. where it is said, that Absalom had no son. d So called from her Aunt, chap. 13. 1.

28 ¶ So Absalom dwelt two full years in Jerusalem, and saw not the kings face.

29 Therefore Absalom sent for Joab, to have sent him to the king e, but he would not come to him: and when he sent again the second time, he would not come f.

e That by his mediation he might be admitted into the Kings favour and presence. f Partly, because perceiving Davids affections to be cold to Absalom, he would not venture his own Interest for him, especially in desiring that which he feared he should be denied; partly, lest by interceeding further for Absalom, he should revive the remembrance of his former Murther, and meet with the reproach of one Murtherers interceding for another; and partly, because by converse with Absalom, he observed his temper to be such, that if once he were fully restored to the Kings favour, he would not onely eclipse and oppose Joabs interest and power with the King, but also attempt high things, not without danger to the King and Kingdom, as it happened.

30 Therefore he said unto his servants, See, Joabs field is † near mine, and he hath barley there; go and set it on fire g: and Absaloms servants set the field on fire.

g That Joab may be forced to come to me to complain of, and demand reparation for this injury.

31 Then Joab arose and came to Absalom unto his house, and said unto him, Wherefore have thy servants set my field on fire?

32 And Absalom answered Joab, Behold, I sent unto thee, saying, Come hither that I may send thee to the king, to say, Wherefore am I come from Geshur? It had been good for me to have been there still b: now therefore let me see the kings face: and if there be any iniquity in me, let him kill me i.

b Rather than here, because my estrangement from him now when I am so near to him, is both more grievous and more shameful to me. But the truth of the business was this, Absalom saw that his Father had accomplished his design in bringing him thither, having satisfied both his own Natural affection, and his peoples desire of Absaloms return from banishment; but that he could not without restitution into the Kings presence and favour compass his design, i. e. confirm and improve that interest which he saw he had in the peoples hearts. i For it is better for me to die, than to want the sight and favour of my dear Father. Thus he insinuates himself into his Fathers affections, by pretending such Respect and Love to him. It seems that by this time Absalom having so far recovered his Fathers favour, as to be recalled, he began to grow upon him, and to take so much confidence as to stand upon his own justification, as if what he had done, had been no iniquity, at least not such as to deserve death. For so much this speech intimates.

33 So Joab came to the king, and told him: and when he had called for Absalom, he came to the king, and bowed himself on his face to the ground before the king: and the king kissed Absalom k.

k In testimony of his thorough Reconciliation to him. Which Absalom did very ill requite, as the next Chapter manifests.

CHAP. XV.

AND it came to pass after this, that Absalom * prepared him charets, and horses, and fifty men to run before him a.

* 1 King. 1. 5.

a As being the Kings eldest Son, now Amnon was dead; for Chileab, who was his eldest Brother, 2 Sam. 3. 3. was either dead or manifestly uncapable of the Government. And this course he knew would draw the eyes and minds of people to him, and make them conclude that David intended him for his Successor.

2 And Absalom rose up early b, and stood beside the way of the gate c: and it was so, that when any man that had a controversie, † came to the king for judgment, then Absalom called unto him d, and said, Of what city art thou e? And he said, Thy servant is of one of the tribes of Israel f.

b Thereby making a shew of Self-denial, and diligence, and sollicitude for the good of the Publick, and of every private Person, as he had opportunity. c Either, First, Of the Kings Palace. Or rather, Secondly, Of the City, for that was the place of Judicature or Judgment, for which these Men came. d Preventing him with the offers of his Assistance. e As if he were ready to make particular enquiry into the state of his cause. f Or rather, of one City (which word is easily understood out of the foregoing question) of the tribes of Israel, i. e. of an Israelitish City, either this, or that; of such or such a City.

3 And Absalom said unto him, See, thy matters are good and right g: but ‖ there is no man deputed of the king to hear thee h.

‖ Or, none will hear thee from the King downward.

g Upon some very slight hearing of their case, he approved it, that he might oblige all. h To wit, none such as will do thee Justice. The other Sons and Relations of the King, and the rest of the Judges and Rulers under him and them, are wholly corrupted, and swayed by favour or bribes; or, at least not careful and diligent as they should be: and my Father being grown in years, is negligent of publick affairs, leaving them wholly to their conduct.

4 Absalom said moreover, O that I were made judge in the land i, that every man k which hath any suit or cause, might come unto me, and I would do him justice.

i For the King had onely restored Absalom to favour, but thought not fit to put him into any place of Power and Trust. k I should refuse no man, and decline no pains to do any man good. So he pretends to a very publick spirit.

5 And it was so, that when any man came nigh nigh to him, to do him obeisance, he put forth his hand, and took him and kissed him l.

l Putting on the Garb of singular humanity and good will to all men. For that seems to have been a Ceremony, in frequent use in those times, of shewing respect, as pulling off the hat, and bowing, or imbracing, is at this day with us.

6 And on this manner did Absalom to all Israel, that came to the king for judgment: so Absalom stole the hearts of the men of Israel m.

m i. e. He secretly and subtilly undermined his Father, and robbed his Father of the good opinions and affections of his people, that he might gain them to himself, by such insinuations into their affections, by his plausible and over-civil carriage.

7 ¶ And it came to pass after forty years n, that Absalom said unto the king, I pray thee, let me go, and pay my vow o which I have vowed unto the LORD in Hebron p.

n Quest. Whence are these to be computed? Answ. Not from Absaloms Birth; for he was Born in Hebron some considerable time after David had begun his Reign, 2 Sam. 3. 3. much less from the time of his Vow made, or of his return from Banishment: but, either, First, From the time of Davids Election or Designation to the Kingdom, 1 Sam. 16. 13. Or, Secondly, From the beginning of Sauls Reign: which being a Solemn time, and observable for the change of the Government in Israel, might very fitly be made an Epocha, from which the computation or account of times begin; as the Greeks and Romans began their accounts in the same manner, and upon the same ground. Or rather, Thirdly, From the beginning of Davids Reign, who Reigned forty Years; and so the words may be rendred, about or towards the end of forty years, i. e. in the beginning of the fortieth Year. And so this very Phrase is used, Deut. 15. 1. At the end of every seven years, i. e. in the seventh Year, even from the beginning of it, as is manifest and confessed. So in a like expression, After three days will I rise again, Mark 8. 31. i. e. on the beginning of the third day, when Christ did rise, the number of three days being then compleated when the third day is begun. And the forty Years are here expressed as one motive or inducement to Absalom to Rebel, because now his Fathers end grew near; and one of the Hebrew Doctors affirms, that there was a tradition, or rumour, or prediction, that David should Reign but forty Years. And Absalom might easily understand that David intended to decline him, and to make Solomon his Successor, as well by the conscience of his own wickedness and unfitness for so great a trust, as by that eminent Wisdom and Piety which appeared in Solomon in his tender Years, and that great Respect and Affection which his Father must needs have and manifest to him upon this account, and by that Promise and Oath given to Bathsheba concerning his Succession mentioned, 1 King. 1. 30. but made before that time, which also might come to Absaloms Ear. Against this Opinion two things are Objected: First, That David was in the time of this Rebellion a strong Man, for he Marched on Foot, ver. 30. whereas in his last Year he was very infirm and bed-rid. Secondly, That after this Rebellion was ended, divers other things happened, as the three Years Famine, 2 Sam. 21. 1. and other things following in the History. But it may be Answered to the first, That David might in the beginning of his last year have so much strength and vigor left as to March on Foot, especially when he did so humble and afflict himself, as it is apparent he did, v. 30. and yet through his tedious Marches, and the tormenting Cares, Fears, and Griefs of his Soul for Absalom, might be so strangely and suddenly impaired, as in the end of the same Year to be very feeble and bed-rid, it being a very common accident, especially in old Men, and upon extraordinary occasions, to languish and decline exceedingly, and to fall from some competent degree of health and vigour, to be very infirm and bed-rid, and that in the space of a few Months. And to the second Objection, That those Histories related chap. 21, &c. though they be placed after this Rebellion, yet indeed were done before it; the proof of which see on chap. 21. 1. For it is so confessed and evident, that things are not always placed in the same order in which they were done, that it is a Rule of the Hebrews, and approved by other Learned Men, Non datur prius & posterius in Sacris literis, that is, There is no first and last in the order of Scripture relations. And here is a plain reason for this transplacing of this History, which is allowed in other like cases, That when once the History of Tamars Rape had been mentioned, it was very fit to subjoyn the Relation of all the Mischiefs which followed upon that occasion. If any Infidel will yet cavil with this Text and number of Years, let him know, that instead of forty, the Syriack, and Arabick, and Josephus the Jew, read four years; and that it is much more rational to acknowledge an Error of the Scribe, who Copied out the Sacred Text, than upon so frivolous a ground to question the Divine Authority of the Holy Scriptures. And that some men chuse the latter way rather than the former, is an evidence that they are Infidels by the choice of their Wills, more than by the strength of their Reasons. o He pretends Piety, which he knew would please his Father, and easily procure his consent. p Which is mentioned as the place, not where the Vow was made, for that was at Geshur, v. 8. but where he intended to perform it. The pretence for which was, That he was Born in this place, 2 Sam. 3. 3. and that here was a famous High-place; and, till the Temple was built, it was permitted to Sacrifice upon the high-places.

8 For thy servant vowed a vow while I abode at Geshur in Syria, saying, If the LORD shall bring me again indeed to Jerusalem, then I will serve the LORD q.

q i. e. Worship him by the offering of Sacrifices of Thanksgiving to God for restoring me to the place of his presence and service, and to my Fathers favour, But why should not this service have been performed at Sion, or at Gibeon? Here was some ground of suspition; but God blinded Davids eyes, that he might bring upon David and upon Absalom the Judgments which they deserved and he designed.

9 And the king said unto him, Go in peace. So he arose, and went to Hebron r.

r This place he chose as being an eminent City, and next to Jerusalem, the chief of the Tribe of Judah, and the place of his Birth, and the place where his Father began his Kingdom, which he took for a good omen, and where it is probable that he had secured many Friends, and which was at some convenient distance from Jerusalem, that his Father could not suddenly reach him.

10 ¶ But Absalom sent s spies throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying, Assoon as ye hear the sound of the trumpet t, then ye shall say, Absalom reigneth in Hebron.

s From Hebron. Or, had sent from Jerusalem, that when he went to Hebron, they should go into the several Tribes to sift the people, and to dispose them to Absaloms party, and acquaint them with his success. t Which I shall take care to have sounded in several parts by other persons; and when that is done, you shall inform them of the reason of it. Or, as soon as you understand that the Trumpet was Sounded at Hebron; partly, to call the people together for my assistance; and partly, to celebrate my Inauguration to the Kingdom, which you shall speedily know by messengers whom I shall send to you to that end.

11 And with Absalom went two hundred men out of Jerusalem, that were called u, and they went in their simplicity, and they knew not any thing x.

u Such as Absalom had pickt out as fit for his purpose, such as were of some quality and reputation with the King and People, which would give a great countenance to his undertaking, and give occasion to people at first to think that this was done by his Fathers consent or connivance, as being now aged, and infirm, and willing to resign the Kingdom to him, as his eldest Son, and the Noblest too, as being descended from a king by both Parents; and such as by their Wisdom and Interest in the People, might have done David much service in this needful time; yet such as were not very Martial men, nor likely with violence to oppose his proceedings. x Concerning Absaloms Design.

y Who is thought to have been the Author, or, at least, the fomenter of this Rebellion; either, because he was discontented with David, for which there might be many reasons; or, because he saw the Father was old and nigh his end, and he thought it best policy to worship the rising Sun, and to follow the young Prince, whom he observed to have so great an Interest in the hearts of the People, and whom he supposed he could easily manage as he pleased, which he could not do with David. z Which he did not in Devotion to God, for he neither feared God, nor reverenced Man; nor to implore Gods favour and assistance against his Father, which he knew was a vain thing to expect; but meerly that upon this pretence he might call great numbers of the people together, whereof many would come to joyn with him in the Worship of God, and most to partake of the Feasts which were made of the remainders of the Sacrifices, according to the manner.

13 ¶ And there came a messenger to David, saying, The hearts of the men of Israel are after Absalom a.

a The generality of the people are for him. Which is not strange, considering, either, first, David, whose many miscarriages had greatly lost him in the hearts of his people. Or, Secondly, The people, whose temper is generally unstable, weary of old things, and desirous of changes, and apt to expect great benefits thereby. Or, Thirdly, Absalom, whose noble Birth and singular Beauty, and most obliging Carriage, and ample Promises, had won the Peoples hearts, considering also that he was David's first-born, to whom the Kingdom of right belonged, and yet that David intended to give away his right to Solomon, which the people thought might prove the occasion of a civil and dreadful War, which hereby they designed to prevent. Or, Fourthly, The Just and Holy God, who ordered and over-ruled all these things for David's chastisement, and the instruction and terror of sinners in all future Ages.

14 And David said unto all his servants, that were with him at Jerusalem, Arise, and let us flee b: for we shall not else escape from Absalom: make speed to depart, lest he overtake us suddenly, and † bring evil upon us, and smite the city with the edge of the sword.

b For though the Fort of Zion was strong and impregnable, and he might have defended himself there; yet he had not lain in provisions for a long Siege, and, if he had been once besieged there, Absalom would have got speedy and quiet possession of his whole Kingdom; whereas if he Marched abroad, he might raise a considerable Army for his defence and the suppression of the Rebels. Besides, the greatest part of Jerusalem could not be well defended against him. And he suspected that a great number of the Citizens might take part with Absalom; and possibly deliver him up into Absalom's hands. Besides, if he had made that the seat of the War, he feared the destruction of that City, which he vehemently desired to preserve, because it was the Chief and Royal City, and the place in which God had appointed to put his Name and Worship. Moreover, when David considered, that God's hand was now against him, and that he was now bringing evil upon him out of his own house, as he had threatned, chap. 12. 11. it is no wonder if he was intimidated and disposed to flee.

15 And the kings servants said unto the king, Behold, thy servants are ready to do whatsoever my lord the king shall † appoint.

16 And * the king went forth, and all his household † after him c: and the king left ten women which were concubines d, to keep the house.

* Psal. 3. title.

c Or, on foot, by comparing ver. 30. which the King chose to do, rather than to ride; partly, to humble himself under the hand of God; partly to encourage his companions in this hard and comfortless March; and partly, to move compassion in his people towards him. d For he supposed that their Sex would protect them even among Barbarians, and their relation to David would gain them some respect, and, at least, safety from his Son. But it seems he did not now actually consider that Clause of the threatning concerning his Wives, (God diverting his mind to other things) or he thought that would be accomplished some other way, conceiving that Absalom would abhor the thoughts of such incestuous converse, especially with persons which were now grown in Years.

17 And the king went forth, and all the people after him, and tarried e in a place that was far off f.

e Either to rest and refresh themselves a little: or rather in expectation of others who should or would come after him, that they might March away in a considerable Body, which might both defend the King, and invite others to come in to their assistance. f At some convenient distance, but not very far.

18 And all his servants passed on beside him: and all the Cherethites, and all the Pelethites g, and all the Gittites h, six hundred men, which came after him from Gath, passed on before the king.

g Of whom see the notes on chap. 8. 18. h Who were either, first, Israelites by Birth, called Gittites, because they went with him to Gath, and abode with him in that Countrey. Or rather, Secondly, Strangers, as Itai their Head is called, ver. 19. and they are called his Brethren, ver. 20. and probably they were Philistines by Birth, born in the City or Territory of Gath, as the following words imply, who by Davids counsel, and example, and the success of his Arms, were won to embrace and profess the true Religion, and had given good proof of their Military Skil, and Valour, and Fidelity to the King.

19 ¶ Then said the king to Ittai the Gittite, Wherefore goest thou also with us? return to thy place i, and k abide with the king l: for thou art a stranger, and also an exile m.

i Either, First, To thy native Countrey of Gath, where thou wilst be remote from our broils. Or, Secondly, To Jerusalem, where thy settled abode now is. k Or, or: for he could not both go to Gath, and tarry in Jerusalem with Absalom. Although this part of the Verse lies otherwise in the Hebrew Text, and may be rendred thus, Return (to wit, to Jerusalem) and abide with the King (there); for thou art a stranger and exile from thy own place; or, in respect of thy own place, or, as concerning thy place, i. e. in regard of the place of thy birth and former habitation. l With Absalom, who is now made King by the choice of the people, and therefore is able to give thee that protection and encouragement which thou deservest; whereas I am in a manner deposed and unable to do for thee what I desired and intended. m Not much concerned in our affairs, and therefore not fit to be involved in our troubles.

20 Whereas thou camest but yesterday n, should I this day † make thee go up and down with us? seeing I go whither † I may o, return thou, and take back thy brethren p: * mercy and truth be with thee q.

n By which it may be gathered, that these were not the Israelitish Soldiers which went with David to Gath, and came up with him from thence to Hebron, which was above thirty years before this time, but some Proselytes which came from thence more lately. For though this word yesterday be sometimes used of a time long before past, as 2 King. 9. 26. Job 8. 9. Isa. 30. 33. yet it seems to be here restrained to a shorter compass by the following words, and by the argument here used. o I know not whither; having now no certain dwelling place. p Thy Countreymen and Soldiers the Gittites, v. 18. q Since I am now unable to recompence thy kindness and fidelity to me, my hearty prayer to God is, that he would shew to thee his Mercy, in Blessing thee with all sorts of Blessings, and his Faithfulness in making good all those Promises which he hath made, not to Israelites onely, but in and with them to all true-hearted Proselytes, such as thou art.

21 And Ittai answered the king, and said, As the LORD liveth, and as my lord the king liveth, surely in what place my lord the king shall be, whether in death or life, even there also will thy servant be.

22 And David said to Ittai, Go and pass over. And Ittai the Gittite passed over, and all his men, and all the little ones that were with him r.

r For being so deeply engaged for David, he durst not leave his little ones to Absaloms mercy.

23 And all the countrey s wept with a loud voice, and all the people passed over: the king also himself passed over the brook ‖ Kidron t, and all the people passed over toward the way of the wilderness u.

s i. e. The generality of the people by whom they passed: for it must be considered, that Absaloms Friends and Partizans were gone to him to Hebron, and the rest of the People thereabouts were either well-willers to David, or at least moved with compassion at the sad and sudden change of so great and good a King, which was able to affect an heart of stone. t Which was near Jerusalem. See Matth. 26. 36. Joh. 18. 1. u Which was between Jerusalem and Jericho.

24 ¶ And lo, Zadok also, and all the Levites were with him, bearing the ark of the covenant of God x, and they set down the ark of God y: and Abiathar went up z, until all the people had done passing out of the city.

x As a pledge of Gods presence and assistance, and that David might enquire at it upon occasion. y Either in expectation of drawing forth more people to Davids party, if not from their Loyalty to their Lawful King, yet from their Piety and Reverence to the Ark: or, that all the people might pass along, and the Ark might come in the rear of them for their safeguard and encouragement. z Either, First,

1. From the Ark which now was in the low ground, being near the Brook Kidron, to the top of the Mount of Olives, whence he had the Prospect of the City and Temple; as appears from Mark 13. 3. where he could discern when the people ceased to come out of the City after David; which when they did, he gave notice to David, that he should wait no longer, but March away and carry the Ark with him. Or, 2. From the Ark to the City, which was in an higher ground, that so he being High-Priest, might use his Authority and Interest with the People, to perswade them to do their duty, in going forth to defend and help their King against his Rebellious Son; and there he staid until all those whom he could perswade were gone forth.

25 And the king said unto Zadok, Carry back the Ark of God into the City a: if I shall find favour in the eyes of the LORD, he will bring me again, and shew me both it, and his habitation b.

a Partly, out of Care and Reverence to the Ark, which though sometimes it was, and might be carried out to a certain place; yet he might justly think unfit to carry it from place to place he knew not whither, and to expose it to all the hazards and inconveniences to which he himself was likely to be Exposed: partly out of respect to the Priests, whom by this means he thought he should expose to the Rage of Absalom, as he had before Exposed them to Saul's Fury on another occasion, 1 Sam. 22. And partly, that by this means he might have the better opportunity to search out, and to Counter-work Absaloms Plots; which was so necessary, not onely for himself, but for the defence and maintenance of the Ark, and all Gods Ordinances, and of the true Religion. b i. e. The Tabernacle which David had lately built for it, Chap. 6. 17. in which the Ark, and God, by means thereof, ordinarily dwelt. And hereby he insinuates another reason of his returning the Ark to Jerusalm, because there was the Tabernacle made for the receit of it.

26 But if he thus say, I have no delight in thee c: behold, here am I d, let him do to me as seemeth good unto him.

c I will not receive thee into my Favour, nor restore thee to thy Throne and City, and to the enjoyment of my Ark and Ordinances. d Ready to obey him, and to submit to his Will and Pleasure concerning me.

27 The king said also unto Zadok the priest e, * Art not thou a seer f? return into the city in peace g, and * your two sons with you, Ahimaaz thy son, and Jonathan the son of Abiather.

* 1 Sam. 9. 9. * See Chap. 17. 17.

e Either because Abiathar was gone from him, v. 24. and not yet returned: or because David put more confidence in Zadok. f i. e. Either 1. A Prophet, for such were called Seers, 1 Sam. 9. 9. 2 Sam. 24. 11. Amos 7. 12. And such he may be called, either because he really had the gift of Prophecy; or, because as the name of Prophets is sometimes given to those who had not Prophetical Gifts, but were onely Officers and Ministers devoted to, and employed in, Gods Worship and Service, as 1 Sam. 10. 5, &c. 1 King. 18. 4, 13. Compare 1 Chron. 25. 1, 2, 3. So it is reasonable, That the name of Seers be extended to the same Latitude; and therefore he may properly and fitly be called a Seer, as he was with, and under Abiather the Chief Governour of the House and Worship of God; who by his Office was to Instruct and direct the People in those matters, whereby he had many opportunities both of sifting out Absalom's Counsels, and of minding the People of their Duty to David, as he saw opportunity. Which sence suits well with David's Scope and Design. Or, 2. a seeing, or discerning, or observing man: for so the Hebrew Verb, raah is oft used. And this suits well with David's mind: Thou art a wise man, and therefore fit to manage this great business, which requires Prudence and Secrecy. g As men of Peace, giving over all thoughts of War, and devoting your selves entirely to God's Service.

28 See, I will tarry in the plain of the wilderness, until there come word from you to certifie me.

29 Zadok therefore and Abiathar carried the ark of God again to Jerusalem; and they tarried there.

30 and David went up by the ascent of mount Olivet, † and wept as he went up, and had his head covered, and he went bare-foot h: and all the people that was with him covered every man his head, and they went up weeping, as they went up.

h In Testimony of his deep Sorrow, and Humiliation, and Shame for his Sins, whereby he had procured this Evil to himself: for these were Habits of Mourners, 2 Sam. 19. 4. Esth. 6. 12. Isa. 20. 3, 4. Jer. 14. 3, 4. and to take an Holy Revenge upon himself for his former Delicacy and Luxury.

31 And ‖ one told David i, saying, Ahithophel is among the conspirators with Absalom. And David said, O LORD, I pray thee, turn the counsel of Ahithophel into foolishness k.

‖ Or, David told.

i Or, David told; i. e. David being hereof informed, acquaints his friends and followers with it, to stir them up to join with him, in the following Prayer against him. k Either infatuate him, that he may give foolish Counsel; or let his Counsel be rejected as foolish, or spoiled by the foolish Execution of it.

32 And it came to pass that when David was come to the top of the mount where he worshipped God l, behold, Hushai * the Archite came to meet him, with his coat rent, and ashes upon his head:

* Josh. 16. 2.

l Looking towards Jerusalem where the Ark and Tabernacle was. Compare 1 King. 8. 44, 48. Dan. 6. 10.

33 Unto whom David said, If thou passest on with me, then thou shalt be a burden unto me m:

m Increasing my Charge, and Care, and Sorrow for what may befall thee; and being but of little use to me: for it may seem he was an Old Man, and fitter for Counsel than for War.

34 But if thou return to the City and say unto Absalom, I will be thy servant, O king: as I have been thy fathers servant ‖ hitherto, so will I now also be thy servant n: then mayest thou for me defeat the counsel of Ahithophel.

n i. e. As faithful to thee, as I have been to thy Father; which he neither was, nor ought to be. And therefore, the profession of this was great dissimulation: and David's suggesting this crafty Counsel, may be reckon'd amongst his Errors: which, proceeding from a violent Temptation, and his present and pressing Straits, God was pleased mercifully to Pardon, and to direct this Evil Advice to a Good End.

35 And hast thou not there with thee Zadok, and Abiathar the priests? therefore it shall be, that what thing soever thou shalt hear out of the kings house, thou shalt tell it to Zadok, and Abiathar the priests.

36 Behold, they have there * with them o their two sons, Ahimaaz Zadoks son, and Jonathan Abiathars son: and by them ye shall send unto me every thing that ye can hear.

* Ver. 27.

o Not in Jerusalm, but in a place near to it, to which they could easily send upon occasion. See Chap. 17. 17.

37 So Hushai Davids friend came unto the city, and Absalom came into Jerusalem.

CHAP. XVI.

AND when David was a little past the top of * the hill, behold, * Ziba a the servant of Mephibosheth met him with a couple of Asses saddled, and upon them two hundred loaves of bread, and an hundred bunches of raisons, and an hundred of summer fruits, and a bottle b of wine.

* Chap. 15. 33. * Chap. 9. 2.

a A Crafty Man; who being perswaded, that God would in due time appear for the Righteous Cause of so good a King, and scatter the Cloud which was now upon him, takes this occasion to make way for his future Advancement. b A large Bottle, or Vessel proportionable to the other Provisions.

2 And the king said unto Ziba, What meanest thou by these? And Ziba said, The asses be for the kings household to ride on c, and the bread and summer fruit for the young men to eat, and the wine, that such as be faint in the wilderness may drink.

c For the King, and his Wives and Children were all on Foot; not that he had not, or could not procure Asses for them at Jerusalm; but because he chose it as best becoming that State of Penitence and Humiliation in which they were.

3 And the king said, And where is thy masters son? And Ziba said unto the king, Behold, he abideth at Jerusalem: for he said, To day shall the house of Israel restore me the kingdom of my father d.

d Which tho it might seem a very unlikely thing, yet such vain Expectations do often get into the Minds of Men; nor was it impossible, that when David's Family was thus divided, and one part ingaged against another, they might destroy themselves by mutual Wounds; and the People being tired out with Civil Wars, might Reſtore the Kingdom to the Family of Saul their old Maſter, whereof this was the top branch. And this was a time of general Defection of many whom the King had greatly obliged, witneſs Ahithophel. And Mephibosheth's abſence made the Calumny more probable.

4 Then ſaid the king to Ziba, Behold, thine are all that pertained unto Mephibosheth e. And Ziba ſaid, † I humbly beſeech thee that I may find grace in thy ſight my lord, O King f.

† Heb. I do obeiſance.

e A raſh Sentence, and unrighteous, to Condemn a Man unheard, upon the ſingle Teſtimony of his Accuſer, and Servant. But David's Mind was both clouded by the deep ſenſe of his Calamity, and byaſſed by Ziba's great and ſeaſonable kindneſs. And he might think, that Ziba would not dare to Accuſe his Maſter of ſo great a Crime, which, if falſe, might ſo eaſily be diſproved. f Thy favour is more to me, than this gift; which, as a token of thy favour, I accept with all thankfulneſs.

5 And when king David came to Bahurim g, behold, thence came out a man of the family of the houſe of Saul, whoſe name was Shimei the ſon of Gera: ‖ he came forth, and curſed ſtill as he came.

‖ Or, he ſtill came forth and curſed.

g A City in Benjamin, Chap. 3. 16. and 19. 16. i. e. To the Territory of it, for to the City he came not till v. 14.

6 And he caſt ſtones h at David, and at all the ſervants of king David: and all the people, and all the mighty men were on his right-hand, and on his left i.

h Not ſo much to hurt them, as to ſhew his Contempt of them. i Which is noted to ſhew the Prodigious Madneſs of the Man: though Rage, (which is truly ſaid to be a ſort Madneſs) and the height of Malice hath oft tranſported men to the moſt hazardous and deſperate Speeches and Actions.

7 And thus ſaid Shimei when he curſed, Come out k, come out thou † bloody man, and thou man of Belial:

k Or rather, go out, as the Word properly ſignifies. Be gone out of thy Kingdom, as thou deſerveſt.

8 The LORD hath returned upon thee all the blood of the houſe of Saul l, in whoſe ſtead thou haſt reigned, and the LORD hath delivered the kingdom into the hand of Abſalom thy ſon: and † behold, thou art taken in thy miſchief m, becauſe thou art a bloody man.

l Either, 1. The Blood of Abner, and Iſhboſheth; which he Maliciouſly impures to David, as if they had been Killed by David's contrivance: eſpecially the former, becauſe David did only give Joab hard Words, as in Policy he was obliged to do; but inſtead of Puniſhing him, did Reward and Prefer him. Or, 2. The Death of Saul's ſeven Sons, Chap. 21. 8. which though related after this ſeems to have been done before: Of which, ſee the Notes on chap. 15. 7. m The ſame Miſchief thou didſt bring upon others, is now returned upon thy own head. Or, Thy Sin hath found thee out, and thou art now receiving the juſt Puniſhment of it.

9 Then ſaid Abiſhai the ſon of Zeruiah unto the king, Why ſhould this * dead dog curſe my lord the king? let me go over, I pray thee, and take off his head.

* 1 Sam. 24. 14. Chap. 3. 8.

10 And the king ſaid, What have I to do with you n, ye ſons of Zeruiah? ſo let him curſe, becauſe the LORD hath ſaid unto him o, Curſe David. Who ſhall then ſay p, Wherefore haſt thou done ‖ ſo?

n To wit, in this Matter I ask not your Advice, nor will I follow it; nor do I deſire you ſhould at all concern your ſelves in it, but wholly leave it to me, to do what I think fit. o Not that God commanded it by his Word; for that ſeverely forbids it, Exod. 22. 28. or moved him to it by his Spirit; for neither was that neceſſary, nor poſſible, becauſe God tempteth no man, Jam. 1. 13. but that the ſecret Providence of God did order and over-rule him in it. God did not put any Wickedneſs into Shimei's heart, for he had of himſelf an heart full of Malignity and Venom againſt David; but only left him to his own Wickedneſs, took away that common Prudence which would have kept him from ſo fooliſh and dangerous an Action; directed his Malice that it ſhould be Exerciſed againſt David, rather than another man; as when God gives up one Traveller into the hands of a Robber, rather than another; inclined him to be at home, and then to come out of his doors at that time when David paſſed by him; and brought David into ſo diſtreſſed a condition, that he might ſeem a proper Object of his Scorn and Contempt. And this is ground enough for this Expreſſion, the Lord ſaid, not by the Word of his Precept, but by the Word of his Providence, in reſpect whereof he is ſaid to command the Ravens, 1 Kings 17. 4. and to ſend forth his Word and Commandment to ſenceleſs Creatures, Pſal. 147. 15, 18. p Nor unto Shimei, for it was juſtly ſaid ſo to him afterwards, 1 Kings 2. 9. but unto the Lord: who ſhall reproach Gods Providence for permitting this? Or, who ſhall by Words or Actions reſtrain him from executing Gods juſt Judgment againſt me?

11 And David ſaid to Abiſhai, and to all his ſervants, Behold, my ſon, which came forth of my bowels, ſeeketh my life q: how much more now may this Benjamite do it? let him alone, and let him curſe r: for the LORD hath bidden him.

q Which is a greater Miſchief, than to Reproach me with Words. Of that Tribe and Family from which God hath taken away the Kingdom, and given it to me; which was likely to ſtir up his Rage and Hatred againſt me. r Do not now hinder him violently from it, nor puniſh him for it. It is meet I ſhould bear the Indignation of the Lord manifeſted herein, and ſubmit to his Pleaſure, and poſſeſs my Soul with Patience; and by bearing theſe leſſer Evils, prepare my ſelf for greater, which are coming towards me.

12 It may be s that the LORD will look on mine ‖ † affliction t, and that the LORD will requite me good for his curſing this day.

s He ſpeaks doubtfully, becauſe he was conſcious, that by his Sins he had forfeited all his Claim to God's Promiſes. t With an Eye of Commiſeration.

13 And as David and his men went by the way, Shimei went along on the hills ſide over againſt him, and curſed as he went, and threw ſtones at him, and † caſt duſt u.

u Not that he could reach, or hurt him with it; but only as an expreſſion of Contempt. And the like is to be thought concerning the Stones, wherewith he could not think to reach David, when he was Encamped with his Men on every ſide.

14 And the king, and all the people that were with him, came x weary, and refreſhed themſelves there.

x To the City of Bahurim, v. 5.

15 And Abſalom and all the people, the men of Iſrael, came to Jeruſalem, and Ahithophel with them.

16 And it came to paſs when Huſhai the Archite, Davids friend, was come unto Abſalom, that Huſhai ſaid unto Abſalom, † God ſave the king y, God ſave the king.

† Heb. Let the King live.

y To wit, Abſalom, whom he pretends to own for his King, and Liege Lord.

17 And Abſalom ſaid to Huſhai, Is this thy kindneſs to thy friend z? why wenteſt thou not with thy friend?

z Doth this Action anſwer that Profeſſion of greateſt Friendſhip which thou haſt hitherto made to him? Doſt thou thus requite his Favour and true Friendſhip to thee? He ſpeaks thus only to try him. And he ſaith, thy Friend, by way of Reflection upon David; as one who was a Friend to Hushai, and to Strangers, but not to his own Son, whom by his Severity, and Deſign to give away his Right to Solomon, he provoked to this Courſe; and therefore he doth not vouchſafe to call him his Father.

18 And Huſhai ſaid unto Abſalom, Nay, but whom the LORD, and this people, and all the men of Iſrael chuſe a, his will I be, and with him will I abide.

a Though as a private perſon, I owed and payed Friendſhip to David; whileſt he was King; yet I muſt make all my Obligations give place to the Authority of God, who putteth down, and ſetteth up Kings at his pleaſure; and to the common Sence and Decree of the whole Body of the Nation. But Huſhai expreſſeth himſelf very cautiouſly; for though he would be thought to underſtand Abſalom, yet in truth this Character did not agree to him, whom neither God, nor all the People had choſen, but onely a part, and that the worſt part of them.

19 And again, whom ſhould I ſerve? ſhould I not ſerve in the preſence of his ſon b? as I have ſerved in thy fathers preſence, ſo will I be in thy preſence.

b Thou art his Son, and Heir, and Succeſſor, and now in his place and ſtead: whereby my Friendſhip which was due to him, is devolved upon thee by Right of Inheritance; and I reckon, that my Friendſhip is not wholly alienated from him, when it is transferred upon one that came out of his Bowels.

20 Then

20 Then said Absalom to Ahithophel, Give counsel among you what we shall do.

21 And Ahithophel said unto Absalom, Go in unto thy fathers concubines c, which he hath left to keep the house, and all Israel shall hear that thou † art abhorred of thy Father d, then shall the hands of all that are with thee be strong e.

c This Counsel he gave, partly to Revenge the Injury done to Bathsheba, who was the Daughter of Eliam, 2 Sam. 11. 3. who was the Son of Ahithophel, Chap. 23. 34. and principally, for his own, and the Peoples safety, that the Breach between David and Absalom might be made wide, and irreparable by so Vile an Action; which must needs provoke David in the highest Degree, both for the Sin, and shame of it; as the like Action had done Jacob, Gen. 49. 3, 4. and cut off all hopes of Reconciliation, which otherwise might have been expected by some Treaty between Absalom and his tender-hearted Father; in which Case his Followers, and especially Ahithophel himself, had been left to David's Mercy. d And therefore obliged by thy own Interest to Prosecute the War with all possible Vigor, and to abandon all thoughts of Peace: as knowing that his Father, though he might dissemble, yet would never forgive so foul and scandalous a Crime. And they will Fight with greater Courage and Resolution, when they are freed from the fear of the Reconciliation, which otherwise would make their Hearts faint, and Hands slack in thy Cause. But by this we may see the Character of Absalom's Party, and how abominably wicked they were, whom such a loathsome and Scandalous Action tied the faster to him, whom for that very reason they should have deserted and abhorred. And we may further learn, how corrupt and filthy the Body of the People was, and how ripe for that severe Judgment which is now hastening to them.

22 So they spread Absalom a tent upon the top of the house f, and Absalom * went in unto his fathers concubines g, in the sight of all Israel h.

*Chap. 12. 11.

* f To wit, of the Kings Palace, the very place from whence David had spied and gazed upon Bathsheba, Chap. 11. 2. So that his Sin was Legible in the very place of his Punishment. g. i. t. To one, or some of them. And by so doing did further make Claim to the Kingdom as his own; and as it were, take Possession of it. It being usual in the Eastern Countries to account the Wives and Concubines of the late King, to belong of right to the Successor; See the note on Chap. 12. 8. h Who saw him go into the Tent; and thence concluded, That he lay with them, as he had designed to do.

23 And the counsel of Ahithophel which he counselled in those days, was as if a man had enquired at the † oracle of God i: so was all the counsel of Ahithophel, both with David k, and with Absalom.

i It was received by the People with equal Authority and Veneration, and was usually attended with as certain Success. Which is mentioned as the reason why a Counsel which had so ill a face, should meet with such general approbation. k To whose Pious Disposition he accommodated himself, as Policy obliged him; but being weary of it, he takes this first occasion to Discover himself, and Execute that Wickedness which before lay in his Heart.

CHAP. XVII.

MOreover, Ahithophel said unto Absalom, let me now chuse out twelve thousand men, and I will arise and pursue a after David this night a.

a I am so well assured of the goodness of this Counsel, that I will venture my own Person and Life in the Execution of it.

2 And I will come upon him while he is weary and weak-handed b, and will make him afraid: and all the people that are with him shall flee, and I will smite the king onely.

b Tired with a tedious March on Foot, and destitute of Men, and Military Provisions; and disheartned by his own small Numbers, and by the general Defection of his Subjects.

3 And I will bring back all the people unto thee, the man whom thou seekest is as if all returned c: so all the people shall be in peace.

c i. t. The Death of that Man whom thou seekest to destroy, is no less considerable to thee, than if all the People that follow him should desert him, and return unto thee.

† Heb. was right in the eyes of, &c.

4 And the saying † pleased Absalom well, and all the Elders of Israel.

5 Then said Absalom, Call now Hushai the Archite also, and let us hear likewise † what he saith d.

† Heb. what is in his mouth.

d A wonderful Effect of Divine Providence, blinding his Mind, and Influencing his Heart, that he could not rest in Ahithophel's Counsel, though it was so evidently Wise, and Good, and approved by the general consent of his whole Party; and that he should desire Hushai's Advice, though neither his Reputation for Wisdom was equal to Ahithophels, nor had he yet given any one proof of his Fidelity to Absalom, as Ahithophel had done; nor was he so fixed by his Interest to him, as Ahithophel was; and though there wanted not just Cause to suspect him, and his Counsel too. But there is no contending with that God who can Arm a Man against himself, and Destroy him by his own Mistakes and Passions, without any other help.

6 And when Hushai was come to Absalom, Absalom spake unto him, saying, Ahithophel hath spoken after this manner: Shall we do after his † saying? if not, speak thou.

† Heb. Word.

7 And Hushai said unto Absalom, The counsel that Ahithophel hath † given, is not good at this time e.

e Though at other times he generally gives most wise and admirable Counsel; yet, as he is a man, he seems now to be under a mistake, and not sufficiently to consider all the present Circumstances of this Business.

8 For (said Hushai) thou knowest thy father and his men, that they be mighty men f, and they be * chafed in their minds g, as † a bear robbed of her whelps in the field g: and thy father is a man of war h, and will not lodge with the people.

* Hos. 13. 8.

f Of approved Courage and Strength, therefore not so soon vanquished as Ahithophel supposeth. g. Heb. bitter of Soul, Inflamed with Rage; Desperate, and therefore resolved to sell their Lives at a dear rate. h A wise Prince and General; who knowing of what Importance it is to secure his own Person, and that your great Design is against his Life; will doubtless use extraordinary care to keep out of your reach, which he may easily do.

9 Behold he is hid now in some pit, or in some other place i: and it will come to pass, when some of them k be † overthrown at the first l, that whosoever heareth it, will say m, There is a slaughter among the people that followeth Absalom.

i Having been oft accustomed to that course, and well acquainted with all hiding-places from Saul's time. In one of them, unknown to us, he will lurk with some of his chosen men, and lie in Ambush for us; and, when they see a fit opportunity, they will suddenly come forth and surprize some of our men, when they least expect it, and fall upon them with great fury, and probably will at first put them to flight. k To wit, of Absalom's men sent against David. l Implying, that their good success at first would mightily animate David's men to proceed vigorously in the fight, and intimidate Absalom's Army, and consequently would be both a presage and an occasion of their total defeat. m They who first hear these ill tidings will propagate it, and strike terror with it into the rest of the Army.

10 And he also that is valiant, whose heart is as the heart of a lion, shall utterly melt: for all Israel knoweth that thy father is a mighty man, and they which be with him are valiant men n.

n The known fame of the prodigious valour of David and his followers will easily gain credit to that report, and strike the stoutest of our men with dread, even Ahithophel himself, if he should go with them.

11 Therefore I counsel, that all Israel be generally gathered unto thee o, from Dan even to Beersheba, as the sand that is by the sea for multitude, and † that thou go to battel in thine own person p.

o His pretence was, that they might have a far greater Army, and make sure, though slow work: his design was to gain David more time, that he might increase his Army, and make better provisions for the Battel; and that the present heat of the people might be cooled, and they might at last bethink themselves of their duty to David, and return to their former Allegiance. p For thy presence will put more Life and Courage into all thy Soldiers, who will be ambitious to shew their utmost Skill and Courage in defending thy Person and Cause, when they know that all their Actions are observed by him who hath the distribution of rewards and punishments in his hands. So mayest thou also give counsel as occasion offers, offers, and encourage thy men to kill David, which otherwiſe they may poſſibly be afraid to do. Beſides, the glory of the Victory will be wholly thine, which now Ahitophel ſeeks to get to himſelf.

12 So ſhall we come upon him in ſome place, where he ſhall be found, and we will light upon him as the dew falleth on the ground q: and of him and of all the men that are with him, there ſhall not be left ſo much as one.

q i. e. Plenteouſly, ſuddenly, irreſiſtibly, and on all ſides; for ſo the Dew falls.

13 Moreover, if he be gotten into a city, then ſhall all Iſrael bring ropes to that city r, and we will draw it into the river ſ, until there be not one ſmall ſtone found there.

r Not that they ſhould do ſo, or that it was the Cuſtom to do ſo; but it is an Hyperbolical and Thraſonical expreſſion, ſuited to the vain-glorious temper of this inſolent young man; and therefore moſt likely to prevail with him: implying, that they would do ſo, if they could not diſcover and deſtroy him another way: or, that they ſhould be enough to do ſo, if there were occaſion. ſ Adjoyning to the City; it being uſual to build Cities near ſome River, both for defence, and for other accommodations.

14 And Abſalom and all the men of Iſrael ſaid t, The counſel of Huſhai the Archite is better than the counſel of Ahithophel: for the LORD had † appointed to defeat the good counſel u of Ahithophel, to the intent that the LORD might bring evil upon Abſalom.

t Being infatuated by a Divine power, and given up to believe lyes and miſtakes. u So it was, politically conſidered; being the wiſeſt and moſt effectual courſe to accompliſh Abſalom's end.

15 ¶ Then ſaid Huſhai unto Zadok, and to Abiathar the prieſts, Thus and thus did Ahithophel counſel Abſalom and the elders of Iſrael: and thus and thus have I counſelled.

16 Now therefore ſend quickly, and tell David, ſaying, Lodge not this night in the plains of the wilderneſs x, but ſpeedily paſs over, leſt the king be ſwallowed up, and all the people that are with him.

x Leſt the King's and peoples minds change, and Abithophel by his deep wit and great intereſt, perſuade the King to follow his former advice, and to purſue you ſpeedily.

17 Now Jonathan and Ahimaaz ſtaied by Enrogel y: (for they might not be ſeen to come into the city) and a wench z went and told them: and they went and told king David.

y Or, the Fullers well. A place near Jeruſalem, Joſ. 15. 7. and 18. 16. z Pretending to go thither to waſh ſome Cloathes.

18 Nevertheleſs, a lad ſaw them a, and told Abſalom, but they went both of them away quickly, b, and came to a mans houſe in Bahurim, which had a well in his court, whither they went down c.

a Who knew them to be favourers of David, and obſerved them to wait there upon deſign, and to gain intelligence, and poſſibly ſaw the Wench ſpeaking privately to them. b Suſpecting by this Lads obſervation and carriage, that they were diſcovered. c Either to ſome hole in the ſide of the Pit: or, to the bottom of the Pit, it being then dry, as Pits often were in thoſe hot Countries. And this being in ſo open a place, they concluded none would imagine them to be hid there. And beſides, they relied upon Gods good Providence, which they knew watched over David, and them for his ſake.

19 And the woman took and ſpread a covering over the wells mouth, and ſpread ground corn thereon, † and the thing was not known.

† Under pretence of drying it by the Sun: which ſhews it was Summer-time.

20 And when Abſaloms ſervants came to the woman to the houſe, they ſaid, Where is Ahimaaz and Jonathan? And the woman ſaid unto them, They be gone over the brook of water d. And when they had ſought, and could not find them, they returned to Jeruſalem.

d i. e. Over Jordan. This was a manifeſt lye, but becauſe it was ſpoken for no hurt, but good only, many perſons in thoſe times conceived ſuch lies to be lawful. Compare Exod. 1. 19. Joſ. 2. 4, 5. But although God was pleaſed to overlook and pardon the ſin, and graciouſly to reward the good intention which accompanied them; yet it is certain that all kinds of lyes are moral Evils, and condemned by plain Scriptures, and that we muſt not do evil that good may come, nor tell a lye for Gods glory, Rom. 3. 7, 8.

21 And it came to paſs, after they were departed, that they came up out of the well, and went and told king David, and ſaid unto David, Ariſe, and paſs quickly over the water: for thus hath Ahithophel counſelled againſt you.

22. Then David aroſe, and all the people that were with him, and they paſſed over Jordan e: by the morning-light, there lacked not one of them that was not gone over Jordan.

e Either at the Ford, or in Boats.

23 ¶ And when Ahithophel ſaw that his counſel was not † followed, he ſadled his aſſe, and aroſe, and gate him home to his houſe, to his city, and † put his houſhold in order f, and hanged himſelf g, and died, and was buried in the ſepulchre of his father.

† Heb. gave charge concerning his houſe.

f Diſpoſed of his Eſtate by Will. Compare Iſa. 38. 1. g Partly, becauſe he could not indure to outlive his diſgrace and the rejection of his Counſel: and partly, becauſe he foreſaw by this means David would gain time and ſtrength, and in all probability be Victorious, and then the ſtorm would fall moſt heavily upon his head, as the main Author and Pillar of the Rebellion, and the contriver of thoſe two pernicious Counſels above mentioned.

24 Then David came to Mahanaim h: and Abſalom paſſed over Jordan i, and all the men of Iſrael with him.

h A place in the Countrey of Gilead, bordering upon the Land of the Ammonites, v. 27. See Gen. 32. 2. and 2 Sam. 2. 8. i Not ſpeedily, but when all the men of Iſrael were gathered together according to Huſhai's counſel who are ſaid to be with him here, as it follows.

25 ¶ And Abſalom made Amaſa captain of the hoſt inſtead of Joab: which Amaſa was a mans ſon whoſe name was Ithra, an Iſraelite k, that went in to Abigail l the daughter of Nahaſh m, ſiſter to Zerujah, Joabs mother.

k Obj. He was an Iſhmaelite, 1 Chron. 2. 17. Anſw. Not Amaſa; but Ithra, or Jether, Amaſa's Father, is there ſo called, becauſe he was ſuch, either by his Birth from ſuch Parents, or by his long habitation among them, or for ſome other reaſon now unknown. Compare 2 Sam. 15. 18. And Amaſa is here called an Iſraelite, either, becauſe he was a Proſelyte: or, in oppoſition to Joab, who was of the Tribe of Judah, as Amaſa was of one of the ten Tribes: or rather, to intimate, that although he or his Parents were called Ishmaelites for ſome reaſon, yet as to their extraction they were indeed Iſraelites. Which if Amaſa had not been, it is not probable that he could have had ſo powerful an influence upon the Tribe of Judah, as he had, chap. 19. 14. l i. e. Lay with her, whether being firſt Married to her, or not, is uncertain. m Nahaſh is either another name of Jeſſe: or rather, the name of Jeſſe's Wife, by whom he had this Abigail, as he had Zeruiah by another Wife; ſo they were ſiſters by the Father, but not by the Mother; and Nahaſh is here named to ſignify ſo much.

26 So Iſrael and Abſalom pitched in the land of Gilead.

27 And it came to paſs when David was come to Mahanaim, that Shobi the ſon of Nahaſh of Rabbath of the children of Ammon n, and * Machir the ſon of Ammiel of Lodebar o, and * Barzillai the Gileadite, of Rogelim, p i. e. All ſorts of Houſhold-ſtuff, as well as other proviſions, all which David now wanted.

29 And honey, and butter, and ſheep, and cheeſe of kine for David, and for the people that were

were with him, to eat: for they said, The people is hungry, and weary, and thirsty in the wilderness q.

q i. e. Having been in the Wilderness. Which is an easie and common Ellipsis. Or, because of (so the Hebrew Particle beth is oft used) the Wilderness, which they passed thorough, in which provisions are very scarce.

CHAP. XVIII.

AND David numbred the people that were with him a, and set captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds over them.

a Which flocked to him thither, so as to make up a small Army.

2 And David sent forth a third part of the people under the hand of Joab b, and a third part under the hand of Abishai the son of Zeruiah Joabs brother, and a third part under the hand of Ittai the Gittite: and the king said unto the people, I will surely go forth with you my self also c.

b To wit, for his special conduct and management in the Battel: otherwise, Joab was the General of all the Forces; nor had David yet taken away that power from him, nor was this a time to do it. But such distributions of Forces are usual in Battels. c That by my presence I may put life and courage into my Soldiers; and because it is fit I should run the same hazards with you, which you do for my sake.

3 But * the people answered, Thou shall not go forth d: for if we flee away, they will not † care for us; neither if half of us die, will they care for us: but now thou art † worth ten thousand of us e: therefore now it is better that thou † succour us out of the city f.

* Chap. 21. 17.
† Heb. set their heart on us.
† Heb. as ten thousand of us.

d For this was Absalom's great error, into which he was drawn by a Divine infatuation, and by Hushai's craft to go to Battel in his own Person, which was the utter ruin of him and of his Cause. e Not onely for the Dignity of thy Person, but also for the importance of our common cause and concern, which, if thou art slain, is irrecoverably lost. f By sending us Supplies of Men, and Provisions of all sorts, as we have occasion; and by securing our retreat, if we be defeated. Or thus: not go along to the Battel with us, but onely go out with us, or accompany us out of the City (to incourage the Company) and then retire for thy own safety. And so it seems by the next Verse.

4 And the king said unto them, What seemeth you best, I will do. And the king stood by the gate-side g, and all the people came out by hundreds, and by thousands.

g i. e. Between the two Gates of the City, as it is expressed below, v. 24.

5 And the king commanded Joab, and Abishai, and Ittai, saying, Deal gently for my sake with the young man, even with Absalom h. And all the people i heard when the king gave all the captains charge concerning Absalom.

h If you Conquer (which he presaged they would by Gods Gracious answer to his prayer for the turning of Ahithophel's counsel into foolishness), take him Prisoner, but do not kill him. Which desire proceeded, partly, from his great indulgence towards his Children: partly, from David's consciousness that he himself was the meritorious and procuring cause of this Rebellion, Absalom being given up to it for the punishment of David's sins; and therefore did indeed deserve some pity from him; partly, from the consideration of his youth, which commonly makes men foolish, and heady, and violent, and subject to ill counsels: and partly, from his Piety, being loath that he should be cut off in the act of his sin without any space, or means for repentance, whereby both his Soul and Body would be in danger to perish for ever. i To wit, the Citizens and others who stood with the King in the Gate when the Army Marched forth.

6 ¶ So the people went out into the field against Israel: and the battel was in the wood of Ephraim k, k So called, not from its situation in the Tribe of Ephraim, which was on the other side Jordan, as is evident; but from some memorable action or occurent of the Ephraimites beyond Jordan; whether it was their killing of Oreb and Zeeb there, Judg. 7. 25. and 8. 3. or, their slaughter by Jephthah, Judg. 12. 5, 6. or, some other not mentioned in Sacred Scripture.

7 Where the people of Israel l were slain before the servants of David, and there was there a great slaughter that day of twenty thousand men.

l i. e. The Soldiers of Absalom so called; partly, to note that all Israel (some few excepted) were ingaged in this Rebellion, which made David's deliverance more glorious and remarkable: and partly, in opposition to David's men, who, as to the main Body, or most considerable part, were of the Tribe of Judah, or had followed him from Judah.

8 For the battel was there scattered m over the face of all the countrey: and the * wood † devoured more people n that day than the sword devoured o.

* Isa. 15. 9.

m i. e. The Warriers being beaten in the fight, fled and were dispersed: the abstract being put for the concrete, as poverty is put for poor men, 2 King. 24. 14. and deceit for the deceiver, and dreams for dreamers, Prov. 12. 24. and 13. 6. viz. More people died in the Wood, either through hunger, and thirst, and weariness: or, by the wild Beasts, whereof great numbers were there, which though they were driven away by noise and clamour from the place of the main Battle, yet might easily meet with them when they fled several ways, which also might be directed and sent to them by Gods Providence, and just Judgment, to punish them for their Rebellion: or, by falling into Ditches and Pits, which were in that place, v. 17. and probably were covered with Grass or Wood, so as they could not see them till they fell into them: or by being hanged in Trees, as Absalom was, v. 9. and especially by David's men, who pursued them, and killed them in the Wood; and the Wood is rightly said to have devoured them, because it gave the occasion to their destruction, inasmuch as the Trees, and Ditches, and Pits, entangled them, and stopped their flight, and made them an easie prey to David's men, who followed them, and slew them in the pursuit, being therein directed and assisted by the people of that Countrey, who, after the manner, fell in with the victorious side. o To wit, in the main Battel: the Sword being put for the Battel, by a common Metonymy.

9 ¶ And Absalom met the servants of David p, and Absalom rode upon a mule, and the mule went under the thick boughs of a great oak, and his head caught hold of the oak q, and he was taken up between the heaven and the earth, and the mule that was under him went away r.

p Who according to David's command, spared him, and gave him an opportunity to escape. q In which probably he was entangled by the hair of the head, which being very long and thick, might easily catch hold of a Bough, especially when the Great God directed it. Either he wore no Helmet, or his Helmet was such as left much of his hair visible; or he had thrown away his Helmet as well as his other Arms, to hasten his flight, or because of the heat of the season. Thus the matter of his pride was the instrument of his ruin, as also Ahasuel's swiftness, chap. 2. 18. and Ahithophel's policy, chap. 17. 23. were the occasions of their destruction. r Which might easily happen, because being in flight the Mule passed along very swiftly.

10 And a certain man saw it, and told Joab, and said, Behold, I saw Absalom hanged in an oak.

11 And Joab said unto the man that told him, And behold, thou sawest him, and why didst thou not smite him there to the ground s, and I would have given thee ten shekels of silver, and a girdle t?

s Why didst thou not smite him down from the Oak, and with thy Spear nail him to the ground? t A Military Belt of more than ordinary price, as a Testimony of thy Valour and good Service. See on 1 Sam. 18. 4.

12 And the man said unto Joab, Though I † receive a thousand shekels of silver in mine hand, yet would I not put forth mine hand against the kings son: for in our hearing the king charged thee, and Abishai, and Ittai, saying, † Beware that none touch the young man Absalom.

† Heb. Beware whosoever is it, of, &c.

Or, take heed what (for so the Hebrew Pronoun, mi, is sometimes used, as Judg. 13. 17.) ye do with the young man. He expresseth David's sense, though not his words.

13 Otherwise I should have wrought falshood against mine own life u: for there is no matter hid from the king u, and thou thy self wouldest have set thy self against me x.

u Either, First, I should have been guilty of false and perfidious dealing against the Kings express Injunction, and that with the manifest hazard of my own life. Or, Secondly, I should have betray'd betray'd my own life. I ſhould not onely have deceived my ſelf with falſe hopes, either of concealing my Fact from the King, or of obtaining a reward, yea or a pardon, from him or thee for it, but alſo have deſtroyed my ſelf thereby, and laid a plot againſt my own life. u This, as all other things, would certainly come to the Kings ear. x Thou wouldeſt have been mine adverſary and accuſer; partly, becauſe it was thy duty to be ſo; and partly, to vindicate thy ſelf by caſting the blame upon another. Or, thou wouldſt have ſtood a far off, as this Phraſe is uſed, Pſal. 38. 11. Thou wouldeſt not have ſtood to me to intercede for my life or reward, but wouldeſt keep at a diſtance from me.

14 Then ſaid Joab, I may not tarry thus † with thee y. And he took three darts in his hand, and thruſt them through the heart z of Abſalom, while he was yet alive a in the † midſt of the oak.

y I muſt not loſe time in contending with thee till I let the occaſion ſlip. z Not properly ſo called, for he was yet alive after theſe wounds, and was ſlain, v. 15. but through his middle, as the word heart is oft uſed, as Pſal. 46. 2. and that too, not exactly, but more largely underſtood, as Deut. 4. 11. Ezek. 27. 4. Matth. 12. 40. or through his Body: which might be, and yet the wounds not mortal. a Or, yet he continued alive, i. e. the Darts did not diſpatch him, and therefore they ſmite him again, and kill him, v. 15.

15 And ten young men that bare Joabs armour, compaſſed about, and ſmote Abſalom, and ſlew him b.

b Judging that there could be no ſafety to the King, nor peace to the Kingdom, nor ſecurity to himſelf, and all David's Friends, and Loyal Subjects, and good men, if Abſalom had lived, as may ſeem probable from chap. 19. 10. and yet perceiving that the Kings heart was reconcileable to Abſalom, notwithſtanding his abominable Crimes of lying with his Fathers Concubines, and of horrid and unnatural Rebellion; both which were capital Crimes by the Law of God; he adventured to ſave David's life againſt his will. But whether Joab did well in this, all things conſidered, I ſhall not here determine.

16 And Joab blew the trumpet, and the people returned from purſuing after Iſrael: for Joab held back the people c.

c Who otherwiſe were highly incenſed againſt the Rebels, and hotly purſued them. But the head of the Rebellion being cut off, and the danger thereby paſt, he puts a ſtop to the effuſion of Iſraelitiſh blood.

17 And they took Abſalom, and caſt him into a great pit in the wood, and laid a very great heap of ſtones upon him d, and all Iſrael fled every one to his tent e.

d As a laſting monument of Abſalom's ſin and ſhame, and of the Righteous Judgment of God upon him. Compare Joſ. 7. 26. and 8. 29. and 10. 27. He was firſt hanged, after a ſort, which was an accurſed death, Deut. 21. 23. and then thruſt through with Darts and Swords; and, after all, in a manner ſtoned, which was the proper puniſhment of a Rebellious Son, Deut. 21. 21. e To their houſes and dwellings, to avoid the ſhame and puniſhment of their Rebellion.

18 ¶ Now Abſalom in his life time had taken and reared up for himſelf a pillar f, which is in the kings dale g: for he ſaid, I have no ſon to keep my name in remembrance h: and he called the pillar after his own name, and it is called unto this day, Abſaloms place i.

* Gen. 14. 17.

f To preſerve his name in memory; whereas it had been more for his honour, if his name had been buried in perpetual oblivion. But this was the effect of his pride and vain-glory. g A place near Jeruſalem ſo called, Geneſis 14. 17. h Object. He had three ſons, chap. 14. 27. Anſ. Either they were all now dead; or, if one of them was left alive, he thought him unfit and unworthy to keep up his name and honour; or, he erected this Pillar before his Sons were born. But the firſt opinion ſeems moſt probable; and it was a remarkable Judgment of God, that he who ſtruck at his Fathers life, ſhould be puniſhed with the death of all his Sons. i Heb. Abſalom's hand, i. e. his work, made, though not by his hand, yet for him and his glory, and by his procurement.

19 ¶ Then ſaid Ahimaaz the ſon of Zadok, Let me now run, and bear the king tidings, how that the LORD hath † avenged himſelf of his enemies.

† He judged him from the hand of, &c.

20 And Joab ſaid unto him, Thou ſhalt not † bear tidings this day, but thou ſhalt bear tidings, another day: but this day thou ſhalt bear no tidings, becauſe the kings ſon is dead k.

† Heb. be a man of tidings.

k And thou ſhalt not be a Meſſenger of Evil tidings, which will be unwelcome to him, and prejudicial to thee.

21 Then ſaid Joab to Cuſhi l, Go tell the king what thou haſt ſeen. And Cuſhi bowed himſelf unto Joab, and ran.

l Or, to an Ethiopian; ſo he might be by birth, and yet by profeſſion an Iſraelite.

22 Then ſaid Ahimaaz the ſon of Zadok yet again to Joab, But † howſoever, let me, I pray thee, alſo run after Cuſhi. And Joab ſaid, Wherefore wilt thou run, my ſon m, ſeeing that thou haſt no tidings ‖ ready?

† Heb. be what may.

‖ Or, convenient, or, ſufficient, Numb. 11. 12.

m So he calls him with reſpect both to his younger years, and to that true and tender affection which he had for him.

23 But howſoever (ſaid he) let me run. And he ſaid unto him, Run. Then Ahimaaz ran by the way of the plain n, and over-ran Cuſhi.

n Which was the ſmoother and eaſier, though the longer way.

24 And David ſate between the two gates o: and the watchman went up to the roof over the gate unto the wall p, and lift up his eyes, and looked, and behold, a man running alone.

o For the Gates of the Cities then were, as now they are, large and thick; and for the greater ſecurity, had two Gates, one more outward, the other inward. Here he ſate, that he might hear tidings when any came into the City. p Unto the top of the Wall or Tower upon the Gate, where watchmen uſed to watch. Compare 2 King. 9. 17. Ezek. 33. 2.

25 And the watchman cried, and told the king. And the king ſaid, If he be alone, there is tidings in his mouth q. And he came apace, and drew near.

q He is ſent with ſome ſpecial Meſſage: which was a very probable conjecture: for if he had run or fled from the Enemy, many others would have followed him.

26 And the watchman ſaw another man running, and the watchman called unto the porter, and ſaid, Behold, another man running alone. And the king ſaid, He alſo bringeth tidings.

27 And the watchman ſaid, † Methinketh the running of the formoſt, is like the running of Ahimaaz the ſon of Zadok. And the king ſaid, He is a good man, and cometh with good tidings r.

† Heb. I ſee thee running.

r He loves me well, and therefore would not afflict me with Evil tidings.

28 And Ahimaaz called and ſaid unto the king, ‖ † All is well. And he fell down to the earth upon his face before the king, and ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD thy God, which hath † delivered up ſ the men that lift up their hand againſt my lord the king.

‖ Or, Peace be to thee.

† Heb. Peace.

ſ Into thy hand and power; or to deſtruction. Compare 1 Sam. 24. 19. and 26. 8.

29 And the king ſaid, † Is the yotmg man Abſalom ſafe? And Ahimaaz anſwered, When Joab ſent the kings ſervant s, and me thy ſervant, I ſaw a great tumult, but I knew not what it was t.

† Heb. Is there peace?

s Cuſhi. t He ſeems to tell an untruth, as is evident from v. 20. becauſe he now plainly perceived what Joab foretold him, that ſuch tidings would be very unwelcome to David. But he made a bad choice, to offend God with a lye, rather than to diſpleaſe the King with a truth. Yet thus far it might be true; that though he had reaſon to think Abſalom was dead, yet was not able to give account of the particulars which concerned it, wherewith Cuſhi was intruſted.

30 And the king ſaid unto him, Turn aſide, and ſtand here. And he turned aſide, and ſtood ſtill.

31 And behold, Cuſhi came, and Cuſhi ſaid, † Tidings my lord the king: for the LORD hath avenged thee this day of all them that roſe up againſt thee.

32 And the king ſaid unto Cuſhi, Is the young man Abſalom ſafe? And Cuſhi anſwered, The enemies of my lord the king, and all that riſe up againſt thee to do thee hurt, be as that young man is.

u May they periſh and be cut off, as he is.

33 ¶ And the king was much moved, and went up to the chamber over the gate x, and wept: and as he went, thus he said, O my son Absalom, my son, my son Absalom: would God I had died for thee, O Absalom, my son, my son y.

x Retiring himself from all men and business, that he might wholly give up himself to lamentation. y This he might speak from a deep sense of his Eternal state, because he died in his sins without the least testimony of repentance, and because David himself had by his own sins been the unhappy instrument and occasion of his Sons death.

CHAP. XIX.

AND it was told Joab a, Behold, the king weepeth and mourneth for Absalom.

a By his Messengers upon their return.

† Heb. salvation, or, deliverance.

2 And the † victory that day was turned into mourning, unto all the people: for the people heard say that day, how the king was grieved for his son.

3 And the people gat them by stealth that day into the city b, as people being ashamed steal away when they flee in battel.

b Not openly, and orderly, and triumphantly as Conquerors use to do; but secretly, and disorderly, and asunder, as if they were afraid and ashamed, lest David should see them, and look upon them with an evil eye, as those that had an hand in the killing of his dearly beloved Son.

4 But the king covered his face c, and the king cried with a loud voice, O my son Absalom, O Absalom, my son, my son.

c As a deep mourner, as one that desired neither to see, nor to be seen by any others.

5 And Joab came into the house d to the king, and said, Thou hast shamed this day the faces of all thy servants e, which this day have saved thy life, and the lives of thy sons, and of thy daughters, and the lives of thy wives, and lives of thy concubines f, d Either the Gate-house: or, his now dwelling-house in the City: to which he was retired, that he might more freely indulge himself in the expressions of his grief. e By disappointing their just hopes of praises and rewards, and by requiting them with contempt and tacit rebukes. f All which Absalom struck at, and had sooner or later actually taken away, if he had not been cut off in such a manner without expecting thy knowledge or consent, and therefore thy carriage towards them that have saved the lives of thee and thine, with the utmost hazard of their own, is highly unjust and ungrateful.

† Heb. by loving, &c. † Heb. that princes, or servants, are not to thee.

6 † In that thou lovest thine enemies, and hatest thy friends; for thou hast declared this day, † that thou regardest neither princes nor servants: for this day I perceive, that if Absalom had lived, and all we had died this day, then it had pleased thee well g.

g This is not to be understood as exactly true in the rigour of it; but onely comparatively and Hyperbolically spoken. For David desired their preservation and Absalom's too: but it must be considered, that Joab was now in an high transport of passion, which might easily hurry him into indecent expressions; and that David's carriage gave too much colour to such a suggestion; and that such sharpness of speech was in a manner necessary to awaken the King out of his Lethargy, and to preserve him from the impendent mischiefs.

7 Now therefore arise, go forth, and speak † comfortably unto thy servants: for I swear by the LORD h, if thou go not forth i, there will not tarry one with thee this night k, and that will be worse unto thee than all the evil that befel thee from thy youth until now.

h This Oath was either assertory of what he believed might in reason be expected, as likely in great measure to come to pass; or else promissory; or rather, minatory of what he by his influence could and would effect; and if so, it was much more than became him to say to his Sovereign; and could onely be excused by the circumstances which at this time might make it seem necessary: For David was indeed to blame in taking no more notice of their good service (however Joab might be faulty also in disobeying the Kings express command as to Absalom's person); and great reason there was that David, as Joab did now advise, should shew himself less displeased to the people, who had exposed their lives to preserve him and his. i To the Gate, to shew thy self to thy people, and kindly and thankfully to acknowledge the good service that they have now done thee. k The hearts of all thy people will forthwith be irrecoverably alienated from thee, and they will look out for some other person on whom they may set the Crown.

8 Then the king rose, and sate in the gate l: and they told unto all the people, saying, Behold, the king doth sit in the gate: and all the people came before the king m: for Israel had fled every man to his tent.

l He was come forth out of his retirement, and appeared in publick, on the Seat of Judgment, at the Gate of the City, to receive the Addresses of his people, and mind the Affairs of the Kingdom. m To congratulate him for the Victory, and to profess their subjection to him. So Joab's Speech, though very severe and presumptuous, was, it seems, a word in season, and had that good effect which he designed.

9 ¶ And all people were at strife n throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying, o, The king saved us out of the hand of our enemies, and he delivered us out of the hand of the Philistines, and now he is fled out of the land for Absalom p.

n Quarrelling one with another, as the Authors or Abettors of this shameful and cursed Rebellion. o Discoursing privately and publickly of David's high merits, which God, being now reconciled to David, brings afresh to their memories, and renewes the sense of their obligations to their King, which they had lately shaken off. Thus the Crowns of Kings sit faster or looser upon their heads, as God is pleased to dispose of the thoughts and hearts of their people, which he can turn in an instant which way he will. p Now we come to reflect upon our own actions, we are sensible of our folly and unworthiness in adhering to Absalom, and thereby forcing David to fly out of the Land of Canaan, to the parts beyond Jordan, for his security.

q i. e. Caused to be Anointed by Zadok, or Abiathar, or some other, of the Priests, whom they perswaded or constrained to do this Office: for this being a Sacred Ceremony, of great reputation, and a likely means to gain the more authority and veneration from the people to Absalom, as one whom God by his Vicegerent had constituted and set up; and this rite being usual upon all translations of the Government from one person to another in an extraordinary way, as this confessedly was, it is not likely that they would now omit it: though otherwise Anointing is frequently put for designing or constituting. r And therefore we have no obligation to him, and no hope of any thing from him. s The People of Israel speak thus to the Elders of Israel, as appears by comparing this Verse with the next. Seeing their designs for Absalom disappointed, they now repented of that undertaking, and were willing to testify so much by their forwardness to bring back David, and re-establish him.

11 ¶ And king David sent to Zadok, and to Abiather the priests, saying, Speak unto the elders of Judah t, saying, Why are ye the last to bring the king back to his house u? (seeing the speech of all Israel is come to the king, even to his house x)

t Who being the first and chief Abettors of Absalom's Rebellion, despaired of ever obtaining the Kings grace and pardon, and therefore were backward to promote the Kings Restauration. u To his Royal Palace at Jerusalem. x i. e. Even to Mahanaim, where now the Kings House and Family is. Thus sometimes one word is taken in divers senses in the same Verse, as Math. 8. 22. Or rather thus: about bringing the King back to his house: For, First, Those words are very fitly and easily understood here, out of the foregoing member of the Verse; such defects being usual in the Hebrew, which is a very concise or short Language. So it is Exod. 22. 15. and Deut. 1. 4. &c. Secondly, It seems most reasonable to understand the same Phrase, to his house, being twice here used in the same sense in both places, to wit, of his House in Jerusalem: and this is most agreeable to rule, and to Scripture-usage. Thirdly, Thus the words have more Emphasis than the other way: for if the Speech came to the King at Mahanaim it matters not whether it found him in his House there, or in the Gate-house, or in the field. Fourthly, David had no House in Mahanaim, which could properly be called his house; as he had in Jerusalem. And then the Parenthesis should close before those last words, even to his house, or even to his own house, to wit, that at Jerusalem.

12 Ye are my brethren, ye are my bones, and my flesh y: wherefore then are ye the last to bring back the king z?

y Of the same Tribe, and some of you of the same Family with my my self; and therefore if I should revenge my self of you, which perhaps you may fear I will do when I have fully regained my power, I should but tear my own Flesh in pieces, and hate my own Body, which Nature and Interest obligeth every man to preserve. z This delay doth not suit with the relation you have, and the affection you owe to me.

*Chap 17.25. 13 And say ye to Amasa a, Art thou not *of my bone, and of my flesh b? God do so to me, and more also, if thou be not captain of the host before me c continually, in the room of Joab d.

a Absalom's late General; who judging his case, above all others, desperate, might be ready to use all his Interest with that Tribe, to delay, or hinder the Kings return. b i. e. My near Kinsman, my Nephew. See 1 Chron. 2. 16, 17. c i. e. In my presence; or, now whilst I live; lest he should think he promised him only the reversion of it. d Who, besides his other Crimes had lately exasperated the King by his wilful Murther of Absalom, contrary to David's express command; and by his insolent carriage towards him. And therefore the King having now the opportunity of another person who had a greater interest both in Judah and Israel than Joab, he gladly complies with it, that so he might both chastise Joab for his faults, and rescue himself from the Bondage in which Joab had hitherto held him. Yet is it not necessary, from those words in the room of Joab, to conclude that Joab was to be displaced to make room for Amasa; but that he might be in like condition with Joab: But, what follows in the next Chapter, makes very probable that he was indeed displaced, and Amasa put in his place.

14 And he e bowed the heart of all the men of
* Judg. 20.1. Judah, * even as the heart of one man, so that they sent this word unto the king, Return thou and all thy servants.

e Either, First, Amasa by his great influence upon them. Or, rather, Secondly, David by this prudent and kind message, and his free offer of pardon and favour to them, as if they had never offended.

15 So the king returned, and came to Jordan: and Judah came to Gilgal, to go to meet the king, to conduct the king over Jordan f.

f To attend upon the King in his passage over Jordan, and to furnish him with conveniences for his passage and journey. See below v. 41, 42.

* Chap. 16.5. 1 King. 2. 8. 16 ¶ And * Shimei, the son of Gera, a Benjamite, which was of Bahurim, hasted and came down with the men of Judah, to meet king David.

17 And there was a thousand men of Benjamin
* Chap. 16.1. with him g, and * Ziba the servant of the house of Saul h, and his fifteen sons, and his twenty servants with him; and they went over Jordan before the king i.

g Whom he brought, partly to shew his power and interest in the people, whereby he was able to do David either great service, or great disservice: and partly, as intercessors on his behalf, and as witnesses of David's clemency or severity, that in him, they might see what the rest of them might expect. h Who, being conscious of his former abuse of David, and of his Master Mephibosheth, which he knew the King would understand, designed to sweeten David's Spirit towards him, by his great officiousness and forwardness in meeting him, and congratulating his return. i They did not tarry on this side Jordan waiting till the King came over, as the most of the men of Judah did; but went over Jordan to pay their respects and duty to the King there, to express their eager and impatient desire to see the King.

18 And there went over a ferry-boat k to carry † Hib. the good in his eyes. the kings household, and to do † what he thought good: and Shimei the son of Gera fell down before the king as he was come over Jordan l;

k Made by the men of Judah for the Kings proper use; besides which there were doubtless many Boats ready for the use of others. l Or rather, as he was passing, or about to pass over Jordan; but this was beyond Jordan: for as he went over Jordan to the King, v. 17. so doubtless he fell down before him at his first coming into his presence there.

19 And said unto the king, Let not my lord
* Chap. 16.5. impute iniquity unto me, neither do thou remember * that which thy servant did perversly, the day that my lord the king went out of Jerusalem, that the king should take it to his heart m.

m i. e. Be affected with it, or excited to Revenge it, 20 For thy servant doth know that I have sinned n; therefore behold, I am come the first o, this day of all the house of Joseph p, to go down to meet my lord the king.

n I do not excuse my Sin, but with grief and shame Confess it; in which case the Lord thy God is ready to Pardon Offenders, and so I trust wilt'st thou be. o The sense of my former Sin now hath, and whilest I live will make me the first and most forward in all Acts of Duty and Service to thy Majesty. p Object. He was a Benjamite, Chap. 16. 5. How then doth he make himself one of the house of Joseph? Answ. The house of Joseph is here put, either, 1. For the Ten Tribes, which are oft distinguished from Judah, and then they are called the house of Joseph; as Zech. 10. 6. But this distinction was not made before the division of the People into two Kingdoms: and even after that Division, Benjamin was constantly reckoned with Judah, and not with Joseph, or Ephraim. Or, 2. For all the Tribes of Israel, who are all called the children of Joseph, Psal. 77. 15. Comp. Psal. 80. 1. and 81. 5. as well they might, not onely because of Joseph's Eminency, (the most Eminent Persons and Things being oft put for the rest of the kind) and because the rights of Primogeniture were in a great part devolved upon him, 1 Chron. 5. 1. but also because Joseph had been as a Father to them, and had nourished them all like Children; as is expressed in the Hebrew Text, Gen. 47. 12. But in this sence this was not true, for the House of Judah came before him, ver. 15. Or rather, 3. For all the Tribes, except Judah, which are conveniently called the house of Joseph, for the reasons now mentioned, and are fitly distinguished from Judah, because the Rights of the First-born were divided between Judah and Joseph, 1 Chron. 5. 2. And though Benjamin after the Division of the Kingdoms was fitly joyned with Judah, because then they adhered to that Tribe; yet before that time it was more conveniently joyned with Joseph, because they Marched under the Standard of the House of Joseph, or of Ephraim, Numb. 10. 22, 23, 24. Whence it is, that Ephraim, Benjamin, and Manasseh, are put together, Psal. 80. 2.

21 But Abishai the son of Zeruiah answered and said, Shall not Shimei be put to death for this, because he cursed the LORD's anointed q?

q i. e. The King, by this Expression he minds David of his former Zeal against those who offered any injury to Saul, because he was the Lord's Anointed, 1 Sam. 24. 6. and 26. 9. and therefore demands the same Justice against Shimei for his Cursing of the King, which was so expressly forbidden, Exod. 22. 28. and by the Analogy of that Law, Exod. 21. 17. might seem punishable with Death.

22 And David said, What have I to do with you r, ye sons of Zeruiah s, that ye should this day be adversaries unto me t? * Shall there *1 Sam. 11. 13. any man be put to death this day in Israel? for do not I know, that I am this day king over Israel u?

r I do not ask, neither will I take your Advice in this Matter. s Implying, that Joab's hand was in this Contrivance, or that he suspected it. t i. e. That you put me upon things unfit for me to do, and contrary to my present Interest; for it was David's Interest at this time to Appease the People, and reconcile them to him, and not now to give them any new distast by acts of Severity; for this would make others jealous, that David will not forgive them neither, but would watch an opportunity to be Revenged on them. You pretend Friendship herein, and would have me take it for an effect of your Zeal for my Service; but in truth you give me such counsel as my Enemies would wish me to follow, that thereby I might awaken the fears and jealousies of my People which are now asleep, and cast them into a second Rebellion: which either Joab and Abishai really designed by this Advice, that so Joab might recover his Place again, and be made necessary for the King's Service: or David suspected that they did so. u Is not my Kingdom, which for my Sins was in a manner wholly lost, just now restored and assured to me? And when God hath been so Merciful to me in forgiving my Sin, shall I now shew my self Revengeful to Shimei? Shall I sully the Publick Joy and Glory of this Day, with an act of such severity? Or, shall I alienate the Hearts of my People from me, now when they are returning to me?

23 Therefore * the King said unto Shimei, * 1 King. 2. Thou shalt not die x: and the king sware unto 37, 46. him y.

x To wit, this day, as Abishai desireth; nor whilest I live, nor by my Hands, as it is repeated and explained, 1 King. 2. 8. nor for this Cause alone. For though David gave order to Solomon for his Punishment after his Death; nor was it fit for the Publick Good that such a Horrid Crime should go Unpunished; yet he would not have him Punished for this Fault alone, but for some other Capital Crime, which he presumed Shimei's Temper would easily betray him to; and Solomon's deep Wisdom would easily find out, 1 King. 2. 9. y That he would not put him to death with the Sword, as it is expressed 1 King. 2. 8.

24 ¶ And Mephibosheth the son z of Saul came

Sam: down to meet the king, and had neither dreſſed his feet a, nor trimmed his beard b, nor waſhed his cloathes c, from the day the king departed, until the day he came again in peace.

a i. e. The Grandſon, 2 Sam. 6. 3, 6. a By cutting his Nails, and by waſhing his Feet, which was uſual in thoſe hot Climates, and very refreſhing; and therefore now neglected, as becoming a Mourner. b But ſuffered it to grow very long, and diſorderly, as was uſual with many perſons in a forlorn, or mournful State. c His Linnen Clothes. This and the former, were ſigns, that he was a true and obſtinate Mourner, that lay'd aſide his uſual Refreſhments: and they are here mentioned as Evidences of the Falſhood of Ziba's former Relation concerning him, Chap. 16. 3.

25 And it came to paſs when he was come to Jeruſalem d to meet the king, that the king ſaid unto him, Wherefore wenteſt not thou with me e, Mephiboſheth?

d So it is ſuppoſed, That Mephiboſheth, though he went to meet the King, wanted either Courage, or fit Opportunity to ſpeak to the King till he came to Jeruſalem, becauſe of the great Multitudes that Addreſſed themſelves to the King by the way. Though it might more reaſonably be thought, that he could not go from Jeruſalem to meet the King as others did, becauſe he wanted conveniencies for his Journey: for Ziba had gotten all his Lands and Goods, Chap. 16. 4. and it is not likely that he, who would not provide him an Aſs to Ride on, or to accompany the King at his departure, would now be haſty to furniſh him with one to meet the King, to whom he knew he would complain of him. But the Words may ſeem to be better rendred thus, when he went (for ſo the Hebrew Verb ſignifies, Ruth. 3 7. Jonah 1. 3.) from (which Præpoſition is oft underſtood) Jeruſalem. For there he was, Chap. 16. 3. and having continued there, as probably he did, (becauſe he wanted an Aſs to convey him elſewhere, and knew not where to be with more ſafety) he could not properly nor truly be ſaid to have come thither to meet the King. e As Juſtice and Gratitude obliged thee to do.

26 And he anſwered, My lord, O king, my ſervant deceived me f; for thy ſervant ſaid, I will ſaddle me an aſs, that I may ride thereon, and go to the king, becauſe thy ſervant is lame:

f By carrying away the Aſs which I bid him Saddle for me.

* Chap. 16. 3. 27 And * he hath ſlandered thy ſervant unto my lord the king; but my lord the king is as an angel of God g: do therefore what is good in thine eyes.

g To diſtinguiſh between true Reports and Calumnies; See on Chap. 14. 20.

† Hb. men of death. * Chap. 9. 7. 28 For all of my fathers houſe, were but † dead men before my lord the king h: yet * didſt thou ſet thy ſervant among them that did eat at thine own table: what right therefore have I yet to cry any more unto the king i?

h i. e. Before thy Tribunal: we were all at thy Mercy: not my Eſtate onely (which thou haſt now granted to Ziba) but my Life alſo was in thy Power, if thou hadſt dealt with Rigor, and as Earthly Kings uſe to do with their Predeceſſors and Enemies Children. For otherwiſe by the Law of God Saul himſelf had not deſerved to die by David's hands, as David himſelf confeſſed: much leſs his Children, who were not to dye for their Fathers Sins, Deut. 24. 16. But Mephiboſheth ſpeaks like a Courtier, and like an Orator, aggravating Matters againſt himſelf, that he might ſeem to juſtifie the King's Sentence, and to ſubmit to it; and ſo inſinuate himſelf into the Kings favour. i To wit, for the Vindication of mine Honour, and the Reſtitution of my Eſtate.

29 And the king ſaid unto him, Why ſpeakeſt thou any more of thy matters k? I have ſaid l, Thou and Ziba divide the Land m.

k For as Ziba was preſent, ſo doubtleſs he was not ſilent, but ſaid, and did what he could to make good his former Charge; which muſt needs occaſion many Words before the King. And the King was not now at leiſure for long Debates, and therefore makes an end of the Matter. l To wit, within my ſelf; I have conſidered the Matter as far as now I can, and upon the whole am come to this Reſolution, wherein I expect that thou and he doth acquieſce. Or, I do now ſay, I pronounce this Sentence in the Cauſe. m The meaning is either, 1. The Land ſhall be divided between thee and him, as it was by my firſt Order, Chap. 9. 10. He and his Sons managing it, and ſupporting themſelves out of it, as they did before, and giving the reſt of the profits thereof to thee: And to this the following words may well enough be accommodated; Yea, let him take all; to wit, to his own ſole uſe. Or, 2. The right and profits of the Land ſhall be equally divided between you. It ſeems a very raſh and harſh Sentence, and very unbecoming David's Wiſdom, and Juſtice, and Gratitude to Jonathan; and Ziba ſeems to have deſerved Death for falſly Accuſing his Maſter of Treaſon, rather than a Recompence. But the whole Tranſaction of the Matter is not here ſet down. Poſſibly Ziba might bring plauſible Pretences to juſtifie his Accuſation; and it might be pretended, That Mephiboſheth neglected the trimming and dreſſing himſelf onely in Policy, and that for a ſeaſon till David and his Family had Deſtroyed one another by their Civil Wars, and giving him a fit opportunity to take the Crown. So that David might really be at a loſs what to determine. And Ziba had given proof of his Affections to David by an Act of kindneſs which could not be without hazard to himſelf, Chap. 16. 1, 2. which Mephiboſheth had not done. And poſſibly, this was onely a preſent Sentence, and David reſolved to examine things more throughly when he had more leiſure, and then to make a more full and final Determination of the Buſineſs; which alſo he might do, though it be not here Recorded. For we muſt not think, that nothing was done and ſaid about ſuch things but what is mentioned in Scripture. Beſides, Ziba being a powerful man, and the Crown not yet firmly fixed upon the King's Head, David might think fit to ſuſpend his Final Sentence till a more convenient ſeaſon, and not now to prevoke him too much by taking away all his Eſtate from him at once, but to proceed againſt him by degrees. Howſoever, this is certain, we cannot paſs a right Judgment upon this Action of David's, unleſs, we underſtood all the Circumſtances of it, which we cannot pretend to do.

30 And Mephiboſheth ſaid unto the king, Yea, let him take all, foraſmuch as my lord the king is come again in peace unto his own houſe n.

n I am contented to loſe all, being fully ſatisfied with the happineſs of ſeeing my dear and dread Sovereign reſtored to his Crown, and Truth and Peace returned to his Kingdom.

31 ¶ And * Barzillai the Gileadite came down from Rogelim, and went over Jordan with the king, to conduct him over Jordan o. * 1 King. 2. 7.

o And then to croſs Jordan again, and ſo return to his Native Land.

32 Now Barzillai was a very aged man, even fourſcore years old, and * he had provided the king of ſuſtenance while he lay at Mahanaim: for he was a very great man. * Chap. 17. 27.

33 And the king ſaid unto Barzillai, Come thou over with me, and I will feed thee with me in Jeruſalem.

† Hb. how many days are the years of my life. 34 And Barzillai ſaid unto the king, † How long have I to live, that I ſhould go up with the king unto Jeruſalem p?

p Seeing my time of continuance in this World is but ſhort, it is not adviſeable to change my Habitation, or to give thee or my ſelf any further trouble.

35 I am this day fourſcore years old: and can I diſcern between good and evil? can thy ſervant taſte what I eat or what I drink? can I hear any more the voice of ſinging-men, and ſinging-women q? wherefore then ſhould thy ſervant be yet a burden unto my lord the King r?

q My Senſes are grown dull, and uncapable of reliſhing the Delights of the Court. I am paſt taking Pleaſure in delicious Taſts, or ſweet Muſick, and other ſuch Delights of the Court. r I am through Age both uſeleſs and burdenſome to others, and therefore moſt improper for a Court life.

36 Thy ſervant will go a little way over Jordan s with the king: and why ſhould the king recompenſe it me t with ſuch a reward?

s A little onward in thy way to Jeruſalem, and then return. t Or; recompence me, to wit, for my ſmall kindneſs to thee at Mahanaim, which was but a part of my duty to thee.

37 Let thy ſervant, I pray thee, turn back again, that I may die in mine own city, and be buried by the grave of my father, and of my mother: but behold thy Servant Chimham u, let him go over with my lord the king, and do to him what ſhall ſeem good unto thee.

u Barzillai's ſon, 1 King. 2. 7.

38 And the king anſwered, Chimham ſhall go over with me: and I will do to him that which ſhall ſeem good unto thee: and whatſoever † Heb. chuſe. thou ſhalt require † of me, that will I do for thee.

39 And all the people went over Jordan; and when the king was come over, the king kiſſed Barzillai, and bleſſed him, and he returned unto his own place.

40 Then the king went on to Gilgal, and Chimham went on with him, and all the people of Judah conducted the king x, and alſo half the people of Iſrael y.

x Attended upon him on his Journey towards Jeruſalem. y Whereas the men of Judah came intirely and unanimouſly to the king, as is noted here, and above ver. 14. the Iſraelites of the other Tribes came in but ſlowly, and by halves, as being no leſs guilty of the Rebellion, than the Tribe of Judah; but not encouraged and invited to come in by ſuch a particular and gracious Meſſage as they were. And this is here mentioned as the occaſion both of the Contention here following, and of the Sedition. Chap. 20.

41 ¶ And behold, all the men of Iſrael z came to the king, and ſaid unto the king, why have our brethren the men of Judah ſtolen thee away a, and have brought the king and his houſhold, and all Davids men b with him over Jordan?

z To wit, ſuch as were preſent. a i. e. Conveyed thee over Jordan haſtily and privily, not expecting nor deſiring our Conſent and Concurrence in the Buſineſs, which we were no leſs ready to afford than they. It is alſo a ſecret Reflection upon the King, for permitting this Precipitation: b i. e. All thy men; ſuch changes of Perſons being moſt frequent in the Hebrew Language; thine Officers, and Guards, and Soldiers. This is mentioned as an aggravation of their fault, That they did not only carry the King over Jordan, but all his Men too, without asking their Advice.

42 And all the men of Judah anſwered the men of Iſrael, Becauſe the king is near of kin to us c: wherefore then be ye angry for this matter? have we eaten at all of the kings coſt? or hath he given us any gifts d?

c Of the ſame Tribe with us, and therefore both oweth the more reſpect to us, and might expect and challenge more reſpect from us. d We have neither ſought, nor gained any advantage to our ſelves hereby, but onely diſcharged our duty to the King, and uſed all Expedition in bringing him back, which you alſo ſhould have done, and not have come in by halves, and ſo coldly, as you have done. See ver. 40.

43 And the men of Iſrael anſwered the men of Judah, and ſaid, We have ten parts e in the king f, and we have alſo more right in David than ye g: Why then did ye † deſpiſe us, that our advice ſhould not be firſt had in bringing back our king h? And the words of the men of Judah were fiercer i than the words of the men of Iſrael.

e They ſay but ten, though ſtrictly there were Eleven; either, becauſe they accounted Joſeph (which comprehends both Ephraim, and Manaſſeh under it) for one Tribe, as it is ſometimes reckon'd; or becauſe Simeon, whoſe Lot lay within the Tribe of Judah, were joyned with them in this Action. f i. e. In the Kingdom, and the management of the Affairs of it; the Word King being put for Kingdom, as it is 2 Chron. 23. 20. and Iſa. 23. 15. Dan. 7. 17. Hoſ. 10. 15. Or, in the King's perſon, and the diſpoſal thereof. g As in the general we have more right in the King and Kingdom; ſo particularly, we have more right in David than you, becauſe you were the firſt beginners, and the moſt zealous promoters of this Rebellion: and as David is neareſt of kin to you, ſo he hath been moſt injured by you; howſoever, as he is King, we juſtly Claim a greater Intereſt in him, than you; inaſmuch as we are the far greateſt part of his Subjects. h That we being the far greater Number, ſhould not have the firſt and chieſeſt Vote in this Action. But the Words are by ſome, and may well be rendred interrogatively, And was not my word firſt about bringing the King back? Did not we make the firſt mention of it, before you could be drawn to it? For ſo indeed they did, ver. 11. And therefore the neglect of their Advice herein might ſeem more inexcuſable. i Inſtead of mollifying them with gentle words, they anſwered them with greater fierceneſs, and inſolency; ſo that David durſt not interpoſe himſelf in the matter.

CHAP. XX.

AND there happened a to be there a man of Belial b, whoſe name was Sheba the ſon of Bichri, a Benjamite c, and he blew a trumpet, and ſaid, * We have no part in David d, neither have we inheritance in the ſon of Jeſſe ‖: every man to his tents e, O Iſrael. * 1 Kin. 12. 16.

a His preſence was caſual in it ſelf, though certain, and ordered by God's Providence. b A Lawleſs perſon, one that attempted to ſhake off the yoke of Civil Authority; See Deut. 13. 13. c Agrieved at the Tranſlation of the Kingdom from Saul, and that Tribe, to David. d The Tribe of Judah have Monopolized the King to themſelves, and will not allow us any ſhare in him; let them therefore enjoy him alone, and let us ſeek out a new King. ‖ An Expreſſion of Contempt, implying their Rejection of him, that he was no more to be owned as their King, but as a private Perſon, as the Son of Jeſſe. e Let us all deſiſt from this unthankful Office, of bringing the King back, and go each to our homes, that we may conſider, and then meet together, to chuſe a New King.

2 So every man of Iſrael f went up from after David, and followed Sheba the ſon of Bichri: but the men of Judah clave unto their king, from Jordan even to Jeruſalem.

f i. e. The generality of thoſe Iſraelites who were preſent.

3 ¶ And David came to his houſe at Jeruſalem, and the king took the ten women his * concubines, whom he had left to keep the houſe, and put them in ward † g, and fed them, but went not in unto them, ſo they were † ſhut up unto the day of their death, † living in widowhood. * Chap. 15. 16. and 16. 22. † Heb. a houſe of ward. † Heb. bound. † Heb. in widowhood of life.

g Partly, becauſe they had not vigorouſly Oppoſed Abſalom's Luſtful Deſire, as they ſhould have done, even with the hazard of their Lives: and partly, leſt the ſight of them ſhould renew the Memory of Abſalom's Filthineſs, and of their own and David's Reproach, which it was fit to bury in perpetual Oblivion: and partly, becauſe it might appear Inceſtuous to have to do with thoſe who had been defiled by his own Son: and partly, becauſe as David would not, ſo it was not now convenient, that any other man ſhould have any Conjugal converſation with them.

4 ¶ Then ſaid the king to Amaſa, † Aſſemble me the men of Judah h, within three days i, and be thou here preſent k. † Heb. Call.

h And March in the Head of them as their General, as I have promiſed thee; Chap. 19. 13. i Which he ſuppoſed Amaſa having been their late General could eaſily do: and the buſineſs required haſt. k Within that time to receive Orders and Inſtructions from me.

5 So Amaſa went to aſſemble the men of Judah; but he tarried longer then the ſet time l which he had appointed him.

l Either, becauſe the people being wearied out by the late Civil War, were not forward to Engage in another: or, becauſe the Soldiers had more Affection to Joab, than to their new General; to whoſe ill Conduct poſſibly they might impute their unſucceſſfulneſs in the laſt Battel: Or, becauſe Amaſa for his own Intereſt might ſeek delays, to render himſelf more neceſſary and uſeful to the King, and to keep up his Honourable and Profitable Employment, which is the common Policy of ſuch Men.

6 And David ſaid to Abiſhai m, Now ſhall Sheba the ſon of Bichri do us more harm than did Abſalom: take thou * thy lords ſervants n, and purſue after him, leſt he get him fenced cities, and † eſcape us. * Chap. 11. 11. † Heb. deliver himſelf from our eyes.

m Not to Joab; leſt by this means he ſhould recover his Place, and Amaſa be diſcontented, and David's Fidelity in making good his Promiſe to Amaſa be queſtioned. n i. e. My Guards that attend upon my Perſon, and the other Soldiers who are now preſent with me. He ſpeaks of himſelf in the Third Perſon, as is very frequent. For it is not probable he would now call Joab his lord, whom he had lately Depoſed; nor Amaſa, who had not yet taken actual Poſſeſſion of his Place, nor had the Command over the King's Guards.

7 And there went out after him Joabs men o, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites p, and all the mighty men: and they went out of Jeruſalem to purſue after Sheba the ſon of Bichri. * Chap. 8. 18.

o The remainders of Joab's Army who were there preſent, with whom alſo Joab might go as a Reformade, watching an opportunity to do what he designed. p Of whom see on Chap. 8. 18.

8 When they were at the great stone which is in Gibeon, Amasa went before them q; and Joabs garment that he had put on, was girded unto him r, and upon it a † girdle with a sword fastned upon his loins in the sheath thereof, and as he went forth s, it fell out t.

q Having gathered some Forces, and given due Orders for the rest to follow him, he returned to Jerusalem, and by the Kings Command went after those mentioned, ver. 7. and being come up to them at the place where they waited for him, he put himself into the Head of Joab's men, and the Cherethites and the Pelethites, and such as he had brought along with him, and Marched before them as their Chief and General. r After the manner of Travellers and Soldiers. s To meet and Salute Amasa, who was coming towards him to do him Honour. t Things having (it is likely) been so contrived by Joab, that upon the least Motion of his Body, his Sword should drop out, and he might take it up without raising Amasa's Suspition.

9 And Joab said to Amasa, Art thou in health my brother? And Joab took Amasa by the beard u with the right hand to kiss him.

u As the manner of Ancient times was, when they kissed and saluted one another.

10 But Amasa took no heed to the sword that was in Joabs hand x: so he smote him therewith in the fifth rib y, and shed out his bowels to the ground, and † strook him not again z, and he died: so Joab a and Abishai his brother pursued after Sheba the son of Bichri.

x Which falling out, as it seemed, casually, he supposed that Joab intended only to put it into its Scabbard, and therefore took no care to defend himself against the stroke. y See on Chap. 2. 23. z He dispatched him at one stroke; or, gave him his Deaths Wound at the first blow, and needed not to smite him again. a Who now boldly resumed his former Place, and Marched in the Head of the Army. It is not strange, that Amasa's Soldiers did not fight to Revenge his Death; partly, because not many of them were yet come up, but came by degrees, as the following Verses shew; and partly, because Joab's Interest and Authority with the Military-men was very great; especially, with David's Guards, who were here present, and who had no kindness for Amasa, as having been the General of the Rebellious Army; and, as they might think, was not fit to be put into a Place of so great Power and Trust.

11 And one of Joabs men b stood by him, and said, He that favoureth Joab c, and he that is for David d, let him go after Joab.

b Left there on purpose to deliver the following Message. c He that would have Joab to be General, rather than such a Perfideous Rebel and Traytor as Amasa. d He that wisheth David good success against Sheba, and against all Rebels. Whereby he implies, that though this Fact of his was done against the Kings Command, yet it was for his Interest and Defence.

12 And Amasa wallowed e in blood f in the midst of the high-way: and when the man saw that all the people g stood still h, he removed Amasa out of the high-way into the field i, and cast a cloth upon him, when he saw that every one that came by him, stood still.

e Heb. rolled himself, being in the Pangs of Death; yet having so much Life left, as to move himself a little, though not to raise himself up from his place. f In his own blood, which was shed there. g To wit, the Soldiers which were upon their March. h Wondering at the Spectacle, and enquiring into the Author and occasion of it. i Perceiving, that it both incensed them against Joab, and hindred the Kings present Service.

13 When he was removed out of the high-way, all the people went on after Joab, to pursue after Sheba the son of Bichri.

¶ 14 And he k went through all the tribes of Israel unto Abel, and to Beth-maachah l, and all the Berites m: and they n were gathered together, and went also after him o.

k Either, 1. Joab, who pursued Sheba, through all the Tribes as far as Abel. Or rather, 2. Sheba who was last mentioned, who Marched from Tribe to Tribe to stir them up to Sedition; and to him the following words seem best to agree. l Or rather, to Abel, even to Bethmaachah; i. e. unto Abel-bethmaachah, as this place is called here in the Hebrew text, ver. 15. and 1 King. 15. 20. 2 King. 15. 29. to distinguish it from other Abels; and to signifie, that this was that Abel which was in the Tribe of Naphtali, in the Northern border of Canaan, towards that part of Syria called Maachah, 2 Sam. 10. 8. m Such as lived in the City, or Territory of Beroth of Benjamin, Josh. 18. 25. who being of the same Tribe, if not City with Sheba, and his greatest Acquaintance and Friends: or, being most Implacable against David, adhered to Sheba, and followed him through all the Tribes of Israel, n to wit, the Tribes of Israel; i. e. a considerable Number of them, as might well be expected, when the discontents were so high and general. o i. e. After Sheba.

15 And they p came and besieged him in Abel of Beth-maachah, and ‖ they cast up a bank against the city q, and it stood in the trench r: and all the people that were with Joab, † battered the wall to throw it down:

p i. e. Joab and his Army, which is easily understood, both from the foregoing and following Verses. q From whence they might either batter the Wall, or shoot at those who defended it against them, who should Assault it. See 2 King. 19. 32. Jer. 32. 24. and 33. 4. Otherwise, they threw down the bank of the City, which they had raised up to Defend the City on the weakest side. r i. e. The Bank stood in, or near to the Trench, or the Wall of the City; so that the City was in great danger of being taken. Otherwise, the City stood within the Trench, or Wall, being Defended only by a single Trench, or a weak Wall; the Bank which was raised up there to Defend it, being thrown down.

16 ¶ Then cried a wise woman out of the city, Hear, Hear; say, I pray you, unto Joab, Come near hither, that I may speak with thee.

17 And when he was come near unto her, the woman said, Art thou Joab? And he answered, I am he: Then he said unto him, Hear the words of thine handmaid. And he answered, I do hear.

18 Then she spake, saying, ‖ They were wont to speak in old time, saying, They shall surely ask counsel at Abel: and so they ended the matter s.

‖ Or, They plainly speak in the beginning, saying, Surely they will ask of Abel, and so make an end.

s According to this Translation the sence is, This City which thou art about to Destroy, is no mean and contemptible one, but so honourable and considerable for its Wisdom, and the Wise People in it, that when any differences did arise among any of the Neighbours, they used Proverbially to say, We will ask the Opinion and Advice of the Men of Abel about it, and we will stand to their Arbitration; and so all parties were satisfied, and Disputes ended. But there is another Translation in the Margent, embraced also by some others, which seems to be the best; They (i. e. The Citizens of this City) plainly (or, commonly) speak (among themselves) in the beginning (to wit, when Sheba and his Men first came into the City, and they were informed, That Joab was pursuing him) saying, Surely they will ask of Abel and so make an end: i. e. They will peaceably Expostulate the business with us, and enquire, Why we received Sheba into our City? and whether we would deliver him up into their hands, and would inform us of the reason of their Hostile Attempt upon us, and offer to us Conditions of Peace, which by Gods Law Deut. 20. 10. they were to do even to strange, and much more to Israelitish Cities. So she doth both modestly reprove Joab for the neglect of his Duty, and oblige him to the Performance of it.

19 I am one of them that are peaceable and faithful in Israel t: thou seekest to destroy a city, and a mother u in Israel: why wilt thou swallow up the inheritance of the LORD x?

t Or, I (to wit, the City of Abel, in whose Name and Person she speaks this) am one of the peaceable and faithful Cities of Israel. Whatsoever Sheba may design, whom we have innocently received into our City, before we well understood the matter; We of this City abhor the thoughts of Warring, and Rebelling against the King, as having had no hand in Absalom's late Rebellion: which is probable enough, considering both their Scituation in the utmost Borders of the Land, very remote from the Seat of that Civil War; and their open Profession of their Peaceableness, and Fidelity, or Loyalty to the King; which had been Impudent if they had been so lately involved in the last War and Rebellion. u i. e. A Mother City: for great Cities are commonly called Mothers; as lesser Towns or Villages subject to them, and depending upon them, for direction and Defence, are called their Daughters, as Ezek. 16. 27, 46. x i. e. A considerable part of that Land which God hath chosen for his peculiar Possession. The Destruction which thou art about to bring upon us, is an injury also to Israel, and to the God of Israel.

20 And Joab answered and said, Far be it, far be it from me, that I should swallow up, or destroy.

21 The matter is not so: but a man of mount Ephraim y (Sheba the son of Bichri † by name) hath lift up his hand z against the king, even against David: deliver him onely, and I will depart from the city. And the woman said unto Joab, Behold, his head shall be thrown to thee over the wall a

y Qu. How can this be so, when he is called a Benjamite ver. 1. Answ. Either he was a Benjamite by Birth, but dwelt in the Tribe of Ephraim, as many did upon several occasions dwell out of their own Tribes: or, mount Ephraim was a place in Benjamin, which might be so called, either because it was upon the Borders of Ephraim, and looked towards it; or from some notable Action or Event of the Ephraimites in that place. Comp. Chap. 18. 6. z i. e. Taken up Arms, or raised Rebellion. a Which she undertook, because she knew the present temper, and great fears of the Citizens, and Soldiers too; and that considering their evident and extream Danger, they were generally desirous of Peace, from which they were restrained onely by Sheba's Authority and Interest; and therefore did not doubt by God's Blessing upon her Wise Counsel to effect it, as indeed she did. And it is not unlikely, that this Woman might be a Governess in that City. For though this office was commonly performed by Men; yet were not the Women wholly Excluded, but sometimes Employed in the Government: As we see in Deborah, who Judged Israel, Judg. 4. 4. And Queen Athalia, 2 King. 11.

22 Then the woman went unto all the people in her wisdom b, and they cut off the head of Sheba the son of Bichri, and cast it out to Joab: and he blew a trumpet, and they c † retired from the city, every man to his tent: and Joab returned to Jerusalem unto the king.

Compare 2 Sam. 8. 18. where this title is given to David's Sons, the Chief of which were now cut off. And these things are here repeated with some alteration, to shew that David was now fully re-established in his former Estate.

CHAP. XXI.

THen a there was a famine in the days of David three years, year after year; and David † enquired of the LORD b. And the LORD answered, It is for Saul, and for his bloody house, because he slew the Gibeonites c.

a When? Either, First, After Absalom's and Sheba's Rebellion, as it is here related. Or rather, Secondly, In some other time before. It is well known and confessed, that the Particle, then, doth not always note that the thing was done in that order in which it is mentioned; but is oft of an indefinite signification; as also that the Scripture in its Histories and Relations, doth not always observe the order of time, but the order of things, putting that after, which was done before, as occasion requires. And so it seems to be here. The things related here and chap. 24. are by the most and best Interpreters conceived to have been done long before Absalom's Rebellion. And this opinion is not without sufficient grounds: First, This Particle then, is here explained, in the days, i. e. during the Life and Reign of David: which general and indefinite words, seem to be added as an intimation that these things were not done after the next foregoing passages, for then the sacred Writer would rather have added, after these things, or some such expression, as it is 2 Chron. 32. 1. and in many other places. Secondly, Here are divers passages which it seems very improbable to ascribe to the last years of David's Reign: such as these, First, That Saul's sin against the Gibeonites should so long remain unpunished. And indeed that this was done, and Saul's seven Sons hanged by David's order before that time, seems plainly to be intimated by that passage, 2 Sam. 16. 8. where he is charged with the blood of the house of Saul: for which there was not the least colour till this time. Secondly, That David should not remove the Bones of Saul and Jonathan to their proper place, here v. 12, 13, 14. till that time. Thirdly, That the Philistines should wage War with David again and again, v. 15, &c. so long after he had fully subdued them, chap. 8. 1. and that David in his old age should attempt to fight with a Philistine Giant, or that his people should suffer him to do so. Fourthly, That David should then have so vehement a desire to number his people, Chap. 24. 1, &c. which being an act of youthful heat and vanity, seems not at all to agree with his old age, nor with that state of deep humiliation, and great affliction in which he then was. And the reason why these matters are put here out of their proper order, is plainly this, because David's sin being once related, it was very convenient that David's punishments inflicted for it should immediately succeed: this being very frequent in Scripture-story, to put those things together which belong to one matter, though they happened at several times. And this is the more considerable, because it tends to the clearing of that great difficulty 2 Sam. 15. 7. b Concerning the reason of his displeasure, and this judgment. c Which was not only an act of cruelty, but also of perfidiousness and perjury, because it was a direct and publick violation of that Solemn Oath given to them for their security by Joshua and the Princes, in the name of all the Israelites, of that, and of succeeding Generations, and consequently a great scandal to the true Religion, and the professors of it, and a means to discourage others from embracing it, as the Gibeonites had done. Quest. Why did not God punish Saul whilst he was alive for this fault, but his innocent Children, and David and the Israelites of this age? Answ. First, God did severely punish Saul for this and his other sins. Secondly, As God may justly inflict Temporal punishments upon any offender either in his person, or in his posterity, when he pleaseth; so it is meet he should take his own time for it; and it is folly and wickedness in us to quarrel with God for so doing. Thirdly, The Israelites might sundry ways make themselves guilty of Saul's sin, tho, it be not particularly mentioned in Scripture, advising or encouraging him to it; or, by assisting him in the execution of it; or by conniving at it; or, by rejoycing in it, for some worldly advantage which they received, or expected from it; or, by not repairing the injuries which Saul had done them, as far as they might. And some of these ways David himself might be involved in the guilt: although in deed this evil fell principally upon the people. And whereas many of the people probably were innocent of that crime, yet they also were guilty of many other sins, for which God might punish them, though he took this occasion for it. And it may be further observed, That God is pleased many times severely to punish lesser delinquents, and to suffer the greater for the present to go unpunished; and that not onely to manifest his own Soveraign power and liberty, but also to give the World thereby assurance of a future Judgment, and Punishments reserved for the next life.

2 And the king called the Gibeonites, and said unto them, (now the Gibeonites were not of the children of Israel, but * of the remnant of the Amorites, and the children of Israel had sworn unto them: and Saul sought to slay them d, in his zeal to the children of Israel and Judah).

* Josh. 9. 3, 16, 17.

d i. e. He sought occasions and pretences how he might cut them off with some colour of Law or Justice, diligently searching out and aggravating their faults, and punishing them worse than they deserved; oppressing them with excessive labours, and openly killing some of them, and intended by degrees to wear them out. e Conceiving, or rather, pretending that it was not for the honour, nor comfort, nor advantage of Gods people, to nourish any of that viperous brood in their Bosoms; and that howsoever Joshua and the Princes which then were, had by their fraud been drawn into an Oath to preserve them, Josh. 9. 15. yet in truth, that Oath was contrary to Gods command, Exod. 23. 32. Deut. 7. 2. and therefore (as he thought) not to be observed. This was his pretence: but how little Zeal he had for God, or for the publick good of his people, is evident by the whole course of his life: and therefore it is more than propable, he had some particular motive or design in the case: either, because some of them had highly provoked him, for whose sake he would be revenged of the whole race: or, because they being cut off, their Estates might be forfeited to the Crown: or, for some other reason now unknown.

3 Wherefore David said unto the Gibeonites f, What

What shall I do for you g? and wherewith shall I make the atonement? that ye may bless the inheritance of the LORD h?

f To some of the chief of them, who were to impart it to the rest. g What satisfaction do you expect, or require; for the injuries formerly done to you? h That by your acknowledgment of satisfaction received, the guilt and curse may be removed from the Land and People of God, and by this means, as also by your Prayers, God may be reconciled, and may restore his Blessing of plenty to us, which hitherto he hath denied us.

‖ Or, It is not silver nor gold that we have to do with Saul or his house, neither pertains it to us to kill, &c.

4 And the Gibeonites said unto him, ‖ We will have no silver, or gold of Saul, nor of his house, neither for us shalt thou kill any man in Israel i. And he said, What you shall say k, that will I do for you.

i Except Saul's Family, as it here follows. k To wit, in any reason, and as far as Gods Law will permit.

‖ Or, cut us off.

5 And they answered the king, The man that consumed us, and that ‖ devised against us, that we should be destroyed from remaining in any of the coasts of Israel l.

l That we should be either killed, or banished from the Land of Israel; which is as bad as death to us, because here, and here onely, God is truly worshipped and enjoyed. Whereby it seems divers of them wear hearty Proselytes, and Godly persons; and therefore God is more severe in punishing the injuries done to them. Compare 1 Sam. 26. 19.

‖ Or, chosen of the LORD.

6 Let seven men of his sons be delivered unto us, and we will hang them up unto the LORD m in Gibeah of Saul n, ‖ whom the LORD did chuse o. And the king said, I will give them p.

m To vindicate his honour, which was injured by Saul's violation of the Oath, and Covenant of God, and to appease his wrath. n Saul's Countrey, 1 Sam. 10. 26. and 11. 4. for their greater shame. o This is added to aggravate Saul's offence, that it was committed not onely against them, but also against the Lord who had chosen and advanced him, and therefore did little deserve this from Saul's hand, to have his Laws broken, and his Name dishonoured by perjury. p Having doubtless consulted God in the matter; who as he had before declared Saul's Bloody House to be the causes of this Judgment, so now commanded that Justice should be done upon it, and that the remaining Branches of it should be cut off; as sufficiently appears from hence that God was satisfied and well pleased with the action; which he would not have been, if David had done it without his command; for then it had been a sinful action of David's, and contrary to a double Law of God, Deut. 21. 23. and 24. 16. Which, none but God himself could dispence with.

7 But the king spared Mephibosheth q the son of Jonathan the son of Saul, because of * the LORDS oath that was between them, between David and Jonathan the son of Saul.

q For the Gibeonites desiring onely such a number, without designing the persons, it was at David's choice whom to spare. Or, he prevailed with the Gibeonites that they did not demand him: and with the Lord, that he might not be one of those who were devoted to destruction. ‖ This is expressly added, to distinguish him from the other Mephibosheth, v. 8.

8 But the king took the two sons of Rispah r, the daughter of Aiah, whom she bare unto Saul; Armoni, and Mephibosheth, and the five sons of ‖ Michal s the daughter of Saul, whom she † brought up t for Adriel the son of Barzillai the Meholathite u.

r Saul's Concubine, v, 11. and chap. 3. 7. s Or, of Michal's sister,, to wit, Merab: for Michal had no Children, 2 Sam. 6. 23. nor was she Married to this Adriel, but to Phalti or Phaltiel the son of Laish, 1 Sam. 25. 44. and 2 Sam. 3. 15. and Merab her sister was Married to this very Adriel the Meholathite, 1 Sam. 18. 19. And it must be remembred that the Hebrew Language is very short, and full of Elipses or defects of words, which yet may be easily understood from the sense. Particularly, relative words are oft lacking, and to be supplied. as Goliah is put for Goliah's brother, here v. 19. and Uncle for Uncle's son. Jer. 32. 7, 12. Or, the Sons of Merab are called the sons of Michal, to wit, by adoption; or, the near Kindred and next Heirs of Michal, and brought up by her. For upon that, and such like accounts the title of Son is oft given in Scripture, as Gen. 48. 5. Exod. 2. 10. Deut. 25. 5, 6. Ruth. 1 11, 12. and 4. 17. Quest. But why then are not these called the sons of Merab? Answ. Because they were better known by their Relation to Michal, who was David's Wife, and, it may be alive at this time, and having no Children of her own, took these and bred them up as her own; when Merab, was now a more obscure person, and possibly dead many years before this. t For so this Hebrew Verb, which primarily, and properly signifies to bear, is sometimes used, as Gen. 50. 23. Ruth. 4. 17. because the Education of Children is a kind of bearing of them, as requiring frequently no less care and pains than the bearing doth; whence it is that Nurses are reputed as Mothers, and sometimes go under that name both in Sacred and Prophane Writers. See Ruth 4. 16, 17. and compare Gen. 16. 2. and 30. 3. Numb. 11. 12. Gal. 4. 19. u Of Abel meholah in the Tribe of Benjamin. Judg. 7. 22. So he is here called by way of distinction from Barzillai the Gileadite, chap. 19. 31.

9 And he delivered them into the hand of the Gibeonites x, and they * hanged them in the hill y before the LORD z: and they fell a all seven together, and were put to death in the days of harvest, in the first days, b in the beginning of barley harvest b.

x Quest. How could David do this, when he had Sworn that he would not cut off Saul's seed, 1 Sam. 24. 21, 22. Ans. Because he had special warrant and direction from God about it, who, as all confess, can dispence with mens Oaths, and with his own Laws when he sees it fit. And that he did so here, is manifest, because God was pleased with it, and removed the Judgment upon it, whereas, otherwise David had been guilty of the same sin with Saul, to wit, of the breach of his Oath and Covenant, for which this Famine was inflicted. See the notes on 1 Sam. 24. 22. y Or, in an hill, in or near Gibeah; in a conspicuous place for their greater infamy, and for the caution and terror of others, who should make any attempt unto the Gibeonites for the future. z As a Sacrifice offered up to God to appease his wrath: or, unto the Lord, as was said v. 6. a i. e. Died: For so the word, to fall, is oft used, as Exod. 19. 21. 1 Chron. 21. 14. Psal. 91. 7. Jer. 39. last. Hos. 5. 5. or, were executed. b Which was before the Wheat-harvest.

c As a Tent to dwell in: being informed that their Bodies were not to be taken away speedily, as the course of the Law was in other and ordinary cases, Deut. 21. 23. but were to continue there until God was ingreated, and did remove the present Judgment. And God was herein pleased to dispence with his own Law, that it might plainly appear, that these were not put to death by David for politick reasons, as that he and his Sons might be freed from competitors, which doubtless David's Enemies were ready to suggest; but by Gods special command, who was pleased to execute this Judgment upon them, as partly and principally for the punishment of Saul's sin; so secondarily for the stablishing of David's Throne to himself and to his seed for ever, as he had promised. e i. e. Until they were taken down: which was not to be done till God had given Rain as a sign of his favor, and a mean to remove the Famine, which was caused by the want of it. f i. e. On their Carkasses. g. From which she might preserve her self and them, by divers methods.

11 And it was told David h what Rizpah the daughter of Aiah the concubine of Saul had done.

h Who heard it with so much approbation, that he thought fit to imitate her Piety, being by her example provoked to do what hitherto he had neglected, to bestow an honourable interment upon the remains of Saul and Jonathan, and, with them, upon those that were now put to death, that the honour done to them, herein might be some comfort to this dejected and disconsolate Widow.

12 ¶ And David went and took the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his son, from the men of Jabesh-Gilead, which had stollen them from the street of Beth-shan, where the * Philistines had hanged them, when the Philistines had slain Saul in Gilboa.

13 And he brought up from thence the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his son, and they gathered the bones i of them that were hanged.

i Having first burnt off the flesh which remained upon them when they were taken down. Compare 1 Sam. 31. 10 &c.

14 And the bones of Saul and Jonathan his son buried they in the countrey of Benjamin, in Zelah k, in the sepulchre of Kish his father: and they performed all that the king commanded:

ed: and after that l God was intreated for the land.

k A place in Benjamin, mentioned Jos. 18. 28. l After those things were done, which were before related; i. e. after they were hanged up: for by that God was pacified, and not by their burial. So the relative belongs to the remoter antecedent. Or, if this relate to what was last mentioned, the meaning is, that God was pleased to restore the Blessing of plenty to the Land.

15 ¶ Moreover, the Philistines had yet war again with Israel m, and David went down and his servants with him, and fought against the Philistines, and David waxed faint.

m These Wars though here related, were transacted long before this time: of which see the notes on v. 1. For it is no way probable, either, that the Philistines being so fully and perfectly subdued by David, chap. 8. 1. should in his days be in a capacity of waging War with the Israelites: or, that David in his old age would undertake to fight with a Giant, or that his people would permit him to do so.

16 And Ishbi-benob, which was of the sons of ‖ the giant n, (the weight of whose † spear weighed three hundred shekels o of brass in weight) he being girded with a new sword p, thought to have slain David.

n So called by way of eminency. Or, of Rapha, a Giant so called. o See 1 Sam. 17. 5. p Or rather, with a new Girdle or Belt: For, First, This was the usual habit of Soldiers, 1 Sam. 18. 4. 2 Sam. 18. 11. and 20. 8. 1 Kings 2. 5. Isa. 5. 27. and, when it was of an extraordinary fashion and price, an Ensign of dignity and command in the Army, Ezek. 23. 15. So this may be mentioned to note, that this was the first time either of his going out to fight, or of his advancement to some eminent place in the Army: which made him desirous to signalize himself with some great action. Secondly, This supplement is more natural and usual, the word girdle being easie supplied from the word being girded: such Ellipses of conjugate words being frequent in the Hebrew Tongue, as Numb. 11. 14. Psal. 76. 12. Matth. 20. 12. Thirdly, The newness of the Sword seems to have no emphasis nor significancy for the present purpose; seeing an old and tried Sword would seem more considerable for his engagement, than one new and unproved.

17 But Abishai the son of Zeruiah succoured him, and smote the Philistine, and killed him. Then * the men of David sware unto him, saying, Thou shalt go no more out with us to battel, that thou quench not the † light of Israel q.

* Chap. 18. 3. † Heb. candle, or, lamp.

q Lest thou be slain, and thereby thy people be ruined. Good Kings are in Scripture justly called the Light of their people, as 1 King. 11. 36. and 15. 4. Psal. 132. 17. because the beauty and glory, the conduct and direction, the comfort, and safety, and welfare of a People depends upon them, and comes from them.

18 ˣ And it came to pass after this r, that there was again a battel with the Philistines at Gob s: then Sibbechai the Hushathite t slew Saph, which was of the sons of ‖ the giant.

* 1 Chro. 20. 4. ‖ Or, Rapha.

r After the Battel last mentioned. s Or, in Gezer, as it is 1 Chron. 20. 4. whereby it seems Gob and Gezer were Neighbouring places, and the Battel fought in the confines of both. t One of David's Worthies, 1 Chron. 11. 29.

19 And there was again a battel in Gob, with the Philistines, where Elhanan u the son of Jaare-Oregim, a Bethlehemite, slew * the brother of Goliath the Gittite x, the staff of whose spear was like a weavers beam y.

* See 1 Chro. 20. 5.

u Another of David's worthy and valiant Commanders. x The relative word Brother, is not in the Hebrew Text, but is fitly supplied out of the parallel place, 1 Chron. 20. 5. where it is expressed. And such defects of relatives are not unusual in Scripture. Thus the word Wife is understood, Matth. 1. 6. Job. 19. 25. and Father or Mother, Mar. 15. 40, 47. Compare with Mar. 16. 1. and Luk. 24. 10. and Son, Matth. 4. 21. Mar. 2. 14. Job. 21. 15. and Brother, Luk. 6. 16. Compare with Jud v. 1. And such Ellipses do also frequently occur in profane Authors. Although the place may be, and is otherwise rendred Elhanan the son of Jaare-oregim, slew Beth-halachmi or Lachmi, (as he is called by way of abbreviation, 1 Chron. 20. 5. which is very frequent in the Hebrew Tongue,) who was (which words are frequently understood in the Hebrew Text) with (so eth is oft rendred, as hath been noted before) Goliath the Gittite, i. e. in his Company, bred up with him to the War, and related to him as his Brother. Or, he slew Beth-halachmi a Goliath (or, another Goliath) of Gath, or the Gittite. So the name of the Giant was Beth-halachmi, who may be here called Goliath, not only for his near relation to him, being his Brother, but for his exact resemblance of him in Feature, or in Stature and Strength, or in Courage and Military Skill; as John the Baptist was called Elias, for the like reason. Perad venture also, after the death of the first and famous Goliath the Gittite, 1 Sam. 17. that name was either given to him by others, or taken by himself. y In thickness. See 1 Sam. 17. 7.

20 And there was yet a battel in Gath z, where was a man of great stature †, that had on every hand six fingers, and on every foot six toes, four and twenty in number, and he also was born to ‖ the giant.

z i. e. In the Territory of the City of Gath. Which circumstance intimates, that this, and consequently the other Battels here described, were fought before David had taken Gath out of the hands of the Philistines, which he did, 2 Sam. 8. 1. compare with 1 Chron. 18. 1. and therefore not in the last days of David, as some conceive from their mention in this place. † Or, a Man of Middin or Madon, as the LXX render it, so called from the place of his birth, as Goliath is said to be of Gath for the same reason.

21 And when he ‖ defied Israel, Jonathan the son of * Shimea, the brother of David, slew him.

‖ Or, reproved. * 1 Sam. 16 9.

22 These four were born to the giant in Gath, and fell by the hand of David ‖, and by the hand of his servants.

‖ Either, because they were slain by his conduct, and counsel, or concurrence; for he contributed by his hand to the death of one of them, whilst maintaining a fight with him, he gave Abishai the easier opportunity of killing him, ver. 16, 17. or because what is done by the inferior Commanders, is commonly ascribed to the General, both in Sacred and Prophane Writers.

CHAP. XXII.

This Chapter is in a manner wholly the same with Psal. 18. and therefore I shall adjourn the exposition of it to that place.

AND David spake unto the LORD the words of this song, in the day that the LORD had delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul.

2 And he said, * The LORD is my rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer:

* Psal. 18. 2, &c.

3 The God of my rock, in him will I trust: he is my shield, and the horn of my salvation, my high tower, and my refuge, my saviour; thou savest me from violence.

4 I will call on the LORD, who is worthy to be praised: so shall I be saved from mine enemies.

5 When the ‖ waves of death compassed me: the floods of † ungodly men made me afraid.

‖ Or, pangs, † Heb. Belial.

6 The ‖ sorrows of hell compassed me about: the snares of death prevented me.

‖ Or, cords.

7 In my distress I called upon the LORD, and cried to my God: and he did hear my voice out of his temple, and my cry did enter into his ears.

8 Then the earth shook and trembled: the foundations of heaven moved and shook, because he was wroth.

9 There went up a smoke † out of his nostrils, and fire out of his mouth devoured: coals were kindled by it.

† Heb. by.

10 He bowed the heavens also, and came down: and darkness was under his feet.

11 And he rode upon a cherub, and did flie: and he was seen upon the wings of the wind.

12 And he made darkness pavilions round about him, † dark waters, and thick clouds of the skies.

13 Through the brightness before him were coals of fire kindled.

14 The

14 The LORD thundred from heaven, and the most High uttered his voice.

15 And he sent out arrows, and scattered them: lightning, and discomfited them.

16 And the channels of the sea appeared, the foundations of the world were discovered, at the rebuking of the LORD, at the blast of the breath of his nostrils.

17 He sent from above, he took me: he drew me out of ‖ many waters.

‖ Or, great.

18 He delivered me from my strong enemy, and from them that hated me: for they were too strong for me.

19 They prevented me in the day of my calamity: but the LORD was my stay.

20 He brought me forth also into a large place: he delivered me, because he delighted in me.

21 The LORD rewarded me according to my righteousness: according to the cleanness of my hands hath he recompensed me.

22 For I have kept the ways of the LORD, and have not wickedly departed from my God.

23 For all his judgments were before me: and as for his statutes, I did not depart from them.

‖ Or, perfect. † Heb. to him.

24 I was also ‖ upright † before him, and have kept my self from mine iniquity.

25 Therefore the LORD hath recompensed me according to my righteousness: according to my cleanness † in his eye-sight.

† Heb. before his eyes.

26 With the merciful, thou wilt shew thy self merciful: and with the upright man, thou wilt shew thy self upright.

27 With the pure, thou wilt shew thy self pure: and with the froward thou wilt ‖ shew thy self unsavoury.

‖ Or, wrestle, Psal. 18. 26.

28 And the afflicted people thou wilt save: but thine eyes are upon the haughty, that thou mayest bring them down.

‖ Or, candle.

‖ Or, broken a troop.

30 For by thee I have ‖ run through a troop: by my God have I leaped over a wall.

‖ Or, refined

31 As for God, his way is perfect; the word of the LORD is ‖ tried: he is a buckler to all them that trust in him.

32 For who is God, save the LORD? and who is a rock, save our God?

33 God is my strength and power: and he † maketh my way perfect.

† Heb. riddeth or looseth.

34 He † maketh my feet like hinds feet: and setteth me upon my high places.

† Heb. equalleth.

35 He teacheth my hands † to war: so that a bow of steel is broken by mine arms.

† Heb. for the war.

36 Thou hast also given me the shield of thy salvation: and † thy gentleness hath † made me great.

† Heb. thy hearkning to me. So Gr.

37 Thou hast enlarged my steps under me: so that my † feet did not slip.

† Heb. multiplied me.

† Heb. ankles.

38 I have pursued mine enemies, and destroyed them: and turned not again until I had consumed them.

39 And I have consumed them, and wounded them, that they could not arise: yea, they are fallen under my feet.

40 For thou hast girded me with strength to battel: them that rose up against me, hast thou † subdued under me.

† Heb. caused to bow.

41 Thou hast also given me the necks of mine enemies, that I might destroy them that hate me.

42 They looked, but there was none to save: even unto the LORD, but he answered them not.

43 Then did I beat them as small as the dust of the earth, I did stamp them as the mire of the street, and did spread them abroad.

44 Thou also hast delivered me from the strivings of my people, thou hast kept me to be head of the heathen: a people which I knew not, shall serve me.

45 † Strangers shall ‖ † submit themselves unto me: assoon as they hear, they shall be obedient unto me.

46 Strangers shall fade away, and they shall be afraid out of their close places.

47 The LORD liveth, and blessed be my rock, and exalted be the God of the rock of my salvation.

48 It is God that † avengeth me, and that bringeth down the people under me;

† Heb. giveth avengement for me.

49 And that bringeth me forth from mine enemies: thou also hast lifted me up on high above those that rose up against me: thou hast delivered me from the violent man.

50 Therefore I will give thanks unto thee O LORD, among * the heathen, and I will sing praises unto thy name.

* Rom. 15. 9.

51 He is the tower of salvation for his king: and sheweth mercy to his anointed, unto David, and * to his seed for evermore.

CHAP. XXIII.

NOw these be the last words of David a: David the son of Jesse said, and the man who was raised up on high b, the anointed of the God of Jacob c, and the sweet psalmist of Israel d, said.

a Not simply the last that he spake, but some of the last uttered in his last days, upon the approach of his death: or, the last which he spake by the Spirit of God, assisting and directing him in an extraordinary manner. b Advanced from an obscure Family and Estate, to the Kingdom. c. Whom, though despised by Men, and rejected by his own Brethren, God himself singled out from all his Fathers House, and out of all the Families and Tribes of Israel, and anointed to be King. d Or, sweet, or delightful, or amiable in the Songs of Israel: Either, First, As the object of them: he whom the people of Israel mentioned in their Songs with joy and praise, as when they Sung, Saul hath slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands; and many others which doubtless they made and Sung concerning him, upon the occasion of his eminent Victories, and the blessings of his wise and righteous Government; some whereof we have in the Books of Psalms. Or 2dly, As the Author of them: he who was eminent, and famous among the people of God, for the composing of sweet and holy Songs to the praise of God, and for the use of his Church in after Ages: For he did not onely indite most of the Book of Psalms, by the direction of Gods Spirit; but also invented the Tunes, or appointed Tunes to which they were to be Sung; and the Instruments of Musick which were used in and with those Holy Songs, 1 Chron. 25. 2, 6. Amos 6. 5. If the expressions here used seem arrogant, and not fit to be said by David in his own praise; let him consider, First, That Holy men spake by inspiration from God; and therefore must follow his suggestions impartially, as indeed they do, sometimes in the publishing their own praises; which yet is never done unnecessarily, and always moderately; and sometimes in the publishing of their own infirmities and shame, as they are moved thereunto, and as the Edification of the Church requires. Secondly, That these seem not to be the words of David, but of the sacred Penman of this Book, to make way for, and gain the greater attention, and respect unto David's following words.

2 The spirit of the LORD spake by me, and his word was in my tongue e.

e The following words, and consequently the other words and Psalms composed and uttered by me, upon the like Solemn occasions, are not to be looked upon as my private fancies or humane inventions, but both the matter, and the words of them are suggested and governed by Gods Spirit, which is the great teacher of the Church.

3 The God of Israel said, * The Rock of Israel f spake to me g: ‖ He that ruleth over men must be just, ruling in the fear of God h:

* Deut. 32. 4. ‖ Or, Be thou ruler.

f He who is the strength, and defence, and protector of his people; which he here manifests, by obliging and directing Kings and Rulers, so to manage their Power and Authority, as may most conduce to their comfort and benefit. g By way of command. Or, of me, by way of prediction and promise concerning me me and my House, and the Messias who is to come out of my Loyns. b Thus it is a Precept or Declaration of the Duty of Kings, and particularly of Solomon his Son (to whom as a dying man he gives this advice) and of his Successors the Kings of Gods Israel, for whose instruction he gives this Rule, And so here are the two principal parts of a Kings duty, answerable to the two Tables of Gods Law, Justice towards men, and Piety towards God, both which he is to maintain and promote among his people. To which if you add benignity and clemency, whereby a King renders his Government not frightful and burdensom, but acceptable and amiable to his people, which possibly may be meant by the following similitudes; here is a compleat Character of an excellent Prince or Governor. Others make it a Prophesie of Christ, and then, the words are or may be thus rendred, There shall be a Ruler over men (or rather, among men, as the Hebrew word properly signifies, to wit, the Messias, who, though he be the Eternal and Invisible God, yet shall visibly appear and rule among men) a Just or Righteous one (a title oft given to Christ, as Isa. 53. 11. Jer. 23. 5. 6. and 33. 15. Zech. 9. 9.) ruling in the fear of the Lord, making it his great business to advance the Service, and Worship, and Glory of the Lord: or, as it is in the Hebrew, ruling the fear of the Lord, i. e. Governing and ordering the Worship of God, which is oft called, the fear of God. And so this clause is added to prevent or remove scandals and offences which might be taken at the Messias when he should come, because of his changing and abrogating the Ceremonial Law; and to insinuate that he should have no less power in the governing of Gods House and Worship, than Moses had; and that he might make such Laws as he thought meet. And if this be the meaning of the place, then as Jacob, being greatly afflicted with the troubles which he by the Spirit of Prophecy foresaw were coming upon his Posterity, comforts himself with the thoughts of that Great and Glorious Salvation of God, which he also foresaw and waited for, Gen. 49. 18. So David reflecting upon the great disorders, and miscarriages, and calamities which had already arisen in his house; and either, wisely presaging, or foreseeing by the Spirit of the Lord, v. 2. that the same sins and miseries should befal his Posterity and Successors; he supports and comforts himself with this Consideration, That one of them should be a most excellent Person; Just, and Pious, and Merciful, and an unspeakable Blessing to David himself, and to all his Family and People, and to the whole World, even the great Messias, who was undoubtedly Revealed to, and expected by David, as appears by many passages of the Psalms, and by other Scriptures.

4 And * he shall be i as the light of the morning, when the sun riseth, even a morning without clouds; as the tender grass springing out of the earth by clear shining after rain.

i These Words are either, 1. A further Description of the Kings Duty, which is not onely to Rule with exact Justice and Piety, but also with sweetness, and gentleness, and condescention to the Infirmities of his People; to render his Government as pleasant and acceptable to them, as is the Sunshine in a clear Morning, or the tender Grass which springs out of the Earth by the warm and refreshing Beams of the Sun after the Rain, which hath a peculiar kind of sweetness and fragrancy in it. Or rather, 2. A Prediction or Declaration of the sweet and blessed Effects of such a Government, both to the Governour himself, in that Peace, and Prosperity, and Glory, and Happiness which it brings to him, and to his People; to whom it is no less grateful, and comfortable, and beneficial, than those great and publick Blessings of Sunshine and Rain, and the Fruits which they produce: Which is true of every good King or Governour; but most eminently of the Messias.

5 Although my house be not so with God k; yet he hath made with me an everlasting covenant l, ordered in all things m and sure n: for o this is p all my Salvation q, and all my desire r, although he make it s not to grow.

k Although God knows, that neither I, nor my Children have Lived and Ruled as we should have done, so justly, and in the fear of the Lord; and therefore have not enjoyed that uninterrupted Prosperity which we might have enjoyed: but our Morning-light, or, the beginning of that Kingdom promised to me and mine for ever, hath been overcast with many black and dismal Clouds, and my Children have not hitherto been like the tender Grass springing out of the Earth, and thriving by the Influences of the Sun and Rain; but rather like the Grass that withereth away, or is cut off before its due time. l Notwithstanding all our Transgressions whereby we have broken Covenant with God, and the Confusions and Civil Wars which have threatned our Dissipation and utter Destruction; yet I comfort my self with this, That God, to whom all my Sins were foreknown before I committed them, was graciously pleased to make a sure Covenant, to give, and continue the Kingdom to me, and to my Seed for ever; Chap. 7. 16. until the Coming of the Messias; who is to be my Son and Successor, and whose Kingdom shall have no End. m Ordained in all Points by God's Eternal and Unchangeable Counsel; and disposed by his wise and powerful Providence, which doth and will over-rule all things, even the Sins and Sufferings of my House so far, that although he would punish them for their Sins, yet he will not utterly root them out, nor break his Covenant made with me and mine; as is said, Psal. 89. 31, 32, 33, 34. n Or preserved or observed, or kept; to wit, on Gods part, and by Gods power and faithfulness in the midst of all the oppositions and uncertainties to which it seems to be exposed on our part; compare Rom. 3. 3. And 2 Tim. 2. 13. o Or therefore, as the Hebrew Particle, chi, oft signifies; therefore, i. e. because God hath made such a Covenant. p Or, he is, he who hath made this Covenant: or, in this is, i. e. it consists in, and depends upon this Covenant. q Both my own Eternal Salvation, and the Temporal Salvation, or the Preservation of the Kingdom to me and mine. r Or, every desirable thing; the Word desire being oft put for Desired, or a Desirable Thing; as Psal. 21. 2. and 78. 29, 30. Ezek. 24. 16. David being deeply sensible, and having had large experience of the vanity and uncertainty of all Earthly things, here declares, That the Covenant made by God with him, and his in the Messias, is the onely happiness which he prizeth and desireth, in which he doth fully acquiesce. s i. e. My House, mentioned before. So the sense is, Although God as yet hath not made my House or Family to grow; i. e. to increase, or to flourish with Worldly Glory and Prosperity, as I expected; but hath for my Sins cut off divers of my most eminent Branches, and sorely afflicted my Person and Family; and although he may for the future deal in like manner with my Sons and Successors for the like miscarriages, which it is probable they may commit: yet this is my great support and comfort, that God will constantly and inviolably keep this Covenant; and therefore, in the midst of all the shakings, and confusions, and interruptions, which may happen in my House, and Kingdom, will preserve my Line and Family until the coming of the Messiah out of my Loins, whose Kingdom is an Everlasting Kingdom; who as he is the desire of all Nations, Hag. 2. 7. so in a special manner is my desire, and the Author of all my Salvation.

6 ¶ But the sons of Belial t shall be all of them as thorns thrust away u, because they cannot be taken with hands.

t Or, the Men of Belial, as it is expressed 2 Sam 16. 7. and elsewhere. Having in the foregoing Verses described the nature, and felicity, and stability of that Kingdom which God himself had by a sure and everlasting Covenant setled upon him and his Seed; and especially, upon the Messiah, who was to be one of his Posterity; He now describes the quality, the mischievous nature, the hazardous and miserable condition, of all the Enemies of this Holy and Blessed Kingdom, whom he justly calleth sons of Belial, because they Rebelled against God's appointment, and against that King whom God had set over them: for which reason others are so called, 1 Sam. 10. 27. 2 Chron. 13. 7. u Which men do not use to handle, as they do other Trees, but thrust them away from themselves, by some Instrument chosen for that purpose. And so will God remove, or thrust away from himself, and from his People, and Kingdom, all those who shall either secretly or openly set themselves against it. And this may be here added, 1. By way of Prescription to Rulers, whom, as before, he admonished to be just and kind to their People, ver. 3, 4. So here he requires them to be severe in Punishing, and Purging away Wicked and Incorrigible Men from about his Throne, and from among his People; the Encouraging of the Good, and the Punishing of the Bad, being the two chief Works of every good Magistrate, and the two Pillars of all Government. Or, 2. By way of Caution; to shew, That notwithstanding the holiness, and happiness, and sureness of this Kingdom, yet there would be sons of Belial in it, who would endeavour to disturb, and overthrow it, but to no purpose; for all these Projects against it should be vain, and fall upon their own Heads.

7 But the man that shall touch them, must be † fenced with iron, and * the staff of a spear x, and y they shall be utterly burnt with fire in the same place z.

x So the meaning is, He must fill his Hand, or Arm himself with some Iron Weapon, whereby he may cut them down; or, with the staff of a spear, or some such like thing, whereby he may thrust them away from himself, that they do him no hurt. Or thus, he will be filled, or will fill himself; i. e. his Hand, wherewith he attempted to touch, and take them with Thorns, as with iron and the staff of a spear. i. e. He will be as surely and sorely Wounded, as if one should run the Iron head, and part of the wood of a Spear, into his Hand. y Or, therefore, because men cannot safely touch them, therefore they will burn them up. Or, i. e. if they do not cut them down with Iron, or thrust them away with the staff of a Spear, they will burn and consume them. z Or, in their place, where they grow or stand, and they will not trouble or hazard themselves to remove them. Withal, it may imply, that they shall be Destroyed, when, and where they thought themselves most secure, even in their own place. And, it may possibly intimate, That those Children of Belial, the Wicked and Unbelieving Jews, who rejected and Rebelled against the Messiah David's Successor, and their Lawful ful King, ſhould be Deſtroyed in their Great, and Strong, and Holy City Jeruſalem, where the greateſt part of that People were gathered together as fewel for the fire, and were Deſtroyed together by the Romans under Titus, where alſo their wicked Predeceſſors had been Deſtroyed by Nebuchadnezzar in former times.

8 ¶ Theſe be the names of the mighty men whom David had a; ‖ The Tachmonite b that ſate in the ſeat, chief among the captains (the ſame was Adino c the Eznite d) ‖ he lift up his ſpear e againſt eight hundred †, whom he ſlew at one time f.

a i. e. Of his chief and moſt valiant Commanders. And as it was noted upon Chap. 21. 1. that the things related in that Chapter were done before Abſalom's and Sheba's Rebellion, though they be mentioned after them; ſo that Opinion is confirm'd by this Catalogue, which though placed here, was taken long before, as is manifeſt from hence, that Aſahel and Uriah are named here. And whereas there are ſome differences between this liſt, and that, 1 Chron. 11. moſt of them are eaſily reconciled by theſe two Conſiderations; 1. That nothing is more common than for one perſon to have divers Names. 2. That as ſome of the Worthies died, and others came in their ſteads; ſo this muſt needs cauſe ſome alteration in the latter Catalogue, 1 Chron. 11. from this which was the former. b Or, Hachmonite, called Jaſhobeam, 1 Chron. 11. 11. from his place; or, as here, Joſheb-baſſebeth, i. e. as we render it, that ſate in the ſeat: i. e. Was, under Joab, Chief, or Preſident of the Council of War, or Lieutenant (locum tenens.) c This was his Proper Name. d So called, either from his Family, or from the place of his Birth or Education. e Which words are fitly ſupplied out of 1 Chron. 11. 11. where they are expreſſed. Or thus, he was above 800; i. e. He conquered them. So there is onely an Ellipſis of the Verb ſubſtantive, which is moſt frequent. f In one Battel, which though it be ſtrange, yet cannot ſeem incredible, ſuppoſing him to be a Perſon of extraordinary Strength and Activity, and his Enemies to be weak, or diſcouraged, and fleeing away; and eſpecially, God's ſingular Bleſſing, and Aſſiſtance: all which may very reaſonably be ſuppoſed. Obiect. But this man is ſaid to have ſlain onely 300. in 1 Chron. 11. 11. Anſw. 1. Poſſibly he ſlew 800 at one time, and 300 at another; whereof the former is related here, as being moſt conſiderable; and the latter in the Book of Chronicles, which ſupplies many paſſages omitted in the former Writings. 2. He ſlew three hundred with his own Hands, and the other five hundred, though killed by his Men, are ſaid to be ſlain by him, becauſe he was the chief Cauſe of all their Death; for he by his undaunted Courage killing three hundred, put the reſt to Flight, who were eaſily ſlain by his Souldiers, in the Purſuit. 3. Some of the Hebrew Writers affirm, That theſe were Two diſtinct Perſons, being called by different Names; the one the Father, and the other the Son, who ſucceeded his Father, as in Strength and Valour; ſo alſo in his place of Honour and Truſt.

And this fact is aſcribed to Eleazar, 1 Chron. 11. 12. but ſo as it is implyed, that he had ſome Partner or Partners in it; for it is there ſaid, verſ 14. They ſet themſelves, &c. So Eleazar might ſtand and fight in that part where the Barley was; and Shammah there where the Lentiles were.

12 But he ſtood in the midſt of the ground, and defended it p, and ſlew the Philiſtines: and the LORD wrought a great victory.

14 And David was then in an hold, and the gariſon of the Philiſtines was then in Bethlehem.

t Being hot and thirſty, he expreſſeth how acceptable a draught of that Water would be to him; as is uſual with men to do in ſuch caſes: but was far from deſiring, or expecting that any of his men ſhould hazard their lives to procure it, as appears from verſ. 17.

16 And the three mighty men brake through the hoſt of the Philiſtines u, and drew water out of the well of Bethlehem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David: nevertheleſs he would not drink thereof x, but poured it out unto the LORD y.

CHAP. XXIV.

AND again a the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Iſrael, ‖ and he moved David b againſt them c, to ſay d, Go number Iſrael and Judah.

a To wit, after the former tokens of his Anger, ſuch as the three years Famine, Chap. 21. b He; Who? Either 1. Satan, as is Expreſſed, 1 Chron. 21. 1. Or, 2. God; who is ſaid, in like manner, to ſtir up Saul againſt David, 1 Sam. 26. 19. and to turn the hearts of the Egyptians to hate his people, Pſal. 105. 25. and to make men to err from his ways, Iſa. 63. 17. and to ſend ſtrong deluſions, &c. and to harden their hearts. All which Expreſſions are not ſo to be underſtood, as if God did work theſe ſinful Diſpoſitions, which neither was neceſſary, becauſe they are naturally in every man's heart, nor poſſible for the holy God to do; but becauſe he permits them, and withdraws his grace, and all reſtraints and hindrances from them, and giveth occaſions and advantages to them; and directs their thoughts to ſuch Objects as may indeed be innocently thought of, which yet he knows they will wickedly abuſe, and give them up to Satan, who, he knows, will deceive and entice them to ſuch and ſuch Sins; which, being tempted to do by Satan, and being effected by their own Wicked hearts, he ſo orders and over-rules, that they ſhall be Puniſhments for their former Sins. c i. e. For Iſraels Puniſhment. d Or, ſaying. For this may be referred, either 1. to God, of whom the ſame Expreſſion is uſed 2 Sam. 16. 10. The Lord ſaid to Shimei, Curſe David. Which in both places is not to be underſtood of any command or impulſe of God, but of his ſecret Providence, diſpoſing things in manner here above expreſſed. Or, 2. to David: he moved David to ſay, to wit, to Joab, as he did, ver. 2.

‖ Or, Compaſs.

2 For the king ſaid to Joab the captain of the hoſt, which was with him, ‖ Go now through all the tribes of Iſrael, from Dan even to Beerſheba, and number ye the people, that I may know the number of the people e.

e Which Expreſſion points at David's Sin in this matter, that he numbred them, not by direction from God, nor for any important buſineſs of the Church or Kingdom; but out of meer curioſity, and pride, and vain-glory; accompanied either with a ſecret diſtruſt of God's Promiſe; or rather, with a carnal confidence in the Numbers of his People. All which were great Sins, and were ſo manifeſt, that not onely God ſaw them, and all the degrees and aggravations of them in David; but even Joab and the Captains of the Hoſt were very ſenſible of them, ver. 3, 4.

3 And Joab ſaid unto the king, Now the LORD thy God add unto the people (how many ſoever they be) an hundred fold, and that the eyes of my lord the king may ſee it: but why doth my lord the king delight in this thing f?

f What reaſon or neceſſity is there for this Action? It is to no purpoſe, and will be burdenſome to thy People, and may offend God, and produce ill Effects?

4 Notwithſtanding, the kings word prevailed againſt Joab g, and againſt the captains of the hoſt: and Joab and the captains of the hoſt went out from the preſence of the king to number the people of Iſrael.

g Joab perceiving the King bent upon it, would not hazard the King's favour, by further diſputing, or diſobeying his Command.

5 ¶ And they paſſed over Jordan h, and pitched i in Aroer, on the right ſide of the city that lieth in the midſt of the ‖ river of Gad k, and toward Jazer l.

h They began their Computation in the Eaſtern part of David's Dominions, which were beyond Jordan. i Or, encamped. For Joab carried with them divers of his Commanders, and others; partly, for his Honour, and the credit of the Work: partly, to aſſiſt him in that troubleſom Work: and partly, to overcome the People, in caſe they ſhould Oppoſe it as ſinful or burdenſome, or favouring of ſome Evil Deſign which David might have upon them. k i. e. Of the River which lay in the Tribe of Gad, or upon the borders of Gad and Reuben, which was called Arnon, Deut.

6 Then they came to Gilead m, and to the ‖ land of Tahtim-hodſhi n; and they came to Dan-Jaan o, and about to Zidon p.

m To Mount Gilead, which lay Northward from Arnon. n A Place ſo called. Or, the low land lately gained; i. e. not given by Joſhua, but taken lately from the Hagarens by Saul; which was near Gilead: 1 Chron. 5. 10. o i. e. Probably, the Famous City of Dan, as it is called, Joſh. 19. 47. Judg. 18. 7. for this was in the Northern Border of the Land, and in the way from Gilead to Zidon. p i. e. To the City and Territory of Zidon; but not into it, becauſe it was not in the Power and Poſſeſſion of the Iſraelites: and the like is to be thought concerning Tyre, and the Cities which the Hivites and Canaanites yet Poſſeſſed in the Neighbourhood of Tyre and Sidon.

7 And came to the ſtrong hold of Tyre, and to all the cities of the Hivites, and of the Canaanites: and they went out to the ſouth of Judah, even to Beer-ſheba.

8 So when they had gone through all the land, they came to Jeruſalem at the end of nine months and twenty days.

9 And Joab gave up the ſum of the number of the people unto the king: and there were in Iſrael eight hundred thouſand q valiant men that drew the ſword; and the men of Judah were five hundred thouſand r men.

q Obj. In 1 Chron. 21. 5. They are Numbred 1100thouſand. Anſw. The ſum here Expreſſed, is onely of ſuch as were not in the ordinary and ſettled Militia waiting upon the King, which being 24000 for every Month, as is largely related, 1 Chron. 27. amounts to 288 Thouſand, which either with their ſeveral Commanders, or with the Soldiers placed in ſeveral Garriſons, might very well make up 300 Thouſand. Or, 288 Thouſand may paſs in ſuch accounts for 300 Thouſand; it being frequent in ſuch great Sums to neglect a ſmaller number. But in the Book of the Chronicles, which was to gather up the Fragments omitted in the former Books, both ſorts are put together, and ſo they amount to 1100 Thouſand. r In 1 Chron. 21. 5. but 470 Thouſand. Anſw. Either, 1. they were exactly no more, but are called 500 Thouſand in a round ſum, as is uſual in Scripture, and other Authors. Or, 2. the Garriſon-Soldiers, and ſuch as were imployed in other Services about the King are here included, which are there excluded. Or, 3. They were 500 Thouſand when Joab gave up the Number to the King; though preſently after that, they were but 470 Thouſand, 30000 being ſlain by the Plague, in the Tribe of Judah; which being David's own Tribe, it was but juſt and fit it ſhould ſuffer more than the reſt for this Sin. And though it be true, that Joab gave up the Sum before the Plague began, yet the Sacred Penman of the Book of Chronicles, thought fit to make a defalcation of them who had been ſwept away by the Plague, that the Judgment of God therein might be obſerved. Or, 4. There are included here the 30000 which belonged to the 30 Colonels mentioned Chap. 23. who are Excluded, 1 Chron. 21. although it be queſtionable, whether thoſe were all of the Tribe of Judah.

10 ¶ And Davids heart ſmote s him, after that he had numbred the people: and David ſaid unto the LORD, I have ſinned greatly in that I have done: and now I beſeech thee, O LORD, take away the iniquity of thy ſervant, for t I have done very fooliſhly.

s His Conſcience diſcerned his Sin, and he was heartily ſorry for it. And the occaſion of his Repentance was, Gods Meſſage by the Prophet Gad, as it here follows, ver. 11. For when, &c. as formerly God's Meſſage by Nathan had the ſame effect, 2 Sam. 12. Both which Paſſages are Noted, to ſhew how neceſſary the further and repeated ſupplies of God's grace, are even to the beſt of men, to raiſe them when they fall into Sin. t Becauſe I am ſenſible of my Sin and Folly, as it is more fully Expreſſed, Pſal. 51. 5, 6. Or, although, as this Particle is oft uſed.

11 For when David was up in the morning, the word of the LORD came unto the prophet Gad, Davids * ſeer u, ſaying.

*2Chr.29.25.

u So called, becauſe he was a Prophet (for ſuch were called Seers, 1 Sam. 9. 9.) now and at other times employed by God to Reveal his Mind and Will to David. See 1 Sam. 22. 5. 1 Chron. 29. 29.

12 Go, and ſay unto David, Thus ſaith the LORD, I offer thee three things; chooſe the one of them, that I may do it unto thee.

13 So Gad came to David, and told him, and ſaid unto him, Shall ſeven years of famine x come unto thee, in thy land? or wilt thou flee three months before thine enemies, while they purſue thee? or that there be three days peſtilence in thy land? now adviſe, and ſee what anſwer I ſhall return to him that ſent me.

x Obj. In 1 Chron. 21. 12. it is onely three years of famine. Anſ. 1. Some conceive, that here was an Error in the Tranſcriber, and that the true Reading is, three years, as the LXX read in this place, being ſuppoſed to have found it ſo in their Copies, and that otherwiſe they durſt never have preſumed to make ſo great a change in the Text. 2. In Chron. he ſpeaks exactly of thoſe years of Famine onely which came for David's Sin: but here he ſpeaks more confuſedly and comprehenſively, including thoſe Three years of Famine ſent for Saul's Sin, Chap. 21. And this Sin of David's was Commited in the Year next after them, which was in a manner a year of Famine; either, becauſe it was the Sabbatical Year, wherein they might not Sow, nor Reap: or rather, becauſe not being able to Sow, in the Third Year, becauſe of the Exceſſive Drought, they were not capable of Reaping this Fourth Year. And Three years more being added to theſe Four, make up the Seven here mentioned, So the meaning of the Words is this, As thou haſt already had Four Years of Famine, ſhall Three years more come? And that it is ſaid of theſe Seven Years, that they ſhall come, it is a Synecdochical Expreſſion frequent in Scripture, becauſe part of the years were yet to come. Even as it is ſaid of the Iſraelites, that they ſhould wander in the wilderneſs forty years, Numb. 14. 33. when part of that time was already ſpent.

14 And David ſaid unto Gad, I am in a great ſtrait, let us fall now into the hand of the LORD, y (for his mercies are ‖ great z) and let me not fall into the hand of man.

‖ Or, many.

y To wit, his immediate Stroke, which is chiefly in the Peſtilence: for though the Sword and Famine be alſo God's Hand, yet there is alſo the hand of Man, or other Creatures in them. The reaſon of this choice, was partly his Experience in, and confidence of God's great goodneſs: partly, becauſe the other Judgments, eſpecially the Sword, had been more diſhonourable, not onely to David, but alſo to God, and to his People, and to the True Religion; and partly, becauſe he having ſinned himſelf, thought it juſt and reaſonable to chuſe ſuch a Plague to which he was as obnoxious to as his People; whereas, he had better fences for himſelf againſt Sword and Famine than they had. z And therefore will not exceed meaſure in his Strokes, as men will do.

15 ¶ So the Lord ſent a Peſtilence upon Iſrael, from the morning even to the time appointed a: and there died of the people from Dan even to Beer-ſheba, ſeventy thouſand men b.

a Either. 1. From Morning to Evening, which is here called the time appointed; or, the time of the convention, or publick meeting, as this Hebrew Word oft ſignifies, i. e. till the time of the Evening-Prayer and Sacrifice, when the people uſed more ſolemnly to meet together, See Pſal. 141. 2. Act. 3. 1. Thus God mitigated his Sentence, and turned three days into one; it being a thing not unuſual with God, to qualifie his threatnings, and to take off the evil threatned ſometimes wholly, as in Ninevehs Caſe, and ſometimes in part. And this God might do here upon the ſpeedy and ſerious Repentance of David, and of his People. Or rather, 2. from the morning, (or rather, from that morning; for the Article ſeems to be Emphatical, and to denote, That very morning, in which Gad came to David, ver. 11. and that the Plague did immediately enſue after Gad's offer, and David's choice:) even to the time appointed; to wit, by God, i. e. for Three Days, as God had ſet the time, ver. 13. Obj. If it continued Three Days, how is it ſaid, That God repented him of the evil, and ſtopped the Angel in his courſe? ver. 16. Anſw. This he did in the beginning of the Third Day, whereas otherwiſe it ſhould have gone on to the end of the Day. Or, it may ſignify no more but this; At the end of the third day God gave over ſmiting: for then is God ſaid (after the manner of men) to repent, when he ceaſeth to proceed as before he had done. b So the number of his people, which was the matter of his pride, and glorying, was diminiſhed.

16 And when the angel c ſtretched out his hand upon Jeruſalem d to deſtroy it, * the LORD repented him of the evil e, and ſaid to the angel that deſtroyed the people, It is enough: ſtay now thine hand. And the angel of the LORD was by the threſhing-place of * Araunah f the Jebuſite.

* 1 Chr. 21. 18, 20, 21.

c Which appeared in the ſhape of a Man with a Sword in his hand, 1 Chron. 21. 16. to convince them more fully that this was no natural nor common Plague, but inflicted immediately by the hand of God. d Which he had begun to ſmite, and was proceeding to make a far greater ſlaughter. e i. e. He moderated, and in part recalled his Sentepce of the Plagues continuance for three whole days, and this he did upon David's Prayers and Sacrifices, as appears from v. 25. though these be mentioned afterward. f Called also Araunah in the Hebrew of v. 18. and Ornan, 1 Chron. 21. 22. such changes in the pronounciation of the names being usual in Scripture.

17 And David spake unto the LORD, when he saw the angel that smote the people, and said, Lo, I have sinned, and I have done wickedly: but these sheep, what have they done? Let thine hand, I pray thee, be against me g, and against my fathers house h.

g Wherein David shews his Justice, and Piety, and Fatherly care of his people, and that he was a Type of Christ. h Against my neerest Relations, who probably either put David upon, or encouraged him in this action, because they were no less vain-glorious than David; and the honour which they thought would come to David thereby, would also redound to them; or, at least they did not use their utmost indeavours to dissuade David from it, as they should have done, and therefore were involved in David's guilt. Howsoever it was but fit and reasonable that his Family which did partake of his honour and happiness should also partake in his suffering, rather than those who were less related to him. Nor doth David absolutely desire that they may suffer, but onely speaks comparatively, and by way of supposition, and with reference to Gods good pleasure.

18 ¶ And Gad came that day to David i, and said unto him, Go up k, rear an altar unto the LORD, in the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite l.

i By command from God, v. 19. 1 Chron. 21. 18. k To Mount Moriah. l Which place God appointed for this work, partly, in Gracious condescension to, and compliance with David's fear of going to Gibeon, which is expressed 1 Chron. 21.29,30. partly, because this was the place where God by his Angel appeared in a threatning posture, where therefore it was meet he should be appeased: and partly, because God would hereby signify the translation of the Tabernacle from Gibeon hither, and the erection of the Temple here, 2 Chron. 3. 1.

19 And David, according to the saying of Gad, went up as the LORD commanded.

20 And Araunah looked, and saw the king, and his servants coming on toward him: and Araunah went out, and bowed himself before the king, on his face upon the ground.

21 And Araunah said, Wherefore is my lord the king come to his servant m? And David said, To buy the threshing-floor of thee, to build an altar unto the LORD, that † the plague may be stayed from the people.

† Sacifices may be offered, ad so.

m Wherefore doth the King do me this honour, and give himself the trouble of coming to me?

22 And Araunah said unto David, Let my lord the king take and offer up what seemeth good unto him: Behold here be oxen n for burnt-sacrifice, and threshing-instruments, and other instruments of the oxen for wood.

n Which were employed by him in his present work, which was threshing, 1 Chron. 21. 20. See the notes on Deut. 25. 4.

23 All these things did Araunah, as a king o, give p unto the king: and Araunah said unto the king, The LORD thy God accept thee q.

o The Particle, as, being understood, as it oft is in the Hebrew: i. e. with a Royal bounty. Or, Araunah the king; as he might be called, either, because he was King of the Jebusites before David took their City: or, because he was the Son and Heir of that King. p He not onely offered, but actually gave them, i. e. he actually resigned his right, and property in them unto David for so he did; and David by his refusal returned it to Araunah again. q He was a Jebusite by Nation, but an hearty Proselyte: which made him so liberal in his offers to Gods service, and the common good of Gods people.

24 And the king said unto Araunah, Nay, but I will surely buy it of thee at a price: neither will I offer burnt-offerings unto the LORD my God, of that which doth cost me nothing r. So David * bought the threshing-floor, and the oxen, for fifty shekels of silver s.

r For this would be both dishonourable to God, as if I thought him not worthy of a costly Sacrifice: and a disparagement to my self, as if I were unable or unwilling to offer a Sacrifice of my own goods: and unsatisfactory to the command of God, which obligeth all offenders, and me in a particular manner, to offer Sacrifice of their own Estate. s Obj. In 1 Chron. 21. 25. he is said to give for the place six hundred shekels of gold by weight. Answ. These two places may be fairly reconciled divers ways. First, Here he speaks of the price paid for the threshing-floor, and oxen, and Instruments; and there, for the whole place adjoyning, on which the Temple and its Courts were built, which certainly was very much larger than this Threshing-floor, and probably had Araunah's House, if not some others, now built upon it. Secondly, The Shekels here may be of Gold; and in 1 Chron. 21. of Silver; and so the proportion of Gold to Silver being that of twelve to one, 50 Shekels of Gold make 600 Shekels of Silver. And whereas it may be objected, That on the contrary these 50 Shekels are said to be of Silver, and the 600 of Gold; this they answer by another translation of the words. For they render this place thus, agreeably enough to the words, and the order of the Hebrew Text, he bought them for Silver, (or, for Money, as the Hebrew word Chesph, oft signifies, and particularly in this very History in the Parallel place 1 Chron. 21. 23. where David desires to buy it for the full price, or for full money, where in the Hebrew it is for full silver): even for fifty shekels, to wit, of Gold, as it is expressed 1 Chron. 21. 25. which place they render thus, and that consonantly to the Hebrew, he gave shekels of gold to the value (for the Hebrew word Miskal, signifies value as well as weight, as was before noted on 2 Sam. 12. 30.) of six hundred shekels, to wit, of Silver. And this may seem added in the Book of the Chronicles, lest it should be thought that the fifty Shekels here mentioned were but common and Silver Shekels. Thirdly, There is a considerable difference in the Phrase in these two places. Here he mentions for what David bought it, or what he was obliged to give for it; and in Chronicles what he actually gave for it, to wit, of his Royal bounty, over and befides the full price of it: which was decent and convenient for so great a King, and especially upon so great an occasion, and to him who had given him such a noble example.

25 And David built there an altar unto the LORD t, and offered burnt-offerings u, and peace-offerings x: so the LORD was intreated for the land y, and the plague was stayed from Israel.

t Which he might well do, having Gods command for it, and the place being Sanctified by Gods special presence in and by the Angel. u To make atonement for his sins. x To praise God for his Gracious manifestation of himself. y As appeared both by fire from Heaven, which consumed the Sacrifices, as was usual in such cases: and by the speedy cessation of the Plague.

I KINGS.

The ARGUMENT.

These two Books called of the Kings, because they treat of the Kings of Judah and Israel, were written by the Prophets or Holy Men of God, living in or near their several times, and by some one of them digested into this order. But whosoever was the Penman, that these are a part of those Holy Scriptures which were Divinely inspired, is sufficiently evident, First, From the concurring testimony of the whole Jewish Church in all Ages, to whom were committed the Oracles of God, Rom. 3. 2. who also did Faithfully discharge their Duty, in preserving and delivering them entirely and truly to their Posterity from time to time, as plainly appears, because Christ and his Apostles who reproved them freely for their several sins, never taxed them with this fault, of depraving the Holy Scriptures of the Old Testament. Secondly, Because this is manifest concerning divers parcels of them which were taken out of the Records of the Prophets, Nathan, Ahijah and Iddo. 2 Chro. 9. 29. and out of the Prophecies of Isaiah and Jeremiah; and the rest doubtless were of the same nature. Thirdly, From the approbation of these Books by the New Testament, both generally, as 2 Tim. 3. 16. All scripture is given by inspiration from God, &c. which is affirmed concerning all those Holy Scriptures which Timothy had known from a child, v. 15. and therefore must necessarily be meant of all the Books of the Old Testament, which the Jews owned for Canonical Scripture; and particularly Rom. 11. 2, 3, &c. where a passage out of these Books, is quoted and owned as a part of the Holy Scripture, called the Scripture by way of eminency.

CHAP. I.

† Heb. entred into days.

NOW king David was old, and † stricken in years a, and they covered him with cloaths, but he gat no heat b.

a Being in the end of his seventieth year. b Which is not strange in a Person not only of so great an age, but also who had been exercised with so many hardships in War, and with such tormenting cares, and fears, and sorrows, for his own sins (as divers of his Psalms witness) and for the sins and miseries of his Children, and People. See Prov. 17. 22. Besides, this might be from the nature of his Disease, or Bodily Distemper.

2 Wherefore his servants c said unto him, † Let there be sought for my lord the king, † a young virgin d, and let her stand before the king e, and let her † cherish him, and let her lie in thy bosom f, that my lord the king may get heat.

c His Physicians. d Whose Natural heat is fresh and wholesome, and not impaired with bearing or breeding of Children. The same counsel doth Galen give for the cure of some cold and dry Distempers. e i. e. Minister unto him, or wait upon him, (as this Phrase is oft used) in his sickness, as occasion requires. f As his Wife or Concubine: for that she was so, may appear by divers arguments. First, Otherwise this had been a wicked counsel and course; which therefore neither his Servants durst have prescribed, nor would David have used, especially being now in a dying condition. And seeing this was easily prevented by his taking her for his Concubine, which then was esteemed allowable, it is absurd to think that he would not chuse the safer way. Secondly, That passage v. 4. but the king knew her not, implies that the King might have had carnal knowledge of her without sin or scandal. Thirdly, It appears from this Phrase of lying in his bosom, which is every where in Scripture mentioned as the priviledge of a Wife and Concubine, as Gen. 16. 5. Deut. 13. 6. 2 Sam. 12. 8. Mic. 7. 5. Fourthly, This made Adonijahs crime in desiring her to Wife, so hainous in Solomon's account, because he wisely saw, that by Marrying the Kings Wife he designed to revive his pretence to the Kingdom, at least in case of Solomon's death; which pretence had been ridiculous, if she had been onely the Kings handmaid.

3 So they sought for a fair damsel g throughout all the coasts of Israel; and found Abishag a Shunammite h, and brought her to the king.

g Whose beauty might ingage his affections, and refresh his spirits, and invite him to those embraces which might communicate some of her Natural heat to him, as was designed. h Of the City of Shunem in Issachar, Josh. 19. 18. See 2 King. 4. 8.

4 And the damsel was very fair, and cherished the king, and ministred unto him: but the king knew her not i.

i Which is mentioned to note the continuance and progress of the Kings malady, and the ground of Adonijah's Rebellion, and of his following requeſt, chap. 2. 17.

5 ¶ Then k Adonijah the son of Haggith l exalted himself m, saying, I will † be king n: and he prepared him charets, and horsemen, and fifty men to run before him o.

k Upon notice of the desperateness of the Kings Disease, and the approach of his death. l See 2 Sam. 3. 4. m Entertained high thoughts and designs. n As the right of the Kingdom is mine, v. 6. so I will now take possession of it, lest Solomon attempt to deprive me of it. o As Absalom had done upon the like occasion, 2 Sam. 15. 1. such ill use did he make of that example, that he committed the same wickedness which he had done, and yet feared not the same disappointment and destruction, which he brought upon himself.

6 And his father had not displeased him † at any time p, in saying, Why hast thou done so q? And he also r was a very goodly man; and his mother bare him after Absalom s.

p This is noted as David's great error, and the occasion of Adonijah's presumption. q He neither restrained him from, nor reproved him for his miscarriages: which was a great sin against that plain Law, Levit. 19. 17. and severely punished in Eli, which David was not ignorant of, except Adonijah's errors were small or concealed from David. r This particle relates either, First, To Absalom here following, who also was a goodly man. Or rather, Secondly, to what goes before, to signifie that this was a second ground of his confidence, because his great comelineſs made him amiable in the peoples eyes, as his Fathers indulgence was the first. s i. e. Next after Absalom was born of his Mother. See 2 Sam. 3. 3, 4.

† Heb. his words were with Joab.
† Heb. helped after Adonijah.

7 And † he conferred with Joab the son of Zeruiah, and with Abiathar the priest: and they † following Adonijah, helped him t.

t Either, because they thought the right of the Crown was his: or rather, from secret grudges, because they perceived themselves neglected by David, and possibly by Solomon too; and from carnal policy, that they might secure and advance their own Interest, which they saw to be in manifest danger.

8 But Zadok the priest, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and Nathan the prophet, and * Shimei and Rei, and * the mighty men which belonged to David u, were not with Adonijah.

* Chap. 4.18.
* 2 Sam.23.8.

u His great and famous Commanders, and the Guards, and Soldiers under them.

9 And Adonijah slew sheep and oxen, and fat cattel x, by the stone of Zoheleth, which is by ‖ Enrogel y, and called all his brethren the kings sons z, and all the men of Judah the kings servants a.

x Partly, for a Sacrifice; and partly, for Feasts, that he might engage God to be on his side, and draw a multitude of people after him. y Or, the fountain of Rogel, or, of the Fuller: a place nigh to Jerusalem. See Josh. 15. 7. and 18. 16. 2 Sam. 17. 17. z Either, because he knew they envied, and were discontented with Solomon, and therefore would favour him, or that he might engage them so to do. a Except these here excepted, v. 10.

10 But Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, and the mighty men b, and Solomon his brother he called not.

b Because he knew they favoured Solomon his Competitor.

11 ¶ Wherefore Nathan spake c unto Bathsheba the mother of Solomon d, saying, Hast thou not heard that Adonijah the son of * Haggith doth reign, and David our lord knoweth it not e?

* 2 Sam. 3.4.

c Being prompted to it both by his Piety in fulfilling the will of God declared to him, and by him to David concerning Solomon's Succession, 2 Sam. 7. 13. 1 Chron. 22. 8, 9. and by his prudence, as knowing that Adonijah hated him for being the principal instrument of Solomon's advancement. d Who being retired and private in her appartment, was yet ignorant of what was done abroad: and, who was likely to be most zealous in the cause, and most prevalent with David. e So far is he from consenting to it, as thou mayest fear, or others think, that they have not yet acquainted him with it.

12 Now therefore come, let me, I pray thee, give thee counsel, that thou mayest save thine own life, and the life of thy son Solomon f.

f For he will never reckon himself safe till his Competitor and his Friends be taken out of the way.

13 Go and get thee in unto king David, and say unto him, Didst not thou my lord, O king, swear g unto thine handmaid h, saying,* Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne i? Why then doth Adonijah reign k, g i. e. Thou didst Swear; which David himself owneth, v. 30. which probably he did to satisfie Bathsheba's doubts and fears about it, and to oblige himself to a compliance with the Divine will declared about it. See chap. 2. 15. and 1 Chron. 28. 5. h So she calleth her self, to testifie her reverence and subjection to him, not only as her Husband, but as her King. i Another expression of the same thing, to signifie David's sincerity and fervency in his Swearing, which adds to his obligation. k How comes this to pass? Or why dost thou suffer it?

* 1 Chr. 22.9.

14 Behold, while thou yet talkest there with the king, I will also come in after thee, and † confirm thy words.

† Heb. fill up.

15 ¶ And Bathsheba went in unto the king, into the chamber: and the king was very old, and Abishag the Shunammite ministred unto the king.

16 And Bathsheba bowed, and did obeisance unto the king: and the king said, † what wouldest thou?

† Heb. what to thee.

17 And she said unto him, My lord, thou swarest by the LORD thy God l unto thine handmaid, saying, Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne:

l To whom thou art highly obliged, whose name thou justly feareſt and honourest, and therefore thou wilt'st not pollute it by Perjury, but make Conscience of thy Oath.

18 And now behold, Adonijah reigneth; and now my lord the king, thou knowest it not m.

m This she adds, partly, lest she should seem to accuse the King of inconstancy and perfidiousness; and partly, to aggravate Adonijah's crime, from that gross neglect and contempt of the King, which did accompany it.

19 And he hath slain oxen, and fat cattel, and sheep in abundance, and hath called all the sons of the king, and Abiathar the priest, and Joab the captain of the host: but Solomon thy servant n hath he not called.

n Who is not so presumptuous as Adonijah, usurping the Throne before his time, but carries himself modestly, and submissively, as thy Son, and Servant, and Subject.

20 And thou, my lord, O king, the eyes of all Israel are upon thee o, that thou shouldest tell them who shall sit upon the throne of my lord the king p after him q.

o The generality of the People are in suspence, whether Adonijah's practices be with thy consent or no, and wait for thy Sentence, which they will readily embrace. p She spakes onely in general as owning the Kings Prerogative to give the Crown to which of his Sons he pleased, if he had not restrained himself by his Oath to Solomon. q i. e. After thy death. Whereby she taxeth Adonijah's ambition, who usurped the Crown whilst his Father lived.

21 Otherwise it shall come to pass, when my lord the king shall sleep with his fathers r, that I and my son Solomon shall be counted † offenders s.

† Heb. shall be sinners.

r i. e. Die as his Fathers did, See Gen. 47. 30. s We shall be punished with death as Malefactors, as guilty of practising against the right Heir of the Crown, and transferring the Kingdom to Solomon, and covering our ambitious designs with a pretence of Religion.

22 ¶ And lo, while she yet talked with the king, Nathan the prophet also came in t.

t To discourse with the King; which made it fit for her to withdraw, as she did, vers. 28.

23 And they told the king, saying, Behold, Nathan the prophet. And when he was come in before the king, he bowed himself before the king with his face to the ground.

24 And Nathan said, My Lord, O king, hast thou said u, Adonijah shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne?

u Is this done by thy consent, without which it seems strange that he durst attempt it?

25 For he is gone down this day, and hath slain oxen, and fat cattel, and sheep in abundance, and hath called all the kings sons, and the captains of the host, and Abiathar the priest; and behold, they eat, and drink before him, and say, † God save king Adonijah.

† Heb. Let king Adonijah live.

26 But me, even me thy servant x, and Zadok the priest, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and thy servant Solomon hath he not called.

x Whom he knew to be acquainted with thy mind, and with the mind of God in this matter: and therefore his neglect of me herein gives me cause to suspect that this is done without thy privity: which now I come to know.

27 Is this thing done by my lord the king, and thou hast not shewed it unto thy servant y, who should sit on the throne of my lord the king after him?

y Who, having been an instrument in delivering God's message to thee concerning thy Successor, might reasonably expect that if the King had changed his mind, or God had since made some revelation contrary to the former, thou wouldest have acquainted me with it, as being both a Prophet of the Lord, and one whom thou hast always found faithful to thee, and to whom thou hast used to communicate thy secret counsels.

28 ¶ Then king David answered and said, Call me

me Bathsheba z: and she came † into the kings presence, and stood before the king.

† Heb. before the king.

z Who, upon Nathan's approach to the King had modestly withdrawn her self, either into another Room, or into another part of this Room, more remote from the Bed upon which David lay.

29 And the king sware, and said, As the LORD liveth, that hath redeemed my soul out of all distress, 30 Even as I sware unto thee by the LORD God of Israel, saying, Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne in my stead; even so will I certainly do this day.

31 Then Bathsheba bowed with her face to the earth, and did reverence to the king, and said, Let my lord king David live for ever.

a i. e. For a long time, as that word is oft used, as Chap. 2. 33. Dan. 2. 4. Though I desire thy Oath may be kept, and the right of Succession confirmed to my Son, yet I am far from thirsting after thy death for his advancement, and should rather rejoyce, if it were possible for thee to live and enjoy thy Crown for ever.

32 ¶ And king David said, Call me Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada. And they came before the king.

33 The king also said unto them, Take with you the servants of your lord b, and cause Solomon my son to ride upon † mine own mule c, and bring him down to Gihon d.

† Heb. which belongeth to me.

b i. e. My publick Officers, and my Guards. c As a token that the Royal Dignity is transferred upon Solomon, and that by my consent. Compare Gen. 41. 43. Esth. 6. 8. d A River near Jerusalem, on the West-side, as may be gathered from 2 Chron. 32. 30. at En-rogel, where Adonijah was inaugurated, was on the East-side. This place David chose either, as remote from Adonijah and his company, that so the people might go thither, and be there without fear of Tumults or Bloodshed; or to shew that Solomon was chosen King in opposition to Adonijah; or, because this was a place of great resort, and fit to receive and display that numerous company, which he knew would follow Solomon thither: or, that he might from thence return, and make the more magnificent entrance into the City.

34 And let Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, anoint him there king e over Israel: and blow ye with the trumpet f, and say, God save king Solomon.

e As they used to do where there was any thing new, or doubtful, extraordinary in the Succession, as 1 Sam. 10. 1. and 16. 12, 13. 1 King. 19. 15, 16. 2 King. 9. 3. And this unction signified both the designation of the Persons to the Office, and the Gifts and Graces which were necessary for their Office, and which, they seeking them sincerely from God, might expect to receive. f To make the action more solemn, and glorious, and publick.

35 Then ye shall come up after him, that he may come and sit upon my throne; for he shall be king in my stead g; and I have † appointed h him to be ruler over Israel, and over Judah i.

† Heb. commanded him. So Gr.

g My Deputy and Vice-King whilst I live, and absolutely King when I die. Or, if David and Solomon were Joint-Kings, it is no more than was afterwards frequent at Rome, where the Father and Son, or two other persons were not seldom Joint-Emperors. h And that by Divine direction. i This is added, partly, as being the most Eminent and Royal Tribe, it being frequent, together with the general distinction, to mention one of the most eminent particulars, as 1 King. 11. 1. Psal. 18. title, Mark 16. 7. and partly, lest the men of Judah, who were in a special manner invited by Adonijah, ver. 9. might think themselves exempted from his Jurisdiction.

36 And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada answered the king, and said, Amen k: The LORD God of my lord the king say so too l.

k Which was both an approbation of the King's Fact, and a profession of his Allegiance to the new King, and a Petition to God to ratifie and confirm it. l The Lord stablished Solomon's Throne in spight of Adonijah, and all his other Enemies.

37 As the LORD hath been with my lord the king, even so be he with Solomon, and make his throne greater than the throne of my lord king David m.

m Which Petition, albeit it might have offended an unworthy, vain-glorious, and envious Father, he knew would be welcome to so pious and generous a Man as David was, and to one so kind and indulgent to his Children.

38 So Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites went down, and caused Solomon to ride upon king David's mule, and brought him to Gihon.

39 And Zadok the priest n took an horn of * oil out of the tabernacle o, and anointed Solomon: and they blew the trumpet, and all the people said, God save king Solomon.

* Exod. 30. 23, 25, 32.

n For though he was not the High-Priest, he might do this office, especially having the direction of the Prophet Nathan, vers. 34. o That which David had erected for the Ark, 2 Sam. 6. 17. in which Oyl was kept for divers Sacred uses: for Moses his Tabernacle was at Gibeon, 1 Chron. 16. 39. and 21. 29. which was too remote for the present occasion, which required all possible expedition.

40 And all the people came up after him p, and the people piped with ‖ pipes, and rejoyced with great joy q, so that the earth rent r with the sound of them.

p Which flocked thither in abundance, some out of curiosity to see so Solemn an action; others to do their Duty; and others in expectation of some advantage by their chearful attendance upon the new King. q? Partly, because this would certainly prevent Civil Wars, under which they had so lately and so sorely groaned, and which they had reason to fear, from Adonijah's presence to the Crown, and the assistance he might have from the great and famous Lord General Joab, and from Abiathar the High-Priest, and from others who were or might easily be engaged for him, if David had not ended the controversie in his life-time: and partly, because of the singular wisdom and vertue for which Solomon was even then famous. See chap. 2. 5, 9. r An Hyperbolical expression: yet even solid Bodies have been oft broken and rent by great sounds.

41 ¶ And Adonijah, and all the guests that were with him, heard it, as they had made an end of eating s: and when Joab heard the sound of the trumpet, he said, Wherefore is this noise of the city, being in an uproar?

s For Nathan having given wise counsel, took all due care to expedite the execution of it, that it might not be spoiled by delays, as frequently happens.

42 And while he yet spake, behold, Jonathan the son of Abiathar t the priest came; and Adonijah said unto him, Come in, for thou art a valiant man u, and bringest good tydings.

t Who it seems was left at Jerusalem for a Spy, as he had formerly been under Absalom. u Or, a man of vertue or worth, as this Hebrew word is used, Prov. 12. 4. and therefore an happy man, and hast good news for thy self and us. Compare 2 Sam. 18. 27.

43 And Jonathan answered and said to Adonijah, Verily x, our lord king David hath made Solomon king.

x Or, but, or nay, but; i. e. The matter is not as thou expectest, but quite contrary.

44 And the king hath sent with him Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, and they have caused him to ride upon the kings mule.

45 And Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, have anointed him king in Gihon: and they are come up from thence rejoycing, so that the city rang again: this is the noise that ye have heard.

46 And Solomon sitteth on the throne y of the kingdom.

y i. e. Is put into actual possession of the Kingdom.

47 And moreover, the kings servants came to bless our lord king David z, saying, God make the name of Solomon better than thy name, and make his throne greater than thy throne. And the king bowed himself upon the bed a.

z To praise and thank him for his great and good care, in leaving them in the hands of so excellent a Successor, under whom whom they might expect Peace and all Prosperity, and to congratulate with him for Gods great Mercy to him, in giving him such a Son and Successor, and that his Eyes had now seen the actual accomplishment of Gods great promise made to him concerning this thing. a Adoring God for this great Mercy, and thereby declaring his hearty approbation and consent to this action. Compare Gen. 47. 31.

48 And also thus said the king, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, which hath given one to sit on my throne this day, mine eyes even seeing it.

49 And all the guests that were with Adonijah, were afraid, and rose up, and went every man his way b.

b i. t. The way to his own House, lest they should be discovered and taken.

50 ¶ And Adonijah feared, because of Solomon, and arose, and went, and caught hold on the horns of the altar c.

c Either that which was at Gibeon, as appears from 1 Chron. 16. 39. 2 Chron. 1. 3. and was made with four Horns, Exod. 38. 2. to which the Sacrifices were bound, Psal. 118. 27. Or rather, that which David had lately set up in the Threshing-floor of Araunah, which doubtless was made after the same form, as that at Gibeon: For, First, This was next at hand. Secondly, The Altar onely is mentioned here, whereas in Joab's case there is mention of the Tabernacle and Altar both, Chap. 2. 28, 29. which seems to be noted to distinguish the two Altars: for Adonijah being the Kings Son, he might safely go to Araunah's Altar, and the People would not be forward to seize upon him, or bring him to Justice: but Joab truly thought it was not safe for him to venture himself there, and therefore he flieth to Gibeon, as a place more remote from Jerusalem. Hither he fled, either to implore Gods Mercy; or rather to avoid Solomon's Rage; supposing that his Reverence to that Sacred place would not permit him to pollute it with his Brothers blood; or that the consideration of Gods Grace and Mercy, which himself needed and begged of God, in pardoning his offences, and accepting the the Sacrifices which he should offer there, would engage and dispose him to shew Mercy to his offending, and now penitent Brother; or, that his Piety would not allow him violently to pluck him as it were out of the Arms of God, into which he had put himself. And for these or such like reasons the Altar was esteemed a kind of Sanctuary or place of Refuge, not onely among the Gentiles, but also among the Hebrews, though it be not called by that name, as may be gathered from Exod. 21. 14. 1 King. 2. 28.

51 And it was told Solomon, saying, Behold, Adonijah feareth king Solomon: for lo, he hath caught hold on the horns of the altar, saying, Let king Solomon swear unto me to day, that he will not slay his servant d with the sword.

d He owns Solomon as his King, and himself as his Servant and Subject; and being sensible of his great guilt, and of the jealousie which Kings have of their competitors, could not be satisfied without Solomon's Oath.

52 And Soloman said, If he will shew himself † a worthy man e, * there shall not an hair of him fall to the earth f: but if wickedness shall be found in him he shall die.

For as this pardon was Solomon's free act, so he might justly qualifie it as he pleased.

53 So king Solomon sent, and they brought him down from the altar; and he came and bowed himself to king Solomon: and Solomon said unto him, Go to thine house h.

CHAP. II.

NOW the days of David drew nigh, that he should die; and he charged Solomon his son, saying, a i. t. Of all men upon the Earth. Compare Jos. 23. 14. Heb. 9. 27. b For to govern his People according to the Law of God, as it here follows, requires great fortitude or strength of mind, to arm himself against the subtil devices and evasions of some; against the flatteries and importunities of others; against terrors and dangers from revengeful men, and especially against himself and his own weakness, or partiality, through fear or favour; and against all those evil thoughts and passions to which the temptations of their great wealth, and glory, and uncontroulable power naturally expose them. See Prov. 16. 32. c In manly wisdom, and courage, and constancy, though thou art but young in years, 1 Chron. 22. 5.

3 And keep the charge of the LORD thy God d, to walk in his ways, to keep his statutes, and his commandments, and his judgments, and his testimonies, as it is written in the law of Moses e, that thou mayest * ‖ prosper in all that thou doest, and whithersoever thou turnest thy self:

Hereby he intimates, That Religion is the truest Reason of State, and that all true Wisdom and good Success depends upon Piety.

4 That the LORD may confirm his word g which he spake concerning me, saying, * If thy children take heed to their ways h, to walk before me i in truth k, with all their heart, and with all their soul l *, there shall not † fail thee (said he) a man on the throne of Israel m.

See 2 Sam. 3. 39. and 19. 7. Or, Secondly, Indirectly in what he did against Abner and Amasa: whose death was a great injury to David, as it was a breach of his Law and Peace; a contempt of his Person and Government; a pernicious example to others of his Subjects upon the like occasions; a great scandal and dishonour to him, as if Joab had been onely David's instrument, to effect what he secretly desired and designed; whereby the hearts of his People either were or might have been alienated from him, and inflamed against him, and the wounds which were well-nigh healed, might have been widened again, and made to bleed afresh. o Or, even; the following branches being added as an explication of the foregoing, to shew what and how he acted towards or against David. Or, and particularly; as his other miscarriages, so these especially. p He slew them as if they had been in the state and act of War, when there was not onely a Cessation of Arms, but also a treaty and agreement of Peace, of which also they were the great procurers and promoters. q This is added to note his impudence and impenitency, that although by his perfidious manner of killng them when he pretended to embrace them, he stained his own Garments with their Blood, yet he was not ashamed of it, but gloried in it, and Marched boldly along with the Army, with the same Girdle and Shooes which were sprinkled with their Blood. And did David upon his death-bed bear malice againſt Shimei? Anſ. Firſt, David was not a private perſon, who might remit ſuch offences without any inconvenience; but a publick Magiſtrate, who for the honour and maintenance of Government was obliged to puniſh ſuch inſolent and opprobrious Speeches, if the neceſſity of his Affairs had not then engaged him to paſs it by. Otherwiſe it appears from divers paſſages of the Pſalms, and of this Hiſtory, how free David was from a rancorous and revengeful ſpirit even towards his Enemies. Secondly, The following advice is not contrary to David's Oath, both becauſe that was onely perſonal, that David would not kill him either at that time, as Abiſhai deſired him, or whilſt he lived; and did not oblige his Succeſſors; and eſpecially, becauſe it was not David's mind that Shimei ſhould be put to death for that fault (as is evident, for then there was no need of Solomon's Wiſdom to find out an occaſion, but onely of his Juſtice to puniſh him for the old crime) but for ſome other competent crime, which Solomon's Wiſdom narrowly prying into all his actions, would eaſily find out. And if the condition which Solomon impoſed upon Shimei, v. 36, 37. ſeem hard, it muſt be remembred, that David onely Swore that he would Pardon him as to life, but not that he would exempt him from all puniſhment or confinement.

9 Now therefore hold him not guiltleſs b: for thou art a wiſe man c, and knoweſt what thou oughteſt to do unto him d, but his hoar head bring thou down to the grave with blood e.

b Though I have deſired his life, do not treat him as an innocent Perſon, neither let him go wholly unpuniſhed. c And therefore wilt eaſily find out juſt occaſions to chaſtiſe him, eſpecially conſidering his perverſe and wicked diſpoſition. d How to puniſh him, not without juſt cauſe, and yet without any violation of my Oath, or reflection upon me, or upon Religion for my or thy ſake. e i. e With the effuſion of his blood, with a bloody or violent death.

It ſeems he could not yet forget his pretence to the Crown, nor his ambition for it, but continues his claim: Which, it ſeems, Solomon did apprehend and reſent, though Bathſheba did not; the Wives and Concubines of the late King being reputed to appertain to the Succeſſor. See 2 Sam 12. 8. m They looked upon me as their King, and David's Succeſſor, expecting that David ſhould confirm my Election. n Tranſlated from me to him by the viciſſitude of human affairs, and the changeable humour of the people. o Either, Firſt, By Gods Providence ſo diſpoſing David's mind, and the Peoples hearts. s So ſhe eſteemed it, becauſe ſhe did not perceive his Deſign in it; and as for that Law, Levit. 18. 7. ſhe might apprehend, that becauſe David knew her not, it was onely a Contract for Marriage, and therefore no impediment of her Marriage to any other after his Death; which alſo is the Opinion of ſome of the late Learned Hebrew Doctors. t Suppoſing thy Requeſt be but ſmall, as thou ſayſt it is, and not unlawful, nor injurious to my ſelf, or others.

u By the Father's ſide, whom Brotherly Affection and Relation obligeth thee to gratifie; at leaſt, in ſmall things.

22 And king Solomon anſwered and ſaid unto his mother, And why doeſt thou aſk Abiſhag the Shunammite for Adonijah? aſk for him the kingdom alſo x; (for he is mine elder brother y) even for him, and for Abiathar the prieſt, and for Joab the ſon of Zeruiah z.

x His Deſign is not upon Abiſhag, but upon the Kingdom; which by this means he thinks to recover; partly, becauſe ſhe was the last Kings Wife, or Concubine, which might strengthen his Pretence to the Crown; See 2 Sam. 3. 7. and 12. 8. and 16. 21. and partly, because by her eminent Beauty, and near Relation to David, she had a powerful Interest in the Court. Quest. Was not this too harsh a Censure, and the following Punishment of it too severe? Answ. 1. That Adonijah had such a Design, is very probable, both from his Temper, for he was an aspiring and Designing Man, and highly discontented with Solomon's Government, and desirous of a Change; and from the nature of the thing, because he would not have made so daring and presumptuous a Request, if he had not some great Design in it. 2. It is very likely from the following words, though not expressed, that he, and Joab, and Abiathar, were engaged in some Design against Solomon, and that Solomon had got Information of it; and therefore he did, and might reasonably take this for an Indication, and the first overt-act of his Treason. 3. Solomon did not Pardon Adonijah's Treason simply, and absolutely, but upon condition that he carried himself worthily, Chap. 1. 52. and this being confessedly a bold and unworthy Action, and arguing more confidence and presumption than became him; and carrying in it the appearance, and intention of an Incestous Marriage, he might justly revive his Guilt, and take this occasion to Execute the Sentence which he formerly deserved. If it be said, That it is very improbable that Adonijah should expect to get the Kingdom from Solomon, who was so firmly Established in it with universal Applause; it may be answered, That Adonijah was not the onely man that hath fed himself with vain hopes, and engaged himself in high and Treasonable Designs, where to other wise Men there was but little likelihood of Success: and that he might now be onely laying the Foundation of what he further intended, when he saw a fit time, and getting a pretence for his future Attempts upon the Crown; either, when Solomon should lose the Peoples Affections, as David had done; or when Solomon should die, which also Adonijah might secretly procure and hasten; and he had onely Solomon's young and tender Son to contest with. All which, and many other things Solomon in his great Wisdom might easily discern; yea, or have some secret Intelligence of, though it be not Recorded. y He looks upon the Kingdom as his, by Nature and Birth-right, and the Law of Nations; and therefore he may seek to recover his own, and to cast me out as an Usurper. z Who have all an hand in the Plot, though he alone appear in it: which appears the more likely, because of Solomon's proceeding against them all at the same time; as appears in the following Verses.

23 Then king Solomon sware by the LORD a saying, * God do so to me, and more also, if Adonijah have not spoken this word against his own life.

* 2 Sam. 7. 12, 13.

b Though Adonijah be my elder Brother, yet I have an undoubted Right and Title to the Crown, and that from the promise and appointment of that God who disposeth of all Kingdoms, and especially this of Israel, to whom he pleaseth; and therefore Adonijah in this, and his former Attempt, is guilty of Treason against me, and of Rebellion against God. c Either, 1. who hath given me Posterity, as that Phrase is used, Exod. 1. 21. and elsewhere: for Rehoboam most probably was born before this time; by comparing 1 King. 14. 21. Or rather, 2. who hath Established me in the House and Throne of David: which he thus expresseth, to signifie, that God had fulfilled in and to him that Promise which he made to David, in 2 Sam. 7. 11. where the same Phrase is used, and where it doth not so much signifie the giving of David Posterity, which he had sufficiently before that time, as the settlement of the Crown in him and his Seed. d For he knew delays were dangerous in matters of that Nature.

25 And king Solomon sent by the hand of Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada e, and he fell upon him f that he died.

e For the Execution of Justice was not then committed to obscure persons, as now it is; but to persons of great Honour, and Authority. See Judg. 8. 21. 1. Sam. 22. 18. 2 Sam. 1. 15. and 4. 12. f With a Sword, or other Instrument of Death; as below, ver. 32, 34, 46.

m Either from his Office; or, at least, from the Execution of his Office. For some think, that he was thrust from his Office before David's Death, when Zadok was formerly made Priest; i. e. High-priest, in his stead, 1 Chron. 29. 22. But that seems to be a mistake: for although that passage immediately follows the History of what was done in the time of David's Life and Health, when he was in a capacity of going into the Publick Congregation: yet it manifestly belongs to another time, and was done after it: for he there speaks of Solomon's being made King the second time, and he was made King but twice; once undoubtedly before this, 1 Chron. 23. 1. and again, 1 King. 1. 39. When David was Bedd-rid, and Adonijah's Usurpation made a second Unction necessary. And therefore what is said, 1 Chron. 29. 22. of Zadok's being made Priest, was done after Abiathar's Deposition, and upon that occasion. n For what hinders but Solomon might intend this not onely as a Punishment for his Treason, but also as a means to accomplish God's Word? o i. e. Concerning the Translation of the Priesthood from the House of Eli, and of Ithamar, unto that of Eleazar: which being threatned 80 years ago, is now Executed. 28 ¶ Then tidings p came to Joab, (for Joab had turned after Adonijah, though he turned not after Absalom) and Joab fled unto the Tabernacle of the LORD q, and caught hold on the horns of the altar r.

p Concerning Adonijah's Death, and Abiathar's Deposition. q Which then was at Gibeon, 1 King. 3. 4. compared with 2 Chron. 1. 3, 5. r Of which see before, Chap. 1. 50.

29 And it was told king Solomon that Joab was fled unto the tabernacle of the LORD, and behold, he is by the altar: then Solomon sent Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, saying, Go, fall upon him s.

s To wit, if he will not come thence, as I foresee he will not.

30 And Benaiah came to the tabernacle of the LORD, and said unto him, Thus saith the king, Come forth t: And he said, Nay, but I will die here u. And Benaiah brought the king word again, saying, Thus said Joab, and thus he answered me.

t That the King gave him this Command, though it be not mentioned before, is evident, both from the nature of the thing; for Solomon would not pollute the Altar without necessity; and from Benaiah's Affirmation of it; for why should he tell a lye without a cause? and from his return to the King for new Orders upon Joab's Resolution not to come thence. u For he supposed, either that Solomon would not defile that place with his Blood: or, that he would spare him for his respect to it, as he had done Adonijah: or, he had a superstitious conceit, that his dying there might give his guilty and miserable Soul some advantage.

31 And the king said unto him, Do as he hath said x, and fall upon him and bury him; that thou mayst take away the innocent blood y which Joab shed, from me, and from the house of my father.

x Either 1. Kill him in that place: and for so doing, Solomon might seem to have Warrant from God, Exod. 21. 14. and might further design by this just severity, to deter future Offenders, by shewing, that no place nor person should protect them from the stroak of Justice. Or, rather, 2. let him Die as he is resolved; kill him, though he be there; take him by violence from that place, and then kill him, for Exod. 21. 14. doth not command command the Ruler to kill the Murderer there, but to remove him thence, to take him from the Altar, that he may die. And seeing this might be done, why should Solomon unnecessarily stain the Altar with his Blood? y i. e. Both the Guilt of it, which would rest upon my Fathers and my Family, if it went unpunished; and the scandal and reproach of it, that neither this, nor following Ages may imagine that it was done by David's secret instigation, or with his consent.

32 And the LORD shall return his blood z upon his own head, who fell upon two men more righteous and better than he a, and slew them with the sword, my father David not knowing thereof, to wit, * Abner the son of Ner, captain of the host of Israel, and * Amasa the son of Jether, captain of the host of Judah.

* 2 Sam. 3. 27.

z i. e. The guilt of the Blood which he shed. a Of more ingenuous and generous Tempers, abhorring from all such Treacherous Practises; and both of them then devoted to, and employed in my Service.

34 So Benaiah the son of Jehoiada went up, and fell upon him, and slew him, and he was buried in his own house in the wilderness d.

d Places which have but few Houses and Inhabitants are oft so called in Scripture; as, Isa. 42. 11. Jer. 22. 24. Ezek. 34. 25.

35 ¶ And the king put Benaiah the son of Jehoiada in his room over the host, and Zadok the priest did the king put in the room of Abiathar e.

e He now put him in the execution of that Office, to which he may seem to have been Anointed before, 1 Chron. 29. 22. But of that, see my notes here on ver. 27.

36 ¶ And the king sent, and called for * Shimei and said unto him, Build thee an house in Jerusalem and dwell there, and go not forth thence any whither f.

* 2 Sam. 16. 5.

f This Solomon ordered, partly for his own security; that being removed from that place where his Kindred, and Estate, and Interest lay, to a place where he was but a stranger, and sufficiently odious for his former, and never to be forgotten Insolency towards his Lord and King, he might be uncapable of raising any Tumults, and Seditions; partly, as a penalty for his former Wickedness, wherein yet there was more Mercy than Justice, and from which David had not promised him any security, but onely given him his Life; and partly, That being in this Publick Theatre, all his Words, and Actions might be narrowly observed; which, considering his busie, and covetous, and wicked Temper, was likely to give Solomon the advantage which he sought for; and this very Prohibition would probably inflame his desire of Transgressing it, as the manner of men is.

37 For it shall be, that on the day thou goest out, and passest over the * brook Kidron g, thou shalt know for certain, that thou shalt surely die; thy blood shall be upon thine own head h.

* 2 Sam. 15. 23.

g A Brook nigh unto Jerusalem, of which see 2 Sam. 15. 23 2 King. 23. 4. Which he particularly names, because that was the way to Bahurim, his former and settled Habitation: but this is not to be understood exclusively to other ways and places; for the restraint was general, that he should not go forth thence any whither, ver. 36. to wit, as far any other way as Cedron was; which also appears from the following History; for when he went to Gath, he went not over Cedron, (which lay Eastward from the City) but Westward, as Gath lay. h The blame and guilt of thy Blood shall lie upon thy self onely.

38 And Shimei said unto the king, The saying is good i: as my lord the king hath said, so will thy servant do k. And Shimei dwelt in Jerusalem many days.

i Thy Sentence is much more merciful than I expected, or deserved. k And Shimei did not onely promise it, but also swore to it; being required by Solomon to do so, as is manifest from ver. 42, 43.

39 And it came to pass at the end of three years, that two of the servants of Shimei ran away unto Achish son of Maachah king of Gath l, and they told Shimei, saying, Behold, thy servants be in Gath.

l A King, but subject and Tributary, first to David, and then to Solomon. This might be, either that Achish who shewed so much kindness to David, 1 Sam. 27. and 28. or his Son; who inrequital of this kindness was still permitted to enjoy the Title and Honour of a King, but not the full Power; whence it was, that Achish could not, or durst not keep these Servants, though they had fled to him for Protection; but suffered Shimei to take them away from his Royal City.

40 And Shimei arose, and saddled his ass, and went to Gath m, to Achish, to seek his servants: and Shimei went and brought his servants from Gath.

m Which, though highly dangerous, he attempted, partly because he was blinded with Covetousness and Rage against his Servants, which two Lusts have done, and daily do ingage men to such Courses and Actions, as are no less dangerous to their lives than this is; partly, because he thought length of time had worn this out of Solomon's mind, and other mens thoughts: and that this being done secretly and speedily, would never have come to Solomon's ears; or that Solomon would not be severe in this Case, where it was not wantonness nor contempt of his Authority, but the necessity of his Houshold-concerns, which put him upon it: and partly, because God withdrew from him the light of common Prudence, and wholly left him to his own Mistakes, and Folly, and Lusts; and withal, to the Instigation of the Devil, whose Cunning, and powerful Artifices, and Insinuations, he could not resist without Divine help.

41 And it was told Solomon n that Shimei had gone from Jerusalem to Gath, and was come back again.

n Who doubtless had his Spies appointed, to observe him in all his Motions.

42 And the king sent and called for Shimei, and said unto him, Did I not make thee to swear by the LORD, and protested unto thee, saying, Know for a certain, that on the day thou goest out, and walkest abroad any whither, that thou shalt surely die? And thou saidst unto me, The word that I have heard is good.

43 Why then hast thou not kept the oath of the LORD, and the commandment that I have charged thee with o?

o He was Guilty both of Rebellion against the express, and just, and (as himself called it) good Command of the King, and of Perjury against God; which were two high and hainous Crimes. His Oath, he calls the oath of the Lord, because it was taken in God's Presence, and he was called upon as witness of it, and as the Avenger of all Violations of it, and because the Law of God obliged him to the performance of it.

44 The king said moreover to Shimei, Thou knowest all the wickedness which thine heart is privy to p, that thou didst to David my father: therefore the Lord shall return q thy wickedness upon thine own head.

p For which thy own Conscience accuseth thee, and there is no need of other Witnesses. q Heb. hath returned, which seems most proper. God hath Punished thee for thy former Wickedness, by suffering thee to fall into further Crimes, and expose thy self to thy deserved Death.

45 And king Solomon shall be blessed, and the throne of David r shall be established s before the LORD t for ever.

r That Royal Power and Dignity conferred upon David to him and his Heirs for ever. s By the Execution of such Righteous Judgments as this is. t In the Presence of that God, who is both an Observer and Rewarder of all such Righteous Actions: or, under Gods inspection, and by his Blessing.

46 So the king commanded Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, which went out u, and fell upon him that he died: and the * kingdom was established in the hand of Solomon x.

* Chap. 7. 8. AND * Solomon made affinity with Pharaoh king of Egypt a, and took Pharaohs daughter b, and brought her into the city of David c, until he had made an end of building his own house, and the house of the LORD d, and the * wall of Jerusalem round about e.

a As being a powerful neighbour. b Upon what conditions is not here expressed: but it is probable, she was first Instructed in and Proselyted to the Jewish Religion; as may be gathered, 1. Because he was not yet fallen from God, but loved the Lord, and walked in the statutes of David, ver. 3. And therefore would never have Married a gross Idolater, which was so contrary to God's Law, and so pernicious in its Consequences. 2. Because it is no where reproved for this Fact, as he is for loving many other strange women, 1 King. 11. 1. 3. By comparing Psal. 45. and the Book of Canticles: whereby it plainly appears, that his Action had something extraordinary in it, and was designed by God to be a Type of Christ, calling his Church to himself, and to the true Religion, not onely out of the Jews, but even out of the Gentile World. c Of which see Chap. 2. 10. Into David's Palace there. d i. t. The Temple appropriated to the Worship and Honour of God. e Which though in some sort Built by David, 2 Sam. 5. 9. yet Solomon is here said to Build, either because he made it higher, and stronger, and more beautiful, and glorious; in which, or the like sense Nebuchadnezzar is said to have build Babylon, Dan. 4. 30. or because he built another Wall besides the former, for greater security; for after this time Jerusalem was encompassed with more Walls than one.

* 2 Chron. 3. 17. 2 * Onely f the people sacrificed in high places ‖, because there was no house g built unto the name of the LORD h until those days.

f This Particle is used here, and v. 3. as an Exception to Solomon's Integrity and Glory, and as his infirmity, and a blemish to his Government, That he himself both permitted and practised this which was expresly forbidden, Levit. 19. 3, 4. Deut. 12. 13, 14. except in some extraordinary cases. Possibly he permitted it, because he thought it better to allow an Error in a Circumstance, than to occasion a neglect of the Substance of God's Worship, which he apprehended would follow upon a severe Prohibition of that Practise, because the Peoples hearts were generally and constantly set upon these high places, as appears from all the following History; and they were not willing to submit to so much trouble and charge as the bringing of all their Sacrifices to one place would cause; nor would yield to it until the Temple was built, which he knew would easily encline and oblige them to it; and that being speedily to be done, he might think it more adviseable, rather to delay the Execution of that Law of God for an approaching Season, wherein he doubted not, they would be sweetly and freely drawn to it; than at present to drive them to it by force. Although these and all other prudential Considerations should have given place to the Will and Wisdom of God. ‖ Which were Groves, or other convenient places upon Hills, in which the Patriarchs used to offer up their Worship and Sacrifices to God; and from them this Custom was derived both to the Gentiles and the Jews: and in them the Gentiles Sacrificed to Idols, Jer. 7. 31. Ezek. 6. 3, 4. Hos. 10. 8. the Hebrews to the true God. g Which reason was not sufficient, for there was a Tabernacle to which they were as much confined as to the Temple, Deut. 12, &c. h Either, 1. To the Lord, the name of the Lord being oft put for the Lord himself, as Deut. 28. 58. Job 1. 21. Psal. 7. 17. and 116. 13. and 135. 1. Or, 2. To the Honour, and Praise, and Service of God; to the Glory of his Name; i. e. of his Majesty, and all his Perfections, which shall be adored and manifested there.

i Or, yet, although he mistook, and miscarried himself in the matter of the High Places, yet in the general, his Heart was right with God, and he both loved him with inward Affection, and walked with him in outward Conversation and Worship. k. i. t. According to the Statutes or Commands of God, which are here called the statutes of David; not onely because they were so freely chosen, and heartily loved, and diligently practised by David, but also because the observation of them was so earnestly pressed upon Solomon, and fortified with David's Authority and Command: See 1 King. 2. 2, 3, 4. and 1 Chron. 28. 8, 9.

4 And the king went to Gibeon to sacrifice there; for that was the great high place l: a thousand burnt offerings did Solomon offer upon that altar m.

l The most eminent and frequented, because there was the Tabernacle, and the Altar of Moses, 1 Chron. 16. 39. and 21. 29. And 2 Chron. 1. 3, 5, 6. which possibly were placed upon a high, or raised Ground. m Thereby shewing his special respect to this above all other places; and by his Example teaching and inviting all his People to do so.

5 ¶ In Gibeon the LORD appeared to Solomon in a dream n by night: and God said o, Ask what I shall give thee.

n Quest. How could Solomon pray in his Dream, or that prayer be acceptable to God, as this was, v. 10? Ans. The Dreams of Men are not such insignificant things as many imagine. That good Dreams are oftentimes praise-worthy, and evil Dreams blame-worthy, is not onely the opinion of the Jews and Christians, but of divers of the wiser and better Heathens; and the reason hereof is evident, because mens Dreams are commonly the Images of their minds and tempers, and do onely reflect and represent, though but faintly and imperfectly, those very things which are most imprinted upon their hearts by their waking-meditations, and daily conversation; and therefore it is not unreasonable that either the sinful Dreams of evil-minded Men should be imputed to them, and punished in them, or the vertuous Dreams of good Men imputed to, and rewarded in them; which was Solomon's case: for his heart having been daily and constantly imployed in passionate longings and prayers for the Wisdom, which here he begs; it was a natural and likely thing that his heart should, as it did, work that way even in his Dreams. Although, to speak truly and strictly, Solomon's prayer made in his Dream, would have been no way pleasing to God, nor profitable to himself, if it had not been the result of his daily and most serious practice; and though God signified his mind in a Dream, yet it was Solomon's waking-prayers (which were shadowed by this dark representation) which God accepted and requited; and this acceptance of God was signified to him in an extraordinary manner, and by a Divine Dream, which was one of those ways whereby God oft used to communicate his Will to his Prophets and People. So the whole business lies thus: Solomon Dreamed that God bid him ask what he would, 1 Kings 3. 5. and that he did ask Wisdom, v. 6, &c. and that God accepted his desire, ver. 10. and gave him that Gracious answer, ver. 11, &c. And all this was done in a Dream, but with this difference; Solomon's prayer was but imaginary, but Gods answer was real, though conveyed in a Dream. And when he awoke, he knew by Divine inspiration that this was a Dream sent from God to assure him that he would give him Wisdom, and Riches, and Honour, and this with respect unto his frequent, constant, and fervent waking-desires, which his Dream of his prayers did sufficiently intimate. See more on v. 6. a. i. t. He Dreamed that God said so.

6 And Solomon said p, Thou hast shewed unto thy servant David my father great ‖ mercy, according as he walked before thee in truth q, and in righteousness, and in uprightness of heart with thee r, and thou hast kept s for him this great kindness, that thou hast given him a son to sit on his throne: as it is this day.

p. i. t. He Dreamed that he said. See on v. 5. Or, he really said. For although the use of reason is ordinarily so dark and imperfect in Dreams, that such actings are not human actions; yet in extraordinary and Divine Dreams it is but reasonable to allow something extraordinary. For who can doubt but God may so clear up and assist a mans reason in his Dream, that he may have a true and strong apprehension of some things, which also may make a suitable impression upon the will or affections; and consequently such acts of the Soul may be Moral acts, and regardable by God and men? And this might be a kind of exstatical rapture, whereby his Soul might be as it were carried out of his Body, as St. Paul's was, 2 Cor. 12. 3. for a season, in which case both his reason might clearly and distinctly apprehend Gods mind, and his Gracious offer; and his Will might make a free choice of Wisdom; which therefore might be accepted and rewarded by God; q Either, First, Sincerely, and without dissimulation. But that is more fully expressed in the following words, in uprightness of heart. Or rather, Secondly, in the true Worship and Service of God, in the profession, belief, practice and defence of the truth, or of the true Religion, or of Gods Will or Word, which is called truth, Prov. 23. 23. Joh. 17. 17. Gal. 3. 1. So truth here contains all his duties to God, as righteousness doth his duties to men, and uprightness the right manner of performing both sorts of duties. r. i. t. In thy Judgment, to whom alone his heart was known, and to whom he oft appealed as the witness of his Integrity; and with respect to whom he performed all his duties, even to men. s Or, reserved; that which thou didst not reserve reserve for Saul, whose Posterity thou didst cut off from the Kingdom.

7 And now, O LORD my God, thou hast made thy servant king in stead of David my father: and I am but a little child s: I know not how to go out or come in t.

s So he was in Years: not as if he were now but twelve Years old, as many gather from this name of Child; for that name is given to Ishmael, when 18 Years old, Gen. 21. 14, 15. and to Rehoboam when 41 Years old, 2 Chron. 13. 7. where the word is the same in the Hebrew: and before this time David calls him a wise man, chap. 2. 9. but he was now not above 20 Years old; and withal (which he principally intends) he was raw and unexperienced, as a Child, in State-Affairs, and altogether unfit for so hard a task. t i. e. To govern my People, and manage Affairs, as that Phrase signifies, Num. 27. 17. Deut. 31. 2. Jos. 14. 11.

8 And thy servant is in the midst of thy people u, which thou hast chosen x, a great people, that cannot be numbred, nor counted for multitude.

u i. e. Is set over them to rule and guide them. A Metaphor from the Overseer of divers Workmen, who usually is in the midst of them, that he may the better observe how each of them dischargeth his office. x Thy peculiar People, whom thou takest special care of, and therefore willst expect a more punctual account of my Government of them.

*2 Chr. 1. 10. †Heb. heart. 9 * Give therefore thy servant an † understanding heart y to judge z thy people, that I may discern between good and bad a: for who is able b to judge this thy so great a people?

y Whereby I may both clearly discern, and faithfully perform all the parts of my duty: for both these are spoken of in Scripture, as the effects of a good understanding; and he that lives in the neglect of his duties, or the practice of wickedness, is called a Fool, and one void of understanding. z Or, govern, as that word is used, Judg. 3. 10. and 4. 4. Psal. 7. 8. and 67. 4. and 16. 5. a To wit, in Causes and Controversies among my People, that I may not through mistakes, or prejudices, or passions, give wrong Sentences and call evil good, or good evil. b Of himself, or without thy Gracious assistance.

10 And the speech pleased the LORD c, that Solomon had asked this thing.

c How such a Dreaming-prayer could please God, see in the notes on v. 5, and 6.

†Heb. many days. 11 And God said unto him, Because thou hast asked this thing, and hast not asked for thy self † long life, neither hast asked riches for thy self, nor hast asked the life of thine enemies d, but hast †Heb. to hear. asked for thy self understanding † to discern judgment;

d That God would take away their lives, or put them into thy power to destroy them.

12 Behold, I have done according to thy word e: lo, I have given thee a wise and an understanding heart f, so that there was none g like thee before thee, neither after thee shall any arise like unto thee. ‖

e I have granted, and do at this present grant unto thee thy desire. And accordingly at this time God did infuse into him a far higher degree, and greater measure of Wisdom than he naturally had, f i. e. Wisdom to govern thy People, to know and do thy several duties, which was the thing that Solomon desired, v. 7, 9. and the effects whereof here follow, v. 16, &c. and withal, all Divine and humane Wisdom, the knowledge of all things, of all the Arts and Sciences, as may be gathered from 1 King. 4. 29, &c. and that in a far greater proportion than by his years, and the time he could get for his study, could possibly produce. g Either, no King: or rather, no man: for he is herein preferred not onely before all Kings, but before all men, chap. 4. 31. no meer man since the fall equalled him, to wit, in universal knowledge, and especially in the art of well governing his People. ‖ Quest. Did not the Apostles excel him? Answ. They did not in Natural and Political knowledge, but onely in the knowledge of the mysteries of Faith, which were more freely and more fully imparted in those times; the ignorance whereof was no disparagement to Solomon's Wisdom, because they were not discoverable by any Creature without Divine revelation, which God saw fit not to afford in Solomon's time. I know no inconvenience in affirming that Solomon's Natural capacities were higher than any of the Apostles; and Solomon had a more comprehensive knowledge of all things known in that Age, than the Apostles had in all the discoveries of their Age.

13 And I have also * given h thee that which thou hast not asked, both riches and honour, so that there ‖ shall not be i any among the kings like unto thee all thy days k. * Mat. 6. 33. ‖ Or, hath not been.

h Either, First, I have granted and decreed, to give: for words signifying action, are oft put onely for the purpose of the action. Or rather, Secondly, I will give, as it is expressed in the Parallel place, 2 Chron. 1. 12. I will as certainly give them, as if I had actually done it; for future certain things are oft expressed in Scripture in the past time, as is well known to all. i So it is true of all the succeeding Kings of Israel, of whom he speaks. Or, hath not been, as it is in the Hebrew: and so it may be true of all the Kings that then were or had been in the world, whereof none was like to him, to wit, in all the things here mentioned, and wherein he is compared with them, which is not onely in Riches, but also in Wisdom, and in Honour or Renown. k To wit, of thy life. Whereby he signifies, that these gifts of God were not temporary and transient, as they were in Saul, but such as should abide with him whilst he lived.

14 And if thou wilt walk in my ways l, to keep my statutes, and my commandments, * as thy father David did walk, then I will lengthen thy days. * Chap. 15. 5.

l This caution God gives him, lest his great Wisdom should make him proud, or careless, or presumptuous, as if he were out of all danger; and to oblige him to more care and circumspection to avoid the snares and mischiefs to which so much prosperity and glory would probably expose him; and withal to justify himself in case he should afterwards alter the course of his Providence towards Solomon; and that, when men are surprized with Solomon's dreadful fall, they might know, it was no surprizal to God, but that he did foresee it, and would over-rule it to his own Glory one way or other.

15 And Solomon awoke, and behold, it was a dream m: and he came to Jerusalem, and stood before the ark of the covenant of the LORD n, and offered up burnt-offerings o, and offered peace-offerings p, and made a feast to all his servants.

m i. e. He perceived that it was a Dream; not a vain Dream wherewith men are commonly deluded; but a Divine Dream, assuring him of the thing: which he knew, partly, by a Divine impression and inspiration thereof in his mind after he was awakened: and partly, by the vast alteration which he presently found within himself in point of Wisdom and Knowledge. n Which was there in the City of David, 2 Sam. 6. 17. before which he presented himself in way of Holy Ministration and Adoration, which may be noted by the word, stood. Or, that word may note his abode there for some considerable time, as the offering of so many Sacrifices required. o Chiefly for the expiation of his and his peoples sin, through the Blood of Christ, manifestly signified in these Sacrifices. p Solemnly to praise God for all his Mercies, and especially for giving him a quiet and fixed possession of the Kingdom, and for his Glorious appearance to him in a Dream, and for the great promise therein made to him; and the actual accomplishment of it since wrought in him.

16 ¶ Then there came two women that were harlots q, unto the king r, and stood there before him s.

q Or, Victuallers: for the Hebrew word signifies both. See on Josh. 2. 1. And possibly they might be both, this by their open profession, and the other by their secret practice: not that they were common Harlots; for neither would Solomon have tolerated such; nor durst such have presented themselves before so wise and just a Ruler; nor do such use either to bring forth Children, or to have such a tender care of, and affection to them as these express. Yet that they were unmarried persons, and so guilty of Fornication, seems most probable, both because there is no mention of any Husbands, whose office it was, if there were any such, to contest for their Wives; and because they lived a solitary life in one House. r Haply they had presented their Cause to the Inferior Courts, who could not determine, and therefore now they bring it to the King, as the Supreme Magistrate, and famous for his Wisdom. s Desiring and expecting his Sentence in the case.

17 And the one woman said, O my lord, I and this woman dwell in one house, and I was delivered of a child with her in the house.

18 And it came to pass the third day t after that I was delivered, that the woman was delivered also: and we were together; there was no stranger with us in the house u, save we two in the house.

t So they could not be distinguished by their Age. u Therefore no Witness on either side: and although there might might be some sensible difference to an exact observer between the features of the two Children; yet it is not probable that that was much minded by the Neighbours: for though civil Women might assist them both in their Child-births, yet it is not likely they would afterwards converse much with them, as being persons of suspected fame, and the features of the Children, especially for so few days, might easily be so like, that it was difficult to discern the one from the other. And the Testimonies of the Women were of equal credit, i. e. of none at all.

19 And this womans child died in the night, because she over-laid it x.

20 And she arose at midnight y, and took my son from beside me z, while thine handmaid slept a, and laid it in her bosom, and laid her dead child in my bosom.

y When I was asleep; as she reasonably, and truly concluded. z Either, because she really desired the comfort of a Child, to be educated by her, and owned as hers; or, because she would not be thought guilty of the Childs death, for which she knew not how severely Solomon would punish her. a As she might well know, because had she been awake, she had discovered and prevented her design.

21 And when I rose in the morning to give my child suck, behold, it was dead: but when I had considered it in the morning, behold, it was not my son, which I did bear.

22 And the other woman said, Nay, but the living is my son, and the dead is thy son: and this said, No; but the dead is thy son, and the living is my son. Thus they spake before the king b.

b Both peremptorily and vehemently affirmed the same thing, oft repeating the same words.

23 Then said the king, The one saith, This is my son that liveth, and thy son is the dead c and the other saith, Nay; but thy son is the dead, and my son is the living.

24 And the king said, Bring me a sword: and they brought a sword before the king.

25 And the king said c, Divide the living child in two, and give half to the one, and half to the other.

c With seeming sincerity and earnestness, though with a design far above the reach of the two Women, or of the People present, who probably with admiration and horror expected the execution of it.

26 Then spake the woman whose the living child was, unto the king, (for * her bowels † yerned upon her son) and she said, O my lord, give her the living child, and in no wise slay it; but the other said, Let it be neither mine nor thine, but divide it.

* Hos. 11. 8. † Heb. were hot.

27 Then the king answered and said, Give her the living child, and in no wise slay it: she is the mother thereof d.

d As is evident from her Natural and Motherly affection to the Child, which she had rather have alienated and given away from her, than destroyed.

28 And all Israel heard of the judgment which the king had judged, and they feared the king: for they saw that the wisdom of God e was † in him to do judgment f.

† Heb. in the midst of him.

e Either, great and eminent Wisdom, as the Cedars or Mountains of God are the highest and most eminent of the kind: or, Divine Wisdom, with which God had inspired him for the better government of his People. f To assist him in Wisely examining, and Justly determing the causes and controversies of his people.

CHAP. IV.

SO king Solomon was king over all Israel a.

a This is spoken with respect to his Successors, who were Kings onely over a part, and that the smallest part of it. Or, in reference to the times of Division and Rebellion under David; when part went after David, and part after Ishbosheth; or part after Absalom, or Zeba, or Adonijah: but now all Israel were united under Solomon, and adhered to him, not onely a part of them; especially since the death of Adonijah and Joab (who may be suspected to have watched an opportunity of revolting,) and the confinement of Abiathar, and of Shimei (if not his death also) who could now have little or no interest or opportunity of setting up a party against Solomon (their principals being taken away, to whom they were but accessaries;) nor in probability, any design to attempt it.

2 And these were the princes which he had b; Azariah the son c of Zadok d, ‖ the priest e.

b i. e. The chief Rulers or Officers belonging to him. c Or, the Grand-son, by comparing this with 1 Chron. 6. 8, 9. d Either Zadok the Priest, 1 Chron. 6. 8, 9. or some other of that name. e So he was the second Priest, or the Priest that attended upon Solomon's person in Holy Offices and Administrations. But when this Sacred Writer professeth to give an account of Solomon's Princes, Why should he put the second Priest, or Solomon's Domestick Priest, in the first place? Or, why should he be mentioned distinctly from his Father, who was generally present with Solomon, and could easily, either by himself, or some other fit person or persons appointed by him, manage all the Kings Sacred concerns? Or, why is he named before his Father? Others therefore render this Hebrew word, Prince, as it is used Gen. 41. 45. and 47. 22, 26. Exod. 2. 16. 2 Sam. 8. 18. So he was either the chief in Dignity, the first Prince, and the highest Officer in the State next to the King: or the chief Minister of State, by whom the great Affairs of State were managed and prepared for the Kings consideration, &c.

3 Elihoreph, and Ahiah the sons of Shisha, ‖ scribes f: Jehoshaphat, the son of Ahilud the ‖ recorder g.

‖ Or, secretaries.

f i. e. Secretaries of State. He chose two, whereas David had but one: either, because he observed some inconveniencies in trusting all those matters in one hand: or, because he had now much more employment than David had, this being a time of great Peace and Prosperity, and his Empire enlarged, and his correspondencies with Forreign Princes more frequent. g Of which see on 2 Sam. 8. 16.

4 And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, was over the host: and Zadok and Abiathar were the priests h.

h i. e. The High Priests, to wit, successively, first Abiathar, and then Zadok. Quest. Why is Abiathar named when he was deposed? Ans. First, Because it is ordinary for persons to retain the Names and Titles of those places which in reality they have lost. Secondly, Because though he was deposed from the High-Priesthood, yet he was a Priest and the Chief of one of the Priestly Families: and as Zadok was jointly named with Abiathar, when Abiathar alone was the High-Priest, as 2 Sam. 8. 17. and 20. 25. so now Zadok and Abiathar are joyned, although the High-Priesthood was rested in Zadok alone. Thirdly, Possibly Abiathar, though he was deposed from the Supreme Priesthood, yet upon his serious repentance, and by the intercession of his Friends, was restored to the execution of the Priestly Office, and put into that place which Zadok enjoyed when Abiathar was High-Priest. Fourthly, Some say that here is mention made of all Solomon's Chief Officers, both such as now were, and such as had been, and such as were afterwards, as they gather from v. 11. and 15. where two persons are named who Married two of Solomon's Daughters, which could not be till many years after this time.

5 And Azariah the son of Nathan was over the officers i: and Zabud the son of Nathan k was principal officer l, and the kings friend m.

i Or, Overseers, or Surveyors, to wit, over those twelve Officers named ver. 7, &c. where this Hebrew word is used, who were all subject, and to give up their accounts to him. Though the word signifies any Governors or Commanders of the higher sort, as 1 King. 5. 16. 2 Chron. 8. 10. k The Prophet, who had been so highly instrumental in Solomon's Establishment in the Throne. l Possibly, President of the Kings Council. The Hebrew word is Coben, which ver. 2. is rendred Priest, whence some read this place thus: Zabud the son of Nathan the Priest, or the Minister (as the word properly signifies, and that Title well enough agrees to a Prophet, or the Prince: for the Prophet Nathan was a man considerable both for his quality, and for his honour and esteem with the King,) was the Kings friend. m Either his special favourite, both for his Fathers sake and for his own, having, it seems, been brought up with him: or, his confident, with whom he used to communicate his most secret counsels.

6 And Ahishar was over the household n: and * Adoniram the son of Abda was over the ‖ tribute o.

* Chap. 5. 14.

‖ Or, levy.

n Steward of the Kings Household. o To wit, the personal Tribute, or the Levy of men, as appears by comparing this with chap. 5. 13, 14. it being very fit that there should be some one person to whom the chief conduct or inspection of that great business was committed.

7 ¶ And

7 ¶ And Solomon had twelve officers over all Iſrael, which provided victuals for the king and his houſhold: each man his month in a year made proviſion.

‖ Or, Ben-hur. 8 And theſe are their names: ‖ the ſon of Hur p in mount Ephraim.

p This and others of them are denominated from their Fathers, becauſe they were known and famous in their generation.

‖ Or, Ben-dekar. 9 ‖ The ſon of Dekar in Makaz, and in Shaalbim, and Bethſhemeſh, and Elon-Beth-hanan q.

q Or, Elon, the houſe or dwelling place of Hanan; and Hanan may be a mans name, and this place may be ſo differenced from other Elons. Or, the plain (for ſo the Hebrew word ſignifies) of Beth-hanan.

‖ Or, Ben-heſed. 10 ‖ The ſon of Heſed in Aruboth, to him pertained Sochoh r, and all the land of Hepher ſ.

r There were two Sochohs, but both near together. See Joſh. 15. 35, 48. ſ In Judah. See 1 Chron. 4. 6.

s In Manaſſeth within Jordan, where alſo were Taanach, Megiddo, and Bethſhean, v. 12.

12 Baana the ſon of Ahilud, to him pertained Taanach, and Megiddo, and all Beth-ſhean, which is by Zartanah beneath Jezreel t, from Beth-ſhean to Abel-Meholah, even unto the place that is beyond Jockneam.

t Which was in Iſſachar. And this ſeems added to diſtinguiſh it from that Zartanah, Joſh. 3. 16.

‖ Or, Ben-geber. 13 ‖ The ſon of Geber in Ramoth Gilead u, to him pertained the Towns of Jair x the ſon of Manaſſeth, which are in Gilead: to him alſo pertained the region of Argob, which is in Baſhan, threeſcore great cities with walls and brazen bars y.

u Ramoth in the Land of Giltad, Deut. 4. 43. Joſh. 20. 8. 1 King. 22. 3. ſo called to difference it from Ramoth in Iſſachar, 1 Chron. 6. 73. x In Manaſſeth beyond Jordan. See Numb. 32. 41. Deut. 3. 14. y This is added by way of diſtinction from thoſe Towns of Jair. For being without Jordan, they were liable to the attempts of their Enemies.

z The City and Territory of Mahanaim: of which ſee Gen. 32. 2. Joſh. 13. 26. But this ſeems too narrow a compaſs for one of theſe great Officers, and unequal to the reſt: although theſe portions ſeem not to be diſtributed into equal portions of Land, but into larger or leſſer parts, according to their fertility or barrenneſs. And this ſeems to have been a very fruitful place. See 2 Sam. 17. 27. Or, to Mahanaim. So he may underſtand all the ſpace from the parts laſt mentioned to Mahanaim, which was in the Tribe of Gad.

15 Ahimaaz was in Napthali: he alſo took Baſmath the daughter of Solomon to wife.

16 Baanah the ſon of Huſhai was in Aſher, and in Aloth.

17 Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Parvah in Iſſachar.

18 Shimei the ſon of Elah a, in Benjamin.

a Which he adds to diſtinguiſh him from that curſed and curſing Shimei, 2 Sam. 16. 5.

19 Geber the ſon of Uri was in the countrey of Gilead b, in the countrey of Sihon king of the Amorites, and of Og king of Baſhan: and he was the onely officer which was in the land c.

b i. e. In the remaining part of that Land of Giltad, which was mentioned above, v. 19. Or rather, c in that land, for the Hebrew points intimate that the emphatical Article is there underſtood, to wit, in all Giltad, excepting the parcels mentioned before, in all the Territories of Sihon and Og; which becauſe they were of large extent, and yet all committed to this one man, it is here noted concerning him as his priviledge above the reſt, whoſe Juriſdictions were of a narrower extent.

20 ¶ Judah and Iſrael were many, as the ſand which is by the ſea in multitude, eating and drinking, and making merry.

21 And Solomon reigned over all kingdoms, from the river d unto the land of the Philiſtines e, and unto the border of Egypt f: they brought preſents, and ſerved Solomon g all the days of his life.

d Euphrates: for ſo far David, having conquered the Syrians, extended his Empire, which Solomon alſo maintained in that extent. And ſo Gods promiſe concerning the giving of the whole Land, as far as Euphrates, to the Iſraelites, was fulfilled. And, if the Iſraelites had multiplied ſo much that the Land of Canaan would not ſuffice them, having Gods grant of all the Land as far as Euphrates, they might have ſeized upon it whenſoever occaſion required. e Which is to be underſtood inclufively; for it is unreaſonable to think that the Philiſtines were not within Solomon's dominion. f Unto the River Sihor, which was the border between Egypt and Canaan, Joſ. 13. 3. Compare Gen. 15. 18. g By Tribute, or other ways, as he needed and required.

22 ¶ And Solomons † proviſion for one day was thirty † meaſures h of fine flour, and threeſcore meaſures of meal i.

† Heb. bread. † Heb. Cors.

h Heb. Cors: each of which contained ten Ephah's, Exod. 16. 36. So this Proviſion was ſufficient for near three thouſand perſons. i Of a courſer ſort for common uſe, and for the inferior ſort.

23 Ten fat oxen k, and twenty oxen out of the paſtures l, and an hundred ſheep, beſide harts, and ro-bucks and fallow-deer, and fatted fowl.

k Fatted in ſtalls. l Well fleſhed, tender and good, though not ſo fat as the former.

24 For he had dominion over all the region on this ſide the river, from Tiphſah m even to Azzah, over all the kings on this ſide the river n: and he had peace on all ſides round about him.

m Either that Tiphſah, 2 King. 15. 16. which was in the Kingdom of Iſrael within Jordan. Or, rather, another place of that name upon the river now mentioned, to wit, Euphrates, even that eminent City which is mentioned by Ptolomy, and Strabo, and Pliny, called Thapſacum. And this beſt agrees with the following Azzah, which was the border of Canaan in the South and Weſt, Gen. 10. 19. Deu. 2. 23. as Tiphſah was in the North and Eaſt. And ſo his Dominion is deſcribed by both its borders. n Who owned ſubjection, and payed Tribute to him.

25 And Judah and Iſrael dwelt † ſafely, * every man under his vine, and under his fig-tree o, from Dan even to Beerſheba, all the days of Solomon.

o Enjoying the fruit of his own labours with ſafety and comfort. Under theſe two Trees, which were moſt uſed and cultivated by the Iſraelites, he underſtands all other Fruit-bearing Trees, and all other comforts, by a Synecdoche. And they are brought in as ſitting or dwelling under theſe Trees, partly for recreation or delight in the ſhade; and partly, for the comfort or advantage of the Fruit; and withal, to note their great ſecurity, not onely in their ſtrong Cities, but even in the Country, where the Vines and Fig-trees grew, which were moſt open to the incurſions of their Enemies.

26 ¶ And * Solomon had forty thouſand ſtalls of horſes p for his charets q, and twelve thouſand horſemen r.

* 2 Chr. 9. 25.

p In 2 Chron. 9. 25. it is but four thouſand. Anſ. Firſt, Some acknowledge an error of the Tranſcriber, writing arbahim, forty, for arbah, four, which was an eaſie miſtake. And ſuch miſtakes in ſome Copies, in theſe leſſer matters, God might permit, for the trial and exerciſe of our Faith, without any prejudice to the Authority of the Sacred Scriptures in the great Doctrines of Faith and good life. Secondly, It is not exactly the ſame Hebrew word which is here and there, though we Tranſlate both ſtalls; and therefore there may well be allowed ſome difference in the ſignification, the one ſignifying properly ſtables, of which there were 4000, the other ſtalls or partitions for each Horſe, which were 40000. Which great number ſeems directly forbidden, Deut. 17. 16. except Solomon had ſome particular diſpenſation from God, which might be, though it be not Recorded. q Both for his Military Charets, which ſeem to be thoſe 1400, 1 King. 10. 26. and for divers other uſes, as about his great and various Buildings, and Merchandiſes, and other occaſions, which might require ſome thouſands of other Charets. r Appointed partly for the defence and preſervation of his People in peace; and partly, for attendance upon his Perſon, and for the Splendor of his Government. Compare chap. 10. 26. But the words may be otherwiſe rendred, and 12000 horſes, for Paraſh manifeſtly ſignifies both an horſe and horſemen. And theſe might be a better ſort of Horſes than moſt of thoſe which were deſigned for the the Charets. Or thus, and for (which Particle is eaſily underſtood and borrowed from the foregoing clauſe) 12000 horſemen: and ſo he means that the 40000 Horſes were in part appointed for his Charets, and in part for his 12000 Horſemen.

27 And thoſe officers f provided victual for king Solomon, and for all that came unto king Solomons table, every man in his month: they lacked nothing s.

f Named above, v. 7, &c. s Or rather, they ſuffered nothing to be lacking to any man that came thither, but plentifully provided all things neceſſary.

28 Barley alſo and ſtraw for the horſes, and ‖ dromedaries t, brought they unto the place where the officers were, every man according to his charge.

‖ Or, mules, or, ſwift beaſts.

t Or, Mules, by comparing this with 2 Chron. 9. 24. or, Poſt-Horſes: which are particularly mentioned and diſtinguiſhed from the other Horſes, becauſe they took a more exact and particular care about them. Howſoever, it is agreed that theſe were ſwift Beaſts, which is evident from Eſth. 8. 10. 14. Mich. 1. 13.

29 ¶ And God gave Solomon wiſdom, and underſtanding, exceeding much, and largeneſs of heart u, even as the ſand that is on the ſea ſhore x.

u. i. t. Either, Firſt, Magnanimity, or generoſity and greatneſs of ſpirit, whereby he was diſpoſed and emboldened to undertake great things. But this ſeems not ſo well to ſuit with the following reſemblance. Or rather, Secondly, Vaſtneſs of underſtanding, a moſt comprehenſive knowledge of all things both Divine and humane: for this Wiſdom is the thing for which he is here commended, both in the foregoing and following words. x Which cannot be numbred nor meaſured; and which, though it be ſo vaſt and comprehenſive, yet conſiſts of the ſmalleſt parts, and ſo it may note that Solomon's Wiſdom was both vaſt, reaching to all things; and moſt accurate, ſearching and diſcerning every ſmall thing.

30 And Solomons wiſdom excelled the wiſdom of all the children of the eaſt countrey y, and all the wiſdom of Egypt z.

y The Caldæans, Perſians, and Arabians, who all lay Eaſtward from Canaan, and who were famous in ancient times for their Wiſdom and Learning, as appears both from Sacred and Prophane Writers. z. i. t. The Egyptians, whoſe Fame was then great for their Skill in the Arts and Sciences, which made them deſpiſe the Grecians as Children in knowledge. See Act. 7. 22.

31 For he was wiſer than all men a: than Ethan the Ezrahite, and Heman b, and Chalcoal, and Darda c the ſons Mahol d: and his fame was in all nations round about.

a Either of his Nation: or, of his time: or, of all times and Nations, whether of the Eaſt or any other Countrey, excepting onely the firſt and ſecond Adam. b Iſraelites of eminent Wiſdom, probably the ſame mentioned, 1 Chron. 2. 6. and 15. 19. and 25. 4. Pſal. 88. title, and 89. title. c Of whom ſee 1 Chron. 2. 6 d Obj. All theſe four were the Sons of Zerah. 1 Chron. 2. 6. or of Ezrah, as others call him. Anſ. Either, the ſame Man had two names, Zerah and Mahol, which was common amongſt the Jews; and he might be called Mahol from his office or employment; for that ſignifies a Dance, or a Pipe; and he was expert in Muſical Inſtruments, and ſo were his Sons, 1 Chron. 15. 17, 18, 19. who poſſibly may here be called by a vulgar Ebraiſme, Sons of the Muſical Inſtrument, from their dexterity in handling it, as upon another account we read of the daughters of muſick, Eccleſ. 12. 4.

32 And he ſpake three thouſand proverbs e: and his ſongs were a thouſand and five f.

e i. t. Short, and deep, and uſeful Sentences, whereof a great and the beſt part are contained in the Books of Proverbs and Eccleſiaſtes. f Whereof the chief and moſt Divine are in the Canticles.

33 And he ſpake of trees g, from the cedar-tree that is in Lebanon, even unto the hyſſop that ſpringeth out of the wall h: he ſpake alſo of beaſts, and of fowls, and of creeping things, and of fiſhes.

g i. t. Of all plants, of their nature and qualities: all which Diſcourſes are loſt, without any impeachment of the perfection of the Holy Scriptures; which were not Inſpired and Written to teach men Philoſophy or Phyſick, but onely to make men Wiſe to Salvation. See Job. 20. 31. 2 Tim. 3. 16, 17. h i. t. From the greateſt to the leaſt.

34 And there came of all people to hear the wiſdom of Solomon, from all i kings of the earth, which had heard of his wiſdom.

i To wit, from all the Neighbouring Kings; univerſal Particles being frequently underſtood in a reſtrained ſenſe; and ſuch reſtriction is grounded upon the following words, where this is limited to ſuch as heard of Solomon's Wiſdom.

CHAP. V.

AND Hiram king of Tyre ſent his ſervants unto Solomon a: (for he had heard that they had anointed him king in the room of his father) for * Hiram was ever a lover of David.

* 2 Sam. 5. 11. 1 Chr. 14. 1. Amos 1. 9.

a To wit, as ſoon as he heard of his Succeſſion in the Throne, as the following words ſhew, he ſent to congratulate with him, as the manner of Princes is.

2 And * Solomon ſent to Hiram, ſaying,

* 2 Chro. 2. 3.

3 Thou knoweſt b how that David my father could not build an houſe to the Name of the LORD his God c, * for the wars which were about him on every ſide d, until the LORD put them under the ſoles of his feet e.

* 1 Chr. 22. 8.

b By common fame, and by particular information. c i. t. Either, Firſt, For the worſhip and Service of God, 1 King. 3. 2. Or, Secondly, For the Lord himſelf, as that Phraſe is uſed, Deut. 28. 58. Pſal. 20. 1. and 52. 9. d Which diverted his cares and thoughts to other things, and withal occaſioned Gods denial of the honour of that work to him. e i. t. Made them ſubject to him, that he might trample upon them at his pleaſure. Compare Pſal. 8. 6. 1 Cor. 15. 27.

4 But now the LORD my God hath given me reſt on every ſide, ſo that there is neither adverſary, nor evil occurrent.

5 And behold, I † purpoſe to build an houſe unto the name of the LORD my God, * as the LORD ſpake unto David my father, ſaying, Thy ſon whom I will ſet upon thy throne in thy room, he ſhall build an houſe unto my Name.

† Heb. ſay. * 2 Sam. 7. 13. 1 Chr. 22. 10. and 17. 12.

6 Now therefore command thou, that they f hew me cedar-trees g out of Lebanon h, and my ſervants ſhall be with thy ſervants i: and unto thee will I give hire for thy ſervants k, according to all that thou ſhalt † appoint: for thou knoweſt that there is not among us any that can skill to hew timber, like unto the Sidonians l.

f i. t. Thy ſervants, as appears both from the foregoing words, command, &c. and from the following oppoſition of my ſervants. And this aſſiſtance which theſe Gentiles gave to the building of Solomon's Temple, was a Type of the calling of the Gentiles, and that they ſhould be very inſtrumental in the building, and conſtituting of Chriſts Spiritual Temple, to wit, his Church. g Which for their ſoundneſs, and ſtrength, and fragrancy, and durableneſs, were moſt excellent and proper for his deſign. Of theſe David had procured ſome, but not a ſufficient number. h Which was either wholly or in part in Solomon's Juriſdiction: and therefore he doth not deſire that Hiram would give him the Cedars, becauſe they were his own already; but onely that his ſervants might hew them for him; which required Art and Skill, in the time and manner of doing of it; all which the ingenious Tyrians well underſtood. i Either to be employed therein as they ſhall direct; or to receive the Cedars, being cut down and hewed, from their hands, and to tranſmit them to me; although Hiram in his return eaſed him of that trouble. k i. t. Pay them for their Labour and Art. l Or, Tyrians: for theſe places and people being near, and ſubject to Hiram, are promiſcuouſly uſed one for another.

7 ¶ And it came to paſs, when Hiram heard the words of Solomon, that he rejoyced greatly m, and ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD n this day, which hath given unto David a wiſe ſon over this great people.

m Being an ingenious Prince, a lover of Excellency, and a Faithful Friend to David and to his Houſe. n For though it be not probable that he was a ſincere Proſelyte, becauſe he did not endeavor the inſtruction of his People, and the extirpation of their groſs Idolatry, which by Gods bleſſing and and Solomon's help he might easily have effected; yet he had sufficient information concerning the Nature and Excellency of the God of Israel, and had honourable thoughts of him, as also divers other Heathens had, 1 Sam. 4. 8. Dan. 6. 16. 2 Macc. 3. 3.

† Heb. heard. 8 And Hiram sent o to Solomon, saying, I have † considered the things which thou sentest to me for: and I will do all thy desire concerning timber of cedar. and concerning timber of fir p.

o A Letter, 2 Chron. 2. 11. p Which formerly was, and still is very useful in most buildings. Others render the Hebrew word, pitch-trees, or ash trees, or pine-trees. To others, it was a particular sort of Cedars, and therefore comes under the general name of Cedars, in Solomon's message before related.

9 My servants shall bring them down from Lebanon unto the sea q: and I will convey them by sea in ‖ floats r unto the place that thou shalt † appoint me s, and will cause them to be discharged t there, and thou shalt receive them: and thou shalt accomplish my desire, in giving food for my household u.

q The Midland Sea. r Or, Ships, or Rafts. It is thought the Timbers were tied together in the Water, as now it is usual, and so by the help of Boats or Ships, conveyed to the appointed place, which was at no great distance. s Which was Joppa, 2 Chron. 2. 16. a Town upon the Sea, Jos. 19. 46. Act. 9. 43. t Heb. dispersed, or dissolved: which implies that they were tied together. u Or, i. e. Either, First, My Kingdom or People: for the word house or family is sometimes used for a Nation or People, as Judg. 13. 2. and 18. 11. Ezek. 12. 13. and 14. 18. The reason of this desire is, because the Countrey belonging to Tyre and Sidon, was very barren, and the People there being very numerous, depended upon Solomon's Countrey for relief, as is manifest from Act. 12. 20. compare Ezra. 3. 7. Ezek. 27. 17. And this Relief or Provisions, Hiram doth not desire to be freely given to him, but to be sold to him and his people at a reasonable rate, as Josephus reports it. Or, Secondly, My servants employed in the work, as it is expressed, 2 Chr. 2. 16. Though divers, both Jewish and Christian Interpreters, conceive that this and that are differing accounts; and that here he speaks of the recompence which was given to Hiram himself, and to his House, for the materials which were taken out of his Territories; and in 2 Chron. 2. of what was given to his Servants for their Labour. Or, Thirdly, My Royal Family and Court, which most properly is called his house.

10 So Hiram gave Solomon cedar-trees, and fir-trees, according to all his desire.

x Heb. Twenty Cors of pure oil; but in 2 Chron. 2. 10. it is twenty thousand baths of oil. To which is there added 20000 measures of barley, and 20000 baths of wine. Either therefore, First, He speaks of several things, as was now said on v. 9. Or, Secondly, He speaks there of what Solomon offered: for it runs thus, I will give; and here of what Hiram accepted; and accordingly Solomon gave, for it is here said, Solomon gave Hiram. Or, Thirdly, The Barley, and Wine, and 20000 baths of common oil, mentioned 2 Chron. 2. must be added to the 20000 measures of wheat, and the twenty measures of pure oil here expressed, and the whole sum is to be made up from both places; that Book of Chronicles being written to supply and compleat the Histories of the Books of Samuel, and of the Kings. y Either, First, For sustenance to the Workmen, during the Years wherein they were employed in the cutting down and hewing of the Timber. Or, Secondly, For the Yearly support of the Kings House, during the said time: And these words being left out in 2 Chron. 2. may seem to favour their opinion, that these places speak of divers passages, and several recompences, the one given to the King's House, the other to the Labourers, although the Argument is not cogent; and this might be omitted there, either because it was sufficiently implied in the nature of the thing, or because it had been plainly expressed here.

* Chap 3.12. * Judg. 4.17. 12 And the LORD gave Solomon wisdom z, * as he promised him, and there was * peace between Hiram and Solomon, and they two made a league together.

z i. e. He increased in Wisdom more and more: which is here mentioned, because he shewed his Wisdom in all his Transactions with Hiram.

† Heb. tribute of men. 13 ¶ And king Solomon raised a † levy out of all Israel, and the levy was thirty thousand men a.

a Which were to be Employed in the most honourable and easie parts of the Work relating to the Temple; In manner expressed, ver. 14. And these were Israelites; but those 150000 mentioned ver. 15. were Strangers, by comp. this with Chap. 9. 21, 22. If it seem strange to any man, that so many Thousands should be employed about so small a Building as the Temple was; it must be considered, 1. That the Temple, all its parts being considered, was far larger than men imagine; of which, more hereafter. 2. That it is probable, that they were employed by turns, as the 30000 were, ver. 14. else they had been oppressed with hard and uninterrupted Labours. 3. That the Timber and Stone, hewed and carried by them, was designed, not onely (though principally) for the Temple, but also for Solomon's own Houses, and Buildings; because we read of no other Levy of Men, nor of any great care and pains taken after the Building of the Temple, for the procurement, or preparation of Materials for his own Houses, or his other Buildings; which implies, That that Work was done before; nay, that this very Levy of Men was made and employed for the building of the Lords house, and Solomons house, and Millo, and the wall of Jerusalem, and Hazor, and Megiddo, and Gezer, is expressed 1 King. 9. 15. which may fully satisfie that scruple.

14 And he sent them to Lebanon, ten thousand a month by courses: a month they were in Lebanon, and two months at home: and * Adoniram was over the levy. * Chap. 4. 6.

15 And Solomon had threescore and ten thousand that bare burdens, and fourscore thousand hewers b in the mountains:

b Either of Timber, or rather of Stones: for Hiram had taken care for the Timber.

16 Besides the chief of Solomons officers which were over the work, three thousand and three hundred c, which ruled over the people that wrought in the work.

c Whereof 3000 were set over the 150000, expressed ver. 15. each of these over 50 of them, and the odd 300 were set over these 3000, each of these to have the oversight of ten of them, to take an account of the Work from them. But in 2 Chron. 2. 18. these Overseers are said to be 3600. Answ. The 300 added in 2 Chron. 2. might be a reserve, to supply the places of the other 3000: yea, or of the 3300, as any of them should be taken off from the Work by Death; or Sickness, or Weakness, or necessary occasions; which was a prudent Provision, and not unusual in such like cases. And so there were 3600 Commissioned for the Work, but onely 3300 employed at one time; and therefore both Computations may fairly stand together. Some Learned men add, That those 3600 were Strangers, which indeed is manifest from 2 Chron. 2. 17. And that those 3300 were a distinct number of Men, and Israelites, which were set over all the rest, both Strangers and Israelites; who therefore are here called, the chief of Solomons officers, and are said to rule over the workmen: whereas, all that is said of those 3600 2 Chron. 2. 18. is, that they were overseers to set the people a work. Which may deserve further consideration. Others say, That the 300 added in 2 Chron. were Overseers of the Tyrian Workmen in Mount Lebanon, and the rest in all other places; or that they were set over some particular and more curious and considerable parts of the Work.

d Marble or Porphiry, or other Stones of great size and value. e Where they could not afterward be seen: and therefore that this was done, is mentioned onely as a point of Magnificence, except it was intended for a Type, or Mystical signification of the Preciousness of Christ, who is the foundation of the true Temple, the Church of God; as he is called, Isa. 28. 16. 1 Cor. 3. 11.

18 And Solomons builders, and Hirams builders did hew them, and the ‖ stone-squarers f, so they prepared timber and stones to build the house.

‖ Or, Giblites. as Ezek. 27. 9.

f Heb. the Gibilites, the Inhabitants of Gebel, a place near Zidon, named Psal. 83. 7. Ezek. 27. 9. famous for Artificers and Architects, Josh. 13. 5. These are here mentioned apart, as distinct from the rest of Hiram's Builders, as the most Eminent of them.

CHAP. VI.

AND * it came to pass in the four hundred and fourscore year after the children of Israel were come out of the land of Egypt a, in * 2 Chron. 3. 1.

in the fourth year of Solomons reign b over Iſrael, in the month Zif, which is the ſecond month † Heb. built. that he † began to build c the houſe of the LORD.

a This Chronological difficulty, is too vaſt and comprehenſive to be fully diſcuſſed here, or to be determined by Unlearned Readers: and for the Learned, I refer them to what is largely digeſted in my Latine Synopſis upon this place. It may ſuffice at preſent to ſuggeſt theſe particulars, 1. That Iſraels coming out of Egypt is variouſly underſtood in Scripture, and with ſome latitude, ſo as not onely to note the time when firſt they came out of Egypt, but the time of their being in, or coming out of the Wilderneſs; as is manifeſt from Deut. 4. 45. where the Words in the Hebrew are not after, &c. as we tranſlate it, but in their coming forth out of Egypt: And Pſal. 114. 1, 2, 3. When Iſrael came forth, &c. Heb. in their coming forth, &c. And it is not impoſſible it may be ſo underſtood here; after they were come out, &c. to wit, compleatly; i. e. towards the end of their Expedition out of Egypt into Canaan. Nor doth the difference between the Hebrew Præpoſitions, Lamed and Beth, which a Learned Man objects, hinder this ſenſe; for as Beth ſignifies (as he ſaith) after, ſo alſo doth Lamed, Gen. 7. 4, 10. Numb. 33. 38. 2. That whereas the times of the Judges do chiefly cauſe this difficulty, there are many things which will relieve us therein; as, 1. That divers of the years there mentioned belong to one and the ſame time, as is evident from Jairs 22 years, within which fell out, as divers Learned Chronologers agree, the 18 years of the Oppreſſion of the Ammonites, and ſeveral years of the Philiſtine Tyranny, who oppreſſed Iſrael in the Weſt, whileſt the Ammonites vexed them in the Eaſt: and the like might be obſerved in other caſes. 2. That the years of Reſt are not neceſſarily to be underſtood of ſo many diſtinct years, beſides thoſe of War, and Servitude; and thoſe words, which are generally rendred, the land had reſt, forty, or eighty years, or the like; may be thus rendred, and that very agreeable to the Hebrew, The land had reſt, or began to reſt, or recovered its reſt, in the fortieth, or in the eightieth (the Cardinal Numbers being frequently put for the Ordinal, eſpecially where the Number exceeds Ten) year, to be computed from ſome remarkable time; and ſo that Phraſe doth not note how long time, or till what time the Reſt continued, but at what time it began. As for inſtance, in Judg. 3. 11. the land had reſt, not forty years, as it is in our Tranſlation, but in the fortieth year; to wit, from, and after their firſt Reſt in, or quiet Poſſeſſion of, the Land of Canaan, which Joſhua gave them; which time may very probably be made up of the days of Joſhua, after he had ſetled them in a ſtate of Reſt; and of the elders that out-lived him; Judg. 2. 7. and the time of their Corruption after the Death of thoſe Elders; and the Eight years of Servitude under the King of Meſopotamia. So Judg. 3. 30. The land had reſt in the eightieth year; to wit, from, and after the reſt which Othoniel obtained for them, ver. 11. And Judg. 5. 31. It reſted in the fortieth year; to wit, after that Reſt got by Ehud, Judg. 3. 30. And Judg. 8. 28. It reſted in the fortieth year; to wit, from the laſt Reſt got by Deborah. And thus the computation of years is more plain and certain, being thus made from Reſt to Reſt, than theirs that proceed the other way. And this is the more conſiderable, becauſe it was the Opinion of that famouſly Learned and Pious Biſhop of Armagh. All which conſidered it, will be very eaſie to contain all the parts and paſſages of Sacred Story, from the coming out of Egypt, to this time, within the compaſs of 480 years: of the ſeveral parcels whereof; See my Latine Synopſis. And as for other Scriptures, which ſome conceit to be contradictory to this, I ſhall by God's help Vindicate them in their ſeveral places. b His three firſt years being ſpent, partly, in ſettling the Affairs of his Kingdom; without which, neither Civil nor Eccleſiaſtical Concerns could have any Conſiſtency; and partly, in making neceſſary Preparations for the Work. c For ſo it is expreſſed, 2 Chron. 3. 1. And ſo it is explained here below, ver. 37. The foundation of the houſe was laid: though in the Hebrew it be onely, he built. Thus active words are oft underſtood of the beginning of the Action, as Gen. 5. 32. and 11. 26.

2 And the houſe d which king Solomon built for the LORD, the length thereof e was threeſcore cubits f, and the breadth thereof twenty cubits, and the height thereof g thirty cubits.

d Properly ſo called, as diſtinct from all the Walls and Buildings which were adjoyning to it, to wit, the Holy, and Moſt Holy Place. e From Eaſt, and to Weſt. And this, and the other Meaſures may ſeem to belong to the inſide from Wall to Wall. f Cubits of the Sanctuary; of which, See on Gen. 6. 15. g To wit, of the Houſe: for the Porch was 120 Cubits high. 2 Chron. 3. 4. So that all the meaſures compared each with other were harmonious. For 60 to 20. (the length to the breadth) is triple: or as 3 to 1: And 60 to 30 (the length to the height) is double, or as 2 to 1: And 30 to 20 (the height to the breadth) is Seſquialter, or one and a half, as 3 to 2. Which are the Proportions anſwering to the Three great Concords in Muſick, commonly called, a Twelfth, an Eighth, and a Fifth. Which therefore muſt needs be a graceful Proportion to the Eye, as that in Muſick is graceful to the Ear.

3 And the porch before the temple of the houſe h, twenty cubits was the length thereof, according to the breadth of the houſe, and ten cubits was the breadth thereof before the houſe.

h In the Front of, or Entrance into the houſe, 2 Chron. 3. 4. Being a Periſtilium or Portico, a Walk or Gallery, at one end of the Building (from ſide to ſide.) And the meaſures of this were Harmonious alſo. For 20 to 10 (the length of the Portico to the breadth of it) is double, or as 2 to 1. And, if the height within, be the ſame with that of the Houſe, that is 30; it will be to the length of it, as 3 to 2, and to its breadth, as 3 to 1. Or, if we take in the whole height mentioned 2 Chron. 3. 4. which is a 120; there is in this no diſproportion (being to its length as 6 to 1, and to its breadth as 12 to 1) eſpecially when this height is conveniently divided into ſeveral Galleries, one over another, each of which had their due Proportions.

4 And for the houſe, he made ‖ windows of narrow lights i. ‖ Or, windows broad within, and narrow without: or skewed and cloſed.

i Narrow outward, to prevent the inconveniencies of the Weather; widening by degrees inward, that ſo the Houſe might better receive, and more diſperſe the Light. Or, for proſpect, i. e. to give light; yet ſhut, i. e. ſo far cloſed as to keep out Weather, and let in Light.

5 ¶ And ‖ againſt the wall k of the houſe he built † chambers l round about, againſt the walls of the houſe round about m, both of the temple, and of the oracle: and he made † chambers n round about. ‖ Or, upon, or, joyning to. † Heb. floor. † Heb. Ribs.

k Or, upon it; or, joyning to it: for the Beams of the Chambers were not faſtned into the Wall, but leaned upon the Buttreſſes of the Wall. l For the laying the Prieſts Garments, and other Utenſils belonging to the Temple, or to the Worſhip of God therein; See 2 King. 11. 2. 1 Chron. 28. 12. Ezek. 42. 13, 14. m Not ſimply, for there were none on the Eaſt-ſide; and it may ſeem, that there were ſome ſpaces left for the Windows, which being narrow outwardly, little ſpaces would ſuffice; but in a manner, i. e. on all the ſides except the Eaſt, where the Porch was; and except ſome very ſmall paſſages for the Light. And yet theſe Lights might be in the Five uppermoſt Cubits of the Wall, which were above all theſe Chambers, for theſe were onely 15 Cubits high, and the Wall was 20 Cubits high. n Heb. Ribs; i. e. Either, other Chambers above, and beſides the former: or rather, long Galleries which encompaſſed all the Chambers, as the Ribs do Mans Body; and which were neceſſary for paſſage to all the ſeveral Chambers.

6 The nethermoſt chamber was five cubits broad o, and the middle was ſix cubits broad, and the third was ſeven cubits broad: for without in the wall of the houſe he made † narrowed reſts p round about, that the beams ſhould not be faſtned in the walls of the houſe q. † Heb. narrowings, or rebatements.

o To wit, or in the inſide, and beſides the Gallerries mentioned above. p Or, narrowings: as in our Buildings the Walls of an Houſe are thicker, or broader at the bottom, and narrower towards the top: not onely theſe Narrowings were in the outſide of the Wall, which at each of the Three Stories was a Cubit narrower than that beneath it. And this is mentioned, as the reaſon of the differing breadth of the Chambers; becauſe the Wall being narrower, allowed more ſpace for the upper Chambers. q That there might be no holes made in the Wall for the faſtening of them; and that the Chambers might be removed, if occaſion were, without any inconvenience to the Houſe.

7 And the houſe, when it was in building, was built of ſtone, made ready r before it was brought thither: ſo that there was neither hammer, nor ax, nor any tool of iron heard in the houſe, while it was in building s.

r Hewed and Squared, and fitted exactly according to the direction of the Architect. s So it was ordered, partly for the eaſe and conveniency of Carriage: partly, for the Magnificence of the Work, and Commendation of the Workmens Skill and diligence: and partly, for Myſtical Signification. And as this Temple was a manifeſt Type both of Chriſts Church upon Earth, and of the Heavenly Jeruſalem: ſo this Circumſtance ſignified as to the former, That it is the duty of the Builders and Members of the Church, as far as in them lies, to take care that all things be tranſacted there with perfect peace and quietneſs; and that no noiſe of Contention, or Diviſion, or Violence, be heard in that Sacred Building: and for the latter, that no Spiritual Stone, no Perſon, ſhall bear a part in that Heavenly Temple, unleſs he be firſt hewed, and ſquared, and made meet for it in this Life.

8 The door for the middle chamber t was in the right † ſide u of the houſe: and they went up with winding ſtairs x into the middle † Heb. ſhoulder.

middle chamber y, and out of the middle into the third.

t i. e. By which they entred to go up to the middle Chamber or Chambers; to wit, such as were in the middle Story. u i. e. In the South-side, called the right-side here, and in the Hebrew Text, Psal. 89. 12. and in other Authors; because when a man looks towards the East, or Sun-rising, which is esteemed the most Glorious part of the Heavens, and to which Men most frequently look for divers reasons, the South is on his right-hand; whereby it is implyed, That there was another Door on the left, or the North-side, leading to the Chambers on that side; though for brevity sake it be not mentioned here. x Which were either, 1. VVithin the thickness of the Temple-wall, as many think, which is not probable, as tending to the great weakning of the VVall; especially in the upper parts, where the VVall was much narrower. And if such care was taken to preserve the VValls intire and unbroken, that there might not be small holes made into it for the fastning of the Beams of the Chambers, ver. 6. it seems very absurd and incredible, that there should be made such great breaches within them, as the Stairs would require. Or rather, 2. VVithout the VVall, and without the Chambers too, as leading up to the Gallery out of which they went into the several Chambers. y Or rather, into the middle Story, or row of Chambers; and so in the following words, out of the middle Story: for these Stairs could not lead up into each of the Chambers, nor was it needful, or convenient it should do so, but onely into the Story, which was sufficient for the use of all the Chambers.

9 So he built the house and finished it z; and covered the house ‖ with beams and boards of cedar a.

‖ Or, the vault-beams, and the cielings with Cedar.

z To wit, the Bulk, and the Body of the House. a Or, the house, i. e. the top of the House: for the like is said of the sides, and bottom; ver. 15. even the beams and boards; (or, the vault-beams, and the cielings; the Arched Beams and Boards wherewith the top of the House was covered, which was made of other wood which was more plyable than Cedar, and would better endure bowing and bending) with Cedars.

b Which Interpreters understand of those Chambers described ver. 5, 6. But why should that be repeated again, and that so darkly and confusedly, after he had particularly and exactly treated of them? (unless to give an account of the height of each Chamber, or Story, which before was not done.) And the Hebrew words may be truly and properly rendred thus, He built a roof, (to wit, a flat and plain Roof, called Yatziah, because of the exact resemblance it hath with the Floor of an House) over all the house, according to the manner of all the Israelitish Buildings, which were flat at the top; of which, See Deut. 22. 8. Josh. 2. 6. 2 Sam. 11. 2. The inner Roof was Arched, ver. 9. that it might be more beautiful and glorious to behold; but the outward Roof was flat. c Above the Walls of the Temple; which was necessary, that it might be a little higher than the Arched Roof, which it was designed to cover and secure. d Heb. it rested, to wit, the Roof: for the Hebrew Verb is of the singular Number. e Which rested upon the top of the Wall, as the Chambers, ver. 5, 6. rested upon the sides of the Wall. But all this I submit to the Learned and Judicious.

11 ¶ And the word of the LORD came to Solomon f, saying, f Either by some Prophet, or rather in a Vision or Dream, as it did before.

12 Concerning this house which thou art in building g, * if thou wilt walk in my statutes, and execute my Judgments, and keep all my commandments to walk in them: then will I perform my word with thee, * which I spake unto David thy father.

* Chap. 2. 4. and 9. 4.
* 2 Sam. 7. 13. 1 Chron. 22. 10.

g God speaks thus, partly to encourage him to proceed in his Work; and partly, to purge out that Pride and Vain-glory, (which God, the searcher of hearts, saw either then did, or would arise in Solomon's Mind, as being the Author and Builder of so glorious a Work:) and that Presumption and Security which was very likely to grow, and God foresaw would grow both in Solomon, and in the People; as if God was now in a manner engaged to continue his Presence with them, and in his own Temple; and that they had now no great reason to fear God's departure from them, though they should provoke him. Therefore he expresseth the Condition upon which his Promise and Favour is suspended; and by assuring him thereof in case of Obedience, he plainly intimates the contrary, upon his Disobedience.

13 And I will * dwell among the children of Israel, and will not forsake my people Israel.

* Exod. 25 8.

14 So Solomon built the house, and finished it.

15 And he built the walls of the house within with boards of cedar, ‖ both the floor h of the house, and the walls of the cieling i, and he covered them k on the inside with wood l, and covered the floor of the house m with planks of fir.

h Or rather, from the floor, as it is in the Hebrew; for the floor it self was not covered with Cedar, but with fir, as it here follows. i Or rather, as it is in the Hebrew, unto the walls of cieling, or of the roof; i. e. unto the top of the Wall, which was even with the Roof: for the Roof it self was not of Stone, but Wood. Or, unto the walls of the cieling, i. e. unto the Cieling it self; which performing the office of a Wall, may well be called by that name. For the name of a wall is not appropriated to Stone or Brick, because we read of a Brazen wall, Jer. 15. 20. and a wall of Iron, Ezek. 4. 3. And that wall into which Saul smote his javelin, 1 Sam. 19. 10. seems more probably to be understood of Wood, than of Stone; especially considering that it was the Room where the King used to dine. So by this Periphrasis, from the floor of the house, unto the walls of the cieling, he designs all the side-walls of the house. k To wit, the side-walls of the House, now mentioned. l i. e. With other kind of Wood, even with Fir; as appears from 2 Chron. 3. 5. m wherewith the Floor is here said to be covered; and this is here spoken onely concerning the Floor, because there was nothing but Planks of Fir; whereas there was both Cedar and Fir in the sides of the House, the Fir being either put above, or upon the Cedar; or, intermixed with, or put between the boards or ribs of Cedar: as may be gathered from the said Parallel place, 2 Chron. 3. 5.

16 And he built twenty cubits on the sides of the house n both the floor and the walls o with boards of cedar: he even built them for it within, even for the oracle, even for the † most holy place p.

n i. e. The Most Holy Place, which contained in the Length of the House twenty Cubits, by comp. this with ver. 2 and ver. 17. which may be said to be on the sides of the house, because this part took off 20 Cubits in length from each side of the House, and was also 20 Cubits from side to side, so it was 20 Cubits every way; or on the sides (i. e. on all the sides, as indeed it was) of the house, or of that house; to wit, The most holy place, as it here follows. Or, from the sides of the house; i. e. from one side to the other. And so this is meant onely of the Partition Wall, which was between the Holy and the Most Holy Place. o Or rather, as ver. 15. from the floor to the wall, or cieling, or roof. So it is not necessary, at least by vertue of these words, to understand this, as they generally do, That the Floor it self was built with Cedar; but onely all the sides of it from the bottom 20 Cubits upward. If it be said, that the whole House, and consequently the Most Holy Place, was 30 Cubits high, ver. 2. it may be replied, either, That, that is true onely of the greater House, or the Holy Place, which is called the house, ver. 17. and that the lesser; or the Most holy Place, was but 20 Cubits high, as divers think; or that the ten cubits at the top, were covered with some other Wood or thing; or were left open, that it might thereby receive both Light from the Candlestick, and Smoke from the Altar of Incense. p i. e. That it might be the Oracle; or, the most holy place. Or, on the inner side (whereby he might imply that the outside of the Partition Wall which looked towards the Holy Place, was not so covered.) Of (for the Hebrew Lamid is very oft a note of the Genetive Case) the Oracle, even of the most holy place: which last words are added, to explain what he means by the word Oracle, which he had not used before.

17 And the house q; that is, the temple r before it s, was forty cubits long.

q i. e. The Holy Place. r This is added, to restrain the signification of the Word house, which otherwise notes the whole Building. s i. e. Before the Oracle. Or, as it is in the Hebrew, before my face; i. e. before the place of my Presence. Or, it may be said to be before God, because he being pleased to describe himself as sitting upon the Cherubims, hath his face towards this house, where he beholds the services of his People. So this part of the House distinct from the Most Holy, hath its harmonious proportions also. The Length 40, to the Height 30, is Sesquitertian, or 4 to 3; (which is that of a Fourth in Musick:) The Length to the Breadth, 40 to 20; as 2 to 1: the Height to the Breadth, 30 to 20, as 3 to 2.

18 And the cedar of the house within was carved with ‖ knops, and † open flowers, all was cedar t; there was no stone seen.

‖ Or, Goards. † Heb. open-nings of flow-ers.

t i. e. All the House was covered with Cedar. Quest. How was this true, when it was covered with Fir? 2 Chron. 3. 5. Answer 1. It was done both with Cedar and Fir: of which see on verse 15. 2. It may be said to be all cedar, because the greateſt part was ſo, Univerſal Particles being oft ſo uſed. 3. Cedar is here named, not to exclude all other Wood, but Stone onely; as the following Words ſhew. 4. Or, all was of Cedar; that is, all the Carving was of Cedar.

19 And the oracle he prepared u in the houſe x within y, to ſet there the ark of the covenant of the LORD.

u i. e. Adorned and fitted it for the Receit of the Ark. x Heb. In the middle of the houſe, or building; not the middle Mathematically or exactly, but in general within the Houſe, as that Phraſe, in the middle, oft ſignifies; as Deut. 4. 11. Joſh. 7. 21. Dan. 3. 26. y Or, in the innermoſt part of the Houſe; for ſo this was, the entrance into the Houſe being at the other end.

20 And the oracle in the forepart z was twenty cubits in length, and twenty cubits in the breadth, and twenty cubits in the height thereof a: and he overlaid it with † pure gold, and ſo b covered the altar c which was of cedar d.

z Or rather, which was in the inner part, to wit of the Houſe, called here in Hebrew the fore-part; not becauſe a man firſt enters there, but becauſe when a man is entring, or newly entred into the Houſe, it is ſtill before him. Thus the ſame or the like Word proceeding from the ſame Root, is oft uſed, as Levit. 10. 18. 1 King. 6. 19. 29, 30, 36. 1 Chron. 28. 11. 2 Object. The great Houſe was 30 Cubits high, above, ver. 2. Anſwer. It is probably Affirmed by divers, That the Moſt Holy Place was not ſo high as the Holy Place, by ten Cubits: which was no way inconvenient, nor againſt the Rules of Proportion obſerved in Buildings. And as the ſecond part of the Building was far lower than the firſt, which was the Porch; ſo the third part might be conſiderably lower than the ſecond. And it might be lower either, 1. Outwardly, or in reſpect of the Walls of it, which might be onely 20 Cubits high, and ſo that height covered with a Flat Roof; it being but decent that that eminently Holy Place ſhould be diſtinguiſhed from the leſs Holy, even by its outward and viſible ſhape. Or, 2. Inwardly, or within the Wall of that part. For although this part might be Vaulted at the top, as the Holy Place was, which Vaulted Roof ſome think was Ten Cubits high; yet here might be the difference, That the Vaulted Roof of the Holy Place lay open to view; whereas, that of the Moſt Holy was covered with a Flat Roof from Wall to Wall, at the height of 20 Cubits. b i. e. With Gold, Chap. 7. 48. 1 Chron. 28. 18. c To wit, The Altar of Incenſe, which was put next to the Moſt Holy Place, ver. 22. d Object. This Altar was made of Shittim Wood, Exod. 30. 1. Anſw. Either that was covered with Cedar, that it might be agreeable to the reſt, all being Cedar, as was ſaid, ver. 18. Or this was a new Altar which Solomon made by Divine Command and Direction, delivered to him, either immediately, or by his Father: of which, See 1 Chron. 28. 12, &c. But this place may ſeem to be better Tranſlated thus, and he covered the altar with Cedar, either to make it like the reſt; or becauſe this was a new Altar made of Stone, and therefore fit to be covered with Cedar, that it might better receive and retain the Gold wherewith this Cedar was over-laid, ver. 22.

21 So Solomon overlaid the houſe e within with pure gold f: and he made a partition by the chains of gold g before the oracle h, and he overlaid it i with gold.

e Or, that houſe, to wit, the Oracle. f Compare 2 Chron. 3. 8. g i. e. He made a Veil, which was upon, or before the Partition; or which was a further Partition between the Holy, and the Moſt Holy; which Veil did hang upon theſe Golden Chains. Others render it thus, he cloſed or ſhut (as the Word ſignifies in the Chaldee Dialect, from which divers Hebrew Words borrow their ſignification) it (i. e. the Houſe now mentioned; to wit, the door of it) with chains or bars of gold. h i. e. In the outward part of the Wall, or Partition, which was Erected between the Oracle and the Holy Place; which is properly ſaid to be before the Oracle, which was the ſpace within, and beyond that Partition: for there the Veil was hung; and there the Chains or Bars, or whatſoever it was which faſtened the doors of the Oracle, were placed. i To wit, the Partition; which he here diſtinguiſheth from the houſe, or the main Walls of the Houſe, which he had in the former part of this Verſe told us were overlaid with Gold; and now he affirms as much of the Partition.

22 And the whole houſe k he overlaid with gold, until he had finiſhed all the houſe: alſo the whole altar that was by the oracle l, he overlaid with gold m.

k Not onely the Oracle, but all the Holy Place; and, as ſome add, even the Chambers belonging to it. l i. e. The Altar of Incenſe, which was ſet in the Holy Place cloſe by the doors of the Oracle. m As before he overlaid it with Cedar: of which, ſee the notes on ver. 20.

23 ¶ And within the oracle he made two cherubims n of ‖ † olive-tree o, each ten cubits high.

n Beſides thoſe two made by Moſes, Exod. 25. 18. which were of Gold, and far leſs than theſe, and fixed in another place and poſture. o Or, of oily trees, which ſometimes are diſtinguiſhed from the Olive-trees, as Iſa. 41. 19.

24 And five cubits was the one wing of the cherub, and five cubits the other wing of the cherub: from the uttermoſt part of the one wing unto the uttermoſt part of the other, were ten cubits.

25 And the other cherub was ten cubits: both the cherubims were of one meaſure, and one ciſe.

26 The height of the one cherub was ten cubits, and ſo was it of the other cherub.

27 And he ſet the cherubims within the inner houſe; and * ‖ they ſtretched forth the wings of the cherubims, ſo that the wing of the one touched the one wall, and the wing of the other cherub touched the other wall: and their wings touched one another in the midſt of the houſe.

* Exo. 25. 20. ‖ Or, the Cherubims ſtretched forth their wings.

28 And he overlaid the cherubims with gold.

29 And he carved all the walls of the houſe round about with carved figures of cherubims p, and palm-trees q, and † open flowers, within and without r.

† Heb. openings of flowers.

30 And the floor of the houſe he overlaid with gold, within and without.

31 ¶ And for the entring of the oracle, he made doors of olive-tree: the lintel and ſide-poſts were ‖ a fifth of the wall †.

‖ Or, five ſquare.

† i. e. Four Cubits in height or breadth, whereas the Wall was 20 Cubits. Or, a fifth part of the door now mentioned. Or rather, five ſquare, having 5 ſides, and 5 Angles, which is not incongruous, nor unuſual in Buildings.

32 The two ‖ doors alſo were of olive-tree, and he carved upon them carvings of cherubims and palm-trees, and † open flowers, and overlaid them with gold, and ſpread gold upon the cherubims, and upon the palm-trees.

‖ Or, leaves of the door. † Heb. openings of flowers.

33 So alſo made he for the door of the temple, poſts of olive-trees ‖ a fourth part of the wall s.

s Or, rather, four-ſquare. See on ver. 31.

* Ezek. 41. 23.

35 And he carved thereon cherubims, and palm-trees, and open flowers, and covered them with gold, fitted upon the carved work.

36 And he built the inner court t with three rows of hewed ſtone, and a row of cedar-beams u.

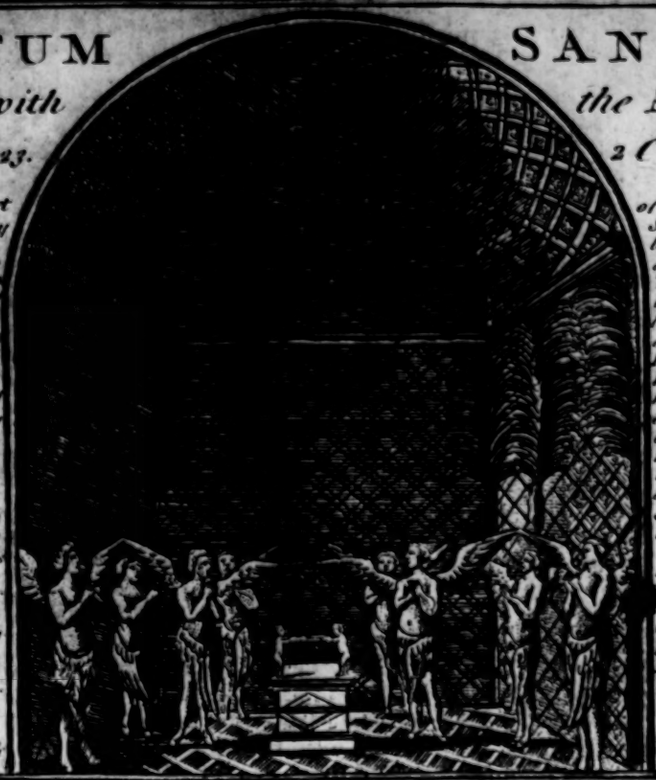
Or rather, 3. Of ſo many Galleries, one on each ſide of the Temple, whereof the Three firſt were of Stone, and the Fourth of Cedar; all ſupported with rows of Pillars: upon which there were many Chambers for the uſes of the Temple, and of the Prieſts: for it is hard to think, that onely the making of a low Wall about the Court would be called a Building of the Court. or Holy of Holies with the Ark and Cherubims.

1 Kings. 6: 19. 23. 2 Chron: 3: 8: 14.



The Holy of Holys was a Room 30 feet Square and 30 feet High the Beauty and Riches of which was very great. the Floor was planked with Fir & guilt with Gold the Walls Wainscoted and deckt with Cherubims and Palm Trees with precious Stones intermix'd. The overlaying this small place amounting to Six Hundred Talents of Gold which comes to Four Millions Three Hundred and Twenty Thousand Pounds Sterling the Nails were likewise Gold This most Holy Place was ordain'd and made on purpose to be a Tabernacle for the Ark which was plac'd in the middle of it between two Cherubims of Imagé work 15 Feet high having their Wings expanded each 15 Cubits long with two they touched the Walls and with the Other two they met and touch'd each other exactly over the middle of the Ark their Faces being inwards in a Worshiping posture. The Ark call'd the Glory of Israel was a small Chest or Coffer three Foot nine Inches long two Foot three Inches wide and three foot three Inches high was made of Wood excepting only the Mercy Seat. but overlaid with Gold all over both inside and outside and it had a ledge of Gold surrounding it at Top. into which as into a Socket the Cover called the Mercy Seat was let in. The Mercy Seat was all made of Solid Gold the Thickness of a Hands breadth: at the two ends of it were 2 Cherubims looking inwards towards each other with their Wings expanded which embracing the whole circumference of the Mercy Seat did meet on each side in the middle all which the Rabbins say was made out of the same Mass without any Soldering of parts. Here the Shechinah or Divine Presence rested and was visible in the appearance of a Cloud over it. From hence the Bath Kol issued and gave answers when God was consulted. And hence it is that God is said in Scripture to dwell between the Cherubims that is between the Cherubims on the Mercy Seat. because their was the Seat or Throne of the visible Appearance of his Glory among them.

The House of the Forrest of Lebanon built by Solomon and described in the 2d Book of Kings Ch. 7.

ous Officers and Works which were to be done, and the Treasures of all sorts which were to be laid up in the Temple, largely so called, insufficiently evident from the nature of the things, and divers passages in Scripture: See among others, 1 Chron. 28. 11, 12.

37 ¶ In the fourth year was the foundation of the house of the LORD laid, in the month Zif.

38 And in the eleventh year, in the month Bull, (which is the eighth month) was the house finished ‖ throughout all the parts thereof, and according to all the fashion of it: so was he seven years x in building it.

x Compleat, and six Months, as appears by computation. But smaller Sums are usually neglected, and swallowed up in the greater, both in Scripture, as Judg. 20. 46. 2 Sam. 5. 5. 1 King. 2. 11. and in other Authors. It is not strange that this Work took up so much time: for 1. The Temple properly so called, was for Quantity the least part of it, there being very many and great Buildings, both above ground in the several Courts, (for though onely the Court of the Priests be mentioned, yet it is thereby implied, that the same thing was proportionably done in the others) and under ground. 2. The great curiosity of Art which was used here, and the fewness of exquisite Artists, required the longer time for the doing of it. And if the Building of Diana's Temple did employ all Asia for 200 Years; and the Building of one Pyramid employed 360 Thousand Men, for 20 Years together; both which, Pliny Affirms: no reasonable man can wonder that this Temple was seven Years in Building.

CHAP. VII.

BUT Solomon was building his own house a * Thirteen years b, and he finished all his house.

* Chap. 9. 10.

a The Royal Palace for himself, and for his Successors: Or, his houses, the Singular Number being put for the Plural. b Almost double time to that in which the Temple was Built; because neither were the Materials so far provided and prepared for this, as they were for the Temple: nor did either he or his People use the same alacrity and diligence in this, as in the other Work; nor had they the same Obligations to this Work, as they had to that, to which they were quickned by God's Expres Command; and by the necessity of setting up God's Worship there, as the Foundation of all the hopes and happiness both of King and People, whereas this building was onely for Solomon's greater conveniency, and he had already a Palace of David's building.

2 ¶ He built also the house of the forest of Lebanon c, the length thereof d was a hundred cubits, and the breadth thereof fifty cubits, and the height thereof thirty cubits, upon four rows of cedar-pillars e, with cedar-beams upon the pillars f.

c An House so called. Either, First, Because, it was built in the Mountain and Forest of Lebanon, for his recreation there in Summer-time. But it is generally and more probably held, that it was in or near Jerusalem, both because there was the throne of judgment, v. 7. which was fittest to be in the place of his constant and usual residence: and because there was the chief Magazin of Arms, Isa. 22. 8. and Solomon's Golden Shields were put there, as is manifest from 1 King. 10. 17. and 14. 25, 26, 28. which no wise Prince would do in a place so remote from his Royal City, and in the utmost Borders of his Kingdom as this was. Or rather, Secondly, From some resemblance it might have with that place, for the pleasant Shades and Groves which were about it: nothing being more frequent both in Sacred and other Writers, than to transfer the names of Carmel, or Tempe, or the like, to other places of the same nature and quality with them. d To wit, of the principal Mansion; to which doubtless other buildings were adjoyned. e Upon which the House was built, and between which there were four Stately Walks. f Which were laid for the Floor of the second Story.

3 And it was covered with cedar above upon the † beams that lay on forty five pillars, fifteen in a row g.

g So in the second Story were onely three rows of pillars, which was sufficient for the ornament of the second, and for the support of the third Story.

4 And there were windows in three rows, and † light was against light h in three ranks i.

h One directly opposite or answering to the other, as is usual in well-contrived Buildings. i One exactly under another.

5 And all the ‖ doors and posts were square with the windows: and light was against light in three ranks k.

‖ Or, spaces and pillars were square in prospect.

k He speaks, either first, of the the same lights mentioned v. 4. it being the manner of the Hebrews to repeat the same things. Or rather, of the smaller VWindows or Lights, which were over the several Doors, as the manner of many Buildings is,

6 ¶ And he made a porch of pillars l; the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth thereof thirty cubits: and the porch m was ‖ before them: and the other pillars n, and the thick beam o were ‖ before them.

‖ Or, according to them.

‖ Or, according to them.

l i. e. Supported by divers Pillars, for the more Magnificent entrance into the House; upon which also it is thought there were other Rooms built, as in the House. m Now mentioned, which is said to be before them, i. e. before the Pillars on which the House of Lebanon stood; or, before the Doors and Posts mentioned, v. 5. or, a porch, i. e. another and a lesser Porch, which was before them, i. e. before the Pillars of the greater Porch now mentioned. n Or, and pillars, i. e. fewer and lesser Pillars for the support of the lesser Porch. o Which was laid upon these Pillars, as the others were, v. 2.

7 ¶ Then he made a porch p for the throne q where he might judge r, even the porch of judgment: and it was covered with cedar † from one side of the floor to the other s.

† Heb. from floor to floor.

p Another Porch or distinct Room without the House. q Described chap. 10. 18. r The People that brought Causes before him. s i. e. The whole Floor; or from floor to floor, i. e. from the lower Floor on the Ground, to the upper Floor which covered it.

8 ¶ And his house where he dwelt, had another court within the porch t, which was of the like work. Solomon made also an house for Pharaohs daughter u, (* whom he had taken to wife) like unto this porch x.

* Chap. 3. 1.

t i. e. Between the Porch and the House, called therefore the middle court, 2 King. 20. 4. u Of which see 1 King. 3. 1 and 2 Chron. 8. 11. x Not for form or quantity, but for the Materials and VWorkmanship, the Rooms being covered with Cedar, and furnished with like Ornaments.

9 All these y were of costly stones, according to the measures of hewed stones z, sawed with saws, within and without a, even from the foundation unto the coping b, and so on the outside toward the great court c.

y Buildings described here and in the former Chapter. z Either, First, which were hewed in such measure and proportion as exact VWorkmen use to hew ordinary Stones. Or, Secondly, As large as common hewed Stones, which are oft very great. a Both on the inside of the Buildings which were covered with Cedar, and on the outside also. b From the bottom to the top of the Building. c Not onely on the outside of the front of the House, which being most visible, men are more careful to adorn; but also of the other side of the House, which looked towards the great Court belonging to the Kings House.

10 And the foundation was of costly stones d, even great stones, stones of ten cubits ‖, and stones of eight cubits.

d Not square, which would have been both unnecessary, and unportable, and unmanageable; but of solid measure, by which, Stones and Timber are usually measured ‖: and so they were onely two cubits square, but there were twenty solid Cubits contained in them. And so also the following eight cubits are to be understood.

11 And above e were costly stones f, (after the measures of hewed stones) and cedars ‖.

e i. e. In the Roof or upper part; for this is opposed to the foundation, ‖ Intermixed here the one, and there the other.

12 And the great court g round about, was with three rows of hewed stones, and a row of cedar-beams h, both for the inner court of the house of the LORD i, and for the porch of the house k.

g To wit, of Solomon's dwelling-House, mentioned ver. 8. h Of which see the note on 1 King. 6. 36. i Or, as (Heb. and, which is oft used in that sense for a particle of comparison or similitude, as Prov. 11. 25. and 17. 3. and 25. 23.) for the inner court, &c. i. e. as it was in that inner Court, of which the very same thing is said, 1 King. 6. 36. Otherwise it might seem very improper, and impertinent to speak of the Court of the Lord's House here, where he is treating onely of Solomon's House. k Or, of this house, to wit, of which I am here speaking, i. e. Of the King's House, the Porch whereof had Pillars, viz. 6. and these both of Stone and Cedar, as may seem most probable, because the other Pillars were such. And whereas the number and quality of the Pillars of the Porch was ommitted, v. 6. that defect is here supplied, and we are implicitly acquainted with both of them. But this I speak with submission.

13 ¶ And king Solomon sent and fet Hiram out of Tyre.

† Heb. the son of a widow-woman.

14 He was †a widows son of the tribe of Naphthali l, and his father was a man of Tyre m, a worker in brass: and he was filled with wisdom and understanding, and cunning to work all works in brass n: and he came to king Solomon, and wrought all his work.

l Obj. She was one of the daughters of Dan, 2 Chron. 2. 14. Ans. So indeed Hiram King of Tyre there affirms; but he might easily mistake or be misinformed, especially being no Israelite, nor a careful observer of the distinction of Tribes. Or, she might be of Dan by her Father, and of Naphtali by her Mother, or by her Husband, who was of that Tribe, and therefore she was truly a widow of Naphtali. m Either by his descent, being a Tyrian by Birth: or, by Education and Habitation, he or his Father being given to the study of these Arts, and having planted themselves at Tyre for their improvement therein. However that was, it was a singular Providence of God that there was at that time so excellent a Workman fit for so great and Glorious Works. n And of gold, and stone, and purple, and blew, &c. as is affirmed 2 Chron. 2. 14. But onely his skill in brass is here mentioned, because he speaks onely of the Brazen things which he made.

25 For he † cast * two pillars of brass o, of eighteen cubits high a peice p: and a line of twelve cubits did compass either of them about q.

o Of which see 2 King. 25. 16, 17. Jer. 52. 21. p Obj. They are said to be 35 Cubits high, 2 Chron. 3. 15. Answ. That place manifestly speaks of both the Pillars: and this of each, or one pillar, as it is in the Hebrew. Obj. But then it should have been 36 Cubits. Ans. Either the odd half Cubit is swallowed up, either in the top of the Chapiter, or in the bottom of the Basis of each Pillar; or, it is neglected in the account as commonly small measures or numbers are. q So the Diameter was four Cubits, which considering the chapiter of five cubits added to the height of each Pillar, 2 Chron. 3. 14. was not unproportionable to the height.

16 And he made two chapiters of molten brass, to set upon the tops of the pillars: the height of the one chapiter was five cubits s, and the height of the other chapiter was five cubits.

s Obj. It is but three cubits in 2 King. 25. 17. Answ. The word chapiter is taken diversly, as hundreds of other words are, either more largely for the whole, so it is 5 Cubits: or, more strictly, either for the pommels, as they are called, 2 Chron. 4. 12. or for the Cornice or Crown, and so it was but three Cubits, to which the Pomegranates being added make it four cubits, as it is below, v. 19. and the other work upon it took up one Cubit more, which in all made five cubits.

17 And nets of checker-work, and wreathes of chain-work, for the chapiters t which were upon the top of the pillars: seven for the one chapiter, and seven for the other chapiter.

t Which those Nets and Wreathes did encompass, either covering, and as it were receiving and holding the Pomegranates, or being mixed with them.

18 And he made u the pillars, and two rows x round about upon the net-work, to cover the chapiters that were upon the top, with pomegranates: and so did he for the other chapiter.

u Or, so he made, or framed, or perfected: Either of Pomegranates, by comparing this with v. 20. or of some other curious Work.

19 And the chapiters that were upon the top of the pillars, were of lilly-work y in the porch z, four cubits a.

y Made like the Leaves of Lillies, or such Flowers. z Or, as in the porch, i. e. such Work as there was in the Porch of the Temple, in which these Pillars were set, v. 21. that so the Work of the tops of these Pillars might agree with that in the top of the Porch. So there is onely an Ellipsis or defect of the Particle as, which is frequent, as Gen. 49. 9. Deut. 33. 22. Psal. 11. 1. Isa. 21. 8. a Of which see on v. 16.

20 And the chapiters upon the two pillars, had pomegranates also above, over against the belly b, which was by the net-work and the pomegranates were two hundred c, in rows round about upon the other chapiter.

b So he calls the middle part of the Chapiter, and that which jetted furthest out. c These Pomegranates are variously accounted in Scriptures. They are said to be ninety and six on a side of a pillar, i. e. in one row, and in all an hundred, Jer. 52. 23. four great Pomegranates between the several Chequer-works, being added to the first 96. And it must needs be granted, that there were as many on the other side of the Pillar, or in the other Row, which makes them 200 upon a Pillar, as is here said, and 400 upon both Pillars, as they are numbred, 2 Chron. 4. 13.

21 * And he set up the pillars in the porch of the temple d: and he set up the right pillar and called the name thereof ‖ Jachin e: and he set up the left pillar, and called the name thereof ‖ Boaz.

* 2 Chr. 3. 17.

‖ That is, he shall establish. ‖ That is, in it is strength.

d Where they were placed for meer Ornament and Magnificence, for they supported nothing. e Jachin signifies, he, i. e. God shall establish, to wit, his Temple, and Church, and People: and Boaz signifies, in it, or rather, in him (to answer the he, in the former name) is Strength. So these Pillars being eminently strong and stable were in a manner Types or Documents of that strength which was in God, and would be put forth by God for the defending and establishing of his Temple and People, if they were careful to keep the conditions required by God on their parts.

22 And upon the top of the pillars was lilly-work: so was the work of the pillars finished.

23 ¶ And he made * a molten sea f, ten cubits † from the one brim to the other: it was round all about, and his height was five cubits: and a line of thirty cubits did compass it round about.

* Jer. 52. 17. † Heb. from his brim to his brim.

f He melted the Brass, and cast it into the form of a great Vessel, for his vastness called a Sea, which name is given by the Hebrews to all great collections of Waters. The use of it was for the Priests to wash their Hands and Feet, or other things as occasion required, with the Water which they drew out of it. See 2 Chron. 4. 6. Compare Exod. 30. 19, 20.

* 2 Chr. 4. 3.

g Or, carved or molten figures: for learned Hebricians note, that this word signifies the Figures or Pictures of all sorts, as Flowers, Beasts, &c. This general word is particularly explained of oxen, 2 Chron. 2. 3. unless there were so many Figures, or Sculptures of Gourds, or other Flowers; and in each of these a little Ox's head. h So there were 300 in all. i Together with the Sea, not carved. k It seems doubtful whether the second row had ten in each Cubit, and so there were 300 more; or, whether the ten were distributed into five in each row.

25 It stood upon twelve oxen l, three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the west, and three looking toward the south, and three looking toward the east m: and the sea was set above upon them, and all their hinder-parts were inward.

l Of solid Brass, which was necessary to bear so great a weight. It is probably conceived, that the Water was by Cocks drawn out of the Mouths of these Oxen. m Partly, for the more equal and convenient support of the Vessel; and partly, that divers persons might draw Water out of it at the same time, which was frequently necessary, especially in great Solemnities.

26 And it was an hand-breadth thick, and the brim thereof was wrought like the brim of a cup, with flowers of lillies: it contained two thousand baths n.

n Which amounts to 500 Barrels, each Bath containing about 8 Gallons; the Bath being a measure of the same bigness with an Ephah, Ezek. 45. 11. Obj. This Sea is said to contain 3000 Baths, 2 Chron. 4. 5. Ans. Either there were two sorts of Baths, as of Cubits, the one common, the other Sacred, and the Sacred held half as much more as the common: or rather he here speaks of what it did actually and usually contain, to wit, 200 Baths, which was sufficient for use; and in 2 Chron. 4. 5. he speaks of what it could contain if it were filled to the brim, as it is implied in the Hebrew words, which differ from these, and properly sound thus, strengthning it self (to wit, to receive and hold as much as it could, or being filled to its utmost capacity) it contained, or could contain 3000 Baths.

27 ¶ And he made ten bases o of brass: four cubits was the length of one base, and four cubits the the breadth thereof, and three cubits the height of it.

o Upon which ſtood the ten Lavers mentioned below, v. 38. in which they waſhed the parts of the Sacrifices, 2 Chr. 4. 6.

28 And the work of the baſes was on this manner: they had borders p, and the borders were between the ledges:

p Broad brims, poſſibly for the more ſecure holding of the Lavers.

29 And on the borders that were between the ledges, were lions, oxen, and cherubims: and upon the ledges there was a baſe r above: beneath the lions and oxen were certain additions ſ made of thin work.

r So he calls the uppermoſt part of the Baſe: for though it was above, yet it was a Baſe to the Laver, which ſtood upon it. ſ Either as Baſes for the Feet of the ſaid Lions and Oxen: or, onely as further Ornaments.

30 ¶ And every baſe had four brazen wheels t, and plates of braſs: and the four corners thereof had under-ſetters u: under the laver were under-ſetters molten, at the ſide of every addition.

t Whereby the Baſes and Lavers might be carried from place to place as need required. u Heb. Shoulders; fitly ſo called, becauſe they ſtrongly ſupported the Lavers, that they ſhould not fall from their Baſes, when the Baſes were removed together with the Lavers.

31 And the mouth of it x within the chapiter y and above z was a cubit a: but the mouth thereof was round after the work of the baſe, a cubit and an half b: and alſo upon the mouth of it were gravings with their borders, four-ſquare, not round c.

x So he calls that part in the top of the Baſe which was left hollow, that the Foot of the Laver might be let into it, and faſtned in it. y i. e. Within the little Baſe, which he calls the chapiter, becauſe it roſe up from, and ſtood above the great Baſe, as the Head doth above the reſt of the Body. z Above the Chapiter; for the Mouth went up, and grew wider like a Funnel. a Either in breadth: or rather, in height, v. 35. whereof half a Cubit was above the Chapiter or little Baſe, as is ſaid ver. 35. and the other half is here implied to be within it, and below it. b To wit, in compaſs. c So the innermoſt part, called the Mouth, was round, but the outward part was ſquare, as when a Circle is made within a Quadrangle.

32 And under the borders were four wheels: † Heb. in the baſe. and the axel-trees of the wheels were † joined to the baſe, and the height of a wheel was a cubit and half a cubit.

33 And the work of the wheels was like the work of a charet-wheel: their axle-trees, and their naves, and their felloes, and their ſpokes were all molten d.

d And caſt together with the Baſes.

34 And there were four under-ſetters to the four corners of one baſe: and the under-ſetters were of the very baſe it ſelf e.

e Not onely of the ſame matter, but of the ſame piece, being caſt with it.

35 And in the top of the baſe was there a round compaſs of half a cubit high: and on the top of the baſe, the ledges thereof, and the borders thereof were of the ſame.

36 For on the plates of the ledges thereof, and on the borders thereof, he graved cherubims, li- † Heb. naked-neſs. ons, and palm-trees, according to the † proportion f of every one, and additions round about.

f Or, empty place, i. e. according to the bigneſs of the ſpaces which were left empty for them, implying that they were ſmaller than thoſe above-mentioned.

37 After this manner he made the ten baſes: all of them had one caſting, one meaſure, and one ciſe.

38 ¶ Then made he ten lavers of braſs: one laver contained forty baths g: and every laver was four cubits: and upon every one of the ten baſes, one laver.

g Ten Barrels; of which ſee above on ver. 26.

39 And he put five baſes on the right † ſide † Heb. ſhoul-der. h of the houſe i, and five on the left ſide of the houſe k: and he ſet the ſea on the right ſide of the houſe eaſtward, over againſt the ſouth l.

h i. e. In the South-ſide, as is expreſſed in the end of the Verſe, and as the right ſide is uſed above 1 King. 6. 8. and Pſal. 89. 12. i Not within the Houſe, but in the Prieſts Court, where they waſhed either their Hands or Feet, or the parts of the Sacrifices. k i. e. On the North-ſide; for this is here oppoſed to the right or South-ſide. l i. e. In the South-Eaſt part, where the Offerings were prepared.

40 ¶ And Hiram made the lavers, and the ſhovels, and the baſons: So Hiram made an end of doing all the work that he made king Solomon, for the houſe of the LORD.

41 The two pillars, and the two bowls of the chapiters that were on the top of the two pillars: and the two net-works to cover the two bowls of the chapiters, which were upon the top of the pillars:

42 And four hundred pomegranates for the two net-works, even two rows of pomegranates for one net-work, to cover the two bowls of the chapiters that were † upon the pillars: † Heb. upon the face of the pillars.

43 And the ten baſes, and ten lavers on the baſes:

44 And one ſea, and twelve oxen under the ſea:

45 And the pots m, and the ſhovels, and the baſons: and all theſe veſſels which Hiram made to king Solomon for the houſe of the LORD were of † bright braſs. † Heb. made bright: or, ſcoured.

m To ſeethe thoſe parts of the Sacrifices which the Prieſts or Officers were to eat. To theſe, fleſh-hooks are added, 2 Chron. 4. 16.

46 In the plain of Jordan did the king caſt them †, in the clay ground n, between Succoth † Heb. in the thickneſs of the ground. and Zarthan.

n Or, in thick clay, fat, and tough, and tenacious, and therefore fitteſt to make Moulds of all ſorts, into which the melted Braſs was to be poured.

47 And Solomon left all the veſſels unweighed † o, becauſe they were exceeding many: neither was the weight of the braſs † found out. † Heb. for the exceeding multitude. † Heb. ſearched.

o Becauſe the weigning of them was very troubleſome, and to no purpoſe.

48 And Solomon made all the veſſels that pertained unto the houſe of the LORD p: the altar of gold q, and the table of gold, whereupon the * ſhew-bread was r. * Exo. 25. 30.

p Such as God by the Mouth of Moſes had commanded to be made for his Houſe and Service, and ſuch as Moſes had made, onely theſe were larger, and richer, and more, according to the difference of the Temple, and Tabernacle, and Solomon's vaſt riches, and the poverty of Moſes and the Iſraelites at that time. q To wit, of Incenſe, as appears from 1 Chron. 28. 18. where this is mentioned amongſt the things for which David left Gold, and Solomon is here ſaid to build it; and therefore this cannot be that Altar made by Moſes, Exod. 25. 23, 24. and 30. 1, 3. which alſo was of Shittim-wood, whereas this was made of Cedar, and covered with Gold, 1 King. 6. 20. r Under which by a Synecdoche are comprehended both all the utenſils belonging to it, and the other ten Tables which he made together with it, 2 Chron. 4. 7, 8.

ſ Which were ten, according to the number of the Tables, whereas Moſes made but one: whereby might be ſignified the progreſs of the Light of Sacred Truth, which was now grown clearer than it was in Moſes his time, and ſhould ſhine brighter and brighter until the perfect day of Goſpel-Light. t Of maſſy and fine Gold. u In the Holy place. x Wrought upon the Candleſticks, as it had formerly been. See on Exod. 25. 31.

50 And the bowls, and the ſnuffers, and the baſons, and the ſpoons, and the † cenſers of pure † Heb. ſnuf-pans. gold; and the hinges of gold, both for the doors of the inner houſe, the moſt holy place, and for the doors of the houſe, to wit, of the holy temple.

51 So

51 So was ended all the work that king Solomon made for the house of the LORD: and Solomon brought in the † things * which David his father had dedicated, even the silver and the gold y, and the vessels z did he put among the treasures of the house of the LORD.

† Heb. Holy things of David.
* 2 Sam. 8. 11. 2 Chron. 5. 1.

y Either, First, All of it; and so Solomon built it wholly at his own charge. Or, Secondly, so much of it as was left. z Those which David had dedicated, and with them the Altar of Moses, and some other of the old utensils which were now laid aside, far better being put in the room of them.

CHAP. VIII.

* 2 Chro. 5. 2. THen * Solomon assembled the elders of Israel a, and all the heads of the tribes b, the † chief of the fathers c of the children of Israel, unto king Solomon d in Jerusalem e, that they might bring up the ark f of the covenant of the LORD, out of the city of David g, which is Zion h.

a The Senators, and Judges, and Rulers. b For each Tribe had a peculiar Head or Governor. c The chief Persons of every great Family in each Tribe. d Unto himself; the antecedent Noun being put for the relative and reciprocal Pronoun, as is frequent with the Hebrews. e Where the Temple was built, and now finished. f To the top of this high Hill of Moriah, upon which it was built; whither they were now to carry the Ark in a Solemn pomp, that by this their attendance they might make a publick profession of that service, and respect, and obedience, which they owed unto that God who was Graciously and Gloriously present in the Ark. g Where David had placed the Ark, 2 Sam. 6. 12, 17. See on 1 King. 2. 10. and 3. 1. h Which is also called Zion, because it was built upon that Hill.

2 And all the men of Israel i assembled themselves unto king Solomon at the feast k, in the month Ethanim, which is the seventh month l.

i Not onely the chief Men who were particularly invited, but a vast number of the common people, as being forward to see and to joyn in this great and Glorious Solemnity. k Understand either first, The Feast of Tabernacles. Or rather, Secondly, The Feast of the Dedication, to which Solomon had invited them, which was before that Feast: for that began on the 15 day of the 7*th* month, Lev. 23. 34. but this began at the least 7 days before that Feast; for Solomon and the People kept the Feast for 14 days, here v. 65. i. e. 7 days for the Dedication of the Temple, and 7 other days for that of Tabernacles; and after both these were finished, he sent all the People to their homes on the 23 day of the month. See 2 Chron. 7. 9, 10. l Which time he chose with common respect to his Peoples convenience, because now they gathered in all their Fruits, and now they were come up to Jerusalem, to Celebrate the Feast of Tabernacles. Quest. The Temple was not finished till the eighth month, 1 King. 6. 38. how then could he invite them in the seventh month? Ans. This was the 7*th* month of the next year. For although the house in all its parts was finished the year before, yet the utensils of it described chap. 7. were not then fully finished, but took up a considerable time afterward: and many preparations were to be made for this great and extraordinary occasion.

3 And all the elders of Israel came, and the priests took up the ark m.

m For although the Levites might do this, Numb. 4. 15. yet the Priests did it at this time, partly, for the greater honour of the Solemnity; and partly, because the Levites might not enter into the Holy place, much less into the Holy of Holies, where it was to be placed, into which the Priests themselves might not have entred, if the High-Priest alone could have done it. Obj. The Levites are said to have done this, 2 Chron. 5. 4. Ans. That is most true, because all the Priests were Levites, though all the Levites were not Priests.

4 And they brought up the ark of the LORD, and the tabernacle of the congregation n, and all the holy vessels that were in the tabernacle, even those did the priests and Levites o bring up.

n That made by Moses, which doubtless before this time had been translated from Gibeon to Zion, and now together with other things was put into the Treasuries of the Lords-House, to prevent all the Superstitious use and prophane abuse of it, and to oblige the people to come up to Jerusalem, as the only place where God would now be Worshipped. o The Priests carrying some, and the Levites others.

5 And king Solomon, and all the congregation of Israel, that were assembled unto him, were with him before the ark, sacrificing sheep and oxen p that could not be told, nor numbred for multitude.

p Either First, In the way, as David did upon the like occasion, 2 Sam. 6. 13. Or, Secondly, When the Ark was come into the Priests Court where the Altar stood, whence it was speedily to be conveyed to that place where the People could never behold it more. Or rather, Thirdly, When the Ark was seated in its place: for although they might in the way or passage offer some Sacrifices, as David did; yet that was not a proper season to offer so many Sacrifices as could not be told nor numbred, as these are here said to be; which far better agrees with what is more particularly related below, ver. 62, 63, 64. which is here signified in the general by way of anticipation, as is frequently done in the Scripture in like cases.

6 And the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto his place, into the Oracle of the house q, to the most holy place, even under the wings of the cherubims r.

q i. e. To that part of the House which is called the Oracle, 1 King. 6. 5, 16, 19, 23. or, as it here follows, the most holy place. r To wit, of Solomon's new-made Cherubims, 1 King. 6. 23, 24, 27. not of the Mosaical Cherubims, which were far less, and unmovably fixed to the Ark, Exod. 37. 7, 8. and therefore together with the Ark were put under the wings of these Cherubims.*

7 For the cherubims spread forth their two wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubims covered the ark, and the staves thereof above.

8 And they drew out the staves s, that the † ends of the staves were seen out in the ‖ holy place t, before the oracle, and they were not seen without: and there they are unto this day.

† Heb. heads. ‖ Or, ark, as 2 Chron. 5. 9.

s Not wholly, which was expresly forbidden, Exod. 25. 15. Numb. 4. 6. but in part. t Either, First, Properly so called: which place was indeed before the oracle. But how then could it be said, that they were not seen without, to wit, in the Holy place? For that they should be seen without, to wit, in the Court, was so ridiculous a conceit, that it had been absurd to suppose it, or to say any thing to prevent it. Nor is it much better what others say, that these ends of the staves did discover themselves thorough the vail, which they thrust forward, though they did not pierce thorough it. For neither in that case had they been seen; and besides, there was a Wall, as well as a Vail in that place. Or rather, Secondly, In the most Holy place, which is oft called by way of eminency, the Holy place, Exod. 29. 30. and 39. 1. Levit. 6. 30. and 10. 18. and 16. 2, 16, 17. 20. And the Hebrew words rendred before the oracle, may be as well rendred, within the oracle, the Phrase, al pene, being so used, Gen. 1. 2. the spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters, i. e. in the Waters, or in that confused heap of Earth and Water, in which God was now Working, that he might bring it into order and use; and Gen. 1. 20. where it is well rendred, in the open firmament of heaven, i. e. of the Air. And thus the whole is most true, They were seen out, to wit, without the Ark, and the Cherubims which covered all the other parts, but they were not seen without the Oracle, to wit, in the Holy place, strictly so called. For how could they be seen there, when there was both a Wall and a thick Vail between that place and the Oracle? And these Staves were left in this posture, that the High-Priest might hereby be certainly guided to that very particular place where he was one day in a year to sprinkle Blood, and to offer Incense before the Ark, which otherwise he might mistake in that dark place, where the Ark was wholly covered with the Wings of the great Cherubims, which stood between him and the Ark when he entred thither. Some conceive that the Door of the Oracle stood always open (which yet seems very improbable); and that they who were near the Door, might see the ends of the Staves, though by reason of the darkness of the place they could see nothing else there.

9 * There was nothing in the ark u, save the two tables of stone, which * Moses put there at Horeb, ‖ when the LORD made a covenant with the children of Israel, when they came out of the land of Egypt.

* Exo. 25. 21. Deut. 10. 2. * Deut. 10. 5. ‖ Or, where.

u Strictly and properly: for in a more large sense, as in, is oft taken for by or near, as is confessed, and hath been proved before; so the pot of Manna, and Aaron's rod were also in it, Heb. 9. 4. i. e. by it, to wit, in the most Holy place, before the Ark of the testimony, where God commanded Moses to put them, as it is expressed, Exod. 16. 33, 34. Numb. 17. 10. and not strictly in it. But of this more, God assisting, on Heb. 9. 4.

10 And

10 And it came to pass when the priests were
* Exod. 40. 34, 35. come out of the holy place x, that the cloud y * filled the house of the LORD z.

x Either first the most holy place, into which the Priests had now entred to carry in the Ark. Or rather, secondly, the holy place, where they might have stood to minister, if the Cloud had not hindred them, as may be gathered from the the next Verse. y The usual Token of God's glorious Presence. See Exod. 16. 10. and 24. 15, 16. Numb. 9. 15. z Partly in testimony of his gracious Acceptance of this Work, and their Service; and partly to beget an Awe and Reverence in them, and in all others, when they approach to God.

11 So that the priests could not stand to minister because of the cloud a: for the glory of the LORD had filled the house of the LORD.

a Because the Cloud was either so bright that it dazled their Eyes; or rather, so dark, that it struck them with Horror and Amazement, as is implied in the next Verse.

* 2 Chr. 6. 1. * Lev. 16. 2. 12 ¶ Then spake Solomon b, The LORD * said c, that he would dwell * in the thick darkness.

b Perceiving both Priests and People struck with Horror and Wonder at this Darkness, he minds them, that this was no sign of God's dislike or Disfavour, as some of them might possibly imagine, but a token of his Approbation, and Grace, and special Presence among them. c Not in express words, but by plain consequence, because he hath declared both by his Words and Actions, that he would manifest his presence with, and dwelling among his People, by a dark Cloud, in which he would appear. See Exod. 13. 21, 22. and 24. 16. and 40. 35. Numb. 9. 15. Deut. 4. 11. and 5. 22. Psal. 18. 12. and 97. 2.

13 I have surely built thee an house to dwell in d, a setled place for thee to abide in for ever e.

d I perceive by this thick Darkness, that thou art coming among us, and therefore make haste and come, O thou blessed Guest, into the Dwelling-place which I have built by thy Command, and for thy Service. e Not a Tabernacle, which was made to be carried from place to place, but a durable, and, I hope, perpetual Habitation.

14 And the king turned his face about f, and blessed all the congregation of Israel g; (and all the congregation of Israel stood h) f From the Temple, towards which he was looking to observe that thick and extraordinary Darkness, to the Body of the Congregation. g Or, Blessed (to wit, the Lord, which is easily understood from the following words; in which he only blesseth or praiseth God, but doth not bless the People at all) with (so the Hebrew eth is oft used, as hath been shewed before) all the Congregation. Although he might do both, first bless the Congregation, which possibly he might do in that solemn and appointed Form, Numb. 6. which therefore it was needless to repeat here; and then blessed God. And indeed he doth both here below, where these same words are used, ver. 55, 56, &c. h Partly in way of Devotion to God, whom they adored; and partly out of respect to the King.

15 And he said, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, which spake with his mouth unto David my father, and hath with his hand fulfilled it i, saying, i Praised be God both for his Grace in making such a Promise, and for his Goodness and Truth in fulfilling it.

16 Since the day that I brought forth my people Israel out of Egypt k, I chose no city l out of all the tribes of Israel to build an house, that my Name might be therein m; but I chose * David n
* 2 Sam. 7. 8. to be over my people Israel.

k Until David's time; for then he did chuse Jerusalem. l (i.e.) I did not declare my choice of it; for so chusing is used for declaring or executing ones Choice, as Deut. 12. 1. 2 Chron. 6. 5. Zech. 2. 12. and things are oft said to be done when they are only manifested or declared to be such; in which sense God is said to be justified, Psal. 51. 4. and Men to be guilty, Hos. 5. 15. Otherwise to speak properly, whatsoever God chuseth, he chuseth from Eternity. m That my Presence, and Grace, and Worship, and Glory, might be there. n And in and with him the Tribe of Judah, of which he was, and Jerusalem where he dwelt; which is here implied by the Opposition of this to the former part of the Verse.

* 1 Chr. 17. 1. 17 And * it was in the heart of David my father o, to build an house for the Name of the LORD God of Israel.

o In his desire and purpose, as this or the like Phrase is used, 1 Sam. 10. 7. and 14. 7. 2 Sam. 7. 3.

18 And the LORD said unto David my father, Whereas it was in thine heart to build an house unto my Name, thou didst well that it was in thine heart p:

p Thy Intention and Affection was well-pleasing to me.

19 Nevertheless, thou shalt not build the house; but thy son that shall come forth out of thy loins, he shall build the house unto my Name.

20 And the LORD hath † performed his word † Heb. established. that he spake, and I am risen up in the room of David my father, and sit on the throne of Israel, as the LORD promised, and have built an house for the Name of the LORD God of Israel.

21 And I have set there a place for the ark, wherein is the covenant of the LORD q, which he made with our fathers, when he brought them out of the land of Egypt.

y Reflecting upon God's performance of his Promise concerning the building of the Temple, he breaks forth into Admiration, Is it possible that the Great, and High, and Lofty God should stoop so low, as to take up his dwelling here amongst men? 33 ¶ When *thy people Iſrael be ſmitten down before the enemy, becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee, and * ſhall turn again to thee, and confeſs thy Name p, and pray, and make ſupplication unto thee ‖ in this houſe:

* Lev. 26. 17. Deut. 28. 25. * Lev. 26. 39, 40.

‖ Or, toward.

p Give Glory to thy Name, by acknowledging their Sins, and thy Juſtice; and by accepting the Puniſhment of their Iniquity; and by truſting to thy Power and Goodneſs alone, for their Deliverance.

34 Then hear thou in heaven, and forgive the ſin of thy people Iſrael, and bring them again q unto the land, which thou gaveſt unto their fathers.

q From the Land into which they are ſuppoſed to be carried by their Enemies, into Canaan. Queſt. If they were baniſhed into a ſtrange Land, how could they pray in this Houſe, as they are ſaid to do, ver. 33. Anſw. 1. That may be rendred to, or towards this Houſe, as it is expreſſed, v. 29, 30. The Hebrew Præpoſition Beth, in, being oft put for el, to, or towards. 2. This may be underſtood of divers Perſons, and ſo the Senſe is this: When the People of Iſrael be defeated in Battel, and many of their Brethren be taken Priſoners, and carried into Captivity; if then their Brethren remaining in the Land, ſhall heartily pray for their captive Brethren, they ſhall be delivered.

35 ¶ When * heaven r is ſhut up s, and there is no rain, becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee; if they pray towards this place, and confeſs thy Name, and turn from their ſin, when thou afflict-eſt them t:

* Lev. 26. 19. Deut. 28, 23.

r The lower Heaven in which the Clouds are; as Deut. 11. 17. Pſal. 147. 8. s The Heaven is compared to a great Store-houſe in God's keeping, out of which nothing can be had, ſo long as it is cloſe ſhut up. t Do not reject their Prayers, becauſe they are forced from them by their Afflictions, as thou mayeſt juſtly do.

36 Then hear thou in heaven, and forgive the ſin of thy ſervants, and of thy people Iſrael, that thou teach them u the good way x wherein they ſhould walk, and give rain y upon thy land which thou haſt given to thy people for an inheritance.

u That their Sin being pardoned, and thou being reconciled unto them, mayeſt vouchſafe to teach them. Or rather, as our Tranſlators render the very ſame Words, 2 Chron. 6. 27. When thou ſhalt teach, or haſt taught them, not only by thy Word, for that was done before; but by their Afflictions, which is one of God's Schools; and eſpecially by thy Spirit enlightning their Minds, and enclining their Hearts, that they may learn and profit, both by the Word, and by their Afflictions. And this is here fitly added, to ſhew, that he could not expect, and did not deſire from God the pardon of their Sins, but upon God's terms, to wit, upon their true Repentance. x (i. e.) The way, or Will of God; or the way of their Duty, as the following words explain it, which is moſt rightly called the good way here, and 1 Sam. 12. 23. becauſe it is both juſt and holy, and therefore good in it ſelf; and good, both delightful and profitable to thoſe that walk in it. The meaning is, When thou haſt effectually taught them, and they have throughly learned how to pleaſe, and ſerve thee acceptably, and to walk before thee in the way which thou haſt preſcribed them. y The order of Solomon's Prayer is very obſervable; firſt and chiefly, he prays for their Repentance and Forgiveneſs, which is the chief Bleſſing, and the only ſolid Foundation of all other Mercies: and then he prays for the Temporal Mercy; thereby teaching us what to mind, and deſire principally in our Prayers; which alſo Chriſt hath taught us in his perfect Pattern, and Form of Prayer, wherein there is but one Prayer for outward, and all the reſt are for Spiritual Bleſſings.

37 ¶ If * there be in the land famine, if there be peſtilence, blaſting, mildew, locuſt, or if there be caterpillar z; if their enemy beſiege them in the land of their ‖ cities, whatſoever plague a, whatſoever ſickneſs there be;

38 What prayer and ſupplication ſoever be made by any man: or by all the people Iſrael, which ſhall know every man the plague of his own heart b, and ſpread forth his hands towards this houſe:

b (i. e.) Either, 1. His Sin, which may be called the plague of his Heart, in Oppoſition to the other Plagues here mentioned, which afflict only the Body, or outward Man: So the Senſe is, Who by their Afflictions are brought to a true and ſerious Senſe of their worſe and inward Plague of their Sins, which are moſt fitly called the Plague of the Heart, becauſe that is both the principal Seat of Sin, and the Fountain from whence all actual Sins flow, Matth. 15. 19. Or rather, 2. his Affliction; for ſo this is explained in the parallel-place, 2 Chron. 6. 29. (which is the more conſiderable, becauſe that Book was written after this, to explain what was dark or doubtful, and to ſupply what was lacking in this) when every one ſhall know his own ſore, and his own grief; which is not unfitly called, the Plague of his heart, becauſe it was that Plague which his Heart was moſt afflicted with, which pained him at the very Heart; as the Phraſe is, Jer. 4. 19. compare Pſal. 55. 4. which cauſed him moſt Vexation or Grief, which is a Paſſion of the Heart: and ſo the Senſe is, Who ſhall know, i. e. be duly and deeply ſenſible of his Affliction, and the hand of God in it, and his Sin as the cauſe of it: For Words of Knowledge in Scripture, do very frequently note ſuch a kind of Knowledge as affects and changeth the Heart, and reforms the whole Courſe of a Man's Life; for which cauſe Men of ungodly Lives are frequently ſaid in Scripture not to know God, or Chriſt, or his Word, &c. And therefore no Man knows his Sore in a Scripture-ſenſe, but he who hears the Rod, who turneth unto him that ſmiteth him, and ſincerely ſeeketh to the Lord for Relief.

39 Then hear thou in heaven thy dwelling-place, and forgive and do, and give to every man according to his ways c, whoſe heart thou knoweſt d, (for thou, even thou onely knoweſt the hearts of all the children of men.)

c According to his Repentance, or Impenitency. I pray with more hope and confidence, becauſe I do not deſire that thou wouldſt deliver ſuch as are inſenſible of thy Judgments, and their Sin; but only thoſe who truly know the plague of their own Heart in manner before explained. d Thou knoweſt who are truly penitent, and who are not; and therefore the granting of my Requeſt will be no Diſhonour to thy Government, nor Injury to thy holy Nature.

40 That * they may fear thee e all the days that they live in the land which thou gaveſt unto our fathers.

41 Moreover concerning a ſtranger that is not of thy people Iſrael, but cometh out of a far countrey for thy Names ſake f; f This may note, either, 1. The end of his coming, that he may worſhip and glorifie thy Name: Or rather, 2. The Motive, or Occaſion of his coming, which was the Fame of God's Greatneſs, and Power, and Kindneſs to his People: as the following words explain it.

42 (For they ſhall hear of thy great Name, and of thy ſtrong hand, and of thy ſtretched out arm) when he ſhall come and pray towards this houſe, 43 Hear thou in heaven thy dwelling-place, and do according to all that the ſtranger calleth to thee for g: that all people of the earth may know thy Name, to fear thee, as do thy people Iſrael h, and that they may know that † this houſe, which I have builded, is called by thy Name i.

† Heb. thy name is called upon this houſe.

g To wit, agreeable to thy Will and Word: for he would not have them heard, if they had prayed for any thing diſhonourable to God, or deſtructive to his People. It is obſervable, That his Prayer for the Strangers is more large, and comprehenſive, than for the Iſraelites; that thereby he might both ſhew his Publick ſpiritedneſs, and encourage Strangers to the Worſhip of the true God. h Whereby we ſee how ſincerely and heartily the ancient and godly Jews deſired the Converſion of the Gentiles; whereas the latter and degenerate Jews in the days of Chriſt, and of the Apoſtles, did envy, oppoſe it, and fret at it. i (i. e.) Is owned, not only by us, but by thy ſelf, as thy Houſe; the only place in the World, to which thou wilt vouchſafe thy Preſence and Protection, and wherein thou wiltſt be publickly and ſolemnly ſerved.

44 ¶ If thy people go out to battel againſt their enemy, whitherſoever thou ſhalt ſend them k, and ſhall pray unto the LORD l † toward the city which thou haſt choſen m, and toward the houſe that I have built for thy Name n:

† Heb. the way of the City.

k (i. e.) In a juſt Cauſe, and by thy Warrant or Commiſſion. Whereby he implies, That it was unlawful for them to undertake any War meerly for their own Glory, or Luſt; or to enlarge their Empire beyond its due bounds; and that they could not with ſafe Conſcience pray to God for his Bleſſing upon ſuch a War. l Whereby he inſtructs them, That they ſhould not truſt, either to the Strength or Juſtice of their Arms, but only to God's Help and Bleſſing, which they were to pray for. m To wit, for thy Dwelling-place, and the Seat of thy Temple. n For to it they were to turn their Faces in Prayer; partly thereby to profeſs themſelves to be the Worſhippers of the true God, in Oppoſition to Idols; and that they ſought Help from him, and from no other: and partly to ſtrengthen Faith in God's Promiſes and Covenant, the Tables whereof are contained in that Houſe.

45 Then hear thou in heaven their prayer, and their ſupplication, and maintain their ‖ cauſe o.

* 2 Chron. 7. 4. 62 ¶ And * the king, and all Israel with him, offered sacrifice before the LORD.

* 2 Chron. 7. 7. 64 The * same day did the king hallow the middle of the court m that was before the house of the LORD: for there he offered burnt-offerings and meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings, because * the brazen altar that was before the LORD, was too little to receive the burnt-offerings, and meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings.
* 2 Chron. 4. 1.

m To wit, of the Priests Court, in which the great Altar was. This he consecrated as he did the great Altar, to wit, by Sacrifices; but with this difference, that he consecrated that for lasting and perpetual use; but this only for the present time and occasion, being warranted to do so both by the necessity of it for God's Service, and for the present solemn Work, for which the Brazen Altar was not sufficient, as it here follows; and by the direction of God's Spirit, wherewith Solomon was endowed, as being a Prophet as well as a King. Here therefore he suddenly reared up divers Altars, which after this Solemnity were demolished.

65 And at that time Solomon held a feast n, and all Israel with him, a great congregation, from the entring in of Hamath, unto the river of Egypt o, before the LORD p our God, seven days, and seven days q, even fourteen days.

n (i.e.) Kept the Solemnity. o The usual and known bounds of the Land, in the utmost length of it; of which see Num. 34. 8. Josh. 13. 5. Judg. 3. 3. p (i.e.) Before the Temple, and as in God's Presence. q Seven, for the Dedication of the Temple or Altar, and the other seven for the Feast of Tabernacles; as may be gathered from 2 Chron. 7. 9. And it seems to be expressed in this manner, to intimate, that these 14 days of rejoycing, were not all together, but that there was some interval between them, which indeed was necessary, because the Day of Atonement was on the tenth day of this Month, Lev. 23. 27. And because these 14 days ended on the twenty second day, 2 Chron. 7. 10. it may seem most probable, that the Feast of the Dedication was kept before the tenth day, and the Feast of Tabernacles some days after it.

‖ Or, thanked. and they ‖ blessed the king s, and went unto their tents joyful and glad of heart, for all the goodness that the LORD had done for David t his servant, and for Israel his people.

r Solomon having joyned with the People in the solemn Assembly, which was kept on the Eighth day; in the close of that Day and Service he took his solemn Farewel, and dismissed them with his Blessing; and the next Morning when the Heads and Elders who came to Solomon upon this special Summons above, ver. 3. and with them divers of the People came to take their leave of the King, he sent them away. And so this place agrees very well with 2 Chron. 7. 9, 10. s (i.e.) They prayed to God to bless him, according to their Duty and Custom. Or, they praised him for his great Care and Pains in building of the Temple, and setting up God's Worship among them. t In giving him a sure House, and a wise and religious Son, by whom he had now fulfilled the Promise made to David about the building of the Temple.

CHAP. IX.

AND * it came to pass when Solomon had finished the building of the house of the LORD, and the kings house, and all Solomons desire which he was pleased to do:
* 2 Chron. 7. 11.

2 That the LORD appeared to Solomon the second time a, * as he had appeared unto him at Gibeon.
* Chap. 3. 5.

a To wit, in a Dream or Vision: for that which is mentioned, Chap. 6. 11, seems to have been imparted unto him by some Prophet, or Messenger sent from God with that Errand. The time of this Revelation was, either, 1. after all Solomon's Buildings, as the words thus rendred plainly imply. And if it seem strange, that God should not reveal this purpose and sentence of his concerning the Temple, till so many years after the finishing of it; it must be considered, 1. That as it is an Act of God's singular Grace, when he doth thus reveal himself to any person, so it is but meet he should chuse his own time for it. 2. That God had presently after the finishing of the Temple, at the Feast of the Dedication of it, sufficiently shewed his Acceptance and Approbation of it, by that glorious Cloud, Chap. 8. 10, 11. and therefore this Revelation was not then necessary. 3. That God might chuse this as the fittest time for giving Solomon the following Admonition, when he perceived that his Heart began to be lifted up in Pride for his sumptuous and magnificent Buildings, &c. and that he was grown vain, and careless, and secure; and therefore most needed such an awakening Oracle. Or, 2. presently after the building of the Temple, as may be thought from the Matter of this Revelation, which seems best to sute with that time when it was newly built, and when Solomon's Prayer here mentioned, was newly made: for seeing the following words contain God's Answer to that Prayer, it seems improbable, that the Answer should come so many years after it. But then this second Verse, and the rest, even to ver. 11. are to be inclosed with a Parenthesis; and the place must be thus rendred, ver. 2. For (so the Hebrew vau is oft rendred) the Lord appeared, or had appeared to Solomon, &c. ver. 3. And the Lord had said unto him, &c. And this Parenthesis may seem to have a Foundation in ver. 10. where the first Verse (in substance, though not in the very same words) is repeated, as is usual after long Digressions; and then he compleats the Sentence, ver. 11. &c. which till then had been suspended. Nor are such long Parenthesis without Example in Scripture; See my Latin Synopsis on Rom. 5. 12. &c. Eph. 3. 1, &c. Revel. 22. 7.

3 And the LORD said unto him, I have heard thy prayer, and thy supplication that thou hast made before me: I have hallowed this house b which thou hast built, * to put my name there for ever c, and mine eyes d, and mine heart e shall be there f perpetually g.
* Chap. 8. 29.

b I have my glorious Presence in the Cloud, and by my Acceptation of thy Sacrifices, sanctified it to my proper Use and Service. c As long as the Mosaical Dispensation lasts; whereas hitherto my Name and Worship hath been successively in several places. d (i.e.) My watchful and gracious Providence. e My true and tender Affection. f Shall be towards this Place and People. g Upon condition of your Obedience; as it here follows.

4 And if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked h, in integrity of heart, and in uprightness, to do according to all that I have commanded thee, and wilt keep my statutes and my judgments:

h Who, though he miscarried in some things, yet in the general course of his Life, was upright and faithful towards me.

5 Then i I will establish the throne of thy kingdom upon Israel for ever, * as I promised to David thy father, saying, There shall not fail thee a man upon the throne of Israel.
* 2 Sam. 7. 12. Chap. 2. 4. 1 Chro. 22. 10.

i Upon that Condition; for my Promise to David was conditional.

6 But * if ye shall at all turn from following me k, ye or your children, and will not keep my commandments, and my statutes, which I have set before you, but go and serve other gods, and worship them:
* 2 Sam. 7. 14.

k Or rather, if ye shall wholly turn, &c. If you shall wilfully and obstinately depart from God, and violate his Laws, as the doubling of the Word implies. Whereby he also intimates, That he would not be so rigid and severe towards them, as to mark every thing that was amiss, but would would bear with much, as he did in David, &c. only that he would not endure a total defection from him.

7 Then will I cut off Iſrael out of the land which I have given them, and this houſe which I have hallowed * for my name, will I caſt out of my ſight l, and Iſrael ſhall be a proverb m, and a by-word among all people:

* Jer. 7. 15.

l I will not regard it, I will take away my Protection and gracious Preſence from it. m. Their Miſeries ſhall be named Proverbially, to expreſs extream Calamities. See Deut. 28, 37.

8 And at this houſe which is high n, every one that paſſeth by it ſhall be aſtoniſhed o, and ſhall hiſs p; and they ſhall ſay, * Why hath the LORD done thus unto this land, and to this houſe?

* Deut. 29. 24. Jer. 22. 8.

n (i. e.) Exalted in its Priviledges, Glorious, and Renowed. The Particle which is oft underſtood, and is here fitly ſupplied out of 2 Chron. 7. 21. where it is expreſſed. o At its unexpected and wonderful Ruine. p By way of Contempt, and Deriſion. See Jer 19. 8. and 49. 17. and 50. 13.

9 And they ſhall anſwer, Becauſe they forſook the LORD their God, who brought forth their fathers out of the land of Egypt, and have taken hold upon other gods, and have worſhipped them, and ſerved them: therefore hath the LORD brought upon them all this evil.

10 ¶ And * it came to paſs at the end of twenty years, * when Solomon had built the two houſes, the houſe of the LORD, and the kings houſe.

* 2 Chro. 8. 1. * Chap. 6. 37, 38. & 7. 1.

11 (Now Hiram the king of Tyre had furniſhed Solomon with cedar-trees, and fir-trees, and with gold, according to all his deſire) that then king Solomon gave Hiram twenty cities in the land of Galilee p.

p Or, near (as Beth oft ſignifies, as hath been proved before) the Land of Galilee bordering upon it; in thoſe parts which were near, and adjoyning to Hiram's Dominions: with the Cities, underſtand the Lands and Territories belonging to them. Queſt. How could Solomon give away any part of that Land wherein the People had a Right by a Divine Lot, and God had a Right, as being the only Proprietary of it; upon which ground the total Alienation of it, or any part of it, was forbidden, Levit. 25. 23? Anſw. 1. It is not ſaid, that he gave them away wholly, and for ever; but he might Aſſign them to him only for a time, until he was fully ſatisfied for his Debt. 2. If theſe Cities were poſſeſſed by Iſraelites, Solomon did not give him their particular Poſſeſſions, but only his own Royalties over them, and all the Profits he received from them, which were very conſiderable, as may be gathered from that paſſage, Chap. 12. 4. 3. Theſe Cities, though they were within thoſe large bounds which God fixed to the Land of Promiſe, Gen. 15. 18. Joſh. 1. 4. yet were not within thoſe parts which were diſtributed by Lot in Joſhua's time; nor belonging to the Tribe of Aſher, (as ſome ſuppoſe) as may be gathered both from Joſh. 19. ver. 27. where their border is ſaid to go out only to the Land of Cabul; to wit, excluſively: and ver. 30. where all their Cities are ſaid to be but twenty and two; and from 2 Chron. 8. 2. where it is ſaid of thoſe Cities, when Hiram reſtored them, That Solomon built them, and cauſed the Children of Iſrael to dwell there. Which makes it more than probable, that theſe Cities were not Inhabited by Iſraelites, but by Canaanites, or other Heathens; who being Subdued, and Extirpated by David, or Solomon, thoſe Cities became a part of their Dominion, and at their Diſpoſal; and afterwards were reckon'd a part of Galilee, as Joſephus notes. And may be one reaſon, why he gave theſe, rather than other Cities, becauſe they were in his power to give, when others were not.

12 And Hiram came out from Tyre to ſee the cities which Solomon had given him, and they † pleaſed him not q.

† Heb. were not right in his eyes.

q He did not except them for ſatisfaction, becauſe the Cities were out of repair, as appears from ver. 13. and the Soyl not good in his Eyes, and therefore he refuſed them, 2 Chron. 8. 2. and expected, and doubtleſs had ſatisfaction ſome other way; as may be gathered from the following Story.

13 And he ſaid, What cities are theſe which thou haſt given me, my brother? And he called them the land of ‖ Cabul r unto this day.

‖ That is, diſpleaſing, or dirty.

r (i. e.) Of dirt, as moſt interpret it. Not that it was a barren Soyl, as ſome imagine; for they who deſcribe thoſe parts, commend them as Fruitful: nor would Solomon have made him ſo unworthy a return: but becauſe it was not pleaſant, nor agreeable to his, nor to his Peoples humour; becauſe, though the Land was very good, yet being a thick and ſtiff Clay, and therefore requiring great pains to Manure and Improve it, it was very unſuitable to the diſpoſition of the Tyrians, who were Delicate, and Lazy, and Luxurious, and wholly given to Merchandiſe.

14 And Hiram ſent s to the king ſixſcore talents of gold.

s Or rather, for Hiram had ſent. And this ſeems to be here added, both to declare the quantity of the Gold ſent, which had been only named before, ver. 11. and as the reaſon why he reſented Solomon's Action ſo ill, becauſe ſo great a Sum required a better Recompence.

15 ¶ And this is the reaſon of the levy which king Solomon raiſed t, for to build the houſe of the LORD, and his own houſe, and Millo u, and the wall of Jeruſalem, and Hazor x, and Megiddo y, and Gezer z.

* t Both the Levy of Men; of which, Chap. 5. 13 and the Levy of Money upon his People and Subjects, which is ſufficiently evident from many Scriptures. And this Sentence may look both backward, and forward. He raiſed this Levy, both to pay what he owed to Hiram, which is mentioned before; and to Build the Works here following. u It ſeems to have been an eminent, and large, and ſtrong Fort or Caſtle in Jeruſalem; as may be gathered from 1 King, 11. 27. 2 Chron. 32. 5. x In Napthali, See Joſh. 11. 10. and 19. 36. y In that part of the Tribe of Manaſſeh within Jordan: of which ſee Joſh. 17. 15. z In Ephraim, Joſh. 21. 21. It now was, and long had been in the poſſeſſion of the Canaanites, Joſh. 16. 10. Jud. 1. 29. and permitted ſo to be by David, and Solomon; either by neglect, or becauſe they were buſied in greater and more neceſſary Employments.

16 For Pharaoh king of Egypt had gone up, and taken Gezer a, and burnt it with fire, and ſlain the Canaanites that dwelt in the City, and given it for a preſent unto his daughter, Solomons wife.

a Not now, but long before this time, and preſently after the Marriage of his Daughter, as is moſt probable; and it is here mentioned only as the occaſion of Solomon's Building it. Poſſibly the Canaanites of this place had been guilty of ſome Hainous Crime; and becauſe Solomon thought not fit to deſtroy them himſelf, he deſired Pharoah to do it for him, or Pharoah might offer his Service therein for his Daughters advantage.

17 And Solomon built Gezer, and Beth-horon the nether b.

b In Benjamin, Joſ. 18. 13, 14. and Bethoron the upper, which is added 2 Chron. 8. 5. a City in the Tribe of Ephraim, Joſ. 16. 5. poſſibly bordering upon Benjamin, and nigh unto the lower Bethoron: which alone may be here mentioned, either; becauſe it was the more famous place: Or, becauſe it needed more reparations.

18 And Baalath c, and Tadmor d, in the wilderneſs, in the land e.

c In the Tribe of Dan, Joſ. 19. 40, 44. d Suppoſed to be called Tamar, Ezek. 47. 19. e This Clauſe may belong either firſt, to all the places above-mentioned, which are here declared to be in the Land of Canaan. But ſo that Clauſe may ſeem ſuperfluous; for none would eaſily think that he would build much out of his own Land. Or rather, Secondly, To Tadmor, which otherwiſe, being in that Wilderneſs which was the border of the Land, might have been preſumed to have been out of the Land.

19 And all the cities of ſtore f that Solomon had, and cities for his chariots, and cities for his horſemen, and † that which Solomon deſired to build in Jeruſalem, and in Lebanon g, and in all the land of his dominion.

† Heb. the deſire of Solomon which he deſired.

f To lay up Arms and Ammunition for War, and Corn, or other Proviſions, againſt a time of ſcarcity. See Exod. 1. 11. g Either in the Mountain of Lebanon, which being the Border of his Land, he might Build ſome Forts, or a Frontier City in it. Or, in the Houſe of the Foreſt of Lebanon: of which ſee, Chap. 7. 2.

20 And all the people that were left of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebuſites, which were not of the children of Iſrael.

21 Their children * that were left after them in the land, whom the children of Iſrael alſo were not able utterly to deſtroy, upon thoſe did Solomon levy a tribute of bond-ſervice b unto this day.

* Judg. 1. 21, 27, 29.

b He uſed them as Bond-men, and impoſed Burdens and Bodily Labours upon them. See 2 Chron. 2. 18 Hence ſome think think they are called Solomon's Servants, Ezra 2. 55, 58. Queſt. Why did not Solomon deſtroy them, as God had commanded, when now it was fully in his power to do ſo? Anſw. Firſt, The command of deſtroying them, Deut. 7. 2. did chiefly, if not only, concern that Generation of Canaanites who lived in or near the time of the Iſraelites entring into Canaan. Secondly, That Command ſeems not to be Abſolute and Univerſal, but conditional, and with ſome exception for thoſe who ſhould ſubmit to them, and embrace the True Religion, as may be gathered both from Joſ. 11. 19. and from the Hiſtory of the Gibeonites, Joſ. 9. whom Joſhua did not ſin in ſparing, when he had Sworn to do ſo; and Saul did ſin in endeavouring to deſtroy them. But if Gods Command had been Abſolute, the Oaths of Joſhua, and of the Princes, could not have obliged them, nor diſpenſed with ſuch a Command.

22 But of the children of Iſrael did Solomon * make no bond-men: but they were men of war, and his ſervants, and his princes, and his captains, and rulers of his chariots, and his horſemen.

* Lev. 25. 39.

23 Theſe were the chief of the officers that were over Solomons work, five hundred and fifty i, which bare rule over the people that wrought in the work.

i Obj. They were only 250. in 2 Chron. 8. 10. Anſ. Firſt, Thoſe might be Officers of another ſort; for they are not ſaid to be over the work, as theſe are, but only over the people. Secondly, The 250 were Iſraelites, who are therefore diſtinctly mentioned in that Book, where many things are more exactly noted than in the former; and the other 300 were ſtrangers, who therefore are neglected in that more accurate account. Or, Thirdly, There was but 250 at one time, which is noted there, and 250 at another time, (for it is apparent they did their work by turns) and the other 50 either were Superior to all the reſt; or rather, were a reſerve to ſupply the place of any of the 500 when there was occaſion, which might frequently happen. And ſo this was an act not unbecoming Solomon's Wiſdom, to make proviſion for Emergences.

24 ¶ But * Pharaohs daughter came up out of the city of David, unto * her houſe which Solomon had built for her: then did he build Millo.

* 2 Chr. 8. 11.
* Chap. 7. 8.

25 ¶ And three times in a year k did Solomon offer burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings upon the altar which he built unto the LORD, and he burnt incenſe † upon the altar that was before the LORD: ſo he finiſhed the houſe l.

k (i. e.) At the three Solemn Feaſts. Which is not ſaid excluſively, as is evident both from 2 Chron. 8. 13. and from the expreſs and oft-repeated Commands of God to offer at other times, which it is abſurd to think that Solomon, not yet fallen into ſin, ſhould ſo wickedly and ſcandalouſly neglect; but becauſe then he did it more ſolemnly, and more coſtlily, and more publickly: whereby it might be preſumed, that he did ſo at all other appointed times. l Or, ſo he perfected the houſe, to wit, by applying it to the uſe for which it was made, in which the perfection of ſuch things conſiſts. Or, the houſe may be put Metonymically for the Work or Service of the Houſe, as it is elſewhere commonly uſed for the things or perſons in the Houſe. Or, the words may be, and are rendred thus, After that (for ſo the Hebrew Vau oft ſignifies, as Iſa. 37. 9, 36. Hoſ. 1. 11. Zech. 12. 2.) he finiſhed the Houſe; i. e. From the time of the finiſhing of the Houſe, until this time, he continued to do ſo.

26 ¶ And * king Solomon made a navy of ſhips m, in Ezion-Geber: which is beſide Eloth n, on the † ſhore of the red ſea, in the land of Edom o.

* 2 Chr. 8. 17.

m Not now in the order in which it is placed in the Hiſtory, but in the beginning of his Reign; as appears, becauſe the Almug-trees which he uſed in this Work, were brought in this Navy from Ophir, Chap. 10, 11, 12. 2 Chron. 9, 10, 11. which was a three Years Voyage there, v. 22. For Ophir and Tharſis were either the ſame place, or one near to another. n Or, Elath, as it is called 2 King. 14. 22. See Deut. 2. 8. It is thought to be that famous Port on the Red-Sea, which Ptolemy and Strabo call Elana, o Which David brought under his Dominion, and Solomon kept it.

27 And Hiram ſent in the navy his ſervants, ſhip-men that had knowledge of the ſea p, with the ſervants of Solomon.

p For which the Tyrians were famous. He ſent alſo Ships to joyn with Solomon's, 2 Chron. 8. 18. not from Tyre, the famous City of Phœnicia, which was in the Midland Sea, from whence he could not Sail to the Red-Sea, without fetching a vaſt compaſs; but from an Iſland in the Red-Sea, called Tyre, becauſe it was a Colony of the Tyrians, as Strabo notes.

28 And they came to Ophir q, and fet from thence gold, four hundred and twenty talents r, and brought it to king Solomon.

q A place famous for the plenty and fineneſs of the Gold there; Of which ſee Gen. 2. 11, 12. Job 22. 24. and 28. 16. Pſal. 45. 9. Iſa. 13. 12. It is manifeſt and agreed, that it was a part of the Eaſt-Indies, which tho very remote from us, yet was far nearer to the Red-Sea, from whence they might eaſily Sail to it in theſe Ancient times, becauſe they needed not to go far from the Coaſt to come to it, becauſe they might (according to the manner of theſe firſt Ages) Sail all along near the Coaſt, though the Voyage was thereby more tedious, which was the reaſon why three Years were ſpent in it. And here, and here only were to be had all the Commodities which Solomon fetched from Ophir, 1 King. 10. 22. r In all there came to the King 450 Talents, whereof it ſeems 30 Talents were allowed by Solomon to Hiram and his Men for the Voyage, and ſo there were only 420 that came clearly into the King's Treaſury.

Howſoever, this is here ſaid for her commendation, That being a Woman and a Queen, and living at great eaſe, and in ſuch remote parts, ſhe was willing to take ſo long and chargeable a Journey to improve her ſelf in knowledge, and that of Divine things, as is here implied. b i. e. Concerning the great Work which he had done for the Name, i. e. the Honour, and Service, and Worſhip of the Lord, as it is expreſſed Chap. 8. 17. and elſewhere. For it is very probable, that ſhe had, as alſo had divers others Heathens, ſome knowledge of the True God, and an earneſt deſire to know more of the Being, and Nature, and Worſhip of God, wherein the Heathens were generally at a great loſs, and which many of them deſired and endeavoured to underſtand. 29 And a chariot p came up, and went out of Egypt for six hundred shekels of silver, and an horse for an hundred an fifty: and so for all the kings of the Hittites q, and for the kings of Syria, did they bring them out † by their means.

p This is not to be understood of the Chariots and Horses themselves, (for then all Horses had been set at an equal price, which is most absurd) but by a Metonymy, for the Lading of Chariots and Horses, which consisting of fine Linnen, and Silk, &c. were of great value; and the King's Custom, together with the Charges of the Journey, amounted to these Sums. q A People dwelling principally in the Northern and Eastern parts of Canaan, Jos. 1. 4. whom the Israelites, contrary to their Duty, spared, and suffered to live among them, Judg. 3. 5. who afterwards, it seems, grew numerous and potent; and it may be, they sent out Colonies (after the manner of the ancient times) into some parts of Syria and Arabia; and possibly these Kings of the Hittites may be some of those Kings of Arabia, 1 King. 10. 15.

CHAP. XI.

* Neh. 13. 26. * Deut. 17. 17. ‖ Or, besides.

BUT * king Solomon loved a * many strange women b (‖ together with the daughter of Pharaoh) women of the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonians, and Hittites:

a To wit, inordinately and lustfully. b He sinned against God's known Law, both in their number, Deut. 17. 17. and in their quality.

* Exod. 34. 16. Deut. 7. 3.

2 Of the nations concerning which the LORD said unto the children of Israel, * Ye shall not go in to them c, neither shall they come in unto you; for surely they will turn away your heart after their gods d: Solomon clave unto these in love.

c (i. e.) Marry them. See on Gen. 6. 4. d Possibly Solomon might think himself too wise to be drawn to Idolatry by his Wives, and therefore to be unconcerned in the Reason of the Law, and consequently free in some measure from the Obligation of the Law; and so, like our first Parents, trusting his own Fancy more than God's Word, he fell dreadfully.

3 And he had seven hundred wives, princesses, and three hundred concubines e: and his wives turned away his heart.

e Partly for his Lust, which being indulged, becomes infinite and unsatiable; and partly from his Pride, accounting this a point of Honour and Magnificence.

4 For it came to pass, when Solomon was old f, that his wives turned away his heart after other gods g: and * his heart was not perfect with the LORD his God, as was the heart of David his father.

* Chap. 15. 3.

f As having now reigned nigh thirty years, when it might have been expected that Age should have cooled his Lust, and Experience have made him wiser and better, and when probably he was secure as to any such Miscarriages: Then God permitted him to fall so shamefully, that he might be to all succeeding Generations an Example of God's Severity, and of the folly, and weakness, and wickedness of the wisest and best Men, when left to themselves. g Not that they changed his Mind or Opinion about the true God, and Idols, which is not credible; but that they cooled his Zeal against them, obtained from him a publick Indulgence for their Worship, and Money for the making of Idols, and the support of the Charges of their Priests and Sacrifices, and possibly perswaded him sometimes in complaisance to joyn with them in the outward act of Idol-worship; or, at least, in their Feasts upon their Sacrifices, which was a participation of their Idolatry. See Psal. 106. 28. 1 Cor. 10. 20.

5 For Solomon went after h * Ashtaroth the goddess of the Zidonians, and after * Milcom i the abomination of the Amorites.

* Judg. 2. 13. 2 King. 23. 13. * Judg. 2. 13.

† Heb. fulfilled not after. Deut. 1. 36.

k (i. e.) Did not worship God wholly and solely, but joyned Idols with him.

7 Then did Solomon build l an high place m for * Chemosh the abomination of Moab, in the hill that is before Jerusalem n; and for Molech the abomination of the children of Ammon.

See Numb. 22. 41. and 23. 1. n (i. e.) In the Mount of Olives, which was nigh unto Jerusalem, 2 Sam. 15. 30. and from this Act was called the Mount of Corruption, 2 King. 23. 13. Idolatry being often called and esteemed a Corruption.

8 And likewise did he for all his strange wives o, which burnt incense, and sacrificed unto their gods.

o Having once given way to some few of his most beloved Wives, he was forced to comply with the rest.

9 ¶ And the LORD was angry with Solomon, because his heart was turned from the LORD God of Israel p, * which had appeared unto him q twice,

* Chap. 3. 5. and 9. 2.

p From the express Command, and from the Worship of God; not that he wholly neglected God, but because God esteems all the Worship of Idols (though it be not exclusive of, but conjoyned with his own Worship) to be a forsaking of, and departing from God, and oft-times so calls it. q To wit, in an extraordinary, and most gracious, and obliging manner.

10 And * had commanded him concerning this thing, that he should not go after other gods: but he kept not that which the LORD commanded.

* Chap. 6. 12

11 Wherefore the LORD said unto Solomon r, Forasmuch as this † is done of thee, and thou hast not * kept my covenant, and my statutes which I have commanded thee, * I will surely rend s the kingdom from thee, and will give it to thy servant t.

12 Notwithstanding, in thy days I will not do it, for David thy fathers sake u: but I will rend it out of the hand of thy son.

u For the respect I bear to his memory, and for my Promise-sake made to him, 2 Sam. 7.

13 Howbeit, I will not rend away all the kingdom, but will give one tribe x to thy son, for David my servants sake, and for Jerusalems sake y, which I have chosen.

x How but one, when he had both Judah and Benjamin 2 Chron. 11. 12? Answ. Either, Benjamin is swallowed up in Judah, because it was comparatively very small, and their habitation much intermixed with that of Judah: or, one, to wit, of that Kingdom which he here threatens to rend away from him, i. e. of the Kingdom of Israel; and that was Benjamin: one besides Judah, which was his own Tribe: or, but one, because Benjamin was not entirely his, but part of it adhered to Jeroboam, as Bethel, 1 King. 12. 29. and Hephron, 2 Chron. 13. 19. both which were Towns of Benjamin, Josh. 18. 22. Or, if God promised to give one, and gave him two, I suppose that was no great injury to him. y Not, surely, for its merits; but because he had chosen it, as it follows lows, to be the Seat of his Temple and Worſhip, it being God's uſual method to give to him that hath, and to continue and multiply Favours to them whom he hath begun to favour.

14 ¶ And the LORD ſtirred up an adverſary unto Solomon, Hadad the Edomite, he was of the kings ſeed in Edom.

And this may be mentioned as that which gave Hadad the opportunity of making his eſcape, whilſt Joab and his Men were employed in that Solemnity. b Or, and he ſmote, &c. as it is in the Hebrew. Which is here noted as the Cauſe of Hadad's flight; he ſmote, &c. He underſtood what Joab had done in part, and intended further to do, even to kill all the Males, and therefore fled for his life.

16 (For ſix months did Joab remain there with all Iſrael, until he had cut off every male in Edom)

17 That Hadad fled, he and certain Edomites of his fathers ſervants with him, to go into Egypt; Hadad being yet a little child.

18 And they aroſe out of Midian c, and came to Paran, and they took men with them out of Paran d, and they came to Egypt unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, which gave him an houſe, and appointed him victuals, and gave him land e.

c He fled at firſt with intent to go into Egypt, as is ſaid, v. 17. but took Midian, a neighbouring Countrey, in his way, and ſtaid there a while, poſſibly till he had by ſome of his Servants tried Pharaoh's mind, and prepared the way for his Reception. d Another Countrey in the Road from Edom to Egypt, where he hired Men to attend him, that making his Entrance there ſomething like a Prince, he might find more Favour and Reſpect from that King and People. e To ſupport himſelf and his Train out of the Profits of it.

19 And Hadad found great favour in the ſight of Pharaoh f, ſo that he gave him to wife the ſiſter of his own wife, the ſiſter of Thapenes the queen.

f God ſo diſpoſing his Heart, that Hadad might be a ſcourge to Solomon for his Impieties, which God foreſaw long before they were done.

20 And the ſiſter of Tahpenes bare him Genubath his ſon, whom Thapenes weaned in Pharaohs houſe: and Genubath was in Pharaohs houſhold among the ſons of Pharaoh.

25 And as he was an adverſary to Iſrael all the days of Solomon o, beſide the miſchief that Hadad did p: and he abhorred Iſrael, and reigned over Syria q.

o He was a ſecret Enemy, watching all occaſions to do them Miſchief cunningly and privately all that time; and when Solomon had forſaken God, and was forſaken by God, he ſhewed himſelf more openly and maliciouſly. p So the Senſe is, This Infelicity was added to the former concerning Hadad, mentioned above, v. 14. &c. Whilſt Hadad moleſted him in the South, Rezon threatned him in the North. But ſome underſtand this of Hadadezer, who is here called Hadad, by way of Abreviation, (which is not unuſual in proper Hebrew Names, as is well known) and that for, or becauſe of (for the Hebrew Particle Eth, is ſometimes put for El, which oft ſignifies for, or becauſe of, as Hebricians know) the evil which befel Hadad, or Hadadezer, i. e. he bore a grudge againſt the Iſraelites from, and ever ſince the ſlaughter that Joab made in Hadadezer's Army, whereof he was a Member, although he alſo took that occaſion of making a Defection from his Maſter. q Over all that part of Syria, enlarging his Empire more and more, and thereby laying a Foundation for much Miſery to Solomon's Houſe and Kingdom.

29 And it came to paſs at that time, when Jeroboam went out of Jeruſalem x, that the prophet Ahijah the Shilonite found him in the way, and he had clad himſelf with a new garment; and they two were alone in the field y.

x Upon ſome occaſion, poſſibly to execute his Charge. y Having gone aſide thither for ſome private Conference; for otherwiſe it is moſt likely that he had Servants attending upon him, who, though they heard not the words, yet might ſee the action, and the rending of Jeroboam's Coat; and thus it came to Solomon's ears, who being ſo acute and wiſe, could eaſily underſtand the thing by what he heard of the action, eſpecially when a Prophet did it.

30 And Ahijah caught the new garment that was on him, and * rent it in twelve pieces.

* See 1 Sam. 15. 27. and 24. 5.

31 And he ſaid to Jeroboam, Take thee ten pieces z: for * thus ſaith the LORD, the God of Iſrael, Behold, I will rend the kingdom out of the hand of Solomon, and will give ten tribes to thee.

* Ver. 11.

z Whence the Kingdom of Iſrael is oft called the Kingdom of the Ten Tribes: by which Expreſſion it may ſeem, that David's Poſterity ſhould have one Tribe reſerved out of the Kingdom of Iſrael, beſides that of Judah, which becauſe of its greatneſs and eminency, is commonly diſtinguiſhed from Iſrael, and that not only after the Diviſion of the two Kingdoms, but even before it, as 1 Sam. 11. 8. and 2 Sam. 5. 5.

32 (But he ſhall have one tribe a, for my ſervant Davids ſake, and for Jeruſalems ſake, the city which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel) a See the Notes above on ver. 13.

33 Because that they b have forsaken me, and have worshipped Ashtoreth the goddess of the Zidonians, Chemosh the god of the Moabites, and Milcom the god of the children of Ammon, and have not walked in my ways to do that which is right in mine eyes, and to keep my statutes, and my judgments, as did David his father.

b (i.e.) The King, and his Concubines, and People, who easily followed his example, but were not at all excused by it.

34 Howbeit, I will not take the whole kingdom c out of his hand d: but I will make him prince all the days of his life, for David my servants sake, whom I chose, because he kept my commandments and my statutes e.

c To wit, of Israel, that which I have designed for thee. Or rather, I will not take any thing, or part of the Kingdom. For the Hebrew Phrase, lo col, which properly signifies not all, or not the whole, doth usually signify not any thing, as Deut. 8. 9. thou shalt not want every thing, (i.e.) not any thing. So also Gen. 4. 15. and 23. 6. and 39. 23. Psal. 49. 18. and 143. 2, &c. d He shall possess it whilst he lives, as it follows; and therefore thou shalt not yet attempt to invade it. e Whereby he sheweth, that he doth not judge of men by some particular acts, but by their general purpose and course of life.

35 But * I will take the kingdom out of his sons hand, and will give it unto thee, even ten tribes. *Chap. 12. 15.

36 And unto his son will I give one tribe, that * David my servant may have a † light f alway before me g in Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen me, to put my Name there. *2 King. 8. 19. † Heb. lamp or candle.

f (i.e.) A Son and Successor, to preserve his name and memory, and to give Light to the people in his stead. Kings are oft called Lights, partly, from their great Splendor; and partly, for the Counsel and Comfort which their people have or should have from them. Compare 2 Sam. 21. 17. 1 King. 15. 4. Psal. 132. 17. In my presence, which is in Jerusalem, and under my favour and protection.

37 And I will take thee g, and thou shalt reign according to all that thy soul desireth h, and shalt be king over Israel.

g And place thee in the Throne, as it follows. h He secretly taxeth him for his ambitious and aspiring mind.

38 And it shall be, if thou wilt hearken unto all that I command thee, and wilt walk in my ways, and do that is right in my sight, to keep my statutes, and my commandments, as David my servant did; that I will be with thee, and build thee a sure house i, as I built for David, and will give Israel unto thee.

i (i.e.) Firmly settle thee and thy Posterity in the Throne, as this or the like Phrase is used, 2 Sam. 7. 16, 27. but he doth not say he would do this for ever, as is there said of David's House, v. 16.

39 And I will for this k afflict the seed of David, but not for ever l.

k For this cause, which I mentioned v. 33. l There shall a time come when the Seed of David shall not be thus molested by the Kingdom of Israel, but that Kingdom shall be destroyed, and the Kings of the House of David shall be uppermost, as it was in the days of Asa, Hezekiah and Josiah. And at last the Messiah shall come, who shall unite together the broken sticks of Judah and Joseph, and rule over all the Jews and Gentiles too.

40 Solomon m sought therefore to kill Jeroboam: and Jeroboam arose, and fled into Egypt, unto Shishak king of Egypt n, and was in Egypt until the death of Solomon.

m To whose ears this might come, either 1. by Jeroboam himself, who might speak of this, either out of vain glory and ostentation; or, with design to prepare the People for his purpose. Or, 2. By the Servants. See above on ver. 29. n Who was either, first, Solomon's Brother-in-law, who yet might be jealous of him, or alienated from him, because he had taken so many other Wives to his Sister, as is here noted ver. 1. or, might cast a greedy eye upon the great riches and glorious things which Solomon had amassed together, and upon which, presently after Solomon's Death, he laid Violent hands, 2 Chron. 12. 9. All this was known to Jeroboam, who therefore durst put himself into Shishak's Protection; especially, considering how little such Relations commonly signifie in the Affairs of Princes; and withal, being made confident by God's Promise of the Kingdom. Or, 2. One of another Line or House, to whom that Crown might Descend for want of issue.

41 ¶ And the rest of the ‖ acts of Solomon, and all that he did, and his wisdom, are they not written in the book of the acts of Solomon o? ‖ Or, words, or things.

o In the Publick Records, where the Lives and Actions of Kings were Registred from time to time. So this was only a Political, but not a Sacred Book.

42 And the † time that Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel, was * forty years. † Heb. days. * 2 Chron. 9. 30.

43 And Solomon slept with his fathers p, and was buried in the city of David his father: and * Rehoboam his son reigned in his stead. * Mat. 1. 7. called Roboam.

p This Expression is promiscuously used concerning good and bad; and signifies only, That they died as their Fathers did. But hence Interpreters question, Whether Solomon was Saved, or Damned? That he was Damned, some believe upon this only Argument, That he died without Repentance; which they gather, 1. Because his Repentance is not mentioned in his History. 2. Because if he had Repented, he would have Abolished the Monuments of Idolatry which he had Erected; which that he did not, they gather from 2 King. 23. 13. Of which, (God Assisting) I shall speak upon that place. But to the former, many things may be said; 1. We read nothing of the Repentance of Adam; Noah, after his Drunkenness, Lot, Sampson, Asa, &c. shall we therefore conclude, they were all Damned? The silence of the Scripture is a very weak Argument in matters of History. 2. If he did Repent, yet the silence of the Scripture about it in this History, was not without wise Reasons; as among others, That his Eternal Condition being thus far left doubtful, his Example might have the greater influence for the Terror and Caution of future Offenders. 3. His Repentance is sufficiently implied in this, (to omit divers other Passages) That after Solomon's death the way of Solomon is mentioned with Honour, and joyned with the way of David, 2 Chron. 11. 17. But it seems to be put out of dispute by the Book of Ecclesiastes; which (by the general consent both of Jewish and Christian Interpreters) was written by Solomon, and that after his Fall; as is evident, not only from the unanimous Testimony of the Hebrew Writers, who thence conclude, That he did Repent, and was Saved; but also, from the whole strain of that Book, which was written long after he had finished all his Works, and after he had liberally drunk of all sorts of Sensual Pleasures, and sadly Experienced the bitter Effects of his love of Women, Eccles. 7. 17, &c Which makes it more than probable, that as David writ Psal. 51. so Solomon wrote this Book as a publick Testimony and Profession of his Repentance. And this Argument is so cogent, that those Interpreters who are of the other Opinion, confess it, if Solomon did write this Book after his Fall, which they pretend he wrote before it: but they offer not any Argument to prove it. And therefore we have reason to conclude, That Solomon did Repent, and was Saved.

CHAP. XII.

AND * Rehoboam went to Shechem; for all Israel were come to Shechem a to make him king b. * 2 Chron. 10. 1.

a Rehoboam did not call them thither, but went thither, because the Israelites prevented him, and had generally pitched upon that place, rather than upon Jerusalem; partly, because it was most convenient for all, as being in the Center of the whole Kingdom: partly, because that being in the potent Tribe of Ephraim, they supposed there they might use that freedom of Speech, which they resolved to use, to get their Grievances Redressed: and partly, by the secret direction of Jeroboam, or his friends, who would not trust themselves in Jerusalem; and thought Shechem a fitter place to execute their Design. b To Confirm him in the Kingdom, which they generally intended to do; he being the undoubted Heir of the Crown, and the only Son which Solomon had from so vast a number of Wives.

2 And it came to pass, when Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who was yet in * Egypt, heard of it c, (for he was fled from the presence of king Solomon, and Jeroboam dwelt in Egypt.) * Chap. 11. 40.

c In the Hebrew it is only heard, and may relate either to Solomon's Death, or to the meeting which all the Tribes had appointed at Shechem,

3 That they sent and called him d: and Jeroboam boam, and all the congregation of Israel came and spake unto Rehoboam, saying,

d When the People sent him word of Solomon's Death, they also sent a summons for him to come to Shechem. Or, As soon as he had heard the tidings of Solomon's Death from others, or from common Fame; presently there came a solemn Message to him from the people, who desired his presence and assistance, as it seems probable from divers Motives; some, that they might translate the Kingdom from Rehoboam to him; and others only for this reason, That the Presence and Countenance of a man of so great Interest and Reputation, and one that had some Claim or Pretence upon the Kingdom, might lay the greater obligation upon Rehoboam to grant their desires of ease and relief.

* Chap. 4. 7. 4 Thy father made our * yoke grievous e: now therefore make thou the grievous service of thy father, and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, lighter, and we will serve thee.

e By heavy Taxes and Impositions, not only for the Temple and his Magnificent Buildings, but for the Expences of his Numerous Court, and of so many Wives and Concubines, whose Luxury and Idolatry must needs be very costly. And Solomon having so grosly forsaken God, it is no wonder if he Oppressed the People, and made their Yoke most grievous, as they speak. But here the Peoples perverseness is very observable, both in this, that they mention and aggravate only the grievances of the Government, but take no notice of the vast benefits which they received from it; and in that, that they mind nothing but their outward pressures, and have no regard unto that Abominable Idolatry which he set up among them; being, it seemed, either leavened with it by his pernicious Example, or grown careless and negligent of all the concerns of Religion. By which, see how ripe they were all for those dreadful judgments of God which are now hastening upon them.

5 And he said unto them, Depart yet for three days, then come again to me f. And the people departed.

f Give me that time for deliberation and advice.

6 ¶ And king Rehoboam consulted with the old men that stood before Solomon his father g, while he yet lived, and said, How do ye advise, that I may answer this people?

g With Solomon's old Councellors, whom Age and experience of Men and Things, and converse with such a King, had made wise.

7 And they spake unto him, saying, If thou wilt be a servant unto this people this day h, and wilt serve them, and i answer them, and spake good words to them, then they will be thy servants for ever.

h By complying with their desires, and condescending to them for a season, till the troubled humours be quieted, and the opportunity they now have, and some of them that seek for Sedition, be gone, and thou beest better stablished in thy Throne. They use this expression, as fore-seeing that some would dissuade him from this course, as servile or slavish, and below the Majesty of a Prince. i For, that is, Thy Service, say they, is not hard, it is only a few good words, which it is as easie to give as bad ones.

8 But he forsook the counsel of the old men k which they had given him, and consulted with the young men l that were grown up with him m, and which stood before him.

k Judging it unworthy of his Majesty and Authority, and likely to encourage and encrease the People in their Insolent Demands. l So called comparatively to the Old Men; otherwise they were near 40 years old, as the following words imply. m Which is added as the reason of his inclination to their Counsels, because his daily converse with them, and the likeness of their Age and Humour to his, had engaged his Affections to them, and that bribed his judgment, as it commonly doth.

9 And he said unto them, What counsel give ye, that we may answer this people, who have spoken to me, saying, Make the yoke which thy father did put upon us, lighter?

10 And the young men that were grown up with him, spake unto him, saying, Thus shalt thou speak unto this people that spake unto thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it lighter unto us; thus shalt thou say unto them, My little finger shall be thicker n than my fathers loins.

n Or rather is thicker, and therefore stronger, and more able to crush you, if you proceed in these Murinous Demands, than his loyns, in which is the principal Seat of Strength. My Father was young and weak, and had many Enemies when he first took the Kingdom; but I am the undoubted heir; and I find the Kingdom by his wise Care, far better setled and fortified against all Enemies Foreign or Domestick, than he did.

11 And now whereas my father did lade you with an heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke o: my father hath chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions p.

o (i. e.) Make it heavier and stronger, both to punish your Petulancy, and to curb and restrain you from Seditious Attempts. p (i. e.) With such Whips as will Sting you like Scorpions: If you proceed in these courses, I will most severely punish you for it.

12 ¶ So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third day, as the king had appointed, saying, Come to me again the third day.

13 And the king answered the people † roughly; and forsook the old mens counsel that they gave him:

14 And spake to them after the course of the young men, saying, My father made your yoke heavy, and I will add to your yoke; my father also chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

15 Wherefore the king hearkned not unto the people, for * the † cause was from the LORD q, that he might perform his saying, which the LORD * spake by Ahijah the Shilonite, unto Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

* Judg. 14. 4. and 2 Chron. 10. 15 and 22. † Gr. the turning.

q Who gave up Rehoboam to so foolish and fatal a mistake, and alienated the Peoples Affections from him; and ordered all Circumstances by his Wise Providence to that end.

* Chap. 11. 31.

16 ¶ So when all Israel saw that the king hearkned not unto them, the people answered the king, saying, What portion have we in David r? neither have we inheritance in the son of Jesse s: to your tents, O Israel t; now see to thine own house, David u. So Israel departed unto their tents.

r (i. e.) In David's Family and Son; we can expect no benefit or relief from him, and therefore we renounce all Commerce with him, and Subjection to him. See 2 Sam. 20. 1. They named David, rather than Rehoboam; to signifie, That they did Renounce, not Rehoboam only, but all David's Family. s So they call David in contempt; q. d. Rehoboam hath no reason to carry himself with such Pride and Contempt toward his People; for if we trace his Original, it was as mean and obscure as many of ours. And since he abuseth his Power, let us reduce him to his former Obscurity. t (i. e.) Let us all forsake him, and go to our own homes, there to consider, and then to meet, and conclude how to provide otherwise for our selves. u (i. e.) Govern thy own Family; for thou shalt no longer rule over us. Thus they break out into Actual Rebellion against him, whom God had made their Lawful Sovereign; wherein, though they fulfilled God's Counsel, yet they violated his Authority and Command. And they do again make an opprobrious mention of David, whom they should not have named without Honour.

17 But * as for the children of Israel which dwelt in the cities of Judah x, Rehoboam reigned over them.

* Chap. 11. 32.

x By which Phrase he principally understands the Tribe of Judah; but withal, those parts and parcels of the Tribes of Levi, and Simeon, and Benjamin, whose dwellings were within the Confines of Judah, or intermixed with them.

18 Then king Rehoboam sent Adoram, who was over the tribute y, and all Israel stoned him with stones that he died: therefore king Rehoboam † made speed to get him up to his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem z.

y Him he sent, either 1. To pacifie the People, and promise them Relief, now when it was too late. But then he would not have sent a person so ungrateful to the People, as that sort of men use to be. Or rather, 2. To pursue the Counsel which he had resolved upon, and to execute his Office, and exact their Tribute with Rigor and Violence, if need were. z From Shechem, where it seems he yet staid, and his Guards and friends with him; that being there in the midst of his Kingdom, and among the Seditious Tribes, he might over-awe them by his Presence, and repress any Tumults in their first rise.

19 So Iſrael ‖ rebelled a againſt the houſe of David unto this day.

a Their Revolt is called Rebellion, and therefore was ſinful, becauſe it was contrary to God's Authority, and Command of ſubjection to David, and his Seed for ever; from which the People were not freed by God's Promiſe and Grant made to Jeroboam, which was but a ſecret Tranſaction, not yet ſufficiently Revealed to them, and was not a grant of preſent and actual Poſſeſſion, but only a Promiſe, That God would give it to him in his own time, and way; which might have been done, though neither Jeroboam, nor the People had uſed theſe indirect and evil Courſes to bring it about; as it befel David upon the ſame occaſion. Beſides, the People did not this in compliance with God's Counſel, but to gratifie their own Paſſions, and get themſelves a little eaſe.

20 And it came to paſs when all Iſrael heard that Jeroboam was come again b, that they ſent c and called him unto the congregation d, and made him king over all Iſrael: there was none † that followed the houſe of David, but the Tribe of Judah * only.

* Chap 11.13.

b To wit, from Egypt; which was known before to the chief of the Tribes, and to them who met at Shechem, and now was more univerſally known by all the People. c To his Tent or Habitation, to which he had retired himſelf, as others alſo generally did; ſee above, v. 16. d Which was ſummoned by the Elders of the ſeveral Tribes, to take advice, how to ſettle their Affairs, which they eaſily agreed to do, by conferring the Crown upon Jeroboam, according to God's Promiſe made to him. † (i. e.) No intire Tribe. See on Chap. 11. 13, 31, 32.

21 And * when Rehoboam was come to Jeruſalem, he aſſembled all the houſe of Judah, with the tribe of Benjamin e, an hundred and fourſcore thouſand choſen men, which were warriours, to fight againſt the houſe f of Iſrael, to bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon.

* 2 Chron. 11. 1.

e (i. e.) That part of it which was next to Judah, and joyned with them. See on Chap. 11. 13. f (i. e.) The Familes or Tribes, (for theſe Words are promiſcuouſly uſed one for the other) of Iſrael.

22 But * the word of God came unto Shemaiah the man of God g, ſaying,

* 2 Chron. 11. 2.

g (i. e.) The Prophet, ſo called, partly, to diſtinguiſh him from others of that Name. See Nehem. 6. 10. Jer. 29. 31. and partly, to add the more weight to his words.

23 Speak unto Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon king of Judah, and to all the houſe of Judah, and Benjamin, and to the remnant of the people, ſaying, 24 Thus ſaith the LORD, Ye ſhall not go up nor fight againſt your brethren the children of Iſrael: return every man to his houſe, for this thing is from me h. They hearkned therefore to the word of the LORD i, and returned to depart according to the word of the LORD.

h This event is from my Counſel and Providence, to puniſh Solomon's Apoſtacy, though they procured it by ſinful means: and therefore, if you proceed, you muſt fight with me, as well as them. i Either from conſcience of their duty, or becauſe they durſt not oppoſe ſo Potent an Adverſary.

25 ¶ Then Jeroboam built Shechem k in mount Ephraim, and dwelt therein; and went out from thence, and built Penuel l.

k (i. e.) He repaired, and enlarged, and fortified it; for it had been ruined long ſince; Judg. 9. 45. He might chuſe it as a place both auſpicious, becauſe here the Foundation of his Monarchy was laid; and commodious, as being near the Frontiers of his Kingdom. l A place beyond Jordan; of which, ſee Gen. 32. 30. Judg. 8. 17. to ſecure that part of his Dominions.

26 And Jeroboam ſaid in his heart m, Now ſhall the kingdom return to the houſe of David:

m (i. e.) Reaſoned within himſelf. The Phraſe diſcovers the Fountain of his Error, That he did not conſult with God, who had given him the Kingdom; as in all reaſon, and juſtice, and gratitude he ſhould have done; nor believed God's Promiſe, Chap. 11. 38. but his own imaginations, and carnal policies.

27 If theſe people go up to do ſacrifice in the houſe of the LORD at Jeruſalem, then ſhall the heart of this people turn again unto the LORD n, even unto Rehoboam king of Judah, and they ſhall kill me, and go again to Rehoboam king of Judah.

n Which in it ſelf might ſeem a prudent conjecture; for this would give Rehoboam, and the Prieſts, and Levites, the ſure and faithful friends of David's Houſe, many opportunities of alienating their minds from him, and of reducing them to their former Allegiance. But conſidering God's Providence, by which the hearts of all Men, and the affairs of all Kings and Kingdoms are governed, and of which he had lately ſeen ſo eminent an Inſtance; it was a fooliſh, as well as wicked courſe.

28 Whereupon the king took counſel, and made two calves of gold o, and ſaid unto them, It is too much for you p to go up to Jeruſalem: * behold thy gods, O Iſrael, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt q.

* Exod. 32.8.

o In imitation of Aaron's Golden Calf, and of the Egyptians, from whom he was lately come. And this he the rather preſumed to do, becauſe he knew the people of Iſrael were generally very prone to Superſtition, and Idolatry, as their whole Hiſtory ſheweth: and that Solomon's example and countenance given to falſe Worſhips, had exceedingly ſtrengthened thoſe inclinations; and therefore they were in a great meaſure prepared for ſuch an Attempt; eſpecially, when his Propoſition tended to their own eaſe, and ſafety, and profit, which he knew was much dearer to them, as well as to himſelf, than their Religion. p Too great a trouble and charge, and neither neceſſary, nor ſafe for them, as things now ſtood. q Not as if he did himſelf believe, or thought to perſuade the people to believe, That theſe Calves were properly, and truly, that very God of Iſrael who brought them out Egypt: (which was ſo monſtrouſly abſurd and ridiculous, that no Iſraelite in his right wits could believe it; and had been ſo far from attaining his end, and ſatisfying his people, that this would have made him both hateful, and contemptible to them) but his meaning was, that theſe Images were viſible Repreſentations, in, and by which he deſigned to Worſhip the True God of Iſrael, as appears partly from that Parallel-place, Exod. 32. 4. where ſee my notes: partly, becauſe the Prieſts and Worſhippers of the Calves, are ſaid to Worſhip Jehovah; and upon that account, are diſtinguiſhed from thoſe belonging to Baal, 1 King. 18.21. and 22. 6, 7. and partly, from Jeroboam's deſign in this Work, which was to quiet the peoples minds, and remove their ſcruples about going to Jeruſalem to Worſhip their God in that place, as they were commanded: which he doth, by ſignifying to them, That he did not intend any alteration in the ſubſtance of their Religion; nor to draw them from the Worſhip of the True God, to the Worſhip of Aſhteroth, or Milcom, or any of thoſe Baals which were ſet up by Solomon; but to Worſhip that ſelf-ſame God whom they Worſhipped in Jeruſalem, even the True God, and the God of their Fathers, who brought them out of Egypt; but only to vary a circumſtance: and that as they Worſhipped God at Jeruſalem by, and before one Viſible Sign, even the Ark, and the Sacred Cherubims there; ſo his Subjects ſhould Worſhip God by another Viſible Sign, even that of the Calves, in other places; and as for the change of the place, he might ſuggeſt to them, that God was preſent in all places, where Men with honeſt minds did call upon him; that before the Temple was built, the beſt of Kings, and Prophets, and People, did Pray, and Sacrifice to God in divers High-places, without any ſcruple; notwithſtanding that reſtraint of God to one place, Deut. 12. 5, &c. That God would diſpence with them alſo in that matter; becauſe going to Jeruſalem was very dangerous to them at this time; and God would have Mercy, rather than Sacrifice; and God had been pleaſed to diſpenſe with his own Ordinances in caſes of neceſſity or great inconvenience, as he did with Circumciſion for 40 years in the Wilderneſs.

29 And he ſet the one in Bethel, and the other put he in Dan r.

r Which two places he choſe for his peoples conveniency; Bethel being in the Southern, and Dan in the Northern parts of his Kingdom.

30 And this thing became a ſin s: for the people went t to worſhip before the one † even unto Dan u.

s (i. e.) A cauſe or occaſion of great wickedneſs among that people; not only of Idolatry, which is called Sin by way of Eminency; not only of the Worſhip of the Calves, wherein they pretended to Worſhip the True God; but alſo of the Worſhip of Baal, and of the utter deſertion of the True God; and of all ſorts of impiety, and abominable Sins; as is manifeſt from the Hiſtory of that Kingdom, in which there was not one good King, and very few of the people who were not guilty of hainous Crimes, as the Prophets witneſs. t The Kings Counſel and Example ſeduced them, though it did not excuſe their Sin; and they willingly walked after this his wicked Commandment, Hoſ. 5. 11. u Which is not here mentioned exclusively, for that they went also to Bethel is evident from ver. 32, 33. but for other reasons, either because that of Dan was first made, or best frequented, the people in those parts having been long leavened with Idolatry: See Judg. 18. 30. or to shew the peoples readiness to comply with the King's Command, and their Zeal for Idols; that those who lived in, or near Bethel, had not patience to stay till that Calf was finished, but all of them were forward to go as far as Dan, which was in the utmost borders of the Land, to Worship an Idol there; when it was thought too much for them to go to Jerusalem to Worship God.

31 And he made an house of high places x, and made priests of † the * lowest of the people y, which were not of the sons of Levi z.

x Or, an house (i. e. Houses, or Chappels*) in the high places.* Besides the famous Houses, or Temples, which he built at Dan and Bethel; he built also for his Peoples better accommodation, lesser Temples upon divers high-places, which were esteemed Sacred and Venerable, because their Pious Ancestors had served God in them: and thereby Jeroboam might not seem to bring in a new Religion, but only to revive the old.. y Which he might do, either, 1. Because the better sort refused it, as an office below their quality: or, 2. Because such would be satisfied with mean allowances; and so he could put into his own Purse a great part of the rich Possessions and Revenues of the Levites, which doubtless he seized upon when they forsook him, and went to Jerusalem, 2 Chron 11. 13, 14. which also was very necessary for his present and pressing Occasions; the rather, because he durst not yet lay grievous Taxes upon that People, who had newly cast off Roboboam for that very Reason. Or, 3. Because mean persons would depend upon his favour, and therefore be very pliable to his humour, and firm to his Interest, and zealous to promote the Worship of the Calves. But the Words in the Hebrew properly signifie, from the ends of the people; which is, and may be Translated thus, out of all the people; promiscuously out of every Tribe. Which Exposition seems to be confirmed by the following Words, which are added to explain these, which were not of the Sons of Levi; though they were not of the Tribe of Levi. And that indeed was Jeroboam's Sin; not that he chose mean persons, for some of the Levites were such; and his Sin had not been less, if he had chosen the Noblest and Greatest Persons; as we see in the Example of Uzziah: 2 Chron. 26. 18, 19. But that he chose Men of other Tribes, contrary to God's appointment, which restrained that Office to that Tribe. z To whom that Office was confined by God's express Command, but promiscuously to any person of any other Tribe.

32 And Jeroboam ordained a feast a in the eighth month, on the fifteenth day of the month b, like unto the feast that is ‖ in Judah c, and he † offered ∴ upon the altar, (so did he in Bethel) d ‖ sacrificing unto the calves e that he had made: and he placed in Bethel f the priests of the high-places which he had made.

Or, was.
‖ Or, to Sacrifice.

a Either, 1. A Feast of Dedication, like that which was in Judah at the Dedication of the Temple. Or rather, 2. The feast of Tabernacles, as may be thought, 1. Because that began on the fifteenth day of the Month, Levit. 23. 34. 2. Because he is not blamed for devising the Feast (which thereby seems to have been of God's appointment) but only for devising the month, ver. 33. for keeping God's Feast, not in God's time, which was the 15*th.* day of the Seventh Month, and so onward, Levit. 23. 34. but on the 15*th.* day of the Eighth Month. And this alteration he made, either 1. To keep up the difference between his Subjects, and those of Judah, as by the differing manners, so by the distinct times of their Worship. Or, 2. Lest he should seem directly to oppose the God of Israel, (who had in a special manner obliged all the People to go up to Jerusalem at that time, Deut. 16. 16.) by requiring their attendance to Celebrate the Feast elsewhere, at the same time. Or, 3. To engage as many Persons as possibly he could, to come to his Feast; which they would more willingly do when the Feast at Jerusalem was past, and all the Fruits of the Earth were most perfectly gathered in. b And so onward till the Seven days ended. c He took his Pattern thence, to shew, That he Worshipped the same God, and Professed the same Religion for substance, which they did; howsoever he differed in circumstances, as here he did in the time. ∴ Either, 1. By his Priests. Or, rather, 2. By his own hands; as appears from Chap. 13. 1, 4. which he did, to give the more countenance to his new-devised solemnity. Nor is this strange; for he might plausibly think, that he who by his own Authority had made others Priests, might much more exercise a part of that Office; at least, upon an extraordinary occasion; in which case, he knew David himself had done some things, which otherwise he might not do. d (i. e.) He himself did offer there in like manner as he now had done at Dan. e For they were two, ver. 29. f As he had done at Dan. v. 31.

‖ Or, went up to the Altar, &c.

33 So he ‖ offered upon the altar which he had made in Bethel the fifteenth day of the eighth month, even in the month which he had devised of his own heart g: and ordained a feast unto the children of Israel, and he offered upon the altar, † and burnt incense.

g Which he appointed without any Warrant from God, which was superstition, comp. Jer. 7. 31.

CHAP. XIII.

AND behold, there came a man of God a out of Judah by the word of the LORD b unto Bethel: and Jeroboam stood by the altar to ‖ burn incense.

‖ Or, to offer. Gr. to burn sacrifice.

a An Holy Prophet. b By Divine Inspiration and Command.

2 And he cried against the altar c in the word of the LORD, and said, O altar, altar d, thus saith the LORD, Behold, a child † shall be born unto the house of David, * Josiah by name, and upon thee shall he offer the priests f of the high-places that burn incense upon thee, and mens bones shall be burnt upon thee.

* 2 King. 23. 16.

c And consequently, against all that Worship; which is oft signified by the name of the Altar. See Isa. 19. 19. 1 Cor. 9. 13. Heb. 7. 13. and [illegible]0. d He directs his Speech to the Altar; partly, because the following signs were wrought upon it; and partly to signifie, That Jeroboam would no more regard his words, than the Altar did; and yet they should take effect. e Which being done above 300 years after this Prophecy, plainly shews the absolute certainty of God's Providence, and Fore-knowledge, even in the most contingent things. For this was in it self uncertain, and wholly depended upon Man's Will, both as to the having of a Child, and as to the giving it this Name. Therefore God can certainly and effectually over-rule Man's Will which way he pleaseth; or else it was possible, that this Prediction should have been false; which is Blasphemous to imagine. f Synecdochically, the Bones of the Priests, 2 King. 23. 15, 16. whereby the Altar should be defiled.

3 And he gave a sign the same day g, saying, This is the sign which the LORD hath spoken: Behold, the altar shall be rent, and the ashes that are upon it poured out.

g (i. e.) He then wrought a Miracle, to assure them of the Truth of his Prophecy.

4 And it came to pass when king Jeroboam heard the saying of the man of God, which had cryed against the altar in Bethel, that he put forth his hand h from the altar i, saying, Lay hold on him. And his hand which he put forth against him dried up k, so that he could not pull it in again to him.

h To point out the Man whom he would have the People lay hands on, and to stir them up to do so. i Where it was imployed, in offering something upon it. k Or, withered, the Muscles and Sinews, the Instruments of Motion, were shrunk up. This God did, partly to chastise Jeroboam for offering violence to the Lord's Prophet: partly, to secure the Prophet against further Violence: and partly, that in this Example God might shew, how highly he resents the injuries done to his Ministers, in, and for the faithful discharge of their Office.

5 The altar also was rent, and the ashes poured out from the altar, according to the sign which the man of God had given by the word of the LORD.

6 And the king answered l, and said unto the man of God, Intreat now the face of the LORD thy God m, and pray for me, that my hand may be restored me again. And the man of God besought † the LORD n, and the kings hand was restored again o, and became as it was before.

l (i. e.) Spoke, as that Word is oft used in both Testaments. m Who by his Zeal for thee, hath manifested himself to be thy God and Friend, in a singular manner; and therefore will hear thy Prayers for me, though he will not regard mine, because I have forsaken him and his Worship. n To assure Jeroboam, that what he had said, was not from ill-will to him, and that he heartily desired his Reformation, not his Ruine. o Partly to assure him, that the stroke was from God: partly, because he Repented of that Violence which he intended against the Prophet, for which God inflicted it: and partly, that this goodness of God to him, might might have led him to Repentance; or, if he continued Impenitent, leave him without all excuse.

7 And the king said unto the man of God, Come home with me, and refresh thy self, and I will give thee a reward p.

p Horrid Stupidity! He desires to requite the Instrument, but takes no notice of the chief Cause and Author of this great and wonderful Mercy, which was God.

* So Numb. 22. 18. and 24. 13.

8 And the man of God said unto the king *, If thou wilt give me half thine house, I will not go in with thee, neither will I eat bread nor drink water in this place:

9 For so was it charged me by the word of the LORD q, saying, Eat no bread, nor drink water r, nor turn again by the same way that thou camest s.

q My refusal of thy favour, is not from any contempt, or hatred of thy Person; but in obedience to the just Command of my God, who hath forbidden me all further Converse or Communication with thee. r To wit, in that place, or with that People. Whereby God declares, how detestable they were in Gods Eyes; not because their Idolatry was so bad as that of the Heathens, but because they were vile Apostates from the True God, and embraced this Idol-worship, against the light of their own Consciences, meerly to comply with the Kings humour and command: and because their vicinity and relation to the Tribe of Judah, made this more dangerous, as to their Infection by it. s That by thy avoiding the way that led thee to Bethel as execrable, although thou wentest by my special Command, thou mightest teach all others, how much they should abhor that way, and all thoughts of going to that place, or to such people, upon any trivial and unnecessary occasion.

10 So he went another way, and returned not by the way that he came to Bethel.

11 ¶ Now there dwelt an old prophet t in Bethel u, and his † sons x came and told him all the works that the man of God had done that day in Bethel: the words which he had spoken unto the king, them they told also to their father.

t A Prophet of the Lord; one to whom, and by whom, God did sometimes impart his mind; as is manifest from ver. 20, 21. and one that had a respect to the Lords holy Prophets, and gave credit to their Predictions: all which the following Relation shews: but whether he was an holy and good Man, may justly be doubted, seeing all those qualifications might meet in a vitious man, to, and by whom he may Reveal some part of his Mind, as he did to Balaam, Numb. 23. &c. and in such, his other qualities are sometimes found; and we find him in a downright and premeditated Lye, and that without any great temptation to it, ver. 18. And albeit, an holy Prophet might possibly have continued in the Kingdom of Israel, he would never have gone from his own habitation, to dwell at Bethel, the chief Seat of Idolatry, unless with design to Preach against it: which it is evident he did not; his Sons seem to have been present at, and to have joyned with others in that Idolatrous Worship, ver. 11. and that not without their Fathers connivence. u For thither he came to dwell, probably expecting some great advantages from Jeroboam; but he came out of Samaria, 2 King. 23. 18. where he either was born, and had lived before. Or, his usual dwelling was at Bethel, but had lately been at Samaria, and was now returned to Bethel. x Who probably were eye and ear-witnesses of what had passed.

12 And their father said unto them, What way went he? for his sons had seen what way the man of God went, which came from Judah.

13 And he said unto his sons, Saddle me the ass. So they saddled him the ass, and he rode thereon:

14 And went after the man of God, and found him sitting under an oak y: and he said unto him, Art thou the man of God that camest from Judah? And he said, I am.

y Being faint and weary with his journey, and possibly with the heat, which makes him chuse this shady place; and especially with hunger and thirst, ver. 9. And he might easily guess that this was the old Prophet, by his age and carriage, and, it may be, by his Prophetical Mantle, and by the Character which his Sons had given him.

15 Then he said unto him, Come home with me, and eat bread.

† Heb. cannot. Deut. 12. 16. and 17. 5. and 1 Cor. 10. 21.

16 And he said, I † may not return with thee, nor go in with thee: neither will I eat bread, nor drink water with thee in this place z.

z (i. e.) In Bethel, where thou desirest me to do it.

17 For † it was said to me by the word of the LORD, Thou shalt eat no bread, nor drink water there, nor turn again to go by the way that thou camest.

18 He said unto him, I am a prophet also as thou art, and an angel spake unto me by the word of the LORD, saying, Bring him back with thee into thine house, that he may eat bread, and drink water. But he lied unto him a.

a Not with evil design against him, but out of curiosity, to know all the truth and circumstances from his own mouth, and to express his kindness to him, and to relieve his pressing hunger; whereby possibly he thought to please God, and to compensate for his miscarriages. But his sin was great; for he did not only tell a premeditated lye, but also made God a lyar, and to contradict himself, and all this without any pretence of necessity, or benefit to himself.

19 So he went back with him, and did eat bread in his house, and drank water.

20 ¶ And it came to pass, as they sat at the table b, that the word of the LORD came c unto the prophet that brought him back d:

b There the Prophet meets with a severe Judgment, where he was pleasing himself with this seasonable refreshment. c By secret instinct into his mind; as sometimes God spake to Moses and other Prophets when they were in company, with others. d So he makes this Prophet publickly to call himself lyar, and to pronounce a terrible Sentence against him, to whom he professed so much kindness. Indeed the Hebrew words are ambiguous, and by others rendred thus, to the Prophet whom he had brought back; which agrees very well with the Hebrew Phrase; and may seem to be the best Translation, by comparing ver. 23. where the very same Phrase is so rendred; and ver. 26. where this message is said to be spoken to him. But these Arguments are not cogent; not that from ver. 23. because it is a common thing for the same Phrase in divers Verses, and sometimes in one and the same Verse, to be diversly used: nor that from ver. 27. for that may be rendred concerning him. And therefore our Translation is better, as is manifest from ver. 21.

21 And he cryed e unto the man of God that came from Judah, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Forasmuch as thou hast disobeyed the mouth f of the LORD, and hast not kept the commandment which the LORD thy God commanded thee, e With a loud Voice, the effect of his passion, both for his own guilt and shame, and for the Prophets approaching misery, and his unhappy influence both in procuring and in denouncing of it. f (i. e.) The word of command coming out of his mouth. A Metonymy of the Cause for the Effect.

22 But camest back, and hast eaten bread, and drunk water in the place, of the which the LORD did say to thee, Eat no bread, and drink no water; thy carcass shall not come unto the sepulchre of thy fathers g.

g (i. e.) Thou shalt not die a natural, but a violent death; and that in this journey, before thou returnest to thy native habitation; and thy Carkass shall not be buried in the proper Sepulchre; which was esteemed a kind of Curse, and a note of Infamy; as the contrary was reckoned an honour and blessing. See Chap. 14 13. Isa. 14. 19, 20. Jer. 22. 19. and 26. 24.

23 ¶ And it came to pass, after he had eaten bread, and after he had drunk, that he saddled for him the ass ∴, to wit, for the prophet whom he had brought back.

∴ That he might sooner come to his home, and, if possible, escape the Judgment threatned. But, it is observable, he doth not accompany him; his guilty Conscience making him to expect and fear to be involved in the same Judgment with him.

24 And when he was gone, a * lion met him h by the way, and slew him i: and his carcase was cast in the way k, and the ass stood by it: the lion also stood by the carcase l.

* Chap. 20. 36.

h For there were many Lions in Judea, and this was brought hither by Gods special Providence. i Why doth God punish a good man so severely for so small an offence? Answ. First, His sin was not small, for it was a gross disobedience to a positive command. Obj. But he supposed, and was told by another Prophet, that God had repealed his command, and so was deceived. Answ. He had no sufficient discharge discharge from the former command; for he neither was assured that the old man was a Prophet, nor that the message he delivered was from God; but had reason to suspect the contrary, or at least to enquire the mind of God in this doubtful point, which he grosly neglected to do, and willingly believed the message, because it suited with his own inclination and necessity. Add to this, that he being a Prophet, was obliged to the greater exactness in obedience to all Gods Precepts; and therefore this sin was much greater in him than in another, because hereby God was dishonoured, and the Authority and Success of his message blasted, and Jeroboam and the Idolatrous Israelites hardened in their wicked courses; for the prevention whereof it was necessary that God should exercise severity towards him. Answ. Secondly, As his sin was not so small, so his punishment was not so great, as may be imagined. For as to his outward man, his Bodily death (which was a Debt that he owed to God and Nature) in this way was not so painful and terrible as many other kinds of death; and as to his Soul, God by giving him a Gracious admonition both of his sin and danger, ver. 21, 22. awakened him to true Repentance, which doubtless he practised, and so was prepared for his death, and by this sudden death freed from all the miseries of an evil time and world, and speedily let in to Eternal Glory. Answ. Thirdly, As the World and all men in it were made for Gods Glory, and all their Lives and Deaths ought to be laid out in his Service; so it cannot seem strange nor harsh if God should bring his deserved Death upon him in this manner, for the accomplishment of his own Glorious Designs, as to vindicate his own Honour and Justice from the impuration of partiality; to assure the Truth of his Predictions, and thereby provoke Jeroboam and his Idolatrous followers to Repentance; to justify himself in all his Dreadful Judgments which he intended to inflict upon Jeroboam's House, and the whole Kingdom of Israel, for their Cursed Apostacy; and to warn all succeeding sinners not rashly to venture upon small sins, and especially to take heed of greater sins, for which they might expect far sorer punishments. k His Life and Soul being gone, his Dead Body falls to the ground, and lies there. l See on ver. 28.

25 And behold, men passed by, and saw the carcase cast in the way, and the lion standing by the carcase: and they came and told it in the city where the old prophet dwelt.

26 And when the prophet that brought him back from the way, heard thereof, he said, It is the man of God, who was disobedient unto the word of the LORD: therefore the LORD hath delivered him unto the lion, which hath † torn him, and slain him, according to the word of the LORD, which he spake unto him m.

m Or rather, concerning him: for so the Particle Lamed is oft used, as Gen. 20. 13. Psal. 3. 2, and 91. 11. compare with Matth. 4. 6. See the Notes on ver. 20.

27 And he spake to his sons, saying, Saddle me the ass n. And they saddled him.

n Being secure as to himself, because so many others had been there without any harm; and because he perceived the Prophet's Death was a Judgment of God, and that for special reasons.

28 And he went and found his carcase cast in the way, and the ass, and the lion standing by the carcase: the lion had not eaten the carcase, nor † torn the ass o.

o Here was a concurrence of Miracles; That the ass did not run away from the Lion, according to his nature and custom, but boldly stood still, as reserving himself for the carrying of the Prophet to his Burial; that the Lion did not devour its prey, as the manner is; nor yet go away when he had done his work which he was sent for, but stood still, partly, to preserve the Carkass of the Prophet from other wild Beasts or Fowls, which would quickly have eaten it; partly, as an evidence that the Prophet's Death was not casual, nor the effect of a Lions hungry and revenous disposition, but of Gods singular and just judgment; and consequently, that his Prediction was Divine, and should be infallibly accomplished in its proper time; and partly, as a token of Gods favour to the deceased Prophet, of whose very Carkass he took such special care: thereby signifying, that altho for Wise and Just reasons he thought fit to take away his life, yet his remains were precious to him, and his Soul did live in his sight.

29 And the prophet took up the carcase of the man of God, and laid it upon the ass, and brought it back: and the old prophet came to the city, to mourn and to bury him.

30 And he laid his carcase in his own grave p, and they q mourned over him, saying, Alas my brother r.

p So that threatning, ver. 22. was fulfilled; and withal the memory of his Prophecy was revived and preserved among them, and his very Carkass resting there, might be a witness of their madness and desperate wickedness, in continuing in their abominable Idolatry, after such an assurance of the dreadful effects of it. q The old Prophet and his Sons, and others, whom common humanity taught to lament the untimely death of so worthy a Person. r Which was an usual form of expression in Funeral-lamentations. See Jer. 22. 18.

31 And it came to pass after he had buried him, that he spake to his sons, saying, When I am dead, then bury me in the sepulchre wherein the man of God is buried, * lay my bones beside his bones s:

* 2 Kin. 23. 18.

s That I may be secured from that Judgment threatned ver. 2.

32 For the saying which he cried by the word of the LORD, against the altar in Bethel, and against all the houses of the high places, which are in the cities of * Samaria t, shall surely come to pass.

* See Chap. 16. 24.

t (i. e.) Of the Kingdom of Samaria; as it was called, though not when this Fact was done, yet before these Books were written. Samaria was properly the name of one City, 1 King. 20. 1. but from hence the whole Kingdom of Israel was so called, Jer. 31. 5. Hos. 7. 1. and 8. 5. and Amos 3. 9. and the King of Israel is called the King of Samaria, 2 King. 1. 3. Hos. 10. 7. and (as here) we read of the cities of Samaria, Ezra, 4. 10.

33 ¶ After this thing, u Jeroboam returned not from his evil way, but † * made again of the lowest of the people priests x of the high places: whosoever would y, he † consecrated him z, and he became one of the priests of the high places.

* Chap 12. 31.

u (i. e.) After all these things: the Singular Number put for the Plural; after so many, and evident, and successive Miracles. Which is noted to aggravate his infidelity and Apostacy. x He abated not so much as a circumstance in his Idolatrous Worship. y Without any respect to Tribe, or Family, or integrity of Body, or Mind, or Life; all which were to be regarded in the Priesthood. z Heb. he filled his hand. Of which Phrase see this Exod. 28. 41. and 29. 9. 33.

34 And this thing became sin unto the house of Jeroboam, even to cut it off, and to destroy it from off the face of the earth.

∴ Either, an occasion of sin, and means of hardening all his Posterity in their Indolatry: or, a punishment, for so the word sin is oft used. This his obstinate continuance in his Idolatry, after such warnings, was the utter ruin of all his Family.

a Either, First, Presently after the things described in the former Chapter: which, though related in the beginning of his Reign, yet might be done a good while after it, and so Abijah the Prophet might be very old, as he is described to be, ver. 4. Or, Secondly, many Years of it, (i.e.) Whilst Jeroboam lived and persisted in his former course. For this Phrase is oft used indefinitely, and without respect to the time last mentioned before it, as Dan. 12. 1. Matth. 4. 1. b By the stroke of God to punish Jeroboam's Rebellion against God.

2 And Jeroboam said to his wife c, Arise, I pray thee, and disguise thy self d, that thou be not known to be the wife of Jeroboam e, and get thee to Shiloh: Behold, there is Ahijah the prophet, which told me that * I should be king over this people.

Secondly, From jealousie and suspition, lest the Prophet knowing this, should either give her no Answer, or make it worse than indeed it was. Thirdly, From Policy, lest his people should by his example be drawn to forsake the sensless Calves, and to return to the God of Judah, whom they had rashly forsaken.

This is mentioned as a monſtrous aggravation of his wickedneſs, that he was not content with his own ſin, but was the great Author, and chief cauſe, of drawing others into ſin, and of corrupting and undoing the whole Kingdom: which therefore God would never forgive, nor forget him, but upon all occaſions mentions him with this Eternal brand of infamy upon him.

Secondly, That God diſcovered more Love to Judah in chaſtizing them ſpeedily, that ſo they might be humbled, and reformed, and ſo graciouſly preſerved, as it happened; and more anger againſt Iſrael, that he ſpared them, and by their impunity hardned and ripened them to that total deſtruction which he intended to bring upon them. a Of whom ſee 1 King. 11. 40. and 2 Chron. 12. 2, &c. where this Hiſtory is more fully deſcribed. He is thought by many to be Solomon's Brother-in-law. But how little ſuch Relations ſignify among Princes, when their Intereſt is concerned, all Hiſtories witneſs. Beſides Rehoboam was not Solomon's Son by Pharaoh's Daughter, and ſo the relation was in a manner extinct. b Either, from ambition and a deſire to enlarge his Empire: or, from jealouſie of Rehoboam's growing-greatneſs: Of which ſee 2 Chron. 11. or, by Jeroboam's inſtigation: or, from a covetous deſire of poſſeſſing theſe great treaſures which David and Solomon had left: and, above all, by Gods Providence, diſpoſing his heart to this expedition for Rehoboam's puniſhment.

26 And he took away the treaſures c of the houſe the LORD, and the treaſures of the kings houſe, he even took away all: and he took away all the ſhields of gold * which Solomon had made.

* Chap. 10. 16.

c It is implied, that firſt he took the City: which may ſeem ſtrange, conſidering the great ſtrength of that City, and how much time it took Nebuchadnezzar and Titus to take it. But, Firſt, It might coſt Shiſhak alſo ſome time, and a long Siege ere he took it, though that be not here related. Secondly, It is probable that David and Solomon in their building and altering of this City, had more reſpect to State and Magnificence, than to its defence, as having no great cauſe to fear the Invaſion of any Enemies, and being too ſecure in reference to their Poſterity, becauſe of Gods promiſe of the Kingdom to be continued to them and to their Seed for ever. And it is probable and certain, that after the diviſion between Judah and Iſrael, the Kings of Judah did add very much to the Fortifications of this City.

27 And king Rehoboam made in their ſtead brazen ſhields, and committed them unto the hands of the chief of the † guard d, which kept the door of the kings houſe.

d Whereas the Golden Shields, as being more precious, were kept in a certain place.

28 And it was ſo, when the king went into the houſe of the LORD e, that the guard bare them, and brought them back into the guard-chamber.

e By which it ſeems the affliction had done him ſome good, and brought him back to the Worſhip of God, which he had forſaken, Chap. 12. 1.

29 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Rehoboam, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah f?

f Such a Book of Chronicles as that mentioned above, ver. 19.

30 And there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam g all their days.

g Not an Invaſive War with Potent Armies, which was forbidden, Chap. 12. 12. and not revived till Abijam's Reign, 2 Chron. 13. but a defenſive War from thoſe Hoſtilities which by ſmall Parties and Skirmiſhes they did to one another.

h This is repeated as a thing very obſervable. See above, v. 21.

CHAP. XV.

NOW in the eighteenth year of king * Jeroboam a the ſon of Nebat, reigned Abijam over Judah.

* 2 Chr. 13. 1.

a Obj. How can this be, when he Reigned three Years, ver. 2. and Asa, his Successor, began his Reign in the twentieth Year of Jeroboam, ver. 9? Ans. Parts of Years are commonly called and accounted Years both in the Old and New Testament, and in prophane Writers. So his Reign began with Jeroboam's 18*th* Year, and continued his whole 19*th* Year, and ended within his 20*th* Year, in which also Asa's Reign began. And thus one and the same Year may well be, as it frequently is, attributed to two several Persons.

2 Three years b reigned he in Jerusalem: and his mothers name was Maachah the daughter of Abishalom c.

b See the last Note, on ver. 1. c Or, of Absalom, as he is called 2 Chron. 11. 21. And because he is here mentioned as a known Person without any addition of his Kindred or Quality, some conceive that this was Absalom's Daughter, called properly Tamar, 2 Sam. 14. 27. and from her Royal Grand-Mother, 2 Sam. 3. 3. Maachah; and that she is called Michajah (which differs not much from Maachah) the daughter of Uriel, 2 Chr. 13. 2. because she was first Married to Uriel, as Josephus affirms, Antiq. 8. 3. and afterwards to Rehoboam. Others think this was another Person, and that both she and her Father had each of them several names, which was not unusual among the Hebrews.

3 And he walked in all the sins of his father d, which he had done before him: and his * heart was not perfect with the LORD his God, as the heart of David his father.

* Chap. 11. 4.

d Which his Father lived in, Either, First, Before his humiliation. Or rather, Secondly, After his deliverance from Shishak, when, tho he did not openly renounce the Worship of God, he seems to have relapsed into his former sins; which otherwise would not have been remembred against him; as David's name and memory is never loaded with the shame of his sins, because he truly repented of them.

4 Nevertheless, for Davids sake did the LORD his God give him a ‖ lamp e in Jerusalem, to set up his son after him, and to establish Jerusalem f:

‖ Or, candle.

e (i. e.) A Son and Successor to perpetuate his name and memory, which otherwise had gone into obscurity. The same Phrase is used above, Chap. 11. 36. 2 King. 1. 19. 2 Chron. 21. 7. f (i. e.) That he might maintain that City, and Temple, and Worship, as a witness for God, in the World, against the Israelites and Heathen World, who should have enquired after it, and embraced the True Religion there established and set up, as a Beacon upon an high Hill, that all men might take notice of it.

5 Because David did that which was right in the eyes of the LORD, and turned not aside from any thing that he commanded him all the days of his life, * save only in the matter of Uriah the Hittite g.

* 2 Sam. 11. 4. and 12. 9.

g Quest. How is this true, seeing David sinned in the matter of Nabal, 1 Sam. 25. and Achish, Chap. 27. and Mephibosheth, and his indulgence to his Children, Adonijah, Ammon and Absalom; and in the numbring of the People? Ans. This and the like Phrases are not to be understood as exclusive of every sinful action, but only of a sinful course or state, or of an habitual and continued Apostacy from God, or from his ways, as the very Phrase of turning aside from God or from his Commands, doth constantly imply, as appears from Exod. 32. 8. Deut. 9. 12, 16. 1 Sam. 8. 3. Psal. 78. 57. Isa. 44. 20. 1 Tim. 1. 6. and 5. 15, &c. And thus it is most true. For Davids other sins were either sudden and transient acts, proceeding from humane infirmity, and extraordinary temptations, and soon repented of and blotted out, as in the cases of Nabal and Achish; or, mistakes of his judgment, which was not fully convinced of the sinfulness of such actions, as in the other cases alledged: whereas that which concerned Uriahs Wife was a designed and studied sin, long continued in, defended with a succession of other sins, persumptuous, and scandalous to his Government, and to the True Religion, which he so eminently professed.

6 And there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam h all the days of his life.

h Which was said, Chap. 14. 30. and may be here repeated to signifie the Cause and Original of the War between Abijam and Jeroboam, which is implied here, and particularly described, 2 Chron. 13. Abijam continued the War which Rehoboam had begun, and pushed it on to a decisive Battel. But the place may be thus rendred, Yet there was War, &c. (i. e.) Altho God was pleased to shew so much respect to David, as for his sake to continue the Succession to the Kingdom in his Posterity, yet he thought fit to manifest his displeasure against Davids Successors for their sins, and to mix their honour and happiness with Wars and Troubles.

7 Now the rest of the acts of Abijam, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah i? And there was war between Abijam and Jeroboam.

* 2 Chr. 13. 3.

i In their Annals; whence they were long after this time Translated into the Sacred Book of Chronicles. See above on Ch. 14. 19.

8 And Abijam slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David: and Asa * his son reigned in his stead.

* 2 Chr. 14. 1.

9 ¶ And in the twentieth year of Jeroboam k king of Israel, reigned Asa over Judah.

k In or towards the end of the Year. See above, ver. 1.

10 And forty and one years reigned he in Jerusalem: and his ‖ mothers l name was Maachah, the daughter of Abishalom.

‖ That is, Grand-mother.

l (i. e.) His Grand-Mothers, as appears from ver. 2. who is called his mother, as David is called Abijam's father, ver. 3. and this Asa's father, ver. 11. And so the names of father, and mother, and sons, and daughters, are oft taken, both in Sacred and Prophane Authors, for Grand-Parents and Grand-Children. And his Grand-Mothers name may be here mentioned, rather than his Mothers, because his Mother was either an obscure person, or was long since dead, or indisposed, or unwilling to take care of the Education of her Son, and so he was Educated by the Grand-Mother, who, tho she did Poison his Father Abijam with her Idolatrous Principles, ver. 12. yet could not infect Asa, nor with-hold him from prosecuting his good purposes of Reforming Religion. Which is here remembred to his praise.

11 And Asa did that which was right in the eyes of the LORD m, as did David his father.

m As to the Government of his Kingdom, and Life, and the Reformation, and establishment of Gods Worship.

12 And he took away the Sodomites n out of the land, and removed all the idols that his fathers had made.

n Of whom see Chap. 14. 24. not all of them, but those whom he could find out; but some escaped his observation and censure, as appears from chap. 22. 46.

13 And also * Maachah his mother, even her he removed from being queen o, because she had made † an idol p in a grove, and Asa † destroyed her idol, and burnt it by the broak Kidron q.

* 2 Chr. 15. 16.

o (i. e.) He took from her either the Name and Authority of Queen Regent, which she, having been Rehoboam's Wife, and Abijam's Mother, took to her self during Asa's minority, and abused to the Patronage of Idolatry; or, the Dignity of the Queen-Mother, and those Guards, or other Ensigns of Honour, or Instruments of Power, which, as such, she had enjoyed and mis-employed. Otherwise, he removed her from the queen, (i. e.) from his Wife, that she might not be infected by her, and afterwards infect his Children: which was a prudent and necessary care, for the prevention of so great and publick a Mischief. p Heb. a terror, or horror, (i. e.) an horrible Idol; which it may be he so called, either, because all Idols, tho for a season they please, yet in the end will bring dreadful effects upon their Worshippers: or, because this was an Idol of a more horrible or terrible shape, more abominable than ordinary, and not to be seen without horror: whether it was that filthy Idol, called Priapus, which was commonly placed in Groves or Gardens; or, Pan, or some other Heathen god, to whose service she in a special manner devoted her self. q That when it was burnt to powder, it might be thrown into the Water, and be unfit for any use. See Exod. 32. 20. Deut. 12. 3.

14 But the high places were not removed r: nevertheless, Asa his heart was perfect with the LORD s all his days.

r Obj. He did take these away, 2 Chron. 14. 3. Ans. He took away those which were devoted to the Worship of Idols, as is there said, he took away the Altars of the strange gods, and the high places, to wit, where they were worshipped: but as for those high places where the True God was Worshipped, he did not take them away; partly, because he thought there was no great Evil in them, because they had been used by David and Solomon, and other Good and Wise men; and because the True God was there worshipped, and that in the manner, tho not in the place, which God had appointed; and partly, because he thought the removal of them might do much more hurt than their continuance, to wit, by occasioning the total neglect of God's Worship by many of the People, who either could not, or through want of competent Faith and Zeal would not go up to Jerusalem to Worship, now especially, when the Israelites, their near Neighbours, formerly their Friends, were become their Enemies, and watched all opportunities to invade or molest them, which they concluded they would do when all their Males were gone up to Jerusalem; and partly, because the People were so obstinately bent towards them, that it was, or at least, seemed to him impossible to remove them without great offence, or such commotions commotions as were highly dangerous to that Church and State. f (i. e.) He did sincerely and constantly adhere to the Worship and Service of God. Tho he could not hinder the People from using the high places, yet he did intirely devote himself to the Worship of God in the manner and place prescribed by God.

15 And he brought in the † things which his father had dedicated t, and the things which himself had dedicated, into the house of the LORD, silver, and gold, and vessels.

t Abijam, to wit, when he was in distress, and going to fight with Jeroboam, 2 Chron. 13. tho afterwards he did not perform his Vows, nor bring in what he had Devoted; whether because he was prevented by Death, or because he afterwards relapsed to Idolatry, as may seem probable from the 12 Verse of this Chapter.

16 ¶ And there was war between Asa and Baasha king of Israel all their days u.

u So long as they two Lived and Reigned together. Which is not so to be understood, as if there were a solemn and declared War continuing all that time (for Asa was quiet in a great measure for his first ten years, 2 Chron. 14. 1. till the Israelites had recovered themselves from that dreadful blow given them by Abijam, 2 Chron. 13. and Baasha began to Reign in Asa's third Year) but so that there were many private and particular Hostilities practised among them; in which sense the same Phrase is used, Chap. 14. 30.

* 2 Chr. 16. 1.

17 And * Baasha king of Israel went up against Judah x, and built y Ramah z, that he might not suffer any to go out or come in to Asa king of Judah a.

x Perceiving Asa's great success; of which see 2 Chron. 14. and 15. and the defection of many of his own Subjects to him, upon that occasion, 2 Chron. 15. 9. he began to bestir himself, and commenceth a War against him. y (i. e.) Repaired and Fortified. z A City of Benjamin; which either belonged to the Kingdom of Israel, from the division (as some other places of that Tribe are supposed to have done; of which see on 1 King. 11. 13.) or belonged to Judah, but was now Invaded and taken by Baasha, and Fortified. a Therefore he chose this place, because it was in the way from his Kingdom to Jerusalem, and, as some add, in, or near the straits of the Mountains, where they could easily discover and hinder all Passengers that way.

18 Then Asa took all the silver, and the gold that were left b in the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the kings house, and delivered them into the hand of his servants: and king Asa sent them to * Ben-hadad c the son of Tabrimon, the son of Hezion king of Syria, that dwelt at Damascus, saying, b These poor remainders, which either Shishak had left at that time, Chap. 14. 26. or, Abijam, or Asa, or others, both of Israel and Judah, had dedicated; which probably was not inconsiderable, because Asa had got great spoils from Zerah, 2 Chron. 14. and he and his numerous and prosperous People did at this time express a great Zeal for the House and Worship of God. c Wherein he committed three great faults, amongst many others: First, He Alienated things Consecrated to God, without necessity. Secondly, He did this out of Carnal fear and distrust of that God whose Power and Goodness he had lately experienced. Thirdly, He did this for an ill intent, to hire him to the breach of his League and Covenant with Baasha, ver. 19. and to take away part of that Land which by Right, and the special Gift of God, belonged to the Israelites.

19 There is a league between me and thee, and between my father and thy father d: behold, I have sent unto thee a present of silver and gold: come, and break thy league with Baasha king of

Israel, that he may † depart from me e.

d Whereby it appears, that albeit he was an adversary to Israel all Solomon's days, Chap. 11. 25. yet after the division of the Kingdoms of Israel and Judah, he was in League with both of them, either because his designs lay upon the enlargement of his Empire other ways; or rather, because he thought it his Wisdom and Interest to leave them to themselves to undo one another by their intestine Wars, and so to prepare the way to his Conquest of both; whereas his Invading of either of them might have made up the breach, and forced them to unite against their common Enemy. And therefore as soon as he was free from this fear, and one of them needed and earnestly desired his help against the other, he gladly embraced the opportunity. e That being called to defend himself, he may be forced to depart from my Territories.

20 So Ben-hadad hearkned unto king Asa, and sent the captains of the hosts which he had, against the cities of Israel, and smote Ijon, and Dan, and Abel-beth-maachah, and all Cinneroth f, with all the land of Naphtali.

f The Northern parts of Baasha's Kingdom, which were neareſt to his own Kingdom of Damascus, and most remote from those parts where Baasha was now employed, which were in the most Southers parts of his Dominions.

21 And it came pass, when Baasha heard thereof, that he left off building of Ramah, and dwelt in Tirzah g.

g Now the Royal City of Israel. See Chap. 14. 17. There he abode to defend his own Kingdoms, and durst not return to oppose Asa, lest the Syrian King should make a second and worse Invasion. So Asa met with success in his ungodly course, as on the other side good men sometimes meet with disappointment in a good cause and course. So there is no judging of Causes by Events.

22 Then king Asa made a proclamation throughout all Judah, (none was † exempted ∴) and they took away the stones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baasha had builded: and king Asa built with them Geba of Benjamin, and Mizpah h.

∴ All sorts of Persons were obliged to come, except those who were disenabled by age, or infirmity, or absence, or by the publick service of the King and Kingdom in other places: h (i. e.) Repaired and strengthened them, for they were built before. See Jer. 41. 9. Quest. Why did he not rather perfect the Fortifications of Ramah which Baasha had begun? Answ. Because Baasha might have returned and recovered it afterwards; and he thought it most convenient that there should be no City nor Fort in that place.

23 The rest of all the acts of Asa, and all his might, and all that he did, and the cities which he built, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? Nevertheless i, in the time of his old age he was diseased in his feet.

i Notwithstanding the great things which he had done, and the glory and prosperity which he enjoyed, he felt the effect of humane infirmity, and of his own sins; of which see 2 Chron 16. 12, 13.

24 And Asa slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and * Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead.

* 2 Chr. 17. 1. Matth. 1. 8. called Josaphat.

25 ¶ And Nadab the son of Jeroboam † began to reign over Israel, in the second year of Asa king of Judah, and reigned over Israel two years k.

k Not compleat, as appears from ver. 28. and 33.

26 And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the way of his father, and in his sin wherewith he made Israel to sin l.

l (i. e.) In the Worship of the Calves which his Father had made.

27 ¶ And Baasha the son of Ahijah, of the house m of Issachar, conspired against him, and Baasha smote him at Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistines n, (for Nadab and all Israel laid siege to Gibbethon.)

m (i. e.) Of the Tribe, which is oft called an house, as Judg. 10. 9. Psal. 135. 20. Hos. 1. 7. n Who, taking advantage of the division between Israel and Judah, had retaken this Town, which belonged to the Tribe of Dan, Jos. 19. 44. and belonged to the Levites, Jos. 21. 23. upon whose departure to Judah, 2 Chron 11. 14. the Kings of Israel seized their Towns and Lands to their own use, as was noted before; which made them so much concerned for this Town, to besiege it both now and many Years after this time, Chap. 16. 15.

28 Even in the third year of Asa n king of Judah, did Baasha slay him o, and reigned in his stead.

n How this agrees with 2 Chron. 16. 1. see in the notes there. o Which he did, not to fulfil God's Threatning, but only to advance himself; and therefore this is called Murder, Chap. 16. 7.

29 And it came to pass when he reigned, that he smote all the house of Jeroboam, he left not to Jeroboam any that breathed p, until he had destroyed him, according unto * the saying of the LORD q, which he spake by his servant Ahijah the Shilonite:

* Chap. 14. 10.

p (i. e.) Any of the Males of that Family. See Deut. 20. 16. Josh. 10. 40. q So God over-ruled Baasha's ambition and cruelty, to fulfil his own Counsel and Prediction.

30 Because of the sins of Jeroboam which he sinned, and which he made Israel sin r, by his provocation wherewith he provoked the LORD God of Israel to anger.

r So that same wicked Policy which he used to Establish the Kingdom in his Family, proved his and their Ruine: which is very frequently the event of ungodly Counsels.

31 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Nadab and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel **?*

* See above 14. 19.

32 And there was war between Asa and Baasha king of Israel all their days.

33 In the third year of Asa king of Judah, began Baasha the son of Ahijah to reign over all Israel in Tirzah*, twenty and four years.

* And reigned.

34 And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin wherewith he made Israel to sin.

CHAP. XVI.

THEN the word of the LORD came to Jehu a the son of Hanani b, against Baasha, saying, a A Prophet, of whom see more, 2 Chron. 19. 2 and 20. 34. b Who also was a Prophet, 2 Chron. 16. 7.

2 Forasmuch as I exalted thee out of the dust c, and made thee prince over my people Israel, and thou hast walked in the way of Jeroboam, and hast made my people Israel to sin, to provoke me to anger d with their sins:

c Out of a low and mean Estate. See 1 Sam. 2. 8. Psal. 113. 7. Quest. How is Baasha's Exaltation to the Kingdom ascribed to God, when he got it by treachery and cruelty? Answ. Tho that way or manner of Invading the Kingdom was from himself, and his own wicked heart; yet the Translation of the Kingdom from Nadab to Baasha simply considered, was from God, who by his decree and Providence ordered it, and disposed of all occasions, and of the hearts of all the Soldiers and People, so that Baasha should have opportunity of Executing God's Judgment upon Nadab; and such success thereupon, that he should get a present and quiet Possession of the Kingdom. Nay, the very act of Baasha, to wit, the Killing of his Master Nadab, was an act of Divine Justice, foretold and appointed by God, Chap. 14. 10. And if Baasha had done this in obedience to God's Command, and with a single Design, to Execute God's Vengeance threatned against him, it had been no more a Sin, than Jehu's act in Killing his Master King Jehoram, upon the same account, 2 King. 9. But that Baasha did this, meerly to gratifie his own Pride, or Covetousness, or Malice; this was not from God, but from himself, and therefore is charged upon him as Murder here, ver. 7. d See on 1 King. 14. 9.

3 Behold, I will take away the posterity of Baasha, and the posterity of his house: and will make thy house like * the house of Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

* Chap. 15. 29.

4 * Him that dieth of Baasha in the city, shall the dogs eat: and him that dieth of his in the fields, shall the fowls of the air eat.

* Chap. 14. 11.

5 Now the rest of the acts of Baasha, and what he did, and his might, * are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

* 2 Chro. 16. 1.

6 So Baasha slept with his fathers, and was buried in Tirzah, and Elah his son reigned in his stead.

7 And also by the hand of the prophet Jehu the son of Hanani, came the word of the LORD e against Baasha, and against his house, even for all the evil that he did in the sight of the LORD, in provoking him to anger with the work of his hands, in being like the house of Jeroboam, and because he * killed him f.

* Chap. 15. 20. and 2 King. 10. 17.

e The meaning is, The Message which came from the Lord to Jehu, ver. 1. &c. was here delivered by the hand, (i. e.) the Ministry of Jehu, unto Baasha. Jehu did what God commanded him in this matter, though it was not without apparent hazard to himself. f (i. e.) Nadab; who tho he be not expressed, yet is sufficiently understood: 1. By the manifest reference which these words have to the Murder committed by Baasha, which was done upon Nadab only, Chap. 15. 28. 2. By the foregoing words, the house of Jeroboam; (i. e.) His Posterity, which was Nadab. Quest. Why doth God punish him for doing God's Work? Answ. 1. Tho God appointed, That Jeroboam's Family should be cut off; yet he did not give Baasha Commission to do it; nor had declared how, or by whom he would do it. 2. Baasha did this, not to fulfil God's Will, but his own Lusts. See on, ver. 2.

8 In the twentieth and sixth year of Asa king of Judah, began Elah the son of Baasha to reign over Israel in Tirzah, two years g.

g One compleat, and part of the other, ver. 10. which in Scripture-account is reckoned for a Year. See above 7. 15. and 15. 25.

10 And Zimri went in and smote him, and killed him in the twenty and seventh year of Asa king of Judah, and reigned in his stead.

11 ¶ And it came to pass, when he began to reign, as soon as he sate on his throne, that he slew all the house of Baasha: he left him * not one that pisseth against a wall, ‖ neither of his kinsfolks, k nor of his friends l.

* 1 Sam. 25. 22.

‖ Or, both his kinsmen and his friends.

k Heb. avengers; to whom it belonged to revenge his Death. See Numb. 35. 12. l His confidents, and familiar Acquaintance, such as were most likely to hinder his Settlement in the Throne, and to Avenge their Friends Quarrel.

12 Thus did Zimri destroy all the house of Baasha, according to the word of the LORD, which he spake against Baasha m, † by Jehu the prophet.

† Heb. by the hand of, &c.

m (i. e.) Thus fulfilling God's Threatning, but either without his knowledge, or meerly for his own ends.

13 For all the sins of Baasha, and the sins of Elah his sons; by which they sinned, and by which they made Israel to sin, in provoking the LORD God of Israel to anger with their vanities.

n (i. e.) Idols, oft called vanities; as Deut. 32. 21. 1 Sam. 12. 21. Jer. 14. 22. because they are but imaginary Deities, and meer nothings; 1 Cor. 8. 4. having nothing at all of a God in them, and nothing of Power to do either good or hurt.

14 Now the rest of the acts of Elah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel **?*

* See above 14. 19.

15 ¶ In the twenty and seventh year of Asa king of Judah, did Zimri reign seven days in Tirzah: and the people were encamped against Gibethon, which belonged to the Philistines o.

o Which had been besieged before, Chap 15. 27. but, it seems, was then relieved, or afterwards recovered by the Philistines; taking the advantage of the Disorders and Contentions which were among their Enemies.

16 And the people that were encamped, heard say, Zimri hath conspired, and hath also slain the king: wherefore all Israel made Omri the captain of the host king over Israel that day in the camp.

19 And Omri went up from Gibethon, and all Israel with him, and they besieged Tirzah.

18 And it came to pass when Zimri saw that the city was taken, that he went into the palace of the kings house, and burnt the kings house over him p with fire, and died;

p Or, and he burnt, &c. Either, 1. Omri burnt it over Zimri; for Pronouns sometimes respect more remote Nouns. Or, rather, 2. Zimri (to whom both the foregoing and following words apparently belong) who burnt it upon himself; that neither himself, nor the Royal Palace and Treasures might come into the hands of his insulting Adversary.

19 For his sins q which he sinned, in doing evil in the sight of the LORD, in walking in the way of of Jeroboam r, and in his ſin which he did, to make Iſrael ſin.

q (i. e.) This befel him for his Sins. r Which he might do, either before his Reign, in the whole courſe of his Life, which is juſtly charged upon him, becauſe of his Impenitency: or in the Seven days of his Reign; in which, he had time enough to publiſh his Intentions or Decrees, about the continuance of the Worſhip of the Calves; or to Sacrifice to them, for his good Succeſs, either already obtained, or further deſired, 20 Now the reſt of the acts of Zimri, and his treaſon that he wrought, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael*?

* See Chap. 14. 19.

21 ¶ Then were the people of Iſrael divided into two parts ſ: half of the people followed Tibni the ſon of Ginath, to make him king t: and half followed Omri u.

ſ Fell into a Civil War: yet neither this, nor any other of God's dreadful Judgments could win them to Repentance; which is an evidence of their Prodigious Impiety, and Incorrigibleneſs, and how ripe they were for Ruine. t Diſdaining that the Soldiers ſhould Uſurp ſuch a Power over the whole Kingdom. u Becauſe they approved the Perſon, tho not the manner of his Election.

22 But the people that followed Omri prevailed x againſt the people that followed Tibni the ſon of Ginath: ſo Tibni died y, and Omri reigned.

x Partly, becauſe they had the Army on their ſide; and principally, by the appointment and judgment of God, giving up the Iſraelites to him who was much the worſt; ver. 25, 26. y A violent Death, in the Battle.

23 ¶ In the thirty and one year of Aſa king of Judah, began Omri to reign over Iſrael twelve years z: ſix years reigned he in Tirzah.

z (i. e.) And he Reigned Twelve Years, not from this 31 year of Aſa, for he died in his 38 year, ver. 29. but from the beginning of his Reign, which was in Aſa's 27 year, ver 15. 16. So he Reigned four years in a State of War with Tibni, and Eight years peaceably.

24 And he bought the hill Samaria of Shemer, for two talents of ſilver, and built a on the hill, and called the name of the city which he built, after the name of Shemer, owner of the hill † * Samaria.

† Heb. Semeron. * See Chap. 13. 32.

a To wit, the City; and ſpecially, a Royal Palace, becauſe that at Tirzah was burnt, ver 18.

25 ¶ But * Omri wrought evil in the eyes of the LORD, and did worſe than all that were before him. * Mic. 6. 16.

26 For he walked in all the way of Jeroboam b the ſon of Nebat, and in his ſin wherewith he made Iſrael to ſin, to provoke the LORD God of Iſrael to anger with their vanities.

b (i. e.) Did not only promote the Worſhip of the Calves, as Jeroboam and all his Succeſſours hitherto had done; but did alſo imitate all Jeroboam's other ſins, which doubtleſs were many and great; and peradventure he added this to the reſt, that together with the Calves, he Worſhipped Devils (i. e.) other Idols of the Heathens, as may be thought from 1 Cor. 10. 20. 20. where his Worſhip of the Devils, and of the Calves is diſtinguiſhed. Beſides, tho he did no more for the ſubſtance of the Action, than his Predeceſſors did; yet he might juſtly and truly be ſaid to do worſe than they, becauſe he did it with greater Aggravations, after ſo many terrible Examples of Divine Vengeance upon the Kings and People of Iſrael for that Sin; or, becauſe he made ſeverer Laws concerning the Calf-Worſhip; whence we read of the ſtatutes of Omri, Mich. 6. 16. or did more induſtriouſly and violently Execute them, with greater deſpight againſt God, and malice againſt his ſervants.

27 Now the reſt of the acts of Omri, which he did, and his might that he ſhewed, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

28 So Omri ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria, and Ahab his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

29 ¶ And in the thirty and eighth year of Aſa king of Judah, began Ahab the ſon of Omri to reign over Iſrael; and Ahab the ſon of Omri reigned over Iſrael in Samaria, twenty and two years.

30 And Ahab the ſon of Omri did evil in the ſight of the LORD, above all that were before him.

31 And it came to paſs, † as if it had been a light thing for him c to walk in the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat; that he took to wife Jezebel d the daughter of Ethbaal e king of the Zidonians f, and went and ſerved Baal g, and worſhipped him.

c As if that Sin were not big enough to expreſs his contempt of God; as if he thought it below his Wit and Dignity, to content himſelf with ſuch a Vulgar Fault. But the Hebrew runs thus, Was it a light thing, &c.? (i. e.) Was this but a ſmall Sin, that therefore he needed to add more Abominations? Where the queſtion, as is uſual among the Hebrews, implies a ſtrong denial; and intimates, That this was no ſmall Sin, but a great Crime; and might have ſatisfied his wicked Mind, without any additions. d A Woman infamous for her Idolatry, and Cruelty, and Sorcery, and Filthineſs. See Chap. 18. 4. and 21. 8. 2 King. 9. 22. Revel. 2. 20. e Called Ithobalus, or Itobalus in Heathen Writers. f So ſhe was of an Heathenish and Idolatrous Race, and ſuch whom the Kings and People of Iſrael were expreſly forbidden to Marry. g (i. e.) The Idol which the Sidonians Worſhipped, which is thought to be Hercules; or falſe gods: for this name is common to all ſuch. And this Idolatry was much worſe than that of the Calves; becauſe in the Calves they Worſhipped the True God; but in theſe, falſe gods or Devils, as is evident from Chap. 18. 21.

32 And he reared up an altar for Baal in the houſe of Baal, which he had built in Samaria.

33 And Ahab made a grove h; and Ahab did more to provoke the LORD God of Iſrael to anger, than all the kings of Iſrael that were before him.

h Againſt God's Expreſs Prohibition, Deut. 7. 5.

34 In his days did Hiel the Bethelite k build Jericho l: he laid the foundation thereof in Abiram his firſt-born, and ſet up the gates thereof in his youngeſt ſon Segub m, * according to the word of the LORD, which he ſpake by Joſhua n the ſon of Nun. * Joſh. 6. 26.

i This is here added, 1. As a Character of the time, and an inſtance of the truth and certainty of Divine Predictions and Comminations, this being fulfilled 800 years after it was threatned; and withal, as a warning to the Iſraelites, not to think themſelves innocent or ſafe, becauſe the Judgment threatned againſt them by Ahijah, Chap. 14. 15. was not yet Executed, though they continued in that Calf-worſhip which he condemned: but to expect the certain accompliſhment of it in due time, if they perſiſted in their Impenitency. Or, 2. As an Evidence of the horrible Corruption of his times, and of that high Contempt of God which then Reigned. k Who lived in Bethel, the Seat and Sink of Idolatry, wherewith he was thoroughly leavened. l A place ſeated in the Tribe of Benjamin, but belonging to the Kingdom of Iſrael: which place he ſeems to have choſen for his Buildings; not ſo much for his own advantage, as out of a contempt of the True God, and of his Threatnings, which he deſigned to convince of falſhood by his own Experience; and out of an Ambitious deſire to advance his own Reputation and Intereſt thereby, by attempting that which he knew his King and Queen too, would be highly pleaſed with. m (i. e.) In the beginning of his Building, God took away his Firſt-born, and others ſucceſſively in the progreſs of the Work, and the youngeſt when he finiſhed it. And ſo he found by his own ſad Experience, the truth of God's Word, and how vain it was to contend with him. Queſt. Why did not God rather puniſh Hiel himſelf? Anſw. This was a terrible Puniſhment, to ſee his Children Cut off by Divine Vengeance, before their time, one after another; and all this for his own folly and raſhneſs. Compare Jer. 52. 10. And as for Hiel himſelf, poſſibly after he had been ſpared ſo long, that he might be an Eye-witneſs of his Sons untimely Deaths; he alſo might be Cut off, though it be not Recorded, as not belonging to the Prophecy here mentioned; or, if not, his preſent Impunity was his greateſt Miſery; either, as it continued his Torment in the ſad and laſting Remembrance of his Loſs and Miſery; or as it was a mean to harden his Heart ſo for greater Judgments, to which he was reſerved. n Of which, ſee on Joſh. 6. 26.

AND † Elijah a the Tiſhbite b who was of the † inhabitants of Gilead c, ſaid unto Ahab d, * As the LORD God of Iſrael liveth e, before whom I ſtand f, there ſhall not be dew nor rain g theſe years h, but according to my word i.

a The moſt Eminent of the Prophets, Matt. 17. 3. who is here brought in, like Melchiſedeck, Gen. 14. 18. Heb. 7. 3. without without any mention of his Father, or Mother, or beginning of his days; like a man dropp'd out of the Clouds, and raised by God's special Providence as a Witness for himself, in this most degenerate time and state of things; that by his Zeal, and Courage, and Power of Miracles, he might give some check to their various and abominable Idolatries, and some reviving to that small number of the Lords Prophets, and People, who yet remained in Israel; as we shall see. b So called, either from the place of his Birth or Habitation; or for some other reason not now known. c Which was the Land beyond Jordan. See Gen. 31. 21. d Having doubtless admonished him of his Sin and Danger before this; and now upon his obstinacy in his Wicked courses, he proceeds to declare, and execute the Judgment of God upon him. e I Swear by the God of Israel, who is the only True and Living God; when the gods whom thou hast joyned with him, or preferred before him, are dead and senseless Idols. f Either, 1. Whose Minister I am, (as this Phrase is oft used, as Numb. 3. 6. Deut. 10. 8. and 17. 12. and 18. 5.) not only in general, but especially in this Threatning, which I now deliver in his Name and Authority, and not from my own Imagination or Passion. Or, 2. Who is now present with me, and a Witness of what I say; and let him punish me severely, if I speak not the Truth. g This was a Prediction, but was seconded with his Prayer, That God would verifie it; as it is Recorded, Jam. 5. 17. And this Prayer of his was not voluntary, and malicious; but necessary, and (all things considered) truly Charitable; that by this sharpe and long Affliction, God's Honour, and the Truth of his Word and Threatnings (which was now so horribly and universally contemned) might be vindicated; and the Israelites (whom their present Impunity and Prosperity had hardned in their Idolatry) might hereby be awakened to see their own Wickedness, and the vanity of their Calves, and other Idols; and their dependance upon God, and the necessity of returning to the True Religion. h (i. e.) These following years, which were three and an half, Luke 4. 25. Jam. 5. 17. i (i. e.) Until I shall declare, That this Judgment shall cease, and shall pray to God for the removal of it.

2 And the word of the LORD came unto him, saying,

3 Get thee hence, and turn thee East-ward, and hide thy self by the brook Cherith k, that is before Jordan.

k Thus God rescues him from the fury of Ahab and Jezabel, who, he knew, would seek to destroy him. Quest. Why did not Ahab seize upon him immediately upon these Words? Ans. 1. This must be ascribed to God's over-ruling Providence, who hath the hearts of all men in his hands; and hath oft protected his Prophets and Servants in such cases. 2. He might say this, not by word of Mouth, but by Letter and Message sent to him; as that Word is sometimes used, as Exod. 18. 6.

4 And it shall be, that thou shalt drink of the brook, and I have commanded l the Ravens m to feed thee there.

l (i. e.) I have Decreed or Appointed. Or, I shall command (i e.) effectually move them, by Instincts and Inclinations which I shall put into them, which shall be as forcible with them, as a Law or Command is to Man. God is said to command both Brute-creatures, as Amos 9. 3. Jonah 2. 10. and senseless things, as Job 38. 11, 12. Psal. 78. 23. Isa. 5. 6. and 45. 12. when he causeth them to do the thiugs which he intends to Effect by them. m Which he names, and chuseth for this Work; partly, to succour the Prophets Faith against humau Infirmity, by the incredibility of the thing, there being many Ravens in those parts, and those delighting to reside near brooks of Water; and that sort of Creatures being apt and accustomed to seek Provisions, and to carry them away to the places of their abode: and partly, to shew his care and power in providing for the Prophet by those Creatures, which are noted for their greedines, in monopolizing Provision to themselves; and for their malignity and unnaturalness towards their own young; that by this strange and noble experiment he might be taught to trust God in those many and great difficulties to which he was likely to be Exposed. Obj. The Ravens were unclean, Levit. 11. 15. Answ. They were Unclean for Meat, but not for the touch. But howsoever that Ceremonial Law vvas over-ruled by necessity, and by the Lavv-givers Dispensation.

5 So he went and did according unto the word of the LORD: for he went and dwelt by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan.

6 And the ravens brought him bread and flesh n in the morning o, and bread and flesh in the evening p: and he drank of the brook.

n Not ravv, but boiled by the Ministry of some Angel or Man, and left in some place or places till the Ravens came for it: in all vvhich, there is nothing incredible, considering the Povver and Providence of God. o (i. e.) For Dinner and Supper, according to the custom. See Gen. 43. 25. Ruth. 2. 14. Luke 14. 12. Act. 10. 9, 10.

7 And it came to pass † after a while q, that the brook dried up r, because there had been no rain in the land.

† Heb. at the end of days. Gen. 4. 3. and 2 Sam. 14. 26.

p Heb. at the end of days; (i. e.) Of a year; for so the Word days is oft used, as by many, in Exod. 13. 10. Levit. 25. 29. Numb. 9. 22. Judg. 17. 10. 1 Sam. 1. 3. and 27. 7. And this seems to be a convenient time for the drying up of the Brook, which was gradually dried up. And so this agrees well with Chap. 18. 1. in the third year: of which, see the notes there. r God so ordering it, partly for the Punishment of those Israelites who lived near it, and had hitherto been refreshed by it: partly, for the trial and exercise of Elijah's Faith, and to teach him to depend upon God alone, not on any Creature, for his support: and partly, to shew his own all-sufficiency in providing for his People.

8 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto him, saying,

9 Arise, get thee to * Zarephath s, which belongeth to Zidon t, and dwell there: behold, I have commanded u a widow-woman there to sustain thee.

* Luk. 4. 26. called Sarepta.

s A City between Tyrus and Sidon, called Sarepta by St. Luke, Chap. 4. 26. by Pliny and others. t To the jurisdiction of that City, which therefore was Inhabited by Gentiles. See Luke 4. 25. And God's providing for his Prophet, first, by an Unclean Bird, and then by a Gentile, whom the Jews esteemed Unclean, was a notable presage of the Calling of the Gentiles, and of the Rejection of the Jews. u (i. e.) Appointed or Provided, as before ver. 4. for that she had as yet no Revelation or Command of God about it, appears from ver. 12.

13 So he arose, and went to Zarephath: and when he came to the gate of the city, behold, the widow-woman was there gathering of sticks: and he called to her x, and said, Fetch me, I pray thee, a little water in a vessel, that I may drink.

x Knowing by Divine suggestion, that this was the Woman designed.

11 And as she was going to fetch it, he called to her, and said, Bring me, I pray thee, a morsel of bread in thine hand y.

y Which he said only to try her, and to make way for what follows.

12 And she said, As the LORD thy God liveth z, I have not a cake, but an handful of meal in a barrel, and a little oyl in a cruse: and behold, I am gathering two sticks a, that I may go in, and dress it for me and my son, that we may eat it, and die b.

z By which she discovers, That though she was a Gentile, yet she owned the God of Israel as the True God. a (i. e.) A few sticks, that number being oft used indefinitely for any small number, both in Scripture, as Hos. 6. 2. and by other Authors. b For having no more Provision, we must needs perish with Hunger. For though the Famine was only in the Land of Israel, yet the Effects of it were in Tyre and Sidon, which were fed by the Corn of that Land. See Acts 12. 20. Or the same Famine might be in those parts also, the chief cause of the Famine; to wit, the Worship of Baal being common to both places.

13 And Elijah said unto her, Fear not; go, and do as thou hast said: but make me thereof a little cake first c, and bring it unto me, and after make for thee and for thy son.

c Which he requires as a tryal and exercise of her Faith, and Charity, and Obedience, which he knew God would graciously and plentifully reward; and so this would be a great Example to encourage others to the practise of the same Graces upon like occasions.

14 For thus saith the LORD God of Israel d, The barrel of meal e shall not waste, neither shall the cruse of oil fail, until the day that the LORD † sendeth rain upon the earth.

d In whom I perceive thou trustest. e (i. e.) The Meal of the Barrel. An Hypallage or Metonymy. So the cruse of oil for the oil of the cruse.

15 And she went and did according to the saying of Elijah f, and she, and he, and her house did eat ‖ many days g.

f Giving Glory to the God of Israel, by believing his Prophet. g (i. e.) A long time, even above Two Years: See Chap. 18. 1. Heb. days, (i. e.) A full Year; as ver. 7. namely, before the following Event about her Son happened, and the rest of the time of the Famine after it.

16 And

16 And the barrel of meal wasted not h, neither did the cruse of oil fail, according to the word of the LORD, which he spake † by Elijah.

† Heb. By the hand of.

h God still Creating new, as fast as the old was spent.

17 ¶ And it came to pass after these things, that the son of the woman, the mistress of the house, fell sick, and his sickness was so sore, that there was no breath i left in him.

i Or, no Soul, or Life, as this Hebrew Word oft signifies: (i. e.) He died, as is manifest from the following Verses. See also Heb. 11. 35.

18 And she said unto Elijah, What have I to do with thee k, O thou man of God? art thou come unto me l to call my sin to remembrance m, and to slay my son?

k Wherein I have injured or provoked thee? Or, Why didst thou come to Sojourn in my House, (as the following Words seem to explain these) if this be the Fruit of it? They are Words of a troubled Mind, savouring of some rashness and impatience. l Didst thou come for this end, that thou mightest severely observe my Sins, and by thy prayers bring down God's just Judgment upon me, for them, as thou hast for the like cause brought down this Famine upon the Nation? m Either, 1. To my remembrance; that I should by this dreadful Judgment be brought to the knowledge and remembrance of my Sins, which have procured it. Or rather, 2. To God's Remembrance: for God is oft said in Scripture, to remember sins, when he punisheth them; and to forget them, when he spares the Sinner. See 2 Sam. 16. 10. Have I instead of the Blessing which I expected from thy presence, met with a Curse?

19 And he said unto her, Give me thy son n. And he took him out of her bosom, and carried him up into a loft o, where he abode, and laid him upon his own bed.

n Into mine Arms. o A private place, where he might more freely and fully pour out his Soul to God, and use such Gestures or Methods, as he thought most proper, without any offence or observation.

20 And he cried unto the LORD, and said, O LORD my God, hast thou also brought evil upon the widow, with whom I sojourn, by slaying her son p?

p A Prayer full of powerful Arguments. Thou art the Lord, that canst revive the Child: and my God; and therefore wilst not, do not deny me. She is a Widow, add not Affliction to the Afflicted; deprive her not of the great support and staff of her Age; She hath given me kind entertainment: let her not fare the worse for her kindness to a Prophet, whereby Wicked Men will take occasion to Reproach both her, and Religion.

21 And he † stretched himself upon the child q three times, and cried unto the LORD r, and said, O LORD my God, I pray thee let this childs soul come † into him again s.

q Not as if he thought this could contribute any warmth or Life to the Child; but partly, to express, and withal to increase his grief for the Child's Death, and his desire of its reviving; that thereby his Prayers might be more fervent, and consequently, more prevalent with God: and partly, that it might appear, That this Miracle, tho wrought by God alone, yet was done for the sake of Elijah, and in answer to his Prayers. Compare 2 King. 4. 34. Job. 9. 6. Acts 20. 10. r First, he stretched himself, then he prayed, and that for Three times successively. s By which it is evident, That the Soul was gone out of his Body, and therefore doth subsist without it after Death. Compare Gen. 35. 18. This was a great Request; but Elijah was encouraged to make it; partly, by his Zeal for God's Honour, which he thought was concerned in it, and would be Eclipsed by it: partly, by the experience which he had of his prevailing-power with God in prayer; and partly, by a Divine Impulse moving him to desire it.

22 And the LORD heard the voice of Elijah, and the soul of the child came into him again, and he revived.

23 And Elijah took the child, and brought him down out of the chamber into the house, and delivered him unto his mother: and Elijah said, See, thy son liveth.

24 ¶ And the woman said to Elijah, Now by this I know t that thou art a man of God, and that the word of the LORD in thy mouth is truth u.

t Now I am assured of that concerning which I began upon this sad occasion to doubt. u That the God whom thou professest, is the True God; and the Doctrine and Religion which thou Teachest, is the only True Religion: and therefore hence forth I wholly Renounce the Worship of Idols.

CHAP. XVIII.

AND it came to pass after many days, that the word of the LORD came to Elijah in the third year a, saying, Go shew thy self unto Ahab b, and I will send rain upon the earth c.

a Either, 1. From the time when he went to hide himself by the Brook Cerith; Six Months before which time the Famine might begin, tho it was not yet come to extremity. And so this being in, or towards the end of the Third Year, it makes up these Three Years and Six Months, Jac. 5. 17. Or 2. From the time of his going to Sarepta, which probably was a Year after the Famine begun: See on Chap. 17. 7. and so this might be in the middle of the Third Year, which also makes up the Three Years and Six Months. b To acquaint him with the cause of Judgment, ver. 18. and to advise him to remove it, and upon that condition to promise him Rain. c According to thy Word and Prayer which thou shalt make for it. Thus God takes care to maintain the Honour and Authority of his Prophet, and in Judgment remembers Mercy to Israel for the sake of the Holy Seed yet left among them, who suffered in this common Calamity.

2 And Elijah went to shew himself unto Ahab d: and there was a sore famine in Samaria.

d Wherein he shews a strong Faith, and resolute Obedience, and invincible Courage, that he durst at God's Command run into the mouth of this raging Lion; which was a degree of Martyrdom.

4 For it was so, when † Jezebel cut off the prophets of the LORD, that Obadiah took an hundred prophets g, and hid them by fifty in a cave, and fed them h with bread and water i).

g Which name is not only given to such as are endowed with an extraordinary Spirit of Prophecy, but to such Ministers as Devoted themselves to the Service of God in Preaching, Praying, Praising God, and the like, as 1 Sam. 10. 10, 11, 12. and in this place compared with v. 22. where Elijah saith, I only remain a Prophet of the Lord, to wit, strictly so called; and Matth. 10. 41. 1 Cor. 12. 28, 29. and 14. 29. h With the hazard of his own life, and against the Kings command; as wisely considering, that no command of an Earthly Prince could over-rule the command of the Supreme Lord, the King of kings, or discharge him from those acts of Piety to God, and Charity to Men, which Gods Law indispensably required. i Either properly; which was a great kindness in those Circumstances: or figuratively, (i. e.) with meat and drink.

5 And Ahab said unto Obadiah, Go into the land, unto all fountains of water, and unto all brooks k: peradventure we may find grass to save the horses and mules alive, † that we lose not all the beasts.

† Heb. that we cut not off our selves from the beasts.

k About which, Grass was most probably to be found in that great drought.

6 So they divided the land between them, to pass throughout it. Ahab went one way by himself l, and Obadiah went another way by himself.

l Not daring to trust any other, Obadiah excepted, lest being bribed by such as had Grass for their own use, they should not give him a true account.

7 ¶ And

7 ¶ And as Obadiah was in the way, behold, Elijah met him: and he knew him, and fell on his face m, and ſaid, Art thou that my lord Elijah?

m By this profound reverence, ſhewing his great Reſpect and Love to him.

8 And he anſwered him, I am: go tell thy lord n, Behold, Elijah is here.

n Ahab: whom, though a very wicked man, he owns for Obadiah's lord and King; thereby inſtructing him, that he did well in owning him as ſuch; and that the wickedneſs of Kings doth not exempt their Subjects from obedience to their Lawful commands.

9 And he ſaid, What have I ſinned o, that thou wouldeſt deliver thy ſervant into the hand of Ahab, to ſlay me?

o Wherein have I ſo offended God, and thee, that thou ſhouldeſt inflict this puniſhment upon me, and expoſe me to certain ruin by this means?

10 As the LORD thy God liveth, there is no nation or kingdom p, whither my lord hath not ſent to ſeek thee: and when they ſaid, He is not there; he took an oath of the kingdom and nation, that they found thee not q.

p To wit, near to his own, where he could in reaſon think that Elijah had hid himſelf. Nothing is more frequent than to underſtand general expreſſions with ſuch limitations. q Not that he could force other Kingdoms to take an Oath, but that by his perſuaſions he prevailed with the chief perſons in ſeveral Kingdoms, for his ſatisfaction, to Swear that they did not know of Elijah's being among them. Which was not hard for him to obtain. For Ahab was a great Prince, and had a great intereſt among the Neighbouring Kings. The King of Tyre was his Father-in law; the King of Moab Tributary to him; Jehoſhaphat, his Friend and Relation, to whom the King of Edom was Tributary. We read alſo of all the Kings of Arabia, and of all the Kings of the Hittites, and of Syria, 1 King. 10. 15, 9. which as they correſponded with Solomon, ſo how far they might be Allied to, or Confederate with Ahab, we know not; nor what Articles or Agreements were between him and them, among which this might be one, That they ſhould deliver up to one another all their fugitive or baniſhed Subjects upon demand; which might give ſufficient ground for his deſire or expectation of this Oath. Queſt. How then could Elijah lye hid in the Houſe of the Widow of Sarepta? Anſ. That might eaſily be, either becauſe ſhe her ſelf, or at leaſt others, did not know particularly who he was; or, becauſe ſhe uſed all poſſible care to conceal him, her Conſcience and Intereſt both obliging her ſo to do; or becauſe God ſecured him there.

12 And it ſhall come to paſs, as ſoon as I am gone from thee, that the Spirit of the LORD r ſhall carry thee whither I know not ſ; and ſo when I come and tell Ahab, and he cannot find thee, he will ſlay me t: but I thy ſervant fear the LORD from my youth u.

r The Holy Ghoſt, to whom the inſpiration and conduct of the Prophets is commonly aſcribed in Holy Scripture, as Iſa. 48. 16. and 61. 1. Matth. 4. 1. Acts 16. 6, 7. who might do this either immediately by his own power, or by an Angel, or by a ſtrong wind. ſ Such tranſportations of the Prophets having doubtleſs been uſual before this time, as they were after it. See 2 King. 2. 16. Ezek. 3. 12, 14. Mat. 4. 1. Acts. 8. 39. t Either as a curſed Impoſtor that hath deluded him with vain hopes: or rather, becauſe I did not forthwith ſeize upon thee, and bring thee to him to receive puniſhment. u He ſpeaks not theſe, nor the following words, in way of vain boaſting; but only for his own neceſſary vindication and preſervation, that he might move the Prophet to pity and ſpare him, and not put him upon that hazardous action; which yet he was reſolved to do, if the Prophet peremptorily required it.

13 Was it not told my lord, what I did when Jezebel ſlew the prophets of the LORD? how I hid an hundred men of the LORDS prophets by † fifty in a cave, and fed them with bread and water?

14 And now thou ſayeſt, Go tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here: and he ſhall ſlay me.

15 And Elijah ſaid, As the LORD of hoſts x liveth, before whom I ſtand, I will ſurely ſhew my ſelf unto him to day.

x The Lord of all the Creatures, which are called Gods hoſts, Gen. 2. 1. Deut. 4. 19. Pſal. 103. 21. and 148. 2. and are all ſubject to his Command. He mentions this Title as his Shield, under the Protection whereof he did, and durſt venture to come into Ahab's preſence.

16 So Obadiah went to meet Ahab, and told him: and Ahab went to meet Elijah.

17 ¶ And it came to paſs when Ahab ſaw Elijah, that Ahab ſaid unto him, Art thou he * that troubleth Iſrael y?

* Act. 16. 20.

y Have I at laſt met with thee, O thou great diſturber of my Kingdom, the Author of this Famine, and of all our Diſquiets and Calamities?

18 And he anſwered, I have not troubled Iſrael, but thou and thy fathers houſe z, in that ye have forſaken the commandments of the LORD, and thou haſt followed Baalim.

z Theſe Calamities are not to be imputed to my paſſions, but thine and thy Fathers wickedneſs, which God puniſheth by this means. He anſwered him thus boldly, becauſe he ſpoke and acted in Gods Name, and for his Honour and Service, whoſe Vaſſal Ahab was.

19 Now therefore ſend a, and gather to me all Iſrael b unto mount Carmel c, and the prophets of Baal d four hundred and fifty, and the prophets of the groves e four hundred, which eat at Jezebels table.

a To wit, Meſſengers, that this controverſy between thee and me may be decided, the true cauſe of theſe heavy Judgments diſcovered and removed, that ſo this Plague may be removed. b By their Deputies, or Heads, and Repreſentatives, that they may be Witneſſes of all our Tranſactions. c Not that Carmel in Judah, 1 Sam. 15. 12. but another in Iſſachar by the Midland-Sea, Joſ. 19. 26. Jer. 46. 18. which he choſe as a very convenient place, being not far from the Center of his Kingdom, to which all the Tribes might conveniently reſort, and at ſome good diſtance from Samaria, that Jezebel might not hinder his deſign; and a very high Mountain, Amos 9. 3. and that upon the Sea, whence he might have the opportunity to diſcover the Rain at its firſt approach, which he did Chap. 42, &c. d Which were diſperſed in all the parts of the Kingdom. e Which attended upon thoſe Baals or Idols which were Worſhipped in the Groves, which were near the Royall City, and much valued and frequented by the King and the Queen, 1 King. 15. 13. and 16. 33. 2 King. 13. 6. and therefore were maintained at the Queens Charges.

20 So Ahab f ſent unto all the children of Iſrael, and gathered the prophets together unto mount Carmel.

f He complied with Elijah's motion; partly, becauſe it was ſo fair and reaſonable, that he could not refuſe it with honour, nor without the diſcontent of all his people, this being propoſed in order to their deliverance from this terrible Famine; partly, becauſe the urgency of the preſent diſtreſs made him willing to try all means to remove it; partly, from a curioſity of ſeeing ſome extraordinary Events; and principally, becauſe God inclined his heart to cloſe with it.

21 And Elijah came unto all the people, and ſaid, How long halt ye between two ‖ opinions g? If the LORD be God h, follow him i: but if Baal k, * then follow him: And the people anſwered him not a word l.

* See Joſh. 24. 15.

g Why do you not make ſtraight paths with your Feet, as the Phraſe is, Heb. 12. 13? Why do you walk ſo lamely and unevenly, being ſo unſtedy in your opinions and practiſes, and doubting whether it is better to Worſhip God or Baal? h Whom you pretended to Worſhip in the Calves, 2 King. 10. 16, 31. compare Exod. 32. 4. i Worſhip him, and him only, and that in ſuch place and manner as he hath commanded you, and not by the Calves. k If Baal can prove himſelf to be the True God. l Being convinced of the reaſonableneſs of his propoſition; taught by experience, that Jehovah had ſent this Judgment, and that Baal could not remove it, which had ſtaggered them in their Opinion about Baal; yet not daring to diſown Baal, for fear of the diſpleaſure of the King, then preſent.

22 Then ſaid Elijah unto the people, I, even I only remain m a prophet of the LORD; but Baals prophets are four hundred and fifty men.

m To wit, here preſent, publickly to own and plead the cauſe of God; for he oppoſeth himſelf only to Baal's 450 Prophets, becauſe they only were preſent; the Prophets of the Groves being, it ſeems, not permitted by Jezebel (through her pride, or obſtinacy, or care and kindneſs to them) to go thither. See Chap. 22. 6. As for the other Prophets of the Lord

Lord, many of them were ſlain by Ahab or Jezebel, others baniſhed, or hid in Caves.

23 Let them therefore give us two bullocks n, and let them chuſe one bullock for themſelves o, and cut it in pieces, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under: and I will dreſs the other bullock, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under:

n He attempts the deciſion of this controverſie, not by Gods Word, which was either rejected, or deſpiſed, or groſly neglected by the generality of that people, but by a Miracle, to which all that had common ſenſe muſt needs ſubmit. o Which they judge beſt and fitteſt for their purpoſe.

‖ Or, God.

24 And call ye on the name of your ‖ gods, and I will call on the Name of the LORD: and the God that anſwereth by fire p, let him be God. And all the people q anſwered and ſaid, † It is well ſpoken.

† Heb. The word is good.

p (i.e.) That ſhall conſume the ſacrifice by fire ſent from Heaven; which the people knew the True God uſed to do, as Gen. 4. 4. Judg. 6. 21. & 13. 20. q Even the Baalites themſelves; partly, becauſe they could not, without great reproach to themſelves and Baal, refuſe ſo equal a motion; and partly, becauſe they were confident of Baal's power and divinity, having probably had ſome experiments of ſupernatural and prodigious events done in the worſhip of Baal by Gods juſt and wiſe permiſſion, for the hardening of that Apoſtatical and wicked People in their Idolatry, as God hath in ſeveral Ages for the like reaſon ſuffered lying wonders to be wrought by the Devil whom they worſhipped in and by their Idols.

25 And Elijah ſaid unto the prophets of Baal, Chuſe ye one bullock for your ſelves, and dreſs it firſt, for ye are many r: and call on the name of your ‖ gods, but put no fire under.

‖ Or, God.

r And I am willing to give you the precedency. This he did, partly, becauſe if he had firſt offered, and God had anſwered by Fire, as he knew that he would do, Baal's Prieſts would have been diſcouraged, and upon ſome excuſe (which would eaſily be accepted in regard of the Kings Authority, and the favour which they had with the people) would have deſiſted from making the trial on their part; and partly, becauſe the diſappointment of the Prieſts of Baal, of which he was well aſſured, would notably prepare the way for the peoples more diligent attention unto his words and actions, and cauſe them to entertain the Prophets good ſucceſs with more admiration and affection; and this coming laſt, would leave the greater impreſſion and reliſh upon their hearts. And this they accepted, becauſe they might think, that if Baal did anſwer them firſt, which they preſumed he would, the People would be ſo confirmed and heightned in their Opinion of Baal, that they by the Kings aſſiſtance might murder Elijah before he came to his experiment.

26 And they took the bullock which was given them s, and they dreſſed it t, and called on the name of Baal from morning u even until noon, ſaying, O Baal, ‖ hear us. But there was no voice, nor any that ‖ anſwered. And they ‖ leapt upon the altar x which was made y.

‖ Or, leaped up and down at the altar.

s Which being choſen by them, v. 25. was now put into their hands by thoſe who had the beaſts in their cuſtody, till they were taken away for ſacrifice. t Cut it in pieces, and laid the parts in or upon the Wood. u From the time of the morning-ſacrifice; which advantage Elijah ſuffered them to take for their ſacrifice. x Or, over the altar: which might eaſily be done, the Altar being low, and ſuddenly made for the preſent uſe. Or rather, beſide, as the Hebrew (al) oft ſignifies, the altar: or, before it. They uſed ſome ſuperſtitious, unuſual, and diſorderly geſtures, either pretending to be acted by the Spirit of their God, and to be in a kind of Holy rage, and Religious extaſie; or, in way of Devotion to their god; which they might borrow from the practice of their progenitors, who amongſt other things, uſed dancing in Gods ſervice and preſence, as Exod. 15. 20 & 32. 19. Judg. 21. 21. 2 Sam. 6. 14. y Heb. which he made: Either, Firſt, Elias; which ſome think was already made, tho the making of it be not mentioned till afterwards, ver. 31. and that it was their deſign, by leaping upon his Altar, to overthrow it. Or rather, Secondly, Ahab on their behalf; or, any other perſon: that being only an Hebraiſm, the third perſon active, being put for the paſſive Verb, as our Tranſlators well render it.

27 And it came to paſs at noon z, that Elijah mocked them a, and ſaid, Cry † aloud: for he is a god, either ‖ he is talking, or he † is purſuing, or he is in a journey b, or peradventure he ſleepeth, and muſt be awaked.

z When they had long cried all means in vain. a Derided them and their gods, which were indeed, and had now proved themſelves to be ridiculous and contemptible things. By this example we ſee, that all jeſting is not unlawful, but only that which intrencheth upon piety, and good manners. See on Eph. 5. 4. b He is employed about ſome other buſineſs, and hath not leiſure to mind you: for being a god of a ſmall and narrow underſtanding, he cannot mind two things at once, and you are immodeſt and unreaſonable to expect it from him.

28 And they cried aloud c, and cut themſelves after their manner with knives and lancers d, till † the blood guſhed out upon them.

c As if Elias had ſpoken the truth, and their god needed rowzing. d Mingling their own blood with their Sacrifices; as knowing by experience, that nothing was more acceptable to their Baal (which was indeed the Devil) than humane blood; and hoping hereby to move their god to pity and help them. And this indeed was the practice of divers Heathens in the worſhip of their falſe gods, as is manifeſt both from Scripture, as Lev. 19. 28. Deut. 14. 1. 1 Kings 18. 28. and from the expreſs teſtimonies of Plutarch, Lucian, Apuleius, and many others.

e (i.e.) Praiſed, and prayed unto, and worſhipped their God; for ſo the word propheſying is uſed, 1 Sam. 10. 10. and 19. 20, &c. 1 Chron. 25. 2, 3. Matth. 7. 22. 1 Cor. 11. 4. and 14. 5, 6, &c. f Heb. of the ſacrifice, which being here oppoſed to the time of their offering, which was the Morning, ver. 26. muſt needs be meant of the Evening Sacrifice; of which ſee Exod. 29. 39, &c. which is called the ſacrifice, by way of Eminency, becauſe it was more ſolemn, and publick, and frequented, than the Morning Sacrifice; of which divers reaſons may be given. See Exod. 12. 6. Pſal. 141. 2. Acts 3. 1. g Heb. There was no attention: Either, Firſt, Of their god, who was ſo far from anſwering, that he did not mind any of their words and actions. Or Secondly, Of the People, who were now tired out with ſo long attention and expectation; and therefore more readily deſerted them, and approached to Elijah and his Altar, at his call, v. 30.

30 And Elijah ſaid unto all the people, Come near unto me h. And all the people came near unto him; and he repaired i the altar of the LORD k that was broken down l.

h Come away from theſe impudent deceivers to me, and expect from me what ſatisfaction you deſire. i Which by the Peoples help was quickly done; the materials being all ready, and very ſlightly put together, only for the preſent occaſion. k Which had been built there by ſome of their Anceſtors for the offering of Sacrifice to the God of Iſrael, which was frequently done in high-places, of which this was none of the leaſt eminent ones: but being for ſome time neglected, it needed reparations. l Either, Firſt, By the Prieſts of Baal at this time, who leaped upon it, to that end: of which ſee on ver. 26. Or rather, Secondly, By ſome of the Baalites, out of their enmity to the True God, whoſe Temple, becauſe they could not reach, they ſhewed their malignity in deſtroying his Altars, ch. 19. 14.

31 And Elijah took twelve ſtones, according to the number of the tribes of the ſons of Jacob m, unto whom the word of the LORD came, ſaying, * Iſrael ſhall be thy name n.

* Gen. 32. 28. 2 King. 17. 34.

m This he did, partly, to renew the Covenant between God and all the Tribes, as Moſes did, Exod. 24. 4. Partly, to ſhew, that he prayed, and acted in the Name, and for the Service of the God of all the Patriarchs, and of all the Tribes of Iſrael, and for their good: and partly, to teach the People, that though the Tribes were divided as to their Civil Government, they ought all to be united in the Worſhip of the ſame God, and in the ſame Religion. n Which Jacob was graciouſly anſwered by God when he prayed to him, and was honoured with the glorious Title of Iſrael, which noted his prevalency with God and men. And I, calling upon the ſame God, doubt not of a like gracious anſwer; and if ever you mean to have your Prayers granted, you muſt not ſeek to Baal for it, who, as you now ſee, neither hears nor regards his moſt devout Worſhippers; but unto the God of Jacob; and if you would recover the honour which was once conferred upon Jacob, and continued a long time to his Poſterity, you muſt return to that God from whom you are revolted.

32 And with the ſtones he o built an altar p in the Name of the LORD q: and he made a trench about the altar, as great as would contain two meaſures r of ſeed.

o With the aſſiſtance of the People, who readily yielded their helping hand. p Which though generally forbidden, he might do, becauſe he did it by the command and ſuggeſtion of God, who can diſpenſe with his own Laws, and upon apparent and urgent neceſſity, and for a work of great mercy, (to which even by Gods command the Ceremonial Laws muſt give place, Hoſ. 6. 6. Mark 2. 27.) even for the converſion of the Iſraelites, whom it was impoſſible to bring to the Altar of Jeruſalem at this time. q By the Authority of God, and for his Worſhip. r (i. e.) Two third parts of an Ephah: which ſhews that the Trench was of a competent largeneſs.

33 And he put the wood in order, and cut the bullock in pieces, and laid him on the wood, and ſaid, Fill four barrels with water ſ, and * pour it on the burnt-ſacrifice, and on the wood t.

* See Judg. 6. 20.

ſ Which they could quickly fetch, either from the River Kiſhon; or, if that was dried up, from the Sea; both which were at the foot of the Mountain. See Jer. 46. 18. t This he did, to make the Miracle more glorious, and more unqueſtionable, and ſo more ſucceſsful.

34 And he ſaid, Do it the ſecond time. And they did it the ſecond time. And he ſaid, Do it the third time. And they did it the third time.

† Heb. went:

35 And the water † ran round about the altar, and he filled the trench alſo with water.

36 And it came to paſs, at the time of the offering of the evening ſacrifice u, that Elijah the prophet came near, and ſaid, LORD God of Abraham, Iſaac, and of Iſrael, let it be known this day, that thou art God in Iſrael, and that I am thy ſervant, and that I have done all theſe things x at thy word y.

u Which time he choſe, that he might unite his Prayers with the Prayers of the godly Jews at Jeruſalem, who at that time aſſembled together to pray, Acts 3. 1. x Brought this Famine, gathered the people hither, and done what I have done, or am doing here. y Not in compliance with my own paſſions, but in obedience to thy command, as thy Agent and Miniſter. For that action of ſhutting up Heaven, and that of killing the Prieſts of Baal, muſt needs expoſe him to great envy and reproach; which made this publick vindication neceſſary, as it was alſo effectual, being witneſſed from Heaven.

37 Hear me, O LORD, hear me, that this people may know that thou art the LORD God, and that thou haſt turned their heart z back again a.

z That they may feel ſo powerful and ſudden a change in their hearts, that they may know it is thy Work, and the effect of thy Grace to them, and in them. Or, when thou haſt turned, &c. or, becauſe thou, &c. So the Particle Vau is oft uſed; and the ſenſe is, That they may know thee to be the True God, by the effects of thy Divine Power, in converting their hearts, and that in ſo miraculous a way, and in anſwer to my Prayers. a Unto thee, from whom they have revolted.

38 Then the fire of the LORD fell, and conſumed the burnt-ſacrifice, and the wood, and the ſtones, and the duſt, and licked up the water that was in the trench.

39 And when all the people ſaw it, they fell on their faces b: and they ſaid, The LORD, he is the God; the LORD, he is the God c.

b In way of acknowledgment and adoration of the True God. c He alone; and Baal in a dull and ſenſleſs Idol. And they double the words, to note their abundant ſatisfaction and aſſurance of the truth of their aſſertion.

40 And Elijah ſaid unto them d, ‖ Take the prophets of Baal, let not one of them eſcape: and they took them, and Elijah brought them down to the brook Kiſhon e, and ſlew them there f.

d He takes the opportunity, whilſt the peoples hearts were warm with the freſh ſenſe of this great miracle. e That their blood might be poured into that River, and thence conveyed into the Sea, and might not defile the Holy Land. f Queſt. How could Elijah do this, ſeeing he was but a private perſon? Anſ. Firſt, He had no doubt the conſent of all the heads of the People, who were here aſſembled; and of the King too, who durſt not reſiſt the univerſal torrent, and could not deny that they were Impoſtors, and worthy of Death; and probably was by the Prophet aſſured of Rain when this was done. Anſ. Secondly, As theſe Idolatrous Prieſts were manifeſtly under a Sentence of Death, paſſed upon ſuch by the Sovereign Lord of Life and Death, Deut. 13. and 17. ſo Elijah had ſufficient authority to execute it, as being a Prophet, and an extraordinary Miniſter of Gods vengeance againſt ſinners, now eſpecially when the Magiſtrate ſo groſly neglected his duty therein.

41 ¶ And Elijah ſaid unto Ahab, Get thee up, eat and drink h, for there is ‖ a ſound of abundance of rain i.

g From the River, where the King and he had been preſent at the ſlaughter of Baal's Prieſts, to thy Tent: which probably was pitched on the ſide of Carmel. h Take comfort, and refreſh thy ſelf: for neither the King, nor any of the People could have any leiſure to eat, being wholly intent upon the deciſion of the great controverſie. i The Rain is as certainly and ſpeedily coming, as if I did actually ſee it, or hear the noiſe which it makes. Gods wrath is now appeaſed, and thou ſhalt have no cauſe to repent of this days work.

42 So Ahab went up to eat and to drink, and Elijah went up to the top of Carmel k, and he caſt himſelf down upon the earth, and put his face between his knees l, k Where he might ſecretly and ardently pour out his prayers unto God; and whence he might look towards the Sea, and diſcern when the Rain was coming. l He either ſate, or rather, kneeled upon his Knees, and then caſt down his Face to the ground between his Knees; either, in token of profound reverence and humility; or, out of fervency of ſpirit, which oft diſpoſeth men to uncouth geſtures, which at other times, or in other men, would be ridiculous; but in them, and in that caſe, are uſual and allowed; or, that turning away his Eyes from all outward Objects, he might be more intent and earneſt upon his work, or pray to God without diſtraction.

43 And ſaid to his ſervant, Go up now m, look towards the ſea n. And he went up and looked, and ſaid, There is nothing. And he ſaid, Go again ſeven times o.

m Whilſt I continue praying. n Whence Clouds and Vapours uſually ariſe. Elijah deſired to have timely notice of the very firſt appearance and ſignification of Rain, not out of vanity or ambition, but that Ahab and the People might know that it was obtained from Jehovah by the Prophet's Prayers, and thereby be confirmed in the True Religion. o Let us not be dejected for ſome diſappointments, but continue to wait upon God, who will anſwer me, and that ſpeedily.

44 And it came to paſs at the ſeventh time, that he ſaid, Behold, there ariſeth a little cloud out of the ſea, like a mans hand. And he ſaid, Go up, ſay unto Ahab, † Prepare thy chariot, and get thee down, that the rain ſtop thee not.

† Heb. Tye, or, bind.

45 And it came to paſs in the mean while, that the heaven was black with clouds and wind, and there was a great rain: And Ahab rode and went to Jezreel p.

p Not that in Judah, Joſ. 15. 56. but another City in the border of Iſſachar and Manaſſeh, Joſ. 19. 18.

46 And the hand of the LORD was on Elijah q, and he girded up his loins r, and ran before Ahab ſ, † to the entrance of Jezreel.

q God gave him more than natural and ordinary ſtrength whereby he was enabled to out-run Ahab's Chariot, and that for ſo many Miles together. r That his Garments, which were then long, might not hinder him. See 2 Kings 4. 29. and 9. 1. ſ Partly, to ſhew how ready he was to honour and ſerve the King, if he did not exalt himſelf above or againſt God: partly that by this humble and ſelf-denying carriage, it might appear, that what he had done was not from envy, or ambition, or humane paſſion, but only from a juſt zeal for Gods Glory: partly, that by his preſence with the King, and his Courtiers, who attended upon him, he might animate and oblige them to proceed in the well-begun Reformation of Religion: and partly to demonſtrate, that he was neither aſhamed of, nor afraid for what he had done, tho he knew how Jezebel would reſent it, but durſt venture himſelf in the midſt of his Enemies, as being confident of the Divine Power and Protection.

CHAP. XIX.

1 AND Ahab told Jezebel a all that Elijah had done, and withal how he had ſlain all the prophets b with the ſword.

a For his vindication, and her ſatisfaction. b To wit, of Baal; not of the Groves, who were not preſent, as may be gathered from chap. 18. 19, 22. & 22. 6.

2 Then Jezebel ſent a meſſenger unto Elijah c, ſaying, * So let the gods do to me, and more alſo, if I make not thy life as the life of one of them, by to morrow about this time d.

* Ruth 1. 17.

c She gives him notice of it before-hand: partly, out of the height of her ſpirit, as ſcorning to kill him ſecretly and ſurreptitiouſly, and reſolving to make him a publick Sacrifice: partly, out of her impatience, till ſhe had breathed out her rage, rage, which ſhe could do ſpeedily, when it required ſome time and preparation to ſeize him, who was now ſo much eſteemed and favoured by all the People: partly, becauſe ſhe ſuppoſed, that he who had the confidence to come thither, (where, it ſeems, ſhe was at this time) would ſtill have the ſame confidence to ſtay there, and be obliged in honour to maintain his ground: and principally, from Gods all-diſpoſing Providence, that ſo he might have an opportunity of eſcaping. d So far was ſhe from being changed by that moſt evident miracle, that ſhe perſiſts in her former Idolatry, and adds to it a mad and monſtrous confidence, that in ſpight of God, ſhe would deſtroy his Prophet.

3 And when he ſaw that, he aroſe, and went for his life e, and came to Beerſheba, which belongeth to Judah f, and left his ſervant there g.

e (i. e.) To ſave his life: or, according to his ſoul, or mind. Whereby it may be intimated, that he did not flee from Jezreel by the hand or direction of the Lord, by which he came thither, ch. 18. 46. but becauſe of his own fear and apprehenſion of danger. For this may ſeem to be an act of humane frailty. For God had brought him hither, and his preſence might ſeem very neceſſary here to encourage and engage the King and People to go on to deſtroy the Prieſts of the Groves, and to purge out Idolatry; and his withdrawing, as we ſee, did diſcourage all the reſt, and occaſioned their return to Idolatry again; and, having had ſuch a late and ample experience of Gods all-ſufficiency in protecting him againſt the King, and 450 of Baal's Prieſts, and the current of the People incenſed againſt him for the Famine, he had little reaſon to fear the threats of an impotent Woman, whom God could cut off in a moment. But Elias was a man ſubject to like paſſions as we are, Jam. 5. 17. which probably is ſaid with reſpect to his fear and diſcontent, manifeſted here and ver. 4. And leſt he ſhould be exalted above meaſure (which was alſo Paul's caſe, 2 Cor. 12. 7.) for his eminent gifts, and graces, and miraculous works, God ſaw fit to withdraw his grace, and to leave him to himſelf, that he might be ſenſible of his own impotency and ſinfulneſs, and might not dare to take any part of Gods honour to himſelf. f Either, Firſt, To the Tribe of Judah, according to the firſt diviſion; for Simeon's part, in which Beerſheba was, was afterwards taken out of it. Or, Secondly, to the Kingdom of Judah. g Partly, that he might abide there in ſafety; and partly, that he ſhould wait there till his return; partly, becauſe he would not expoſe him to thoſe perils and hardſhips which he expected: and partly, becauſe he deſired ſolitude, that he might more freely converſe with God.

4 ¶ But he himſelf went a days journey into the wilderneſs h, and came and ſate down under a juniper-tree: and he * requeſted † for himſelf i that he might die, and ſaid, It is enough k, now, O LORD, take away my life: for I am not better than my fathers l.

* Jona. 4. 3, 8.

h The vaſt Wilderneſs of Arabia. He durſt not ſtay in Judah, though good Jehoſhaphat reigned there, becauſe he was allied to Ahab, and was a Man of an eaſie Temper, whom Ahab might circumvent, and either by force or art ſeize upon Elijah. i Heb. for his life, or his ſoul, that it might be taken away from his body. Or, with his ſoul, as it is Iſa. 26. 9. i. e. He deſired it heartily or fervently. Which he did not only for his own ſake, that he might be freed from his great fears and troubles; but eſpecially from his zeal for Gods Glory, which he ſaw was and would be dreadfully eclipſed by the relapſe of the Iſraelites into Idolatry, and by Elijah's Death, if it ſhould be procured by the hands of Jezabel, or of the Worſhippers of Baal: and therefore he wiſhed to die in peace, and by the hand of God. k I have lived long enough for thy Service, and am not like to do thee any more Service; neither my words nor works are like to do any good upon theſe unſtable and incorrigible people. l That I ſhould continue in Life, when other Prophets who have gone before me, have loſt their Lives by Jezabel, or other perſecutors.

5 And as he lay and ſlept under a juniper-tree, behold, then an angel touched him, and ſaid unto him, Ariſe and eat.

6 And he looked, and behold, there was a cake baken on the coals, and a cruſe of water at his † head: and he did eat and drink, and laid him down again.

7 And the angel of the LORD came again the ſecond time, and touched him, and ſaid, Ariſe, and eat, becauſe the journey is too great for thee m.

m (i. e.) Above thy ſtrength, now eſpecially when thou art faint, and weary, and faſting.

8 And he aroſe, and did eat and drink, and went in the ſtrength of that meat n * forty days and forty nights, unto * Horeb o the mount of God.

* See Deut. 9. 9, 18.
Mat. 4. 2.

n God giving that Food a far greater and more durable vertue than ordinary. o He wandred hither and thither for 40 days, till at laſt he came to Horeb, which in the direct Road was not above 3 or 4 days journey.

9 ¶ And he came thither unto a cave, and lodged there: and behold the word of the LORD came to him, and he ſaid unto him, What doſt thou here p, Elijah?

p A tacit reproof. This is not thy proper place, nor the ſtation in which I ſet thee, which was in Iſrael, to turn that backſliding people, to which end I gave thee my help, and would have proceeded to aſſiſt thee further, if thou hadſt continued there. Nor did I give thee thoſe excellent gifts to lie idle in this Wilderneſs, but to employ them for thy peoples good, whom now thou haſt deſerted, and art come hither, not by my command, but through thy own fear and cowardice.

10 And he ſaid, I have been very jealous for the LORD God of hoſts q: for the children of Iſrael have forſaken thy covenant, thrown down thine * altars r, and ſlain thy prophets with the ſword: and * I, even I only am left ſ, and they ſeek my life to take it away t.

q I have not been wholly wanting to my vocation, but have executed my Office with zeal for Gods Honour and Service, and with the hazard of my own Life; and am fled hither, not being able to endure to ſee the diſhonour done to thy Name by their obſtinate Idolatry and Wickedneſs. r Thoſe which were erected for thy Worſhip in high-places, which they did not deſtroy, becauſe they were to be aboliſhed by thy Command, Deut. 12. but out of meer contempt and oppoſition againſt thee, and therefore they ſuffered the Altars of Baal to ſtand. ſ To wit, of all thy Prophets, I mean, which do boldly and publickly plead thy Cauſe: for the reſt of thy Prophets, who are not ſlain, hide themſelves, and dare not appear to do thee any Service. t I deſpair of doing them any good: for inſtead of receiving my Teſtimony, they hunt for my Life.

11 And he ſaid, Go forth, and ſtand upon the mount before the LORD. And behold, the LORD paſſed by u, and a * great and ſtrong wind rent the mountains, and brake in pieces the rocks x before the LORD; but the LORD was not in the wind y: and after the wind an earthquake, but the LORD was not in the earthquake.

* Ezek. 1. 4. & 37. 9.

u Either, Firſt by his Harbengers: for, as it follows, the Lord was not yet there. Or, Secondly, Himſelf. And ſo this is a brief and general deſcription of the thing after which the manner of it is particularly explained. x Whereby he both prepares Elijah to receive this diſcovery of God with greateſt humility, reverence, and godly fear; and ſignifies his Almighty and Irreſiſtible Power, to break the hardeſt hearts of the Iſraelites, and to bear down all oppoſition that was or ſhould be made againſt him in the diſcharge of his Office. y The Lord did not vouchſafe his ſpecial and gracious Preſence to Elijah in that Wind, where he confidently expected him: which poſſibly was, Either, Firſt, To qualifie the exceſſive fervour and paſſion of Elijah, which mixed it ſelf with his Zeal for God, and to make him more mild in his Cenſures, and more meek and patient in waiting for the Converſion of Iſrael; wherein he might ſooner expect Gods Preſence and bleſſed ſucceſs, than in the ſtorm of Anger or Impatience. Or, Secondly, To teach him not to wonder if God did not accompany his terrible Adminiſtration at Mount Carmel with the Preſence of his Grace, to turn the hearts of the Iſraelites to himſelf, as he deſired, but God for wiſe and juſt Reaſons ſaw fit to deny.

12 And after the earthquake, a fire; but the LORD was not in the fire: and after the fire a ſtill ſmall voice z.

z Wherein it is implied, That God was preſent. Which peradventure was to inſinuate, that God would do his Work in and for Iſrael in his own time, not by might or power, but by his own ſpirit, Zech. 4. 6. which moves with a powerful, but yet with a ſweet and gentle Gale.

13 And it was ſo, when Elijah heard it, that he wrapped his face in his mantle a, and went out, and ſtood in the entring in of the cave b: and behold, there came a voice unto him, and ſaid, What doſt thou here, Elijah?

a Through horror and dread of Gods preſence, being ſenſible that he was neither worthy nor able to endure the ſight of God with open face. Compare Gen. 16. 13. Exod. 3. 6. b Which God commanded him to do; and as he was going towards the mouth of the Cave, he was affrighted and ſtopped in his courſe, by the dreadful Wind, and Earthquake, and Fire; and, when theſe were paſt, he proſecutes his Journey, and goeth on to the mouth of the Cave, and there ſtands ſtill. Or, the words may be rendred, After (as Vau is elſewhere uſed) he was gone out, and ſtanding in the mouth of the cave: which may be mentioned as the reaſon why he covered his Face, becauſe now he wanted the ſhelter of the Cave.

14 And he ſaid c, I have been very jealous for the LORD God of hoſts: becauſe the children of Iſrael have forſaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars, and ſlain thy prophets with the ſword, and I, even I only am left, and they ſeek my life, to take it away.

c What before he ſpake by an Angel, he now ſpeaks to him again immediately.

15 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Go, return on thy way d to the wilderneſs of Damaſcus: and when thou comeſt, anoint Hazael to be king over Syria e.

d By which thou cameſt; for ſo in part lay the way from Horeb to Damaſcus. e Anoint: Either, Firſt, Figuratively, i. e. appoint or declare him King; which was done, 2 Kings 8. 12. For this word is oft uſed of them who were anointed with Oil, Pſal. 45. 7. Iſa. 45. 1. & 61. 1. Zech. 4. 14. Dan. 9. 24. Or, Secondly, Properly; which might be done, though it be not related. Again, anoint, either, by thy ſelf, or, by another: for ſo he anointed Jehu by Eliſha, 2 Kings 9. 1, 6.

16 And * Jehu the ſon of Nimſhi f ſhalt thou anoint to be king over Iſrael: and * Eliſha g the ſon of Shaphat of Abel-meholah, ſhalt thou anoint to be prophet in thy room.

* 2 Kin. 9. 1, 23.
* Luke 4. 27. called Eliæus.

f (i. e.) His Grand-ſon, for he was the ſon of Jehoſhaphat, 2 Kings 9. 2. g Whom he conſtituted Prophet, by caſting his Mantle over him, here, v. 19.

17 And it ſhall come to paſs, that him that eſcapeth the ſword of Hazael, ſhall Jehu ſlay; and him that eſcapeth from the ſword of Jehu, ſhall Eliſha ſlay h.

h Here the order of times ſeems to be perverted; for Eliſha was Prophet before Jehu or Hazael were Kings, and Hazael was King before Jehu. But that is of no moment as to the ſubſtance of the thing threatned, which is only this, That one or other of theſe ſhould infallibly execute Gods Judgments upon the Apoſtatical Iſraelites. Eliſha is ſaid to ſlay them, either, becauſe he ſlew thoſe 42 Children, 2 Kings 2. 24. beſides others, whom upon like occaſions he might deſtroy; or, becauſe he by Gods appointment, inflicted the Famine, 2 Kings 6. 31. or rather, by the ſword which came out of his mouth, as Iſa. 49. 2. Rev. 1. 16. and 19. 15. 21. by his cutting prophecies and threatnings of Gods Judgments: the Prophets being ſaid to pull down and to deſtroy what they only declare and foretel ſhall be pulled down, &c. Hazael began to ſlay them before Jehu was King, 2 Kings 8. 28. tho his cruelty was much increaſed afterward, 2 Kings 10. 32. & 13. 1, 2, 3. and Jehu deſtroyed thoſe whom Hazael did not, as King Joram himſelf, and Ahaziah, and his 42 brethren, 2 Kings 9. 24, 27. & 10. 14. all the near Relations of wicked Ahab.

18 * Yet ‖ I have left i me ſeven thouſand k in Iſrael, all the knees which have not bowed unto Baal, and every mouth which hath not kiſſed him l.

* Rom. 11. 4.
‖ Or, I will leave.

i Or, I have reſerved to my ſelf; I have by my Grace kept from the common contagion: therefore thou art miſtaken to think that thou art left alone, or that the People are univerſally corrupted. Or, I will reſerve, from the ſlaughters laſt mentioned, and from Jezabel's Rage. k Either, definitely, ſo many: or rather, indefinitely, for many thouſands; the number of ſeven being oft uſed for a great number, as Lev. 26. 18. Pſal. 12. 6. Mic. 5. 5. Zech. 3. 9. Luke 17. 4. For it is altogether improbable that all the Iſraelites, except 7000, did worſhip Baal: except Baal be here Synecdochically put for all their Idols, and the Calves among others. l (i. e.) All thoſe who have not worſhipped Baal, nor profeſſed reverence or ſubjection to him: which Idolaters did to their Idols, by bowing the Knee, Rom. 11. 4. compare Rom. 14. 11. Phil. 2. 10. and by kiſſing them, or by kiſſing their hand with their mouth, before them, and in reſpect to them; of which mention is made both in Scripture, as Job 31. 26, 27. Hoſ. 13. 2. compare Pſal. 2. 12. and in Pliny, Apuleius, and other profane Authors. And God chuſeth theſe expreſſions here, to teach men, that it is not ſufficient to deny inward veneration of mind and heart to Idols, unleſs they do alſo forbear all outward ſignifications of worſhip or reverence to them; and that he will own none for his people that do otherwiſe.

19 ¶ So he departed thence, and found Eliſha the ſon of Shaphat, who was plowing with twelve yoke of oxen before him, and he with the twelfth m: and Elijah paſſed by him, and caſt his mantle upon him n.

m Who had twelve Ploughs going, whereof eleven were managed by his ſervants, and the laſt by himſelf; according to the ſimplicity and humility of thoſe ancient times, in which men of good Worth and Eſtate ſubmitted themſelves to the meaneſt employments. n By that Ceremony conferring upon him the Office of a Propher, which God was pleaſed to accompany with the Gifts and Graces of his Spirit, wherewith he endowed and qualified him for it. The Mantle was the uſual Habit of the Prophets. See 2 Kings 1. 8. Zech. 13. 4. But whether he did alſo anoint him, is uncertain. See the Note on v. 16.

20 And he left the oxen, and ran after Elijah o, and ſaid p, Let * me, I pray thee, kiſs my father, and my mother q, and then I will follow thee. And he ſaid unto him, † Go back again r; for what have I done to thee ſ?

* Mat. 8. 21, 22.

o Being powerfully moved by Gods Spirit to follow Elijah, and wholly to give up himſelf to his Function. p Or, but he ſaid: or, yet he ſaid. q (i. e.) Bid them farewel by the uſual Ceremony. See Gen. 29. 11. & 31. 28. Acts 20. 37. r And take thy leave of them, as thou deſireſt, and then return to me again. ſ Either, Firſt, To hinder thee from performing that Office. That Employment to which I have called thee, doth not require an alienation of thy heart from thy Parents, nor the total neglect of them. Or, Secondly, To make ſuch a change in thee, that thou ſhouldſt be willing to forſake thy Parents, and Lands, and All, and deſire only this liberty to go and bid them farewel, that thou maiſt follow me. Whence comes this marvellous change? It is not from me, who did only throw my Mantle over thee; but from an higher Power, even from Gods Spirit, which hath changed thy heart, and conſecrated thee to thy Prophetical Office, which therefore it concerns thee vigorouſly to execute, and wholly to devote thy ſelf to it.

21 And he returned back from him t, and took a yoke of oxen, and ſlew them, and boiled their fleſh with the inſtruments of the oxen u, and gave unto the people x, and they did eat: then he aroſe, and went after Elijah, and miniſtred unto him.

t From Eliæ to his Parents; whom when he had ſeen and kiſſed, he returned to the Field where Elijah was. u (i. e.) With the wood belonging to the Plow, &c. to which more was added, as occaſion required. But that he burned, to ſhew his total relinquiſhing of his former Employment. x (i. e.) He made thereof a Feaſt for his Servants who had been plowing with him, and for him, and his other Friends and Neighbours who came to take their leave of him. Hereby he ſhewed how willingly and joyfully he forſook all his friends, that he might ſerve God in that high and honourable employment.

CHAP. XX.

1 AND Ben-hadad a the king of Syria gathered all his hoſt together b, and there were thirty and two kings c with him, and horſes, and chariots: and he went up and beſieged Samaria, and warred againſt it.

a Called Adad by Joſephus, and Ader by the LXX, and Adores by Juſtin; ſuch changes of names being uſual in their Tranſlations into other Languages, and by other Authors. b To war againſt Iſrael: wherein his deſign was to amplifie the Conqueſts which his Father had made, chap. 15. 20. but Gods deſign was to puniſh Iſrael for their Apoſtacy and Idolatry. c Petty Kings, ſuch as were in Canaan in Joſhua's time, who indeed were no more than Governors of Cities, or ſmall Territories. Theſe were either ſubject or Tributary to Benhadad, or hired by him.

2 And he ſent meſſengers to Ahab king of Iſrael into the city, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Ben-hadad, 3 Thy ſilver and thy gold is mine d, thy wives alſo and thy children, even the goodlieſt, are mine.

d I challenge them as my own, and accordingly expect to have them forthwith delivered into my poſſeſſion, if thou expecteſt peace with me.

4 And the king of Iſrael anſwered and ſaid, My lord, O king, according to thy ſaying, I am thine, and all that I have e.

e I do ſo far comply with thy demand, that I will own thee for my Lord, and my ſelf for thy Vaſſal and Tributary; and will hold my Wives, and Children, and Eſtate, as by thy favour, vour, and with an acknowledgment. But it is not likely that he would deliver up his Wives and Children into the Barbarian's hand, or that his proud and imperious Wife Jezabel would permit him to do so.

5 And the meſſengers came again, and ſaid, Thus ſpeaketh Ben-hadad, ſaying, Although I have ſent unto thee, ſaying, Thou ſhalt deliver me thy ſilver and thy gold, and thy wives, and thy children f:

f Although I did before demand not only the dominion of thy Treaſures, and Wives, and Children, as thou maiſt ſeem to underſtand me, but alſo the Propriety and actual Poſſeſſion of them; wherewith I would then have been contented.

6 Yet I will ſend my ſervants unto thee to morrow about this time, and they ſhall ſearch thine houſe, and the houſes of thy ſervants, and it ſhall be, that whatſoever is † pleaſant in thine eyes, they ſhall put it in their hand, and take it away g.

g Yet now I will not accept of thoſe terms, but together with thy Royal Treaſures, I expect all the Treaſures of thy Servants or Subjects; nor will I wait till thou deliver them to me, but I will ſend my Servants into the City, and they ſhall have free liberty and power to ſearch out and take away all which they deſire, and this to prevent fraud and delay; and then I will grant thee a peace.

7 Then the king of Iſrael called all the elders of the land h, and ſaid, Mark, I pray you, and ſee how this man ſeeketh miſchief i: for he ſent unto me for my wives, and for my children, and for my ſilver, and for my gold, and † I denied him not k.

† Heb. I kept not back from him.

h Whoſe counſel and concurrence he now deſires in his diſtreſs. i Though he pretended peace, and a friendly agreement upon theſe terms propounded, it is apparent by thoſe additional demands, That he intends nothing leſs than our utter ruin. k I granted his demands in the ſenſe before mentioned.

8 And all the elders, and all the people ſaid unto him, Hearken not unto him, nor conſent.

9 Wherefore he ſaid unto the meſſengers of Ben-hadad, Tell my lord the king, All that thou didſt ſend for to thy ſervant at the firſt, I will do: but this thing I may not do l. And the meſſengers departed, and brought him word again.

l If I would do it, I cannot, becauſe my people will not ſuffer it.

10 And Ben-hadad ſent unto him, and ſaid, * The gods do ſo unto me, and more alſo, if the duſt of Samaria ſhall ſuffice for handfuls for all the people that † follow me m.

* chap. 19. 2.

m If I do not aſſault thy City with ſo potent and numerous an Army, that ſhall turn all thy City into an heap of Duſt, and ſhall be ſufficient to carry it all away, though every Soldier take but one handful of it. See the like boaſt, 2 Sam. 17. 13.

11 And the king of Iſrael anſwered and ſaid, Tell him, Let not him that girdeth on his harneſs, boaſt himſelf, as he that putteth it off n.

n Do not triumph before the Fight and Victory, for the Events of War are uncertain.

12 And it came to paſs, when Ben-hadad heard this † meſſage (as he was drinking, he and the kings in the ‖ pavillions) that he ſaid unto his ſervants, ‖ Set your ſelves in array o: And they ſet themſelves in array againſt the city.

† Heb. Word. ‖ Or, Tents. ‖ Or, Place the Engines. And they placed Engines.

o Put your ſelves and Engines in order, to make the Aſſault.

13 ¶ And behold, there † came a prophet p unto Ahab king of Iſrael, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD q, Haſt thou ſeen all this great multitude? behold, I will deliver it into thine hand this day; and thou ſhalt know that I am the LORD r.

p VVho having hid himſelf before, now ventures to come to Ahab, having this welcome Meſſage in his Mouth. q God, tho forſaken and neglected by Ahab, prevents him with his gracious promiſe of help; partly, That Ahab and the Idolatrous Iſraelites, might hereby be fully convinced and won to God, or left without all Excuſe: and partly, that Ben-hadad's intolerable pride, and contempt of God, and of his people, might be repreſſed and puniſhed: and partly, that the remnant of his Prophets and People who were involved in the ſame calamity with the reſt of the Iſraelites, might be preſerved and delivered. r And not Baal, becauſe I will deliver thee, which he cannot do.

14 And Ahab ſaid, By whom? And he ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, Even by the ‖ young men of the princes of the provinces ſ. Then he ſaid, Who ſhall † order the Battel? And he anſwered, Thou t.

‖ Or, Servants.

ſ Not by Old and Experienced Soldiers, but by thoſe Young Men; either the Sons of the Princes, and great men of the Land, who were generally fled thither for ſafety; or their Pages, or Servants that uſed to attend upon them; who are bred up delicately, and ſeem unfit for the buſineſs. t Partly, to encourage the Young Men to fight courageouſly, as being in the preſence of their Prince: and partly, that it might appear, that the Victory was wholly due to God's gracious and powerful Providence, and not to the Valour or Worthineſs of the Inſtruments.

15 Then he numbred the young men of the princes of the provinces, and they were two hundred and thirty two: and after them he numbred all the people, even all the children of Iſrael u, being ſeven thouſand x.

u Either, 1. All the Men; for they only went out to battel; and the reſt of the Men might be conſumed with the Sword or Famine, or other Judgments: Or rather, 2. All the Men of War, or all that were fit to go out to war; all, except thoſe whom their Age, or Infirmity, or other ſufficient cauſes excuſed. x Which number may poſſibly be noted with reſpect unto thoſe 7000, commended chap. 19. 18. for whoſe ſakes principally God gave this deliverance.

16 And they went out at noon y: but Ben-hadad was drinking himſelf drunk in the pavillions, he and the kings, the thirty and two kings that helped him.

y When they were eating, and drinking, and ſecure from all fear and expectation of an Aſſault.

17 And the young men of the princes of the provinces went out firſt, and Ben hadad ſent out, and they told him, ſaying, There are men come out of Samaria.

18 And he ſaid, Whether they be come out for peace, take them alive; or whether they be come out for war, take them alive z.

z He bids them not fight, for he thought they needed not to ſtrike one ſtroke; and that the Iſraelites could not ſtand the firſt brunt.

19 So theſe young men of the princes of the provinces came out of the city, and the army which followed them.

20 And they ſlew every one his man a: and the Syrians fled b, and Iſrael purſued them: and Ben-hadad the king of Syria eſcaped on an horſe, with the horſemen.

a (i. e.) Him who came to fight with him, or to ſeize upon him, as Ben-hadad had commanded. b Being amazed at the unexpected and undaunted courage of the Iſraelites, and being ſtruck with a Divine Terror.

21 And the king of Iſrael went out c, and ſmote the horſes and chariots d, and ſlew the Syrians with a great ſlaughter.

c (i. e.) Proceeded further in his March, and fought againſt them. d (i. e.) The men that fought from them, or belonged to them: for ſo Horſes and Chariots are ſometimes taken. See on 1 Sam. 13. 5.

22 ¶ And the prophet came to the king of Iſrael, and ſaid unto him, Go, ſtrengthen thy ſelf, and mark, and ſee what thou doeſt e: for at the return of the year f the king of Syria will come up againſt thee.

e Conſider what is fit and neceſſary for thee to do by way of preparation, or prevention. f Next year about this time, when the ſeaſon comes of going forth to battel: of which ſee 2 Sam. 11. 1. 1 Chron. 20. 1. 2 Chron. 36. 10.

23 And the ſervants of the king of Syria ſaid, unto him g, Their gods are gods of the hills, therefore they were ſtronger than we: but let us fight againſt them in the plain h, and ſurely we ſhall be ſtronger than they.

g They ſuppoſe that their gods were no better than the Syrian gods (which the Idolatry of the Iſraelites had given them too great cauſe to imagine; and that there were many gods who had each his particular charge and juriſdiction; which was the Opinion of all Heathen Nations, That ſome were gods of the Woods, others of the Rivers, and others of of the Mountains; and they fanfied theſe to be either, becauſe the Land of Canaan was a Mountainous Land, Deut. 12. 2. And the great Temple of their God at Jeruſalem ſtood upon an hill, and ſo did Samaria, where they had received their laſt blow: or becauſe the Iſraelites did generally chuſe high places for the worſhip of their gods. It is obſervable, that they do not impute their ill ſucceſs to their Negligence, and Drunkenneſs, and bad Conduct, or Cowardice, of which they were really guilty; nor to the Valour of the Iſraelites; but to a Divine Power, which indeed was viſible in it. h Wherein there was not only Superſtition, but Policy; becauſe the Syrians moſt excelled the Iſraelites in Horſes, which are moſt ſerviceable in plain ground.

24 And do this thing, Take the kings away every man out of his place i, and put captains k in their rooms.

i Who being of ſofter Education, and leſs experienced in Military Matters, were leſs fit for his Service; and being many of them but Mercenaries, and therefore leſs concerned in his good Succeſs, would be more negligent and cautious in venturing themſelves for his good. k (i.e.) Experienced Soldiers of his own Subjects, who will faithfully obey the Commands of the General (to which the Kings would not ſo readily yield) and uſe their utmoſt Skill and Valour for their own Intereſt and Advancement.

25 And number thee an army, like the army† that thou haſt loſt, horſe for horſe, and chariot for chariot: and we will fight againſt them in the plain, and ſurely we ſhall be ſtronger than they. And he hearkened unto their voice, and did ſo.

26 And it came to paſs at the return of the year, that Ben-hadad numbred the Syrians, and went up to Aphek l † to fight againſt Iſrael.

† Heb. to the War with Iſrael.

l Not that in Judah; of which, Joſ. 13. 4. & 15. 53. but that in Aſher; of which Joſ. 19. 30. Judg. 1. 31. nigh unto which was the great Plain of Galilee. And this ſeems to be one of thoſe Cities which Ben-hadad's Father had taken from Iſrael, ver. 34. Here alſo the Syrians might retreat, if they ſhould be worſted.

27 And the children of Iſrael were numbred, and ‖ were all preſent m, and went againſt them n: and the children of Iſrael pitched before them o, like two little flocks of kids p: but the Syrians filled the country.

m (i.e.) All the Forces of the Iſraelites were here gathered together, to oppoſe the Syrians: ſo if thoſe had been conquered, all had been loſt. n Being perſwaded, and encouraged ſo to do; partly, to prevent the Miſchiefs of a Siege in Samaria, and the waſte of all the reſt of their country: and partly, by the remembrance of their former ſucceſs, and an expectation of the ſame aſſiſtance from God again. o Probably upon ſome hilly ground, where they might ſecure themſelves, and watch for advantage againſt their Enemies, which may be the reaſon why the Syrians durſt not aſſault them before the Seventh Day, ver. 29. p (i.e.) Few, and weak, and heartleſs; being alſo for conveniency of fighting, and that they might ſeem to be more than they were, divided into two bodies.

28 ¶ And there came a man of God, and ſpake unto the king of Iſrael, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, Becauſe the Syrians have ſaid q, The LORD is God of the hills, but he is not God of the valleys: therefore will I deliver all this great multitude into thine hand, and ye ſhall know that I am the LORD r.

q Which he knew, either by common Report, ſtrengthned by their preſent choice of a plain ground for the battel: or rather, by Revelation from God, who diſcovered their ſecret counſels, 2 King. 6. 12. r To wit, the Univerſal Lord of all places, and perſons, and things.

29 And they pitched one over-againſt the other ſeven days, and ſo it was, that in the ſeventh day the battel was joyned, and the children of Iſrael ſlew of the Syrians an hundred thouſand footmen in one day.

30 But the reſt fled to Aphek into the city, and there a wall ſ fell upon twenty and ſeven thouſand of the men that were left: and Ben-hadad fled, and came into the city t, ‖ † into an inner-chamber u.

ſ Or, the walls (the Singular Number for the Plural; than which, nothing more frequent) of the City; or of ſome great Caſtle, or Fort, in, or near the City, in which they were now fortifying themſelves; or of ſome part of the City where they lay. Which might poſſibly happen through Natural Cauſes; but moſt probably, was effected by the mighty power of God, then ſending ſome ſudden Earthquake, or violent Storm of Wind, which threw down the VVall, or VValls upon them; or doing this by the Miniſtery of Angels. VVhich cannot be incredible to any Man, except to him that denies the Truth of all the Miracles Recorded in the Old and New Teſtament; which being atteſted, many of them, by Jews and Heathens, it is the height of Folly and Impudence to deny. For if ever Miracle was to be wrought, now ſeems to have been the proper time and ſeaſon for it; when the Blaſphemous Syrians denied the Soveraign and Infinite Power of God, and thereby in ſome ſort obliged him, for his own Honour, to give a proof of it; and to ſhew, That he was the God of the Plains, as well as of the Mountains; and that he could as effectually deſtroy them in their ſtrongeſt Holds, as in the open fields; and make the very VValls, to whoſe ſtrength they truſted for their Defence, to be the Inſtruments of their Ruine. But it may be further obſerved, that it is not ſaid, That all theſe were killed by the fall of this VVall; but only that the wall fell upon them, killing ſome, and wounding others, as is uſual in thoſe Caſes. Nor is it neceſſary, that the VVall ſhould fall upon every individual perſon; but it is ſufficient to juſtifie this phraſe, if it fell upon the main body of them; for the words in the Hebrew run thus, the wall fell upon 27000. (not of the men that are left, as we render it, but) which were left of, that great Army. t Either, 1. Out of the Fields, as the reſt of his Army did. VVhich is diſtinctly, and particularly noted of him, becauſe he was the moſt Eminent Perſon in it, and the Head of it. Compare the Title of Pſal. 18. Or. 2. At, and from the noiſe and report of that terrible fall of the VVall, or VValls: which poſſibly might be in the out-ſide, or Suburbs of the City; from whence he fled further into the City. u Or, a chamber within a chamber: where he ſuppoſed he might lie hid, till he had an opportunity of making an Eſcape, or of obtaining Mercy.

31 ¶ And his ſervants ſaid unto him, Behold now, we have heard that the kings of the houſe of Iſrael are merciful kings x: let us, I pray thee, put ſackcloth on our loins, and ropes upon our heads y, and go out to the king of Iſrael, peradventure he will ſave thy life.

x More merciful than others, becauſe that Religion which they had profeſſed, taught them Humanity, and obliged them to ſhew Mercy. y As a teſtimony of our ſorrow, for undertaking this War; and that we have juſtly forfeited our Lives for it, which we ſubmit to their Mercy.

32 So they girded ſackcloth on their loins, and put ropes on their heads, and came to the king of Iſrael, and ſaid, Thy ſervant Ben-hadad ſaith, I pray thee let me live. And he ſaid, Is he yet alive? he is my brother z.

z I do not only freely pardon him, but honour and love him as my brother.

33 Now the men did diligently obſerve, whether any thing would come from him, and did haſtily catch it a: and they ſaid, Thy brother Ben-hadad b. Then he ſaid, Go ye, bring him: then Ben-hadad came forth to him; and he cauſed him to come up into the chariot.

a Or, they took that Word for a good token, and made haſte and ſnatched it (i.e.) that Word from him, i. e. from his mouth; they repeated the word again, to try whether the King would own it, or it only dropt caſually from him; or made haſte to know, whether it was from him: i. e. Whether he ſpoke this from his heart, or only in diſſimulation or deſign: for it ſeemed too good news to be true. b Underſtand, liveth: for that he enquired after, ver. 32.

34 And Benhadad ſaid unto him, The cities which my father took from thy father c, I will reſtore, and thou ſhalt make ſtreets d for thee in Damaſcus as my father made in Samaria. Then ſaid Ahab, I will ſend thee away with this covenant e. So he made a covenant with him, and ſent him away.

c Either, 1. From Baaſha, chap. 15. 20. whom he calls Ahab's Father, becauſe he was his Legal Father; i. e. his Predeceſſor. Or, 2. From Omri; in whoſe time, it ſeems, he made a ſucceſsful Invaſion into the Land of Iſrael, and took ſome more of the Cities, and Aphek amongſt the reſt; though it be not elſewhere Recorded in Scripture. d Or, markets, &c. places where thou maiſt either receive the Tribute which I promiſe to pay thee, or exerciſe Judicature upon my Subjects in caſe of their Refuſal. Or Outlets (as the LXX render it) in or into Damaſcus; i. e. Some ſtrong Fort near Damaſcus, which might curb the Kings of Damaſcus, and keep them from attempting any other Invaſion into the Land of Iſrael. e He takes no notice of his Blaſphemy againſt God; nor of the vaſt Injuries which his People had ſuffered from him, but only minds his own Grandeur, and the advancement of his Power.

35 ¶ And a certain man of the ſons of the prophets ſaid unto his neighbour f in the word of the LORD g, Smite me h, I pray thee. And the man refuſed to ſmite him i.

f Or, Brother, another ſon of the Prophets. g In the Name, and by the Command of God, whereof doubtleſs he had informed him. h So as to wound me, ver. 37. He ſpeaks what God commanded him, though it was to his own hurt; by which obedience to God, he ſecretly reproacheth Ahab's diſobedience in a far eaſier matter. And this Prophet by God's appointment deſires, that looking like a wounded Soldier, he might have the more free acceſs to the King, and diſcourſe with him; which it was very hard for a Prophet to obtain, that ſort of men being hateful to Ahab, chap. 22. 8. and to his Courtiers. i Not out of contempt of God's command, but moſt probably, in tenderneſs and compaſſion to his Brother.

36 Then ſaid he unto him, Becauſe thou haſt not obeyed the voice of the LORD, behold, as ſoon as thou art departed from me, a lion ſhall ſlay thee. And aſſoon as he was departed from him, a * lion found him, and ſlew him k.

* chap. 13. 24.

k If the Puniſhment ſeem too ſevere for ſo ſmall fault, let it be conſidered, 1. That Diſobedience to Gods Expreſs Command, eſpecially when it is delivered by a Prophet, is a great ſin, and no leſs than Capital, Deut. 18. 19. 2. This fault was much worſe in a Prophet, who very well knew the Authority of God's Commands, and this way or manner of publiſhing them. 3. We cannot judge of the caſe, becauſe this Man might be guilty of many other heinous ſins unknown to us, but known to God; for which, God might juſtly cut him off; which God choſe to do upon this occaſion, that by the ſeverity of this puniſhment of a Prophets Diſobedience, proceeding from pity to his Brother, he might teach Ahab the greatneſs of his ſin, in ſparing him through fooliſh pity; whom by the Laws of Religion, and Juſtice, and Prudence, and common Safety, he ſhould have cut off, and what puniſhment he might expect for it.

37 Then he found another man, and ſaid, Smite me, I pray thee. And the man ſmote him, † ſo that in ſmiting he wounded him.

38 So the prophet departed, and waited for the king by the way, and diſguiſed himſelf l with aſhes m upon his face.

l That he might ſooner gain acceſs to the King, and Audience from him. See on, ver. 35. m Whereby he changed the colour of it. Or, with a veil, or cloth, or band; (as the Hebrew Doctors underſtand the Word) whereby he might ſeem to have bound up his Wound, which probably was in his face; for it was to be made in a very conſpicuous place, that it might be viſible to Ahab and others.

39 And as the king paſſed by, he cried unto the king: and he ſaid n, Thy ſervant went out into the midſt of the battel, and behold, a man o turned aſide, and brought a man unto me, and ſaid, Keep this man: if by any means he be miſſing, then ſhall thy life be for his life p, or elſe thou ſhalt † pay a talent of ſilver.

n This following Relation is not an untruth, but a Parable; an uſual way of Inſtruction in the Eaſtern parts, and ancient times, and moſt fit for this occaſion, wherein an obſcure Prophet was to ſpeak to a great King; whoſe Ears were tender, and impatient of a downright Reproof, and exceeding partial in his own Cauſe; who by this Artifice is made to condemn himſelf, before he was aware of it, and ſo forced to receive the Prophet's juſt Sentence with more patience and moderation: Compare 1 Sam. 12. & 14. o My Commander or Superior, as the manner of his Expreſſion here following ſheweth. p Thou ſhalt die in his ſtead; as below, ver. 42. Compare Exod. 21. 23.

40 And as thy ſervant was buſie here and there, † he was gone. And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto him, So ſhall thy judgment q be, thy ſelf haſt decided it.

† Heb. he was not.

q (i. e.) Thy Sentence; or the Sentence againſt thee: thou muſt perform the Condition to which thou didſt ſubmit. Either ſuffer the one, or do the other.

41 And he haſted, and took the aſhes away from his face: and the king of Iſrael diſcerned him that he was of the prophets r.

r Either, 1. By his Face, which was known either to the King, or to ſome of his Courtiers there preſent. Or 2. By the change of the manner of his Addreſs to him, which now was ſuch as the Prophets uſed.

42 And he ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, * Becauſe thou haſt let go out of thy hand a man † whom I appointed to utter deſtruction, therefore thy life ſhall go for his life ſ, and thy people for his people t.

* chap. 22. 37. † Heb. of my curſe.

ſ Queſt. What was the great ſin of Ahab in this Action, for which God ſo ſeverely puniſheth him? Anſ. The great diſhonour hereby done to God, in ſuffering ſo horrid a Blaſphemer, ver. 23. to go unpuniſhed, which was contrary to an expreſs Law, Lev. 24. 16. Obj. What is this to Ben-hadad, ſeeing that Law concerned Iſraelites only? Anſ. It reached both to them that were born in the land, and (as is there expreſſed) unto ſtrangers that were among them, and in their power, which was Ben-hadad's caſe; for God had delivered him into Ahab's hand, for his Blaſphemy, as he promiſed to do, ver. 28. by which act of his Providence, eſpecially compared with that Law, it was moſt evident, that this man was appointed by God to deſtruction, as is here ſaid. But Ahab was ſo far from puniſhing this Blaſphemer, that he doth not ſo much as rebuke him, but treats him like a Friend, and a Brother; diſmiſſeth him upon eaſie terms, and takes his Word for the performance, and takes not the leaſt care for the Reparation of Gods Honour, but only for the amplification of his own Power, t Queſt. Why were the people puniſhed for Ahab's ſin? Anſ. 1. Becauſe Ahab was puniſhed in the loſs of his people. 2. The people were puniſhed for their own ſins, which were many, and great; though God took this occaſion to inflict it. 3. The great injury and miſchief hereby done to his own people; who by this moſt fooliſh and wicked act, were expoſed to all thoſe Rapines and Slaughters which Ben-hadad either did commit, or might have committed againſt them afterwards; of which, conſequently Ahab was guilty. And it muſt be conſidered, That all the Iſraelites were the Lords peculiar people; nor did their Apoſtacy from God, deprive God of his right; and the Kings of Iſrael and Judah had theſe committed to them, in way of Truſt, to be governed and protected by them. And therefore Ahab for this groſs breach of his Truſt, was juſtly liable, though not to the Cenſures of his People, yet to the hand of God, who was his King and Governour.

43 And the King of Iſrael went to his houſe, heavy and diſpleaſed u, and came to Samaria.

u Not for his ſin, but for the ſad Effects of it upon himſelf, and people; which he might confidently expect, having had many experiences, that God did not ſuffer the words of his Prophets to fall to the ground.

CHAP. XXI.

1 AND it came to paſs after theſe things, that Naboth the Jezreelite had a vineyard, which was in Jezreel a, hard by the palace of Ahab king of Samaria.

a Where one of Ahab's Palaces was, as the other was in Samaria.

2 And Ahab ſpake unto Naboth, ſaying, Give me thy * vineyard, that I may have it for a garden of herbs, becauſe it is near unto my houſe, and I will give thee for it a better vineyard than it: or if it † ſeem good to thee, I will give thee the worth of it in money.

* 1 Sam. 8. 14. † Heb. be good in thine eyes.

3 And Naboth ſaid to Ahab, the LORD forbid it me, that I ſhould give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee b.

b For God hath expreſly, and for divers weighty reaſons forbidden the alienation of Lands from the Tribes and Families to which they were allotted, Lev. 25. 15, 23, 25. Numb. 36. 7. Ezek. 46. 18. And although theſe might have been alienated till the Jubilee, yet he durſt not ſell it to the King for that time; becauſe he ſuppoſed, that if once it came into the King's hand, eſpecially to be made a Garden of Pleaſure, and affixed to his Palace, neither he nor his poſterity could ever recover it again; and ſo he ſhould both offend God, and wrong his poſterity; which, being as it ſeems, a pious Man, he durſt not do.

4 And Ahab came into his houſe, heavy and diſpleaſed, becauſe of the word which Naboth the Jezreelite had ſpoken to him: for he had ſaid, I will not give thee the inheritance of my fathers: and he laid him down upon his bed, and turned away his face c, and would eat no bread d.

c From the Light, and Company which either then were with him, or might come to him, to the Wall, as Hezekiah did under a like dejection of Spirit, Iſa. 38. 2. d Refuſed to eat meat in his uſual time.

5 ¶ But Jezebel his wife came to him, and ſaid unto him, Why is thy ſpirit ſo ſad, that thou eateſt no bread?

6 And

7 And he ſaid unto her, Becauſe I ſpake unto Naboth the Jezreelite, and ſaid unto him, Give me thy vineyard for money; or elſe, if it pleaſe thee, I will give thee another vineyard for it: and he anſwered, I will not give thee my vineyard.

8 And Jezebel his wife ſaid unto him, Doeſt thou now govern the kingdom of Iſrael e? ariſe, and eat bread, and let thine heart be merry: I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite.

e Art thou fit to be King, that canſt put up ſuch Affronts from thy ſubjects, and haſt not the Courage to uſe thy abſolute power to diſpoſe of them, and theirs, as ſeemeth good unto thee?

9 So ſhe wrote letters in Ahabs name, and ſealed them with his ſeal, and ſent the letters unto the elders, and to the nobles f that were in his city, dwelling with Naboth.

f Whom ſhe very well knew to be fit for her purpoſe. g (i.e.) In Jezreel. So ſhe ſeeks to deſtroy him with a pretence of Juſtice, and with as little reflection upon Ahab, as might be.

9 And ſhe wrote in the letters, ſaying, Proclaim a faſt h, and ſet Naboth † on high i among the people.

† Heb. in the top of the people.

h To remove all ſuſpicion of hatred, or evil deſign in Ahab, and to beget a good Opinion of him amongſt his people, as if his afflictions had done him good, and as if he were grown zealous for Gods Honour, and careful of his peoples welfare, and therefore deſirous to prevent the further diſpleaſure of God againſt his City and Kingdom, and in order thereunto, to enquire into all thoſe ſins which provoked God againſt them, and effectually to purge them out. i On a ſcaffold, or ſome other high-place, where Malefactors were uſually and aptly placed, that they might be ſeen, and their defence heard by all the people.

10 And ſet two men, ſons of Belial, before him, to bear witneſs againſt him, ſaying, Thou didſt † * blaſpheme k God and the king: and then carry him out l, and * ſtone him m that he may die n.

† Heb. bleſs. So Gr. Job 2. 5, 9.
* Act. 6. 11.
* Lev. 24. 14.

k Heb. Bleſs. Bleſſing is put for curſing and blaſpheming, as Job 1. 11. & 2. 9. ſo alſo here, as is apparent, becauſe his bleſſing God and the king had been no Crime. It is a Figure called Euphemiſmus. God would have Blaſphemy ſo much abhorred, that it ſhould not eaſily and unneceſſarily be named by its proper name. Compare Pſal. 16. 4. l To the place where Malefactors were puniſhed, which was out of the City, Lev. 24. 23. Joſ. 7. 24. Mar. 15. 20. Heb. 13. 12. partly, to ſhew that they were unworthy of all humane ſociety, and abhorred by all the people: and partly, becauſe the place where they were killed, was thereby ceremonially polluted. m The proper puniſhment of Blaſphemers, Lev. 24. 15, 16. n As one that curſed his God, and his political Father, his King. See Exod. 21. 17. & 22. 28.

11 And the men of his city, even the elders and the nobles, who were the inhabitants in his city, did as Jezebel had ſent unto them o, and as it was written in the letters which ſhe had ſent unto them.

o Which is not at all ſtrange in them who had for a long time caſt off the fear and ſenſe of God, and proſtituted their Conſciences and Religion to pleaſe their King, and ſold themſelves to all manner of wickedneſs, and could not now make a ſafe and honourable retreat, and durſt not diſobey Jezebel's command, by whom they knew the King was wholly governed, and who could eaſily have taken away their lives in the ſame manner, if they had refuſed to kill Naboth.

12 They proclaimed a faſt, and ſet Naboth on high among the people.

13 And there came in two men, children of Belial, and ſat before him: and the men of Belial witneſſed againſt him, even againſt Naboth, in the preſence of the people, ſaying, Naboth did † blaſpheme God and the king. Then they carried him forth out of the city, and ſtoned * him p with ſtones, that he died.

† Heb. bleſs. So Gr.
* 2 Kin. 9. 26.

p And his Sons with him, as it may be thought from 2 King. 9. 26. that ſo the King might have an undiſturbed poſſeſſion: for which they might pretend thoſe Examples, Numb. 16. 32. Joſ. 7. 24. But theſe were Examples of extraordinary vengeance, and by ſpecial warrant from God; and the Law of God was poſitively contrary to it, Deut. 24. 16.

14 Then they ſent to Jezebel q, ſaying, Naboth is ſtoned, and is dead.

q By whom they knew the Affairs of the Kingdom were managed, and this Deſign contrived.

15 ¶ And it came to paſs, when Jezebel heard that Naboth was ſtoned, and was dead, that Jezebel ſaid to Ahab, Ariſe, take poſſeſſion of the vineyard of Naboth r the Jezreelite, which he refuſed to give thee for money: for Naboth is not alive, but dead.

r Either, Firſt, By right of confiſcation, to repair the injury which he did to the King by blaſpheming him. Or, Secondly, By tyrannical Uſurpation. Or, Thirdly, By right of Inheritance: for ſome ſay that Ahab was his next Kinſman, his Sons being dead; which they judge more likely, becauſe his Land was next to the Kings.

16 And it came to paſs, when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, that Ahab roſe up to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, to take poſſeſſion of it.

17 ¶ And the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tiſhbite, ſaying, 18 Ariſe, go down to meet Ahab king of Iſrael, which is in Samaria ſ: behold, he is t in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he is gone down to poſſeſs it.

ſ Either, who now is there, and about to depart thence to Jezreel: or, who commonly dwells there. t Or rather, he will be; by that time that thou comeſt thither, thou ſhalt find him there.

19 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto him, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, Haſt thou killed, and alſo taken poſſeſſion u? And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto him, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, In the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth, ſhall dogs lick thy blood, even thine x.

u Thou haſt murdered an Innocent and Righteous Man; and inſtead of repenting for it, thou haſt added another piece of injuſtice and violence to it, and art going confidently and chearfully to reap the fruit of thy wickedneſs. He aſcribes Jezebel's Fact to Ahab, becauſe Jezebel did it by his Connivence, and Conſent, and Authority, and for the ſatisfaction of his inordinate Appetite. x Queſt. How was this fulfilled, when Ahab's blood was not licked in Jezreel, which was in the Tribe of Iſſachar, but in the Pool of Samaria, chap. 22. 38. which was in the Tribe of Ephraim? Anſ. Firſt, This was done, though not in the ſame individual place, yet in the ſame general place, i.e. in the Territory of Samaria, within which Jezreel was; and in a place of the ſame nature, a publick and common place; for ſuch was both the place of Naboth's Execution, and the Pool of Samaria. Secondly, This was particularly accompliſhed in his ſon Joram, as is affirmed, 2 King. 9. 25, 26. whoſe blood is not improperly called Ahab's blood, becauſe children are ſaid to be born of their parents blood. See Job. 1. 13. Act. 17. 26. Obj. Theſe words, thy blood, even thine, ſhew that it is meant of Ahab's perſon. Anſ. True, the threatning was ſo directed and deſigned at firſt; but afterwards, upon his humiliation, the puniſhment was transferred from him to his Son, as is expreſſed, ver. 29. Obj. This is ſaid to be fulfilled in Ahab's perſon, chap. 22. 38. Anſ. Either that may be referred to ſome other Prediction or Commination not elſewhere mentioned: or rather, it intimates that it was in part, and in ſome ſort fulfilled in him, though not ſo ſeverely and opprobriouſly, nor with ſuch Characters of the Curſe as it was in his Son; whence he there mentions only the thing, without any regard unto the place here deſigned. But it may further be obſerved, That although upon Ahab's humiliation, the Curſe here threatned might ſeem to be wholly tranſlated from his perſon to his poſterity; yet upon Ahab's return to ſin, in the next Chapter, he brings back the Curſe upon himſelf, and ſo it is no wonder if it be in ſome ſort fulfilled in him alſo. Thirdly, The Hebrew word, rendred in the place where, may be, and is by ſome learned men otherwiſe rendred, either thus, Inſtead of this that; that being frequently ſaid to be done in anothers place, which was only done in his ſtead: or, like as: or, becauſe that. So it doth not deſign the place, but the cauſe and reaſon of this Judgment. And in this ſenſe the ſame word is uſed, Zech. 2. 10.

20 And Ahab ſaid to Elijah y, Haſt thou found me z, O mine enemy a? And he anſwered, I have found thee b: becauſe thou haſt ſold thyſelf c to work evil in the ſight of the LORD d.

y Upon, and after his delivery of the Meſſage laſt mentioned, which it was needleſs to repeat. z Doſt thou purſue me from place to place? Wilt thou never let me reſt? Art thou come after me hither with thy unwelcome Meſſages? a That art always diſturbing, threatning, and oppoſing me, and expreſſing not ſo much Gods mind, as thy own hatred and enmity againſt me. Compare chap. 22. 8. b The hand of God hath hath found and overtaken thee in the very act of thy ſin.

c Thou haſt wilfully and wholly reſigned up thy ſelf to be the bond-ſlave of the Devil, or Baal, and of wicked Jezebel, to do whatſoever they perſwade thee to do; as a man that ſells himſelf to another, is totally in his Maſter's power, and muſt employ all his time and ſtrength for his ſervice. Compare 2 King. 17. 17. See on Rom. 7 14. d (i. e.) Impudently and contemptuouſly. Withal he minds him, that although his ſin was in a great meaſure hid from the eyes of men by Jezebel's cunning contrivance, yet it was evident and known to God, who would require it at his hands.

* chap. 14. 10. 2 King. 9. 8. * 1 Sam. 25. 22. * chap. 14. 10.

22 And will make thine houſe like the houſe of * Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, and like the houſe of * Baaſha the ſon of Ahijah, for the provocation wherewith thou haſt provoked me to anger, and made Iſrael to ſin.

* 2 Kin. 9. 36. ‖ Or, ditch.

23 And * of Jezebel alſo ſpake the LORD, ſaying, The dogs ſhall eat Jezebel by the ‖ wall f of Jezreel.

f Or, by the ditch, or fort: or, in the portion, as it is explained 2 King. 9. 36. the Hebrew chel, here, being put for chelek, uſed there by an Apocope of the laſt Hebrew Letter, which is not unuſual in the Hebrew Tongue.

* chap. 14. 11. & 16. 4.

24 * Him that dieth of Ahab in the city, the dogs ſhall eat; and him that dieth in the field, ſhall the fowls of the air eat.

25 ¶ But there was none like unto Ahab g, which did ſell himſelf to work wickedneſs in the ſight of the LORD, whom Jezebel his wife ‖ ſtirred up h.

g None among all the Kings of Iſrael which had been before him. h This is added to ſhew, that temptations to ſin are no excuſe to the ſinner.

26 And he did very abominably in following idols, according to all things as did the Amorites i, whom the LORD caſt out before the children of Iſrael.

i (i. e.) The ſeven Nations of Canaan, all called by this Name, as Gen. 15. 16. & 48. 22. Amos 2. 9, 10.

27 And it came to paſs when Ahab heard thoſe words, that he rent his clothes, and put ſackcloth upon his fleſh, and faſted, and lay in ſackcloth, and went ſoftly k.

k (i. e.) Slowly and ſilently, after the manner of mourners, or thoſe who are under a great conſternation, and in deep conſideration.

28 And the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tiſhbite, ſaying,

29 Seeſt thou how Ahab humbleth himſelf before me? becauſe he humbleth himſelf before me l, I will not bring the evil m in his days: but

* 2 Kin. 9. 25. * in his ſons days will I bring the evil upon his houſe.

l (i. e.) In my preſence, and upon my threatning. But this humiliation or repentance of Ahab's, was only external and ſuperficial, ariſing from the terror of Gods Judgments; and not ſincere and ſerious, proceeding from the Love of God, or a true ſenſe of his ſin, or a ſolemn purpoſe of amendment of his Life, as appears, becauſe all the particulars of his repentance here, ver. 27. are external and ritual only; nor is there the leaſt intimation of any one ſign or fruit of his true repentance, as that he reſtored Naboth's Land, or reproved his infamous Wife; but in the very next Chapter you find him returning to his former Vomit, hating and threatning the Lord's Prophets, &c. m (i. e.) The Judgment threatned, both that ver. 19. which was not inflicted upon Ahab with ſo much ignominy, and with that particular ſignature of God's vengeance, that it was to be done in the ſame place, as it was upon his Son Joram; and eſpecially that, ver. 21, 22. which was wholly ſuſpended until his Sons days.

CHAP. XXII.

1 AND they a continued three years b without war between Syria and Iſrael.

a The Syrians and Iſraelites deſigned in the following words. b Computed from the laſt War and League wherewith it was concluded: becauſe both Ahab and Ben-hadad were ſo weakned and broken by the late Wars, that they needed and deſired Peace to recruit themſelves, and repair their former loſſes.

* 2 Chron. 18. 1, &c.

2 And it came to paſs in the third year, that * Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah came down to the king of Iſrael c.

c Having now, as he ſuppoſed, made a firm Peace with Ahab by the Alliance contracted between Joram his Son, and Athaliah, Ahab's Daughter: Of which ſee 2 King. 8. 18. 2 Chron. 18. 1.

* 1 Chr. 6. 73. † Heb. ſilent from taking it.

3 (And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto his ſervants, Know ye that * Ramoth in Gilead is ours d, and we be † ſtill, and take it not out of the hand of the king of Syria?)

d (i. e.) Belongeth to us by right, both by Gods Donation, and deſignation of it for a City of refuge, Joſ. 21. 38. and by our laſt agreement with Ben-hadad, 1 King. 20. 34. which he refuſeth to deliver up to us upon our demand.

* 2 King. 3. 7.

4 And he ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, Wilt thou go with me to battel to Ramoth-gilead? And Jehoſhaphat ſaid to the king of Iſrael, * I am as thou art, my people as thy people, my horſes as thy horſes e.

e I will heartily and effectually joyn with thee; and my Forces ſhall be at thy ſervice as much as thine own.

5 And Jehoſhaphat ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, Enquire f I pray thee, at the word of the LORD to day.

f By ſome Prophet; that we may know the mind of God in it, and what ſucceſs we may expect. This was the practice of the Godly. See Judg. 1. 1. & 20. 28. 1 Sam. 23. 2.

6 Then the king of Iſrael gathered the prophets g together, about four hundred men, and ſaid unto them, Shall I go againſt Ramoth-gilead to battel, or ſhall I forbear? And they ſaid, Go up: for the LORD ſhall deliver it into the hand of the king.

g Which doubtleſs were his own falſe Prophets, or the Prieſts of Baal; probably thoſe very 400 Men whom Jezebel preſerved from that great ſlaughter, chap. 18. who yet gave in their Anſwer in the Name of Jehovah, not of Baal; either, in compliance with Jehoſhaphat; or rather, by Ahab's direction, that good Jehoſhaphat might be deceived by them, into a good Opinion of the War.

7 And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD beſides h, that we might enquire of him?

h Beſides theſe, who may ſeem to be ſuch by your Opinion, and their own profeſſion: but I deſire further ſatisfaction from ſome other Prophet.

8 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, There is yet one i man (Micaiah k the ſon of Imlah) by whom we may enquire of the LORD; but I hate him, for he doth not propheſie good concerning me, but evil l. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Let not the king ſay ſo m.

i To wit, in this place, for whom I can ſpeedily ſend: for there were alſo other Prophets elſewhere in the Kingdom, as Elijah, Eliſha, and others: but theſe were not at hand for the preſent occaſion. k Not one of the 12 Prophets, who lived about 150 Years after this time, but another of that Name. l He is always a Meſſenger of evil tidings: which was true, but no ſufficient reaſon why he ſhould hate him, becauſe Micaiah was purely Gods Inſtrument in all his Meſſages: and whatſoever evil he threatned, Ahab himſelf was the cauſe and procurer of it. m Do not preſage evil to our Enterprize: let us neither hate his perſon, nor deſpiſe his meſſage; but firſt hear it, and then do as we ſee cauſe.

‖ Or, Eunuch.

9 Then the king of Iſrael called an ‖ officer, and ſaid, Haſten hither Micaiah, the ſon of Imlah.

10 And the king of Iſrael, and Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah, ſat each on his throne, having put on their robes n, in a † void place o in the entrance of the gate of Samaria, and all the prophets propheſied before them.

n Their Royal Robes, and Enſigns of Majeſty. o In the place of Judicature, which was in or nigh the Gate of the City, and in the front of ſome void place, where either People ſtood to hear and ſee Juſtice adminiſtred; or Soldiers were placed for the defence of the City in time of War.

11 And Zedekiah the ſon of Chenaanah, made him horns of iron p: and he ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD q, With theſe ſhalt thou puſh the Syrians, until thou have conſumed them.

p Fit Emblems of the Power and Victory of theſe two Kings. The Devil is Gods Ape, and the falſe Prophets ſometimes imitating the true, who when they declared Gods mind by words, did alſo oftentimes confirm it by ſenſible ſigns. See Iſa. 20. 2. Jer. 27. 2. q Heb. Jehovah: whoſe Name he pretends, to gain the more credit and countenance to his words. See on ver. 7.

12 And all the prophets propheſied ſo, ſaying, Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and proſper: for the LORD ſhall deliver it into the kings hand.

13 And the meſſenger that was gone to call Micaiah, ſpake unto him, ſaying, Behold now, the words of the prophets declare good unto the king with one mouth: let thy word, I pray thee, be like the word of one of them, and ſpeak that which is good r.

r This he deſigns, not out of any Love to Micaiah (whom he perſwades to debauch his Conſcience), but meerly out of a deſire to gratifie his Kings humour.

14 And Micaiah ſaid, As the LORD liveth, what the LORD ſaith unto me ſ, that will I ſpeak.

ſ What anſwer God ſhall put into my mind and mouth, which, it ſeems, was not yet done.

15 ¶ So he came to the king, and the king ſaid unto him, Micaiah, ſhall we go againſt Ramoth-gilead to battel, or ſhall we forbear? And he anſwered him t, Go, and proſper: for the LORD ſhall deliver it into the hand of the king.

t Not ſeriouſly, but ironically, uſing the very words of the falſe Prophets in way of deriſion: As appears, Firſt, From his omiſſion of that ſolemn Preface, Thus ſaith the Lord; or, this is the word of the Lord, which the Prophets generally uſed, and which himſelf uſeth when he comes to his ſerious anſwer, v. 19. Secondly, From Ahab's reply, ver. 16. which ſhews that he ſuſpected Micaiah's ſincerity in that anſwer, and gathered by his geſture or manner of ſpeaking, that he ſpake only mimically, as repreſenting and traducing the falſe Prophets for their anſwer. See the like Ironical paſſages, Gen. 3. 22. Judg. 10. 14. 1 King. 18. 27. Eccl. 11. 9. Ezek. 20. 39. Amos 4. 4, 5. All which expreſſions are not uſed to lead Men into Miſtakes, but to bring them to the ſight of their ſin and duty; which may be done ſometimes moſt efficaciouſly in this way. So Micaiah's meaning is plainly this, Becauſe thou doſt not ſeek to know the truth, but only to pleaſe thy ſelf, go to the Battel, as all thy Prophets adviſe thee, and expect the ſucceſs which they promiſe thee, and try the truth of their Prediction by thy own coſtly experience.

16 And the king ſaid unto him, How many times ſhall I adjure thee u, that thou tell me nothing, but that which is true in the Name of the LORD?

u I adjure thee again and again, that thou give over this mockery, and ſeriouſly tell me the mind of God in this matter.

* Mat. 9. 36. 17 And he ſaid, I ſaw x all Iſrael * ſcattered upon the hills y, as ſheep that have not a ſhepherd z: and the LORD ſaid, Theſe have no maſter, let them return every man to his houſe in peace a.

x In the Spirit, or in a Viſion. y Upon the Mountains of Gilead, nigh Ramoth: either, where they lay encamped by Ahab's order: or, to which they fled from the Enemy, eſteeming that the ſafeſt place. See Mat. 24. 16. z As People who have loſt their King. See Numb. 27. 17. Iſa. 40. 11. & 44. 28. Ezek. 34. 23. a Diſcharged from the War: which was fulfilled v. 26.

18 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, Did I not tell thee, that he would propheſie no good concerning me, but evil b?

b Now thou ſeeſt my words verified, and this man ſhewing his hatred by this malignant and treaſonable prophecy, and how little heed is to be given to his words. Which crafty inſinuation ſeems to have had too great an influence upon good Jehoſhaphat; otherwiſe he would never have gone to the battel.

19 And he ſaid, Hear thou therefore c the word of the LORD: I ſaw d the LORD ſitting on his throne, and * all the hoſt of heaven e ſtanding by him f, on his right hand, and on his left.

* Job 1. 6. & 2. 1. Dan. 7. 10. Zech. 1. 10. Mat. 18. 10. Heb. 1. 7, 14.

c Becauſe thou giveſt credit to thy falſe Prophets, and diſtruſteſt my words, as if they were but the ſuggeſtions of my own fancy, and hatred of thy perſon; I will give thee a diſtinct and true account of the whole matter, in Gods Name and Preſence. d By the eyes of my mind: for he could not ſee the Lord with bodily eyes. e (i. e.) The Angels, who are oft called Gods hoſt or hoſts, becauſe of their great number, excellent order, and conſtant readineſs to attend upon God, and to execute his Commands. See Gen. 2. 1. Pſal. 103. 21. & 148. 2. Theſe Angels were both good and bad, the one poſſibly on his right, the other on his left hand. Nor is it ſtrange that the Devils are called the hoſt of heaven: if you conſider, Firſt, That their original ſeat was in Heaven; and Men in Scripture are oft called by the Name of the place from whence they came. Secondly, That the Name of Heaven is oft given to all that part of the World which is above the Earth, and among the reſt to the Air, as Gen. 1. 20. & 7. 11. and 8. 2. and 27. 28. Deut. 4. 11. & 11. 11. where the Devils Reſidence and Dominion lies, Eph. 2. 2. and that both Michael and his Angels, and the Dragon and his Angels, are ſaid to be, and to wage war in heaven, Rev. 12. 7. i. e. either the Air, or the Church. And this place is not to be underſtood as if Micaiah had ſeen with his bodily eyes the Lord and his Angels ſitting in the third Heaven; but that he ſaw a repreſentation of the Divine Preſence in the Air, attended with good and bad Angels. f In the poſture of Miniſters, to receive and execute his Commands.

20 And the LORD ſaid, Who ſhall ‖ perſwade Ahab g, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead? And one ſaid on this manner, and another ſaid on that manner.

g This is not to be groſly underſtood, as if God did ask and take counſel from his Creatures, or were at a loſs to find out an expedient to accompliſh his own Will; did conſider ſeveral ways, and then cloſe with that which upon debate appeared to be beſt; all which it is ridiculous to imagine concerning a God of perfect and infinite knowledge; but only to bring down Divine things to our ſhallow Capacities, and to expreſs the various means which God hath to execute his own deſigns.

21 And there came forth a ſpirit h, and ſtood before the LORD, and ſaid, I will perſwade him.

h An evil ſpirit came out of the knot or company of them, ſtanding poſſibly on the left hand, and preſented himſelf before the Throne, as having ſomething to ſay to the Lord.

22 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Wherewith? And he ſaid, I will go forth, and I will be a lying ſpirit in the mouth of all his prophets k. And he ſaid, * Thou ſhalt perſwade him, and prevail alſo l: go forth, and do ſo m.

* Judg. 9. 23.

k I will inſpire a lye into the minds and mouths of his Prophets. l I will give them up into thy hands, and blind their minds, and leave them to their own ignorance and wickedneſs, which will certainly lead them into dreadful miſtakes. m This is not a command, but only a permiſſion; which is oft expreſſed in the Imperative Mood, as 1 Sam. 16. 10. Mat. 8. 22. Joh. 13. 27. I will not hinder thee from tempting them, nor give them Grace to withſtand their temptation; whereby thou maiſt be aſſured of ſucceſs.

23 Now therefore behold, the LORD hath put a lying ſpirit in the mouth of all theſe thy prophets, and the LORD hath ſpoken evil concerning thee.

24 But Zedekiah the ſon of Chenaanah n went near, and ſmote Micaiah on the cheek o, and ſaid, * Which way went the ſpirit of the LORD from me to ſpeak unto thee p?

* 2 Chr. 18. 23.

n The chief of the falſe Prophets, who was much in the King's favour, upon which he now preſumed. o In way of contempt and ſcorn, Job 16. 10. Jer. 20. 2. Lam. 3. 30. Mark 14. 65. p (i. e.) In what manner went it? Foraſmuch as I and my brethren have conſulted the Lord, and anſwered in his Name, and have the ſame ſpirit which thou pretendeſt to have, and not a lying ſpirit, as thou doſt falſly and maliciouſly affirm. How is it poſſible that the ſame ſpirit ſhould tell us one thing, and thee the quite contrary?

25 And Micaiah ſaid, Behold, thou ſhalt ſee in in that day, when thou ſhalt go ‖ into † an inner chamber to hide thy ſelf q.

q Out of a juſt fear and expectation of the deſerved puniſhment of a falſe Prophet, and of the great Author and Abettor of this pernicious War, and of Ahab's deſtruction.

26 And the king of Iſrael ſaid, Take Micaiah, and carry him back r unto Amon the governour of the city, and to Joaſh the kings ſon:

r To wit, into Priſon; where it ſeems he was before ſhut up; for ſo the Lord's Prophets were uſed by Ahab. And ſome think he was the deſiverer of that unwelcome meſſage, chap. 20. 41, 42.

27 And ſay, Thus ſaith the king, Put this fellow in the priſon, and feed him with bread of affliction, and with water of affliction ſ, until I come in peace t.

ſ (i. e.) With a very courſe and ſparing Diet, whereby he may be only ſupported to endure his torment. See Deut. 16. 3. 2 Chr. 18. 26. Iſa. 30. 20. t Until I return in triumph, which I doubt not I ſhall do in ſpight of all his malicious ſuggeſtions to the contrary, and then I ſhall call him to an account for all his lies and impudence.

28 And Micaiah ſaid, If thou return at all in peace, the LORD hath not ſpoken by me u. And he ſaid x, Hearken, O people, every one of you.

u I acknowledge my ſelf to be an Impoſtor, and to deſerve death. x (i. e.) Micaiah, the perſon laſt named, being aſſured of the truth of his Prophecy, calls all the people to be Witneſſes of it.

29 So the king of Iſrael, and Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah y went up to Ramoth-gilead.

y Who, though a good Man, yet was eaſily deceived in this matter; partly, becauſe Micaiah was a perſon unknown to him, and both he and the other Prophets pretending to give their Anſwer in the Name of the Lord, it ſeemed hard to him to determine the Controverſie, which only the Event could decide; and therefore it is no wonder if he was overborn by the vaſt diſproportion of 400 Prophets to one, and by his Relation, and Obligation, and Affection to Ahab: and partly, becauſe the War was Juſt and Lawful, to recover his own rights, which the Syrian King unjuſtly detained from him.

30 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, ‖ I will diſguiſe my ſelf z, and enter into the battel, but put thou on thy robes a. And the king of Iſrael diſguiſed himſelf, and went into the battel.

‖ Or, when he was to diſguiſe himſelf, and enter into the battel.

z (i. e.) Put off my Imperial habit, that the Syrians may not know me, and direct their main Force againſt me; which they will aſſuredly endeavour, as knowing that this War proceedeth from me, and is likely to die with me: and then thou ſhalt ſee that this Man is a falſe Prophet, and I ſhall have the ſucceſs which I deſire and expect, notwithſtanding all his preſages. a Thy Royal Robes: which thou maiſt do without any danger, becauſe thou art not the Object either of the Syrians Rage, or of this falſe Prophecy.

31 But the king of Syria commanded his thirty and two captains, that had rule over his chariots b, ſaying, Fight neither with ſmall nor great, ſave only with the king of Iſrael c.

b And the men that fought from them, or with them, i. e. his whole Army. Poſſibly the Chariots and the whole Army were diſtributed into thirty two ſeveral parts, and each Captain ruled thoſe Chariots and Soldiers attending upon them, which fell to his ſhare. c This he ordered, either in Policy, truly ſuppoſing this to be the beſt way to put an end to the War: or, with deſign to take him Priſoner, that thereby he might wipe out the ſtain of his own Captivity, and recover the honour and advantage which then he loſt: or rather, by the power and providence of God, which diſpoſeth the hearts of Kings as he pleaſeth; and inclined them to this courſe, that they might, though ignorantly, accompliſh his word and counſel.

32 And it came to paſs, when the captains of the chariots ſaw Jehoſhaphat, that they ſaid, Surely it is the king of Iſrael. And they turned aſide d to fight againſt him: and Jehoſhaphat cried out e.

d They drew their Forces from their ſeveral quarters towards Jehoſhaphat. e To the Lord for help, 2 chron. 18. 31.

33 And it came to paſs, when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Iſrael f, that they turned back from purſuing him.

f Which they eaſily perceived; either, by their words uttered to God or them; or, by the difference of his ſhape and countenance from that of Ahab, which probably many of them very well knew.

34 And a certain man drew a bow † at a venture g, and ſmote the king of Iſrael between the † joynts of the harneſs b: wherefore he ſaid unto the driver of his chariot, Turn thine hand, and carry me out of the hoſt i, for I am † wounded.

36 And there went a proclamation throughout the hoſt m, about the going down of the ſun, ſaying, Every man to his city, and every man to his own countrey n.

m Probably by Jehoſhaphat's Order, with the conſent of the chief Captains of Iſrael; and poſſibly with the permiſſion of the King of Syria, upon notice of Ahab's Death, which was the only thing at which he aimed, ver. 31. n The King is dead, and the Battel ended: and therefore every man hath liberty to return to his own Houſe and private occaſions.

39 Now the reſt of the acts of Ahab, and all that he did, and the ivory houſe q which he made, and all the cities that he built, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

q Heb. the houſe of the tooth, or teeth, to wit, of Elephants: See chap. 10. 18. Not that it was made wholly of ſolid Ivory, but becauſe the other materials were covered, or intermixed, or adorned with Ivory. Compare Amos 3. 15.

40 So Ahab ſlept with his fathers, and Ahaziah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

41 ¶ And * Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Aſa began to reign over Judah in the fourth year of Ahab r king of Iſrael.

* 2 Chr. 20. 31.

r Who reigned 22 years: therefore he reigned about 18 years with Ahab.

42 Jehoſhaphat was thirty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and five years ſ in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.

ſ Part, by himſelf: and partly with his Sons whom he took into the Fellowſhip of his Kingdom. Of which, ſee more on 2 King. 1. 17.

43 And he walked in all the ways of Aſa his father t, he turned not aſide from it, doing that which was right in the eyes of the LORD: nevertheleſs, the high places were not taken away u; for the people offered and burnt incenſe yet in the high places.

t He took the ſame care for the Government of his Kingdom; and eſpecially, for the Reformation of Religion, that Aſa did: of whom, ſee Chap. 15. 11. u Object. It is ſaid, he did take them away, 2 Chron. 17. 6. Anſw. He took away thoſe which were Erected to Idols; of which he ſeems to ſpeak there, becauſe the high places are there joyned with groves, which were generally Erected to Idols, and not to the True God, as will appear to any one that ſhall compare all the Scriptures where groves are mentioned; but he could not take away thoſe which were erected to the True God; of which this place manifeſtly ſpeaks; as alſo that parallel place, 1 King. 15. 14. where ſee the Notes. Or, he took them away, but not fully; or not in the very beginning of his Reign.

44 And Jehoſhaphat made peace with the king of Iſrael x.

x With Ahab firſt, and then with his Son. This is noted as a blemiſh in his Government, 2 Chron. 19. 2. and proved of moſt miſchievous conſequence to Jehoſhaphat's poſterity; as we ſhall ſee 2 King. 9. & 10.

45 Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoſhaphat, and his might that he ſhewed, and how he warred, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah y?

y Whence the moſt memorable paſſages were tranſlated into that Canonical Book of the Chronicles.

46 And the remnant of the Sodomites z which remained in the days of his father Aſa, he took out of the land.

z Of whom ſee Deut. 23. 17. 1 Kings 14. 24. and 15. 12.

47 There was then no king in Edom; a deputy a was king.

a Sent, and ſet over them by the Kings of Judah, from the time of David, 2 Sam. 8. 14. until the days of Jehoram, 2 Chron. 21. 8.

48 Jehoſhaphat ‖ made ſhips b of Tarſhiſh c to go to Ophir d for gold: but they went not; for the ſhips were broken at Ezion-geber e.

‖ Or, had ten ſhips.

b As it is expreſſed, 2 Chron. 20. 36. Or, there were to Jehoſhaphat ten ſhips: the Ellipſis of the Verb Subſtantive, and of the Præfix Lamed, being frequent in the Hebrew Language. Some render the Words, he made ten ſhips; ſo joining both Texts together, and out of both compleating the ſence. c Either, 1. Of the Sea, as this Word is thought ſometimes to be uſed. Or, rather 2. To go to Tarſhiſh, (as it is expreſſed, 2 Chron. 20. 36.) and thence to Ophir, as it here follows. See more on 1 King. 10. 22. d Of which, ſee 1 King. 9. 28. e Which was in Edom, and conſequently in Jehoſhaphat's Territories.

49 Then ſaid Ahaziah the ſon of Ahab unto Jehoſhaphat, Let my ſervants go with thy ſervants in the ſhips, but Jehoſhaphat would not f.

f Obj. It is ſaid, That he did join with Ahaziah herein. 2 Chron. 20. 35, 36. Anſw. That was before this time, and before the ſhips were broken: for the breaking of the ſhips mentioned here, ver. 48. is noted to be the Effect of his ſin, in joining with Ahaziah, and of the Prophecy conſequent upon it, 2 Chron. 20. 37. And good Jehoſhaphat being warned and chaſtiſed by God for this ſin, would not be perſwaded to repeat it; whereby he ſhewed the ſincerity of his Repentance.

50 ¶ And Jehoſhaphat ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and Jehoram his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

51 ¶ Ahaziah the ſon of Ahab began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria the ſeventeenth year of Jehoſhaphat g king of Judah, and reigned two years h over Iſrael.

g By comparing this Verſe with ver. 41. it appears, that Ahaziah was made King by his Father, and reigned in conjunction with him a year or two before Ahab's death, and as long after it; even as Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat was made King by his Father in his Life-time, as we ſhall ſee hereafter; which poſſibly was done in compliance with Ahab's deſire, upon Marriage of his daughter to Jehoſhaphat's ſon; and it may be Ahab, to induce and encourage him to do ſo, gave him an Example of it, and made his ſon his partner in the Kingdom. h Either after his Fathers death: or one before it, and another after it.

52 And he did evil in the ſight of the LORD, and walked in the way of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in the way of Jeroboam i the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

i Which Clauſe ſeems here added, to ſhew, how little the Authority and Example of Parents, or Anceſtors, is to be valued, where it is oppoſed to the VVill and VVord of God.

53 For he ſerved Baal, and worſhipped him, * and provoked to anger the LORD God of Iſrael, according to all that his father had done.

* By ſo doing.

II. KINGS.

CHAP. I.

* Chap. 3. 5. 1 THEN Moab a rebelled againſt Iſrael, * after the death of Ahab.

a Which had been ſubdued by David, 2 Sam. 8. 2. as Edom was; and upon the diviſion of this Kingdom into two, Moab was adjoined to that of Iſrael, and Edom to that of Judah; each to that Kingdom upon which it bordered. And when the Kingdoms of Iſrael and Judah were weak and forſaken by God, they took that opportunity to revolt from them; Moab here, and Edom a little after it.

2 And Ahaziah fell down through a latteſs in his upper chamber b that was in Samaria, and was ſick, and he ſent meſſengers, and ſaid unto them, Go, enquire of Baal-zebub c the god of Ekron, whether I ſhall † recover of this diſeaſe?

† Heb. live. So Gr.

b In which, the Latteſs might be left to convey Light into the lower Room. Which if it now ſeem abſurd to be in a Kings Palace, we muſt not think it was ſo then, when the World was not arrived to that height of Curioſity and Art, in which now it is. But the words may be, and are by ſome rendred, through the Battlements (or through the Latteſs in the Battlements) of the Roof of the Houſe. VVhere being firſt walking, after the manner, and then ſtanding and looking through, and leaning upon this Latteſs, which was grown infirm, it broke, and he fell down into the Court or Garden belonging to the Houſe. c Properly, the god of Flies. An Idol ſo called, becauſe it was falſly ſuppoſed to deliver thoſe people from Flies, which were both vexatious and hurtful to them: as Jupiter and Hercules were called by a like Name among the Græcians, for the ſame reaſon. And it is evident, both from ſacred and prophane Hiſtories, That the Idol-gods, being conſulted by the Heathens, did ſometimes, through God's permiſſion, and juſt Judgment, give them Anſwers; though they were generally obſerved, ever by the Heathens themſelves, to be dark and doubtful.

3 But the angel of the LORD ſaid to Elijah the Tiſhbite, Ariſe, go up to meet the meſſengers of the king of Samaria, and ſay unto them, Is it not becauſe there is not a God in Iſrael d, that ye go to enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron?

d Doſt thou not by this action caſt contempt upon the God of Iſrael, as if he were either ignorant of the Event of thy diſeaſe, or unable to give thee any relief; and as if Baal-zebub had more skill and power than he?

† Heb. The bed whither thou art gone up, thou ſhalt not come down from it.

4 Now therefore e thus ſaith the LORD, † Thou ſhalt not come down from that bed on which thou art gone up, but ſhalt ſurely die. And Elijah departed f.

e For this was a very heinous Crime, to deny the Perfections of God, and to transfer them to an Idol. See Lev. 19. 31. & 20. 6, 27. Deut. 18. 10. f The Meſſengers not daring to apprehend him, as ſuſpecting him to be more than Man, becauſe he knew the ſecret Meſſage which the King delivered them in his Bed-Chamber.

5 ¶ And when the meſſengers turned back unto him, he ſaid unto them, Why are ye now turned back g?

g Before you have been at Ekron: which he eaſily knew by their quick return.

6 And they ſaid unto him, There came a man up to meet us, and ſaid unto us, Go, turn again unto the king that ſent you, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, Is it not becauſe there is not a God in Iſrael, that thou ſendeſt to enquire of Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron? therefore thou ſhalt not come down from that bed on which thou art gone up, but ſhalt ſurely die.

7 And he ſaid unto them, † What manner of man was he which came up to meet you, and told you theſe words?

† Heb. What was the manner of the man?

8 And they anſwered him, He was an hairy man h, and girt with a girdle of leather about his loins i: and he ſaid, It is Elijah the Tiſhbite.

h Either, 1. As to his Body; the hair of his Head and Beard being through neglect grown long, and ſpread over much of his Face. Or rather, 2. As to his outward Garment, which was rough and hairy, ſuch as were ſometimes worn by Eminent Perſons in Greece, in ancient times; and were the proper Habit of the Prophets. See Iſa. 20. 2. Zech. 13. 4. Mat. 3. 4. Heb. 11. 37. i As John the Baptiſt alſo had, Mat. 3. 4. That by his very outward Habit, he might repreſent Elias, in whoſe Spirit and Power he came.

9 Then the king ſent unto him a captain of fifty, with his fifty: and he went up to him, (and behold, he ſate on the top of an hill) and he ſpake unto him, Thou man of God k, the king hath ſaid, Come down l.

k So he calls him in way of ſcorn and contempt; q. d. Thou that vaunteſt, as if thou waſt more than a meer Man. l The King commands thee to come to him: which if thou refuſeſt, I am here to carry thee to him by Force.

10 And Elijah anſwered and ſaid unto the captain of fifty, If I be a man of God, then let fire come down from heaven, and conſume thee and thy fifty m. And there came down fire from heaven, and conſumed him and his fifty.

m VVhich deſire did not proceed from a carnal and malicious paſſion; but from a pure zeal, to vindicate Gods Name and Honour, which was ſo horribly abuſed; and from the motion of God's Spirit; as is evident from God's miraculous Anſwer to his deſire. And therefore Chriſt doth not condemn this Fact of Elias, but only reproves his Diſciples for their perverſe imitation of it, from another ſpirit and principle, and in a more unſeaſonable time, Luke 9. 54, 55.

11 Again also he sent unto him another captain of fifty, with his fifty: and he answered, and said unto him, O man of God, Thus hath the king said, Come down quickly n.

n Wherein he discovers more Petulancy and Impudence than the former; and shews, how little he was moved or affrighted by the former Example.

12 And Elijah answered and said unto them, If I be a man of God, let fire come down from heaven, and consume thee and thy fifty. And the fire of God came down from heaven, and consumed him and his fifty.

13 ¶ And he sent again a captain of the third fifty, with his fifty: and the third captain of fifty went up, and came and † fell on his knees before Elijah, and † besought him o, and said unto him, O man of God, I pray thee, let my life, and the life of these fifty thy servants, be precious in thy sight.

o Expressing both Reverence to his Person, and a belief of his Power, and a Dread of God's Judgments.

14 Behold, there came fire down from heaven, and burnt up the two captains of the former fifties, with their fifties: therefore let my life now be precious in thy sight.

15 And the angel of the LORD said unto Elijah, Go down with him, be not afraid of him. And he arose, and went down with him unto the king p.

p Not fearing the rage of the King, nor of Jezebel, nor of all their Forces. Wherein he gives an eminent Example of his Faith and Obedience; and withal, of his growth in Grace, since that time that he fled for fear of Jezebel, 1 King. 19. 3.

16 And he said unto him q, Thus saith the LORD, Forasmuch as thou hast sent messengers to enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron, (is it not because there is no God in Israel to enquire of his word?) therefore thou shalt not come down off that bed on which thou art gone up, but shalt surely die.

q To his very Face. Nor durst the King lay hands upon him, being daunted with the Prophet's presence, and great courage and confidence; and affrighted by the late dreadful Evidence of his Power with God, and over men: and withal, struck with a Divine and extraordinary terror.

17 ¶ So he died, according to the word of the LORD which Elijah had spoken: and Jehoram r reigned in his stead, in the second year of Jehoram the son of Jehoshaphat king of Judah s, because he had no son.

r His Brother, chap. 3. 1. for he had no son to succeed him, as it here follows. s Other passages of Scripture seem to clash with this, as that Ahaziah, who reigned but two years, begun his Reign in Jehoshaphat's seventeenth year, 1 King. 22. 51. and there are this Jehoram must begin his Reign in Jehoshaphat's Nineteenth Year; and therefore before the Reign of Jehoram, Jehoshaphat's Son; and that Jehoram, the son of Jehoshaphat began to reign in the fifth year of Joram, Ahab's son, 2 King. 8. 16. Ans. These difficulties are easily resolved by this consideration, That it was an usual practice among Kings in former Ages, to make their Sons sometimes their Vice-roys and Deputies in the Administration of the Kingdom; and sometimes formally Kings in conjunction with themselves, and whilst they lived; whereof there are instances both in prophane History, among the Persians, Greeks, and Romans, and in the Sacred Scriptures, as in David; 1 Chron. 23. 1. & 29. 22. in Uzziah, 2 Chron. 26. 21. (and to come close to the point) in Jehoshaphat, 2 King. 8. 16. who in his Seventeenth year, when he went to Ahab, and with him to Ramoth-gilead, appointed his Son Jehoram his Vice-roy, and (in case of his Death) his Successor. In the Second Year from that time, when Jehoram was thus made Vice-King in his Father's stead and absence; this Jehoram, Ahab's son, began to reign; and in the fifth year of the reign of this Joram son of Ahab, which was about the twenty fourth year of Jehoshaphat's Reign, Jehoram the son of Jehoshaphat was formally made king of Judah, together with his Father: or whilest Jehoshaphat lived, and was king of Judah also. And so all the places agree. To which some add, that this Verse, or this part of it, wherein the difficulty consists, is wanting in some ancient Copies, and is omitted by the LXX Interpreters; which is far more prudent and pious to grant, than upon such Chronological difficulties, to question the Truth and Divinity of the Holy Scriptures.

18 Now the rest of the acts of Ahaziah, which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

CHAP. II.

1 AND it came to pass, when the LORD would take up Elijah into heaven by a whirl-wind, that Elijah went with Elisha from Gilgal.

2 And Elijah said unto Elisha, Tarry here, I pray thee a: for the LORD hath sent me to Bethel b: and Elisha said unto him, As the LORD liveth, and * as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they went down to Bethel.

* 1 Sam. 1. 26.

a This he desires, Either, 1. That he being left alone, might better prepare himself for his great Change. Or, 2. Out of his Humility and Modesty: he desired no Witnesses of his Glorious Removal, and no Fame and Glory from it. Or, 3. Out of Indulgence to Elisha, that he might not be overwhelmed with Grief at so sad a sight. Or, 4. That he might try his Love, and whet his desire to accompany him; it being highly convenient for God's honour, and the Churches good, (which Elijah sought above all things) that there should be Witnesses of so glorious a Translation. b Which was truth, but not the whole truth: for he was to go a far longer Journey. But he was first to go to Bethel, as also to Jericho, to the Schools of the Prophets there, that he might comfort, and strengthen their hearts in God's work, and give them his last and dying counsels.

3 And the sons of the prophets that were at Bethel came forth to Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the LORD will take away thy master c from thy head d to day? And he said, Yea, I know it, hold you your peace e.

c This was revealed to some of the Sons of the Prophets, and by them to the whole College. d Heb. from above thy head: Which phrase may respect, either, 1. The manner of sitting in Schools, where the Scholar sate at his Master's feet, Deut. 33. 3. Acts 22. 3. Or, 2. The manner of Elijah's Translation, which was to be by a power sent from Heaven, to take him up thither. e Do not aggravate my grief, nor divert me with any unseasonable Discourses; that I may digest, my sorrow, and prepare my self for so great a stroke, and diligently attend all my Masters steps, lest he be snatched away from me whilst I am talking with you; and that I may beg and obtain some great Blessing from him before his departure.

4 And Elijah said unto him, Elisha, tarry here, I pray thee: for the LORD hath sent me to Jericho: and he said, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they came to Jericho.

5 And the sons of the prophets that were at Jericho, came to Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the LORD will take away thy Master from thy head to day? And he answered, Yea, I know it, hold you your peace.

6 And Elijah said unto him, Tarry, I pray thee here: for the LORD hath sent me to Jordan. And he said, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. And they two went on.

7 And fifty men of the sons of the prophets went and stood † to view f afar off: and they two stood by Jordan.

† Heb. in sight, or over-against, &c.

f To observe this great Event, Elijah's Translation to Heaven, which they expected every moment; now when he had taken his last farewel of all the Prophets: and whereof they desired to be Spectators, not so much to satisfie their own curiosity, as that they might be witnesses of it to others.

8 And Elijah took his mantle, and wrapt it together, and smote the waters, and * they were divided hither and thither, so they two went over on dry ground.

* So Exod. 14. 21. Josh. 3. 15.

9 ¶ And it came to pass, when they were gone over, over, that Elijah ſaid unto Eliſha, Ask what I ſhall do for thee, before I be taken away from thee. And Eliſha ſaid, I pray thee let a double portion of thy ſpirit g be upon me.

g Either, 1. Double to what is in thee, Which it ſeems not probable, that he had confidence either to ask, or to expect. Or rather, 2. Double to what the reſt of the Sons of the Prophets may receive at thy Requeſt upon this occaſion. He alludes to the double portion of the Firſt-born, Deut. 21. 17. But though Eliſha deſired no more, yet God gave him more than he deſired or expected; and he ſeems to have had a greater portion of the prophetical and miraculous gifts of God's Spirit, than Elijah had.

10 And he ſaid, † Thou haſt asked a hard thing h: nevertheleſs, if thou ſee me when I am taken from thee, it ſhall be ſo unto thee: but if not, it ſhall not be ſo i.

h (i. e.) A rare and ſingular bleſſing, which I cannot promiſe thee, which only God can give; and he gives it only when, and to whom he pleaſeth. i This Sign he propoſed, not without the inſtinct and direction of God's Spirit, that hereby he might engage him more earneſtly to wait, and more fervently to pray for this mercy.

11 And it came to paſs as they ſtill went on, and talked, that behold there appeared a * chariot of fire, and horſes of fire k, and parted them both aſunder, and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven l.

* chap. 6. 17.

k A bright Cloud formed into ſuch a likeneſs, managed by holy and bleſſed Angels, ſent from Heaven to conduct him thither. l Into the Third Heaven, being in the way ſo transformed and changed, as might make him meet to be admitted into thoſe bleſſed Manſions.

12 ¶ And Eliſha ſaw it, and he cried, * My father, my father m, the chariot of Iſrael, and the horſemen thereof n. And he ſaw him no more: and he took hold of his own clothes, and rent them in two pieces.

m So he calls him for his fatherly Affection to him, and for his fatherly Authority which by his Office he had over him; in which reſpect the Scholars of the Prophets are called their Sons, as 1 Kings 20. 35. n VVho by thy Example, and Counſels, and Prayers, and power with God, didſt more for the defence and preſervation of Iſrael, than all their Chariots, and Horſes, or other warlike proviſions. The Expreſſion alludes to the form of Chariots and Horſes which he had ſeen.

13 He took up alſo the mantle of Elijah, that fell from him o, and went back and ſtood by the † bank of Jordan.

† Heb lip.

o God ſo ordering it for Eliſha's comfort, and the ſtrengthning of his Faith, as a pledge, that together with Elijah's Mantle, his Office and Spirit ſhould reſt upon him.

14 And he took the mantle of Elijah, that fell from him, and ſmote the waters, and ſaid, Where is the LORD God of Elijah p? and when he alſo had ſmitten the waters, they parted q hither and thither: and Eliſha went over.

p VVho at Elijah's Requeſt divided theſe VVaters, and is as able to do it again; and hath given me his Spirit, and Office, and therefore I humbly beg, and confidently expect his aſſiſtance in this matter. q But theſe words are by many rendred otherwiſe, and that agreeably to the Hebrew, Even himſelf? or, even the ſame? (which words they joyn with the former, as an Emphatical Addition, or Repetition, which is uſual in fervent prayers. But they may be rendered without an Interrogation, thus, Surely he is, to wit, here preſent, and ready to help me. Or, ſurely he is the ſame; to wit, to me, that he was to Elijah, as able and willing to work for me, as for Elijah. Then the following words they render, (as they are in the Hebrew) and he ſmote the water, and it was divided. By which Repetition it may ſeem, that he ſmote it twice, and that at the firſt ſmiting, the ſucceſs did not anſwer his deſire and expectation. VVhich God ſo ordered, partly to keep him in a modeſt and humble ſence of his own Inſufficiency, that he might not be puffed up with the great gifts which he had now received. Compare 2 Cor. 12. 7. And partly, to ſtir him up to a more lively Exerciſe of Faith and Prayer, which followed God's denial, or ſuſpenſion of his help, as it is here expreſſed; which alſo was attended with deſired ſucceſs.

15 And when the ſons of the prophets which were * to view at Jericho, ſaw him r, they ſaid ſ, The ſpirit of Elijah doth reſt on Eliſha. And they came to meet him, and bowed themſelves to the ground before him ‖.

* Verſe 7.

r Or, as it is in the Hebrew, And the ſons of the Prophets who lived in Jericho, ſaw him over-againſt them, from ſome Hill, where they ſtood at a convenient diſtance, to obſerve the Event, ver. 7. ſ Heb. and they ſaid, either by Revelation, or rather, by the viſible Effects of it, which they ſaw. ‖ Thereby teſtifying their Reverence and Subjection to him, as Elijah's Succeſſor, and their Maſter and Teacher.

16 ¶ And they ſaid unto him, Behold now, there be with thy ſervants fifty † ſtrong men t, let them go, we pray thee, and ſeek thy maſter, leſt peradventure * the ſpirit of the LORD hath taken him up, and caſt him upon † ſome mountain, or into ſome valley u. And he ſaid, Ye ſhall not ſend.

t Able to take ſuch a Journey. u They thought, either 1. That God had not finally taken him away from them, but only for a time. Compare 1 King. 18. 12. which they heartily deſired, and therefore eaſily believed; or that God had only taken away his Soul, and that his Body was caſt down into ſome place, which they deſired to ſeek, that they might give it an honourable Burial.

17 And when they urged him, till he was aſhamed x, he ſaid, Send. They ſent therefore fifty men, and they ſought three days, but found him not.

x (i. e.) To wit, to deny them any longer, leſt they ſhould think his denial proceeded from a neglect of his Maſter, or a contempt of the Sons of the Prophets, or a ſecret content he took in his Maſters loſs, that he might have his Honour and Power. Or, till they were aſhamed, becauſe he did ſo oft, and ſo obſtinately deny their Requeſt.

18 And when they came again to him (for he tarried at Jericho) he ſaid unto them, Did I not ſay unto you, Go not?

19 ¶ And the men of the city ſaid unto Eliſha, Behold, I pray thee, the ſituation of this city is pleaſant, as my lord ſeeth: but the water is naught, and the ground † barren y.

y Either it was ſo Originally, at leaſt, as to that part of the City where the College of the Prophets was; for it is not neceſſary to underſtand this of the whole Territory: or, it became ſo from the Curſe of God inflicted upon it, either when Joſhua firſt took it; or afterwards, when Hiel re-built it. Howſoever, upon the Prophets care, it grew exceeding fruitful, and therefore is commended for its fertility by later Writers.

20 And he ſaid, Bring me a new cruſe z, and put ſalt therein a. And they brought it to him.

z Partly, that there might be no ground of ſuſpicion, that the Cure was wrought by any natural Virtue of any thing which was, or had been in the Cruſe before, but only by God's power: and partly, that there might be no legal pollution in it which might offend God, and hinder his miraculous Operation by it. a A moſt improper Remedy; for Salt naturally makes Waters brackiſh, and Lands barren. Hereby therefore he would ſhew, That this was effected ſolely by the Divine Power, which could work either without means, or againſt them.

21 And he went forth unto the ſpring of the waters, and caſt the ſalt in there b, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, I have healed theſe waters, there ſhall not be from thence any more death c, or barren land.

b Which was in it ſelf idle and ineffectual, conſidering both the quality of Salt, and the ſmall quantity of it, and the place where it was put; the Fountain, which quickly works out any thing which is put into it; See Lev. 11. 36. but was only uſed as a ſign of God's preſence and power, which did the thing; compare Exod. 15. 25. 2 King. 4. 41. & 6. 6. c (i. e.) Hurt, or danger, as death is oft uſed, (as 2 Cor. 11. 23.) to Men or Beaſts, by drinking of it, as formerly.

22 So the waters were healed unto this day, according to the ſaying of Eliſha which he ſpake.

23 ¶ And he went up from thence unto Bethel d: and as he was going up by the way, there came came forth little children e out of the city f, and mocked him, and said unto him, Go up h, thou bald-head i, go up, thou bald-head k.

d To the other School or College of Prophets, to inform them of Elijah's Translation, and his succession into the same Office; and to direct, and comfort, and establish them as he saw occasion. e Or, children: or, young men: as this Hebrew word oft signifies, as Gen. 22. 5, 12. & 41. 12. 2 Chron. 13. 7. Isa. 11. 6. It is more than probable they were old enough to discern between good and evil, as their expression sheweth. f Bethel, which was the Mother-City of Idolatry, 1 King. 12. 28, 29. Hos. 4. 15. & 5. 8. where the Prophets planted themselves, that they might bear witness against it, and dissuade the people from it; though, it seems, they had but small success there. g With great petulancy and vehemency, as the conjugation of the Hebrew Verb signifies; deriding both his person and Ministry, and that from a prophane contempt of the True Religion, and a passionate Love to that Idolatry which they knew he opposed. h Go up into Heaven, whither thou pretendest that Elijah is gone. Why didst not thou accompany thy Friend and Master to Heaven? O that the same Spirit would take thee up also, that thou mightest not trouble us nor our Israel, as Elijah did! i So they mock his Natural Infirmity, which is a great sin. k Their Repetition shew their heartiness and earnestness, that it was no sudden nor rash slip of their Tongue, but a scoff proceeding from a rooted impiety and hatred of God and his Prophets.

24 And he turned back, and looked on them, and cursed them l in the Name of the LORD m: and there came forth two she-bears n out of the wood, and tare forty and two children o of them.

l Nor was this punishment too great for the offence, if it be considered, that these Children were grown up to some maturity: See on v. 23. that their mocking proceeded from a great malignity of mind against God; that they mocked not only a man, and an ancient man, whose very Age commanded reverence; and a Prophet; but even God himself, and that most admirable and glorious Work of God, the assumption of Elijah into Heaven, which makes it in some degree resemble the sin against the Holy Ghost. That they might be guilty of many other heinous Crimes, which God and the Prophet knew; and were guilty of Idolatry, which by Gods Law deserved death; that the Idolatrous Parents were punished in their Children: and that, if any of these Children were more innocent and ignorant of what they said, God might have Mercy upon their Souls, and then this death was not a misery, but a real blessing to them, that they were taken away from that wicked and Idolatrous Education which was most likely to expose them not only to Temporal, but to an Eternal destruction. m Not from any carnal or revengeful passion, but by the motion of Gods Spirit, and by Gods command and commission, as appears by Gods concurrence with him. Which God did partly, for the terror and caution of all other Idolaters and prophane persons who abounded in that place; partly, to vindicate the Honour, and maintain the Authority of his Prophets; and particularly, of Elisha, now especially in the beginning of his sacred Ministry. And this did beget such a confidence in Elisha, that he durst venture to go into Bethel after this was done: and put such a terror in the Bethelites, that they durst not avenge themselves of him. n Possibly robbed of their Whelps, and therefore more fierce. Prov. 17. 12. Hos. 13. 8. but certainly acted by an extraordinary fury, which God raised in them for this purpose. o This Hebrew word signifies not only young Children, but those also who are grown up to maturity, as Gen. 32. 22. & 34. 4. & 37. 30. Ruth 1. 5.

25 And he went from thence to mount Carmel p, and from thence he returned to Samaria q.

p Partly, to decline the fury of the people of Bethel: partly, that he might retire himself from men, and converse more freely with God, and so fit himself more for the discharge of his Employment: and partly, that he might visit the Sons of the Prophets who lived in that place, or near it. q By the direction of Gods Spirit for the service which he did, chap. 3. 11, &c.

CHAP. III.

1 NOw Jehoram the son of Ahab began to reign over Israel in Samaria, the eighteenth year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah a, and reigned twelve years.

a Quest. How can this be true, when Ahaziah, Jehoram's predecessor, who reigned two years, began his Reign in Jehoshaphat's 17*th* year, 1 King. 22. 51? Ans. Either, Ahaziah, reigned the greatest part of two years, to wit, of the 17*th* and 18*th* years of Jehoshaphat, (parts of years being oft called years in the computation of times, both in Scripture and other Authors) and Jehoram began his Reign towards the end of his 18*th* year: or, Ahaziah reigned part of this two years with his Father, and the rest after him.

2 And he wrought evil in the sight of the LORD, but not like his father, and like his mother: for he put away the image † of Baal, * that his father had made b.

† Heb. statue. * 1 Kin. 16. 31, 32.

b Not from any principle of Conscience (for that would have reached the Calves also): but either, because he was startled at the dreadful Judgments of God inflicted upon his Father and Brother for Baal-worship: or, because he needed Gods help to subdue the Moabites, which he knew Baal could not do: or, to gratifie Jehoshaphat, whose help he meant to crave, which he knew he should never obtain without this; and for this reason, it seems, Jezebel was willing to connive at it, as a trick of State.

3 Nevertheless, he cleaved unto the sins of Jeroboam c the son of Nebat, which made Israel to sin: he departed not therefrom.

c (i. e.) The worship of the Calves: which all the Kings of Israel kept up as a Wall of partition between their Subjects and those of Judah. Thus he shews that his Religion was over-ruled by his Interest and Policy.

4 ¶ And Mesha king of Moab was a sheep-master d, and rendred unto the king of Israel an hundred thousand lambs, and an hundred thousand rams, with the wool.

d A man of great wealth (which in those times and places consisted much in Cattel), which enabled and emboldned him to rebel against his Sovereign Lord.

5 But it came to pass, when * Ahab was dead, that the king of Moab rebelled e against the king of Israel.

e See of this ch. 1. 1. It is here repeated to make way for the following story. Ahaziah did not attempt the recovery of Moab: either, because he was a man of a low spirit and courage: or, because his sickness, or the shortness of his Reign, gave not opportunity for it.

6 ¶ And king Jehoram went out of Samaria f the same time, and numbred all Israel g.

f To some place appointed for the Rendezvous of his people. g To wit, such as were fit for War.

7 And he went and sent to Jehoshaphat the king of Judah, saying, The king of Moab hath rebelled against me: wilt thou go with me against Moab to battel? and he said, I will go up: I am as thou art, my people as thy people, and my horses as thy horses h.

h Of which see on 1 King. 22. 4. He joyns with him in this War; partly, because the War was very just in it self, and convenient for Jehoshaphat, both in the general, that Rebels and Revolters should be chastised and suppressed, lest the Example should pass into his Dominions, and the Edomites should be hereby encouraged to revolt from him, as they did from his Son; and in particular, that the Moabites should be humbled, who had with others Invaded his Land before this time, 2 Chron. 20. 1. and might do so again, if they were not brought low; for which a fair opportunity was now offered to him; and partly, because Jehoram had reformed some things, and Jehoshaphat hoped by this means to engage him to proceed further in that work.

8 And he i said, Which way shall we go up? And he answered, The way through the wilderness of Edom k.

i Either, Jehoshaphat: or rather, Joram: for the following answer may seem to be Jehoshaphat's. k Which though it was much the longer way, yet they thought it best; partly, to secure the King or Vice-Roy of Edom, of whom they might have some suspicion, from that passage, 2 Chron. 20. 22. and to carry both him and his Soldiers along with them into the War, both to get their assistance, and to prevent them from making a War of diversion against Judah, whilst Jehoshaphat was engaged against Moab: and partly, that they might invade Moab on their weakest side, and where they least expected them. God also thus disposed their hearts to make way for the following miracle.

9 So

9 So the king of Iſrael went, and the king of Judah, and the king of Edom l: and they fetcht a compaſs of ſeven days journey m: and there was no water n for the hoſt, and for the cattel † that followed them.

† Heb. at their feet.

l i. e. The Vice-Roy under Jehoſhaphat, 1 King. 22. 47. here called king; either, becauſe he was ſo called and accounted by his own people: or, becauſe that word is ſometimes uſed for any Prince or chief Ruler. See Deut. 33. 5. Judg. 18. 1. and 21. 25. 1 King. 20. 1. m Becauſe they made a great Army, which could move but ſlowly; and they fetched a greater compaſs than was uſual, for ſome advantage which they expected by it. n A frequent want in thoſe hot and deſert parts; and now, as it ſeems, increaſed by the extraordinary heat and dryneſs of the ſeaſon.

10 And the King of Iſrael ſaid, Alas, that the LORD hath called theſe three kings together, to deliver them into the hand of Moab o.

o So he chargeth his calamity upon God, and not upon himſelf, whoſe ſins were the true and proper cauſes of it.

11 But Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD, that we may enquire of the LORD by him p? And one of the king of Iſraels ſervants anſwered and ſaid, Here is Eliſha the ſon of Shaphat, which poured water on the hands of Elijah q.

p This he ſhould have asked before, when they firſt undertook the expedition, as he did in a like caſe, 1 King. 22. 5. and for that neglect he now ſuffers: but better late than never: his affliction brings him to the remembrance of his former ſin, and preſent duty. q i. e. Who was his Servant: this being one office of a Servant: and this office was the more neceſſary among the Iſraelites, becauſe of the frequent waſhings which their Law required.

12 And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, The word of the LORD is with him r. So the king of Iſrael, and Jehoſhaphat, and the king of Edom, went down to him ſ.

r We may enquire the mind of God by him: for he is a true Prophet. Which Jehoſhaphat might eaſily underſtand, becauſe being a good man, and a great favourer of the Lords Prophets, he would diligently enquire, and many perſons would be ready to inform him of all things of that nature, and, amongſt others, of Elijah's calling of Eliſha, by caſting his Prophetical Mantle over him, 1 King. 19. 19. and of Elijah's Tranſlation, and Eliſha's ſubſtitution in his place, and of the proof of it, 2 Kin. 2. 8, 14. ſ To his Tent; which was either in the Camp, or not far from it: for he went along with the Army by the impulſe of Gods Spirit, for this very occaſion. They did not ſend for him, but went to him, that by giving him this honour, they might more effectually ingage him to give them his utmoſt aſſiſtance; and, becauſe they had heard that he was a man of a rugged temper and carriage, who therefore was to be ſweetned, and ſo diſpoſed to pity and relieve them.

13 And Eliſha ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, What have I to do with thee t? * Get thee to the prophets of thy father, and to the prophets of thy mother u. And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto him, Nay x: for the LORD hath called theſe three kings y together to deliver them into the hand of Moab.

* So Judges 10. 14. Ruth 1. 15.

t I deſire to have no diſcourſe nor converſe with thee. u i. e. To the Calves, which thou after thy Fathers Example doſt worſhip; and to the Baals, which thy Mother yet worſhippeth by thy permiſſion; and to which thy heart is yet inclined, though thou haſt deſtroyed one of his Images for politick reaſons. Let theſe Idols whom thou worſhippeſt in thy Proſperity, now help thee in thy diſtreſs. x I renounce thoſe falſe Prophets and Baals, and will ſeek to none but God for help. y If thou haſt no reſpect for me, yet pity this innocent King of Edom, and good Jehoſhaphat, who are involved in the ſame danger with my ſelf.

14 And Eliſha ſaid, As the LORD of hoſts liveth, before whom I ſtand, Surely were it not that I regard the preſence of Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah z, I would not look toward thee, nor ſee thee.

z Whom I Reverence and Love for his Vertue and Piety.

15 But now bring me a minſtrel a. And it came to paſs when the minſtrel played, that the hand of the LORD b † came upon him.

† Heb. was.

a One that can Sing and Play upon a Muſical Inſtrument. This he requires, that his mind which had been diſturbed and inflamed with Holy anger at the ſight of wicked Jehoram, might be compoſed and cheered, and united within it ſelf, and that he might be excited to the more fervent prayer to God, and joyfully praiſing him; whereby he was prepared to receive the Propherical Inſpiration. For although Prophecy be the Gift of God, yet men might do ſomething either to hinder or further the reception of it: for which cauſe Paul bids Chriſtians ſtudy to get the Gift of Prophecy, 1 Cor. 14. 1. And for this very end the Colledges of the Prophets were erected, wherein the Sons of the Prophets did uſe divers means to procure this Gift, which alſo they did ſometimes receive, as we ſee 2 King. 3. 15. where amongſt other means, they uſed Inſtruments of Muſick to enthuſiaſtrate their ſpirits, &c. 1 Sam. 10. 5. Of the great power of Muſick upon the affections, ſee the Notes on 1 Sam. 16. 23. † b i. e. The Spirit of Prophecy, ſo called, to note that it was not from Eliſha's temper of body or mind; that it was no natural nor acquired vertue inherent in him; but a ſingular Gift of God, given to whom and when he pleaſed. This Phraſe is uſed alſo Ezek. 1. 3. and 3. 14, 22. and 8. 1.

16 And he ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, Make this valley † full of ditches c.

† Heb. ditches, ditches.

c Which may receive the Water, and hold it for the uſe of Men and Beaſts.

17 For thus ſaith the LORD, Ye ſhall not ſee wind d, neither ſhall ye ſee rain, yet that valley ſhall be filled with water, that ye may drink, both ye, and your cattel, and your beaſts.

d Any of thoſe winds which commonly produce Rain. And ſeeing is here put for perceiving or feeling, one ſenſe for another, or for all, as Gen. 42. 1. compare Act. 7. 12. Exod. 20. 18. and elſewhere.

18 And this is but a light thing in the ſight of the LORD e, he will deliver the Moabites alſo into your hand.

e This is but a ſmall favour in compariſon of what he intends to you for Jehoſhaphat's ſake. He will give you more than you ask or expect. For they were ſo weakned and diſcouraged with the great drought, that they had no hopes of proceeding in the offenſive War, and thought it ſufficient, if it were poſſible, to Defend themſelves from the Moabites, ver. 13.

19 And ye ſhall ſmite every fenced city, and every choice city, and ſhall fell every good tree f, and ſtop all wells of water, and † mar every good piece of land with ſtones.

† Heb. grieve, make uſeleſs.

f This is, Either, Firſt, A command; and then the laſt clauſe is an exception from that Law, Deut. 20. 19. which being delivered by a Prophet, might be obeyed. And if this command ſeem ſevere, it muſt be conſidered, that the Moabites were a very wicked people, perfidious, cruel, implacable Enemies to Gods People upon all occaſions, and now in a ſtate of Rebellion. Or rather, Secondly, A Prediction of their ſucceſs, that they ſhould have ſo full and compleat a Victory, that they ſhould be able to do all which is here expreſſed.

20 And it came to paſs in the morning, when the meat-offering was offered g, that behold, there came water h by the way of Edom i, and the countrey was filled with water.

g i. e. The Morning-Sacrifice: of which Exod. 29. 39, 40. which doubtleſs was attended with the Solemn Prayers of Gods People, as the Evening-Sacrifice unqueſtionably was, Act. 3. 1. there being the ſame reaſon for ſubſtance for both times. At this time Eliſha joined his Prayers with the Prayers of Gods People, eſpecially thoſe at Jeruſalem, as he had done at a like time, 1 King. 18. 29. and this time God choſe to anſwer his and their Prayers, and to work this Miracle, that thereby he might determine the controverſie between the Iſraelites and Jews, about the place and manner of worſhip, and give a publick Teſtimony from Heaven for the Jews, and againſt the Iſraelites. h Miraculouſly produced out of ſome Rock or Vein of the Earth. i From thoſe parts which were towards Edom.

21 ¶ And when all the Moabites heard that the kings were come up to fight againſt them, they † gathered all that were able to † put on armour k, and upward, and ſtood in the border l.

† Heb. were cried together. † Heb. gird himſelf with a girdle.

k Heb. to gird on a girdle, i. e. a Military Girdle, to which the Sword was faſtened, 2 Sam. 20. 8. 1 King. 2. 5. l Or, in that border, to wit, of their Countrey, which was towards Edom, which way they underſtood the Kings came. Here they ſtood probably to defend the paſſages into their Countrey.

22 And they roſe up early in the morning, and the ſun ſhone upon the water, and the Moabites ſaw the water on the other ſide as red as blood m.

m Becauſe of the Morning-Sun, which meeting with the Vapours that aroſe from the Earth, and ſhining through them upon the Water, gave it a reddiſh tincture. God alſo ſo ordered things, that their ſences and ſpecies were diſturbed, or the Air ſo diſpoſed, that it might ſeem of this Colour. And they might more eaſily miſtake this for Blood, becauſe they knew that that ground was generally dry, and without any trenches or ſtreams of Water, now especially in this dry season, there being no noise of Wind and Rain, v. 17. And they might justly think that the three Kings being divided in their Religion and Interests, and discontented for want of Water, might fall into dissentions and heats, and mutual slaughters, of which they had a late example, 2 Chron. 20. 22, 23.

23 And they said, This is blood: the kings are surely † slain, and they have smitten one another: now therefore Moab to the spoil m.

† Heb. destroyed.

m They were so highly confident, that they send no Scouts, but March thither with their whole Army, and that in great disorder. Wherein there was also a Divine hand, strengthning them in their mistakes, and hardening them to their destruction.

24 And when they came to the camp of Israel, the Israelites rose up and smote the Moabites, so that they fled before them: but ‖ they went forward smiting the Moabites, even in their country o.

‖ Or, they smote in it, even smiting.

o They pursued them to their own Countrey, and entred it, with and after them; the passes, which before the Moabits defended, being now open for them.

25 And they beat down the cities, and on every good piece of land cast every man his stone p, and filled it, and they stopped all the wells of water, and felled all the good trees: † onely in Kir-haraseth q left they the stones thereof r: howbeit the slingers s went about it, and smote it t.

p The Stones which happily had been with great care and pains pickt out of the Land, and laid in heaps after the manner, they dispersed again, and slew the people, who should have cleansed them again. q Which was the Royal and strongest City of the Moabits, Isa. 16. 7, 11. into which the remnant of the Moabits were gathered, where also their King was with them. r The Walls and Buildings of this City onely were left; other Cities, and, in a manner, their whole Countrey being utterly destroyed. s Either, First, Such as slung small Stones against those that stood upon the Wall to defend it. Or rather, Secondly, Such as slung great Stones against the Walls to break them down, according to the manner of those times. t i. e. Made breaches in the Walls, by which they might enter into the City, and take it.

26 ¶ And when the king of Moab saw that the battel was too sore for him, he took with him seven hundred men that drew swords, to break through even unto the king of Edom u: but they could not.

u That being unable to defend the City longer, he might make an escape: which he chose to do on the King of Edom's Quarter; because he thought either that his was the weakest side: or, that he would more willingly suffer him to escape, because he was not so hearty in the War as the rest, but onely forced to it, and he might hereafter have some occasion of the King of Moab to joyn with him, as before he had, 2 Chron. 20. 22.

27 Then he took his eldest son x that should have reigned in his stead, and * offered him for a burnt-offering upon the wall y, and there was † great indignation against Israel z, and they departed from him, and returned to their own land.

* Amos 2. 1.
† Heb. great repentance upon Israel.

x Either, First, the King of Edom's Son; whom in his eruption he took, and then Sacrificed. Compare Amos 2. 1. But, First, That place speaks of the king, not of the kings son; and of the burning of his bones, not of the offering of a living man for a Burnt-Offering. Secondly, This would not have made the Besiegers to raise their Siege, but to have followed it more warmly to revenge so barbarous an action. Thirdly, The following clause, that should have reigned in his stead, agrees not so well to the Edomites, whose King was onely Jehoshaphat's Vice-Roy, and therefore his Son had no right to succeed him; as it doth to the Moabites, whose King was revolted from Israel, and intended to keep that Kingdom to himself and Children. Or rather, Secondly, His own Son: whom he Sacrificed; partly, to obtain the favour of his God, according to the manner of the Phœnicians, and other people in grievous and publick Calamities; whereof we have manifest testimonies, both in Scripture, as Psal. 106. 37. Ezek. 20. 31. and in Heathen Authors, as Porphyrius, Plutarch and others: and partly, to oblige the Israelites to quit the Siege out of compassion; or, as despairing to Conquer (at least without greater loss of men than it was worth) him who was resolved to defend himself and City to the utmost extremity. y That the Besiegers might see it, and be moved by it. z Or, great trouble, or repentance upon Israel, i. e. the Israelitish King and People (who was the first cause of the War, and had brought the rest into Confederacy with him) were greatly afflicted and grieved for this barbarous action, and resolved to prosecute the War no further, and so withdrew their Forces, as also did their Allies, and returned to their several Homes. Which they were the more willing to do, because the Kingdom and Countrey of Moab were so ruinated, both as to their Men, and Cities, or Villages, and Lands, that they were all secure of any great annoyance from it.

CHAP. IV.

NOW there cried a certain woman of the wives of the sons of the prophets a unto Elisha, saying, Thy servant my husband is dead, and thou knowest that thy servant did fear the LORD b: and the creditor is come to take unto him my two sons to be bond-men c.

a Who, though they were wholly devoted to Sacred employment, were not excluded from Marriage, no more than the Priests and Levites. b His Poverty therefore was not procured by his idleness, or prodigality, or rather, wickedness; but by his Piety, because he would not comply with the Kings way of worship, and therefore lost all worldly advantages. c Either, to use them as his Slaves, or to sell them to others, according to his Law. Of which see Exod. 21. 2. Levit. 25. 39. Isa. 50. 1. Matth. 18. 25.

2 And Elisha said unto her, What shall I do for thee d? Tell me, what hast thou in the house e? And she said, Thine hand-maid hath not any thing in the house, save a pot of oil f.

d How shall I relieve thee, who am my self poor? e Which may contribute to the Payment of thy Debts, or, at least, to the satisfaction of thy Creditors, who may perchance deal favourably with thee through my persuasion. f Which was useful for divers things about the Service of God, and health, or delight, or ornament, and other uses of men. See Judg. 9. 9.

3 Then he said, Go, borrow thee vessels abroad of all thy neighbours, even empty vessels, ‖ borrow not a few.

‖ Or, scant not.

4 And when thou art come in, thou shalt shut the door upon thee g, and upon thy sons, and shalt pour out h into all those vessels, and thou shalt set aside that which is full.

g Partly, that none may hinder thee from minding thy work of filling and removing the Vessels, which will require attention and diligence: partly, that thou alone maist enjoy the benefit of it: partly, lest any of thy Creditors should break in upon thee, and seize upon thy borrowed Vessels before they are filled: partly, that thy mind being freed from distraction, may be wholly employed in Prayer and Praising of God: and partly, that it may be manifest that this is the work of God alone. h Out of the Pot, in which God multiplied the Oil from time to time.

5 So she went from him, and shut the door upon her, and upon her sons: who brought the vessels to her, and she poured out.

6 And it came to pass when the vessels were full, that she said unto her son i, Bring me yet a vessel. And he said unto her, There is not a vessel more. And the oil stayed k.

i To one of them: for she had two, v. 1. k To teach us, that we should not waste any of Gods Good Creatures; and that God would not work Miracles unnecessarily.

7 Then she came and told the man of God: and he said, Go, sell the oil, and pay thy ‖ debt, and live thou and thy children of the rest l.

‖ Or, creditor.

l First do Justice to others, and then take care of thy self and Children.

8 ¶ And † it fell on a day, that Elisha passed to Shunem m, where was a great woman n; and she † constrained him o to eat bread p. And so it was, that as oft as he passed by, he turned in thither to eat bread.

† Heb. there was a day.
† Heb. laid hold on him.

m A City in Issachar, near Mount Carmel, Jos 19. 17, 18. whither the Prophet frequently went. n For Estate, or Birth and Quality. See Gen. 24. 35. 1 Sam. 25. 2. o By her importunate desire. p To take his repast there.

9 And she said unto her husband, Behold, now I perceive, that this is an holy man of God q, which passeth by us continually.

q A Prophet, as Judg. 13. 6. and that of eminent Holiness: by our kindness to whom, we shall procure a blessing to our selves.

10 Let us make a little chamber, I pray thee, on the wall r, and let us set for him there a bed, and a table, and a stool, and a candlestick s: and it it shall be when he cometh to us, that he shall turn in thither.

r That he may be free from the noise of Family-business, and enjoy that privacy, which, I perceive, he desireth for his Prayers and Meditations. s He will not be troublesome or chargeable to us: he cares not for rich Furniture or costly Entertainment, and is content with bare necessaries.

11 And it fell on a day that he came thither, and he turned into the chamber, and lay there.

12 And he said to Gehazi his servant, Call this Shunammite. And when he had called her, she stood before him s.

s i. e. Before the Prophet, in the door of his Chamber, as it is said, ver. 15. The relation seems to be a little perplexed, but may be thus conceived. It is in this Verse recorded in the general, That the Prophet sent Gehazi to call her, and that she came to him upon that call: then follows a particular description of the whole business, with all the circumstances, first, of the Message with which Gehazi was sent when he went to call her, and of her answer to that Message, ver. 13. and of Gehazi's conjecture thereupon, ver. 14. and then of her coming to the Prophet at his call: which is there repeated to make way for the following passages.

‖ Or, had said. 13 And he said ‖ unto him, Say now unto her, Behold, thou hast been careful for us with all this care, What is to be done for thee t? Wouldest thou be spoken for to the king, or to the captain of the host u? And she answered, I dwell among mine own people x.

t Wherewith shall I recompence all thy care and kindness to me and my Servant? u With whom he justly had great power for his eminent service, chap. 3. x I live in Love and Peace among my Kindred and Friends; nor have I any cause to complain of them, or to seek relief from higher powers.

14 And he said, What then is to be done for her * ? And Gehazi answered, Verily she hath no child, and her husband is old.

* Hast thou observed any thing which she wants or desires? For the Prophet kept himself much in his Chamber, whilst Gehazi went more freely about the House, as his occasions led him.

15 And he said, Call her. And when he had called her, she stood in the door y.

y Out of reverence, humility, and modesty, waiting till he came to her, or called her further in to him.

† Heb. set time. 16 And he said, About this † season, according to the time of life z, thou shalt imbrace a son. And she said, Nay, my lord, thou man of God, do not lye unto thine hand-maid a.

z Of which Phrase see on Gen. 18. 10. a Do not delude me with vain hopes. She could not believe it for joy, and supposed the Prophet might say thus, either for her trial, or from his own private judgment and affection, and not by warrant from God.

17 And the woman conceived and bare a son, at that season that Elisha had said unto her, according to the time of life.

18 ¶ And when the child was grown, it fell on a day, that he went out to his father to the reapers.

19 And he said to his father, My head, my head b: and he said to a lad, Carry him to his mother.

b His Head was grievously pained: which possibly came from the heat of the Harvest-Season, to which he was exposed in the field.

20 And when he had taken him, and brought him to his mother, he sat on her knees till noon, and then died.

21 And she went up, and laid him on the bed of the man of God, and shut the door upon him c, and went out.

c Partly, in hopes that this might contribute something to the Childs restitution to Life, she having in all probability had an account of the like Miracle done by Elijah, 1 King. 17. 21. and partly, that she might for the present conceal the death of the Child: which if it had been known, would have filled her Husband with grief, and hindred her journey, and opened the mouths of the Enemies of God and his Prophets to blaspheme: whereas she had a confidence put into her by God, that the Prophet could and would restore her Son.

22 And she called unto her husband, and said, Send me, I pray thee, one of the young men, and one of the asses, that I may run to the man of God, and come again.

23 And he said, Wherefore wilt thou go to him to day? it is neither new moon nor sabbath d. And she said, It shall be † well e.

† Heb. peace.

d Which were the chief and usual times in which they resorted to the Prophets for instruction, for which he supposed she now went, not suspecting but that the Child was well by this time. e My going will not be troublesome to him, nor prejudicial to thee or me. Heb. peace, i. e. Peace be to thee, farewel, or be contented, let me go.

24 Then she saddled an ass, and said to her servant, Drive, and go forward: ‖ slack not thy riding for me, except I bid thee.

‖ Heb. restrain not for me to ride.

25 So she went, and came unto the man of God to mount Carmel: and it came to pass when the man of God saw her afar off, that he said to Gehazi his servant, Behold, yonder is that Shunammite:

26 Run now, I pray thee, to meet her, and say unto her, Is it well with thee? Is it well with thy husband? Is it well with the child? And she answered, It is well f.

f So it was in some respects, because it was the will of a Wise and Good God, and therefore best for her. Or, it shall be well: though the Child be dead, I doubt not by Gods blessing upon thy endeavours, it shall live again and do well. But she answers ambiguously, and briefly too, that she might sooner come to the Prophet, and more fully open her mind to him.

27 And when she came to the man of God to the hill, she caught ‖ him by the feet g: but Gehazi came near to thrust her away h. And the man of God said, Let her alone, for her soul is * vexed within her i: and the LORD hath hid it from me, and hath not told me k.

‖ Heb. by his feet. * Heb. bitter.

g She fell at his Feet and touched them, as a most humble and earnest suppliant. Compare 1 Sam. 25. 24. Matth. 28. 9. Withal, she intimated, what she durst not presume to express in words, that she desired him to go along with her. h Judging this posture indecent for her, and offensive to her Master. i Disturb her not, for this uncouth gesture is a sign of some extraordinary grief. k Whereby he signifies, that what he knew or did, was not by any vertue inherent and abiding in himself, but onely from God, who revealed to him onely what and when he pleased. Compare 2 Sam. 7. 3.

28 Then she said, Did I desire a son of my lord l? Did not I say, Do not deceive me m?

l This Child was not given to me upon my immoderate desire, for which I might have justly been thus chastised, as Rachel was, Gen. 30. 1. compare with 35. 18. but was freely promised to me by thee in Gods Name, and from his special Grace and Favour: and therefore I trust both thou didst pray for it, and God design it as a blessing, and not as an affliction, as now it proves, unless thou dost obtain the Child for me a second time, which I know thou canst do, and I humbly beg thee to do. m With vain hopes of a comfort that I should never have. And I had been much happier if I had never had it, than to lose it so quickly. Therefore thou art in some measure concerned to revive my dead hopes, and to continue to me the great blessing which thou hast procured.

29 Then he said to Gehazi, Gird up thy loins n, and take my staff in thy hand, and go thy way: if thou meet any man, salute him not: and if any salute thee, answer him not again o: and lay my staff upon the face of the child p.

n Tie up thy long Garments about thy Loins for expedition. See 1 King. 18. 46. o An Hyperbolical expression: Make no delays nor stops by the way, neither by words nor actions, but go with all possible speed. Compare Luk. 10. 4. He requires this haste, that the Miracle might be done secretly and speedily before the Childs death was divulged, which might cause many inconveniences. See on ver. 21. p For God can work a Miracle by the most unlikely and contemptible means, as he did by a Rod, Exod. 14. 16. and a Mantle, 2 Kings 2. 8.

30 And the mother of the child said, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee q. And he arose and followed her.

q Until thou goest home with me. For she had no great confidence in Gehazi, nor was her Faith so strong as to think that the Prophet could work so great a Miracle at this distance, and by his Staff: which possibly was one reason why this did no good. Compare Matth. 9. 18. and 13. 58. and 17. 20.

31 And Gehazi passed on before them, and laid the staff upon the face of the child, but there was neither voice, nor * hearing r: wherefore he went again to meet him, and told him, saying, The child is not awaked s.

* Heb. attention.

r i. e. Neither ſpeech, nor ſenſe, nor any ſign of life, to wit, in the Child. Which diſappointment might proceed from hence, that Eliſha having changed his mind, and yielded to her importunity to go with her, did alter his courſe, and not joyn his fervent Prayers with Gehazi's action, but reſerved them till he came thither. s i. e. Not revived: death being oft and fitly compared to a ſleep, as Pſal. 76. 5. Dan. 12. 2. becauſe of the Reſurrection which will in due time follow it, and here followed ſpeedily, which makes the expreſſion moſt proper in this place.

32 And when Eliſha was come into the houſe, behold, the child was dead, and laid upon his bed.

33 He went in therefore, and ſhut the door upon them twain t, and prayed unto the LORD.

t Upon himſelf and the dead Child, that he might pray to God without diſtraction, and might more freely uſe all thoſe geſtures and means which he thought fit.

34 And he went up and lay upon the child u, and put his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands x, and he ſtretched himſelf upon the child, and the fleſh of the child waxed warm y.

u And although ſome ceremonial uncleanneſs might ſeem to be contracted by the touch of this dead Body, yet that was juſtly to give place to a Moral Duty, and to an action of ſo great Piety and Charity as this was, eſpecially when done by a Prophet, and by the inſtinct of Gods Spirit, who can diſpence with his own Laws. x One part upon another ſucceſſively; for the diſproportion of the Bodies would not permit it to be done together. Compare 1 King. 17. 21. Act. 20. 10. y Not by any external heat, which could not be tranſmitted to the Childs Body by ſuch ſlight touches of the Prophets Body; but by a Natural heat, proceeding from a principle of Life, which was already infuſed into the Child, and by degrees enlivened all the parts of his Body.

35 Then he returned and walked in the houſe ‖ to and fro z, and went up and ſtretched himſelf upon him a: and the child neeſed ſeven times, and the child opened his eyes b.

‖ Heb. once hither, and once thither.

z He changed his poſtures for his own neceſſary refreſhment, and walked to and fro, exerciſing his mind in Prayer to God, and Faith, for the accompliſhment of this work. a Repeating his former actions, to teach us not to be diſcouraged in our Prayers if we be not ſpeedily anſwered, but to wait with patience, and continue, and be inſtant in Prayer, till we obtain what we ſeek for. b So the work begun in the former Verſe, is here perfected. Although Miracles were for the moſt part done in an inſtant, yet ſometimes they were done by degrees, as here, and 1 King 18. 44, 45. Mark 8. 24, 25.

36 And he called Gehazi, and ſaid, Call this Shunammite. So he called her, and when ſhe was come in unto him c, he ſaid, Take up thy ſon.

c Heb. come to him, to wit, to the Door of his Chamber: where probably he met her with this joyful Meſſage.

37 Then ſhe went in d, and fell at his feet, and bowed her ſelf to the ground, and took up her ſon, and went out.

d Into his Chamber, and, after ſhe had done him honour, to the Bed where the Child lay, whence ſhe took him, and went her way.

38 ¶ And Eliſha came again to Gilgal e, and there was a dearth in the land, and the ſons of the prophets were ſitting before him f: and he ſaid unto his ſervant, Set on the great pot, and ſee the pottage g for the ſons of the prophets.

e When he came with Eliſah, chap. 2. 1. where was a School of the Prophets, whom he deſigned to comfort concerning the preſent Dearth, and their other diſcouragements, and to confirm in the profeſſion and practice of Religion, and to inſtruct in the Duties of the preſent ſeaſon. f At his Feet, as Scholars to be taught by him. See chap. 2. 3. Act. 22. 3. g He provides no delicious Meats, but meer neceſſaries, to teach them the contempt of worldly delights.

39 And one went out into the field to gather herbs, and found a wild vine h, and gathered thereof wild gourds his lapful, and came and ſhred them into the pot of pottage: for they knew them not.

h A Plant called Coloquintida, whoſe Gourds or Leaves, reſemble the Leaves of a Vine, and are very bitter, and pernicious to the eater.

40 So they poured out for the men to eat: and it came to paſs as they were eating of the pottage, that they cried out, and ſaid, O thou man of God, there is death in the pot i: and they could not eat thereof.

i i. e. Some deadly thing: which they gathered from its exceſſive bitterneſs, by which poſſibly ſome of them might diſcern what it was.

41 But he ſaid, Then bring meal: and he caſt it into the pot k: and he ſaid, Pour out for the people, that they may eat: and there was no ‖ harm in the pot l.

‖ Heb. evil thing.

k Together with the Pottage which they had taken out of it. l The Meal took away that hurtful quality, not by its natural power, which could do little in ſo ſhort a time, but by the Supernatural Bleſſing of God upon it.

42 ¶ And there came a man from Baal-ſhaliſha, and brought the man of God bread of the firſt fruits m, twenty loaves n of barley, and full ears of corn ‖ in the huſk thereof: and he ſaid, Give unto the people o, that they may eat.

‖ Or, in his ſcrip, or garment.

m Which were the Prieſts due, Numb. 18. 2. but theſe, and probably the reſt of the Prieſts dues, were uſually brought by the Pious Iſraelites, according to their ability and opportunity, to the Lords Prophets; partly, becauſe they did a great part of the Prieſts Office; and partly, becauſe they were not permitted to carry them to Jeruſalem; and they might reaſonably think, that their circumſtances being extraordinary, would warrant their giving of them to extraordinary Perſons; and that thoſe ceremonial Inſtitutions ought to give place to the greater Laws of neceſſity and mercy to the Lords Prophets. And this paſſage ſeems to be noted here, not onely on occaſion of the following Miracle; but alſo, that by this one inſtance, we might underſtand how ſo many Schools of the Prophets were ſupported. n Small Loaves, as appears, both becauſe one Man brought them all ſo far; and becauſe, otherwiſe there had been no Miracle here. o To wit, the Sons of the Prophets, who were then preſent with him, ver. 38.

43 And his ſervitor ſaid, What ſhould I ſet this before an hundred men? He ſaid again, Give the people, that they may eat: for thus ſaith the LORD, * They ſhall eat, and ſhall leave thereof.

* Joh. 6. 11.

44 So he ſet it before them, and they did eat, and left thereof, according to the word of the LORD.

CHAP. V.

NOW Naaman, captain of the hoſt of the king of Syria, was a great man * with his maſter a, and ‖ * honourable b, becauſe by him the LORD had given ‖ deliverance unto Syria c: he was alſo a mighty man of valour, but he was a leper.

* Heb. before. ‖ Or, gracious. * Heb. lifted up, or, accepted in countenance. ‖ Or, Victory.

a In great power and favour with the King of Syria. b Highly eſteemed both for his quality and ſucceſs. c Which expreſſion he uſeth, partly, to mind the Iſraelites, that all the hurt they had from the Syrians was from the Lord, who uſed them as his Rod, and gave them the ſucceſſes againſt Iſrael, which are Recorded; and partly, to check that proud conceit which then was working, and afterwards more fully diſcovered it ſelf in the Iſraelitiſh Nation, as if the Care, and Providence, and Goodneſs of God, were wholly confined to themſelves, and not imparted to any other People.

2 And the Syrians had gone out by companies d, and had brought away captive out of the land of Iſrael a little maid, and ſhe * waited on e Naamans wife.

3 And ſhe ſaid unto her miſtreſs, Would God my lord were * with the prophet that is in Samaria f; for he would ‖ recover him of his leproſie g.

Or, Secondly, In the City of Samaria: where he was when ſhe was taken: or, where he commonly reſided, though he went to other places, as need required. g Or, take him away (as this Hebrew Verb is uſed, Gen. 30. 23. Zeph. 1. 2.) from his leproſie, i. e. take away his Leproſy from him.

4 And one went in, and told his lord h, ſaying, Thus and thus ſaid the maid that is of the land of Iſrael.

b One of Naaman's Servants hearing this, went in and told it to Naaman, and he to the King of Syria, which is implied. Or, And he went in, &c. i. e. Naaman, mentioned, ver. 1. hearing this from his Wife, told it to the King of Syria, as the next words intimate.

5 And the king of Syria i said, Go to, go, and I will send a letter unto the king of Israel k. And he departed, and took * with him ten talents of silver, and six thousand pieces of gold l, and ten changes of raiment.

* Heb. in his hand.

i Joram the Son of Ahab, chap. 3. 1. k Desiring him to obtain this favour from the Prophet. l Partly, for the Charges of his Journey; and partly, for Presents to the Prophet, or others, as he saw fit.

6 And he brought the letter to the king of Israel, saying, Now when this letter is come unto thee, behold, I have therewith sent Naaman my servant to thee, that thou mayest recover him m of his leprosie.

m i. e. Procure his recovery by the means of Elisha, v. 3, 4. whom thou maist command to use his utmost skill and power herein.

7 And it came to pass, when the king of Israel had read the letter, that he rent his clothes n, and said, Am * I God, to kill and to make alive o, that this man doth send unto me to recover a man of his leprosie? Wherefore consider, I pray you, and see how he seeketh a quarrel against me p.

* Deut. 32. 39. and 1 Sam. 2. 6.

n Either, in detestation of his Blasphemy, in giving Gods Perfections to him: or rather, for grief, arising from a suspition and fear that the Syrian made this onely a pretence for the War which he designed against him. o He expresseth it thus, because Leprosy is a kind or degree of Death, Numb. 12. 12. and he thought it as impossible to cure it, as to raise the Dead. p For not doing what he requires, which he knows impossible for me to do.

8 ¶ And it was so, when Elisha the man of God q had heard, that the king of Israel had rent his clothes, that he sent to the king, saying, Wherefore hast thou rent thy clothes r? Let him come now to me, and he shall know that there is a prophet in Israel.

q Whom Joram had not advised with, either, because the sudden surprisal made him forget it: or, because he hated him, and scorned to beg any thing from him. r There was no just occasion for thee to do so.

9 So Naaman came with his horses, and with his chariot, and stood at the door of the house of Elisha s.

s Waiting for Elisha's coming to him.

10 And Elisha sent a messenger unto him t, saying, Go, and wash in Jordan seven times, and thy flesh shall come again u unto thee, and * thou shalt be clean.

* Heb. be clean.

t Which he did, partly, to try and exercise Naaman's Faith and Obedience: partly, for the honour of his Religion and Ministry, that it might appear he sought not his own glory and profit in his miraculous performances, but onely Gods Honour, and the good of Men: and partly, for the discovery of the Almighty Power of God, that could by such slight means cure so desperate a Disease. u Which was in great part consumed by the Leprosy. See Numb. 12. 12.

11 But Naaman was wroth x, and went away, and said, Behold, I * thought y, he will surely come out to me, and stand, and call on the Name of the LORD his God, and ‖ strike his hand over the place z, and recover the leper.

* Heb. said, or, I said with my self, He will surely come out.

‖ Heb. move up and down.

x Supposing himself despised and mocked by the Prophet. y Herein he gives an Example of the perverseness of Mankind, who are apt to prefer their own fancies before Gods appointments. z Over or upon the affected part where the Leprosy is; without which it seemed to him ridiculous to expect a cure.

12 Are not * Abana and Pharpar, rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel? May I not wash in them, and be clean a? So he turned and went away in a rage.

a Is there not as great a vertue in them to this purpose? But he should have considered, that the Cure was not to be wrought by the Water, but by the Power of God, who might use what means and methods of Cure he pleased.

13 And his servants came near, and spake unto him, and said, My father b, if the prophet had bid thee do some great thing, wouldest thou not have done it? how much rather then, when he saith to thee, Wash and be clean?

b Or, our father. So they call him, both to shew their Reverence and Affection to him, and to mitigate his exasperated mind.

14 Then went he down, and dipped himself seven times in Jordan, according to the saying of the man of God: and his flesh came again like unto the flesh of a little child c, and * he was clean.

* Luk. 4. 27.

c i. e. Fresh and pure, free from the least mixture or mark of the Disease.

15 ¶ And he returned to the man of God d, he and all his company, and came and stood before him: and he said, Behold, now I know that there is no God in all the earth, but in Israel e: now therefore, I pray thee, take a blessing f of thy servant.

d To give him thanks, and a recompence for his great kindness. e By this wonderful work I am fully convinced, that the God of Israel is the onely True God, and that other gods are but impotent Idols. f A thankful acknowledgment. See on Gen. 33. 11.

16 But he said, As the LORD liveth before whom I stand, I will receive none: and he urged him to take it, but he refused g.

g Not that he thought it simply unlawful to receive Gifts or Presents, which he did receive from others, chap. 4. 42. but because of the special circumstances of the present case; this being much for the Honour of the True God and Religion, that the Syrians should see the generous Piety, and Charity, and Kindness of his Ministers and Servants, and how much they despised all that Worldly wealth and glory, which the Priests or Prophets of the Gentiles so greedily sought after; and that hereby Naaman might be much confirmed in that Good Religion which he had embraced, and others might be brought to a love and liking of it.

17 And Naaman said, Shall there not then, I pray thee, be given to thy servant two mules burden of earth h? for thy servant will henceforth offer neither burnt-offering, nor sacrifice unto other gods, but unto the LORD.

h Wherewith I may make an Altar of Earth, as was usual, Exod. 20. 24. He desires the Earth of this Land, because he thought it more holy and acceptable to God, and proper for his Service; or, because he would by this Token profess and declare his conjunction with the Israelites in the Worship of God, and constantly put himself in mind of his great Obligations to that God from whose Land this was taken. And though he might freely have taken this Earth without asking any leave, yet he rather desires it from the Prophets Gift, as believing, that he who had put so great a Vertue into the Waters of Israel, could put as much into the Earth of Israel, and make it as useful and beneficial to him in a better way. And these thoughts, though extravagant and groundless, yet were excusable in an Heathen, and a Novice, who was not yet thoroughly instructed in the True Religion.

18 In this thing the LORD ‖ pardon thy servant, that when my master goeth into the house of Rimmon i to worship there, and he leaneth on my hand k, and I bow my self in the house of Rimmon: when I bow down my self in the house of Rimmon l, the LORD pardon thy servant in this thing m.

Upon which, the King leaned, either for state, or for support. Compare chap. 7. 2. l Not in honour to the Idol, which I do here, and shall there, openly renounce; but onely in compliance with the Kings infirmity and conveniency, who cannot well bow if I stand upright. m Because there seemed to be an appearance of Evil in this action, though done with an honest mind, he desires the Prophets Prayers, that God would not charge it upon him as Idolatry, nor be displeased with him for that practice.

19 And he said unto him, Go in peace n. So he departed from him * a little way.

* Heb. a little piece of ground.

n These words may contain an answer: Either, First, To his last Petition, v. 18. and so the sense may be this, Be not too solicitous about this matter, Go, and the Peace or Blessing of God go along with thee. So the Prophet both Prays to God to bless and direct him in this and all other things, and intimates that God would do so. Or, Secondly, To the former, v. 17. troub'e not thy self about any of our Earth, but go to thy own Land, and I wish thee from God, and doubt not but God will give thee peace, i. e. his favour and other blessings, which are oft contained in this word, if thou dost persist in this Religion which thou hast now received. Or rather, this is onely a farewel-salutation, wherewith the Prophet dismisseth him without any further answer to his requests, or instruction about his doubt: which he forbore by the motion of Gods Spirit, which sometimes gives, and sometimes denies instructions to persons or people, as he thinks fit. See Act. 16. 6, 7. And the Prophet by the Spirits direction might forbear to give him particular Answers, partly, because these matters were not of such importance, as to concern the Essence or Foundation of Religion: and partly, because he was yet but a Novice, and not able to bear all truths, which was for a time the condition of the Apostles, Joh. 16. 12. nor fit to be pressed to the practice of the hardest Duties, which Christ himself thought not convenient for his Disciples, Matth. 9. 14. 15, 16, 17. And therefore he at present accepts of his profession of the True, and his renunciation of the false Religion; and of this Declaration, that what he did in the Temple of Rimmon should not now be (as he had formerly intended and practised it) a religious action towards the Idol, but onely a civil respect to his Master. And what was necessary for him to know further about the Lawfulness or Sinfulness of that action, the Prophet might take another, and a more convenient time to inform him.

20 ¶ But Gehazi, the servant of Elisha, the man of God, said, Behold, my master hath spared Naaman this Syrian o, in not receiving at his hand that which he brought: but as the LORD liveth, I will run after him, and take somewhat of him p.

o A stranger, and one of that Nation, who are the implacable Enemies of Gods People: whom therefore my Master should not have had so much regard to, as to the Lords Prophets, who better deserved, and more needed, the money which he offered, than Naaman himself did. p He Swears, that he might have some pretence for the action to which he had bound himself by his Oath; not considering, that to Swear to do any wicked action, is so far from excusing it, that it makes it much worse.

21 So Gehazi followed after Naaman: and when Naaman saw him running after him, he lighted down from the chariot to meet him q, and said,

* Heb. Is there peace?

* Is all well?

q Thereby testifying his great respect to the Prophet his Master.

22 And he said, All is well: my master hath sent me r, saying, Behold, even now there be come to me from mount Ephraim two young men of the sons of the prophets: give them, I pray thee, a talent of silver, and two changes of garments.

r This was a very unlikely Story; but Naaman was not willing to question it, but glad of the opportunity of shewing his gratitude to the Prophet.

23 And Naaman said, Be content, take two talents: and he urged him s, and bound two talents of silver in two bags, with two changes of garments, and laid them upon two of his servants, and they bare them before him.

s Who at first refused it upon a pretence of modesty and obedience to his Masters command.

A desperate contempt of God's Omniscience, Justice, and Holiness; an horrible Reproach fastned upon the Prophet, and his Religion; and a mischievous Scandal given to Naaman and all other Syrians that might hear of it.

CHAP. VI.

AND the sons of the prophets a said unto Elisha, Behold now, the place where we dwell with thee b, is too strait for us c.

a Either at Bethel: or, Jericho: or rather, at Gilgal: as may seem from its nearness to the River of Jordan, ver. 2. b Or, before thy face; i. e. under thy inspection and direction; where thou dost frequently dwell with us. Or, to thy face; which may be joyned with the following Words; and so the sence may be this: It is apparent to thy view, that this place is too strait for us. c The number of the Prophets increasing by the gracious Providence of God, and by the Ministry and Miracles of Elijah and Elisha.

2 Let us go, we pray thee, unto Jordan d, and take thence every man a beam e, and let us make us a place there where we may dwell. And he answered, Go ye.

d i. e. To the Woods near Jordan, which were near to them See on ver. 1. e i. e. A piece of Timber for the Building. Hence it may be gathered, That although the Sons of the Prophets principally devoted themselves to Religious Exercises, such as Prayer, and Praising of God, and the studying of Gods Word, and Instructing of others, and waiting for Divine Revelations; yet they did sometimes employ themselves about Manual Arts; which now they might be forced to, through the Iniquity of the times.

3 And one said, Be content, I pray thee, and go with thy servants. And he answered, I will go.

4 So he went with them. And when they came to Jordan, they cut down wood.

5 But as one was felling a beam, the * ax head f fell into the water: and he cried, and said, Alas Master, for it was borrowed g.

* Heb. Iron.

f The Iron fell from the Wood. g He was the more concerned, partly, because he was now forced to be idle and useless to them in the common Work; and partly, because it was his Friends loss, who now was likely to suffer for his kindness; and as Justice obliged him to restore it, so his Poverty disenabled him from it.

6 And the man of God said, Where fell it? and he shewed him the place: and he cut down a stick, and cast it in thither, and the iron did swim.

7 Therefore said he, Take it up to thee: and he put out his hand, and took it.

8 ¶ Then the king of Syria warred against Israel, and took counsel with his servants, saying,  In such and such a place shall be my ‖ camp *.

 Heb. in the place of such a man.

‖ Or, encamping.

* Thither I will send my Forces, to surprize some place: or to lye in Ambush where the King or his People were to pass, ver. 9.

9 And the man of God sent unto the king of Israel, saying, Beware that thou pass not such a place, for thither the Syrians are come down.

10 And the king of Israel sent to the place b which the man of God told him, and warned him himself, and saved himself i there not once nor twice k.

i Either Spies, to try whether the Prophet spake Truth: or rather Souldiers, to secure the Place and Passage Designed. i Either his Person when he was to pass that way: or his People, or Places of Importance. k But much more frequently.

11 Therefore the heart of the king of Syria was sore troubled for this thing, and he called his servants, and said unto them, Will ye not shew me which of us u for the king of Israel?

12 And one of his servants said, * None, my lord, O king: but Elisha the prophet, that is in Israel, telleth the king of Israel the words that thou speakest in thy bed-chamber.

* Heb. no.

13 ¶ And he said, Go, and spie where he is, that I may send and fetch him l. And it was told him, saying, Behold he is in Dothan m.

l For though I cannot conceal my Designs from him, yet I may possibly take him by force; his Power being, I doubt not, much inferiour to his knowledge. m A City near Shechem, Gen. 37. 17. and not far from Samaria.

14 Therefore sent he thither horses, and chariots, and a * great host: and they came by night and compassed the city about.

* Heb. heavy.

15 And when the ‖ servant of the man of God n was risen early, and gone forth o, behold, an host compassed the city, both with horses and chariots; and his servants said unto him, Alas my master, how shall we do?

‖ Or, Minister.

n Who having been with him but a little time, even since Gehazi's dismission, had not yet seen any Experiments of his great Power; or, if he had, his Faith might easily be shaken upon so great and sudden a danger. o Either out of the Gates of the City, where he might see them; or, out of his House into the Streets of the City, where he might learn this by the Common Fame and Tumult of the People.

16 And he answered, Fear not: for * they that be with us, are more than they that be with them.

* 2 Chron. 32. 7.

17 And Elisha prayed, and said, LORD, I pray thee, open his eyes, that he may see p. And the LORD opened the eyes of the young man, and he saw: and behold, the mountain was full of horses, and chariots of fire q round about Elisha r.

p That by some Visible Appearance, he may see the Invisible Guard of Angels which incompass and defend us. q Which is useful, both for defence to those that are surrounded by it, and offence to the Enemies who shall attempt to break through it. r Either the Mountains were round about the City, and therefore round about Elisha, who was within it: or, he saw in a Vision, Elisha upon the Mountain encompassed with Fiery Horses and Chariots.

18 And when they came down to him s, Elisha prayed unto the LORD, and said, Smite this people, I pray thee, with blindness. And he smote them with blindness t, according to the word of Elisha.

s Either in the City, into which they easily got admission when they Declared, That the only end of their coming, was to take Elisha: or in the Field without the City, whither he went to meet them. t Not with a total Blindness, that they could see nothing, for then they would not have followed him; but with a partial Blindness, that they could not distinctly discern the Man they sought which might be by some alteration made by God: in their Brain, or in the Air. See the notes on Gen. 19. 11.

19 ¶ And Elisha said unto them, This is not the way, neither is this the city u: * follow me, and I will bring you to the man whom ye seek x. But he led them to Samaria y.

* Heb. come ye after me.

u To wit, where you will find the Man for whom you seek, which was very true; because he was now come out of the City: and if they had gone on in that way into the City, they had found that Elisha was gone thence. There is indeed some Ambiguity in his Speech, and an intention to deceive them, which hath ever been esteemed Lawful in the State of War, as appears from the use of Stratagems. x And so he did, though not in such manner as they expected and desired. y Which seemed to them to be some small and ordinary City; their senses being still deluded by a Divine Operation.

20 And it came to pass, when they were come into Samaria, that Elisha said, LORD, open the eyes of these men, that they may see. And the LORD opened their eyes, and they saw, and behold they were in the midst of Samaria.

21 And the king of Israel z said unto Elisha, when he saw them, My father a, shall I smite them? shall I smite them b?

z To whom Elisha had doubtless sent notice of his intentions, that he might accordingly prepare himself. a Now he gives him this title of Reverence and Affection, because of a great and present benefit he received from him; though otherwise he hated him, and would not hearken to his Counsel. b The repetition of the question shews his great desire to smite them, and that with utter Destruction.

22 And he answered, Thou shalt not smite them: Wouldest thou smite those whom thou hast taken captive with thy sword, and with thy bow c? set bread and water before them d, that they may eat and drink, and go to their master.

c It is against the Laws of Humanity, and Custom of War, to kill Captives, though thou thy self hast taken them with thy own Sword and Bow, which may seem to give thee some colour of Right to destroy them; but much more unworthy will it be in cold Blood to kill these, whom not thy Arms, but God's Miraculous Providence hath put into thy hands. d i. e. Give them Meat and Drink, which may refresh and strengthen them for their Journey. Which was an action of singular Piety and Charity, in doing good to their Enemies, which was much to the honour of the True Religion; and of no less prudence, that hereby the hearts of the Syrians might be both mollified towards the Israelites, and afraid to Oppose that People who had such an Invincible Protector.

23 And he prepared great provision for them, and when they had eaten and drunk, he sent them away e, and they went to their master. So the bands of Syria came no more f into the land of Israel.

e Refreshed, but Disarmed, as is most probable. f Either 1. In such a manner, to wit, in small Bands, or Companies, which might be Entrapped, as these had been: but their next Attempt was, by an open and solemn War, and a Conjunction of all their Forces, which they still ridiculously conceited would be too hard for the King and Prophet, and God of Israel; notwithstanding their multiplied Experiences to the contrary. Or, 2. For some considerable time; until the Terror of these Examples was got out of their minds.

24 ¶ And it came to pass after this, that Benhadad king of Syria g gathered all his host, and went up, and besieged Samaria.

g He whom Ahab wickedly and foolishly spared, 1 King. 20. 42. who now comes to requite Ahab's kindness, and to fulfil that Divine Prediction. Benhadad was a name very frequent among the Kings of Syria, 1 King. 15. 18, &c. and Chap. 13. 24. 2 King. 13. 3, 24. If not common to them all. See Jer. 49. 27. Amos 1. 4.

25 And there was a great famine in Samaria: and behold, they besieged it, until an asses head was sold for fourscore pieces h of silver, and the fourth part of a kab i of doves dung k for five pieces of silver.

h Supposed to be Shekels; and the common Shekel being valued at fifteen pence of English Money, this amounts to five pounds. A vast price, especially for that which had on it so little Meat, and that unwholsome, and unclean by Law, Levit. 11. 13. though necessity might seem to excuse their violation of that Law. i A measure containing 24 Eggs. k Which they used not for Fire (for he is speaking here onely of the scarcity of Food) but for Food. Which if it seem incredible, it must be considered. First, That Famine hath constrained People to eat things as improper and unfit for nourishment as this, as dry Leather, and Mans Dung, as is implied, Isa. 36. 12. and affirmed by grave Historians. Secondly, That some Creatures do usually eat the Dung of others. Thirdly, That Doves Dung, though it be hotter than ordinary, might in other respects be fitter for nourishment than other, as being made of the best and purest Grains, and having some moisture in it, &c. Fourthly, That this Hebrew word being of an obscure and doubtful signification, and no where else used, may be, and is by Learned Men otherwise rendred and understood: either, first, of the Corn which is found in the Crops of Doves: or, secondly, of the Guts and other Inwards of Doves: or rather, thirdly, of a sort of cicer or peasе, which in the Arabick Language (which is near a kin to the Hebrew, and from which many words are explained), is called Doves Dung: for this was a Food much in use amongst the poorer Israelites, and was by all esteemed a very course Food, and therefore fit to be joyned with an Asses head: and a kab was the usual Measure of all sorts of Grains and Fruits of that sort.

26 And as the king of Israel was passing by upon the wall l, there cried a woman unto him, saying, Help my lord, O king.

l To give necessary order for the Defence of the City against Assault, and to see if the several Guards were watchful and diligent, and if his Directions were executed, and to observe the motions of the Enemies.

27 And he said, ‖ If the LORD do not help thee m, whence shall I help thee? out of the barnfloor, or out of the wine-press n?

‖ Or, Let not the Lord save thee.

n Or,

* Or, let not God help thee, as ſome both ancient and late Interpreters render the words. So they are words of impatience and Rage, and a formal Curſe, wiſhing that God would not help her, as he could not, as Joſephus amongſt others underſtand it: which agrees too well with the Character of the Man, an Infidel, and Idolater, and a wicked Man, and at this time in a great Rage, as appears from ver. 31. Or, they may be rendred thus, No; (as this Hebrew Particle is ſometimes uſed, as Job 20. 17. Pſal 34. 5. and 41. 2. and 50. 3. Prov. 3. 25. and 31. 4.) let the Lord help thee. So it may be taken, Either, Firſt, As a direction: No: do not cry to me; but to God for help: God help thee, for I cannot. Or rather, Secondly, As a prophane ſcoff. No: come not to me, but go to him to whom Eliſha directs you; Pray to the Lord: you ſee how ready he is to help you, by his ſuffering you come to this extremity: wait upon God for relief, as Eliſha adviſeth me; but I will wait no longer for him, ver. 33. and I will take a courſe with Eliſha for thus abuſing both me and my people with vain hopes. Or, thus, the Lord (on whom forſooth thou and I are commanded to wait for help) will not help thee, as he could eaſily do, and would do, if he were ſo good as Eliſha pretends; whence then ſhall I help thee? n Doſt thou ask of me Corn or Wine, which I want for my ſelf?

28 And the king ſaid unto her, What aileth thee? And ſhe anſwered, This woman ſaid unto me, Give thy ſon, that we may eat him to day, and we will eat my ſon to morrow.

29 So * we boiled my ſon, and did eat him o: and I ſaid unto her on the † next day, Give thy ſon, that we may eat him: and ſhe hath hid her ſon p.

31 Then he ſaid, * God do ſo, and more alſo to me, if the head of Eliſha the ſon of Shaphat ſhall ſtand on him this day t.

* Ruth 1. 17.

t If I do not this day take his head and life. This wretched and partial Prince overlooks his own great and various ſins, and amongſt others, his obſtinate cleaving to the Idolatry of the Calves, and the Whoredoms and Witchcrafts of his Mother Jezabel, 2 King. 9. 22. and the Wickedneſs of his People, which was the true and proper cauſe of this and all their Calamities; and lays the blame of all upon Eliſha, either ſuppoſing, that he who had the Spirit of Elijah reſting upon him, had brought this Famine by his Prayers, as Elijah had formerly done, 1 King. 17. 1. or, becauſe he had encouraged them to withſtand the Syrians, by promiſing them help from God in due time: or, becauſe he would not by his interceſſion to God, and the working of a Miracle, deliver them from theſe Calamities, as he eaſily could have done. But he did not conſider, that the Prophets could not work what Miracles, and when they pleaſed, but onely as far as God ſaw fit, whoſe time was not yet come; otherwiſe it was Eliſha's Intereſt as well as theirs to be freed from this diſtreſs.

32 But Eliſha ſat in his houſe u (and the elders x ſat with him) and the king ſent a man from before him y: but ere the meſſenger came to him, he ſaid to the elders z, See yé how this ſon of a murderer a hath ſent to take away mine head b? Look when the meſſenger cometh, ſhut the door, and hold him c faſt at the door: Is not the ſound of his maſters feet behind him d?

u In the Houſe where he lodged: for he had no Houſe of his own, having forſaken all when he followed Elijah, 1 King. 19. 20, 21. x So they might be called, Either, Firſt, From their age. Or rather, Secondly, From their office, which was either Eccleſiaſtical, or Civil; ſo they were either the Sons of the Prophets, or rather, ſome Godly men who were then in ſome Power and Office, either in the Court, or Army, or City, as may ſeem probable from what he requires of them. And though Joram was a wicked King, and moſt of his Officers probably like himſelf; yet there were ſome of them, whom Eliſha's Holy Life, and Powerful Miniſtry, and Glorious Miracles, and the great and publick benefits procured by him, had won to God, and to the True Religion, at leaſt to the profeſſion of it, among which Jehu might be one; and theſe were here ſitting with him; either, to receive comfort and counſel from him in this diſtreſſed time, or rather, to ſolicite him to uſe his Power with God, for their relief; which accordingly he doth, and in compliance with them, not out of any fear of the King, (from which he very well knew by frequent experience, and certain aſſurance, that God both could and would deliver him), he gives the following anſwer, chap. 7. 1. y Or, one of them who ſtood before his face, one of his Guard, or ſome other Officer, to take away his head, as it follows. z Being admoniſhed by God of his danger. a The genuine Son of that wicked Ahab the Murderer of the Lords Prophets, 1 King. 18. 4. and 21. 9. whoſe Son he is not by Birth onely, but alſo by his Manners and Bloody diſpoſition. Compare Job. 8. 44. This expreſſion may ſeem very harſh and unfit; nor is it to be drawn into imitation by others: but it muſt be conſidered, that he was an extraordinary Prophet, inveſted with a Power in ſome ſort ſuperiour to that of Joram, and had Authority to controle and rebuke him in the Name of the King of Kings. b To kill me before he hear what I have to ſay. c Not the King, but the Meſſenger who was laſt mentioned; that he may not break in upon me, and take away my life, before the King comes. d You ſhall not need to hold him long, for the King is juſt at his heels, coming, as is probable, either, to recal his raſh and furious ſentence, or, at leaſt, to debate the matter with the Prophet, and to procure relief.

33 And while he yet talked with them, behold, the meſſenger came down unto him e: and he ſaid f, Behold, this evil g is of the LORD h, what ſhould I wait for the LORD any longer i?

e To wit, to the Door, where alſo we are to underſtand, that he was held faſt, that he could not come at the Prophet till the King came, as the Prophet had commanded them to do. f Either, 1. The Meſſenger in the Kings name and words. Or, Secondly, The King himſelf, who, though not here named, may be preſumed to be preſent, both by the Prophets Prediction of his ſpeedy coming, and by the preſence of the lord, on whoſe hand the king leaned, chap. 7. 2. g This dreadful Famine, which is now ſo extream, that Women are forced to eat their own Children. h He hath inflicted it, and (for ought that I ſee) he will not remove it. Thus he lays all the blame upon God, not, as he ought, upon his own, and his Mothers wickedneſs, which provoketh God, who doth not willingly afflict, to ſend this heavy Judgment upon him. i Thou bidſt me wait upon God for help; but I perceive I may wait long enough before deliverance comes. I am weary with waiting, I can wait no longer.

CHAP. VII.

THen Eliſha ſaid a, Hear ye the word of the LORD, Thus ſaith the LORD b, To morrow about this time ſhall a meaſure c of fine flour be ſold for a ſhekel d, and two meaſures of barley for a ſhekel, in the gate of Samaria.

a Either, to the Meſſenger, to be reported to the King; or rather, to the King, being then come to him, as it is expreſſed, ver. 18. and to his Courtiers, who were come with him, ver. 2. b The Lord, whom you have ſo highly offended, and at preſent deſpiſe and refuſe to wait upon, of his own meer Grace and Bounty hath ſent you the glad tidings of your deliverance. c Heb. Seah, a Meaſure containing ſix Cabs, or 144 Egg-ſhells, or about a Peck and a Pottle of our Meaſure. d Compare this with chap. 6. 25.

2 Then † a lord on whoſe hand the king leaned e, anſwered the man of God, and ſaid, Behold, if the LORD would make windows f in heaven, might this thing be? And he ſaid, Behold, thou ſhalt ſee it with thine eyes, but ſhalt not eat thereof g.

† Heb. a lord which belonged to the King, leaning upon his hand.

See chap. 5. 18. f Through which he could Rain down Corn, as once he did Manna. g A juſt puniſhment for ſuch peremptory unbelief, whereby he made not onely the Prophet, but even God himſelf (in whoſe Name it was evident Eliſha ſaid, and did this and other things) a lyar.

3 ¶ And there were four leprous men at the entring in of the gate h: and they ſaid one to another, Why ſit we here until we die?

h To wit, of the City; out of which they were ſhut by virtue of Gods Law, Lev. 13. 46. and 14. 3. either, the dwelling-place of the Lepers was near the Gate: or, they were come very near the Gate, for fear of the Syrians.

4 If we ſay we will enter into the city, then the famine is in the city, and we ſhall die there: and if we ſit ſtill here, we die alſo. Now therefore come, come, and let us fall unto the hoſt of the Syrians: if they ſave us alive, we ſhall live; and if they kill us, we ſhall but die.

5 And they roſe up in the twilight i to go unto the camp of the Syrians: and when they were come to the uttermoſt part of the camp of Syria, behold, there was no man there.

i In the Evening twilight, as appears from v. 9. and 12.

6 For the LORD made the hoſt of the Syrians * 2 Sam. 5. 24. to * hear a noiſe k of chariots, and a noiſe of horſes, even the noiſe of a great hoſt: and they ſaid one to another, Lo, the king of Iſrael hath hired againſt us the kings of the Hittites l, and the kings of the Egyptians m to come upon us.

k Either, in the Air: or rather in their Ears: otherwiſe the Samaritans had heard it. l Under which name (as elſewhere under the name of the Amorites) he ſeems to underſtand all, or any of the people of Canaan. For though the greateſt number of that people were deſtroyed, yet very many of them were ſpared, and many of them upon Joſhua's coming, fled away, ſome to more remote parts, (which that famous and ancient Inſcription upon a Pillar in Africa teſtifies) and others to the Lands bordering upon Canaan, where by reaſon of the ſcarcity of Inhabitants, there was in that Age room enough for them; and there they ſeated themſelves, and grew numerous and powerful, and had (after their ancient and conſtant manner) Kings over them. The Kings alſo of Tyrus or Sidon may be here included. m By which they may underſtand, either the King of Egypt, the Plural Number being put for the Singular, as it is elſewhere: or, the Princes and Governours of the ſeveral Nomi, or Provinces in Egypt, ſuch being oft called kings in Scripture.

7 Wherefore they aroſe and fled in the twilight, and left their tents, and their horſes, and their aſſes, even the camp as it was, and fled for life *.

* To ſave their lives; which they fancied to be in ſuch preſent and extream danger, that they durſt not ſtay to take away any of their Goods, but every man fled the next way before him.

8 And when theſe lepers came to the uttermoſt part of the camp, they went into one tent, and did eat and drink, and carried thence ſilver, and gold, and raiment, and went and hid it: and came again, and entred into another tent, and carried thence alſo, and went and hid it.

9 Then they ſaid one to another, We do not well n: this day is a day of good tidings, and we hold our peace: if we tarry till the morning-light, * Heb. we ſhall find puniſhment. * ſome miſchief will come upon us: now therefore come, that we may go and tell the kings houſehold.

n Not well for our Brethren, whom we ſhould pity and help: nor well for our ſelves; for we may ſuffer for this neglect; either from the Syrians, who may lie lurking hereabouts; or, from our King and People; or, from Gods immediate hand.

10 So they came, and called unto the porter of the city: and they told them o, ſaying, We came to the camp of the Syrians, and behold, there was no man there, neither voice of man, but horſes tied, and aſſes tied, and the tents as they were.

o To wit, the Porter and his Companies.

11 And he called the porters p, and they told it to the kings houſe within.

p Either, his Fellow-Porters of the City: or rather, the Porters or Guards of the Gate of the Kings Houſe.

12 ¶ And the king aroſe in the night, and ſaid unto his ſervants, I will now ſhew you what the Syrians have done to us: they know that we be hungry, therefore are they gone out of the camp, to hide themſelves in the field, ſaying, When they come out of the city, we ſhall catch them alive, and get into the city.

13 And one of his ſervants anſwered and ſaid, Let ſome take, I pray thee, five of the horſes that † Heb. in it. remain, which are left † in the city: (behold, they are as the multitude of Iſrael that are left in it: behold, I ſay, they are even as all the multitude of the Iſraelites that are conſumed q) and let us ſend and ſee.

q So the ſenſe is, We may well venture theſe Horſes, though we have no more, becauſe both they and we are ready to periſh through hunger; and therefore let us uſe them whilſt we may for our common good, or to make the diſcovery. But the repetition of the Phraſe ſeems to imply ſomething more emphatical and ſignificant than the ſaving of four or five Horſes, for which it is not probable they would be ſo much concerned in their circumſtances. The words therefore may be rendred otherwiſe, Behold, they are of a truth (the Hebrew prefix, Caph, being not here a note of ſimilitude, as the other Tranſlations make it, and as it is commonly uſed, but an affirmation of the truth and certainty of the things, as it is taken, Numb. 11. 1. Deut. 9. 10. Hoſ. 4. 4. and 5. 10. Job. 1. 14.) all the multitude of the Horſes of Iſrael that are left in it: (to wit, in the City:) behold, I ſay, they are even all the multitude of the Horſes of the Iſraelites, which (i. e. which multitude) are conſumed, i. e. reduced to this ſmall number, all conſumed except theſe five. And thus the vulgar Latin, and ſome others, underſtand it. And this was indeed a memorable paſſage, and worthy of a double behold, to ſhew what miſchief the Famine had done, both upon Men and Beaſts, and to what a low ebb the King of Iſrael was come, that all his Troops of Horſes, to which he had truſted, were ſhrunk to ſo ſmall a number.

14 They took therefore * two chariot-horſes r, and the king ſent after the hoſt of the Syrians, ſaying, Go, and ſee. * Heb. two chariots of horſes, 1 Kin. 10. 29.

r Or, two chariots of horſes: or rather, two chariot-horſes, as divers render the words, i. e. Horſes which belonged to the Kings Chariots. For ſingle Horſes ſeem much more proper for this ſervice, than Chariots and Horſes. And whereas it was moved by the Kings Servant, that all the five Horſes ſhould be ſent, it ſeems it was thought by the King and others, that two were ſufficient for that purpoſe.

15 And they went after them unto Jordan, and lo, all the way was full of garments and veſſels, which the Syrians had caſt away * in their haſte ſ: and the meſſengers returned and told the king. * Gr. in their aſtoniſhment.

ſ Or, in their fear or conſternation, wherewith God ſtruck them.

16 And the people went out, and ſpoiled the tents of the Syrians: So a meaſure of fine flour was ſold for a ſhekel, and two meaſures of barley for a ſhekel, according to the word of the LORD.

17 ¶ And the king appointed the lord on whoſe hand he leaned, to have the charge of the gate t: and the people trode upon him in the gate, and he died, as the man of God had ſaid, who ſpake when the king came down to him.

t Partly, to prevent tumults, and diſorders and miſchiefs amongſt the people: and partly, to take order about the ſhutting of the Gates, if need were, and if the Syrians ſhould happen to return upon them.

18 And it came to paſs, as the man of God had ſpoken to the king, ſaying, Two meaſures of barley for a ſhekel, and a meaſure of fine flour for a ſhekel, ſhall be to morrow about this time in the gate of Samaria:

19 And that lord anſwered the man of God, and ſaid, Now behold, if the LORD ſhould make windows in heaven, might ſuch a thing be? And he ſaid, Behold, thou ſhalt ſee it with thine eyes, but ſhalt not eat thereof.

20 And ſo it fell out unto him: for the people trode upon him in the gate, and he died.

CHAP. VIII.

THen a ſpake Eliſha unto the woman b (* whoſe ſon he had reſtored to life) ſaying, Ariſe, and go thou and thine houſhold, and ſojourn whereſoever thou canſt ſojourn c: for the LORD * hath called for a famine d, and it ſhall alſo come upon the land ſeven years e. * Chap. 4. 35. * Pſal. 105. 16. Hag. 1. 11.

a This Particle of time may be underſtood, either particularly and definitely of the time next following the former Hiſtory: or, more generally and indefinitely (as it is frequently uſed) of the time in which Eliſha and this Shunamitiſh Woman lived. Poſſibly this might happen before the Hiſtory of Naaman, Chap. 5. or at leaſt, before the Siege of Samaria, Chap. 6. but this is not certain. b Expreſſing his Gratitude for her former Kindneſſes, by taking ſpecial care for her Preſervation. c In any convenient place out of the Land of Iſrael. d i. e. Hath appointed to bring a Famine, or a great Scarcity of Proviſions. This expreſſion intimates, that all Afflictions are ſent by God, and come at his Call or Command. e A double time to the former Famin under Elijah, Jam. 5. 17. which is but juſt and reaſonable, becauſe they were ſtill obſtinate and incorrigible under all the ſevere and ſucceeding Judgments of God, and under the powerful Miniſtry of Eliſha, who confirmed his Doctrine by glorious Miracles. See Levit. 26. 21, 24, 28.

2 And the woman aroſe, and did after the ſaying of the man of God: and ſhe went with her houſhold, and ſojourned in the land of the Philiſtines f ſeven years.

f Either, becauſe that was near her Lands and Dwellings, which ſhe thought ſhe might have an Eye to, when occaſion required: or, becauſe there was more Plenty than in Judah: or, becauſe ſhe knew that her going to dwell in Judah, would be very diſpleaſing to the King of Iſrael, whoſe favour ſhe was like to need hereafter. Nor was there now that danger of Idolatry from the Philiſtines, as there had been formerly, becauſe their power and influence was now grown inconſiderable, and probably many of the Jews and Iſraelites lived among them. And this Land, though bordering upon Iſrael, was free from this Famine, that it might appear that this was a ſpecial Hand and Judgment of God upon the Iſraelites for their Idolatry, and for their Unprofitableneſs under all the means of Grace which now they plentifully enjoyed by Eliſha and many other Prophets; which the Philiſtines not enjoying, their Sin was much leſs, and therefore their preſent condition was better.

3 And it came to paſs at the ſeven years end, that the woman returned out of the land of the Philiſtines: and ſhe went forth to cry unto the king for her houſe, and for her land g.

g Which having been forſaken by her, were poſſeſſed by her Kindred, or others, who had obtained them from the King, and now intended to keep the Poſſeſſion of them.

4 And the king talked with Gehazi the ſervant of the man of God h, ſaying, Tell me, I pray thee, all the great things that Eliſha hath done.

h Queſt. How could the King ſpeak with Gehazi who was a Leper? Anſ. Either, the King might ſpeak with him at a convenient diſtance, it being uſual for others to diſcourſe with Lepers, as 2 Kings 7. 8. Matth. 8. 2. Luke 17. 12. or, his Leproſy might be of that ſort which was not infectious: or, if his Leproſy was ſuch as made him yet to be Unclean, the King's great Curioſity might eaſily prevail with him to break a Ceremonial Law, who made no ſcruple of violating God's Moral Law.

5 And it came to paſs, as he was telling the king how he had reſtored a dead body to life, that behold, the woman i whoſe ſon he had reſtored to life, cried to the king for her houſe, and for her land. And Gehazi ſaid, My lord, O king, this is the woman, and this is her ſon, whom Eliſha reſtored to life.

i By God's wonderful and gracious Providence brought thither in the moſt advantageous ſeaſon.

6 And when the king asked the woman k, ſhe told him. So the king appointed unto her a certain ‖ officer, ſaying, Reſtore all that was hers, and all the fruits of the field, ſince the day that ſhe left the land, even till now.

‖ Or, eunuch.

k Concerning the truth of Gehazi's Relation.

7 ¶ And Eliſha came to Damaſcus l; and Benhadad the king of Syria was ſick, and it was told him, ſaying, The man of God is come hither.

l Either to the City; or rather, to the Kingdom of Damaſcus, by comparing v. 9. as Samaria, which properly was the name of the City, is ſometimes the name of the Kingdom; of which ſee on 1 Kings 13. 32. Hither he came by the ſpecial direction of the Spirit, and under God's protection, upon the Errand here following.

8 And the king ſaid unto Hazael, Take a preſent in thine hand m, and go meet the man of God, and enquire of the LORD by him, ſaying, Shall I recover of this diſeaſe?

m By which he thought to purchaſe his Favour, and the Healing of his Diſeaſe.

9 So Hazael went to meet him, and took a preſent † with him, even of every good thing of Damaſcus, forty camels burden n, and came and ſtood before him, and ſaid, Thy ſon Benhadad o king of Syria, hath ſent me to thee, ſaying, Shall I † recover of this diſeaſe?

† Heb. in his hand.

† Heb. live. Chap. 1. 2.

n Hazael carried the more noble Preſent, hoping, as his Maſter did, to get ſome intereſt in the Prophet, and advantage to himſelf by it. Whether the Prophet received it or not, is not here mentioned; but it is moſt probable he did not, from his former Practice, Chap. 5. and becauſe the reaſons which then ſwayed him, were ſtill of the ſame force. o He who before Perſecuted him as an Enemy, Chap. 6. 13, 14. now in his extremity Honours him like a Father.

10 And Eliſha ſaid unto him, Go, ſay unto him, Thou mayeſt certainly recover: howbeit, the LORD hath ſhewed me, that he ſhall ſurely die p.

p Here is no contradiction; for the firſt words contain an Anſwer to Benhadad's Queſtion, Ver. 8. Shall I recover this diſeaſe? To which the Anſwer is, Thou mayeſt, or ſhalt recover, i. e. notwithſtanding thy Diſeaſe, which is not Mortal, and ſhall not take away thy Life. The later words contain the Prophet's Explication of, or Addition to that Anſwer, which is, that he ſhould die, not by the power of his Diſeaſe, but by ſome other cauſe. But it is obſervable, that in the Hebrew Text it is, lo, the Adverb, which ſignifies not; which though moſt affirm to be put for lo, the Pronoun, ſignifying to him; yet others take it as it lies, and Tranſlate the words thus; Say, thou ſhalt not recover: for the Lord hath ſhewed me, that he ſhall ſurely die. Or, according to the former reading, the firſt words may be taken Interrogatively, Say unto him, Shalt thou indeed recover? (as thou doſt flatter thy ſelf) No: (which Negation is implied in the very Queſtion, and gathered from the following words) for the Lord hath ſhewed me, that he ſhall ſurely die.

11 And he ſetled his countenance † ſtedfaſtly q, until he was aſhamed r: and the man of God wept.

† Heb. and ſet it.

q The Prophet fixed his Eyes upon Hazael. r Either, till the Prophet was aſhamed to look any longer upon him: or, till Hazael was aſhamed, as apprehending that the Prophet ſuſpected or diſcerned ſomething extraordinary, and of an evil and ſhameful nature in him. The Hebrew words are ambiguous, and may indifferently be referred to either of them: but they ſeem more properly to belong to Hazael, becauſe it follows by way of diſtinction, the man of God wept.

12 And Hazael ſaid, Why weepeth my lord? And he anſwered, Becauſe I know * the evil that thou wilt do unto the children of Iſrael ſ: their ſtrong holds wilt thou ſet on fire, and their young men wilt thou ſlay with the ſword, and wilt * daſh their children, and rip up their women with child.

* Chap. 10. 32. and 13. 3. Amos 1. 3.

* Chap. 15. 16. Hoſ. 13. 16. Amos 1. 13.

ſ So here was a double cauſe of his Grief and Tears, the Evil of Sin in Hazael; and the Evil of Suffering upon Iſrael.

13 And Hazael ſaid, But what, is thy ſervant a dog t, that he ſhould do this great thing? And Eliſha anſwered, The LORD hath ſhewed me that thou ſhalt be king over Syria u.

t Either, ſo vile and unworthy, as this expreſſion is uſed, 2 Sam. 3. 8. and 9. 8. or ſo impudent, for which Dogs are noted; or, ſo fierce, and barbarous, and inhumane. Compare Pſal. 22. 16, 20. and 59. 6. u And when thou ſhalt have Power in thy hand, thou wil'ſt diſcover that bloody Diſpoſition, and that hatred againſt God's People, which now lies hid from others, and poſſibly from thy ſelf; and therefore with the Kingdom thou wil'ſt inherit their cruel diſpoſitions.

14 So he departed from Eliſha, and came to his maſter, who ſaid to him, What ſaid Eliſha to thee? And he anſwered, He told me that thou ſhouldeſt ſurely recover x.

x He repreſents the Prophet's Anſwer by halves, that by his Maſter's ſecurity he might have the fitter opportunity to execute his Treaſonable Deſign.

15 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that he took a thick cloth, and dipt it in water, and ſpread it on his face y, ſo that he died: and Hazael reigned in his ſtead z.

y Pretending it may be to cool his immoderate heat with it, but applying it ſo cloſely, that he choaked him therewith: by which Artifice his Death ſeemed to be Natural, their being no ſigns of a violent Death upon his Body. And this he the more boldly attempted, becauſe the Prophet's Prediction made him confident of the ſucceſs. z Having the favour of the People, and of the Men of War.

16 ¶ And in the fifth year of Joram the ſon of Ahab king of Iſrael, Jehoſhaphat being then king of Judah, * Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah † began to reign a.

a Jehoram was firſt made King or Vice-Roy by his Father divers Years before this time; to wit, at his Expedition to Ramoth-Gilead, as was noted before: which Dominion of his ended at his Father's return. But now Jehoſhaphat, being not far from his Death, and having divers Sons, and fearing ſome competition and diſſention among them, makes Jeho-

17 Thirty and two years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years b in Jerusalem.

b Part with his Father, and part by himself alone.

c After his Father's Death. d Athaliah, Ver. 26. This unequal Marriage, though Jehoshaphat possibly designed it as a means of Uniting the two Kingdoms under one Head, and in the true Religion, is here and elsewhere noted, as the causeboth of the great Wickedness of his Posterity, and of those sore Calamities which befel them.

19 Yet the LORD would not destroy Judah, for David his servants sake, * as he promised him to give him alway e a † light f, and to his children.

e Heb. all days, until the coming of the Messiah, as it is elsewhere limited and explained: for so long, and not longer, this Succession might seem necessary for the making good of God's Promise and Covenant made with David. But when the Messiah was once come, there was no more need of any Succession, and the Scepter might and did without any inconvenience depart from Judah, and from all the succeeding Branches of David's Family, because the Messiah was to hold the Kingdom for ever in his own Person, though not in so gross a way as the Carnal Jews imagined, but in a Spiritual manner. f i. e. A Son and Successor. Of this Phrase see on 1 Kings 11. 36.

20 ¶ In his days Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah g, and made a king over themselves.

g Under which they had been from David's time, 2 Sam. 8. 14. compare 1 Kings 22. 47.

21 So Joram went over to Zair, and all the chariots with him, and he rose by night and smote the Edomites which compassed him about: and the captains of the chariots, and the people h fled into their tents.

h i. e. The common Souldiers of the Edomites, herein following the example of their Captains.

22 Yet Edom revolted i from under the hand of Judah until this day. Then Libnah k revolted l at the same time.

i For though Joram had given them a Defeat, yet it may seem to have been no great Slaughter, but onely a putting them to Flight; and therefore they might easily Rally again. And Jehoram could not pursue the Victory, because he was recalled by the Revolt of his own Subjects, which had took the occasion of his absence, and probably feared that others would follow their example, if they had the like occasion. k A considerable City in Judah, belonging to the Priests, Jos. 15. 42. and 21. 13. l Why, see 2 Chron. 21. 10, 11. it is probable they returned to their Obedience, because those words, unto this day, which are added to the former clause, are omitted here.

23 And the rest of the acts of Joram, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah m?

m Of which see on 1 Kings 14. 19.

24 And Joram slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and * Ahaziah his son reigned in his stead.

* Chr. 22. 1.

25 ¶ In the twelfth year of Joram n the son of Ahab king of Israel, did Ahaziah o the son of Jehoram king of Judah begin to reign.

n Obj. It was in the eleventh year of Joram, Chap. 9. 29. Ans. Either, First, He began to Reign in the Confines of Joram's eleventh and twelfth Year, in the very end of his eleventh Year, or towards the beginning of the twelfth, whence it is indifferently ascribed to the one or the other. Or, Secondly, The one Year of Ahaziah did concur with the later half of Joram's eleventh Year, and the former half of his twelfth Year: and if he could not be said to begin to reign in both these Years, yet he might unquestionably be said to reign in both of them; and the Hebrew word, both here and Chap. 9. 29. properly signifies he reigned, and not, he began to reign, as it is Translated. Or, Thirdly, Ahaziah began to Reign with his Father, and during his Life, according to the late examples both in Judah and Israel, there being also special occasion for it, by reason of Joram's cruel and long Sickness, 2 Chron. 21. 18, &c. and this was in Joram's eleventh Year, and then his Father died, and he began his single Reign in Joram's twelfth Year. o Called also Jehoahaz, 2 Chr. 21. 17. and Azariah, 2 Chron. 22. 6.

26 Two and twenty years old p was Ahaziah when he began to reign; and he reigned one year in Jerusalem; and his mothers name was Athaliah, the daughter q of Omri king of Israel.

p How this agrees with 2 Chron. 22. 2. see on that place. q i. e. His Grand-Daughter. See above on Ver. 18.

27 And he walked in the way of the house of Ahab, and did evil in the sight of the LORD, as did the house of Ahab; for he was the son-in-law of the house of Ahab r.

r He was the proper Son of Athaliah, Daughter of Ahab, and the Grand-Son-in-Law of Ahab, because his Father was Ahab's Son-in-Law, Ver. 18.

28 ¶ And he went with Joram the son of Ahab, to the war against Hazael king of Syria in Ramoth-gilead, and the Syrians wounded Joram.

29 And * king Joram went back to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds † which the Syrians had given him at Ramah s, when he fought against Hazael king of Syria: and Ahaziah the son of Jehoram king of Judah, went down to see Joram the son of Ahab in Jezreel, because he was † sick.

k To the reſt of the Commanders and Officers there preſent. l Is not this unlucky Meſſenger come with ſome ill tidings? m They perceived him to be a Prophet by his Habit, and Geſtures, and manner of Speech. And theſe prophane Souldiers eſteemed the Lord's Prophets mad men; partly, becauſe of their neglect of themſelves, and contempt of all Worldly Wealth and Honour, which the wiſe Men of this World ſo greedily ſeek, and of their ſtrange and uncouth manner of living; partly, becauſe of their Holy Exerciſes to which they devoted themſelves, which they eſteemed nothing but a Religious Phrenzy; and partly, becauſe of thoſe unuſual and ſeemingly ridiculous Geſtures and Actions which the Prophets ſometimes uſed in Raptures of Spirit, or in the fervours of Devotion. Compare Jer. 29. 26. Joh. 10. 20. Acts 26. 24. n You rightly gueſs that he was a mad man, and ſo it appears by his Diſcourſe with me, which was, after the manner of that ſort of Men, vain and impertinent, to tell me of my Sins, or of my Duty, or ſuch things as are not worth my ſpeaking, or your hearing.

12 And they ſaid, It is falſe o, tell us now p. And he ſaid, Thus and thus ſpake he to me, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, I have anointed thee king over Iſrael.

o There is ſomething extraordinary and of great importance in his Meſſage, as we plainly perceive by his calling thee into an inner Chamber, by his great expedition, and by his geſture and carriage. p His concealment of the thing made them more greedy to know it.

t Which Interpreters conclude to have been taken by Joram before this time, though the taking of it be not mentioned. This they gather, Firſt, From the mention of the Inner Chamber, Ver. 2. and of the top of the Stairs here. Secondly, From Verſe 15. let none go forth out of the city. But theſe Arguments ſeem not to be cogent. Not the former, becauſe there might be ſome Subburbs or out-Buildings belonging to the City, or not far from it, which the Iſraelites might have in their Poſſeſſion. Nor the later, as we ſhall there ſee. And if it was taken, why ſhould all Iſrael be there to keep it, for which a ſtrong Garriſon was ſufficient? The words therefore may be otherwiſe rendred, exactly according to the Hebrew, Joram had kept, or did keep (to wit, by his Army left there) or put guards, or laid ſiege at, or to (for ſo the Particle Beth is oft uſed) Ramoth-gilead. And therefore he had all Iſrael, i. e. all the Military Force of Iſrael, with him, that he might both maintain the Siege, and withal oppoſe Hazael who ſought to Relieve it.

16 So Jehu rode in a chariot, and went to Jezreel z, (for Joram lay there z) and Ahaziah king of Judah was come down to ſee Joram.

z Accompanied with the Horſemen of his Army.

17 And there ſtood a watch-man on the tower in Jezreel, and he ſpied the company of Jehu as he came, and ſaid, I ſee a company. And Joram ſaid, Take an Horſeman, and ſend to meet them, and let him ſay, Is it peace a?

a Enquire who it is comes, and if he come upon peaceable Terms. For he feared, leſt either the Syrians had prevailed there; or, ſome Sedition or Rebellion was raiſed againſt him; which the example of Libnah, and his own guilty Conſcience, made him fear.

18 So there went one on horſeback to meet him, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu ſaid, What haſt thou to do with peace b? turn thee behind me. And the watch-man told, ſaying, The meſſenger came to them, but he cometh not again.

b What right haſt thou, or thy Maſter that ſent thee, to Peace?

19 Then he ſent out a ſecond on horſeback, which came to them, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu anſwered, What haſt thou to do with peace? turn thou behind me.

f Do'ſt thou come to me with a peaceable Mind, or in a way of Hoſtility? For now, when it was too late, he began to ſuſpect ſome Treachery: which God hid from him before, to prepare him for Deſtruction. g What cauſe haſt thou to expect Peace, when thou haſt ſo long abetted, and doſt ſtill abet, and allow thy Mother in her abominable Practiſes? h Which are to be underſtood, Either, Firſt, Literally; Spiritual Whoredom, which is Idolatry, being oft puniſhed with Corporal. Or rather, Myſtically and Spiritually, of her Idolatry, which is oft called Whoredom, becauſe it is a departing from God, to whom we are all tied by many Obligations; and Witchcraft, either, becauſe it doth ſo powerfully bewitch and deceive Mens minds; or, becauſe it is a manifeſt entring into Covenant with the Devil. For Idolatry being her chief Sin, and the cauſe of all the reſt, it ſeems improbable, that Jehu would omit that in the Indictment which he drew againſt here. He mentions not Joram's, but his Mother's Sins; partly, becauſe they were more notorious and infamous; partly, becauſe they were the principal cauſe why God inflicted, and he was come to execute theſe Judgements; partly, becauſe by his connivence he had made them his own; and partly, becauſe he could find no groſs and odious matter wherewith to charge him, except about the Worſhip of the Calves; which he forbore to mention, both leſt it ſhould loſe his Intereſt amongſt his Officers and Souldiers, who were devoted to that Worſhip; and becauſe he himſelf intended to keep it up.

For it is not unuſual to bring in ſuch fragments of Hiſtory in ſucceeding Writings which were neglected in the Hiſtory of thoſe matters. Thus we read of the earthquake in the days of Uzziah, Amos 1. 1. which was not Recorded in his Hiſtory in the Books of the Kings or Chronicles. Or, Secondly, If Samaria be the City, then the Hiſtory is briefly and imperfectly deſcribed here, and the defects ſupplied there, (the Book of Chronicles being in great part Written for that end, to ſupply things omitted in the Book of Kings) and out of both, the Hiſtory may be thus compleated: He fled firſt to Megiddo, and thence to Samaria, where he was caught, and thence brought to Jehu, and by his Sentence was put to Death at Migiddo, either becauſe Jehu was there at that time upon ſome occaſion; or, for ſome other reaſon, which at this diſtance of time we cannot underſtand.

CHAP. X.

AND Ahab had ſeventy ſons a Samaria b: And Jehu wrote letters, and ſent to Samaria, unto the rulers of Jezreel c, to the elders d, and to † them that brought up Ahab's children, ſaying, a Either, Firſt, Properly Sons by ſeveral Wives. Or rather, Secondly, Grand-Sons are comprehended, who are oft called Sons; and Grand-Fathers, Fathers in Scripture. b Either, becauſe they were bred up there, that being the chief City of the Kingdom; or, becauſe upon the Tidings of Joram's Slaughter, they fled thither, or were by their Friends conveyed from ſeveral parts thither, as to the ſtrongeſt place; in which, it may ſeem by Jehu's Meſſage, they intended to defend themſelves and Ahab's Children, and to ſet up one as King in Joram's ſtead; or rather, becauſe they were left there by Joram, when he went to Ramoth-Gilead, that, if the Syrians had prevailed againſt him, they might have ſafety in that very ſtrong and great City, and he by their means ſuccour from it. c Heb. the princes of Jezreel, i. e. the great Perſons and Officers of the Court, which then was and had been for ſome time at Jezreel, who either had fled thither with Ahab's Sons, upon the News of Jehu's Actions and Succeſſes; or rather, had been ſent by Joram with his Sons to Samaria, to take care of them there. d Either, by Age; or or rather, by Office, the Rulers or Senators of Samaria. e That had a more particular care of the ſeveral Children under the inſpection of the Princes or Rulers here mentioned.

2 Now aſſoon as this letter cometh to you, ſeeing your maſters ſons are with you, and there are with you chariots and horſes, a fenced city alſo, and armour:

3 Look even out the beſt and meeteſt of your maſter's ſons, and ſet him on his father's throne, and fight for you maſter's houſe f.

f Thus he ſpeaks, either, becauſe he had ſome notice of their intentions thus to do; or, to make tryal of them, whether they would do ſo, or would be true to him and his deſigns; or, to ſignifie to them his intentions of fighting againſt them, if they did ſo, that by the terrour hereof he might bring them to a compliance with him.

4 But they were exceedingly afraid, and ſaid, Behold, two kings ſtood not before him g: how then ſhould we ſtand?

g All their Power and Intereſt, either in Jezreel, or in the Army before or in Ramoth-Gilead, could not hinder him from executing his deſign, from killing the two Kings, and from invading one of their Kingdoms. It is true, he ſurpriſed the Kings, which a little weakens their argument; but fear and ſelf-love made them eaſily yield to it.

5 And he that was over the houſe h, and he that was over the city i, the elders alſo, and the bringers up of the children, ſent to Jehu, ſaying, We are thy ſervants, and will do all that thou ſhalt bid us k; we will not make any king: do thou that which is good in thine eyes.

h The chief Governour of the King's Palace or Caſtle there. i The chief Magiſtrate or Military Governour. k They make no delays or conditions, but ſubmit all to his Mercy.

6 Then he wrote a letter l the ſecond time to them, ſaying, If ye be ‖ mine, and if ye will hearken unto my voice, take ye the heads of the men m, your maſters ſons, and come to me to Jezreel by to morrow this time: (now the kings ſons being ſeventy perſons, were with the great men of the city, which brought them up)

l Thus Jezabel is requited for her Letter directed in like manner to the Elders of Naboth's City, whereby his Life was wickedly taken away, 1 Kings 21. 8. And it is probable that ſome of theſe Elders were concerned in that very buſineſs, which makes the Judgment of God more remarkable. m Which word ſeems to imply that ſome of them were grown up who doubtleſs trod in their Parents ſteps; and thoſe that were younger, were juſtly cut off for their Parents Sin: of which ſee on Exod. 20. 5. Deut. 5. 9.

7 And it came to paſs when the letter came to them, that they took the kings ſons, and ſlew ſeventy perſons ∴, and put their heads in baskets, and ſent them to Jezreel.

∴ Jehu juſtly required this, becauſe the Soveraign and moſt Righteous LORD of all Mens Lives commanded it; but the Samaritans wickedly obeyed it, becauſe they deſtroyed perſons in a great meaſure Innocent, meerly out of ſlaviſh fear, and without any knowledge of, or regard to God's Command.

8 ¶ And there came a meſſenger, and told him, ſaying, They have brought the heads of the kings ſons. And he ſaid, Lay ye them in two heaps at the entring in of the gate n, until the morning.

n The place of Judicature; to ſignifie, that this was an Act of Juſtice, and of God's Righteous Judgment; and the place of greateſt concourſe, where people went out of the City, and came into it, and whither they reſorted for Judgment, and other occaſions; that all men might behold this dreadful Spectacle of Divine Vengeance upon Ahab's Family, and thereby might juſtify Jehu's Cauſe and Proceedings.

9 And it came to paſs in the morning, that he went out, and ſtood, and ſaid to all the people o, Ye be righteous: behold, I conſpired againſt my maſter, and ſlew him: but † who ſlew all theſe?

† Heb. and

o Either, Firſt, To the promiſcuous Multitude met there to gaze upon this ſad and ſtrange Spectacle. So the ſence is, Be not you troubled nor affrighted with theſe unuſual and diſmal Occurrences: if any thing be amiſs in theſe Actions, I do here publickly and ſolemnly acquit you as Righteous and Innocent; do not you therefore fear any Vengeance from God or Men for it: if there be any Guilt, it is in me, and in thoſe who cut off theſe Heads. Or, Secondly, To thoſe who cut off, and brought the Heads; for the ſame perſons did both, and were here preſent, as Jehu commanded them, Ver. 6. to them he ſpeaks in the Audience of all the People; or by all the people may be meant all thoſe who brought the Heads, and were there waiting for Jehu, according to his Order. So the Speech is in part Ironical, to this purpoſe, You are Righteous in your own Eyes, and you look upon me as a Traitor, and Rebel, and Murderer, becauſe I have riſen againſt, and ſlain my Maſter, which I acknowledge I have done. But if I am Guilty, you are not Innocent, and therefore cannot accuſe me: for I have killed one, but you a great number. This Explication ſeems probable; onely the Hebrew word, bam, being generally uſed of the common People, may ſeem not ſo fitly to agree to theſe Rulers and great Men who had brought the Heads; and that expreſſion to all the people, implies that Jehu did not direct his Speech to ſome particular perſons, but to the whole Body of the People then preſent, whom he clears from all blame, and to whom he appeals as Witneſſes between him and theſe perſons.

10 Know now, that there ſhall fall unto the earth nothing of the word of the LORD, which the LORD ſpake p concerning the houſe of Ahab: for the LORD hath done that which he ſpake * † by his ſervant Elijah q.

* 1 Kin. 21. 29.

q But the truth is, neither I nor they are to be blamed; nor you that aſſiſted and encouraged me herein: for this is not Man's Work, but God's, and done by his Command. q Whom he mentions, rather than Eliſha; partly, becauſe Elijah was now Dead, and therefore his Name and Memory was more Sacred than Eliſha's, who was yet alive; this being the common humour and folly of Mankind, to value and honour thoſe that are dead, whom they contemned whilſt they lived: and partly, becauſe Elijah's Prophecy was known, and publick, and famous; when Eliſha's was delivered in a corner, and that not from his own Mouth, but by one of the Sons of the Prophets.

And it ſeems not ſo decent and proper for Jehonadab, a Stranger and Subject, to ſpeak thus to the King, as for the King to ſay ſo to him.

Which words being manifeſtly falſe, and ſpoken with a deſign to deceive, cannot be excuſed from Sin, though they were uttered with a pious intention; this being an unmovable Principle, That we muſt not do the leaſt Evil of Sin, that the greateſt Good may come, Rom. 3. 8. And if Jehonadab did concur with Jehu herein, it was a Humane Infirmity.

19 Now therefore call unto me all the prophets of Baal, all his ſervants l, and all his prieſts, let none be wanting: for I have a great ſacrifice to do to Baal m; whoſoever ſhall be wanting, he ſhall not live. But Jehu did it in ſubtilty n, to the intent that he might deſtroy the worſhippers of Baal.

And theſe being once deſtroyed, Jehu rightly concluded, that the reſt would fall of courſe. And this ſence may ſeem to be favoured by Verſe 22. wherein Veſtments were brought forth for all theſe worſhippers of Baal; which were not commonly uſed by the People, in the Worſhip either of God, or of Baal; but onely by the Prieſts, or Miniſters. Or, 2. All his Worſhippers, as the ſame word is Tranſlated, in the cloſe of this Verſe. Queſt. How could all theſe be contained in one Houſe of Baal? Anſ. Well enough; for the number of Baal's Worſhippers had been vaſtly diminiſhed by the Miniſtry of Elijah, and Eliſha, and the reſt of the Prophets; and by Joram's neglect, and diſuſe of that Worſhip. For the generality of the Iſraelites had too much knowledge to have any real and Religious reſpect to ſuch ſenſleſs Idols; onely they practiſed it in compliance with the humour of their King and Queen, and for Worldly, or wicked ends; and therefore when the King deſerted it, they generally forſook it; ſome few ſilly and beſotted perſons excepted, who are here gathered together. Beſides, this Houſe or Temple of Baal might be very large and capacious, and probably was ſo, becauſe it was the chief of that ſort, as being in the King's City, and nigh his Palace, and for the uſe of the King and Queen, and the whole Court; and for great and high Solemnities. Moreover, as the name of the Houſe or Temple of God at Jeruſalem oft ſignifies, not onely the principal Building, but all the other Buildings and Courts belonging to it; in which all the Worſhippers ſtood when they Worſhipped, ſo it might be here; and ſo there was ſpace ſufficient for all the Worſhippers of Baal, which can reaſonably be thought to have been at this time in all Iſrael. m I will offer to him a noble and acceptable Sacrifice; not of Sheep, or Oxen, &c. as they underſtood it; but of his own beloved Prieſts, and Prophets, and Servants; as he meant it. n With another deſign, that he might both certainly Diſcover, and utterly Deſtroy them all, without any further trouble, or danger of Sedition or Tumult in his Kingdom.

20 And Jehu ſaid, † Proclaim o a ſolemn aſſembly for Baal: and they proclaimed it. † Heb. ſanctifie.

o Heb. Sanctifie. Prepare your ſelves, and all things neceſſary for this Solemn day, and Sacrifice, and Feaſt, which I intend to keep.

21 And Jehu ſent through all Iſrael: and all the worſhippers of Baal came, ſo that there was not a man left that came not p: and they came into the houſe q of Baal; and the houſe of Baal was ‖ full from one end to another. ‖ Or, ſo full that they ſtood mouth to mouth.

p Either, 1. Becauſe they thought Jehu was ſerious and ſincere in his Profeſſion; it being natural, and uſual for men too eaſily to believe, what they wiſh to be true. And for the Prieſts which Jehu deſtroyed before, Verſe 11. they might think that was done, onely becauſe of their nearneſs and Relation to Ahab and his Family. Or, 2. For fear of their Lives; for certain Death was threatned to all that did not come, Verſe 19. which conſidering Jehu's fierce and bloody temper, they knew would be Executed; whereas, if they did come, there was more than a poſſibility of the ſparing of their Lives: for Jehu was known to be indifferent and unconcerned in matters of Religion, one that had ſerved Baal when his Prince Ahab lived and did ſo; and forſook it when the next Prince Joram did; and therefore it was doubtful whether Jehu had not in good earneſt returned to his firſt love, to that Religion which he had formerly embraced, and onely deſerted in complacency to others. Or, 3. By God's juſt Providence, deceiving their Minds, and enclining their Hearts to come to their own Deſtruction. q i. e. The Temple.

22 And he ſaid unto him that was over the veſtry, Bring forth veſtments r for all the worſhippers of Baal. And he brought them forth veſtments.

r Sacred Garments; ſuch as were uſed by the Prieſts and others of the Lord's Miniſtry in God's Worſhip; and from thence the Devil borrowed this cuſtom in his Worſhip.

23 And Jehu went, and Jehonadab the ſon of Rechab ſ into the houſe of Baal, and ſaid unto the worſhippers of Baal, Search, and look that there be here with you none of the ſervants of the LORD t, but the worſhippers of Baal onely.

ſ Whom the Baalites poſſibly did not know, and therefore ſuſpected nothing; or, if any of the more crafty ſort ſuſpected any thing, it was now too late to amend their Errour. t Becauſe their Preſence will offend Baal, and deride, or pollute his Worſhip: whence Prophane perſons have been often excluded from Solemn Acts of Worſhip, both by Jews and Hethens. So this did not raiſe their ſuſpition.

24 And when they went in u to offer ſacrifices, and burnt-offerings, Jehu appointed fourſcore men x without, and ſaid, If any of the men whom I have brought into your hands, eſcape, he that letteth him go, his life ſhall be for the life of him.

u When ſome in the name of the reſt went to the Alter to offer Sacrifice. x Far greater numbers being doubtleſs in readineſs to aſſiſt them, in caſe of any oppoſition.

25 And it came to paſs aſſoon as he y had made an end of offering the burnt-offerings z, that Jehu ſaid to the guard, and to the captains a, Go in, and ſlay them, let none come forth. And they ſmote them with † the edge of the ſword, and the guard and the captains caſt them out b, and went to the city of the houſe of Baal c. † Heb. the mouth.

y i. e. The Chief Prieſt of Baal. See 2 Chronicles 23. 17. z So far he ſuffered them to proceed; either, becauſe till then they were not all come into the Houſe: Or, becauſe having been taken in the very Act of groſs Idolatry, their Deſtruction was more juſt and reaſonable. a i. e. To the Fourſcore men, and their Officers. b i. e. Caſt their Carcaſſes out of the City. But that was not proper work for the Guard: nor could they ſo ſoon have done it; nor would they ſtay to do it, when they were going in haſte to other work; nor indeed was it neceſſary to be done; becauſe they intended to pull down the Houſe, and Bury them in its Ruines, and turn it into a Draught-houſe, as it follows. This Word therefore is, and may be joyned with the next; and both rendred, They went haſtily and tagerly; properly, they flung themſelves out (Hiphil for Hithpaal, which is not unuſuunusual in the Hebrew Language) and went. The like Expression is used Esth. 6. 12. hasted, Heb. pushed himself on, or flung himself, i. e. went with great haste; and in the Greek Text, Mark 14. 72. c Either, 1. To some City near to Samaria, where another eminent Temple of Baal was Erected. But this seems not to agree with the Context, there being but one House or Temple of Baal mentioned, both in the foregoing and following Verses. Or rather, 2. To some Buildings belonging to this House of Baal, which may be here called the City; either for some particular reason now unknown: or, because they were very numerous and capacious. For as there were divers Chambers and Rooms built without the Temple, belonging to it, for the use of the Priests, and Levites, &c. So it may be probably be conceived, That this famous Temple of Baal had many such Buildings; in some of which, the Priests of Baal, or of the Groves, (whereof there were great numbers belonging to the King's Court, 1 Kings 18. 19.) peradventure might dwell; and others of them might be for divers uses belonging to the House, and Service of Baal. And into these Buildings the Guards might go, and that hastily, to surprize, and kill those inferiour Ministers of Baal, who were there employed in preparing things for the Sacrifices which were to be Offered; or, in other Services belonging to that House, or that Solemnity.

† Heb. Statues. 26 And they brought forth the † Images out of the house of Baal, and burnt them d.

27 And they brake down the image of Baal e, and brake down the house of Baal f, and made it a draught-house unto this day.

e The chief Image which they Worshipped more than the rest. f And the like they did with the rest of the Houses of Baal in Israel; as may be gathered both from the nature and reason of the thing; and from Verse 28.

28 Thus Jehu destroyed Baal out of Israel.

29 Howbeit from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin, Jehu departed not from after them g, to wit, * the golden calves that were in Bethel, and that were in Dan.

* 1 Kings 12. 28.

g Herein he discovers his Hypocrisie, that he follows God as far as his Interest would permit; namely, in destroying the House of Ahab, and the Worship of Baal, but no further: for he still resolves to keep up the Worship of the Calves: partly, lest he should disoblige and irritate his own Nobles and Subjects, who had been long inured, and were heartily affected to it: and partly, lest he should open a Door for his People to return to their Obedience to the House of David. And his Sin and Folly is the more inexcusable, both because he durst not trust that God with the keeping of his Kingdom, of whose Power, and Faithfulness, and Kindness to him, he had such ample experience in his giving him the Kingdom; and because he had so great and uncontrolable a power in the matters of Religion; having first pretended, and seemed to set up the Worship of Baal with all his might, and then destroying it with no less vehemency, none daring to mutter against him in either case; and because the House of David, and Kingdom of Judah, his Competitor, now was, and was likely to be in a feeble and declining condition, and much more likely to fall into his hands, than that his Kingdom should come into theirs.

30 And the LORD said unto Jehu h, Because thou hast done well in executing that which is right in mine eyes, and hast done unto the house of Ahab according to all that was in mine heart, * thy children of the fourth generation shall sit on the throne of Israel k.

* Chap. 15. 12.

h By some Prophet, as above, Chap. 9. 7. i i. e. In part, and so far as is here expressed, these actions were good and right, thô his heart was not so. k And so they did; namely, Jehoahaz, below Verse 35. Joash, Chap. 13. 10. Jeroboam, Chap. 14. 24. and Zechariah, Chap. 15. 8.

† Heb. observed not. 31 But Jehu † took no heed to walk in the law of the LORD God of Israel, with all his heart l: for he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam m, which made Israel to sin.

l His Obedience wanted three necessary Properties, Care or Heedfulness, Universality, and Sincerity. m His resolved continuance in one single Course, is justly alledged as an Argument of his False-heartedness in all his other Actions.

† Heb. to cut off the ends. 32 In those days n the LORD began † to cut Israel short o: and Hazael smote them in all the coasts of Israel p;

n In the time of Jehu's Life and Reign, as may be gathered by comparing Verse 34. o Either to diminish the number of the People, by cutting them off: or, to straiten their Borders. p i. e. In their Borders, or the outermost part of their Land beyond Jordan, as it is explained, Verse 33. 34 Now the rest of the acts of Jehu, and all that he did, and all his might, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

CHAP. XI.

AND when * Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah saw that her son was dead, she arose, and destroyed all the † seed royal a.

* 2 Chron. 22. 10.
† Heb. seed of the kingdom.

a i. e. All of the Royal Family, left after those Slaughters, 2 Chron. 21. 2. 4. and 22. 1. and 2 Kings 10. 13, 14. except one, as the next Verse limits and explains it. This she did, partly out of Rage at the Extirpation of her Family; resolving, that David's Family should not out-live hers; partly, from Ambition and Desire of Rule; for which many persons have Destroyed their nearest Relations: partly, from the Zeal which she had for Idolatry, and the Worship of Baal, which she intended to Establish; to which she knew the House of David were implacable Enemies: and partly, in her own Defence, that she might secure her self from Jehu's Fury, who was Commanded by God, and resolved in himself, utterly to Destroy all the Branches of Ahab's Family, whereof she was one, Chap. 8. 18, 26. For had she not done this, she suspected, that either the King, or People of Judah would have delivered her up to Jehu upon his Demand. Possibly those whom she slew were Joram's Children by another Wife: Of which, see on the next Verse. And this was the fruit of Jehoshaphat's Marrying his Son to a Daughter of that Idolatrous and Wicked House of Ahab, even the Extirpation of all his Posterity, but one. And this dreadful Judgment God permitted, and inflicted upon him and his, to shew how much he abhors all such sinful and unequal affinities.

2 But Jehosheba b the daughter of king Joram c sister of Ahaziah, took Joash the son of Ahaziah c, and stole him from among the kings sons which were slain d; and they e hid him, even him and his nurse in the bed-chamber f, from Athaliah, so that he was not slain.

b Called Jehoshabeath, 2 Chron. 22. 11. c To wit, by another Wife, and not by this Athaliah: for it is not likely Jehoiadah who Married her, 2 Chron. 22. 11. would have Married one of that Wicked and Cursed House, except he were Married very young, and therein over-ruled by his Parents. c Either, 1. His Adopted, and Legal Son, who was to Succeed him, though he was of another House, and of Nathan's Family, as many think: such persons being sometimes called the Sons of their Predecessors, as we shall see hereafter. Or rather, 2. His proper and Natural Son; for not onely he, but the rest who were Slain, are here called the kings (i. e. Joram's) sons. d Either, 1. From amidst of the Carcasses, where this Infant was laid, and supposed by her to be killed, though it was not quite dead; either through the compassion, or connivence of the Instruments of this Execution; or by some other Artifice which his Nurse used. Or, 2. Out of that Apartment of the Palace which was allotted for the King's Children. e Jehosheba and her Husband Jehoiadah. f Which was in the house of the Lord; as is affirmed in the next Verse. So that it was one of those Chambers adjoyning, or near to the Temple, which were for the uses of the Priests and Levites, and for them onely: which made it more proper for this purpose.

3 And he was with her hid in the house of the LORD, six years g: and Athaliah did reign over the land h.

g Either, Athaliah thought they were all Dead; or if she suspected that this was Preserved, she thought an Infant could do her no great harm; and that she could so well assure the Kingdom to her self within a few Years, that she need not fear any such weak Competitor; or she was willing to smother up the Business, lest if she had made a strict and diligent Search for it, the People should thereby learn, that there was yet a Son of David's Family left; and so be unquiet under her Government, and desirous of a Change. h Which she had an opportunity to do, because she she was not onely the late King's Wife, but also was probably made Queen Regent upon Joram's going to Ramoth-Gilead.

* 2 Chron. 23. 1. 4 And * in the seventh year Jehoiada sent i, and set the rulers over hundreds k, with the captains l and the guard m, and brought them to him into the house of the LORD n, and made a covenant with them o, and took an oath of them p in the house of the LORD, and shewed them the kings son.

i If this action of Jehoiada's seem strange and irregular, this was no ordinary Case, but there were divers peculiar things in it; as that Athaliah was a meer Usurper, having no Pretence of Right to the Crown, and one of that wicked House which God had particularly, and by Name, Devoted to Destruction; that Jehoiadah's Wife was nearer Allied, and had more Right to the Crown, than Athaliah; that the Crown of Judah was by Divine Appointment appropriated to the Sons of David; and therefore the Right of the Crown was inherently in him whom Jehoiadah set up, which Right her Usurpation could not Exclude: That Jehoiadah was not a meer private Person, but the Husband of the King's Aunt; and probably the High Priest, to whom it belonged in great part to see the Laws of God Executed: That Jehoiadah did not act alone in the Business, but had the Consent and Concurrence of the Chief Rulers both Civil and Ecclesiastical; and besides all this, that it is conceived, That he had a special Motion of God's Spirit, or the Direction and Encouragement of the Prophets of that time. So that this Action cannot be drawn into a President for succeeding Times, and for other Kingdoms. k Of whom see Exod. 18. 25. Of these there were Five, which are named, 2 Chron. 23. 1. And these were either, 1. Civil, or Military Officers. But then such small Officers could not have stood him in much stead. And why did he not rather engage Captains of Thousands, or greater Persons, whom doubtless he might easily have brought into this Confederacy? Or rather, Priests or Levites of eminency, as their Work sheweth, Verse 5, 6, 7. and 2 Chron. 23. 1, 2. and their distinction from the Captains and Guard. l Or, Princes, or Nobles, or Commanders; such as he knew were weary of her Idolatrous and Tyrannical Government, and Faithful to their King. m Possibly those who had been the former King's Guard, who had been dis-placed by Athaliah, as persons whose Fidelity she suspected. n i. e. Into the Courts of that House, which oft come under the name of the House, or Temple of the Lord: for into the House none but the Priests or Levites might enter. o To Restore the King to his Kingdom, and Religion to its Purity. p For their Secrecy and Fidelity in the present Design.

5 And he commanded them, saying, This is the thing that ye shall do; a third part of you q that enter in

* 1 Chron. 9. 25. on the sabbath r, shall even be keepers of the watch of the kings house s:

q Either, 1. A third part of you (i. e. of the whole Number, including those that come in, and those that go out on the Sabbath) even they that enter in on the Sabbath: and so the two other Third parts were to consist of those that went out on the Sabbath; as some gather from Verse 6, 7. Or rather, 2. A third part onely of those that enter in on the Sabbath, who seem to be plainly divided into three Thirds here; and Verse 6. as those that went forth on the Sabbath are expresly distributed into two Parts, Verse 7. r i. e. That come into the Temple on the Sabbath-day. For the understanding of this matter, you must know, That the Levites were, in and from David's time, distributed into twenty four Courses, which were to do the Work of the Temple successively, and by turns; each Course consisting of about a Thousand Men for his Week: of which see 1 Chron. 23, and 24. s Either, 1. Of that Bed-Chamber where the King now was. But it is unlikely, and without Example, either that one Bed-Chamber, or the Temple, or any Part of it, should be called the kings house. And besides, the King's Person is secured by other persons, Verse 7. Or rather, 2. Of that part which leadeth to the King's Palace, which Athalia now Possessed, and whence they might expect Opposition.

6 And a third part shall be at the gate of Sur t, and a third part at the gate behind the guard u: so shall ye keep the watch of the house ‖ that it be not broken down x.

‖ Or, from breaking up.

t The chief Gate of the Temple called the High-Gate, 2 Kings 15. 35. and the Foundation-Gate, 2 Chron. 23. 5. and the East-Gate, Jer. 19. 2. and the Middle-Gate, Jer. 39. 3. and the Gate of the Entrance, Ezek. 40. 15. u Either, 1. The King's Guard. Or, 2. The Guard of the Temple; for such a Guard there was, and a Captain of the Guard, called, The Captain of the Temple, Acts 4. 1. and 5. 24. This Gate was in the South-side; and, as some think, is that which is called Sippim, or the Threshold-gate, 2 Chron. 23. 4. x i. e. So you shall Guard all the Gates or Entrances into the House or Temple of God, that neither Athalia nor any of her Souldiers may break into the Temple, and Defile it, or Destroy it; as she will doubtless indeavour to do. Or, and ye shall keep the watch of the house Massach: as the LXX and other Interpreters render it; who think this was the name of an House not far from the Temple; in which, or against which, they were to keep a Guard.

7 And two ‖ † parts of all you that go forth on the sabbath y, even they shall keep the watch of the house of the LORD about the king z.

‖ Or, Companies. † Heb. Bands.

y i. e. Who having finished their Course, and Week, should have gone home, but were detained, 2 Chron. 23. 8. z Whilst the rest Guard the Doors and Entrances into the Temple; these shall have a special Care of the King's Person, part on his Right, and part on his Left Hand.

8 And ye shall compass the king round about a, every man with his weapons in his hand: and he that cometh within the ranges b, let him be slain; and be ye with the king as he goeth out, and as he cometh in c.

9 And the captains over the hundreds did according to all things that Jehoiada the priest commanded: and they took every man his men that were to come in on the sabbath, with them that should go out on the sabbath, and came to Jehoiada the priest.

a When you have set your Watches, and Guards, all the rest of you shall draw near to the King to preserve his Royal Person from all Assaults and Dangers. b Or, Fences, i. e. the Walls wherewith the Courts of the Temple were Invironed: See Verse 15. Or, your Rank, or Order. If any of Athaliah's Guards shall attempt to break in upon you, or within your Bounds. c Whether the King shall go out of the Temple, to Offend, or Subdue his Enemies; or Retire hither to Defend himself; do you always Accompany him.

10 And to the captains over hundreds, did the priest give king Davids spears and shields d that were in the Temple of the LORD.

d Offensive and Defensive Weapons, which he gave to the Captains, both for themselves, and for all their Souldiers: for they all came into the Temple Unarmed, to prevent suspition. These are called David's, either because they were such as he had taken from his Enemies, which he had dedicated to God, and laid up in the Temple, as Monuments of God's Goodness to him. See 1 Sam. 21. 9. 2 Sam. 8 7, 11. 1 Kings 7. 51. Or, because David had made a Sacred Armory in the Temple, whence Arms might be taken upon extraordinary Occasions, for the Defence of the Temple, or City of God.

† Heb. Let the King live.

h i. e. The Book of the Law, which he put into the King's hand, to mind him of his Duty at his entrance upon his Kingdom, which was to Read and Write out that Holy Book, Deut. 17. 18. and to Govern himself and his Kingdom by it: the Law of God being frequently and most properly called a Testimony, as Psal. 78. 5. and 132. 12. Isa. 8. 16, 20. k Who came thither upon the hearing of the Noise and Tidings of what was done. l To enquire into the Cause of this great Noise; being hitherto kept in deep Ignorance, partly, because it was managed with so much Secrecy, and in the Temple; and partly, because the People Universally hated her, and wished her Downfal. m i. e. Into the Courts: whither by Jehoiadah's direction she was permitted to enter, though contrary to his general Order, Verse 8. that so he might draw her into his Net.

14 And when she looked, behold, the king stood by a pillar ‖ as the manner was, and the princes and the trumpeters by the king, and all the people of the land rejoyced, and blew with trumpets: and Athalia rent her cloaths, and cried, Treason, treason.

‖ Possibly by one of the two famous Pillars of the Temple; of which see 1 Kings 7. 21. nigh unto which the Throne was Erected. If it be said, That none but Priests might come thither. I answer, Ordinarily they might not: but the King being a Sacred Person, especially upon such Extraordinary Occasions, might be there. Or, upon a Scaffold, possibly that Brazen Scaffold which Solomon Erected, 2 Chron. 6. 13. and left there for such purposes. See 2 Kings 23. 3.

15 But Jehoiada the priest commanded the captains of the hundreds, the officers of the host m, and said unto them, Have her forth without the ranges n: and him that followeth her o, kill with the sword: for the priest had said, Let her not be slain in the house of the LORD p.

16 And they laid hands on her q, and she went by the way by the which the horses came into the kings house r, and there was she slain s.

q Or, they gave her space or room, to wit, to go out of the Court of the Temple, and did not keep her within it, as they could have done. 17 ¶ And Jehoiada made a Covenant between the LORD, and the king, and the people t, that they should be the LORDs people; between the king also and the people u.

t A Sacred Covenant, whereby he solemnly ingaged both the King, and People, as it here follows; that they should be the Lord's people; i. e. That they should renounce, and root out all Idolatry, and set up and maintain God's True Worship. Compare 2 Kings 23. 10. u This was a Civil Covenant, whereby the King engaged himself to Rule them justly, and in the fear of God; and the People obliged themselves to Defend and Obey him. Compare 2 Sam. 5. 3.

20 And all the people of the land rejoyced, and the city was in quiet; and they slew Athaliah with the sword besides the Kings house.

21 Seven years old was Jehoash when he began to reign.

CHAP. XII.

* 2 Chron. 24. 1. IN * the seventh year of Jehu, Jehoash began to reign; and forty years reigned he in Jerusalem: and his mothers name was Zibiah of Beersheba.

2 And Jehoash did that which was right in the sight of the LORD a all his days, wherein Jehoiada the priest instructed him.

a To wit, for the matter of it, though not with an honest and sincere mind, but onely by the influence of his good Tutor and Restorer, as the words here following plainly imply.

3 But the high places were not taken away b: the people still sacrificed, and burnt incense in the high places.

b To which the People were so fondly and strangely addicted, that the foregoing Kings, though men of riper Years, and great Power and Courage, and finally settled in their Thrones, could not take them away; and therefore it is not strange if Jehoiada could not now remove them, when the King was very young and tender, and not well settled in his Kingdom, and when the People were more Corrupt and Disorderly through Athaliah's Male-Administration. c To God.

4 ¶ And Jehoash said to the priests d, * All the money of the ‖ † dedicated things e that is brought f into the house of the LORD, even † the money of every one that passeth the account ∴, † the money that every man is set at g, and all the money that † † cometh into any mans heart h to bring into the house of the LORD.

Or rather, Secondly, A special branch of it, the Money which had been either formerly or lately Vowed or Dedicated to the Use and Service of God and of his House, either by the former Kings; of which see below, Verse 18. and compare 1 Kings 7. 51. and 15. 15. 2 Kings 12. 18. 2 Chr. 15. 18. or, by this King or his People. f Or rather, that shall be brought: for though the People might Vow to bring it thither in convenient time, yet it is not likely they would bring much Money thither in the Tyrannical and Idolatrous Reign of Athalia: or, if they did, that Athaliah would not Seize it for her own Use. ∴ i. e. The half Shekel, which was paid for every one that was Numbred from Twenty Years old and upward; of which the very same Phrase is used, Exod. 30. 13. compare 2 Chron. 24. 5, 6, 9. g Heb. the money of souls or persons, according to his taxing, i. e. 6 But it was so, that † in the three and twentieth year of king Jehoash, the priests had not repaired the breaches of the house l.

7 Then king Jehoash called for Jehoiada the priest, and the other priests, and said unto them, Why repair ye not the breaches of the house? now therefore receive no more money of your acquaintance, but deliver it m for the ‖ breaches of the house.

k i. e. The King of Syria, Verſe 4. with which this Verſe is to be joyned; Verſe 5. and 6 being put within a Parentheſis, as it is in our Tranſlation. But this Verſe may be Tranſlated otherwiſe, Although he (either the King of Syria, Verſe 4. or the Lord, Verſe 5. to whom Judgments are oft aſcribed, even when wicked men are the Inſtruments of executing it) had not left, &c. And ſo it may be joyned with the next foregoing Verſe, as a great aggravation of their Impenitency, and obſtinate continuance in their Idolatry, notwithſtanding ſuch terrible Judgments, which in all reaſon ſhould have driven them from it. l i. e. Of his Army, or Men of War, as the following words evince. m i. e. Had broken and ground them to duſt, or powder, as the Corn is many times broken by Threſhing.

8 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoahaz, and all that he did, and his might n, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

n For though his Succeſs was not good, he ſhewed much perſonal Valour and Courage. Which is noted to intimate, that the Iſraelites were not Conquered, becauſe of the Baſeneſs and Cowardiſe of their King, but meerly from the Righteous and Dreadful Judgment of God, who was now reſolved to reckon with them for their filthy Apoſtacy.

9 And Jehoahaz ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria, and Joaſh his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

10 ¶ In the thirty and ſeventh year of Joaſh king of Judah o, began Jehoaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz to reign over Iſrael in Samaria, and reigned ſixteen years.

o By which, compared with Verſe 1. it may be gathered, That Jehoahaz had two or three Years before his Death, made his Son Jehoaſh King with him: which is very probable, becauſe he was perpetually in the State of War, and conſequently in danger of an untimely Death; and becauſe he was a Man of Valour, as is implied here Verſe 12. and declared 2 Chron. 25.

11 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD; he departed not from all the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nabat, who made Iſrael ſin: but he walked therein.

12 And the reſt of the acts of Joaſh, and all that he did, and his might wherewith he fought againſt Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

13 And Joaſh ſlept with his fathers, and Jeroboam ſat upon his throne: and Joaſh was buried in Samaria with the kings of Iſrael.

14 ¶ Now Eliſha was fallen ſick of his ſickneſs whereof he died, and Joaſh the king of Iſrael came down unto him, and wept over his face p, and ſaid, O my father, my father, the chariot of Iſrael, and the horſemen thereof q.

p Not for any true Love and Reſpect to him, for then he would have followed his counſel in forſaking the Calves, and returning to the Lord; but for his own and the Kingdom's ineſtimable loſs in him. q See 2 Kings 2. 12.

15 And Eliſha ſaid unto him, Take bow and arrows. And he took unto him bow and arrows.

16 And he ſaid to the king of Iſrael, † Put thine hand upon the bow. And he put his hand upon it: and Eliſha put his hands upon the kings hands.

† Heb. Make thine hand to ride.

17 And he ſaid, Open the window eaſt-ward r: and he opened it. Then Eliſha ſaid, Shoot: and he ſhot. And he ſaid, The arrow of the LORD's deliverance, and the arrow of deliverance from Syria: for thou ſhalt ſmite the Syrians in Aphek ſ, till thou have conſumed them t.

r Either, towards Syria, which lay North-Eaſt-ward from the Land of Iſrael: or, towards the Iſraelites Land beyond Jordan, which lay Eaſt-ward from Canaan, and which was now poſſeſſed by the Syrians. Either way this Arrow is ſhot againſt the Syrians, as a token what God intended to do againſt them. ſ Not in the City, but in the Territory of it, where it ſeems there was a great Battel to be fought between the Iſraelites and Syrians. Of Aphek ſee 1 Sam. 4. 1. and 29. 1. 1 Kings 20. 30. though it is poſſible there might be ſeveral Cities of that name. Or, as in Aphek, i. e. thou ſhalt ſmite them as they were ſmitten in the City and Territory of Aphek, i. e. utterly deſtroy them. See 1 Kings 20. 26, 29, 30. the Particle as being oft underſtood, as hath been formerly and frequently proved. t i. t. The Syrians, not all that People, but their Armies, or at leaſt that which was to be at Aphek, where a dreadful Battel was to be fought. Or, if this be meant of all the Syrian Armies, this is to be underſtood conditionally, if he did not hinder it by his Unbelief or Neglect, ſignified in the following Verſes.

18 And he ſaid, Take the arrows: and he took them. And he ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, Smite upon the ground u: and he ſmote thrice, and ſtayed.

u The former ſign portended Victory, and this was to declare the number of the Victories.

19 And the man of God was wroth with him, and ſaid, Thou ſhouldeſt have ſmitten five or ſix times, then hadſt thou ſmitten Syria till thou hadſt conſumed it: whereas now thou ſhalt ſmite Syria but thrice x.

x Queſt. Wherein was Jehoaſh his Fault, or why was the Prophet angry with him? Anſw. The Prophet himſelf did not yet know how many Victories Jehoaſh ſhould obtain againſt the Syrians, but God had ſignified to him that he ſhould learn that by the number of the King's Strokes. And he was angry with him, not ſimply, becauſe he ſmote onely thrice, but becauſe by his Unbelief and Idolatry he provoked God ſo to over-rule his heart and hand, that he ſhould ſmite but thrice, which was a token that God would aſſiſt him no further. Although his ſmiting but thrice might proceed either from his Unbelief or Negligence. For by the former Sign, and the Prophet's Comment upon it, he might clearly perceive that this alſo was intended as a ſign of his Succeſs againſt the Syrians, and therefore he ought to have done it frequently, and vehemently.

20 ¶ And Eliſha died, and they buried him y: and the bands of the Moabites invaded the land at the coming in of the year z.

y In or near Samaria. z In the Spring, when the Fruits of the Earth grew Ripe.

21 And it came to paſs as they were burying ∴ a man, that behold, they ſpied a band of men a, and they caſt the man into the ſepulchre of Eliſha b: and when the man c † was let down, and touched the bones of Eliſha d, he revived, and ſtood up on his feet e.

† Heb. went down.

∴ Or, were about to bury, as that Particle is oft uſed in the Hebrew Tongue. a Coming towards them, but at ſome diſtance. b Not daring to carry the dead Corpſe further to the place appointed for his Burial, they made uſe of the next Burying-place, where Eliſha was Buried, and there they removed ſome Stone, or opened ſome Door, and haſtily flung down their dead Corpſe there. c i. t. The Man's dead Body, or the Coffin in which he was put. d Which might eaſily be, the Coffin and Linnen in which Eliſha's Body was put, and the Fleſh of his Body being now conſumed: for this was ſome conſiderable time after his Death. e Which Miracle GOD wrought there, partly, to do Honour to that great Prophet, and that by this Seal he might confirm his Doctrine, and thereby confute the falſe Doctrine and Worſhip of the Iſraelites; partly, to ſtrengthen the Faith of Joaſh, and of the Iſraelites, in his Promiſe of their Succeſs againſt the Syrians; and partly, in the midſt of all their Calamities to comfort ſuch Iſraelites as were Eliſha's Followers, with the hopes of that Eternal Life, whereof this was a manifeſt Pledge, and to awaken the reſt of that People to a due care and preparation for it.

22 ¶ But Hazael king of Syria oppreſſed Iſrael all the days of Jehoahaz.

23 And the LORD was gracious unto them, and had compaſſion on them, and had reſpect unto them, becauſe of his covenant with Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, and would not deſtroy them, neither caſt he them from his † preſence f as yet.

9 And Jehoash the king of Israel sent to Amaziah king of Judah, saying, The thistle that was in Lebanon, sent to the cedar that was in Lebanon n, saying, Give thy daughter to my son to wife o: and there passed by a wild beast that was in Lebanon, and trode down the thistle p.

n By the Thistle, a low and contemptible, yet troublesome, Shrub, he understands Amaziah; and by the Cedar, himself, whom he intimates to be far stronger than he, and out of his Reach. o Let us make a Match, i. e. let us Fight. Onely he expresseth this Bloody Work in a civil manner, as Amaziah had done, Verse 8. and as Abner did, 2 Sam. 2. 14. Or, let thy Kingdom and mine be United under one King, as formerly they were; and let us decide it by a pitched Battel, whether thou or I shall be that King. Or, as some expound it, by affirming, That it was great arrogancy and presumption for him to desire a Friendly League or Affinity with him; he leaves him to guess how intolerable it was that he should undertake to wage War against him. p And with no less ease shall my Souldiers tread down thee and thy Forces.

10 Thou hast indeed smitten Edom, and thine heart hath lifted thee up: glory of this q, and tarry † at home: for why shouldest thou meddle to thy hurt, that thou shouldest fall, even thou, and Judah with thee?

† Heb. at thy house.

q Content thy self with that Glory and Success, and let not thine Ambition betray thee to Ruine.

11 But Amaziah would not hear r: therefore Jehoash king of Israel went up s, and he and Amaziah king of Judah looked one another in the face at Beth-shemesh, which belongeth to Judah t.

r Because God blinded and hardned him to his Destruction for his abominable and ridiculous Idolatry, 2 Chron. 25. 10. s To wit, into the Kingdom of Judah, carrying the War into his Enemies Country. t Which is added to distinguish it from that Beth-shemesh in Issachar, and another in Naphthali, Jos. 19. 22, 38.

12 And Judah † was put to the worse before Israel, and they fled u every man to their tents.

† Heb. was smitten.

u Being unsatisfied in the ground and manner of the Quarrel, and discouraged by their King's Idolatry, and smitten by God with a Spirit of Fear.

13 And Jehoash king of Israel took Amaziah king of Judah, the son of Jehoash, the son of Ahaziah, at Beth-shemesh, and came to Jerusalem x, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem, from the gate of Ephraim y, unto the corner-gate, four hundred cubits z.

x Commanding entrance in Amaziah's Name, and with his consent, which he durst not deny. y Which led to Ephraim. z Which was done, partly in scorn and contempt; and partly, that he might re-enter and re-take it, if they should attempt to renew the War.

14 And he took all the gold and silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of the LORD, and in the treasures of the kings house and hostages a, and returned to Samaria b.

a To assure their peaceable Carriage towards him. b He did not keep Jerusalem, nor seek to gain the Possession and Dominion of that Kingdom; partly, because he thought he could not keep it, considering the difficulty he found in keeping his own from such potent and near Enemies as the Syrians were; and the great affection which all Judah bare to David's House; and partly, because God so inclined his Heart, that he might make good his Promise to David and his Family.

15 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jehoash which he did, and his might, and how he fought with Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

16 And Jehoash slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel, and Jeroboam his son reigned in his stead.

17 ¶ And Amaziah the son of Joash king of Judah, lived after the death of Jehoash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel, fifteen years.

18 And the rest of the acts of Amaziah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

19 Now * they ∴ made a conspiracy against him in Jerusalem: and he fled to Lachish c, but they sent after him d to Lachish, and slew him there.

* 2 Chr. 25. 27.

∴ i. e. The People, or the Princes and chief Men among them, possibly those whose Sons he had delivered up as Hostages to Jehoash, with the connivence, if not approbation of the People; as appears, because the design was carried on openly, and stedd-steddily, and irresistibly, as the following words shew. c A strong City in Judah, towards the Philistines: Of which see Jos. 10. 31. and 15. 39. 2 Kings 19. 8. d Either, secret Murderers: or rather, bands of Souldiers; for this Rebellion was carried on by a strong hand, and open force. Compare 2 Kings 12. 20. and 15. 10, 15.

20 And they brought him on horses e, and he was buried at Jerusalem with his fathers in the city of David.

e Or, with horses, to wit, in a Chariot.

*Chap 15. 13. 2 Chron 26. 1. he is called Uzziah.

21 ¶ And all the people of Judah took * Azariah, (which was sixteen years old) and made him king in stead of his father Amaziah f.

f Which they did, either in opposition to the Conspirators; or, to shew their Affection to the House of David, and that their Quarrel was onely Personal against Amaziah, whom they looked upon as the Author of all their late Calamities. This Azariah is called Uzziah, 2 Kings 15. 30. 2 Chron. 26. 1. both names signifying the same thing for substance; that, God's Help; and this, God's Strength.

22 He built Elath g, and restored it to Judah h, after that the king i slept with his fathers.

g i. e. Repaired and Fortified it: for it was built before, Deut. 2. 8. h From whom it had Revolted with the rest of Edom, in which Land this place was, upon the Red-Sea. i i. e. His Father Amaziah, who did not perfect his Conquest of Edom, but left some work for his Son.

23 ¶ In the fifteenth year of Amaziah, the son of Joash king of Judah, Jeroboam the son of Joash king of Israel began to reign in Samaria, and reigned forty and one years.

24 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD: he departed not from all the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin.

25 He restored the coast of Israel from the entring of Hamath k, unto the Sea of the plain l, according to the word of the LORD God of Israel, which he spake by the hand of his servant * Jonah m, the son of Amittai the prophet, which was of Gath-Hepher.

* Mat. 22. 39, 40. called Jonas.

k Which was the Northern border of the Kingdom of Israel, Numb. 13. 21. and 34. 8. l i. e. Unto the Dead Sea, which once was a goodly Plain, Gen. 13. 10. which was their Southern border. m Or, Jonas, one of the small Prophets; though this Prophecy of his be not Recorded there; and therefore it is remembred here.

26 For the LORD saw the affliction of Israel, that it was very bitter n: for there was not any shut up, nor any left o, nor any helper for Israel.

n Whereby he was moved to pity and help them, though they were an unworthy People. o See of this Phrase on Deut. 32. 36. 1 Kings 14. 10. and 21. 21.

27 And the LORD said not o that he would blot out the name of Israel from under heaven: but he saved them by the hand of Jeroboam the son of Joash.

o i. e. Not yet: he had not yet declared this, as afterwards he did by the succeeding Prophets, though not in those words. See Hos. 1. 5, 6, 9.

28 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jeroboam, and all that he did, and his might, how he warred, and how he recovered Damascus, and Hamath, which belonged to Judah † p, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

† For Israel.

p These were Cities of Syria, but were taken from the Syrians by David and Solomon, 2 Sam. 8. 6. 2 Chron. 8. 3. and probably by them Incorporated with, and added to the Possessions of their own Tribe, to which from that time they belonged; but afterwards they were re-taken by the Syrians; and were now recovered by this Jeroboam.

29 And Jeroboam slept with his fathers, even with the kings of Israel; and Zachariah his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XV.

IN the twenty and seventh year of Jeroboam king of Israel a, † began Azariah b son of Amaziah king of Judah to reign.

† Heb. reigned.

a Quest. How can this be true, seeing Amaziah, the Father of this Azariah, lived onely till the Fifteenth Year of Jeroboam's Reign, Chap. 14. 2, 23? Ans. This might be either, First, Because Jeroboam was made King by, and Reigned with his Father Eleven or Twelve Years, and afterwards Reigned alone; and so there is a twofold beginning of his Kingdom; by the former this was his Twenty Seventh Year, and by the later, his Fifteenth Year. Or, Secondly, Because there was an inter-Reign for Eleven or Twelve Years in the Kingdom of Judah; either, through the prevalency of that Faction which cut off Amaziah the Father, and kept the Son out of his Kingdom; or, because Azariah was very young when his Father was slain, and the People were not agreed to Restore him to his Right till his Sixteenth Year, Chap. 14. 21. 2 Chron. 26. 1. And yet these Eleven or Twelve Years of inter-Reign, in which he was excluded from the exercise of his Regal Office, some think to be included in those Fifty Two Years which are here ascribed to Azariah's Reign, Verse 2. which may well be doubted. b Called also Uzziah here, and Verse 13, 30. c Solely and fully to exercise his Regal Power.

2 Sixteen years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned two and fifty years d in Jerusalem, and his mothers name was Jecholiah of Jerusalem.

d Besides the Sixteen Years of his Minority last mentioned.

3 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father Amaziah had done e; e i. e. In the same manner, unsincerely, and but for a time.

4 Save that f the high places were not removed: the people sacrificed and burnt incense still on the high places.

f Understand this, as howbeit, Chap. 14. 4.

5 ¶ And the LORD * smote the king, so that he was a leper g unto the day of his death, and dwelt in a several house h: and Jotham the king's son was over the house, judging the people of the land i.

* 2 Chr. 26. 19.

g The cause whereof see 2 Chronicles 26. 16. h Separated from Conversation with others by vertue of that Law, Lev. 13. 46. which being the Law of the KING of Kings, bound Kings no less than Subjects. i i. e. He Governed the King's Court and whole Kingdom, in his Name, and as his Vice-Gerent.

6 And the rest of the acts of Azariah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

7 So Azariah slept with his fathers, and * they buried him with his fathers in the city of David, and Jotham his son reigned in his stead.

* 2 Chr. 26. 23.

8 ¶ In the thirty and eighth year of Azariah king of Judah k, did Zachariah the son of Jeroboam reign over Israel in Samaria six months.

k Of which see the Note on Verse 2.

9 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, as his fathers had done: he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin.

10 And Shallum the son of Jabesh l conspired against him, and * smote him before the people m, and slew him, and reigned in his stead.

* Job 34. 26. Amos 7. 9.

l One of his chief Captains. m Openly and impudently: which he presumed to do; either, because he remembred that the Promise of the Kingdom made to Jehu, was confined to the fourth Generation, Chap. 10. 30. which he observed to be now expired: or, because he perceived that the People were generally disaffected to their King, and favourable to his Attempt.

11 And the rest of the acts of Zachariah, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

12 This was * the word of the LORD which he spake unto Jehu, saying, Thy sons shall sit on the throne of Israel unto the fourth generation. And so it came to pass.

* Chap. 10. 30.

13 ¶ Shallum the son of Jabesh began to reign in the nine and thirtieth year of * Uzziah king of Judah, and he reigned † a full month in Samaria.

* Matth. 1. 8, 9. called Ozias. † Heb. a month of days.

14 For Menahem the son of Gadi, went up from Tirzah, and came to Samaria, and smote Shallum

the

the ſon of Jabeſh in Samaria, and ſlew him, and reigned in his ſtead.

15 And the reſt of the acts of Shallum, and his conſpiracy which he made, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

16 ¶ Then Menahem ſmote Tiphſah u, and all that were therein, and the coaſts thereof from Tirzah o: becauſe they opened not to him p, therefore
* Chap. 8. 12. he ſmote it, and all * the women therein that were with child, he ript up q.

u Either that Tiphſah mentioned 1 Kings 4. 24. or another City of that name. o i. e. All the People dwelling between Tirzah and Tiphſah. p Becauſe they refuſed to open the Gates of their City to him, and to ſubmit to him as Conquerour. q That by this example of Severity he might affright all the reſt of the People into Obedience.

17 In the nine and thirtieth year of Azariah king of Judah, began Menahem the ſon of Gadi to reign over Iſrael, and reigned ten years in Samaria.

18 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD: he departed not all his days from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

* 1 Chr. 5. 26. Iſa. 9. 1. 19 And * Pul the king of Aſſyria r came againſt the land ſ; and Menahem gave t Pul a thouſand talents of ſilver, that his hand might be with him, to confirm the kingdom in his hand u.

r Called by Heathen Authors Pul-Belochus, who by the help of Arbaces the Mede, vanquiſhed Sardanapalus the laſt Monarch of Aſſyria, and tranſlated the Kingdom to Chaldæa, and was the firſt King of Babylon and Aſſyria; Arbaces being made King of the Medes and Perſians. ſ To wit, of Iſrael, as the context ſhews. t i. e. Agreed or promiſed to give, as the next Verſe explains it. u That he might aſſiſt him againſt all that did or ſhould oppoſe him. By which it appears, that his Cruelty to Tiphſah was ſo far from Eſtabliſhing him, as he expected, that it weakned and endangered him ſo far, that he was forced to call in a Foreign Prince to his Aid.

† Heb. cauſed to come forth. 20 And Menahem † exacted the money of Iſrael, even of all the mighty men of wealth, of each man x fifty ſhekels of ſilver, to give to the king of Aſſyria: ſo the king of Aſſyria turned back, and ſtayed not there in the land.

x i. e. Of each of thoſe Wealthy Iſraelites. But as each of theſe were not equally Wealthy, ſo it is not probable that he Taxed them equally. Others therefore render it, to or for each Man, i. e. for every Aſſyrian Souldier: which Interpretation is favoured by the placing of the Words in the Hebrew Text, which differs from that in our Tranſlation.

21 ¶ And the reſt of the acts of Menahem, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

22 And Menahem ſlept with his fathers, and Pekahiah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

23 ¶ In the fiftieth year of Azariah king of Judah, Pekahiah the ſon of Menahem began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria, and reigned two years.

24 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, he departed not from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

25 But Pekah the ſon of Remaliah, a captain of his, conſpired againſt him, and ſmote him in Samaria, in the palace of the kings houſe, with Argob, and Arieh ‖, and † with him fifty men of the Gi-

26 And the reſt of the acts of Pekahiah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

27 ¶ In the two and fiftieth year of Azariah
* Iſa. 7. 1. king of Judah, * Pekah the ſon of Remaliah began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria, and reigned twenty years.

28 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, he departed not from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

29 In the days of Pekah king of Iſrael, came * Tiglath-pileſer z king of Aſſyria, and took Ijon, * 1 Chr. 5. 26. and Abel-beth-maachah a, and Janoah b, and Kedeſh, and Hazor c, and Gilead d, and Galilee e, all the land of Napthali, and carried them captive to Aſſyria.

z Or, Tiglath-pilneſer, 2 Chron. 28. 20. called in Heathen Authors Phulaſar, or Phul-Aſſur, the Son of that Pul or Phul above Verſe 9. a Of which ſee 1 Kings 15. 20. b A City of Ephraim, Joſ. 16. 6. c Two Cities of Napthali, Joſ. 12. 22. and 19. 36. d All the Land beyond Jordan, which was nigher to the Aſſyrian than the reſt. e To wit, the Upper Galilee, as may be gathered from the following words, all (or, even all) the land of Napthali: which ſeem to be added by way of Explication or Reſtriction, to ſhew what Galilee he meant, even the Upper, in which Napthali's Lot fell. See the Notes on Iſa. 9. 1.

30 And Hoſhea the ſon of Elah made a conſpiracy againſt Pekah the ſon of Remaliah, and ſmote him, and ſlew him f, and reigned in his ſtead, in the twentieth year of Jotham the ſon of Uzziah g.

f Which he did more eaſily effect, becauſe the People were enraged againſt Pekah, as the Man who by his Murder of King Pekahiah the Son of Menahem, whom the Aſſyrian Monarch ſet up and favoured, and by his unneceſſary War with Ahaz, had brought the Aſſyrian upon them, and cauſed the loſs of one half of that Kingdom. g Queſt. How could this be, when Jotham Reigned onely Sixteen Years, below, Verſe 33? Anſ. The meaning is, That he began his Reign in the Twentieth Year after the beginning of Jotham's Reign; or, which is the ſame thing, in the Fourth Year of Ahaz, Son of Jotham, as appears from Chapter 16. 1. But the Sacred Writer, having not yet made mention of Ahaz, thought it more proper to number Hoſhea's Years by Jotham, of whom he had ſpoken, than by Ahaz: Beſides, as Jotham did Reign divers Years in his Father's Life, ſo might Ahaz in Jotham's Life, and Jotham might for divers reaſons (which it is needleſs here to enquire) reſign up the Adminiſtration of the Kingdom wholly into Ahaz his hands ſome Years before his Death, and therefore might be ſaid to Reign but Sixteen Years, though he lived longer.

31 And the reſt of the acts of Pekah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

32 ¶ In the ſecond year of Pekah the ſon of * 2 Chr. 27. 1. Remaliah king of Iſrael, began * Jothan the ſon of Uzziah king of Judah to reign.

33 Five and twenty years old was he when he began to reign h, and he reigned ſixteen years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Jeruſha, the daughter of Zadok.

h To wit, properly and alone: for he had Reigned before this, as his Father's Deputy and Vice-Roy.

34 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD: he did according to all that his father Uzziah had done.

35 ¶ Howbeit, the high places were not removed: the people ſacrificed and burnt incenſe ſtill in the high places: he built the higher gate of the houſe of the LORD i.

i Not of the Temple, properly ſo called; but of one of the Courts of the Temple, probably that which led to the King's Palace, 2 Chron. 23. 20. called alſo the new gate, Jer. 26. 10. and 36. 10.

36 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Jotham, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

CHAP. XVI.

* Chr. 28. 1. IN * the ſeventeenth year of Pekah a the ſon of Remaliah, Ahaz the ſon of Jotham king of Judah began to reign.

a Of which ſee on Chap. 15. 30.

2 Twenty years old was Ahaz when he began to reign b, and reigned ſixteen years in Jeruſalem, and did not that which was right in the ſight of the LORD his God, like David his father.

b Of the difficulty hence ariſing, ſee the Notes on Chap. 18. 2. to which it more properly belongs.

3 But he walked in the way of the kings of Iſrael, yea, and made his ſon to paſs through the fire c, according to the abominations of the heathen, whom the LORD caſt out from before the children of Iſrael.

c Either, 1. By way of Luſtration, to paſs haſtily thorow it, ſo as to be ſcorched, and, as it were, Baptized with it: Or, 2. by way of Oblation, ſo as to be utterly conſumed, and offered for a Burnt-Offering, which was the practice of Heathens, and of ſome Iſraelites, in imitation of them; of which, ſee 2 Kings 21. 6. Pſalm 105. 36. Jer. 7. 31. which ſeems beſt to agree with 2 Chronicles 28. 3. where it is ſaid, he burnt his children, i. e. ſome of them: firſt one, as is here noted, and afterwards others of them, as is there obſerved. Of theſe practiſes, ſee more on Lev. 18. 21. and Deut. 18. 10.

4 And he ſacrificed and burnt incenſe in the high places, and on the hills, and under every green tree d.

d After the manner of the Heathens; See on Deut. 12. 2. Jer. 2. 20. Hoſ. 4. 13.

* Iſa. 7. 1. 5 ¶ * Then Rezin king of Syria, and Pekah ſon of Remaliah king of Iſrael, came up to Jeruſalem to war: and they beſieged Ahaz, but could not overcome him e.

e Becauſe God of his own meer Grace, undertook their Protection, as he promiſed to do, and diſappointed the hopes and deſign of their Enemies: of which, ſee on, Iſa. 7.

6 At that time Rezin king of Syria recovered Elath f to Syria, and drave the Jews from Elath: and the Syrians came to Elath, and dwelt there unto this day.

f i. e. Took it from the Jews, who had not long ſince taken it, Chap. 14. 22. It lay in the Land of Edom, upon the Red Sea, very conveniently for Navigation: of which ſee on, 1 Kings 9. 26.

7 So Ahaz ſent meſſengers to Tiglath-pileſer king of Aſſyria, ſaying, I am thy ſervant, and thy ſon g: come up, and ſave me out of the hand of the king of Syria, and out of the hand of the king of Iſrael h, which riſe up againſt me.

g I yield my ſelf to thee, as thy Vaſſal, to ſerve and obey thee, and pay the Tribute, upon condition thou doeſt aſſiſt me againſt my Enemies. h For though they were now gone from Jeruſalem, yet he juſtly concluded they would return again, and from time to time moleſt and vex him.

* Chap 12. 18. 8 And Ahaz * took the ſilver and the gold that was found in the houſe of the LORD, and in the treaſures of the kings houſe, and ſent it for a preſent to the king of Aſſyria.

9 And the king of Aſſyria hearkened unto him: for the king of Aſſyria went up againſt † Damaſcus i, and took it, and carried the people of it captive k to Kir l, and ſlew Rezin.

† Heb Damaſcek.

i The Metropolis of the Syrians, and the head of that Kingdom, Iſa. 7. 8. k As was Propheſied, Amos 1. 5. l Not Kir of Moab, Iſa. 15. 1. but a part of Media, which then was ſubject to the King of Aſſyria.

10 ¶ And king Ahaz went to Damaſcus, to meet Tiglath-pileſer king of Aſſyria m, and ſaw an altar n that was at Damaſcus: and king Ahaz ſent to Urijah the prieſt the faſhion of the altar, and the pattern of it, according to all the workmanſhip thereof.

m To Congratulate his Victory, and acknowledge his Favour and Help, and to beg the continuance of it. n Of an excellent Structure, upon which the Syrians uſed to Offer to their Idols; ſee 2 Chron. 28. 23.

11 And Urijah the prieſt built an altar according to all that king Ahaz had ſent from Damaſcus o; ſo Urijah the prieſt made it againſt king Ahaz came from Damaſcus p.

o So he complied with the King's Command againſt his own Conſcience, and againſt the expreſs Command of that great God, to whom the King, and he both, were ſubject. p He made haſte, and delayed not to do it, to pleaſe the King, and advance himſelf.

12 And when the king was come from Damaſcus, the king ſaw the altar: and the king approached to the altar, and offered thereon q.

q To wit, a Sacrifice, and that not unto God, but unto the Syrian Idols, as appears from 2 Chron. 28. 23, 24. to whom that Altar was appropriated. Whether he Offered this by himſelf, or by a Prieſt, is not certain.

13 And he burnt his burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and poured his drink offering, and ſprinkled the blood of † his peace offering r upon the altar.

† Heb. which were his.

r For the Heathens; and Ahaz, in imitation of them, Offered the ſame ſorts of Offerings to their falſe Gods, which the Iſraelites did to the True, the Devil being noted to be GOD's Ape in his Worſhip.

14 And he brought alſo the brazen altar ſ which was before the LORD t, from the fore-front of the houſe, from between the altar and the houſe of the LORD u, and put it on the north ſide of the altar x.

ſ Of Burnt-Offerings, made by Solomon, and placed there by God's appointment. t i. e. From before the Lord's Houſe; See on Lev. 1. 3. u Or rather, from between his Altar, &c. or, that Altar, &c. His new Altar was at firſt ſet below the brazen Altar, and at a further diſtance from the Temple. This he took for a diſparagement to his Altar; and therefore moſt impiouſly and audaciouſly takes that away, and puts his in its place. x Or, of that Altar; or of his Altar; as before. So he put GOD's Altar out of its place and uſe.

15 And king Ahaz commanded Urijah the prieſt, ſaying, Upon the great altar y burn * the morning burnt-offering, and the evening meat-offering, and the kings burnt-ſacrifice, and his meat-offering, with the burnt-offering of all the people of the land, and their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, and ſprinkle upon it all the blood of the burnt-offering, and all the blood of the ſacrifice z: and the brazen altar ſhall be for me to enquire by a.

* Exod. 29. 38, 40, 41.

y i. e. This new Altar; which was greater than Solomon's, either in quantity, or in his eſtimation. z Whatſoever is Offered to the True God, either in my name (for poſſibly he did not yet utterly forſake God, but Worſhipped Idols with Him), or on the behalf of the People, ſhall be Offered upon this new Altar: Which he ſeems to preſcribe, not onely to gratifie his own humour, but alſo in deſign to diſcourage, and by degrees to extinguiſh the Worſhip of the True God: for he concluded, that the Worſhippers of God would never be willing to Offer their Sacrifices upon his Altar. a That ſhall be reſerved for my proper uſe, to enquire by; i. e. at which I may ſeek God, or his Favour, or enquire of His Will, to wit, by Sacrifices joyned with Prayer, when I ſhall ſee fit. He ſaith onely to ſeek, or to enquire; not ſeek the Lord, or, to enquire of the Lord, as the Phraſe is more largely expreſſed elſewhere; but he would not vouchſafe to mention the Name of the Lord, whom he had ſo groſly forſaken and deſpiſed.

16 Thus did Urijah the prieſt, according to all that king Ahaz commanded b.

b Having once began to Debauch his Conſcience, he could not now make an Honourable Retreat; and therefore proceeds to execute all the King's Commands.

17 ¶ And king Ahaz cut off * the borders of the baſes, and removed the laver from off them, and took down the * ſea from off the brazen oxen that that were under it, and put it upon a pavement of ſtones c.

c Which he did, either to expreſs his contempt of them, or to render them inconvenient for the uſes to which they had been deſigned; or to diſpoſe of them, or of the Braſs of them, in ſome other place and way, as beſt ſuited with his Fancie; or, for the King of Aſſyria, as it follows in the next Verſe.

18 And the covert for the ſabbath d that they had built in the houſe, and the kings entry without e, turned he from the houſe of the LORD, for the king of Aſſyria f.

d The Form and Uſe whereof is now unknown. It is generally underſtood of ſome Building, or Covert, either that where the Prieſts after their Weekly courſe was ended, abode until the next courſe came, and relieved them; which was done upon the Sabbath day, ſee 2 Kings 11. 5, 7. or that in which the Guard, or Watchmen of the Temple, kept their ſtation; or that under which the King uſed to ſit to hear God's Word, and ſee the Sacrifices; which is called, the covert of the Sabbath, becauſe the chief times in which the King uſed it for thoſe ends, was the Weekly Sabbath, and other ſolemn Days of Feaſting, or Faſting (which all come under the name of Sabbaths in the Old Teſtament), upon which the King uſed more certainly, and ſolemnly, to preſent himſelf before the Lord, than at other times. e By which the King uſed to go from his Palace to the Temple; ſee on, 1 Kings 10. 5, 12. f i. e. That he might ingratiate himſelf with the King of Aſſyria, by his publick contempt and rejection of that Religion which had been the onely Partition-Wall between the Kings of Judah and other Kings; and which poſſibly the preſent King of Aſſyria, did vehemently diſlike and hate; and therefore required theſe things from Ahaz.

19 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Ahaz, which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

20 And Ahaz ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David, and Hezekiah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XVII.

†Hib. reigned. IN the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah, † began Hoſhea the ſon of Elah to reign a in Samaria, over Iſrael nine years b.

a Queſt. How can this be true, ſeeing it is ſaid, that he reigned, or began to reign in Iſrael in the twentieth year of Jotham, Chap. 15. 30. which was the Fourth Year of Ahaz, as was there noted? Anſ. He Uſurped the Kingdom in Ahaz his Fourth Year; but either was not owned as King, by the generality of the People; or was not accepted and eſtabliſhed in his Kingdom by the Aſſyrian, till Ahaz his Twelfth Year; Or, in his Eight firſt Years, he was onely a Tributary Prince, and the King of Aſſyria's Vice-Roy; and after that time he ſet up for himſelf, which drew the Aſſyrian upon him. b To wit, after his confirmation, and peaceable Poſſeſſion of his Kingdom: For in all, he Reigned Seventeen, or Eighteen Years; to wit, Twelve with Ahaz, who Reigned Sixteen Years, and Six with Hezekiah, 2 Kings 18. 10.

2 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, but not as the kings of Iſrael that were before him c.

c For he neither Worſhipped Baal, as many of his Predeceſſors did; nor compelled the People to Worſhip the Calves; one of them, that of Dan, being deſtroyed, or carried away before, as the Hebrew Writers affirm; nor, as ſome adde, hindred thoſe by force, who were minded to go to Jeruſalem to Worſhip. And yet, the Meaſure of the Iſraelites Sins, being now full, Vengeance comes upon them without Remedy: Compare 2 Kings 23. 26.

3 ¶ Againſt him came up Shalmaneſer d king of Aſſyria, and Hoſhea became his ſervant, and † gave him ‖ preſents e.

†Hib. rendred ‖ Or, tribute.

d The Son, or Succeſſor of Tiglath-pileſer. The Ancient Hebrew Writers make him the ſame with Sennacherib, who Eight Years after this time, Invaded the Kingdom of Judah; See Chap. 18. 10, 13. It being very frequent in the Eaſtern Parts, for one man to be called by ſeveral Names, eſpecially by the People of ſeveral Countries. Joſephus affirms, That he met with his Name in the Annals of the Tyrians, which were extant in his Days. He came againſt him, either becauſe he denied the Tribute which he had Promiſed to Pay; or that he might make him Tributary. e Swore Fealty to him; and engaged to pay him a Tribute.

4 And the king of Aſſyria found conſpiracy in Hoſhea: for he had ſent Meſſengers to So king of Egypt f, and brought no preſent to the king of Aſſyria, as he had done year by year: therefore the king of Aſſyria ſhut him up, and bound him in priſon g.

f By Heathen Writers called Sua, or Sabacus, that by his aſſiſtance he might ſhake off the Yoke of the King of Aſſyria; who now was, and for many Years had been the King of Egypt's Rival; See 2 Kings 18. 21. Jer. 37. 5. g To wit, after he had come up againſt him, and taken him, with Samaria; the particular Relation whereof here follows.

5 ¶ Then the king of Aſſyria came up throughout all the land, and went up to Samaria, and beſieged it three years.

6 ¶ * In the ninth year of Hoſhea, the king of Aſſyria took Samaria, and carried Iſrael away into Aſſyria, and placed them in Halah, and in Habor, by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes h.

* Chap. 18. 10.

h This is added, to diſtinguiſh this place from the former, which was either in Aſſyria, or in the Mountainous and leſs Inhabited parts of Media. Hither he carried them, partly to Repleniſh his own Countrey; and partly, becauſe theſe places were at ſo great a diſtance from Canaan, that this would cut off all hopes and thoughts of returning to their own Country.

7 For ſo it was, that the children of Iſrael had ſinned againſt the LORD their God, which had brought them up out of the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and had feared other gods:

8 And walked in the ſtatutes of the heathen i (whom the LORD had caſt out from before the children of Iſrael) and of the kings of Iſrael, which they had made k.

i i. e. According to the Laws and Cuſtoms of the Heathen, is the Worſhip of their Baals, and other of their Sins. k i. e. Which the Kings of Iſrael had ordained concerning the Worſhip of the Calves, and againſt their going up to Jeruſalem to Worſhip.

9 And the children of Iſrael did ſecretly thoſe things that were not right, againſt the LORD l their God, and they built them high places in all their cities, from the tower of the watchmen, to the fenced city m.

l This belongs, either 1. to their groſs Idolatries, and other abominable Practiſes, which they were aſhamed to own before others; Compare Ezek. 8. 12. Or, 2. to the Worſhip of Calves: And ſo the words are otherwiſe rendered, and that agreeably to the Hebrew Text; they cloaked, or diſguiſed, or covered things that were not right againſt, or before, or towards the LORD: i. e. They covered their Idolatrous Worſhip of the Calves, with fair Pretences of Neceſſity, the Two Kingdoms being now divided, and at enmity; and of their honeſt Intention of Serving the True GOD, and retaining the ſubſtance of the Jewiſh Religion, from which they alledged, that they differed onely in Circumſtances of Worſhip. m In all parts and places, both in Cities, and in the Country; yea, in the moſt uninhabited and neglected parts, where few or none dwell, beſide the Watchmen, who are left there in Towers, to preſerve the Cattel and Fruits of the Earth, or to give notice of the approach of Enemies.

10 And they ſet them up † images and * groves in every * high hill, and under every green tree:

† Hib. ſtatues. * Exod. 34. 13. Deut. 16. 21. * Deut. 12. 2.

11 And there they burnt incenſe in all the high places, as did the heathen n whom the LORD carried away before them o; and wrought wicked things to provoke the LORD to anger p.

n Not onely to the Lord, which was Practiſed and Tolerated, ſometimes in the Kingdom of Judah; but alſo to the Idols or Baals of the Heathen. o For the ſame Sins; by whoſe Example they ſhould have taken warning. p i. e. In Deſpight and Contempt of GOD, and his Authority and Command, as the next Verſe ſhews.

q Diſowned, and gave Teſtimony againſt their falſe Worſhip, which they would faſten upon him, and againſt all their Impieties. r To whom he declared his mind, by extraordinary Revelations and Viſions, and by whom he publiſhed it to you, bearing Witneſs from Heaven to their Doctrine, by eminent and glorious Miracles. ſ Whereby he accuſeth them of Partiality, that they obſerved onely thoſe Laws of God, which they might ſafely keep, and lived in the conſtant breach of others, which their Kings forbad them to obſerve.

15 And they rejected his ſtatutes, and his covenant that he made with their fathers, and his teſtimonies which he teſtified againſt them, and they followed vanity u, and becauſe vain x, and went after the heathen that were round about them, concerning whom the LORD had charged them, that they ſhould not do like them.

u i. e. Idols; oft ſo called, becauſe of their nothingneſs, impotency, and unprofitableneſs; and to ſhew the folly and madneſs of Idolaters. x By the long Worſhip of Idols, they were made like them, vain, ſottiſh, and ſenſeleſs Creatures.

y They grew worſe and worſe, from a partial Diſobedience to ſome of God's Laws, they fell by degrees to a total Apoſtacy from all of them. z The Stars, as Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Venus, &c. See Deut. 4. 19.

a Of which Phraſe, ſee on 1 Kings 21. 21.

18 Therefore the LORD was very angry with Iſrael, and removed them out of his ſight b: * 1 Kings 11. 13. there was none left * but the tribe of Judah onely c.

b i. e. Out of Canaan, the onely place of GOD's Solemn Worſhip, and Gracious Preſence; or, out of his Church. c And the greateſt part of the Tribe of Benjamin, and thoſe of the Tribes of Simeon and Levi who adhered to them, and were incorporated with them; and therefore very fitly denominated from them: See of this Phraſe on 1 Kings 11. 13.

19 Alſo Judah kept not the commandments of the LORD their God, but walked in the ſtatutes of Iſrael which they made d.

d Judah's Idolatry and Wickedneſs is here remembred, as an aggravation of the Sin of the Iſraelites, which was not onely Evil in it ſelf, but Scandalous, and Miſchievous to their Neighbour, who by their Examples were inſtructed in their Wicked Arts, and provoked to an imitation of them; See Hoſea 4. 15. and compare Matthew 18. 7.

20 And the LORD rejected all the ſeed of Iſrael e, and afflicted them, and delivered them into the hand of ſpoilers, until he had caſt them out of his ſight.

e i. e. All the Kingdom, or Tribes of Iſrael: firſt, one part of them, Chap. 15. 29. and now the reſt. But this extends not to every individual Perſon of theſe Tribes; for many of them removed into the Kingdom of Judah, and were aſſociated with them, as appears from 2 Chron. 11. 16. and many other places.

* 1 Kings 11. 11, 31. * 1 Kings 12. 20, 28. 21 For * he rent Iſrael from the houſe of David, and * they made Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat king f, and Jeroboam drave Iſrael from following the LORD g, and made them ſin a great ſin h.

f Which Action is here aſcribed to the People, becauſe they would not tarry till God, by his Providence, had Inveſted Jeroboam with the Kingdom which he had promiſed him; but raſhly, and unthankfully, and rebelliouſly, roſe up againſt the Houſe of David, to which they had ſuch great Obligations; and ſet him upon the Throne without God's Leave or Advice. g He not onely diſſwaded, but kept them by force from God's Worſhip at Jeruſalem, the onely place appointed for it. h So the Worſhip of the Calves is called, to meet with that idle conceit of the Iſraelites, who eſteemed it a ſmall Sin, eſpecialy when they were forced to it by ſevere Penalties; which yet he ſhews did not excuſe it from being a Sin, and a great ſin too.

22 For the children of Iſrael walked in all the ſins of Jeroboam which he did, they departed not from them i:

i But willingly and reſolutely followed the wicked Examples and Commands of their Kings, though contrary to God's expreſs Commands.

23 Until the LORD removed Iſrael out of his ſight k, as he had ſaid by all his ſervants the prophets. So was Iſrael carried away out of their own land to Aſſyria, unto this day.

k They continued to the laſt, obſtinate and incorrigible under all the inſtructions and corrections which God ſent to them; and therefore were moſt juſtly given up by God into this dreadful Captivity; which all this foregoing Diſcourſe was deſigned to prove.

24 ¶ And the king of Aſſyria l brought men from Babylon m, and from Cuthah, and from Ana, and from Hamath, and from Sepharvaim n, and placed them in the cities of Samaria, inſtead of the children of Iſrael; and they poſſeſſed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof.

l Either Shalmanezer, or rather his Son and Succeſſor, Eſarhaddon, Ezra 4. 2. becauſe this was a Work of ſome time; and as his Father had projected, and poſſibly began this; ſo he executed or finiſhed it: whence it is aſcribed to him, rather than to his Father. m Which then was ſubject to the Aſſyrian Monarch; but a few years after, revolted from him, and ſet up another King; as appears both from ſacred and profane Hiſtories. n Several places then in his Dominion.

25 And ſo it was at the beginning of their dwelling there, that they feared not the LORD ‖; therefore o the LORD ſent lions among them, which ſlew ſome of them.

‖ They did not acknowledge, nor Worſhip God in any ſort. o For this groſs neglect, and contempt of GOD, which was contrary to the Principles and Practiſes of the Heathens, who uſed to Worſhip the Gods of the Nations where they lived, and gave that Honour to their falſe Gods, which here they denied to the True. Hereby alſo God aſſerted his own Right and Soveraignty over that Land, and made them to underſtand, that neither the Iſraelites were caſt out, nor they brought into that Land by their Valour, or Strength, but by God's Providence; who as he had caſt the Iſraelites out for their Neglect of God's Service; ſo both could, and would in his due time, turn them out alſo, if they were guilty of the ſame Sins.

26 Wherefore they ſpake p to the king of Aſſyria, ſaying, The nations which thou haſt removed, and placed in the cities of Samaria, know not the manner of the God of the land q: therefore he hath ſent lions among them, and behold, they ſlay them, becauſe they know not the manner of the God of the land.

p i. e. They Wrote, or ſent Meſſengers to him for relief. q They ſuppoſed the true God to be like one of their Topical Deities, who had their particular Countries and Provinces alotted to them.

27 Then

27 Then the king of Aſſyria commanded, ſaying, Carry thither one of the prieſts r, whom ye brought from thence, and let them go and dwell there, and let him teach them the manner of the God of the land.

r i. e. One of the chief of the Prieſts, with others, to be under his inſpection and direction, as may be gathered from the following words; where it is ſaid of the ſame perſon, or perſons, let them go, &c. and then, let him teach, &c. Nor is it probable, that one Prieſt could ſuffice for the inſtruction of the Inhabitants of ſo many and diſtant parts.

28 Then one of the Prieſts whom they had carried away from Samaria, came and dwelt in Bethel, and taught them how they ſhould fear the LORD ſ.

ſ i. e. The manner of God's Worſhip, as it was practiſed in Iſrael; as may be gathered both from the quality of this perſon, who was an Iſraelitiſh Prieſt; and from the place of his reſidence, Bethel, a place infamous for the Worſhip of the Calves, and from the manner of their making Prieſts by this man's direction, Verſe 32.

29 Howbeit, every nation made gods of their own t, and put them in the houſes of the high places, which the Samaritans u had made, every nation in their cities wherein they dwelt.

t Or, worſhipped (as that Verb is ſometimes uſed; of which ſee Exod. 32. 35.) i. e. thoſe whom they worſhipped in the places from whence they came, whoſe names here follow. u i. e. The former People, or Inhabitants, not of the City, but of the Kingdom of Samaria.

30 And the men of Babylon made Succoth-benoth, and the men of Cuth made Nergal, and the men of Hamath made Aſhima, 31 And the Avites made Nibhaz, and Tartak, and the Sepharvites burnt their children in fire to Adrammelech, and Anammelech, the gods of Sepharvaim.

32 So they feared the LORD, and made unto themſelves of the loweſt of them prieſts of the high places x which ſacrificed for them y in the houſes of the high places.

x See the Notes on 1 Kings 12. 31. y To wit, unto the true God: For as to the Worſhip of their own gods, they needed no inſtruction, and would not permit a perſon of another Religion to Miniſter therein.

* Zeph. 1. 5. ‖ Or, who carried them away from thence.

33 * They feared the LORD z, and ſerved their own gods, after the manner of the nations ‖ whom they carried away from thence a.

z They worſhipped God externally in that way which the Iſraelites uſed. a Theſe words belong, either 1. to both the foregoing branches, and to the Iſraelites; and then the ſenſe is, They trod in the ſteps of their Predeceſſors, the Iſraelites (who, in regard of their ſeveral Tribes, are both here, and elſewhere, called Nations) who did, many of them, Worſhip both God in their Calves, and Baal too. Or, 2. to the laſt branch onely; but then the words muſt be otherwiſe rendred; they ſerved their own gods, after the manner of the Nations from which they brought, or carried them, or from whence they (theſe new Inhabitants) were brought; i. e. each of them ſerved the god of the Countrey or place whence he was brought, as is related above, Verſe 30, 31. But theſe Nations could not ſo properly be ſaid to be carried away, or to be carried away captive (as this Hebrew word ſignifies); as the Iſraelites; and therefore the former interpretation ſeems more proper.

34 Unto this day they b do after the former manners: they fear not the LORD c, neither do they after their ſtatutes d, or after their ordinances, or after the law and commandment which the LORD commanded the children of Jacob e, * whom he named Iſrael f.

* Gen. 32. 28. and 35. 10.

b Either, 1. the Samaritans, whoſe Religion he hath hitherto been deſcribing, and to the deſcription whereof he returns, Verſe 41. So the following Verſes are a digreſſion, wherein he deſigns onely to take an occaſion to compare them with the Iſraelites, and to aggravate the Sins of the Iſraelites above theirs, which he doth, Verſe 35, &c. and then returns to the former deſcription, Verſe 31. Or rather, 2. The Iſraelites, who are the principal Subjects of this whole Diſcourſe; and of whom he unqueſtionably ſpeaks, Verſe 35. and thence to Verſe 41. of whom alſo the laſt words of Verſe 33. are to be underſtood; and from thence he takes an occaſion to return to his main buſineſs, to relate, and aggravate the Sins of Iſrael; and thereby to juſtifie his ſevere Proceedings againſt them, to all the World. So the ſence of the place is this: As the Iſraelites before their Captivity, gave theſe Nations an ill Example, in Serving the Lord, and Baal together; ſo, or after their former manner, they do unto this day, in the Land of their Captivity. c Though they pretended to Fear, and Serve both the Lord and Idols, yet in truth they did not, and do not Fear or Worſhip the Lord, but their own Calves, or other vain Inventions: And God will not accept that mongrel and falſe Worſhip, which they pretended to give to the true God. Or, this may intimate, that the Iſraelites were worſe than their Succeſſors, becauſe theſe feared the Lord, and Idols too; but they did quite caſt off the Fear and Worſhip of God in their Captivity, and wholly degenerated into Heatheniſh Idolatry. d i. e. God's Law delivered to their Fathers, and to them, as their Inheritance, Pſalm 119. 111. This is alledged as an Evidence, that they did not Fear the Lord, whatſoever they pretended, becauſe they lived in the conſtant breach of his Statutes. e i. e. Themſelves: the Noun put for the Pronoun; which is uſual among the Hebrews. f A Name, ſignifying his ſpecial intereſt in God, and power with him, which was given to him, not onely for himſelf, but for his Poſterity alſo, whom God frequently honours with that Name. And by this great favour he aggravates their Sin.

35 With whom the LORD had made a covenant g, and charged them, ſaying, * Ye ſhall not fear other gods, nor bow your ſelves to them, nor ſerve them, nor ſacrifice to them:

* Judg. 6. 10.

g Containing many precious Promiſes, upon the condition here following: ſee Gen. 17. 7. Exod. 19. 5. and 24. 7.

36 But the LORD, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt, with great power, and a ſtretched-out arm, him ſhall ye fear, him ſhall ye worſhip, and to him ſhall ye do ſacrifice.

37 And the ſtatutes, and the ordinances, and the law, and the commandment which he wrote for you, ye ſhall obſerve to do for evermore, and ye ſhall not fear other gods:

38 And the covenant that I have made with you, ye ſhall not forget, neither ſhall ye fear other gods.

39 But the LORD your God h ye ſhall fear, and he ſhall deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies i.

h i. e. God above, as the whole context ſhews. i And therefore you have no pretence of need to go to other gods for relief.

40 Howbeit, they did not hearken, but they did after their former manner.

41 So k theſe nations l feared the LORD, and ſerved their graven images, both their children, and their childrens children: as did their fathers, ſo do they unto this day.

k i. e. In like manner, and after their example. l Who came in their ſtead.

CHAP. XVIII.

NOw it came to paſs in the third year a of Hoſhea ſon of Elah king of Iſrael, that * Hezekiah the ſon of Ahaz king of Judah began to reign.

* 2 Chron. 28. 27 and 29. 1. He is called Ezekias, Mat. 1. 9.

a In the third of thoſe Nine years mentioned, Chap. 17. 1. of which ſee there. See below Verſe 10.

2 Twenty and five years old was he when he began to reign b, and he reigned twenty and nine years in Jeruſalem: his mothers name alſo was Abi, the daughter of Zachariah.

b How is this credible? For then Ahaz, who lived but Six and Thirty Years, Chap. 16. 2. muſt beget Hezekiah at the Eleventh Year of his Age. Anſ. 1. There are ſome like inſtances mentioned by credible Authors; which theſe very men will not deny, who are ſo ready to quarrel with the holy Scriptures for such matters. 2. This being the confessed custom of Sacred, and other Writers, in the numbring of Years, sometimes to omit, and sometimes to add those which are imperfect, or unfinished: And so Ahaz might be near One and Twenty Years old when he began to Reign, and near Seventeen Years older when he died: And on the other side, Hizkiah, when he began to Reign, might be onely Four and Twenty Years old compleat, and but entred into his Five and Twentieth Year. ——— And thus Ahaz might be between Thirteen and Fourteen Years old, when he got Hizkiah; which is not at all strange, especially in that Nation to which God had promised a singular degree of Fruitfulness, and in that House of David to which God had made so many, and such great Promises. 3. It is not certain that Ahaz lived onely Thirty Six Years, for those Sixteen Years which he Reigned, Chap. 16. 2. may be computed, not from the first beginning of his Reign, when he Reigned with his Father; (of which, see the Notes on Chap. 15. 30.) which was at the Twentieth Year of his Age, but from the beginning of his Reign alone. 4. Some affirm, That Hizkiah was not the Natural, but onely the Legal Son and Successor of Ahaz: for the name of Son is given in Scripture to such Persons; as 1 Chron. 3. 16. compared with 2 Kings 24. 17. Matth. 1. 12. compared with Jer. 22. 30. and to Adopted Sons, Acts 7. 21. Heb. 11. 24. and to Sons in Law, 1 Sam. 24. 16. and 26. 17. Luke 3. 23. Any of these Solutions are far more credible to any man of common Prudence, than that these Sacred Books, whose Divine Original hath been so fully Evidenced both by God and Men, are but the Fictions and Contrivances of a base Impostor. And if none of these Solutions were sufficient, it is absurd to conclude, That a true Resolution cannot be found, because it is not yet found; because it is manifest, That many difficulties both in Scripture, and in the Arts which were formerly judged Insoluble, have been cleared in later times; and therefore we may justly expect the Resolution of other Difficulties, which may be thought not yet fully Explained. c Or, Abiah, 2 Chron. 29. 1.

d i. e. The most of them, or such as the People most frequented: for all were not taken away, Chapter 23. 13, 14. And this he attempted to do, notwithstanding the Peoples great and constant Affection to them; partly, because he had more Zeal and Courage than his Predecessors; and partly, because the Dreadful Judgments of God upon the Kingdom of Israel for their Superstition and Idolatry, had made the People of Judah more pliable to the Commands of God, and of their good King. e By God's Command to be an Ordinance or mean for the conveyance of God's Blessing to the People; which therefore had been hitherto kept as a Memorial of God's Mercy; but being now commonly abused to Superstition, was destroyed. f Not doubtless as to a God, but onely as to an Instrument and Token of God's Mercy, by and through which, their Adoration was directed to God, and given to that onely for God's sake. g i. e. He said, This Serpent, howsoever formerly honoured, and used by God as a sign of his Grace, yet now it is nothing but a piece of Brass, which can do you neither good nor hurt; and therefore is no fit Object for your Worship.

5 He trusted in the LORD God of Israel h, so that after him was none like him among all the kings of Judah, nor any that were before him i.

* h Without calling in Foreign and Heathenish Succours to stablish or help him; which his Father Ahaz did; Chap. 16. 7. and Isa. 7. and before him Asa, 1 Kings 15. 18, 19. with Reflection upon whom this seems to be noted. i To wit, of the Kings of Judah onely; for David and Solomon were Kings of all Israel. Object. The like is said of Josiah, Chap. 23. 25. Answ. Each of them excelled the other in several qualities or actions: Hizkiah in this, That he fell upon this Work with great expedition, even in the beginning of his Reign, which Josiah did not, Chap. 23. and with no less Resolution, undertaking to do that which none of his Predecessors durst do, even to remove the high Places, wherein Josiah did onely follow his Example; Chap. 22. 1, 3.

† Heb. from after him. 6 For he clave to the LORD, and departed not † from following him k, but kept his commandments which the LORD commanded Moses.

7 And the LORD was with him, and he prospered whithersoever he went forth: and he rebelled against the king of Assyria l, and served him not.

l He shook off that Yoke of Subjection and Tribute, to which his Father had wickedly submitted, Chap. 16. 7. and re-assumed that full and independent Soveraignty which God had setled in the House of David, which Ahaz could not alienate further, than for his own time. And Hizkiah's Case differs much from that of Zedekiah, who is blamed for Rebellion against the King of Babylon, both because he had ingaged himself to him by a Solemn Oath and Covenant, which we do not Read of Ahaz; and because he broke the Covenant which he himself had made, &c. because God had actually given the Dominion of his own Land and People to the King of Babylon, and Commanded both Zedekiah and his People to submit to him. And whereas Hizkiah is here said to Rebel; that Word implies, onely a defection from that Subjection which had been professed and performed to another; which sometimes may be justly done, and sometimes may not; and therefore that Word doth not necessarily prove this action to be a Sin. And these Words, he rebelled, &c. are explained by the next following Words, and he served him not. And that it was not a Sin in him, seems most probable, because God did own, and assist him therein; and did not at all reprove him for it, in that Message which he sent to him by Isaiah about this matter, Chap. 19. 20, &c. nor afterwards, though he did particularly reprove him for that which might seem a less fault, for his Vain-glory, and Ostentation, 2 Chron. 32. 25, 26. 14 And Hezekiah king of Judah sent to the king of Assyria to Lachish, saying, I have offended u, return from me: that which thou puttest on me, will I bear. And the king of Assyria appointed unto Hezekiah king of Judah, three hundred talents of silver, and thirty talents of gold.

d Either to thy People, to encourage them: or rather, within thy self. e Or, surely: or, onely. f Words of the lips, i. e. vain, unprofitable, idle talk, without any effect; or they come not from thy Heart; thou speakest this against thy own Knowledge. g Counsel to contrive, strength or courage to Execute; which two things are of greatest necessity and use for War. But the words are, and may be rendred otherwise; either thus, thou speakest surely words of the lips; i. e. Thou encouragest thy self, and thy People with Talk, and words; but counsel and strength are for War, are necessary for thy Defence; neither of which thou hast within thy self, but must seek them from others; and where wilt thou find them? on whom (as it follows) dost thou trust? Or thus, thou sayest, I have the word of my lips. (Either 1. Words wherewith to pray to God for help. Or, 2. 22 But if ye say unto me, We trust in the LORD our God: is not that he whose high places, and whose altars Hezekiah hath taken away m, and hath said to Judah and Jerusalem, Ye shall worship before this altar in Jerusalem?

m Thereby robbing him of that Worship and Service which he had in those places. Thus boldly he speaks of these things which he understood not, judging of the great God, by their false and petty gods; and judging of God's Worship according to the vain Fancies of the Heathens, who measured Piety by the multitude of Altars.

23 Now therefore, I pray thee, give ‖ pledges to my lord n the king of Assyria, and I will deliver thee two thousand horses, if thou be able on thy part to set riders upon them.

‖ Or, Hostages.

n i. e. Give him Hostages to secure him from thy future Rebellion, and he will depart from thee. 24 How then wilt thou turn away the face of one captain o, of the least of my masters servants, and put thy trust on Egypt for chariots and for horsemen.

o How wilt'st thou force him to turn his back to thee, and flee away from thee?

25 Am I now come up without the LORD p against this place to destroy it? The LORD said unto me q, Go up against this land, and destroy it.

p Without His Consent and Commission? q To wit, by secret Inspiration; or by his Providence. But indeed, he neither owned God's Word, nor regarded his Providence; but he forged this, to strike a terrour into Hezekiah and the People.

26 Then said Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, and Shebna, and Joah, unto Rabshakeh, Speak, I pray thee, to thy servants in the Syrian language, (for we understand it) and talk not with us in the Jews language, in the ears of the people that are on the wall r.

28 Then Rabshakeh stood and cried with a loud voice in the Jews language t, and spake, saying, Hear the word of the great king, the king of Assyria.

t That he might affright the People into a compliance with him, which he perceiv'd Eliakim and his Brethren endeavoured to prevent.

29 Thus saith the king, Let not Hezekiah deceive you, for he shall not be able to deliver you out of his hand:

30 Neither let Hezekiah make you trust in the LORD, saying, The LORD will surely deliver us, and this city shall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Assyria.

Or rather, 2. of Cities or Countries, as is manifeſt from Chap. 19. 13. where thoſe words are repeated among other places, whoſe Kings are there mentioned, and where they are rendred, of Henah and Ivah, as they ſhould be here alſo, the words in the Hebrew being the very ſame. c i. e. Either the Gods here mentioned, which together with other Idols, were Worſhipped in Samaria. Or, 2. Their Gods; which is eaſily underſtood from the foregoing words.

35 Who are they among all the gods of the countries, that have delivered their country out of mine hand, that the LORD ſhould deliver Jeruſalem out of mine hand?

36 But the people d held their peace, and anſwered him not a word: for the kings commandment was, ſaying, Anſwer him not e.

37 Then came Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah, which was over the houſhold, and Shebna the ſcribe, and Joah the ſon of Aſaph the recorder, to Hezekiah * with their cloths rent, and told him the words of Rabſhakeh.

a Either, 1. From God, wherein God rebukes and chaſtens us ſorely. Or rather, 2. From the Aſſyrian, who Reviles and Reproacheth us; for his buſineſs here is to complain, not of God, but of the Aſſyrian. b We are like a poor Travelling Woman in great extremity, and having no ſtrength left to help her ſelf, and to bring forth her Infant into the World. We have attempted to deliver our ſelves from the Aſſyrian Yoke; and had carried on that Work to ſome maturity, and as we thought, brought it to the Birth; but now we have no might to finiſh, unleſs thou aſſiſt us. We have begun an happy Reformation, and are hindred by this inſolent Aſſyrian, from bringing it to Perfection. See 2 Chronicles 32. 1.

4 It may be c the LORD thy God d will hear e all the words of Rabſhaketh, whom the king of Aſſyria his maſter hath ſent to reproach the living God, and will reprove the words f which the LORD thy God hath heard: wherefore lift up thy prayer for the remnant g that are † left.

c He ſpeaks doubtfully, becauſe he knew not whether God would not deliver them all up into the Aſſyrian's hand, as he, and his People deſerved. But ſometimes this is not a word of doubt, but of good hope; as Numb. 22. 33. Joſh. 14. 12. d To whom thou art dear and precious. He ſaith not our God, becauſe he ſeemed to have forſaken and rejected them; and they, by their Deſigns had forfeited all their Intereſt in him. e i. e. Will ſhew by his Actions, that he hath heard them with juſt Indignation. f Or rather, will reprove him, (An Ellipſis of the Pronoun, which is frequent in the Hebrew Tongue) for the words, as the Syriack, and Arabick, and Caldee render it. g This he mentions as an Argument, to ſtir up Iſaiah to Pray, and to move God's Compaſſion towards them; That they were but a ſmall Remnant either of God's People, of whom Ten Tribes were now loſt; or of the Kingdom of Judah, which had been grately waſted and depopulated in the days of Ahaz; and now lately by this Aſſyrian, Verſe 13.

5 So the ſervants of king Hezekiah came to Iſaiah.

6 ¶ And Iſaiah ſaid unto them, Thus ſhall ye ſay to your maſter, Thus ſaith the LORD, Be not afraid of the words which thou haſt heard, with which the ſervants of the king of Aſſyria have blaſphemed me.

7 Behold, I will ſend a blaſt upon him h, and he ſhall hear a rumour, and ſhall return to his own land, and I will cauſe him to fall by the ſword in his own land.

h Heb. A wind, a Storm or Tempeſt, by which name God's Judgments are oft called; i. e. A violent, and ſudden, and terrible Stroke; namely, That miraculous Deſtruction of his Army, of which Verſe 35. Although the place may be rendred thus, I will put a ſpirit within him, ſo that he ſhall hear a rumour, and return, &c. For by Spirit, is many times underſtood an Imagination, or Inclination, or Affection; in which ſence we read of the Spirit of Fear; 2 Tim. 1. 7. Of the Spirit of Jealouſie, Numb. 5. 14. Of the Spirit of Slumber, Rom. 11. 8. Or, A Spirit againſt (for ſo the Hebrew Prepoſition Beth is oft uſed, as hath been noted before) him; Of whom this Word is elſewhere uſed, as Judges 9. 23. 1 Sam. 16: 14, 23. 1 Kings 22. 23. as it is alſo given to Man's Soul, Job 12. 10. Eccleſ. 12. 7. which is a Spiritual Subſtance, as the Angels are. And this Interpretation ſeems moſt agreeable to the deſign of this Verſe, which is in brief to repreſent all the Judgments of God which were to befal him, and which are related in the following Hiſtory; and therefore all the other Particulars being contained in the following Branches of this Verſe; the Tidings of Tirhakah, Verſe 9. in theſe words, He ſhall hear a rumour; his returning to his own Land, and being ſlain there, Verſe 36, 37. in the next words, it ſeems moſt probable, That the chiefeſt of all the Judgments, to wit, the Deſtruction of One Hundred Eighty Five Thouſand Souldiers in one Night, Verſe 35. is not omitted here, but expreſſed in the firſt branch of the Verſe; and the Spirit here is the ſame thing, which is here called an Angel; this latter word being there uſed, to limit and explain the former, which otherwiſe was of a doubtful ſignification.

Of Ethiopia beyond Egypt. Nor was there any need that he ſhould force his Paſſage through Egypt, which is objected againſt this Opinion by a very Learned Man; becauſe the Egyptians (againſt whom this Sennacherib Warred, as Heathen Hiſtorians, Herodotus and Beroſus, relate) and the Ethiopians were Confederates in this Expedition, as Joſephus expreſly affirms; who lived above 1600 Years nearer the time when this was done, than we; and therefore was more likely to underſtand it.

10 Thus ſhall ye ſpeak to Hezekiah king of Judah, ſaying, Let not thy God in whom thou truſteſt deceive thee, ſaying, Jeruſalem ſhall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Aſſyria.

11 Behold, thou haſt heard what the kings of Aſſyria have done to all lands, by deſtroying them utterly, and ſhalt thou be delivered m?

m No certainly, never expect it: ſuch queſtions oft imply a denial; as Gen. 18. 17.

12 Have the gods of the nations delivered them which my fathers have deſtroyed; as Gozan, and Haran, and Rezeph, and the children of Eden which were in Thelaſar n?

n Several places about, or beyond Euphrates. See Gen. 11. 31. Ezek. 27. 23.

13 Where is the king o of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Shepharvaim, of Henah, and Ivah p?

o Either, 1. Their God, whom he here calls their King; becauſe they looked upon him as their Protector and Governour; which Kings are, or ſhould be to their People. Or rather, 2. Their King properly ſo called. And as before he compared their gods with the God of Jeruſalem; ſo now he compares their king with King Hezekiah; and by both intends to perſwade them, that neither their God, nor their King, was able to ſave them out of his Hand. p Of which ſee the notes on Chap. 18. 34.

14 ¶ And Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the meſſengers, and read it: And Hezekiah went up into the houſe of the LORD q, and ſpread it before the LORD r.

q. i. e. Into the Court of the Temple: for farther he might not enter. r i. e. Before the Ark, or Temple: which he did, not to acquaint God, but to ſtrengthen his own Faith, and quicken himſelf to Prayer.

15 And Hezekiah prayed before the LORD, and ſaid, O LORD God of Iſrael, * which dwellest between the cherubins, thou art the God, even thou alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth, thou haſt made heaven and earth.

* 1 Sam. 4. 4.

16 LORD, bow down thine ear, and hear: open, LORD thine eyes, and ſee: and hear the words of Sennacherib, which hath ſent him ſ to reproach the living God.

ſ i. e. The Meſſenger who brought this Railing Letter, ver. 14. Or Rabſhakeh, who was eaſily underſtood out of the former Chapter, although he would not do him the honour to name him; or, ſent it; to wit, This Letter.

17. Of a truth, LORD the kings of Aſſyria have deſtroyed the nations, and their lands.

18 And have † caſt their gods into the fire: for they were no gods, but the work of mens hands, wood and ſtone: therefore they have deſtroyed them.

† Heb. given.

19 Now therefore, O LORD our God, I beſeech thee ſave thou us out of his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou art the LORD God, even thou onely.

20 ¶ Then Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz ſent to Hezekiah, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, That which thou haſt prayed to me againſt Sennacherib king of Aſſyria, I have heard t.

t i. e. Accepted it, and will anſwer it: A common Synecdoche.

21 This is the word that the LORD hath ſpoken concerning him, The virgin u, the daughter of Zion x hath deſpiſed thee, and laughed thee to ſcorn, the daughter of Jeruſalem hath ſhaken her head at thee y.

u So he calls Zion, or Jeruſalem; partly, becauſe ſhe was pure in good meaſure from that groſs Idolatry wherewith other people were defiled, which is called Spiritual Whoredom: partly; to ſignifie, that God would defend her from that Rape which Sennacherib intended to commit upon her, with no leſs Care and Zeal, than Parents do their Virgin Daughters from thoſe who ſeek to Force and Deflour them: and partly, to intimate, That as ſhe had not yet been Forced, and taken by her Barbarous Enemies, ſo ſhe ſhould ſtill retain her Virginity in ſpight of his Attempts againſt her. x i. e. The People of Zion; i. e. as it follows, of Jeruſalem; ſo called Synecdochically from the Mountain, and City of Zion, which was an eminent part of it. Cities and Countries are oft called Mothers, as 2 Sam. 20. 19. and their Inhabitants Daughters; as Numb. 21. 25. Joſh. 17. 16. Judg. 1. 27. Pſal. 45. 13. and 137. 8. y Laughed at all thy proud and impotent Threatnings. This is a Geſture of Contempt and Deriſion: of which, ſee Pſal. 22. 7. and 44. 13. Jer. 18. 16. Matt. 27. 39.

22 Whom haſt thou reproached and blaſphemed? and againſt whom haſt thou exalted thy voice z, and lift up thine eyes on high a? even againſt the holy One of Iſrael b.

z By Rabſhekah who cryed with a loud voice, Chap. 18. 28. a A Geſture of Pride and Scornfulneſs, Pro. 21. 4. b Not againſt man, but againſt the Holy God, who will not ſuffer thy Impious Blaſphemies to go unpuniſhed; and againſt the holy one of Iſrael, who hath a ſpecial relation and kindneſs to Iſrael, having as it were ſet himſelf apart for them, and ſet them apart for himſelf, as being at this time the God of the Jews onely, and not the God of the Gentiles; whom, as yet, he ſuffered to walk in their own evil ways, Act. 14. 16. And therefore he will Plead their Cauſe againſt thee.

23 By † thy meſſengers c thou haſt reproached the LORD, and haſt ſaid, With the multitude of my chariots I am come up to the height of the mountains d, to the ſides of Lebanon e, and will cut down † the tall cedars thereof, and the choice fir-trees thereof f: and I will enter into the lodgings of his borders g, and into the ‖ foreſt of his Carmel.

† Heb. By the hand of, &c.

c So thou haſt advanced thy very Servants above me. d I have brought up my very Chariots to thoſe Mountains which were thought inacceſſible by my Army. e An high Hill, famous for Cedars and Fir-trees, here following. f This may be underſtood, either, 1. Miſtically, I will deſtroy the Princes, and Nobles of Judah, (which are ſometimes compared to Cedars, &c.) Or, their ſtrongeſt Cities. Or rather, 2. Literally, I will cut down the Trees that hinder my March, and plain and prepare the way for all my Numerous Army and Chariots. And by this one Inſtance, he intimates, That nothing ſhould ſtand in his way; no not the the higheſt and ſtrongeſt Places. g i. e. Thoſe Towns and Cities (which he calls Lodgings in way of Contempt) which are in his utmoſt Borders, and moſt remote from me. I am come into the Land of Canaan at one Border Lebanon, and I reſolve to March on, to the other extreme Border, and ſo to Deſtroy the whole Countrey, from one Border to another: the borders of a Land being oft put for the whole Land within its Borders; as Exod. 8. 2. Pſal. 74. 17. and 147. 14. Iſa. 54. 12. Or, as it is in the Hebrew, into the lodging of his border; for which in the Parallel place, Iſa. 37. 24. it is, into the height of his border. And ſo this may be underſtood of Jeruſalem; which it is not probable, that in all his brags he would omit; and againſt which, his chief Deſign now lay, which he here calleth a lodging, for its contemptible ſmalneſs, if compared with his great and vaſt City of Nineveh; or, as it is in Iſa. 37. the height, for its two famous Mountains, Zion and Moriah; or for the Mountains which were round about Jeruſalem; Pſal. 125. 2. and he adds, of his Border, becauſe this City was in the Border of Judah; as being part of it in the Tribe of Benjamin, and near the Kingdom of the Ten Tribes, which was now in the Aſſyrians hands. h i. e. The Foreſt of Mount Mount Carmel, which may ſeem to be another inacceſſible Place, like Lebanon. Or, into his foreſt, and his fruitful field. For Carmel, though properly it was a pleaſant and fruitful Mountain in the Tribe of Iſſachar, of which ſee Joſh. 12. 22. yet it is oft uſed to ſignifie any fruitful place, as is manifeſt from Iſa. 10. 18. and 16. 10. Jer. 2. 7. And thus all the parts of the Land are here enumerated; the Mountains, the Cities, the Woods, and the fruitful Fields. Or, his fruitful foreſt; to wit, Jeruſalem; which is thought by many Interpreters to be called a Foreſt, Jer. 21. 14. Ezek. 20. 46. a name which agrees well enough to Cities, where Buildings are very numerous, and cloſe, and high, like Trees in a Foreſt. And if Jeruſalem might be called a Foreſt, it might well be called, Hezekiah's Carmel; or, fruitful Place: Becauſe his chief Strength, and Treaſure, and Fruit was now in it: and this laſt Word may ſeem to be added here, to intimate, That this was not like other Foreſts, unfruitful, and barren. And ſo both this, and the foregoing words are underſtood of the ſame place, even of Jeruſalem; the laſt Branch being joyned to the former by way of Appoſition; into the lodging of his border, the foreſt of his Carmel; or, his fruitful foreſt, there being no more words in the Hebrew Text.

24 I have digged and drank ſtrange waters i, and * with the ſole of my feet have I dried up all the rivers of ‖ beſieged places k.

i Such as were never diſcovered nor uſed by others. And therefore all thy endeavours to deprive me of Water for my Army, 2 Chron. 32. 3. are idle and fruitleſs. k And as I can furniſh my Army with Water digged out of the Earth, by their Labour, and my Art; ſo I can deprive my Enemies of their Water, and can dry up their rivers, and that with the ſole of my feet; i. e. With the March of my vaſt and numerous Army, who will eaſily do this, either by Marching thorough them, and each carrying part away with them: or by Drinking every one a little of them: or by their Pains, making many new Channels, and deriving the Waters of the River into them, as Cyrus dried up Euphratts, and thereby took Babylon.

‖ Or, Haſt thou not heard how I have made it long ago, and formed it of ancient times? ſhould I now bring it to be laid waſte, and fenced cities to be ruinous heaps.

25 ‖ Haſt thou not heard long ago, how I have done it l? now have I brought it to paſs, that thou ſhouldeſt be to lay waſte fenced cities into ruinous heaps m.

l Haſt thou not long ſince learned, that which ſome of thy Philoſophers could, and did teach thee; That there is a Supreme and Powerful God, by whoſe Decree and Providence all theſe Wars and Calamities were ſent, and ordered: whoſe meer Inſtrument thou art, ſo that thou haſt no cauſe for theſe vain Boaſtings? This Work is mine, more than thine. Or, as it is in the Margent of our Bibles, Haſt thou not heard that (a Particle oft underſtood) I have made (i. e. Conſtituted, or Purchaſed, or Adorned, for all theſe ways is this Hebrew Verb uſed) it (either Jeruſalem, which he now threatned; or rather, the Jewiſh Nation, which he endeavoured to Root out: the Relative Pronoun, being put without the Antecedent, which is to be gathered out of the Context; of which I have formerly given inſtances) long ago, and formed it of ancient times? i. e. Didſt thou not hear what I did for this People many Ages ſince, that I carried them out of Egypt in ſpight of Pharaoh and all his Hoſt; and through the Red-ſea, where I overthrew the Egyptians; and through the vaſt howling wilderneſs; and then brought them into this Land by a ſtrong Hand, by which I deſtroyed all their Enemies, and planted them in their ſtead? By which thou mayeſt underſtand how dear this People are to me, and how eaſily I could deſtroy thee before them, if I ſaw it fit; and that the Places which thou haſt taken, and the Conqueſts which thou haſt made here, are not to be imputed to thy Valour, or Numbers, but unto my Providence, who for wiſe and juſt reaſons, have given them up into thy hands, as it here follows. This may ſeem to be the trueſt ſence, becauſe that barbarous Prince and People, were much more likely to hear the Tidings, of what God did for the Iſraelites in Egypt, and at the Red-ſea, and in Canaan; the Fame of which was ſpread in all thoſe Parts; than to hear of, or be inſtructed in the Doctrine of God's particular Providence in the Government of ſeveral Nations, and all their Counſels, and actions of State, and War. For, though the Aſſyrian was indeed the rod in God's hand, &c. Iſa. 10. 5. yet he did not ſo underſtand it, nor was God in all his thoughts, but he minded only the enlargement of his own Empire, by the deſtruction of other Kingdoms, as it there follows, ver. 7. 13, 14, 15. m This Tranſlation ſeems better to agree both with the foregoing Branch of this Verſe, and with the following Verſe, than the other Interrogative Tranſlation in the Margent; and the plain ſenſe ſeems to be this, Great Things I have done for this People, which thou canſt not be ignorant of; but now I have changed my Courſe towards them, reſolved to Puniſh them ſeverely for their Sins; and therefore, now I have brought it to paſs, i. e. I have ſo diſpoſed of things by my Providence, that thou ſhouldeſt be a Great and Victorious Prince, and that thou ſhouldeſt employ thy Forces againſt them, to do my work upon them, that thou ſhouldeſt be (to wit, a perſon raiſed up, and fitted, and ſtrengthned for this very purpoſe) to lay waſte fenced cities (and to turn them) into ruinous heaps; i. e. That thou ſhouldeſt be ſo ſucceſsful as thou haſt hitherto been, firſt againſt the Kingdom of Iſrael, and now againſt Judah.

† Heb. ſhort of hand.

26 Therefore n their inhabitants o were † of ſmall power, they were diſmayed and confounded, they were as the graſs of the field p, and as the green herb, as * the graſs on the houſe tops, and as corn blaſted before it be grown up q.

‖ Or, ſitting.

27 But I know thy ‖ abode, and thy going out, and thy coming in r, and thy rage againſt me ſ.

r Though thou doſt not know me, yet I thoroughly know thee, and all thy Deſigns and Actions, all thy ſecret and ſubtil contrivances in the place of thy abode, in thy own Kingdom and Court; and the execution of thy Deſigns abroad, what thou intendeſt in thy going out, and with what ſucceſſes or further thoughts thou cometſt in, or returneſt to thy own Land. For the Phraſe, Compare Deut. 31. 2. Pſal. 139. 2, 3. ſ i. e. Againſt my Servant Hezekiah, and my People, againſt whom he was engaged, becauſe they would not deliver up Jeruſalem to him, which he demanded. Things are frequently ſaid to be done againſt God, which are only done againſt his People, becauſe of that near Union and Relation which is between them. See Zech. 2. 8 Acts 9. 4, 5. But the Words may well be rendred, and thy rage is with me, or before me, as the Syriack hath it; or, is manifeſt to me; as the Chaldee renders it. And ſo this Branch of the Verſe anſwers to the former; I know, &c. and it is before me.

28 Becauſe thy rage againſt me, and thy tumult t is come up into mine ears, therefore * I will put my hook in thy noſe, and my bridle in thy lips u; and I will turn thee back by the way by which thou cameſt x.

29 And this ſhall be a ſign unto thee y, Ye ſhall eat this year ſuch things as grow of themſelves, and in the ſecond year, that which ſpringeth of the ſame, and in the third year z ſow ye, and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruits thereof a.

y To wit, of the certain accompliſhment of the Promiſes here made to thee; That Zion ſhould triumph over this inſulting Enemy, ver. 21. That God would not only preſerve the City from his preſent Fury, ver. 34. but alſo, That God would bleſs his People with a durable Proſperity, and an happy Increaſe, ver. 30, 31. And thus, it is not only a ſign of a ſhort Deliverance, which would be paſt before this ſign was fulfilled, (though there are inſtances of ſuch Signs as followed the thing done; as Exod. 3. 12. Iſa. 7, 14.) but of a future Mercy, which was to continue long after that ſign. And this ſign was the more neceſſary, becauſe otherwiſe Hezekiah and his People had cauſe to fear, That the Aſſyrians would be greatly enraged for their ſhameful Repulſe, and the deſtruction of their Army, and would quickly recruit their Army, and return againſt them with far greater Force and Violence. But ſome affirm, That Sennacherib when he heard of Tirhakah's March againſt him, of which, ver. 9. went with his Army to meet him, and overthrew him, and the Egyptian who was joyned with him, as was noted before; and proſecuted his Victory, by following them into Egypt, and Æthiopia: In the Conqueſt of which he ſpent two years; in which ſpace, the People did eat ſuch things as grew of themſelves: And in the third year returned to Jeruſalem, intending to Beſiege it. It is true, it is ſaid, and ſo the Sign went before the thing, (which may be objected againſt the truth of this Relation) ver. 9. That when he heard of Tirhakah, he ſent meſſengers to Hezekiah, pretending as if he would forthwith come againſt him; but it is not ſaid, that he did ſo: nor is it ſet down, what he did with Tirhakah, becauſe the deſign of the Sacred Writer, was onely to write the Hiſtory of the Jewiſh Nation; not of others, but only with reſpect to them. z This was an excellent Sign, for it was miraculous; eſpecially, conſidering the waſte and havock which the Aſſyrians had made in the Land; and that the Jews had been forced to retire into their ſtrong Hold, and conſequently to neglect their Tilling, and Sowing, and Reaping; and yet this year they ſhould have ſufficient Proviſion from thoſe Fruits of the Earth which the Aſſyrian left; and the Second Year, which probably was the Year of Releaſe, in which they might neither Sow, nor Reap, from ſuch Fruits as the Earth brought forth of its own accord; and ſo in the Third Year.

a You shall not Sow, and another Reap, as lately you did; but you shall Enjoy the Fruit of your own Labours.

† Heb. the escaping of the House of Judah that remaineth.

c That handful of Jews who now were gathered together, and shut up in Jerusalem, shall go out to their several Habitations, and by my singular Blessing increase exceedingly. d The same thing expressed in other words, which is usual in the Hebrew Language. ∴ Although when you reflect upon your selves, and consider either your present fewness, and weakness, or your great unworthiness, this may seem too great a Blessing for you to expect, or believe; yet God will do it from the zeal which he hath, both for his own Name, to Vindicate it from the Blasphemous Reproaches of the Assyrians, and for the good of his undeserving People.

32 Therefore thus saith the LORD concerning the King of Assyria, He shall not come into this city, nor shoot an arrow there, nor come before it with shield, nor cast a bank against it e.

e Which was true, though he sent Rabshakeh, and others, with a great Host against Jerusalem, Chap. 18. 17. Either because that Host went away with Rabshakeh to Libnah; above verse 8. Or rather, because that Army did not form a close Siege against it, but onely Marched towards it, and disposed themselves so as to block it up at some distance; possibly waiting till the King of Assyria had taken Libnah and Lachish (which they presumed he would speedily do) and should come up with the rest of his Forces, when they intended to fall more vigorously to their work.

33 By the way that he came, by the same shall he return f, and shall not come into the city, saith the LORD.

f Whereas he expected to devour the Kingdom of Judah at one Morsel, and then to proceed further, and to Conquer Egypt, or other Neighbouring Countries; and, as it is said of him, and concerning this very time, and design, Isa. 10. 7. To cut off nations not a few; he shall meet with so sad a disappointment and rebuke here, that he shall make haste to return with shame to his own Country.

h Either, 1. In the Night following this Message of the Prophet to Hezekiah: Or, 2. In that famous Night when God destroyed the Assyrians, it was done in this manner. For such Expressions are oft used of an indifinite and uncertain time, as that day is frequently taken, as Isa. 4. 1. and 26. 1. and 27. 1, &c. i With Pestilence, or some other sudden and Mortal stroke. k Either before Libnah; or, in some other place near Jerusalem, where they were Encamped.

CHAP. XX.

* 2 Ch. 32. 24. Isa. 38. 1.

IN * those days a was Hezekiah sick unto death: and the Prophet Isaiah the son of Amoz came to him, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, † Set thine house in order b: for thou shalt die, and not live c.

† Heb. Give charge concerning thine house.

a i. e. In that Year of the Assyrian Invasion, as is manifest from hence, that that was in Hezekiah's 14th Year, Chap. 18. 13. and God now added 15 Years more to him, Chap. 20. 6. and yet Hezekiah Reigned only 29 Years in all, Chap. 18. 2. And this happened. Either, First, After the destruction of Sennacherib's Army. Or, Secondly, Before it, as may be thought from v. 6. where he speaks of his deliverance from the King of Assyria, as a future thing. It is true, that when Hezekiah received that insolent Message from the Assyrian, he was in health, and went into the Temple to pray, chap. 19. 14. but there might be time more than enough for this sickness and recovery, between that threatning, and this destruction of the Assyrian. b Take care to make thy Will, and to settle the Affairs of thy Family and Kingdom: which he the rather presseth upon him, because the state of his Kingdom required it: for it is plain, that Hezekiah had not as yet any Son, Manasseh his Heir and Successor not being born till three Years after this time, by comparing this Chap. 20. 6. with Chap. 21. 1. c According to the course of Nature, and of thy Disease, which is mortal in its kind, and will be so in effect, if God doth not miraculously prevent it. Such threatnings, though absolutely expressed, have oft times secret conditions, which God reserves in his own Breast. See Jonah, 3. 4.

2 Then he turned his face to the wall d, and prayed unto the LORD, saying, d Either, because the Temple lay that way: or rather, that by turning his face from the company, he might intimate his desire of privacy, and so might with more freedom and fervency pour out his Soul to God.

3 I beseech thee, O LORD, remember now how I have walked before thee in truth e, and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy sight: and Hezekiah wept † sore f.

† Heb. With a great weeping.

e i. e. Sincerely, with an honest mind, as the following words explain it. I have in some measure (humane frailty excepted) kept the condition which thou didst require, 1 King 8. 25. and therefore do humbly beg of thee, that the Promise made to David, and to his Posterity upon that condition, may not fail in my Person, for as yet thou hast not given me a Son. See on ver. 1. I am not conscious to my self of any gross exorbitancies in the course of my life, for which thou usest to shorten mens days, and cut off my life in thy displeasure, which by this sharp Message thou threatnest to do. f Partly, for that horror of death which is, and was common to men, especially, in the times of the Old Testament, when the Grace of God in Christ was not so fully manifested, as now it is: and principally, for the distracted and miserable condition in which the Church and State were then likely to be left, through the uncertainty of the Succession to the Crown, and the great proneness of the People to backslide to their false worship, and evil practices; which he easily perceived, and which he knew would bring far worse Calamities upon them, if he were removed; as afterwards it came to pass.

4 And it came to pass, afore Isaiah was gone out into the middle ‖ court g, that the word of the LORD came to him, saying, g To wit, of the Kings Palace; of which see on 1 King. 7. 8. Or, into the middle city, as it is in the Hebrew. For some observe, that there were three Cities, or three parts of this City; one called the city of David in Sion; another called Jebus, or Salem; and a third which was betwixt these two parts, and united them all into one City, called Jerusalem. This is noted to shew Gods great readiness to hear the sincere and fervent prayers of his Children.

‖ Or, city

5 Turn again, and tell Hezekiah the captain of my people, Thus saith the LORD, the God of David thy Father b, I have heard thy prayer, I have seen thy tears: behold, I will heal thee; on the third day i thou shalt go up into the house of the LORD k.

b I am mindful of my Promise made to David and his House, and will make it good in thy Person. i Which shews that the cure was Miraculous. k To give me Solemn Praise for this Mercy. Which proves the perfection of the cure.

6 And I will add unto thy days fifteen years l, and I will deliver thee and this city out of the hand of the king of Assyria m: and * I will defend this city for mine own sake n, and for my servant David's sake.

* Chap. 19. 34.

l Beyond what thou dost expect, and beyond what thou wouldst do if I should leave thee to the force of thy Disease. m This is added, either, first, Because he might otherwise fear the Assyrians return to this City from which he was so shamefully repulsed. Or, Secondly, Because this sickness happened before that great slaughter, chap. 19. 35. Of which see the Notes on ver. 1. n To vindicate my Glory against that insolent Blasphemer.

7 And Isaiah said, take a lump of figs o. And they took and laid it on the boil ∴, and he recovered.

o Though the deliverance was certainly Promised, yet means must be used, and those suitable: for this hath naturally a power of ripening and softning Boils or Sores; though that power was altogether insufficient to produce so sudden and so compleat a Cure. ∴ Which seems to have been a Plague-sore.

8 ¶ And Hezekiah said p unto Isaiah, What shall be the sign q that the LORD will heal me, and that I shall go up into the house of the LORD the third day?

p Or rather, had said: for it is evident this was said before his recovery, though his recovery be mentioned before it; such transpositions being frequent in Scripture. q He asketh a sign, not because he distrusted it; but for the strengthning of his Faith, which otherwise might be shaken by the greatness of his danger, and by the contradiction between this and his former Message. Compare Judg. 6. 17, 37, 39. Isa. 7. 11.

9 And Isaiah said, This sign shalt thou have of the LORD, that the LORD will do the thing that he hath spoken: shall the shadow go forward ten degrees, or go back ten degrees?

10 And Hezekiah answered, It is a light thing for the shadow to go down ten degrees r: nay, but let the shadow return backward ten degrees.

r To wit, in an instant: for that course or motion of the Sun is natural for the kind of it, though miraculous for the swiftness of it; but the other would be both ways miraculous.

11 And Isaiah the prophet cried out unto the LORD s, and * he brought the shadow ten degrees backward t, by which it had gone down in the † dial of Ahaz u.

* Isa. 38. 8.

† Heb. degrees.

s Being moved by Gods Spirits first to offer him this sign, and then to pray for it. t. Quest. 1. What were these degrees? Ans. Lines in the Dial: but whether each of these Lines or Degrees noted an hour, or half an hour, or a quarter of an hour, is uncertain, and not very considerable in this case. Quest. 2. What was it that went down? Ans. Either, First, The shadow alone went back without the Sun. For God could so dispose of the Light of the Sun, by interposing Clouds or other things, so that the Shadow should fall onely upon those Lines, and in that manner as God directed it. And whereas the Sun is said to have gone down, that may be spoken according to appearance, as other passages of Scripture are understood, as when the Moon is called one of the great lights, Gen. 1. though it be less than some of the Stars: and when the sun is said to go down, Jer. 15. 9. and to be turned into darkness, Joel 2. 31. Or, Secondly, The Sun it self went back, and the Shadow with it. This may seem most probable: First, by comparing this with Jos. 10. 13. where the Sun it self stood still. Secondly, Because it is said, the sun it self returned, Isa. 38. 8. for which he here mentions the shadow onely, because the Miracle was not so easily discovered in the Sun, as in the Shadow of a Dial. And though the sun may be elsewhere taken improperly, yet where the improper signification is unnecessary, the proper is and ought to be preferred before it. Thirdly, because this Miracle was noted by the Babylonians, who, having understood that it was done for Hezekiah his sake, sent to enquire into the truth and manner of it, 2 Chron. 32. 31. Obj. If this had been done, the Heathen Historians and Astronomers would have taken notice of it, which we do not find that they did. Ans. So it is most probable they did: although those Books be not now extant: which is not strange, this being confessed and bewailed, that so very few of the first and Ancient Writers are now left. Herodotus himself, the first, and Father of the ancient Historians, being long after this time. And yet it is observed, that there are some intimations of these things left, though mixed with fables, as many true Histories were; as what the Poets fabled of Jupiter's making the Night twice as long as it should have been, that he might enjoy Alcmena longer. Whether the Sun or Shadow went backward suddenly, or leisurely, and in the same time in which it had gone down, is a question of no great moment, the Miracle being evident either way. u Which Ahaz had made in the Kings Palace. This Dial he mentions, because the truth of the Miracle might be best and soonest discovered there; this Dial possibly being visible out of the Kings Chamber, or at least being near to it, and the Degrees being most distinct and conspicuous in this Dial; but the same thing was discerned by all other Dials.

12 ¶ * At that time Berodach baladan x the son of baladan King of Babylon, sent letters and a present unto Hezekiah y: for he had heard that Hezekiah had been sick.

* Isa. 39. 1.

x Calling Berodath-baladan, Isa. 39. 1. whose name Josephus found in that famous Chaldæan Historian Berosius. He seems to have been the King of Assyria's Vice-Roy in Babylon, and upon that terrible slaughter of 185 thousand in the Assyrian Host, and the death of Sennacherib, and the differences among his Sons, to have usurped an absolute Sovereignty over Babylon; and either himself or his Son destroyed the Assyrian Monarchy, and translated the Empire to Babylon. y Partly, for the reasons mentioned, 2 Chron. 32. 31. and partly, to assure himself of the Friendship and assistance of Hezekiah against the Assyrians, their common, and as yet, powerful Enemy.

13 And Hezekiah hearkned unto them z, and shewed them all the house of his ‖ precious things, the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious oyntment, and all the house of his ‖ † armour, and all that was found in his treasures a: there was nothing in his house, nor in all his dominion, that Hezekiah shewed them not b.

‖ Or, spicery.

‖ Or, Jewels.

† Heb. vessels.

z i. e. Granted their desires of a League and Amity with them. a For though his Countrey had lately been harassed by the Assyrians, yet he had reserved all his Treasures and precious things, which he and his Fathers had gathered in Jerusalem. Besides, he had considerable spoils out of the Assyrian Camp. Also he had many Presents sent to him, 2 Chron. 32. 23. which doubtless were things of considerable worth. b Which he did through vain ostentation and pride of heart, 2. Chron. 32. 25, 26. being lifted up by the great Honour which God had done him, in working such Glorious Miracles for his sake, and by the great Respects and Presents rendred to him from divers Princes and People, and now by this great Babylonian Monarch. So hard a matter is it even for a good man to be high and humble.

14 ¶ Then came Isaiah the prophet unto king Hezekiah, and said unto him, What said these men, and from whence came they unto thee? And Hezekiah said, They are come from a far countrey c, even from Babylon d.

c A vain-glorious expression, intimating the great honour which he had from all parts both far and near. d That great and potent Monarchy: which he speaks to magnify his own honour and happiness.

15 ¶ And he said, What have they seen in thine house e? and Hezekiah answered, all the things that are in mine house have they seen: there is nothing among my treasure that I have not shewed them.

e He asketh, not that he was ignorant of it, but that from his Answer he might take the occasion of delivering Gods message to him.

16 And Isaiah said unto Hezekiah, hear the word of the LORD.

17 Behold, the days come, that all that is in thine house, and that which thy fathers have laid up in store unto this day, * shall be carried into Babylon f: nothing shall be left saith the LORD.

* Chap. 24. 13. and 25. 13. Jer. 27. 22.

f This Judgment is denounced against him for his pride, which God exceedingly abhors; and for his ingratitude, whereby he took that honour to himself which he should have given intirely to God; and abused Gods Gifts and Favours to the gratification of his own Lusts: Of both which see 2 Chron. 32. 25, 26. and for his Carnal confidence in that League which he had now made with the King of Babylon, by which, it is probable, he thought his Mountain to be so strong that it could not be removed.

18 And of thy sons that shall issue from thee, which thou shalt beget g, shall they take away, and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon h.

g i. e. Of thy Grand-Children, who are oft called sons. h They shall be Servants to that Heathen Monarch, whereby both their Bodies will be subject to Slavery, and the Lusts of their Lords, and their Souls exposed to the peril of Idolatry, and all sorts of Wickedness; which must needs be very grievous to so good a Man as Hezekiah, and was indeed a very sore Judgment. Whereby by God would teach the World the great evil of sin, yea even of those sins which are generally esteemed but small and venial, for such were those sins of Hezekiah noted upon v. 17.

19 Then said Hezekiah unto Isaiah, Good is the word of the LORD i, which thou hast spoken. And he said, ‖ Is it not good, if peace and truth be in my days k?

‖ Or, Shall there not be peace and truth, &c.

i I heartily submit to this sentence, as being both just, because deserved and procured by mine and my Peoples sins; and merciful, because the punishment is less than I have deserved. k Which he speaks not as if he were careless and unconcerned for his Posterity, (which neither the common inclinations and affections of Nature in all Men, nor that singular Piety and Charity which was eminent and manifest in Hezekiah, can suffer us to believe) or for the Church and People of God, for whose welfare he was so solicitous and industrious in the whole course of his Life; but because it was a singular favour that this Judgment did not immediately follow his sin, the cause of it, but was suspended for a longer time.

20 ¶ And the rest of the acts of Hezekiah, and all his might, and how he made a pool, and a conduit, and brought water into the city, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

21 And Hezekiah slept with his fathers: and Manasseh his son reigned in his stead.

8 Neither will I make the feet of Israel move any more out of the land k which I gave their fathers; onely if they will observe to do according to all that I have commanded them, and according to all the law that my servant Moses commanded them.

k They shall no more be carried Captives into a strange Land, as it had happened before.

9 But they hearkened not: and Manasseh seduced them to do more evil than did the nations whom the LORD destroyed before the children of Israel l.

l Partly, because they were not contented with those Idols which the Canaanites worshipped, but either themselves invented, or they borrowed from other Nations many new Idols and kinds of Idolatry; and partly, because as their light was far more clear, their obligations to God infinitely higher, and their helps and antidotes against Idolatry much stronger than the Canaanites had; so their sins, though the same in kind, were unspeakably worse in respect of these dreadful aggravations.

10 ¶ And the LORD spake by his servants the prophets, saying,

11 * Because Manasseh king of Judah hath done these abominations, and hath done wickedly above all that the Amorites m did, which were before him, and hath made Judah also to sin with his idols n.

The line is oft put for ones lot or portion, as Psal. 16. 6. 2. Cor. 10 16. because mens portions or possessions used to be measured by Lines, Psal. 78. 55. Amos 7. 17. Or, it is a Metaphor from work-men who mark out by Lines what parts of the Building they would have thrown down, and what they would have stand. See Isa. 34. 11. Lam. 2. 8. Amos 7. 7, 8. Zech. 1. 16. Or, it is an allusion to that fact of David, who destroyed the Moabites by a measuring Line, 2 Sam. 8. 2. q As men do with a Dish that hath been used, first wholly empty it of all that is in it, then throughly cleanse and wipe it; and lastly, turn it upside down, that nothing may remain in it; so will I deal with Jerusalem, thoroughly empty and purge it from all its wicked Inhabitants, and that so as to cut off all hopes of restitution.

14 And I will forsake the remnant of mine inheritance r, and deliver them into the hand of their enemies, and they shall become a prey, and a spoil to all their enemies.

r i. e. The Kingdom of Judah, the onely remainder of all the Tribes of Israel, which I did once chuse for my Inheritance, but now, notwithstanding that priviledge, will utterly reject and forsake them.

15 Because they have done that which was evil in my sight, and have provoked me to anger, since the day their fathers came forth out of Egypt, even unto this day s.

s This sore Judgment, though it was chiefly inflicted for the sins of Manasseh and his Generation, yet had a respect unto all their former sins, the guilt whereof was upon this occasion revived. See Exod. 32. 34.

16 Moreover, Manasseh shed innocent blood t very much, till he had filled Jerusalem † from one end to another, beside his sin u wherewith he made Judah to sin; in doing that which was evil in the sight of the LORD.

† Heb. from mouth to mouth.

t The Blood of those Prophets and Righteous Men who either reproved his sinful practises, or refused to comply with his wicked commands and worship. u i. e. His Idolatry, which is elsewhere called evil and corruption, and here sin, by way of eminency; which is the more considerable, because it is her: compared with horrid cruelty; and implied to be worse than that, and more abominable in Gods sight, because it doth more directly and immediately strike at the Glory and Purity of the Divine Majesty, by respect unto which all sins are to be measured. And this expression God here useth in opposition to the gross error of most men, who look upon Idolatry as a small sin, as a meer mistake of the mind, as the fruit of a good intention, and as an excess proceeding from Zeal in Religion.

17 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Manasseh, and all that he did, and his sin that he sinned, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

21 And he walked in the way that his father walked in, and served the idols that his father served, and worshipped them:

22 And he forsook the LORD God of his fathers, and walked not in the way of the LORD.

23 ¶ And the servants of Amon conspired against him, and slew the king in his own house.

24 And the people of the land slew all them that had conspired against king Amon, and the people of the land made Josiah his son king in his stead.

25 Now the rest of the acts of Amon which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

8 ¶ And Hilkiah the high priest said unto Shaphan the scribe, I have found the book of the law h, in the house of the LORD: and Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan, and he read it.

h That Original book of the law of the Lord, given or written by the hand of Moses, as it is expressed, 2 Chr. 34. 14. which by Gods Command was put beside the Ark, Deut. 31. 26. and probably taken from thence and hid, by the care of some godly Priest, when some of the Idolatrous Kings of Judah persecuted the True Religion, and defaced the Temple, and (which the Jewish Writers affirm) burnt all the Copies of Gods Law which they could find, and now found among the Rubbish, or in some secret place.

9 And Shaphan the scribe came to the king, and brought the king word again, and said, Thy servants have † gathered the money that was found in the house, and have delivered it into the hand of them that do the work, that have the oversight of the house of the LORD.

† Heb. melted.

10 And Shaphan the scribe shewed the king, saying, Hilkiah the priest hath delivered me a book: and Shaphan read it before the king.

11 And it came to pass when the king had heard the words of the book of the law i, that he rent his clothes.

i i. e. The dreadful Comminations against them for the sins still reigning among the People. Quest. Did Josiah never see and read a Copy of this Book before this time? If he did not, how could he do so much towards the Reformation of Religion, as he did before? If he did, why was he not sooner convinced and humbled by it? Ans. If Josiah had not yet seen a Copy of this Book, (which is not impossible) yet there was so much of the Law left in the minds and memories of many of the People, as might easily perswade and direct him to all that he did till this time: or, if Josiah had seen and read it before, which seems more probable, yet the great Reverence which he justly bare to the Original Book, and the strange, and remarkable, and seasonable finding of it, had very much awakened and quickened him to a more serious and diligent reading, and attentive consideration of all the passages contained in it, than he used before.

12 And the king commanded Hilkiah the priest, and Ahikam the son of Shaphan, and Achbor the son of Micaiah, and Shaphan the scribe, and Asahiah a servant of the kings k, saying, k Who most constantly waited upon the King's Person: otherwise all of them were the King's Servants.

13 Go ye, enquire of the LORD l for me, and for the people, and for all Judah, concerning the words of this book m that is found: for great is the wrath of the LORD that is kindled against us, because our fathers have not hearkened unto the words of this book, to do according unto all that which is written concerning us.

Or, if they were wholly rooted out, Amon's new Altars are called by his Fathers name, because they were built by his example, and in the very same place where his Fathers Altars were; as the Wells which Isaac digged in the same place, where Abraham had digged them before, were therefore called by their ancient names, Gen. 26. 15. r i. e. The Mount of Olives, 1 King. 11. 7. here called the mount of corruption, for the gross Idolatry there practised, which is oft expressed by the name of corruption. See Exod. 32. 7. Deut. 32. 5. In the Hebrew is an elegant allusion between Miscah, anointing, and Mashcith, corruption, as there is between Bethel and Bethaven, Hos. 4. 15. s Not the same individual Altars; which doubtless either Solomon upon his repentance, or some other of Josiah's Godly predecessors had taken away long before this time; but other Altars bulit by Manasseh or Amon, which because erected by Solomon's example, and for the same use, and in the same place, are called by his name; this brand being left by the Holy Ghost upon his name and memory, as a just punishment of that abominable practise, and a means to deter others from the like. t Of which and the rest see on 1 King. 11. 5, 6, 7. u i. e. The Idol, so called, because it was abominable, and made them abominable to God.

y Quest. How could he rightly do this, seeing Bethel was a part of the kingdom of Israel, not of Judah? Ans. Either, First, This city was now under the Kingdom of Judah, to which it was added by Abijah long since, 2 Chr. 13. 19. Or, Secondly, He did this by vertue of that ancient right which David and his posterity had to the Kingdom of Israel, which though suspended for a time by God's grant of the Ten Tribes to Jeroboam, and the succeding Kings of Israel; yet these being all extinct, it might seem to return to him, at least so far as to pluck up Idolatry out of the Land of Israel, as he had opportunity, and especially out of those parts of it which bordered upon Judah. Or, Thirdly, The King of Babylon having ingaged in a War with the Assyrian, Hezekiah's great enemy, and having thereupon occasion for Hezekiah's friendship, did (as some suppose) enlarge his Dominion, and give him some power over the Kingdom of Israel, at least as to matters of Religion: Which may seem not improbable from 2 Chr. 30. 1, 4 5, 6. And the same power seems to have been continued, and some kind of League made between the King of Babylon and Manasseh (who thereupon was restored to his Kingdom, 2 Chr. 33. 13.) and after him Josiah, who therefore was so zealous in his quarrel against the King of Egypt, 2 Chr. 35. 20, &c. Or, Fourthly, He did it in pursuance of God's prediction concerning this action, 1 King. 13. 2. which (in a matter so good, and so agreeable to God's will and word, as the extirpation of Idolatry unquestionably was) had the force of a warrant or command upon him to do it, as God's prediction of the Conversion of the Gentiles by the Messias, was a command to his Apostles to Preach to them, Act. 13. 47. z Which seems to have been some little Temple or House erected for that Worship, or for the Priests attending upon it.

By this Relation it appears, and from the nature of the thing, and common practiſe in like caſes, it is more than probable, that after the departure of the King of Aſſyria, divers of the Iſraelites who had retired to other parts, and kept themſelves out of the Conquerors hands, returned together with their Prieſts to their own Land, and to their old trade of Worſhipping Idols; to whom, peradventure, they aſcribed this their Deliverance from that Judgment which Jehovah had brought upon them. h According to that Famous Prophecy, 1 King. 13. 1, 2.

And so Jehoahaz might be his Elder Brother, and the same who is called Johanan, and is first mentioned, as the Eldest Son, 1 Chron. 3. 15. though he may be placed first, not in regard of his Birth, but of his Dignity; the Crown being first put upon his Head. Or, 2. When he was first set up by Pharaoh, and so this was the Elder Brother, though by popular Violence put by his Right. See on ver. 31.

CHAP. XXIV.

* 2 Chron. 36. 6.

IN * his days a Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon b came up c, and Jehoiakim became his servant three years: then he turned and rebelled against him d.

a i. e. In Jehoiakim's Reign, in the end of his third Year, Dan. 1. 1. or the beginning of his Fourth, Jer. 25. 1. b The son of Nabopolassar, who quite subdued the Assyrian, first his Lord, and then his Competitor, and made himself Absolute Monarch of all those parts of the World. c To wit, against Jehoiakim, as the Friend and Confederate of Pharaoh, whose Forces he had lately Conquered. Jer. 46. 2. d By the instigation of the Egyptian, who threatned him if he did not Rebel, and promised him his utmost Assistance if he did.

2 And the LORD sent against him bands of the Caldees, and bands of the Syrians, and bands of the Moabites, and bands of the children of Ammon e, and sent them against Judah to destroy it, * according to the word of the LORD, which he spake † by his servants the prophets.

* Chap. 20. 17. and 23. 27. † Heb. by the hand of.

e For Nebuchadnezzar's Army was made up of several Nations, who were willing to Fight under the Banner of such a Puissant and Victorious Emperor.

3 Surely at the commandment of the LORD came this upon Judah, to remove them out of his sight, for * the sins of Manasseh f, according to all that he did.

* Chap. 21. 2. and 23. 26.

f Properly and directly for their own sins, and occasionally for the sins of Manasseh, which had never been charged upon them, if they had not made them their own by their impenitency for them, and repetition of them.

4 And also for * the innocent blood g that he shed, (for he filled Jerusalem with innocent blood) † which the LORD would not pardon.

* Chap. 21. 16. † Heb. and God would not pardon; or, be favourable. So Gr.

g To wit, of those Prophets and Saints, who either reproved, or would not comply with his Idolatrous Worship.

5 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jehoiakim, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

6 So Jehoiakim slept with his fathers: and Jehoiachin h his son reigned in his stead.

h Called also Jechoniah, 1 Chron. 3. 16. (as Jehojakim also was, by comparing this with Mat. 1. 11.) and in way of contempt, Choniah, Jer. 22. 24.

7 And the king of Egypt came not again any more out of his land i: for * the King of Babylon had taken from the river of Egypt unto the river Euphrates, all that pertained to the king of Egypt.

* Jer. 46. 2.

i To wit, in this Kings days; nor until Zedekiah's time, Jer. 37. 6, 7. nor to any purpose. He could not now come out to Protect the King of Judah, being scarce able to defend his own Kingdom.

8 ¶ Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he began to reign k, and he reigned in Jerusalem three months l: and his mothers name was Nehushta, the daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem.

k Object. He was then but eight years old, 2 Chron. 36. 9. Answ. 1. Both are true; in his Eighth Year he began to Reign with his Father, who made him King with him, as divers other Kings of Israel and Judah had done in the like times of trouble; and in his Eighteenth Year he Reigned alone. 2. He is called a son of eight years when he began to reign, 2 Chron. 36. 9. because this was the Eighth Year, not of his Age, but of the Babylonish Captivity, or Bondage; under which, both he, and his Father had been just so long; for it began in his fourth Year of Jehojakim, as it is affirmed Jer. 25. 1. and continued all his Reign, which lasted Eleven Years, Chap. 24. 36. and to the first Year of Jehojakim was precisely the Eighth Year of that Captivity. And this is certain, That the Years of Kings mentioned in Scripture, are not always accounted from the beginning of their Age, but from some other Remarkable Time, or thing: thus Saul, when at Man's Estate, is called the son of one year, 1 Sam. 13. 1. of which see my notes there; and Ahaziah, (whose Father lived only Forty Years, 2 Chron. 21. 20.) is called a son of forty and two years when he began to reign, 2 Chron. 22. 2. because that was the Forty and Second Year of the Reign of Omri's Family, as most think. And therefore it cannot seem strange, if the Years of this King be computed, not from his Birth, but from the beginning of so great and famous a Change of the Jewish Affairs, as this Captivity made; this being the usual way of the Romans and Greeks, and other more Ancient and Eastern Nations, to compute the times from the great Changes and Revolutions happning among them. And that this was the practise of the Jews in the Computation of these very times, is evident from the use of it in the Prophecy of Ezekiel, Chap. 1. 2. which was the fifth year of Jehojakim's captivity; and Chap. 33. 21. In the Twelfth year of our Captivity; and Chap. 40. 1. in the Twenty fifth year of our Captivity.

9 And

3. To all this might be added, That ſome here acknowledge an Error of the Scribe, and affirm, That in the firſt and beſt Copies, in 2 Chron. 36. 9. it was not eight, but eighteen; which they gather from hence, becauſe thoſe two Ancient and Venerable Tranſlators, the Syriack and Arabick, read there, as it is here, was eighteen years old; which they ſay, they would never have preſumed to do, if they had not ſo read it in thoſe Hebrew Copies, out of which they drew their Tranſlation; or in ſome of them. l And ten days, which are added, 2 Chron. 36. 9. But ſuch ſmall ſums are frequently omitted in great Numbers. See on Gen. 15. 13. 1 King. 16. 8.

9 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that his father had done.

* Dan. 1. 1. 10 ¶ * At that time the ſervants of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up againſt Jeruſalem m, and the city † was beſieged.

† Heb. came into Siege.

m Either, 1. Becauſe the people had made Jehojachin King without his conſent. Or, 2. Becauſe he had ſome notice, or at leaſt a ſuſpition of his intentions to Rebel againſt him, and to joyn with Egypt againſt him, as Zedekiah his Succeſſor did. But whatſoever was the ſecond and immediate cauſe of it, the chief Cauſe was God's commandment, or the direction of his Providence, as it was ſaid ver. 3.

11 And Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came againſt the city, and his ſervants did beſiege it.

12 And Jehoiachin the king of Judah went out to the king of Babylon n, he, and his mother, and his ſervants, and his princes, and his ‖ officers, and the king of Babylon took him in the eighth year of his reign o.

‖ Or, Eunuchs.

n i. e. Yielded up himſelf and the City into his hands; and this by the counſel of Jeremiah, and to his own good. o i. e. Of Nebuchadnezzar's Reign; as appears by comparing this with Chap. 25. 8. and becauſe Jehojachin Reigned not half a year.

* Chap. 20. 17. Iſa. 39. 6. 13 * And he carried out thence all the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD, and the treaſures of the kings houſe, and cut in pieces all the veſſels of gold q which Solomon king of Iſrael had made r in the Temple of the LORD, as the LORD had ſaid.

p Or rather, took away, as this word elſewhere ſignifies; or cut off, to wit, from the Temple. For why ſhould they cut in pieces thoſe veſſels which might conveniently be carried away? And that they were not cut in pieces, but reſerved whole, is manifeſt from Ezra 1. 7. and Dan. 5. 2, 3. q i. e. The moſt and choiceſt of them, by comparing this with ch. 25. 14, 15. r So he expreſſeth it, either Firſt, Becauſe theſe Veſſels were made by the godly kings of Judah, inſtead of thoſe which Solomon made, and ſo they go by his name; as the Ship of the Argonauts was ſtill reputed the ſame Ship, though it was from time to time recruited with new materials, until nothing of the old was left. Or, Secondly, Becauſe though the City and Temple had been rifled more than once both by the Kings of Egypt and Iſrael, and by the wicked Kings of Judah; yet theſe golden Veſſels were preſerved from them, either by the care of the Prieſts, who hid them out of the way; or by the clemency of the Conquerors, and the reverence which they bare to ſuch ſacred Inſtruments; or by the ſpecial Providence of God, diſpoſing their hearts to leave them. Or, if they had been taken away by any of theſe Kings, they might afterwards be recovered by the intreaty, or at the coſt of all the godly Kings of Judah.

* Jer. 24. 1. 14 And he carried away all Jeruſalem ſ, and * all the princes, and all the mighty men of valour, even ten thouſand t captives, and all the craftſmen and ſmiths u: none remained ſave the pooreſt ſort of the people of the land.

ſ i. e. The Inhabitants of Jeruſalem; not ſimply all, but the beſt and moſt conſiderable part, as the following words explain and reſtrain it. t Which are more particularly reckoned up, v. 16. where there are 7000 mighty men, and a thouſand Smiths; and thoſe mentioned v. 15 make up the other 2000. u Which might furniſh them with new Arms, and thereby give him freſh trouble.

* 2 Chron. 36. 10. Eſth. 2. 6. 15 And * he carried away Jehoiachin to Babylon, and the kings mother, and the kings wives, and his ‖ officers, and the mighty of the land, thoſe carried he into captivity, from Jeruſalem to Babylon.

‖ Or, Eunuchs.

16 And all the men of might, even ſeven thouſand, and craftſmen, and ſmiths a thouſand, all that were ſtrong and apt for war, even them the king of Babylon brought captive to Babylon.

* Jer. 37. 1. * 1 Chron. 3. 15. 17 ¶ And * the king of Babylon made Mattaniah * his fathers brother king in his ſtead, and changed his name to Zedekiah x.

x That he might admoniſh him of (what his Name ſignifies) the juſtice of God, which had ſo ſeverely Puniſhed Jehoiakin for his Rebellion; and would no leſs certainly overtake him, if he ſhould be guilty of the ſame Rebellion and Perfidiouſneſs of which his Predeceſſor was guilty.

* 2 Chr. 36. 11. Jer. 37. 1. & 52. 1. 18 * Zedekiah was twenty and one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was * Hamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

* Chap. 23. 31.

19 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that Jehoiakim had done.

20 For through the anger of the LORD it came to paſs in Jeruſalem and Judah, until he had caſt them out from his preſence, that Zedekiah rebelled againſt the king of Babylon y.

y Thus the Peoples Sins were the true Cauſe why God gave them wicked Kings, whom he ſuffered to do wickedly, that they might bring the long deſerved, and threatned Puniſhments upon Themſelves and their People.

CHAP. XXV.

* 2 Chr. 36. 17. Jer. 34. & 39. 1. Ezek. 24. 1. 1 AND it came to paſs * in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the month, that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came, he, and all his hoſt, againſt Jeruſalem a, and pitched againſt it, and they built forts againſt it round about b.

2 And the city was beſieged unto the eleventh year of King Zedekiah.

* Jer. 52. 6. 3 And on the ninth day of the * fourth month c the famine prevailed in the city, and there was no bread for the people of the land d.

For the common ſort of people, who flock'd thither from all parts, upon the approach of the Babylonian Army; but only for the great Men and Soldiers. See of the grievouſneſs of this Famine, Lam. 4. 10. and Ezek. 5. 10, 12.

4 ¶ And the city was broken up e, and all the men of war fled f by night, by the way of the gate, between two walls g, which is by the kings garden, (now the Caldees were againſt the city round about) and the king h went the way toward the plain i.

e By the Caldeans, who broke and entred the gate, Jer. 39. 3. f Which word is fitly ſupplied out of the parallel place, Jer. 39. 4. or out of the following verb, went away. g Between the outward and inward wall of the City, by a private way, having the advantage of the darkneſs of the night, and poſſibly of ſome Vault under the ground. h This word alſo is neceſſarily to be underſtood; partly, by its ſingular, which agrees not with the men of war; and partly out of the next verſe, where it is expreſſed. i Of Jericho, as it follows.

5 And the army of the Caldees purſued after the King, and overtook him in the plains of Jericho: and all his army were ſcattered from him.

k Of which ſee above, ch. 23. v. 33. and below v. 21. where Nebuchadnezzar ſtaid, that he might both ſupply the beſiegers with more men, and Military proviſions, as their occaſions required; and have an eye to Caldea, to prevent or ſuppreſs any commotions which might happen there in the time of his abſence. l The Kings Officers appointed thereunto, examined his cauſe, and paſſed the following ſentence againſt him.

† Heb. made blind. 7 And they ſlew the ſons of Zedekiah before his eyes, and † put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and bound him with fetters of braſs, and carried him to Babylon m.

m Thus two Prophecies were fulfilled, which ſeemed contrary one to the other, that he ſhould go to Babylon, Jer. 32. 5. and 34. 3. and that he ſhould never ſee Babylon: Which ſeeming contradiction, becauſe Zedekiah the falſe Prophet could not reconcile, he concluded both were falſe, and that Jeremy was a falſe Prophet; and it ſeems Zedekiah the King might ſtumble at this difficulty.

* See Chap. 24. 12. and Ver. 24. ‖ Or, chief Marſhal. 8 ¶ And in the fifth month, on the ſeventh day of the month n, (which is * the nineteenth year of king Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon) came Nebuzar-adan ‖ captain of the guard, a ſervant of the king of Babylon, unto Jeruſalem:

n Queſt. How doth this agree with Jer. 52. 12. where he is ſaid to come thither on the tenth day? Anſ. Either he came to Jeruſalem on the ſeventh day, and burnt the Temple on the tenth day: Or this ſacred Writer ſpeaks of the day of his departure from Riblah towards Jeruſalem, and Jeremiah ſpeaks of his coming to Jeruſalem, which was about three days journey from Riblah.

9 And he burnt the houſe of the LORD o, and the kings houſe, and all the houſes of Jeruſalem, and every great mans houſe burnt he with fire.

b Aſſured them by his promiſe and oath, that they doing what he required, ſhould be kept from the evils which they feared. This he might ſafely ſwear, becauſe he had not onely the King of Babylon's promiſe and intereſt too, but alſo God's promiſe for their Indempnity, delivered by Jeremiah.

I. CHRONICLES.

These Books of the Chronicles are not the same which are so called 1 King. 14.19. and elsewhere, (because some Passages said to be there mentioned, are not found here) but other Books, and written by other Persons, and for other Ends. Yet this same Writer took out of those Books such Historical Passages as were most useful or neeessary. They were written after the Babylonish Captivity, as appears from 2 Chron. 36. 20, &c. by Ezra, as may be gathered not onely from the same words used in the place now quoted, and in the Beginning of that Book which goeth under the name of Ezra, but also from some other Passages, which we may observe hereafter, and from the exactness and diligence here used in making Catalogues of Persons and Families, which also is used in the Book of Ezra. If one or two Passages seem to be of a later Date, those were added by some other Prophets, there being some few such Additional Passages in the Books of Moses. The chief Design of these Books is, to compleat the History of the Kings of Judah, and to gather up the Fragments of Sacred History, which were omitted in the Books of Samuel and Kings, and to explain some Passages there mentioned, and to give an exact Account of the Genealogies: Which (though ignorant or inconsiderate Persons may think trivial and useless) was a Work of great Necessity, to preserve the Distinction of the Tribes and Families; that so it might appear that Christ came of that Nation, and Tribe, and Family of which he was to be born. And this Account having been hitherto neglected, is most seasonably mentioned in these Books, because this was to be in a manner the last Part of the Sacred and Canonical History of the Old Testament, and therefore the fittest place to Record those Genealogies, upon which the Truth and Authority of the New Testament in some sort depends. And whereas many things in these Genealogies to us are obscure and doubtful, they were not so to the Hebrews; and all the Persons here named, were known to them by those very particular and exact Genealogies, which they kept in their several Families and in publick Registers; from whence this Sacred Pen-man, by the direction of Gods Spirit, took those Things which were of most Importance.

14 The Jebusite e also, and the Amorite, and the Girgashite.

e The People so called. So the Names which follow until v. 17. are not the Names of particular Persons, but the People or Nations. And all these descended from Canaan, though some of them were afterwards extinct or confounded with others of their Brethren by Cohabitation or mutual Marriages, whereby they lost their Names: Which is the Reason why they are no more mentioned; at least under these Names.

15 And the Hivite, and the Archite, and the Sinite,

16 And the Arvadite, and the Zemarite, and the Hamathite.

17 The sons of * Shem f; Elam, and Ashur, and Arphaxad, and Lud, and Aram, and Uz, and Hul, and Gether, and ‖ Meshech.

13 * And Jesse begat his first-born Eliab e, and Abinadab the second, and || Shimma the third,

e Called also Elihu, 1 Chron. 27. 18. unless that was another person, and the word Brother be taken more largely for a Kinsman, as it is frequently used.

14 Nethaneel the fourth, Raddai the fifth,

15 Ozem the sixth, David the seventh f:

f For though he had eight Sons, 1 Sam. 16. 10. one of them either died presently after that time, or is neglected for some reason now unknown, as others are. See the Notes on Mat. 1. 8, 9.

18 And Caleb the son of Hezron h † begat children of Azubah his wife, and of Jerioth: her sons i are these, Jesher, and Shobab, and Ardon.

† Heb got with child Azuba.

h Not that Caleb, Numb. 13. 6. for he was the Son of Jephunneh, of whom he speaks, Ch. 4. 15. but another Caleb. i i. e. The Sons either 1. of Jerioth, she being last mentioned: Or, rather 2. of Azubah, who is by way of distinction called his Wife, when Jerioth probably was only his Concubine, and, as it may seem, barren: And therefore upon Azubah's death he married another Wife, v. 19 And those other Sons of this Caleb mentioned below, v. 42. are his Sons by some other Wife distinct from all these.

19 And when Azubah was dead, Caleb took unto him Ephrath, which bare him Hur.

20 And Hur begat Uri, and Uri begat * Bezaleel.

* Exod. 31. 2.

21 And afterward Hezron went in k to the daughter of * Machir, the father of Gilead l, whom he † married m when he was n threescore years old, and she bare him Segub.

k i. e. Lay with her, as that Phraſe is commonly uſed, as Gen. 4. 1. & 6. 4. l Of a man ſo called. Or, if Gilead be the Name of that known Country, Father is put for Head or Governour, as it is uſed, 1 Sam. 24. 11. 2 King. 5. 13. & 16. f. Iſa. 22. 21. Or, for Protector, or Curator, as Father is uſed Job 29. 16. Jer. 2. 27. Lam. 5. 3. This Man being a Man of noted Valour, and the Great Champion in thoſe Parts. m Heb. And he took her, to wit, to Wife. Or, After he had taken her. For ſo the Particle vau is uſed, as hath been formerly noted. n Heb. And he was, to wit, when he went in unto her, Or, when he married her.

22 And Segub begat Jair, who had three and twenty cities in the land of Gilead o.

o Which he had, though he was of the Tribe of Judah, as here we ſee, becauſe he married a Daughter of Manaſſeh, Num. 26. 29. whence he is called a Son of Manaſſeh, Num. 32. 41. Deut. 3. 14. And becauſe, being a man of great Courage, he joyned himſelf with that half Tribe in ſubduing Gilead, wherein he acted ſo Valiantly and Succeſsfully, that he had 23 Cities or great Towns given to him to poſſeſs or diſpoſe of: or, rather to Rule over them, and have ſome Advantage from them; As a King is ſaid to have his Kingdom, although he hath not the propriety of all the Lands and Houſes in it.

† Num. 32. 41. Deut. 3. 14. Joſh. 13. 30.

23 † And he took p Geſhur and Aram q, with the Towns of Jair r, from them s, with Kenath t, and the towns thereof, even threeſcore cities: all theſe belonged to the ſons of Machir u, the father of Gilead.

p Or, For he had taken, So this is the Reaſon why he had ſo great a Territory and Juriſdiction given to him. q Two Cities or great Towns ſo called. r i. e. With thoſe 23 Cities which he is ſaid to have, v. 22. s i. e. From the former Inhabitants, which is eaſily underſtood. t Which was taken by Nobah, one of Jairs Commanders, ſent by him to take it, as may be gathered from Numb. 32. 41, 42. u Partly to his own Sons, and partly to his Son-in-law Jair, who by reaſon of that dear Affection which was betwixt them, and his forſaking his own Tribe and Kindred to fight for them and to dwell with them, is here reckoned as his own Son.

24 And after that Hezron was dead in Caleb-ephratah x, then Abiah Hezrons wife bare him Aſhur y the father of Tekoa z.

x A place then ſo called by a Conjunction of the Names of the Man and his Wife; afterwards ſuppoſed to be called Bethlehem-Ephratah. Others tranſlate the words thus, When Caleb took Ephratah. So it is an Ellepſis of the Verb which is here to be underſtood out of v. 19. where it is expreſſed. y After the Fathers death. z A known place, 2 Sam. 14. 2, 4. Jer. 6. 1. Amos 1. 1. Whoſe Father he is called, becauſe he was either the Progenitour of the People inhabiting there: Or, their Prince and Ruler: Or, the Builder of the City.

25 And the ſons of Jerahmeel the firſt-born of Hezron were, Ram the firſt-born, and Bunah, and Oren, and Ozem, and Ahijah a.

a Or, of (the prefix, mem being oft underſtood) Ahijah, his Wife ſo called, as may ſeem probable from the next Verſe, where he mentions another Wife.

26 Jerahmeel had alſo another wife, whoſe name was Atarah, ſhe was the mother of Onam.

27 And the Sons of Ram the firſt-born of Jerahmeel were Maaz, and Jamin, and Eker.

28 And the Sons of Onam were, Shammai, and Jada. And the ſons of Shammai; Nadab, and Abiſhur.

29 And the name of the wife of Abiſhur was Abihail, and ſhe bare him Ahban, and Molid.

30 And the ſons of Nadab, Seled, and Appaim: but Seled died without children.

† See ver. 34, 35.

31 And the ſons b of Appaim; Iſhi. And the ſons of Iſhi; Sheſhan. And † the children of Sheſhan; Ahlai.

b An Expreſſion oft uſed both afterwards in this verſe and elſewhere, and in profane Authors too, where there is but one Son. It is an Enallage of the Number, which is frequent in the Hebrew.

32 And the ſons of Jada the brother of Shammai; Jether, and Jonathan; and Jether died without children.

33 And the ſons of Jonathan; Peleth, and Zaza. Theſe were the ſons of Jerahmeel.

34 Now Sheſhan had no ſons c, but daughters: and Sheſhan had a ſervant, an Egyptian, whoſe name was Jarha.

c To wit, living when he died, his Son Ahlai, v. 31. dying before him: unleſs Ahlai was the Name of a Daughter.

35 And Sheſhan gave his daughter to Jarha his Servant to wife, and ſhe bare him Attai.

36 And Attai begat Nathan, and Nathan begat † Zabad, † Chap. 11. 41.

37 And Zabad begat Ephlal, and Ephlal begat Obed,

38 And Obed begat Jehu, and Jehu begat Azariah,

39 And Azariah begat Helez, and Helez begat Eleaſah, 40 And Eleaſah begat Siſamai, and Siſamai begat Shallum, 41 And Shallum begat Jekamiah, and Jekamiah begat Eliſhama.

42 Now the ſons of Caleb the brother of Jerahmeel d were, Meſha his firſt-born, which was the father of Ziph e: and the ſons of Mareſhah the father of Hebron f.

d To wit, of that Caleb mentioned v. 18. as appears by comparing that Verſe with v. 25. And theſe are his Sons by another and his third Wife. See on v. 18. e The Name either of a Man: or of a Place, of which ſee Joſ. 15. 24, 55. And then Father is to be underſtood here as v. 23, & 24. f Not the Place ſo called, but a Man, as is evident becauſe his Sons here follow.

43 And the ſons of Hebron; Korah, and Tappuah, Rekem, and Shema.

44 And Shema begat Raham the father of Jorkoam: and Rekem begat Shammai.

45 And the ſon of Shammai was Maon: and Maon was the father of Beth-zur g.

g A Place in Judah, Joſ. 15. 58. See on v. 23.

46 And Ephah Calebs Concubine bare Haran, and Moza, and Gazez: and Haran begat Gazez.

47 And the ſons of Jahdai h; Regem, and Jotham; and Geſhan, and Pelet, and Ephah, and Shaaph.

h The Son of Gazez laſt mentioned: which is implied becauſe he follows next after him in the Genealogy. Or, the Sons of Moza: whoſe Name might be changed into Jahdai for ſome Reaſon now unknown.

48 Maachah Calebs Concubine bare Sheber and Tirhanah.

49 She bare alſo Shaaph the father of Mad-mannah i, Sheva the father of Machbenah, and the father of Gibea: and the daughter of Caleb was † Achſah. † Joſh. 15. 17.

i This, and divers other following Names are the Names of Places in Judah, and Father is meant as v. 23, 24.

50 Theſe are the ſons of Caleb the ſon of Hur, the firſt-born of Ephratah; Shobal the father of Kirjath-jearim.

51 Salma the father of Beth-lehem k, Hareph the father of Beth-gader l.

k To wit, in part: For Boaz deſcended from another Salmon, who was the Son of Naaſſon, v. 11. l Called alſo Penuel the father of Gedor, ch. 4. 4.

52 And Shobal the father of Kirjath-jearim, had ſons; ‖ Haroeh m, and ‖ half of the Manahethites. ‖ Or, Reaiah, chap. 4. 2. ‖ Or, half of the Menuchites, Or, Hatſi-hammenuchoth.

m Which may ſignifie an Overſeer, a Prophet, or Teacher, or Ruler; but here is a proper Name, as appears from ch. 4. 2. where he is called Reaiah with no great variation in the Hebrew.

53 And the families of Kirjath-jearim n; the Ithrite, and the Puhite, and the Shumathite, and the Miſhraite: of them o came the Zareathite, and the Eſhtaulite p.

n Or, In Kirjath-jearim, all which deſcended from Shobal, v. 51. o i. e. Of the Family of the Miſhraite, laſt mentioned. p The Inhabitants of two places called Zoreah and Eſhtaol, Joſ. 15. 33.

54 The ſons of Salma q; Bethlehem r, and the Netophathite, ‖ Ataroth s, the houſe of Joab t, and half of the Manahethites u, the Zorites x. ‖ Or, Atarites: or, crowns of the Houſe of Joab.

q Of that Salma mentioned v. 51. r i. e. The Inhabitants of Bethlehem. s The Name of a Perſon, or People. t The Progenitours of Joab's Family. u The other half being mentioned v. 52. x For, to wit, the Zorits.

55 And the families of the Scribes y which dwelt z at Jabez ‖; the Tirathites, the Shimeathites, and Suchathites. Theſe are the † Kenites that † Judg. 1. 16.

y Either Civil, who were Publick Notaries who wrote and signed Legal Instruments: Or Ecclesiastical. And these were either Levites, or Simeonites, or rather Kenites, and are here mentioned not as if they were of the Tribe of Judah, but because they dwelt among them, and probably were allied to them by Marriages, and so in a manner Incorparated with them. z Or, rather dwelt, Heb. Were Dwellers. For the other Translation, which dwelt, may seem to insinuate that these were Descendants of Judah, which they were not; but this Translation only signifies their Cohabitation with them, for which cause they are here named with them. ‖ A Place in Judah, so named probably from that Famous Jabez of that Tribe, ch. 4. 9. † Who dwelt in Judah, Judg. 1. 11. Thus they are distinguished from the other Branch of the Kenites, who dwelt in the Tribe of Manasseh, Judg. 4. 11.

† 2 Sam. 3. 5.

c Which Title belongs either to all the foregoing Women, or rather, as the singular number sheweth, to Eglah only, last mentioned: who possibly may be so called because she was his first, and therefore most proper, Wife, though her son was born after all the rest before-mentioned, and therefore both she and her Son are put in the sixth place, the Wives being here named onely for the Sons sakes. 7 And Nogah, and Nepheg, and Japhia,

8 And Elishama, and ‖ Eliada, and Eliphelet, nine g.

‖ Or, Beeliada, Ch. 14. 7.

g Obj. There are but seven mentioned, 2 Sam. 5. 14. &c. Ans. Two of them are omitted there, because they died very early, or were Inglorious, or died without issue: And here we have all the Sons of David, as it here follows, v. 9. which Clause is not added 2 Sam. 5.

9 These were all the sons of David, besides the sons of the concubines, and † Tamar their sister.

† 2 Sam. 13. 1.

10 And Solomons son was * Rehoboam, ‖ Abia his son, Asa his son, Jehoshaphat his son,

* 1 Kin. 11. 43. & 15. 6.
‖ Abijam, 1 Kin. 15. 1.

11 Joram his son, ‖ Ahaziah his son, Joash his son,

‖ Or, Azariah, 2 Chr. 22. 6. Or, Jehoahaz, 2 Chr. 21. 17.

12 Amaziah his son, † Azariah his son, Jotham his son,

† Or, Uzziah, 2 Kin. 15. 30.

13 Ahaz his son, Hezekiah his son, Manasseh his son, 14 Amon his son, Josiah his son.

‖ Or, Jehoahaz, 2 King. 23. 30.

15 And the sons of Josiah were, the first-born ‖ Johanan, the second † Jehoiakim, the third ‖ Zedekiah, the fourth Shallum h.

† Or, Eliakim, 2 King. 23. 34.
‖ Or, Mattaniah, 2 King. 24. 17.

h Of whom, at least under that Name, there is no mention in the History of the Reign of Josiah's Sons, 2 King. 23, & 24. But in Jerem. 22. 11. there is mention of Shallum the Son of Josiah King of Judah, which reigned instead of Josiah his Father. Which most conceive to be the same who is otherwise called Jehoahaz, 2 King. 23. And this seems most probable, 1. From that Phrase, he reigned instead of Josiah; which implies that he immediately succeeded his Father; otherwise he would have been said to have reigned instead of his Brother, as Zedekiah is said to reign instead of Jehojachim, 2 King. 24. 17. because he was his next Successor. 2. From the Order of that Sermon or Discourse of Jeremiah, which was directed to Zedekiah, and his Servants, and People, as appears by Jer. 21. 1, 2, 11. & 22. 1, 2. whom he admonisheth by the Examples of the Kings his Predecessors, and of the Sentence of God concerning each of them, and that in order as they reigned; 1. Of Shallum, v. 11, &c. 2. Of Jehojakim, v. 18, &c. 3. Of Jeconiah, &c. Therefore Shallum is the same with Jehoahaz, who was the first King after Josiah, 2 King. 23. 31. 3. From the Nature of that Prophecy, Jer. 22. 11, 12. which best agrees to Jehoahaz, who was carried Captive not so far as Babylon, but onely to Egypt a very near Country, whence the People hoped that he would speedily and easily return, or be re-established in his Throne by the King of Egypt, in opposition to the King of Babylon. 4. Because Jehoahaz was one of Josiah's younger Sons, as appears by comparing 2 King. 23. 31. 36. And this Shallum is here called his fourth Son.

16 And the sons of Jehoiakim, ‖ Jeconiah his son, Zedekiah his son i.

‖ Or, Jehojachin, 2 Kin. 24. 6. Or, Coniah, Jer. 22. 24.

i Not his Natural Son, for he was his Uncle, 2 Kings 24. 17. but his Legal Son, or his Successor, upon whom the Sons Right was devolved by vertue of that Law, Numb. 27. 8, 9, 10. and therefore it is not strange if he have the Name of Son with it. See the Notes on Luke 3. Or this was another Zedekiah; because it is improbable and without Example, that one and the same Man should be twice mentioned in the same Genealogy as the Son of two several Parents.

17 And the sons of Jeconiah; Assir k, † Salathiel * his son l.

† Heb. Shealtiel.
* Mat. 1. 11.

k Or, of Jeconiah the Captive, or Prisoner: which is added to shew that he begat his Son when he was Captive in Babylon, as it is noted, Mat. 1. 12. whither he was carried Captive, 2 King. 24. 17. Obj. It is said of this Jechonias, Jer. 22. 30. Write this Man childless. Ans. So he is called because he was an Unhappy Prince, and had no Son that succeeded him in the Throne, as the next words explain it. See more on that Place. l Either his Legal, or his natural Son: of which see the notes on Jer. 22. 30. & Mat. 1. 12. & Luke 3. 27.

18 Malchiram also, and Pedaiah m, and Shenazar, Jecamiah, Hoshama, and Nedabiah.

m The Sentence seems to be short and imperfect, as is frequent in the Hebrew Language, and something is here understood, as, The Sons also of Salathiel were Malchiram and Pedajah, &c. as they gather from hence that the same Zerubbabel is called the son of Pedajah, v. 19. and the son (i. e.. the Grandson) of Salathiel, Mat. 1. 12. Or, Malchiram and the rest here named were the Sons of Jeconiah; and they are differing Zerubbabels, which are mentioned here v. 19. & Mat. 1. 12. & Luke 3. 27. of which see the Notes on those places.

19 And the sons of Pedaiah were, Zerubbabel, and Shimei; and the sons of Zerubbabel; Meshullam, and Hananiah, and Shelomith their sister n:

n i. e. Sister to the two last named Sons of Zerubbabel, to wit, by both Parents; and therefore named before the other five, v. 20. who were her Brethren by the Father, but not by the Mother.

20 And Hashubah, and Ohel, and Berechiah, and Hazadiah, Jushab-hesed, five o.

o Either of Zerubbabel: or of Meshullam, as is gathered from hence that the Sons of Hananiah (Brother to Meshullam, v. 19.) are named, v. 21. and therefore those v. 20. are presumed to be the Sons of Meshullam. But that is no necessary Inference, for Meshullam possibly had no Sons, and therefore he passeth from him to Hananiah, v. 21.

21 And the sons of Hananiah, Pelatiah, and Jesajah: the sons of Rephajah, the sons of Arnan, the sons of Obadiah, the sons of Shecaniah p.

p All these Men, both Parents and their Sons here blended together, are mentioned as the Sons of Hananiah, and Branches of the Royal Stock.

22 And the sons of Shecaniah; Shemajah: and the sons of Shemajah; † Hattush, and Igeal, and Bariah, and Neariah, and Shaphat, six q.

† Ezra 8. 2.

q To wit, including the Father. But the Hebrew word, Shishah, which is rendred six, may be the proper Name of one of the Sons of Shemajah, who may be so called because he was the sixth Son.

23 And the sons of Neariah r; Elioenai, and † Hezekiah, and Azrikam, three.

† Heb. Hizkijah.

r Who alone is here mentioned, because his Elder Brethren probably died without Issue.

24 And

24 And the ſons of Elioenai were, Hodajah, and Eliaſhib, and Pelajah, and Akkub, and Johanan, and Dalajah, and Anani, ſeven.

i Which they ruled in the name and for the uſe and ſervice of the Kings of Judah, to whom Moab was Subject from Davids Time. Or, who had poſſeſſions in Moab: or, who married Wives in Moab. k The Sence is either, 1. Theſe Perſons and things were in Ancient Times; and therefore it is not ſtrange if now they be ſo little known. But that might have been with equal truth ſaid of divers other parts of this Account. Or, rather 2. But thoſe Bleſſed times and Things are long ſince paſt and gone. Our Anceſtors then had the Dominion over the Heathen, but their degenerate Poſterity are now Slaves to them in Chaldea, Perſia, &c. where they are employed as Porters or Gardiners, or in other ſervile Works.

23 Theſe were l the Potters, and thoſe that dwelt amongſt plants and Hedges: there they dwelt m with the King n for his work.

l Or rather, theſe are: for he ſeems to oppoſe their preſent Servitude to their former Glory, and to ſhew their low and mean Spirits that had rather tarry among the Heathen to do their Drudgery, than return to Jeruſalem to ſerve God and enjoy their Freedom. m Or, tarried, or now dwell; when their Brethren are returned. n Of Babylon or Perſia: Eſteeming it a greater Honour and Happineſs to ſerve that Earthly Monarch in the meaneſt Employments, than to ſerve the King of Kings in his Temple, and in his moſt Noble and Heavenly Work.

24 The ſons of Simeon o were ‖ Nemuel, and Jammi, Jarib, Zerah, and Shaul,

o Theſe

o These are here joyned with Judah, because their Possession was taken out of Judahs Portion, Jos. 19. 1. This Account seems to differ from that, Gen. 46. both in the Number and Names of the Persons, which is not strange, considering how Customary it was amongst the Hebrews for one Person to have 2, or 3 Names given to him upon several occasions. And for Ohad, Gen. 46. 10. he may be omitted here, because he left no Posterity or Family after him, as the rest did.

25 Shallum his son p, Mibsam his son, Mishma his son.

p i. e. Son of Shaul last mentioned.

26 And the sons of Mishma; Hamuel his son, Zacchur his son, Shimei his son.

27 And Shimei had sixteen sons, and six daughters: but his brethren had not many children, neither did all their family multiply, † like to the children of Judah q.

q The Tribe of Simeon did not increase proportionably to the Tribe of Judah in which they dwelt; as appears by those two Catalogues, Numb. 1. 22. & 26. 14. Which is to be ascribed to Gods Curse upon them delivered by the Mouth of holy Jacob, Gen. 49. and signified by Moses his neglect of them when he Blessed all the other Tribes.

† Josh. 19. 2. 28 And they dwelt at † Beer-sheba r, and Moladah, and Hazar-shual.

r This, and the following Cities are mentioned, Jos. 9. 2. &c. with no great Alterations.

‖ Or, Balah, Josh. 19. 3. 29 And at ‖ Bilhah, and at Ezem, and at ‖ Tolad,

‖ Or, Eltolad, Josh. 19. 4. 30 And at Bethuel, and at Hormah, and at Ziklag,

‖ Or, Hazar-susah, Josh. 19. 5. 31 And at Beth-marcaboth, and ‖ Hazar-susim, and at Beth-birei, and at Shaaraim. These were their cities unto the reign of David c.

c Either 1. of Davids Posterity; i. e. as long as the Kingdom of Judah lasted, or unto the Captivity of Babylon. But this seems not to be true; for Simeon was gone into Captivity with the rest of the Ten Tribes long before that time. Or rather 2. of David himself. And this may seem to be added, because some of these Cities though given to Simeon by Joshua, yet through the Sloth or Cowardize of that Tribe, were not taken from the Philistins, until Davids Time, who took some of them; and, the Simeonites having justly forfeited their Right to them by their neglect, gave them to his own Tribe. For it is evident concerning Ziklag, one of them, that it was in the Philistins Hands in Davids Time, and by them given to him, and by him annexed to the Tribe of Judah, 1 Sam. 27. 6.

‖ Or, Ether, Josh. 19. 7. 32 And their villages were, ‖ Etam, and Ain, Rimmon, and Tochen, and Ashan, five cities.

‖ Or, Bualath-beer, Josh. 19. 8. 33 And all their villages that were round about the same cities unto ‖ Baal. These were their habitations, and ‖ their genealogy.

‖ Or, they divided themselves by Nations among them. 34 And Meshobah, and Jamlech d, and Joshah, the son of Amaziah.

d These and the rest here following are particularly mentioned for their Valiant and Successful Atchievements related v. 39, &c.

35 And Joel, and Jehu the son Josibiah, the son of Serajah, the son of Asiel.

36 And Elioenai, and Jaakobah, and Jeshohajah, and Asajah, and Adiel, and Jesimiel, and Benajah, 37 And Ziza the son of Shiphi, the son of Allon, the son of Jedajah, the son of Shimri, the son of Shemajah.

† Heb. coming. 38 These e † mentioned by their names, were princes in their families: and the house of their fathers † increased greatly f.

39 And they went to the entrance of Gedor g, even unto the east side of the valley h, to seek Pasture for their flocks.

g To that Country that belongs to Gedor, or borders upon it: either that Gedor, Jos. 15. 58. or that called Gederah, Jos. 15. 36. h Of which see on 1 Sam. 17. 1, 52.

40 And they found fat pasture and good, and the land was wide, and quiet, and peaceable: for they of Ham i had dwelt there of old k, i i. e. The Posterity of that cursed Ham, either the Arabians: or the Canaanites, or Philistins, who descended from Ham, Gen. 10. 6. And accordingly these words contain a Reason, Either 1. to prove that the land was good; because the Arabians, who being wholly given to Pasturage, used to find out the Choicest Grounds, had formerly pitched their Tents there. Or, 2. Why they went and possessed this Place, because it was not in the Hands of their Brethren of Judah, but in the Possession of that People which they had Authority and Command to expell. k i. e. Had possessed it of old and hitherto. Or, dwelt there before, i. e. before they came and cast them out of their Possessions.

41 And these written by name, came in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah l, and smote their tents m, and the habitations that were found there, and destroyed them utterly unto this day n, and dwelt in their rooms: because there was pasture there for their flocks.

l But a little before their Captivity, which was in the sixth year of Hezekiah, 2 Kings 17. So their Joy in their new, and pleasant, and fruitful Possessions lasted but for a very little while. m i. e. The People dwelling in Tents: for so it seems these still did for the conveniency of Pasturage. n i. e. So as they could never after recover themselves.

• 42 And some of them, even of the sons of Simeon, five hundred men, went to mount Seir o, having † for their captains Pelatiah, and Neariah, and Rephajah, and Uzziel the sons of Ishi.

p Not destroyed by Saul, or David, or his Successors. q Either 1. until the Captivity of the Ten Tribes. But that happening so speedily after this time, this expression may seem to be very improper and insignificant here. Or rather 2. until the Babylonish Captivity or the time next after it, when these books were written. For although the main Body of that Tribe dwelling in Canaan were carried into Captivity, yet this small Remnant of them having removed their Dwellings, and being planted in Mount Seir, which lay Southward from Judah, might possibly be continued and preserved in those Parts, when their Brethren were gone into Captivity.

CHAP. V.

1 NOw the sons of Reuben the first born of Israel, (for he was the first-born a, but forasmuch as he † defiled his fathers bed, his birthright b was given unto the sons of Joseph c the sons of Israel d: and the genealogy is not to be reckoned after the birth-right e.

† Gen. 35. 22. & 49. 4.

a These and the following words to v. 3. which are inclosed within a Parenthesis, seem to be inserted here as an Answer to a secret Objection, or as a Reason why Reubens Genealogy was not set down first, but Judah's was put before it, which is double, the first follows immediately, the other is in the last Clause of this Verse. b i. e. The Right of the First-born, which, although it contain in it something of Dominion, Gen. 27. 1. 32. which Joseph had in his own person, Gen. 49. Yet principally consisted in having a double Portion, as appears from Deut. 21. 17. which Joseph enjoyed both in his Person and in his Posterity, which had 2 Parts of twelve in Canaan. And it is Josephs Posterity which is here considered. c Ephraim and Manasseh, each having a distinct Portion. d This is added emphatically, because they were reputed and treated as if they had been the immediate Sons of Jacob: of which see Gen. 48. 5. e This is the second Reason, which sheweth both why Reubens Genealogy was not first mentioned; and if another Tribe was to be ranked before it, why that was Judah, and not Joseph, as it might seem most fit for the former Reason; because, saith he, the Order of their Genealogy was not to be ruled by the Birthright, but by an higher Priviledge, which was given to Judah, and which here follows.

2 For † Judah f prevailed above his brethren g, and h of him came the † chief ‖ ruler i, but k the birth-right was Josephs.)

This being a Reason of the foregoing Assertion, or a Declaration wherein he did prevail. i The Government was by Gods Promise and Appointment to be seated chiefly and most durably in that Tribe, first in David and his Successors, and then in the Messiah, who sprang out of Judah, Heb. 7. 14. which was a far greater Priviledge than the Birth-right. Or, as to the Ruler (i. e. as to the Point of Dominion) he was more than he, or preferred before him, i. e. before Joseph, who is named in the very next clause, the pronoun being referred unto the following noun, which is frequent among the Hebrews, as Psal. 87. 1. & 105. 19. k Or, although, as vau is oft used; so this prevents or removes an Objection against Judah's Precedency taken from his Birth-right.

a Having mentioned the Work and Employment of the High-Priests, he briefly rehearseth the Names of the Persons who successively performed it.

50 And these are the sons of Aaron: Eleazar his son, Phinehas his son, Abishua his son,

51 Bukki his son, Uzzi his son, Zerahiah his son,

52 Merajoth his son, Amariah his son, Ahitub his son, 53 Zadok his son, Ahimaaz his son.

54 Now these are their dwelling places throughout their castles in their coasts, of the sons of Aaron, of the families of the Kohathite: for theirs was the lot b.

b Or, this Lot or Portion which here follows. Or, the first Lot as appears by the sequel.

55 And they gave them Hebron in the land of Judah, and the suburbs thereof round about it.

56 But the fields of the city, and the villages thereof, they gave to Caleb the son of Jephunneh.

57 And to the sons of Aaron they gave the cities c of Judah, namely, Hebron the city of refuge, and Libna with her suburbs, and Jattir, and Eshtemoa, with their suburbs.

c Or, out of the Cities; the Hebrew eth being put for meth, as hath been oft noted.

‖ Or, Holon, Josh. 21.15. 58 And ‖ Hilen with her suburbs, Debir with her suburbs,

‖ Or, Ain, Josh. 21. 16. 59 And ‖ Ashan with her suburbs, and Beth-shemesh with her suburbs.

‖ Or, Almon, Josh. 21. 18. 60 And out of the tribe of Benjamin, Geba with her suburbs, and ‖ Alemeth with her suburbs, and Anathoth with her suburbs. All their cities throughout their families, were thirteen cities d.

d Whereof 11 are here numbred, and two more added to them, Jos. 21. 13.

61 And unto the sons of Kohath, which were left e of the family of that tribe, were cities given out of the half tribe, namely, out of the half tribe of Manasseh, * by lot, ten cities f. * Josh. 21.5.

e Over and above the Priests who were of the same Family of Kohath and Tribe of Levi. f Or, by lot. (with a full Point, for there the Sense ends.) All their Cities were ten cities, as it is expressly said, Jos. 21. 26. Those words, all their cities were, are to be understood out of the former Verse; which is not unusual in the Holy Scripture. And so this sacred Writer explains himself, v. 66, &c. where eight of these Cities are named, whereof onely two are taken out of this half Tribe of Manasseh, v. 70. the other two being named, Jos. 21.21, &c. where these things are more plainly and fully declared.

62 And to the sons of Gershom g throughout their families, out of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, thirteen cities.

g Understand here, cities were given, which is also understood v. 61, and expressed, v. 64.

63 Unto the sons of Merari were given by lot throughout their families, out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, * twelve cities. * Josh. 21.7,34.

64 And the children of Israel gave to the Levites h these cities i with their suburbs.

h i. e. To the Tribe of Levi, consisting of Priests and other Levites. i Which are numbred or named in this Chapter.

65 And they gave k by lot out of the tribe of the children of Judah, and out of the tribe of the children of Simeon, and out of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, these cities which are called by their names l.

k To wit, to those Levites of the Family of Kohath who were Priests, as appears both by v. 57, &c. where the Cities given to the Aaronites are said to be taken out of the Tribes here named, even out of Judah, (under which Simeon is comprehended, because his Lot lay within that of Judah) and Benjamin; and by the next Verse where the other Kohathites who were not Priests are called, the Residue of the Families of the Sons of Kohath, by way of distinction from those of them to whom this v. 65. relates. l Which are expressed by their Names above, v. 57, &c.

66 And the residue of the families of the sons of Kohath, had cities of their coasts m out of the tribe of Ephraim.

m Or, of their borders, i. e. of their Country contained within its Borders, as that word is oft used, as hath been noted before.

67 * And they n gave unto them o of the cities of refuge p, Shechem in mount Ephraim with her suburbs: they gave also Gezer with her suburbs. * Josh. 21.21.

n Either the Ephraimites: or rather the Children of Israel, as it is expressed v. 64. who gave part out of Ephraim, and part out of the half-tribe of Manasseh, as it here follows. But the Ephraimites could not give away any Cities belonging to the Manassites. o i. e. To the residue of the Kohathites last mentioned. p Or, the cities (i.e. the City: the plural Number used of one; of which frequent Examples have been given before, see ch. 7, 3, 12, 14.) of refuge. Or, cities, (the construct form being put for the absolute, of which there wants not Examples in the Hebrew Language) the City of refuge. As to the Names of these Cities, divers of them are differing from those Names which were given to them, Jos. 21.15. Nor is it at all strange that the Names of Places should be changed in so many hundreds of years as were between Joshua and this time. And to the Cities themselves, this is further to be observed, that they are dispersed among all the Tribes, partly that Jacobs Prophecy might be fulfilled concerning the scattering of Levi, Gen. 49.7. and partly that every Tribe might have Teachers among them, by whom they might be directed in, and quickned to the observation of Gods Laws, upon which their safety and happiness wholly depended.

68 And * Jokmeam with her suburbs, and Beth-horon with her suburbs, * See Josh. 21. 22, ad 35. where many of these Cities have other names.

69 And Ajalon with her suburbs, and Gath-rimmon with her suburbs.

70 And out of the half-tribe of Manasseh, Aner with her suburbs, and Bileam with her suburbs, for the family of the remnant of the sons of Kohath.

71 Unto the sons of Gershom were given out of the family of the half-tribe of Manasseh, Golan in Bashan with her suburbs, and Ashtaroth with her suburbs.

72 And out of the tribe of Issachar, Kedesh with her suburbs, Daberath with her suburbs, 73 And Ramoth with her suburbs, and Anem with her suburbs.

74 And out of the tribe of Asher, Mashal with her suburbs, and Abdon with her suburbs, 75 And Hukok with her suburbs, and Rehob with her suburbs.

76 And out of the tribe of Naphtali, Kedesh in Galilee with her suburbs, and Hammon with her suburbs, and Kirjathaim with her suburbs.

77 Unto the rest of the children of Merari, were given out of the tribe of Zebulun, Rimmon with her suburbs, Tabor with her suburbs.

78 And on the other side Jordan by Jericho, on the east-side of Jordan were given them out of the tribe of Reuben, Bezer in the wilderness with her suburbs, and Jahzah with her suburbs.

CHAP. VII.

* Gen. 46.13. Numb. 26. 23. ‖ Or, Phuvah. Job.

1 NOw the ſons of Iſſachar were, * Tola, and ‖ Puah, Jaſhub a, and Shimron, four.

a Called by way of contraction, Job, Gen. 46. 13.

2 And the ſons of Tola; Uzzi, and Rephajah, and Jeriel, and Jahmai, Jibſam, and Shemuel, heads of their fathers houſe, to wit, of Tola: they were * 2 Sam. 24. 1, 2. valiant men of might in their generations, * whoſe number was in the days of David b, two and twenty thouſand and ſix hundred.

b When he numbred the People, 2 Sam. 24. 1, &c.

3 And the ſons c of Uzzi, Izrahiah: and the ſons of Izrahiah; Michael, and Obadiah, and Joel, Iſhiah, five d: all of them chief men.

c For, the ſon: for he names but one Son. d Including their father Izrahiah.

4 And with them by their generations, after the houſe of their fathers were bands of ſouldiers for war, ſix and thirty thouſand men e: for they had many wives and ſons.

e To wit, of the Poſterity of Uzzi, as the other 22600, v. 2. were the Poſterity of Tohah.

5 And their brethren among all the families of Iſſachar, were men of might, reckoned in all by their genealogies fourſcore and ſeven thouſand.

* Gen. 46. 21. 6 The ſons of * Benjamin; Bela, and Becher, and Jediael, three f.

f They were Ten, Gen. 46. 21. and five of them are named, ch. 8. 1. but here onely three are mentioned, either becauſe theſe were moſt Eminent for Courage or Fruitfulneſs; or becauſe the other Families were now extinct.

7 And the ſons of Bela; Ezbon, and Uzzi, and Uzziel, and Jerimoth, and Iri, five; heads of the houſe of their fathers g, mighty men of valour, and were reckoned by their genealogies, twenty and two thouſand and thirty and four.

g Each of them Head, or Chief, or Commander of that Houſe or Family from which he was deſcended, or to which he belonged. For it may ſeem by comparing this with ch. 8. 3, &c. that theſe were not the immediate ſons of Bela, but his Grandchildren deſcended each from a ſeveral Father; and their Fathers are here omitted peradventure, becauſe they were obſcure perſons, as their ſons are mentioned for their Eminency.

8 And the ſons of Becher; Zemira, and Joaſh, and Eliezer, and Elioenai, and Omri, and Jerimoth, and Abiah, and Anathoth, and Alameth. All theſe are the ſons of Becher.

9 And the number of them after their genealogy by their generations, heads of the houſe of their fathers, mighty men of valour, was twenty thouſand and two hundred.

10 The ſons alſo of Jediael, Bilhan: and the ſons of Bilhan, Jeuſh, and Benjamin, and Ehud, and Chenaanah, and Zethan, and Tarſhiſh, and Ahiſhahar.

11 All theſe the ſons of Jediael, by the heads of their fathers, mighty men of valour, were ſeventeen thouſand and two hundred ſouldiers, fit to go out for war and battel.

12 Shuppim alſo and Huppim h, the children ‖ Or, Iri, ver. 7. of ‖ Ir, and Huſhim, the ſons of ‖ Aher i. ‖ Or, Ahiram, Numb. 26. 38.

h Called Muppim and Huppim, Gen. 46. 21. alſo Hupham and Shupham, Numb. 26. 39. i But divers take the Hebrew word aher for a Common, not Proper, Name, and render the words thus, another ſon, or the ſon of another Family or Tribe, to wit, of Dan, as may be gathered 1. from Gen. 46. 23. where Huſhim is mentioned as the onely Son of Dan, where alſo the word ſons is uſed of that one Man, as it is here. 2. From the Clauſe of the next Verſe, the ſons of Bilhah, who was Mother both to Dan and Naphtali. 3. Becauſe otherwiſe the Genealogy of Dan is quite left out. 4. From the word another, which is uſed in the Hebrew Writers to deſign an Abominable thing which the Writer diſdained to mention; whence they call a Swine, which to him was a very unclean and loathſome Creature, another thing. And it muſt be remembred that the Tribe of Dan had made themſelves and their Memory Infamous and deteſtable by that groſs Idolatry, which began firſt and continued longeſt in that Tribe, Judg. 18. For which reaſon many Interpreters conceive this Tribe is omitted in the numbring of the ſealed Perſons, Rev. 7.

13 The ſons of Naphtali; Jahziel, and Guni, and Jezer, and * Shallum, the ſons k of Bilhah. * Gen. 46. 24. Shillem.

k i. e. The Grandchildren: for Bilhah was Jacobs Concubine, and Mother both to Naphtali, the Father of theſe laſt named Perſons, and to Dan. See on v. 12.

14 The ſons l of Manaſſeh; Aſhriel, whom ſhe bare m, (but his concubine the Aramiteſs bare Machir the father of Gilead n.

l i. e. Grandchildren, as v. 13. For both Aſhriel and Zelophehad were the Grandchildren of Machir Son of Manaſſeh, Numb. 26. 29, &c. and 27. 1. m To wit, his Wife, as may be thought, becauſe his Concubine is here oppoſed to her. Or, whom he got; for the Hebrew word yalad is ſometimes uſed of Mens begetting, as Gen. 5. 18, &c Compare Pſal. 2. 7. But theſe and the following words may be otherwiſe rendred according to the Hebrew Text, whom his Concubine the Aramiteſs bare, who bare him (which Ellipſes are very frequent in the Hebrew) for meth, of, or by Machir. So this was a differing Aſhriel from him named Numb. 26. 31. for that was Gileads Son, and this his Brother. n A Perſon ſo called, as is manifeſt from v. 17. & Numb. 26. 29.

15 And Machir took to wife the ſiſter o of Huppim, and Shuppim, whoſe ſiſters name was Maachah) and the name of the ſecond p was Zelophehad: and Zelophehad had daughters q.

o Which Word is here fitly underſtood out of the following Clauſe, where it is expreſſed, and ſhe is called Maachah, who alſo is called the wife of Machir, v. 16. p Of the ſecond Son or Grandſon of Machir; for ſo Zelophehad was, Numb. 26. 29, &c. Or, Zelophehad is here called the ſecond, becauſe he was the younger Brother of Aſhriel, who was the eldeſt Son of Hepher, the Son of Gilead, the Son of Machir. q i. e. Onely Daughters, and no Sons.

16 And Maachah the wife of Machir bare a ſon, and ſhe called his name Pereſh, and the name of his brother was Shereſh, and his ſons were Ulam and Rakem.

17 And the ſons of Ulam, * Bedan. Theſe r * 1 Sam. 12. 11. were the ſons of Gilead, the ſon of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh.

r To wit, Aſhriel and Zelophehad named, v. 14, 15. the Relative being here referred to the remoter Antecedent; as is frequent in the Hebrew.

18 And his ſiſter s Hammoleketh bare Iſhod, and Abiezer, and Mahalah t.

s i. e. Gileads Siſter. t Underſtand, and Shemida, out of the next Verſe.

19 And the ſons of Shemida were Ahian, and Shechem, and Likhi, and Aniam.

20 And the ſons of Ephraim; Shuthelah, and Bered his ſon u, and Tahath his ſon, and Eladah his ſon, and Tahath his ſon, u Either 1. the ſon of Shutlah; and ſo Tahath the ſon of Bered; and ſo the reſt, which make up ſeven ſucceeding Generations. Or, 2. the ſon of Ephraim, and ſo Tahath is the ſon not of Bered, but of Ephraim, and ſo forward. And thus all theſe were Brethren, and Sons or Grandchildren of Ephraim living together at one time with their Father. Obj. This cannot be, becauſe then Ephraim had two ſons called Shuthelah, and two called Tahath. Anſ. That might eaſily happen; either becauſe the firſt Shuthelah and Tahath were dead before the other two of thoſe Names were born; or becauſe two of them were Ephraims Sons, and two of them his Grandchildren called after their Uncles Names. For this is certain, the Name of Sons is promiſcuouſly uſed concerning immediate Children, and Grandchildren, and Great Grandchildren.

21 And Zabad his ſon, and Shutelah his ſon, and Ezer, and Elead, whom the men of Gath that were born in that land, ſlew x, becauſe they came down to take away their cattel.

x This Hiſtory is not recorded elſewhere in Scripture, but it is in the Ancient Hebrew Writers, though mixed with many Fables. The Philiſtins (one of whoſe Cities this Gath was) and the Egyptians were next Neighbours; and in thoſe Ancient Times it was uſual for ſuch to make Inroads one into anothers Country, and to carry thence what Prey they could take; as we find both in Scripture ture and in Profane Writers. And as the Philiſtins had probably made ſuch Inroads formerly into Egypt, and particularly into the Land of Goſhen, which was the utmoſt part of Egypt bordering upon the Philiſtins Land; ſo the Iſraelites might requite them in the like kind; and particularly the Children of Ephraim either preſuming upon their Numbers and ſtrength; or having poſſibly received the greateſt Injury from the Philiſtins in their laſt Invaſion, might make an Attempt upon the Philiſtins to their own great loſs; as is here related. And this ſeems to have happened a little before the Egyptian perſecution, and before the reign of that new King mentioned, Exod. 1.8. The Philiſtins are here called the men of Gath, either becauſe they were Subject to the King of Gath, as afterwards that People were; or becauſe they lived about Gath. And this Clauſe, that were born in that land, may be added emphatically as the motive which made them more reſolute and furious in their Fight with the Ephraimites, becauſe they fought in, and for their own Land, wherein all their wealth and concerns lay, and againſt thoſe that unjuſtly endeavoured to turn them out of their Native Country.

22 And Ephraim their father y mourned many days, and his brethren z came to comfort him.

y Either 1. that Ephraim of whom he ſpeaks *v.*20. whoſe ſons are here named. But that to many ſeems hard, eſpecially if theſe ſeveral ſons named *v.*20,21. be underſtood ſucceſſively, ſo as each Man be the Son of him who is named next and immediately before him, which ſeems moſt probable, for ſo here are 7 ſucceſſive Generations of Ephraim; which it is not likely that Ephraim lived toſee, for then he muſt have been near 200 years old. Although it is not neceſſary that the Perſons here ſaid to be ſlain, ſhould be that Generation which was laſt mentioned, but the Particle whom may belong to the other Sons of Ephraim of the Fourth, or Fifth, or Sixth Generation. Nor is the word, whom, in the Hebrew Text, which runs thus, and the men of Gath——ſlew them, i. e. the Sons of Ephraim in the general as they are expreſſed in the beginning of *v.*20. without reſpect to this or that particular Generation. And the relative Particle, them, may be referred not unto the Perſons laſt named, but unto ſome of the other and more remote perſons: this being a common Obſervation of Hebricians, that the Relative oft belongs to the remoter Antecedent. Or, 2. Zabad the Father of the three Perſons and Families laſt named, who might poſſibly have two Names, and be called both Zabad and Ephraim. Or rather the Name of Ephraim may be put patronymically (as the Learned ſpeak) for the Son and Succeſſor of Ephraim; who being now in Ephraims ſtead, the Head of the Tribe, as old Ephraim was in his Time, might well be called by the ſame Name. Thus Iſaac is put for his Son Jacob or Iſrael, Amos 7.9. and Moſes for the Sons of Moſes, *Pſal.*90. Title, and David for his Son Rehoboam, 1 *King.*12.6. and for Chriſt, *Jer.*30.9. Ezek. 34.23. and (as many think) Abraham for Jacob Abrahams Grandchild, Act. 7.16. And theſe words, their father, ſeem to be added by way of diſtinction, to ſhew that he meant not this of the old Ephraim, but of another, who was Father to the three Perſons ſaid to be ſlain, *v.*21. For if he had underſtood this of the firſt Ephraim, having called theſe the ſons of Ephraim, it might ſeem ſuperfluous and tautological to tell us that Ephraim was their father. z i. e. His Kinſmen, as that word is frequently uſed.

23 And when he went in to his wife, ſhe conceived and bare a ſon, and he called his name Beriah, becauſe it went evil with his houſe.

24 (And his daughter a was, Sherah, who built b Beth-horon the nether, and the upper, and Uzzenſherah.)

a i. e. His Grandchild or Great Grandchild; for ſuch are oft called ſons or daughters in Scripture. b i. e. Rebuilt or repaired: which poſſibly ſhe did in Joſhua's time. And this work may be aſcribed to her, becauſe theſe works are done either by her deſign or contrivance; or by her inſtigation and influence upon her Huſband and Brethren who did it.

25 And Rephah was his ſon, alſo Rezeph, and Telah his ſon, and Tahan his ſon.

26 Laadan his ſon, Ammihud his ſon, Eliſhama c his ſon.

c The Head of the Tribe of Ephraim in the Wilderneſs, Num. 1.10.

‖ Or, Nun, Numb. 13.8.

28 And their poſſeſſions d and habitations were Beth-el e, and the † towns thereof, and eaſt-ward * Naaran, and weſt-ward Gezer, with the † towns thereof, Shechem alſo and the towns thereof, unto ‖ Gaza f and the towns thereof.

* Joſh. 16.7.

‖ Or, Ad-azza.

d i. e. The Portion allotted to the Tribe of Ephraim. e Which ſtood in the Border of Benjamin, but belonged to Ephraim. f Not that of the Philiſtins, which belonged to another Tribe and was remote from Ephraim, but another of the ſame Name. Or rather Ad-azza, as it is in the Margent of our Bible; the Particle, ad, here rendred unto, being a part of the Name; for why ſhould unto be put to this Town which is not put to any of the other?

* Joſh. 17.7.

29 And by the borders of the children of * Manaſſeh, Beth-ſhean and her towns, Tannach and her towns, * Megiddo and her towns, Dor and her towns. In theſe dwelt the children of Joſeph g, the ſon of Iſrael.

* Joſh. 17.11.

g i. e. Of Ephraim, Joſephs eldeſt Son, who is ſometimes called Joſeph, as hath been noted before.

30 * The ſons of Aſher: Imnah, and Iſhuah, and Iſhuai, and Beriah, and Serah their ſiſter.

* Gen.46.17.

31 And the ſons of Beriah,; Heber, and Malchiel who is the father of Birzavith.

32 And Heber begat Japhlet, and Shomer, and Hotham, and Shuah their ſiſter.

33 And the ſons of Japhlet, Paſach, and Bimhal, and Aſhvath. Theſe are the children of Japhlet.

‖ Or, Shomer, ver. 2.

34 And the ſons of Shamer ‖; Ahi, and Rohgah, Jehubbah, and Aram.

35 And the ſons of his brother h, Helem, Zophah, and Imnah, and Sheleſh, and Amal.

h Brother either of Shamer the eldeſt, namely Hotham: or of Aram laſt mentioned.

36 The ſons of Zophah; Suah, and Harnepher, and Shual, and Beri, and Imrah:

37 Bezer, and Hod, and Shamma, and Shilſhah, and Ithran, and Beera:

‖ Or, Ir, ver. 37

38 And the ſons of Jether ‖; Jephunneh, and Piſpah, and Arah.

39 And the ſons of Ulla i; Arah, and Haniel, and Reziah.

i Another Son of Jether, as may be gathered by the courſe of the Genealogy, though he be not expreſſed with his Brethren, v. 38. See the like defect v. 18, & 34.

40 All theſe were the children of Aſher, heads of their fathers houſe, choice and mighty men of valour, chief of the princes. And the number throughout the genealogy of them that were apt to the war, and to battel, was twenty and ſix thouſand men.

CHAP. VIII.

1 NOw Benjamin a begat * Bela b his firſt-born, Aſhbel the ſecond, and Aharah the third.

* Gen. 46.21. Numb. 26.38.

a He had ſpoken ſomething of this Tribe before, ch. 7.6. but now he treats of it again and that more fully and exactly; partly for Sauls ſake who was of their Tribe; and partly becauſe this Tribe adhered to David and the Kingdom of Judah, and went with Judah into Babylon; and now were returned from thence in greater Numbers than the other Tribes, except Judah. b So called by Moſes; but the Names of the reſt vary from thoſe in Moſes: either becauſe the ſame Perſon had two ſeveral Names, as hath been oft noted: or becauſe theſe were not the immediate ſons of Benjamin, but his Grandchildren here mentioned in their Parents ſtead, poſſibly becauſe they were more Eminent than their Parents.

* Chap. 2.52.

6 And theſe c are the ſons of Ehud: theſe are the heads of the fathers of the Inhabitants of Geba d, and they removed them e to * Manahath:

c Either thoſe three laſt mentioned; or rather theſe following, *v.*7. becauſe he here ſpeaks of them who were removed; and they are ſaid to be removed, *v.*7. He deſcribes the Sons of Benjamin by the Places of their Habitation without an exact Account of their Parents; becauſe their Genealogies were broken by that almoſt total Extirpation of this Tribe, Judg. 20. e Either their Fathers or their Heads and Superiours removed them: or they removed themſelves; either becauſe they were too numerous for that Place: or becauſe they deſired to change their Habitation, and hoped it would be for the better, and judged Manahath a more convenient Place.

7 And Naaman, and Ahiah, and Gera, he f removed them, and begat Uzza, and Ahihud g.

f Either 1. Their Father: Or, 2. Gera laſt mentioned, who, it ſeems, was the Chief Counſellor or Promoter of this work. g When he was ſeated in Manahath.

b Whither he had removed himſelf either at the ſame time when Elimelech did, Ruth 1.1, &c. or upon the ſame or like Occaſion. i Ehud or Gera laſt mentioned. k Others joyn theſe words with the former and render the Place thus, after he had ſent them (to wit, his Sons) away, with Huſhim and Baara his wives, i.e. as he alſo ſent his Wives away from him. Which may be here mentioned as a Brand upon him, to ſhew that he was without natural Affection to his Wives and Children. And it ſeems the more probable that he divorced them, becauſe we find him married to another Wife, v. 9.

9 And he begat of Hodeſh his wife, Jobab, and Zibia, and Meſha, and Malcham, 10 And Jeuz, and Shachiah, and Mirma. Theſe were his ſons, heads of the fathers.

11 And of Huſhim he begat Ahitub, and Elpaal.

1 SO all Iſrael were reckoned by genealogies: and behold, they were written in the book of the Kings of Iſrael and Judah a, who b were carried away to Babylon for their tranſgreſſion.

c The firſt after the Return from Babylon. d i. e. That took poſſeſſion of their own Lands and Cities, which had been formerly allotted to them; but of late years had been taken from them for their Sins, and poſſeſſed by other People. e i. e. The Common People of Judah and Iſrael, called here by the general name of Iſraelites, which was given to them before that unhappy Diviſion of the two Kingdoms, and now is reſtored to them when the Iſraelites are united with the Jews in one and the ſame Commonwealth, that ſo all the Names and Signs of their former Diviſion might be blotted out. And although the generality of the ten Tribes were yet in Captivity, yet divers of them were now returned, either ſuch as had long before the Captivity fled to Jeruſalem to worſhip God, and joyned themſelves with Judah, as thoſe 2 Chron. 11. 16. and others: Or ſuch as, upon Cyrus his general Proclamation aſſociated themſelves and returned with thoſe of Judah and Benjamin. f Theſe took poſſeſſion of the Cities or Places belonging to them, as they had need and opportunity. g A certain Order of Men, either Gibeonites or others joyned with them, devoted to the ſervice of God and of his Houſe, and of the Prieſts and Levites; who, that they might attend upon their work without diſtraction, had certain Places and Poſſeſſions given to them; which they are now ſaid to repoſſeſs.

4 Uthai, the ſon of Ammihud i, the ſon of Omri, the ſon of Imri, the ſon of Bani, of the children of Pharez the ſon of Judah.

i That there is ſo great a diverſity of Names between this Catalogue and that Nehem. 11. may be aſcribed to two cauſes, firſt to the Cuſtom of the Hebrews, who uſed very frequently to give two or three ſeveral Names to one perſon: And ſecondly, to the change of Times; for here they are named who came up at the firſt Return; but many of thoſe in Nehemiah might be ſuch as returned afterward, and came and dwelt either in ſtead of the Perſons here named, who might be then dead or gone from Jeruſalem, or with them.

5 And of the Shilonites k, Aſajah l the firſt-born, and his ſons.

k Or, Shelanites, as they are called from Shelah, Numb. 26.20. l Called alſo Maaſeiah, Nehem. 11.5.

6 And of the ſons of Zerah; Jeuel, and their brethren, ſix hundred and ninety.

7 And of the ſons of Benjamin; Sallu the ſon of Meſhullam n, the ſon of Hodaviah, the ſon of Haſenuah.

n Who is mentioned, but deſcribed by other Parents, Neh. 11.7. or at leaſt by perſons under other Names. Poſſibly theſe were his more immediate, and thoſe his more remote Parents: or he might be born of one, and adopted by another. For this is certain, Men

8 And Ibnejah the ſon of Jeroham, and Elah the ſon of Uzzi, the ſon of Michri, and Meſhullam the ſon of Shophatiah, the ſon of Reuel, the ſon of Ibnijah;

9 And their brethren according to their generations, nine hundred and fifty and ſix o. All theſe men were chief of the fathers in the houſe of their fathers.

o They are reckoned but 928. in Neh. 11.8. either becauſe there he mentions onely thoſe that were by Lot determined to dwell at Jeruſalem, to whom he here adds thoſe who freely offered themſelves to it; ſee Neh. 11.1,2. becauſe ſome of the perſons and Families firſt placed there were dead or extinguiſhed, or elſe removed from Jeruſalem upon ſome emergent Occaſion.

10 And of the prieſts; Jedajah, and Jehojarib, and Jachin, 11 And Azariah p the ſon of Hilkiah q, the ſon of Meſhullam, the ſon of Zadok, the ſon of Merajoth, the ſon of Ahitub, the ruler of the houſe of God r.

p The ſame called Seraiah, Nehem. 11.11. q Either of him in Joſiahs time, 2 Kin. 22.8. or rather another of the ſame Name. r Or, a ruler in the houſe of God: Not the High-Prieſt, who was Ezra, Ezr. 3.8. but a Chief Ruler under him; either the ſecond Prieſt, as ſuch are called, Numb. 3.32. or the Head of one of the 24. Families or Courſes of the Prieſts.

12 And Adaiah the ſon of Jeroham, the ſon of Paſhur s, the ſon of Malchijah, and Maaſiah the ſon of Adiel, the ſon of Jahzerah, the ſon of Meſhullam, the ſon of Meſhillemith, the ſon of Immer.

s i. e. His Great Grandſon, as appears from Neh. 11.12,13.

13 And their brethren, heads of the houſe of their fathers, a thouſand and ſeven hundred and threeſcore, † very able men t for the work of the ſervice of the houſe of God.

t Heb. mighty men of valour: Which is here noted as an excellent Qualification for their Place; becauſe the Prieſts might meet with great Oppoſition and Difficulty in the Faithful diſcharge of their Office, in the Execution of the Cenſures upon all impure perſons without Exception, and in preſerving Sacred things from Violation by the Touch of Forbidden Hands. Of which ſee an Eminent Inſtance in Azariah, 2 Chron. 26.17, &c.

14 And of the Levites; Shemajah the ſon of Haſhub, the ſon of Azrikam, the ſon of Haſhabiah, of the ſons of Merari.

15 And Bakbakkar, Hereſh, and Galal: and Mattaniah the ſon of Micah, the ſon of Zichri, the ſon of Aſaph.

16 And Obadiah the ſon of Shemajah, the ſon of Galal, the ſon of Jeduthun: and Berechiah the ſon of Aſa, the ſon of Elkanah, that dwelt in the villages of the Netophathite u.

u Or, Netophathites; which were in Judah, ch. 2. 54. • Here they now dwelt, either becauſe their proper Cities were not yet built: or becauſe they were not yet numerous enough to repleniſh them.

17 And the Porters x were Shallum, and Akkub, and Talmon, and Ahiman, and their brethren. Shallum was the chief.

x Whoſe Office it was to keep all the Gates of the Temple, that no unclean Perſon or Thing might enter into it.

18 (Who hitherto waited in the kings gate y eaſtward) They were porters in the companies z of the children of Levi.

y In the Eaſt-gate of the Temple, which was ſo called, either becauſe it was the Chief and moſt Magnificent of all the Gates: or becauſe the Kings of Judah uſed to go to the Temple through that Gate, 2 King. 16.18. Compare Ezek. 44.1,2. Under this Gate he comprehends all the reſt, which alſo were guarded by theſe Porters. z Or, according to the companies, or orders, or courſes, i. e. They kept the Gates ſucceſſively according to that Method into which themſelves and the reſt of their Brethren the Levites were diſtributed, for the more convenient management of their ſeveral Offices; among which this of the Porters was one.

19 And Shallum the ſon of Kore, the ſon of Ebiaſaph, the ſon of Korah, and his brethren (of the houſe of his father) the Korhites were over the work of the ſervice, keepers of the † gates of the tabernacle a: and their fathers b being over the hoſt of the LORD c, were keepers of the entry d.

The meaning is, That all things were now reſtored to their Primitive Order and Inſtitution; and the ſeveral Perſons took thoſe Places and Offices upon them, which their Anceſtors had before them.

21 And Zechariah the ſon of Meſhelemiah, was g porter h of the door of the tabernacle i of the congregation.

k Where their uſual Reſidence was, and whence they came to Jeruſalem in their Courſes. l In the times of the Judges there was much Diſorder and Confuſion both in the Jewiſh State and Church, and the Levites came to the Tabernacle promiſcuouſly and as their Inclinations or occaſions brought them. But Samuel the beſt of Judges, having ſome proſpect and good hopes of deliverance from their Enemies, and of an happy ſettlement of the Iſraeliſh Church and Nation; and obſerving that the Levites were greatly increaſed, he began to think of eſtabliſhing ſome Order among the Levites in their Miniſtration about the Tabernacle. And theſe Intentions of his probably were communicated by him to David, who after Samuels death and his own peaceable Settlement in his Throne, revived and perfected Samuels Deſign, and took care to put it in execution. m Heb. in their faith or faithfulneſs, i. e. Either 1. in their Office, which is called faithfulneſs, becauſe this is required in that Office. Or, 2. in the Faithful diſcharge of their Duty, and in obedience to the Will of God ſignified to them by Revelation or by the Spirit, as it is ſaid of David, 1 Chron. 28.12. which they received by Faith, and accordingly deſigned, and David executed it. And ſo this is added to ſhew that this was no Humane Invention, as ſome might conceive, but a Divine Appointment, to which all ought to ſubmit.

23 So they and their children had the overſight n of the gates of the houſe of the Lord, namely, the houſe of the tabernacle o, by wards p.

n To wit, in Davids time. o This is added to explain what he means by the Houſe of the Lord, not that Tabernacle which David had ſet up for the Ark; but that more ſolemn Tabernacle, which Moſes had made by Gods expreſs Command and moſt particular direction; which in Davids time was at Gibeon; in which God was and would be worſhipped untill the Temple was built. See 1 King. 3.2, &c. 2 Chron. 1.3,5, &c. p i. e. By Turns or Courſes, each of them at his Gate and in his appointed Time.

24 In four quarters were the porters q: toward the eaſt, weſt, north, and ſouth.

q i. e. The Chief-Porters, as this is explained, v. 26.

25 And their brethren which were in their villages, were to come r after ſeven days s, from time to time with them t.

r From their ſeveral Villages to the Place of Worſhip. s Every Sabbath or ſeventh day the Courſes were changed, and the New Commers were to tarry till the next Sabbath-day. See 2 Kin. 11.5, 7, 9. t i. e. To be with them, i. e. with the Chief Porters who always abode in the Place of Gods Worſhip, and to miniſter to them.

26 For these Levites, the four chief porters, were in their ‖ set office u; and were over the ‖ chambers and treasuries x of the house of God.

‖ Or, trust.

u i.e. These were constantly upon the place and in the execution of their Office, that so they might oversee and direct the Inferiour Porters in their work. Or, as others render the words, agreeably to the Hebrew Text, For these (i. e. their brethren, v. 25.) were under the charge or committed to the trust of the four chief Porters, who also were Levites, as their Brethren were; whereas the Chief of all of them was a Priest. Either way these words contain a Reason of what was said, v. 25. why the rest were to come to these and to be with them. x In which the Sacred Utensils and other Treasures belonging to the Temple were kept.

27 And they lodged round about the house of God y, because the charge was upon them, and † the opening thereof every morning pertained to them.

† Heb. they were over the key. So Gr.

28 And certain of them had the charge of the ministring vessels, that they should † bring them in and out by tale.

† Heb. bring them in by tale, and carry them out by tale.

29 Some of them also were appointed to oversee the vessels, and all the ‖ instruments of the sanctuary, and the fine flour, and the wine, and the oyl, and the frankincense, and the spices.

z This is added to prevent a mistake, and to shew that although the Levites were intrusted with the keeping of this Ointment, yet none but the Priests could make it. See Exod. 30. 22, &c.

31 And Mattithiah, one of the Levites (who was the first-born of Shallum the Korhite) had the ‖ set office over the things that were made ‖ in the pans a.

34 These chief fathers of the Levites, were chief throughout their generations: these dwelt at Jerusalem i.

i Upon their return from Babylon they were not suffered to chuse their Habitations in the Country, as others were, but were obliged to settle themselves at Jerusalem, that they might constantly attend upon Gods Service there, and be ready to instruct the younger Levites in their Office, as they needed or desired it.

k In this and the following verses to the end of this Chapter he repeats what he had said before ch. 8. 29, &c. concerning Sauls Genealogy, that he might make way for the following History. Which is a Figure called Epanalepsis, which is frequent both in Sacred and Profane Writers.

36 And his first-born son Abdon, then Zur, and Kish, and Baal, and Ner, and Nadab, 37 And Gedor, and Ahio, and Zechariah, and Mikloth.

38 And Mikloth begat Shimeam, and they also dwelt with their brethren at Jerusalem over against their brethren.

39 *And Ner begat Kish, and Kish begat Saul, and Saul begat Jonathan, and Malchi-shua, and Abinadab, and Eshbaal. * Ch. 8. 33.

40 And the son of Jonathan was Merib-baal: and Merib-baal begat Micah.

41 And the sons of Micah were Pithon, and Melech, and Tahrea, * and Ahaz. * Ch. 8. 35.

42 And Ahaz begat Jarah, and Jarah begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri: and Zimri begat Moza.

43 And Moza begat Binea: and Rephajah his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son.

44 And Azel had six sons, whose names are these: Azrikam, Bocheru, and Ismael, and Shearish, and Obadiah, and Hanan. These were the sons of Azel.

CHAP. X.

1 NOw * the Philistins fought against Israel a, and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistins, and fell down ‖ slain in mount Gilboa. * 1 Sam. 31. 1, 2, ‖ Or, wounded.

a Of this and the following verses till v. 13. see my Notes on 1 Sam. 31. where we have the same thing expressed almost in the same words.

2 And the Philistins followed hard after Saul, and after his sons, and the Philistins slew Jonathan, and ‖ Abinadab, and Malchi-shua, the sons of Saul. ‖ Or, Ishui, 1 Sam. 14. 49.

3 And the battel went sore against Saul, and the † archers † hit him: and he was wounded of the archers. † Heb. shooters with bows. † Heb. found him.

4 Then said Saul to his armour-bearer, Draw thy sword, and thrust me through therewith, lest these uncircumcised come, and ‖ abuse me: but his armour-bearer would not, for he was sore afraid. So Saul took a sword, and fell upon it. ‖ Or, mock us.

5 And when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he fell likewise on the sword, and died.

6 So Saul died, and his three sons, and all his house b died together.

b i. e. All his Children, to wit, when present with him, namely, his three sons, as it is expressed, 1 Sam. 31. 6. For it is evident that Ishbosheth and Mephibosheth were not slain. But nothing is more common in Scripture and all Authors, than to understand all of a great and most considerable part.

7 And when all the men of Israel that were in the valley c, saw that they fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, then they forsook their cities, and fled, and the Philistins came and dwelt in them.

c Which was beneath Mount Gilboa, where the Fight was v. 1.

8 And it came to pass on the morrow, when the Philistins came to strip the slain, that they found Saul and his sons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And when they had stripped him, they took his head, and his armour, and sent into the land of the Philistins round about, to carry tidings unto their idols, and to the people.

10 And they put his armour in the house of their gods, and fastened his head in the † temple of Dagon d. † Heb. house.

d And his Body severed from his Head to the Wall of Bethshan, 1 Sam. 31. 10.

11 And when all Jabesh-gilead heard all that the Philistins had done to Saul:

12 They arose, all the valiant men, and took away the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, and brought them to Jabesh, and buried their bones under under the oak in Jabesh, and fasted seven dayse.

e To wit, every day till evening, after the manner of the Jewish Fasts.

13 So Saul died for his transgression f which he † committed against the LORD, * even against the word of the LORD g, which he kept not, and also for asking counsel of one that had a familiar spirit h, * to enquire of it i:

† Heb. transgressed.
* 1 Sam. 13. 13. & 15. 23.
* 1 Sam. 28. 7.

f The sence is, Wonder not that Saul fell by the hands of the Philistins, who were armed against him by his own Sin, and by Gods vengeance for it. g Against Gods express, and plain, and positive Command: which is a great Aggravation of any Sin. h Which also was contrary to a manifest Command, Levit. 19. 31. and moreover contrary to his own Conscience, which was so fully convinced hereof, that he had endeavoured the utter Extirpation of all such Persons in pursuance of Gods Law. See 1 Sam. 28. 9. i Concerning the Event of the approaching Battel.

14 And enquired not of the LORD k: therefore he slew him, and turned the kingdom unto David the son of † Jesse.

k Obj. Saul enquired of the Lord, 1 Sam. 28. 6. Ans. He did so, but not in a right Manner, not humbly and penitently, not diligently and importunately, not patiently and perseveringly: but when God would not answer him speedily, he gives it over and goes from God to the Devil. Compare 1 Sam. 14. 18, 19. Such an inconsiderable and trifling Enquiry as Saul made, is justly accounted to be no Enquiry at all. As they are said not to eat the Lords Supper, 1 Cor. 11. 20. who did eat it in a sinful and irregular manner.

CHAP. XI.

* 2 Sam. 5. 1.

1 THen * all Israel a gathered themselves to David unto Hebron, saying, Behold, we are thy bone and thy flesh.

a i. e. All the Tribes of Israel, as it is expressed, 2 Sam. 5. 1. i. e. their Elders, as it is here said v. 3. and Officers, and a great multitude of the Souldiers and People.

† Heb. both yesterday and the third day.
‖ Or, rule.

2 And moreover, † in time past, even when Saul was king, thou wast he that leddest out, and broughtest in Israel: and the LORD thy God said unto thee b, Thou shalt ‖ feed my people Israel, and thou shalt be ruler over my people Israel.

b Or concerning thee: for it is apparent that they knew of it; and therefore many of them opposed David hitherto against their own Consciences.

3 Therefore came all the elders of Israel to the king to Hebron, and David made a covenant with them in Hebron before the LORD, and they anointed David king over Israel, according to the word of the LORD † by * Samuel.

† Heb. by the hand of.

4 And David and all Israel * went out to Jerusalem c, which is Jebus, where the Jebusites were, the inhabitants of the land.

c Of this and the three following Verses see the Notes on 2 Sam. 5. 6. &c.

5 And the inhabitants of Jebus said to David, Thou shalt not come hither. Nevertheless David took the castle of Zion, which is the city of David.

6 And David said, Whosoever smiteth the Jebusite first, shall be † chief and captain. So Joab the son of Zeruiah went first up, and was chief d.

† Heb. head.

d Before this he was one of Davids chief Captains, 2 Sam. 3. 22, 23. and General of the Forces of Judah; but now he is made Captain-General of all the Forces of Israel and Judah.

‖ That is, Zion, 2 Sam. 5. 7.

7 And David dwelt in the castle: therefore they called ‖ it, The city of David.

8 And he built the city round about: even from Millo round about: and Joab † repaired the rest of the city.

But concerning that and other differences about these Persons or Things, see my Notes on 2 Sam. 23.

12 And after him was Eleazar the son of Dodo the Ahohite, who was one of the three mighties.

13 He was with David at ‖ Pasdammim, and there the Philistins were gathered together to battel, where was a parcel of ground full of barley, and the people fled from before the Philistins.

‖ Or, Ephesdammim, 1 Sam. 17. 1.

14 And they ‖ set themselves in the midst of that parcel, and delivered it, and slew the Philistins, and the LORD saved them by a great ‖ deliverance.

‖ Or, stood.
‖ Or, salvation.

15 Now ‖ three of the thirty captains * went down to the rock to David, into the cave of Adullam, and the host of the Philistins encamped in the valley of Raphaim.

‖ Or, three captains over the thirty.

16 And David was then in the hold, and the Philistins ‖ garison was then at Beth-lehem.

‖ Or, deputy.

17 And David longed and said, O that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, that is at the gate.

18 And the three brake through the host of the Philistins, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David. But David would not drink of it, but poured it out to the LORD,

19 And said, My God forbid it me, that I should do this thing, shall I drink the blood of these men, † that have put their lives in jeopardy? for with the jeopardy of their lives they brought it: therefore he would not drink it. These things did these three mightiest i.

i Heb. these three mighties, to wit, last mentioned, whereof one was Abishai, v. 20. For the Acts of two of the first three are here passed over, being recorded 2 Sam. 23.

20 And Abishai the brother of Joab, he was chief of the three: for lifting up his spear against three hundred, he slew them k, and had a name among the three.

k He vanquished them all, and slew a great number of them; though it be not said that he slew them all at one time, as it is said of Jashobeam above v. 11.

21 * Of the three he was more honourable than the two, for he was their captain, howbeit he attained not unto the first three l.

* 2 Sam. 23. 19, &c.

l He did not equal them in Valiant Exploits.

22 Benajah the son of Jehojada, the son of a valiant man of Kabzeel, † who had done many acts: he slew two lion-like men of Moab: also he went down, and slew a lion in a pit in a snowy day.

† Heb. great of deeds.

24 These things did Benajah the son of Jehojada, and had the name m among the three mighties.

m Or,

m Or, had a name, i. e. was greatly reputed: For though he did not equal Abishai, one of these three, as appears by v. 20, 21. yet he did excell the third of them, and all the thirty here following.

33 Azmaveth the Baharumite, Eliahba the Shaalbonite, 34 The sons of Hashem p the Gizonite, Jonathan the son of Shage the Hararite, p Or Jashem, to wit, Jonathan here following, and Shammah here omitted, but expressed, 2 Sam. 23. 32, 33.

35 Ahiam the son of Sacar the Hararite, Eliphal the son of Ur, 36 Hepher the Mecherathite, Ahijah the Pelonite, 37 Hezro the Carmelite, Naarai the son of Ezbai,

‖ Or, the Haggerite.

38 Joel the brother of Nathan q, Mibhar ‖ the son of Haggeri, q Either 1. the same who is called Jaal the son of Nathan of Zobah, being possibly his brother by Birth and Nature, and called his Son by adoption or right of succession to his Estate: or called his brother at large for his near Kinsman, and his son for his Nephew: Or 2. Another, who, upon the death of the former, was put in his stead.

39 Zelek the Ammonite, Naharai the Berothite, the armour-bearer of Joab the son of Zeruiah, 40 Ira the Ithrite, Gareb the Ithrite,

41 Uriah the Hittite r, Zabad the son of Ahlai, r The last of that Catalogue in 2 Sam. 23. 39. But here some others are added to the Number, because though they were not of the Thirty, yet they were Men of great Valour and Renown amongst Davids Commanders.

42 Adina the son of Shiza, the Reubenite, a captain of the Reubenites, and thirty s with him.

s Thirty Captains who were under him as their Colonel.

43 Hanan the son of Maachah, and Joshaphat the Mithnite, 44 Uzziah the Ashterathite, Shama and Jehiel the sons of Hothan the Aroerite t, t So called possibly because his Station and Quarters were upon the River Aroer beyond Jordan, being placed there for the Defence of those Parts.

‖ Or, Shimrite.

45 Jediael the ‖ son of Shimri, and Joha his brother, the Tirzite, 46 Eliel the Mahavite, and Jeribai, and Joshaviah, the sons of Elnaam, and Ithmah the Moabite u, u So called either because he was by Birth a Moabite, though now proselyted to the True Religion: or from some Eminent Service done by him against the Moabites, as among the Romans Scipio was called Asiatick and African, because of his great Atchievments and Victories over those Parts and People.

47 Eliel, and Obed, and Jasiel the Mesobaite.

CHAP. XII.

1 NOw * these are they that came to David to Ziklag, † while he yet kept himself close a, because of Saul the son of Kish: and they were among the mighty men, helpers of the war.

* 1 Sam. 27. 2.
† Heb. being shut up.

a Or, was shut up, or shut out, from his own Land and People; for he speaks not of that time when he was shut up, and hid himself in Caves in the Land of Judah, but when he was at Ziklag.

2 They were armed with bows, and could use both the right hand and the left b, in hurling stones and shooting arrows out of a bow, even of Sauls brethren of Benjamin c.

b With like nimbleness and certainty. Compare Judg. 3. 15. & 20. 16. c i. e. Of Sauls own Tribe: who were moved hereunto by Gods Spirit and by the Conscience of their Duty to David, to whom God had given the Crown in reversion; and by their Observation of Gods departure from Saul, and of his special presence with David, and his gracious providence for him.

3 The chief was Ahiezer, then Joash, the sons of ‖ Shemaah the Gibeathite, and Jeziel, and Pelet, the sons of Azmaveth, and Berachah, and Jehu the Antothite.

‖ Or, Hasmaah.

4 And Ismaiah the Gibeonite, a mighty man among the thirty, and over the thirty d, and Jeremiah, and Jahaziel, and Johanan, and Jozabad the Gederathite, d i. e. Who came attended with 30 valiant Benjamites, and was their Leader and Commander.

5 Eluzai and Jerimoth, and Bealiah, and Shemariah, and Shephatiah the Haruphite, 6 Elkanah, and Jesiah, and Azareel, and Joezer, and Jashobeam, the Korhites.

7 And Joelah, and Zebadiah the sons of Jeroham of Gedor.

8 And of the Gadites there separated themselves e unto David into the hold to the wilderness f, men of might, and men † of war, fit for the battel, that could handle shield and buckler: whose faces were like the faces of lions g, and were † as swift as the roes upon the mountains h.

† Heb. of the host.

† Heb. as the roes upon the mountains to make haste.

e From Saul to whom they had hitherto adhered; and from their Brethren of their own Tribe who yet maintained Sauls cause; and from their Families and the places where they lived, from whom they went to David. f Or, into the hold of the wilderness; i. e. Either to the Cave of Adullam or Engedi: or rather to Ziklag, as appears from v. 1. which was in the Wilderness of Judah, which is here called the hold, or the fortress, which name is also given to the City of David, 1 Chron. 11. 7. the Hebrew word being the same both here and there. g Who were full of Courage, and by the Majesty and Fierceness of their Countenances terrified their Adversaries. h As their very Looks daunted their Enemies and put them to flight, so they could easily pursue and overtake and destroy them in their Flight.

9 Ezer the first, Obadiah the second, Eliab the third,

10 Mishmannah the fourth, Jeremiah the fifth,

11 Attai the sixth, Eliel the seventh,

12 Johanan the eighth, Elzabud the ninth,

13 Jeremiah the tenth, Machbanai the eleventh.

14 These were the sons of Gad, captains of the host: ‖ one of the least was over an hundred, and the greatest over a thousand i.

‖ Heb. Or, one that was least could resist an hundred, and the greatest a thousand.

i Not that they brought now so many men with them, but either 1. they had hitherto been Captains or Colonels under Saul, or in the established Militia or Bands of their Tribe. Or, 2. they were so afterwards under David, who for their Valour and Fidelity thus advanced them.

15 These

15 These are they that went over Jordan k in the first month, when it had † overflown all his banks l, and they put to flight all them of the vallies m, both toward the east, and toward the west n.

k To wit, in Sauls time, when, it seems, the Enemies of the Israelites had made an Inroad and done some Mischiefs to the Israelites beyond Jordan, to whose Help these then came. l As it commonly did about that time. See Jos. 3. 15. & 4. 18. Jer. 49. 19. This is noted either as a Description of the Time when this was done, it being usual with Historians to note the Circumstances of great Actions: or as an Aggravation of the Fact. And possibly these being Men of great Nimbleness and Dexterity, did swim over Jordan through their ardent Desire to help their Brethren and to fight with their Enemies. m i. e. The People that lived in the Valleys or Deserts beyond Jordan, who, as it seems, when Saul was engaged against the Philistins, took that Advantage to fall upon the Israelites beyond Jordan. n Either 1. the People that lived more Eastward and remote from Jordan, and those who lived more Westward or nearer to it. Or 2. they made them fly several ways, some Eastward, some Westward, as they saw the way open for them. See Deut. 28. 7, 25.

16 And there came ‖ of the Children of Benjamin and Judah to the hold o unto David.

o To the same Hold mentioned v. 8. where see the Notes.

17 And David went out † to meet them, and answered p and said unto them, If ye be come peaceably unto me to help me, mine heart shall † be knit unto you q: but if ye be come to betray me to mine enemies r, seeing there is no ‖ wrong in mine hands s, the God of our fathers look theron, and rebuke it t.

‖ Or, violence.

p i. e. Spake; as that word is oft used in Scripture even of him that speaketh first. q I shall ever esteem and love you, and shew this by my Actions to you hereafter. r Which your Number, and Quality, and near Relation to Saul gives me some cause to suspect. s I have done no Injury to Saul, nor to you; but have spared him and you when it was in my Power to have destroyed you. t To wit, by his Hand and Power manifested for me and against you for your Perfidiousness.

18 Then † the spirit came upon Amasai u, who was chief of the captains, and he said, Thine are we, David, and on thy side, thou son of Jesse; peace, peace be unto thee, and peace be to thine helpers, for thy God helpeth thee x. Then David received them: and made them captains of the band y.

† Heb. the spirit clothed Amasai. See Judg. 6. 34.

u Not only saving Graces, but other heroical and generous Motions are ascribed to Gods Spirit, which here stirred up in him a more than ordinary greatness and presentness of Mind and Resolution. x We have observed Gods singular and gracious Care of thee and Kindness to thee, and if we should oppose thee, we should be Fighters against God and his Word and Providence. y i. e. Of those Forces which they brought with them. Or, he put them among the heads or officers of his band; i. e. He gave them Commands either now in his small Army, each according to his Quality: or afterwards when he was advanced to the Kingdom: for it is not here expressed when he did this.

19 And there fell some of Manasseh to David (when he came with the Philistins against Saul to battel, but they helped them not z; for the lords of the Philistins, upon advisement, sent him away, saying, * He will fall to his master Saul, † to the jeopardy of our heads.)

* 1 Sam. 29. 4.
† Heb. on our heads.

z i. e. The Manassites here named, and the rest of Davids Forces to whom they had now joyned themselves, did not help the Philistins in Battel, as David had pretended to do.

20 As he went to Ziklag a, there fell to him of Manasseh, Adnah, and Jozabad, and Jediael, and Michael, and Jozabad, and Elihu, and Zilthai, captains of the thousands that were of Manasseh.

a As he returned from the Camp of the Philistins to Ziklag, 1 Sam. 29. 11.

21 And * they helped David ‖ against the band of the rovers b: for they were all mighty men of valour c, and were captains in the host d.

* 1 Sam. 30. 1, 9, 10.
‖ Or, with a band.

b i. e. Against the Amalekites who had taken and burnt Ziklag, whom David and his 600 Men were now pursuing, whom these accompanied in that Expedition. Or, with a band or troop of Souldiers, which they brought along with them to Davids Assistance. c Therefore they readily came to Davids help. d Therefore they brought others along with them.

22 For at that time e day by day, there came to David to help him, until it was a great host, like the host of God f.

e i. e. While he was at Ziklag, and in his March to Hebron, and principally at Hebron, as the next Verse explains it. f i. e. Innumerable like the Stars or Angels, both which are called Gods hosts. Others, the host of God, i. e. a very great Host, great things being so called, as Cedars, Mountains, &c. of God. But the particle of likeness here added excludes this Sence, for it had been very improper to say, a great host like a great host, i. e. like it self.

23 And these are the numbers of the ‖ bands, that were ready armed to the war, and * came to David to Hebron, to turn the kingdom of Saul to him, * according to the word of the LORD g.

‖ Or, captains, or, men. Heb. heads.
* 2 Sam. 2. 3, 4.
* 1 Sam. 16. 1, 3.

g Whereby he had settled the Crown upon David after Sauls death.

24 The children of Judah that bare shield and spear, were six thousand and eight hundred h ready ‖ armed to the war.

‖ Or, prepared.

h Who came thither in the name of all their Brethren; for that whole Tribe stuck to David at his very first coming to Hebron.

25 Of the children of Simeon, mighty men of valour for the war, seven thousand and one hundred.

26 Of the children of Levi, four thousand and six hundred.

27 And Jehojada was the leader of † the Aaronites i, and with him were three thousand and seven hundred.

i Not the high-Priest, for that was Abiathar, 1 Sam. 23. 6: but one of Eminent place under him, and who had a great Power and interest among his Brethren.

28 And * Zadok k, a young man mighty of valour, and of his fathers house twenty and two captains l.

* 2 Sam. 8. 17.

k Thought to be the same who was made High-Priest in Solomons time, 1 Kings 2. 35. which if true, he was very young at this time. l Whom he brought along with him.

29 And of the children of Benjamin, the † kindred of Saul, three thousand: for hitherto the † * greatest part of them had kept the ward of the house of Saul m.

† Heb. brethren.
† Heb. a multitude of them.
* 2 Sam. 2. 8, 9.

m i. e. Endeavoured to keep the Crown in their own Tribe, and in Sauls Family.

30 And of the children of Ephraim, twenty thousand and eight hundred mighty men of valour, † famous throughout the house of their fathers.

† Heb. men of names.

31 And of the half tribe of Manasseh n, eighteen thousand, which were expressed by name o, to come and make David King.

n Which was within Jordan: for of the other half beyond Jordan he speaks v. 37. o Which were not ashamed nor afraid publickly to own David first by putting their Names to some Paper presented to them for that purpose; and then by marching to him to Hebron.

32 And of the children of Issachar, which were men that had understanding of the times p, to know what Israel ought to do: the heads of them were two hundred, and all their brethren were at their commandment.

p Either 1. skill in the Stars and several Seasons and Changes of the Air; which might be of good use in Husbandry, to which this Tribe was addicted, Gen. 49. 14 Deut. 33. 18. Or rather 2. Political Prudence to discern and embrace the fit Seasons for all Actions, as appears 1. from the following words, to know what not only their own Tribe but all Israel ought to do. 2. By the great Authority and Command which they had over all their Brethren upon this account, as it here follows. 3. Because this is so considerable a Circumstance in all Humane, and especially in publick Affairs, that the Success or Disappointment of them depends very much upon the right or wrong Timing of them, and therefore this is a very fit expression to signifie their great Prudence. And particularly they shewed this point of their Wisdom at this time; for as they had adhered to Saul whilest he lived, as knowing the time was not yet come for David to take possession of the Kingdom: and as they could not joyn themselves to David, whilst Abner lived, and was potent, and had the Command of the other Tribes wherewith they were encompassed, so as soon as he was dead and they had opportunity to declare themselves, they owned David for their King. 4. By the like use of this Phrase, Esth. 1. 13.

‖ Or, rangers of battel, or, ranged in battel. ‖ Or, set the battel in aray. † Heb. without a heart and a heart.

33 Of Zebulun such as went forth to battel, ‖ expert in war, with all instruments of war, fifty thousand q; which could keep rank r; they were † not of double heart s.

* q For this Tribe being next to that of Issachar, which was generally well-affected to David, were probably very much swayed by their Opinion and Advice. r Or, which were disposed or prepared, or ordered for battel or to fight for David, if occasion so required. s Heb. without an heart and an heart: which may relate either 1. to the whole Body of them, they were all of one heart and one mind towards David, not some for him and others secretly against him, but all with one soul and one consent adhered to him. Or, 2. To the same particular persons, they were each of them sincerely Loyal to David, and did not dissemble with David, pretending to be for him, whilst in their hearts they favoured Sauls Family; which possibly some of those who came to Hebron did. Or this is particularly noted of this Tribe, because they lay under some suspicion in this matter; as also some of the other Tribes did; and therefore the like testimony is given to all of them, v. 38.

34 And of Naphtali a thousand captains, and with them, with shield and spear, thirty and seven thousand.

35 And of the Danites, expert in war, twenty and eight thousand and six hundred.

36 And of Asher, such as went forth to battel, ‖ expert in war, forty thousand.

‖ Or, keeping their rank.

37 And on the other side of Jordan, of the Reubenite, and the Gadite, and of the half-tribe of Manasseh, with all manner of instruments of war for the battel, an hundred and twenty thousand.

38 All these men of war, that could keep rank, came with a perfect heart to Hebron, to make David king over all Israel: and all the rest also of Israel were of one heart t to make David King.

t To wit, after the death of Abner and Ishboshth.

39 And there they were with David, three days, eating and drinking: for their brethren had prepared for them.

40 Moreover, they that were nigh them u, even unto Issachar, and Zebulun, and Naphtali x, brought bread on asses, and on camels, and on mules, and on oxen y, and ‖ meat, meal, cakes of figs, and bunches of raisins, and wine, and oil, and oxen, and sheep abundantly: for there was joy in Israel z.

‖ Or, victual of meal.

u That lived not far from Hebron, the place where they now were. x This is added by way of amplification and explication, to shew that he did not understand this of those Israelites who lived only in the Neighbourhood of Hebron, but of those that lived at some distance, yet were nearer to Hebron, than some of the other Tribes here named. y Which, though not commonly used in this manner, not fit for such Purposes, now they so used, because the quantity of Provisions which they brought was very great, as the Numbers of the People at Hebron were, and Horses they had few in Israel, and most of their Asses, and Camels, and Mules here mentioned probably were used to carry divers Men, or Women and Children, to this great, and publick, and happy Solemnity. z Partly because their Civil wars were wholly ended, and they were all united under one King: and partly because they had now a King of Eminent Valour, and Piety, and Felicity, and therefore expected to be saved from all their Enemies and Calamities, as they were.

CHAP. XIII.

1 AND David consulted with the captains of thousands, and hundreds, and with every leader a.

a Or, Governour, or Elder of the People.

2 And David said unto all the congregation of Israel b, If it seem good unto you, and that it be of the LORD our God c, † let us send abroad d unto our brethren every where, that are left e in all the land of Israel, and with them also to the Priests and Levites, which are † in their cities and suburbs, that they may gather themselves unto us.

† Heb. let us break forth and send. † Heb. in the cities of their suburbs.

b i. e. Unto all the People then assembled with him at Hebron. This Story is mentioned in another place in 2 Sam. 5. & 6. even after the taking of Jerusalem and the two first Fights with the Philistins, whereas here it is placed before the latter, and there is no mention here of the former. The matter may be thus conceived: There being now a great and general concourse of all Israel, and David being now Established in his Throne with universal consent and applause, he begins with God, and his first Thoughts and Cares are about Religion and the Ark, then the great Instrument and Ornament of it, and takes the Opportunity of this Assembly to desire their Advice and Concurrence with him in it, that the Ark might be brought either to Hebron, which then was the Royal City; or to Jerusalem, which, as probably he told them, he was resolved to besiege, and doubted not, by Gods Helps to take. After this was proposed by the King and accepted by the People, this great Assembly was dismissed, onely some of them David reserved to go with him against Jerusalem, which accordingly he did, and succeeded in his Enterprize, as is related, 1 Sam. 5. But before this Resolution could be executed, the Philistins came and fought twice with David, as is related 1 Sam. 5. 17. &c. and here ch. 14. 8. &c. And after they were repulsed with great loss and shame, David sets upon the Execution of that which before he had resolved, and in order to it calls another General Assembly of the People. c i. e. If this Translation of the Ark be pleasing to God, which I purpose to enquire by the Urim after the manner, and to act accordingly. d Heb. let us break out and send, i. e. let us send Messengers speedily and universally to the several Tribes. We are now in some sort pent up in a Corner of the Land in Hebron, but let us break up the Assembly and disperse our selves and send far and near about this Work. It is a Metaphor from the Sea or Rivers which, when the Banks are broken, do suddenly overflow the whole adjoyning Country. e By which word he minds them of the great Desolations and Destructions which God for their sins had hitherto made among them, and therefore adviseth that Remnant whom God had so graciously saved in and from those dreadful Ruines, that they would more seriously set themselves to seek God than they had formerly done.

3 And let us † bring again the Ark of our God to us: for we enquired not at it f in the days of Saul g.

† Heb. bring about.

f The Ark was then neglected; and the generality of the People either lived in the gross neglect of the solemn Worship of God; or contented themselves with going to Gibeon and offering Sacrifices there, not caring, though the Ark, the Soul of the Tabernacle, was in another place. g So it was in the days of Samuel; but it is rather charged upon Saul than him: partly because Samuel was exercised with continual Wars or expectation of Wars with the Philistins all the time of his Regency, and therefore wanted the Opportunity to bring back the Ark, which Saul had and neglected: partly because Samuel took care to stir up and maintain Religion among them by other Means, and in an extraordinary manner; whereas this was but one Branch of Sauls Impiety, and was joyned with a contempt of all Religion, as the History of his Life shews: and partly because it was more proper to accuse himself and the present Generation who were guilty of this neglect, than to rake into the Ashes of their deceased Progenitors, and lay his Charge against those who were dead and gone some good while since.

4 And all the congregation said that they would do so: for the thing was right in the eyes of all the people h.

h Their Consciences smiting them for their former negligence, and being fully convinced of the Piety and Reasonableness of this Proposition.

5 So * David gathered all Israel i together, from Shihor of Egypt k, even unto the entring of Hemath, to bring the Ark of God from Kirjath-jearim.

* 1 Sam. 7. 1. 2 Sam. 6. 2.

* i i. e. All the chosen Men of Israel, as it is phrased, 2 Sam. 6. 1 their Elders and Representatives. k Of which see Numb. 34. 5. Jos. 13. 3. 1 Chron. 13. 5.

6 And David went up, and all Israel to * Baalah, that is, to Kirjath-jearim l, which belonged to Judah, to bring up thence the ark of God the LORD, that dwelleth between the cherubims, whose Name is called on it m.

* Josh. 15. 9, 60.

l Which Explication is justified by Jos. 15.9.60. where the same City is called by both Names. Obj. They are said to go from this Baalt, 2 Sam. 6. 2. Ans. 1. Some Learned Men render that Place also to Baale, the particle Mem being sometimes used for to amongst the Hebrews, and especially amongst the Arabians. 2. Both were true; they first went to Baale for the Ark, as it is here said, and then went from Baale to bring or to carry (for the word signifies either) or carrying from thence the Ark of God, as is there related. But of this and other difficulties or differences between these two Relations, see the Notes on 2 Sam. 6.

† Heb. made the ark to ride.

7 And they † carried the ark of God in a new cart out of the house of Abinadab, and Uzza and Ahio drave the cart.

† Heb. songs.

8 And David and all Israel played before God with all their might, and with † singing and with harps, and with psalteries, and with timbrels, and with cymbals, and with trumpets.

‖ Called Nachin, 2 Sam. 6.6.
‖ Or, shook it.

9 And when they came to the threshing-floor of ‖ Chidon, Uzza put forth his hand to hold the ark, for the oxen ‖ stumbled.

* Numb. 4.15.

10 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Uzza, and he smote him, * because he put his hand to the ark: and there he died before God.

‖ That is, breach of Uzza.

11 And David was displeased, because the LORD had made a breach upon Uzza: wherefore that place is called ‖ Perez-Uzza, to this day.

† Heb. removed.

12 And David was afraid of God that day, saying, How shall I bring the ark of God home to me?

13 So David † brought not the ark home to himself to the city of David, but carried it aside into the house of Obed-edom the Gittite.

* As Ch. 26.5.

14 And the ark of God remained with the family of Obed-edom in his house three months. And the LORD blessed * the house of Obed-edom, and all that he had.

CHAP. XIV.

* 2 Sam. 5.11, &c.

1 NOw * Hiram king of Tyre sent messengers to David, and timber of cedars, with masons and carpenters to build him an house.

2 And David perceived a that the LORD had confirmed him king over Israel, for his kingdom was lift up on high, because of his people Israel.

a By the Remembrance of Gods Promise, and his Providence complying with it, &c. But of this and the following Verses, see the Notes on 2 Sam. 8. 12, &c. where the same History is related.

† Heb. yet.

3 And David took † mo wives at Jerusalem: and David begat mo sons and daughters.

4 Now these are the names of his children which he had in Jerusalem, Shammua, and Shobab, Nathan, and Solomon,

5 And Ibhar, and Elishua, and Elpalet,

6 And Noga, and Nepheg, and Japhia,

‖ Or, Eliada, 2 Sam. 5. 16.

7 And Elishama, and ‖ Beliada, and Eliphalet.

* 2 Sam. 5.17.

8 And when the Philistins heard that * David was anointed king over all Israel, all the Philistins went up to seek David, and David heard of it, and went out against them.

9 And the Philistins came and spread themselves in the valley of Rephaim.

10 And David enquired of God, saying, Shall I go up against the Philistins? and wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? and the LORD said unto him, Go up, for I will deliver them into thine hand.

‖ That is, a place of breaches.

11 So they came up to Baal-perazim, and David smote them there. Then David said, God hath broken in upon mine enemies by mine hand, like the breaking forth of waters; therefore they called the name of that place ‖ Baal-perazim.

12 And when they had left their gods there, David gave a commandment, and they were burnt with fire.

‖ Or, that.
‖ Or, of Rephaim, v. 9.

13 And the Philistins yet again spread themselves abroad in the ‖ valley ‖.

14 Therefore David enquired again of God, and God said unto him, Go not up after them: turn away from them, * and come upon them, over against the mulberry trees.

* 2 Sam. 5.23.

15 And it shall be, when thou shalt hear a sound of going in the tops of the mulberry-trees, that then thou shalt go out to battel: for God is gone forth before thee, to smite the host of the Philistins.

16 David therefore did as God commanded him: and they smote the host of the Philistins from Gibeon even to Gazer.

17 And the fame of David went out into all lands b, and the LORD brought the fear of him upon all nations.

b i. e. Into all the neighbouring Countries.

CHAP. XV.

1 AND David made him houses a in the city of David, and prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched for it a tent b.

a A Palace consisting of many Houses or Apartments for his several Wives and Children. b Qu. Why did he not first fetch the tabernacle of Moses from Gibeon, where it now was, that so he might put the Ark into its proper place? Ans. Partly because he had no motion or direction from God concerning the Tabernacle, as he had concerning the Ark: and partly because he thought the Tabernacle was not so necessary for that end as formerly, seeing he intended forthwith to set upon the building of the Temple, as appears from chap. 17.

† Heb. it is not to carry the ark of God but for the Levites. * Numb. 2.15. Deut. 31. 9.

2 Then David said, † None ought to carry the * ark of God but the Levites c: for them the LORD hath chosen to carry the ark of God, and to minister unto him for ever d.

c And that upon their Shoulders: of which see Numb. 4.15. & 7. 9. and not in a Cart, as it was before to our great grief and loss. d i. e. So long as the Ark is to be removed, and as that Worship continues.

3 And David gathered all Israel together to Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the LORD unto his place which he had prepared for it.

4 And David assembled the children of Aaron, and the Levites,

‖ Or, kinsmen.

5 Of the sons of Kohath e; Uriel the chief, and his ‖ brethren an hundred and twenty.

e To wit, of Amram or Ibhar, Kohaths Sons, Numb. 3.27. Otherwise Elizaphan, v. 8. and Hebron, v. 9. and Uzziel, v. 10. were Kohaths Children; of which see Exod. 6.17, 18, 22.

6 Of the sons of Merari; Asajah the chief, and his brethren two hundred and twenty.

7 Of the sons of Gershom; Joel the chief, and his brethren an hundred and thirty.

8 Of the sons of Elizaphan; Shemajah the chief, and his brethren two hundred.

9 Of the sons of Hebron; Eliel the chief, and his brethren fourscore.

10 Of the sons of Uzziel; Amminadab the chief, and his brethren an hundred and twelve.

11 And David called for Zadok, and Abiathar the priests f, and for the Levites, for Uriel, Asajah, and Joel, Shemajah, and Eliel, and Amminadab;

f i. e. The Chief Priests, Abiathar the High-Priest, and Zadok the second Priest, see Numb. 3.32.

12 And said unto them, Ye are the chief of the fathers of the Levites: sanctifie your selves g, both ye and your brethren, that ye may bring up the ark of the LORD God of Israel unto the place that I have prepared for it.

g By solemn Purification and Preparation of your selves, both in Soul and Body. See on Exod. 19.10.15.

* 2 Sam. 6.3. Ch. 13. 7.

13 For * because ye did it not at the first h, the LORD our God made a breach upon us, for that we i sought him not after the due order k.

h Because

b Because you did not sanctifie and prepare your selves by solemn Prayer and seeking Counsel from God, and by a serious consideration of Gods Will as to the Manner of carrying it; which it was your Duty more than others to observe and see it executed. i He takes a part of the guilt to himself, because it was his Duty as well as theirs, diligently to read the Law and Word of God, and to see it executed, and their oversight did not excuse his. k According to the Rules which he appointed.

14 So the Priests and the Levites sanctified themselves, to bring up the ark of the LORD God of Israel.

15 And the children of the Levites l bare the ark of God upon their shoulders, with the staves thereon, as * Moses commanded, according to the word of the LORD.

* Exod. 25. 14. Numb. 4. 15. & 7. 9.

16 And David spake to the chief of the Levites, to appoint their brethren to be the singers, with instruments of musick, psalteries, and harps, and cymbals, † sounding, by lifting up the voice with joy.

† Heb. causing to hear.

17 So the Levites appointed * Heman the son of Joel: and of his brethren, * and Asaph the son of Berechiah, and of the sons of Merari their brethren, * Ethan the son of Kushajah.

* Ch. 6. 33. * Ch. 6. 39. * Ch. 6. 44.

18 And with them their brethren of the second degree m, Zechariah, Ben, and Jaaziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Maasiah, and Mattithiah, and Eliphalet, and Mikniah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel the porters n.

m The first rank or degree of Sacred Musicians being those three famous Persons named v. 17. next unto whom were these here named. n Who were to keep the Doors of the Tabernacle and Courts, but withal were instructed in Musick and Singing, that when they were free from Attendance upon their proper Office, they might not be idle nor unprofitable persons in Gods House.

19 So the singers, Heman, Asaph, and Ethan, were appointed to sound with cymbals of brass.

20 And Zechariah o, and Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, and Eliab, and Maasiah, and Benaiah, with Psalteries on Alamoth p.

o In this Catalogue Ben is omitted, who was mentioned v. 18. Yet others think him to be the same who is called Azariah, v. 21. But Ben might be some other person, who was indeed appointed for this Work, as is related v. 17, 18. and yet he might be taken off by death or sickness, or some sudden and extraordinary Accident which hindred his Execution of the Place and Work allotted for him, which might force the Chief of the Levites to appoint some other in his stead, when they came to put their Institution in practice, as here they did. p Or, with (as that particle is elsewhere used) Alamoth, which is thought to be the name of an Instrument of Musick; or of a certain Tune, or Note, or part in Musick. The certain signification of it is not now known, nor is it necessary for us to know it. And the like may be said of Sheminith, v. 21.

21 And Mattithiah, and Eliphaleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, and Azaziah, with harps ‖ on the Sheminith q to excel r.

‖ Or, on the eighth to oversee.

q See on v. 20. r Which word may be here added to note the Excellency of that Instrument, or Note, or part of Musick; or that there was a greater Extension or Elevation of the Voice than in the former.

22 And Chenaniah chief of the Levites ‖ was for † song s: he instructed about the song, because he was skilful.

‖ Or, was for the carriage: he instructed about the carriage. † Heb. lifting up, or, prophecy.

s Heb. Was for lifting up, either 1. of the Ark: he was for carriage of the Ark, being appointed to instruct or direct the time and manner of carrying the Ark, and when they should make a stand or a change in the Bearers. Or rather 2. of the Voice: he was the Moderator of the Musick, instructing them when and how to lift up their Voices, or change their Notes, or make their Stops, which best agrees with the following Reason, because he was skilfull: For this required far more Skill than the carriage of the Ark; which any man of common discretion could easily govern; and with v. 27. where this same Chenaniah is joyned with the Singers.

23 And Berechiah, and Elkanah were door-keepers for the ark t.

t They were appointed to keep the Door of the Tent in which the Ark was to be put and kept, that no unallowed person might press in and touch it; and in like manner they were to attend upon the Ark in the Way, and to guard it from the press and touch of prophane Hands; for which End these two went before the Ark, as their other two Brethren mentioned in the close of v. 24. came after it, that so it might be guarded on all sides; which, how necessary it was to be done, sufficiently appears from the danger of coming too near the Ark, or to look into it, which was exemplified in the Bethshemites, 1 Sam. 6. 19.

24 And Shebaniah, and Jehoshaphat, and Nathaneel, and Amasai, and Zechariah, and Benaiah, and Eliezer the priests * did blow with the trumpets before the ark of God: and Obed-edom and Jehiah were door-keepers for the ark.

* Num. 10. 8.

25 So * David and the elders of Israel, and the captains over thousands, went to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD, out of the house of Obed-edom with joy.

* 2 Sam. 6. 12, 13, &c.

26 And it came to pass when God helped the Levites u that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, that they offered seven bullocks, and seven rams.

u Either 1. by giving them strength to carry their Burden: or rather 2. by encouraging them in their Work with some comfortable Sign of his Presence with them, and approbation of their work and manner of carrying the Ark. When they saw that he did not cut off any of the persons employed, as he had done before, but spared and favoured them; which they perceived when they had gone six paces, as appears by 2 Sam. 6. 13.

27 And David was clothed with a robe of fine linen x, and all the Levites that bare the ark, and the singers, and Chenaniah the master of the † song with the singers. David also had upon him an ephod of linen.

† Carriage, v. 22.

x i. e. With a linen Ephod, as it is explained in the close of this verse, where this Circumstance is repeated because it was a notable and unusual thing for David who was no Levite to wear a Levitical Garment. See of this and the following verses the Notes on 2 Sam. 6. 14, 15, 16.

28 Thus all Israel brought up the ark of the covenant of the LORD with shouting, and with sound of the cornet, and with trumpets, and with cymbals, making a noise with psalteries, and harps.

29 And it came to pass as the ark of the covenant of the LORD came to the city of David, that Michal the daughter of Saul, looking out at a window, saw king David dancing and playing, and she despised him in her heart.

CHAP. XVI.

1 SO * they brought back the ark of God a, and set it in the midst of the tent that David had pitched for it: and they offered burnt-sacrifices and peace-offerings before God.

* Sam. 6. 17.

a Of these three first verses see on 2 Sam. 6. 17, 18, 19.

2 And when David had made an end of offering the burnt-offerings, and the peace-offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the LORD.

3 And he dealt to every one of Israel, both man and woman, to every one a loaf of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a flagon of wine.

4 And he appointed certain of the Levites to minister before the ark of the LORD, and to record, and to thank, and praise the LORD God of Israel:

5 Asaph the chief, and next to him Zechariah, Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel † with psalteries and with harps: But Asaph made a sound with cymbals.

† Heb. with instruments of psalteries and harps.

6 Benaiah also and Jahaziel the priests, with trumpets continually before the ark of the covenant of God.

7 Then on that day David ‖ delivered first this psalm b to thank the LORD, into the hand of Asaph and his brethren:

‖ Or, appointed to serve the Lord by the hand of Asaph.

h Whereby it is implyed that after this he delivered many other Psalms successively into their Hands, to be sung by them to the praise of God in his Publick Service. See 2 Sam. 23. 1. 2 Chron. 29, 30. As for the Matter of this Psalm, I shall defer the Explication of it till I come to the Book of Psalms, where we shall find it in the same words, in Psal. 96. & 105.

* Psal. 105. 1.

8 * Give thanks unto the LORD, call upon his name: make known his deeds among the people.

9 Sing unto him, sing psalms unto him, talk ye of all his wondrous works.

10 Glory ye in his holy Name, let the heart of them rejoyce that seek the LORD.

11 Seek the LORD and his strength, seek his face continually.

12 Remember his marvellous works that he hath done, his wonders, and the judgments of his mouth.

13 O ye seed of Israel his servant, ye children of Jacob his chosen ones.

14 He is the LORD our God, his judgments are in all the earth.

15 Be ye mindful always of his covenant: the word which he commanded to a thousand generations.

* Gen. 17. 2. & 26. 3. & 28. 13.

16 Even of the * covenant which he made with Abraham, and of his oath unto Isaac:

17 And hath continued the same to Jacob for a law, and to Israel for an everlasting covenant, 18 Saying, Unto thee will I give the land of Canaan, † the lot of your inheritance.

† Heb. the cord.

† Heb. men of number.

19 When ye were but † few, * even a few, and strangers in it;

* Gen. 34. 30.

20 And when they went from nation to nation, and from one Kingdom to another people.

21 He suffered no man to do them wrong: yea, he * reproved kings for their sakes,

* Gen. 12. 17. & 20. 3.

22 Saying, * Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm.

Exod. 7. 15. * Psal. 105. 15. * Psal. 96. 1.

23 * Sing unto the LORD all the earth: shew forth from day to day his salvation.

24 Declare his glory among the heathen: his marvellous works among all nations.

25 For great is the LORD, and greatly to be praised: he also is to be feared above all gods.

* Lev. 19. 4.

26 For all the * gods of the people are idols: but the LORD made the heavens.

27 Glory and honour are in his presence: strength and gladness are in his place.

28 Give unto the LORD, ye kindreds of the people: give unto the LORD glory and strength.

29 Give unto the LORD the glory due unto his Name: bring an offering, and come before him, worship the LORD in the beauty of holiness.

30 Fear before him, all the earth: the world also shall be stable, that it be not moved.

31 Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoyce: and let men say among the nations, The LORD reigneth.

32 Let the sea roar, and the fulness thereof: let the fields rejoyce, and all that is therein.

33 Then shall the trees of the wood sing out at the presence of the LORD, because he cometh to judge the earth.

* Psal. 107. 1. & 118. 1. & 136. 1.

34 * O give thanks to the LORD, for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

35 And say ye, Save us, O God of our salvation, and gather us together, and deliver us from the heathen c, that we may give thanks to thy holy name, and glory in thy praise.

c This might seem an improper and unseasonable Prayer for Davids time, when the Israelites were not yet scattered amongst the Heathen, but indeed it was not so: partly because they had already been sadly divided by a Civil War among themselves, and though they were now externally and visibly united under David, yet he might justly think that there were some who yet retained in their Hearts their old Leven, their hatred of him and their affection to Saul, which might hereafter break forth when Occasion was offered, as it did, 2 Sam. 16. 8. and therefore he justly prays that they may be gathered and united together in hearty Love as well as in outward Shew: and partly because this Psalm or Prayer was made by David for the use of the Church not only in that present time, but in future Ages, in which David foresaw by the Spirit of Prophecy, or by consideration of those Ancient and Sacred Predictions, Deut. 31. & 32. That the Israelites would one time or other forsake God, and for their Apostacy be dispersed among the Heathens; when they should have great and particular need of this Prayer.

36 Blessed be the LORD God of Israel for ever and ever: and all * the people said, Amen, and praised the LORD.

* Deut. 27. 15.

37 So he left there d, before the ark of the covenant of the LORD, Asaph and his brethren, to minister before the ark continually, as every days work required.

d i. e. He appointed them their Work and Station there.

38 And Obed-edom, with their brethren, threescore and eight: Obed-edom also the son of Jeduthun, and Hosah e to be porters:

e Or, door-keepers, as the same Hebrew Word is rendred, ch. 15. 23, 24. of which see the Note on v. 23.

39 And Zadok the priest f, and his brethren the priests, before the tabernacle of the LORD, * in the high place that was at Gibeon,

* 1 Kin. 3. 4.

f Not the High-priest, but the second, and the Chief Priest at Gibeon, where the Famous Tabernacle and Altar made by Moses still were, 1 Chron. 21. 29. 2 Chron. 1. 3. where also the Ordinary Sacrifices were offered, and the stated and publick Worship of God was performed, as it here follows, for which the Priests were placed there; as the Extraordinary Worship was before the Ark upon great Occasions, as when God was consulted, which was to be done before the Ark, and by the High-Priest, Exod. 28. 12, 20, 21. who now was Abiathar; who therefore abode here with the Ark, when Zadok was left at Gibeon.

40 To offer burnt-offerings unto the LORD, upon the altar of the burnt-offering continually * || morning and evening, and to do according to all that is written in the law of the LORD, which he commanded Israel:

* Exod. 29. 38. Numb. 28. 3. || Heb. in the morning and in the evening.

41 And with them Heman and Jeduthun, and the rest that were chosen, who were expressed by name g, to give thanks to the LORD, because his mercy endureth for ever:

g So exceeding careful was this good King of Gods Worship, that he would have no person employed in it, but such as he appointed to it, and were fit for it.

42 And with them Heman and Jeduthun with trumpets and cymbals, for those that should make a sound, and with musical instruments of God h: and the sons of Jeduthun were † porters.

† Heb. for the gate.

h i. e. Appointed and appropriated to the Worship and Honour of God.

43 And all the people departed every man to his house: and David returned to bless his house.

CHAP. XVII.

1 NOw * it came to pass, a as David sat in his house, that David said to Nathan the prophet, Lo, I dwell in an house of cedars, but the ark of the covenant of the Lord remaineth under curtains.

* 2 Sam. 7. 1, &c.

a This whole Chapter is explained, 2 Sam. 7. where the same things are recorded with very little variation of the Words; which also hath been considered in my Notes upon that Chapter; to which I refer the Reader, taking notice here but of some very few things.

2 Then Nathan said unto David, Do all that is in thine heart, for God is with thee.

3 And it came to pass the same night, that the word of God came to Nathan, saying,

4 Go and tell David my servant, Thus saith the LORD, Thou shalt not build me an house to dwell in.

5 For I have not dwelt in an house since the day that I brought up Israel, unto this day, but † have gone from tent to tent, and from one tabernacle to another.

† have † Heb. have been.

6 Whereſoever I have walked with all Iſrael, ſpake I a word to any of the judges of Iſrael (whom I commanded to feed my people) ſaying, Why have ye not built me an houſe of cedars?

7 Now therefore thus ſhalt thou ſay unto my ſervant David, Thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts, I took thee from the ſheep-cote, even † from following the ſheep, that thou ſhouldeſt be ruler over my people Iſrael:

† Heb. from after.

8 And I have been with thee whitherſoever thou haſt walked, and have cut off all thine enemies from before thee, and have made thee a name like the name of the great men that are in the earth.

9 Alſo I will ordain a place for my people Iſrael, and will plant them, and they ſhall dwell in their place, and ſhall be moved no more, neither ſhall the children of wickedneſs b waſt them any more: (as at the beginning, b Such as are devoted and wholly given up to Wickedneſs, elſewhere called Children of Belial.

‖ Or, as.

10 And ‖ ſince the time that I commanded judges to be over my people Iſrael) moreover, I will ſubdue all thine enemies. Furthermore, I tell thee, that the LORD will build thee an houſe.

11 And it ſhall come to paſs, when thy dayes be expired, that thou muſt go to be with thy fathers, that I will raiſe up thy ſeed after thee, which ſhall be of thy ſons, and I will eſtabliſh his kingdom.

12 He ſhall build me an houſe, and I will eſtabliſh his throne for ever.

* 2 Sam. 7.14.

13 *I will be his father, and he ſhall be my ſon, and I will not take my mercy away from him, as I took it from him that was before thee.

14 But I will ſettle him in mine houſe c, and in my Kingdom d for ever, and his throne ſhall be eſtabliſhed for evermore.

c In my Dwelling-place, either 1. in Jeruſalem, the place where God had put his Name for ever, 2 King. 21. 4,7. 2 Chron. 6.5,6. Compare 1 King. 11.36. & 15. 4. Or, 2. In the Temple, which is more properly and conſtantly called Gods Houſe; and ſo this Expreſſion agrees but very imperfectly with Solomon, or his Succeſſors, who might be ſaid to be ſettled in Gods Houſe, becauſe they were ſettled near it, and in ſome ſort ſet over it, becauſe they were to take care that the Prieſts and others ſhould perform their Offices and Gods Service in it; but ſtrictly and properly agrees onely to Chriſt, to whom alone that Promiſe alſo of an Everlaſting Eſtabliſhment in this Kingdom belongs, as was noted on 2 Sam. 7. And this expreſſion ſeems to be moſt emphatically added to ſignify that that perſon in whom all thoſe Promiſes ſhould be fully and perfectly accompliſhed, to wit, the Meſſias, ſhould be ſettled not onely in the Kings Throne, as others of Davids Succeſſors were, but alſo in Gods Houſe or Temple; and conſequently that he ſhould be a Prieſt as well as a King; which Myſtery was more clearly revealed to David, Pſal. 110. 1,2,4. and may be intimated though obſcurely (as was fit and uſual in that State of the Church) in theſe words. d Either 1. In the Kingdom of Iſrael, which God calls his Kingdom, becauſe he was in a ſpecial manner their King and Governour, having raiſed them up and formed them into a Kingdom, and given them that Protection and Aſſiſtance which Kings owe to their Kingdoms; and becauſe he expected and required from them, what Kings do from their people, that they ſhould be wholly governed by his Laws and devoted to his Service. Or, 2. In Gods Kindgom in a more large and general Sence. And this as well as the former Phraſe may ſeem ſingularly to belong to the Meſſiah, who was not only to be the King of Iſrael, but alſo of all Nations, as was foretold even in the Old Teſtament, as Pſal. 2. 6, 7,8,9,10,11,12. & 22.27,28. & 72.11. Iſa. 2.4. Hagg. 2,7. And ſo this may be an Intimation of that great Myſtery which is more fully revealed in the New Teſtament, to wit, that Chriſt is the Head, or King, or Governour of all Gods Church conſiſting of Jews and Gentiles, and of all Nations, and indeed of all Creatures, the Angels not excepted; all which is Gods Kingdom and by him given to his Son our Bleſſed Lord Chriſt. And for the ſignification of theſe great things there is ſo great and remarkable an alteration of the Phraſe here from what it is in 2 Sam. 7. where ſpeaking to David he conſtantly calls it his (i. e. Davids) Kingdom, and his Houſe, v. 12,13,16, 19, 25, 27. for which he here ſaith my Houſe, and my Kingdom, which alſo he diſtinguiſheth from his Throne, which is mentioned in the next Clauſe of this Verſe, and in v. 11,12. But theſe things I ſubmit to the Judicious Reader.

15 According to all theſe words, and according to all this viſion, ſo did Nathan ſpeak unto David.

16 And David the king came, and ſat e before the LORD, and ſaid, Who am I, O LORD God, and what is mine houſe, that thou haſt brought me hitherto?

e Which may note either his Geſture; or his Continuance there till he had finiſhed this following Prayer.

17 And yet this was a ſmall thing in thine eyes, O God, for thou haſt alſo ſpoken of thy ſervants houſe for a great while to come, and haſt regarded me according to the eſtate of a man of high degree, O LORD God f.

f i. e. Thou haſt treated me as if I had been born the Son of a Great Monarch, and not a poor Shepheard, as indeed I was, O Lord God. Others thus, Thou haſt regarded or reſpected me as the Type or Figure, or according to the Rank or Order of that excellent Man, or Man of high Degree who is alſo the Lord God, i. e. of the Meſſiah, who is God-man. i. e. Thou haſt given to me and my Houſe an Everlaſting Kingdom, which is the peculiar Priviledge of that Great Perſon the Meſſiah, Dan. 2.44. & 7.13,14.

18 What can David † ſpeak more to thee for the honour of thy ſervant? for thou knoweſt thy ſervant.

† Heb. add.

19 O LORD, for thy ſervants ſake g, and according to thine own heart haſt thou done all this greatneſs, in making known all theſe † great things.

g In 2 Sam. 7. 21. it is for thy words ſake, i. e. for the ſake of thy Word and Promiſe made to thy Servant; as that Phraſe, for Davids ſake, is oft thus underſtood, for Gods Covenants ſake made with David.

20 O LORD, there is none like thee, neither is there any God beſides thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.

21 And what one nation in the earth is like thy people Iſrael, whom God went to redeem to be his own people, to make thee a name of † greatneſs and terribleneſs, by driving out nations from before thy people, whom thou haſt redeemed out of Egypt?

† Heb. greatneſſes and terrible things.

22 For thy people Iſrael didſt thou make thine own people for ever, and thou LORD, becameſt their God.

23 Therefore now LORD, let the thing that thou haſt ſpoken concerning thy ſervant, and concerning his houſe, be eſtabliſhed for ever, and do, as thou haſt ſaid.

24 Let it even be eſtabliſhed, that thy name may be magnified for ever, ſaying, The LORD of hoſts is the God of Iſrael, even a God to Iſrael h, and let the houſe of David thy ſervant be eſtabliſhed before thee.

h Or, The Lords of Hoſts, the God of Iſrael, is a God to Iſrael, i. e. He is really to his People that which he hath ſtiled himſelf, their God, having taken ſuch Care of them and ſhewed ſuch Mercy and Truth to them, as did fully anſwer that Title.

25 For thou, O my God, † haſt told thy ſervant, that thou wilt build him an houſe: therefore thy ſervant hath found in his heart to pray before thee.

† Heb. haſt uncovered the ear of thy ſervant.

26 And now, LORD, (thou art God, and haſt promiſed this goodneſs unto thy ſervant.)

27 Now therefore ‖ let it pleaſe thee to bleſs the houſe of thy ſervant, that it may be before thee for ever, for thou bleſſeſt, O LORD, and it ſhall be bleſſed for ever.

‖ Or, it hath pleaſed thee.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 NOw after this * it came to paſs, that David ſmote the Philiſtins a, and ſubdued them, and took Gath and her † towns out of the hands of the Philiſtins.

* 2 Sam. 8.1, &c.

a All this Chapter is explained on 2 Sam. 8.

2 And he ſmote Moab: and the Moabites became Davids ſervants, and brought gifts.

3 And

‖ Or, Hadadezer, 2 Sam. 8. 3. † Heb. hand, Jer. 34. 1.

3 And David ſmote ‖ Hadarezer king of Zobah unto Hamath, as he went to eſtabliſh his † dominion by the River Euphrates.

4 And David took from him a thouſand chariots, and ſeven thouſand horſemen, and twenty thouſand footmen: David alſo houghed all the chariot-horſes, but reſerved of them an hundred chariots.

† Heb. Darmeſek.

5 And when the Syrians of † Damaſcus came to help Hadarezer king of Zobah, David ſlew of the Syrians two and twenty thouſand men.

6 Then David put gariſons in Syria-damaſcus, and the Syrians became Davids ſervants, and brought gifts. Then the LORD preſerved David whitherſoever he went.

7 And David took the ſhields of gold that were on the ſervants of Hadarezer, and brought them to Jeruſalem.

‖ Called in the book of Sam. Beta, and Berothai. * 1 Kin. 7. 23. 2 Chr. 4. 15.

8 Likewiſe from ‖ Tibhath, and from Chun b, cities of Hadarezer, brought David very much braſs, wherewith * Solomon made the brazen ſea, and the pillars, and the veſſels of braſs.

b For which 2 Sam. 8. 8. Betah and Berothai are mentioned. ‖ Or, Joram, 2 Sam. 8. 10. ‖ Or, to ſalute, Heb. to bleſs. † Heb. was the man of wars.

10 He ſent Hadoram his ſon to king David, ‖ to enquire of his welfare, and ‖ to congratulate him, becauſe he had fought againſt Hadarezer, and ſmitten him, (for Hadarezer † had warred with Tou) and with him all manner of veſſels of gold, and ſilver, and braſs.

11 Them alſo King David dedicated unto the LORD, with the ſilver and the gold that he brought from all theſe nations; from Edom, and from Moab, and from the children of Ammon, and from the Philiſtins, and from Amalek.

12 Moreover, Abiſhai the ſon of Zerujah ſlew of the Edomites in the valley of ſalt, eighteen thouſand.

13 And he put gariſons in Edom, and all the Edomites became Davids ſervants. Thus the LORD preſerved David whitherſoever he went.

14 So David reigned over all Iſrael, and executed judgment and Juſtice among all his people.

CHAP. XIX.

* 2 Sam. 10. 1, &c.

1 NOw * it came to paſs after this, that Nahaſh the king of the children of Ammon died a, and his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

a Of all the contents of this Chapter ſee the Notes on 2 Sam. 10. where we have the ſame things and almoſt the very ſame words.

2 And David ſaid, I will ſhew kindneſs unto Hanun the ſon of Nahaſh, becauſe his father ſhewed kindneſs to me. And David ſent meſſengers to comfort him concerning his father: ſo the ſervants of David came into the land of the children of Ammon, to Hanun, to comfort him.

‖ Heb. in thine eyes doth David.

3 But the princes of the children of Ammon ſaid to Hanun, ‖ Thinkeſt thou that David doth honour thy father, that he hath ſent comforters unto thee? are not his ſervants come unto thee for to ſearch, and to overthrow, and to ſpie out the land?

4 Wherefore Hanun took Davids ſervants, and ſhaved them, and cut off their Garments in the midſt hard by their buttocks, and ſent them away.

5 Then there went certain, and told David how the men were ſerved. And he ſent to meet them (for the men were greatly aſhamed) and the king ſaid, Tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown, and then return.

† Heb. to ſtink:

6 And when the children of Ammon ſaw that they had made themſelves † odious to David, Hanun and the children of Ammon ſent a thouſand talents of ſilver to hire them chariots and horſemen out of Meſopotamia, and out of Syria-maachah, and out of Zobah.

7 So they hired thirty and two thouſand chariots b, and the king of Maachah and his people, who came and pitched before Medeba. And the children of Ammon gathered themſelves together from their cities, and came to battel.

b i. e. 32000 Men fighting from or with Chariots, as that word is elſewhere uſed: of which ſee my Notes on 1 Sam. 13. 5. And this Interpretation ſeems the more probable by comparing this place with 2 Sam. 10. 6. where this Army is ſaid to conſiſt of 20000 footmen, and 12000 men of Iſhtob; which make up theſe 32000 men, who fought partly from Chariots, and partly on Foot with Chariots or attending upon the Chariots, as the Ancient Manner of fighting was. And here v. 6. this Army it made up of Chariots and Horſemen; where, except the chariots be underſtood, there were no Footmen in the Army, which is unuſual and incredible.

8 And when David heard of it, he ſent Joab, and all the hoſt of the mighty men.

9 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battel in aray before the gate of the city: and the kings that were come, were by themſelves in the field.

† Heb. the face of the battel was. ‖ Or, young men.

10 Now when Joab ſaw that † the battel was ſet againſt him, before and behind, he choſe out of all the ‖ choice of Iſrael, and put them in aray againſt the Aſſyrians.

† Heb. Abiſhai.

11 And the reſt of the people he delivered unto the hand of † Abiſhai his brother, and they ſet themſelves in aray againſt the children of Ammon.

12 And he ſaid, If the Syrians be too ſtrong for me, then thou ſhalt help me: but if the children of Ammon be too ſtrong for thee, then I will help thee.

13 Be of good courage, and let us behave our ſelves valiantly for our people, and for the cities of our God: and let the LORD do that which is good in his ſight.

14 So Joab and the people that were with him, drew nigh before the Syrians, unto the battel; and they fled before him.

15 And when the children of Ammon ſaw that the Syrians were fled, they likewiſe fled before Abiſhai his brother, and entred into the city. Then Joab came to Jeruſalem.

‖ That is, Euphrates. ‖ Or, Shobach, 2 Sam. 10. 16.

16 And when the Syrians ſaw that they were put to the worſe before Iſrael, they ſent meſſengers and drew forth the Syrians that were beyond the ‖ river: and ‖ Shophach, the captain of the hoſt of Hadarezer, went before them.

17 And it was told David, and he gathered all Iſrael, and paſſed over Jordan, and came upon them, and ſet the battel in aray againſt them, ſo when David had put the battel in aray againſt the Syrians, they fought with him.

18 But the Syrians fled before Iſrael, and David ſlew of the Syrians ſeven thouſand men, which fought in chariots, and forty thouſand footmen c, and killed Shophach the captain of the hoſt.

c How this agrees with 2 Sam. 10. 18. ſee in the Notes on that place.

19 And when the ſervants of Hadarezer ſaw that they were put to the worſe before Iſrael, they made peace with David, and became his ſervants: neither would the Syrians help the children of Ammon any more.

* 2 Sam. 11.1. † Heb. at the return of the year.

1 AND * it came to paſs, that † after the year was expired, at the time that kings go out to battel, Joab led forth the power of the army, and waſted the country of the children of Ammon a, and came and beſieged Rabbah, (but David tarried at Jeruſalem) and Joab ſmote Rabbah, and deſtroyed it.

CHAP. XXI.

* 2 Sam.24.1, &c. ‖ Or, an adverſary, Numb. 22. 22, 23.

1 AND * ‖ Satan ſtood up a againſt Iſrael, and provoked David to number Iſrael.

a Heb. ſtood, to wit, before the Lord and his Tribunal to accuſe David and Iſrael, and to beg Gods permiſſion to tempt David to number the People. Standing is the Accuſers poſture before Mens Tribunals; and conſequently the Holy Scripture (which uſeth to ſpeak of God and the things of God after the manner of men to bring them down to our Capacities) elſewhere repreſents Satan in this poſture, as 1 King. 22.21. Zech. 3.1. And ſo this agrees with 2 Sam. 24.1. where the Lord is ſaid to move David, i.e. to give Satan Commiſſion or Permiſſion to move him; for otherwiſe God tempteth no man, Jam. 1.13. But of this, and of this whole Chapter, and of the Variations and ſeeming Contradictions between this Narrative and that in Samuel, ſee my Notes on 2 Sam. 24.

2 And David ſaid to Joab, and to the rulers of the people, Go, number Iſrael, from Beerſheba even to Dan; and bring the number of them to me, that I may know it.

3 And Joab anſwered, The LORD make his people an hundred times as many mo as they be: but my lord the king, are they not all my lords ſervants, why then doth my lord require this thing! why will he be † a cauſe of treſpaſs to Iſrael b.

† Heb. a treſpaſs. So Gr.

b Or, why will he be, or, why ſhould this be a treſpaſs or a cauſe of treſpaſs or an occaſion of puniſhment, (for Hebrew words ſignifying ſin are oft uſed to note the puniſhment of Sin:) or a deſolation, or a cauſe of deſolation or deſtruction (for the Verb whence this Noun proceeds is oft uſed in that Senſe) to or againſt Iſrael? Why wilt thou provoke God by this ſin to puniſh Iſrael? Thus he ſpeaks, becauſe God commonly puniſheth the People for the ſins of their Rulers, becauſe they are for the moſt part guilty of their ſins in one kind or other; or at leaſt God takes this occaſion to puniſh People for all their Sins.

4 Nevertheleſs, the kings word prevailed againſt Joab: wherefore Joab departed, and went throughout all Iſrael, and came to Jeruſalem.

5 And Joab gave the ſum of the number of the people unto David. And all they of Iſrael were a thouſand thouſand and one hundred thouſand men that drew ſword: and Judah was four hundred threeſcore and ten thouſand men that drew ſword.

6 But Levi and Benjamin counted he not among them c; for the kings word was abominable to Joab.

c Partly for the following Reaſon; and principally by Gods ſpecial and gracious Providence to theſe two Tribes, to Levi, becauſe they were devoted to his Service; and to Benjamin, becauſe they were the leaſt of all the Tribes, having been almoſt extinct, Judg. 21. and becauſe God foreſaw that they would be faithful to the Houſe of David in the diviſion of the Tribes, and therefore he would not have them diminiſhed. And Joab preſumed to leave theſe two Tribes unnumbred, becauſe he had ſpecious Pretences for it; for Levi, becauſe they were no Warriours, and the Kings Command reached only to thoſe that drew ſword, as appears from v. 5. And from Benjamin, becauſe they, being ſo ſmall a Tribe and bordering upon Jeruſalem their Chief City, might eaſily be numbred afterward.

† Heb. and it was evil in the eyes of the LORD concerning this thing.

7 † And God was diſpleaſed with this thing d, therefore he ſmote Iſaael e.

d Becauſe this was done without any colour of neceſſity, and out of meer Curioſity, and Oſtentation, and carnal Confidence, as Davids own Conſcience told him, which therefore ſmote him, as it is related, 2 Sam. 24.10. e Which is particularly related in the following verſes.

* Sam.24.10. *2 Sam.12.13.

8 And David ſaid unto God, * I have ſinned greatly, becauſe I have done this thing; * but now I beſeech thee, do away the iniquity of thy ſervant, for I have done very fooliſhly.

9 And the LORD ſpake unto Gad, Davids ſeer, ſaying,

10 Go, and tell David, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, I † offer thee three things, chuſe thee one of them that I may do it unto thee.

† Heb. ſtretch I out.

11 So Gad came to David, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, † chuſe thee, † Heb. take to thee.

12 Either three years famine, or three months to be deſtroyed before thy foes, (while that the ſword of thine enemies overtaketh thee) or elſe three days the ſword of the LORD, even the peſtilence in the land, and the Angel of the LORD deſtroying throughout all the coaſts of Iſrael. Now therefore adviſe thy ſelf, what word I ſhall bring again to him that ſent me.

13 And David ſaid unto Gad, I am in a great ſtrait: let me fall now into the hand of the LORD, (for very ‖ great are his mercies) but let me not fall into the hand of man.

‖ Or, many.

14 So the LORD ſent peſtilence upon Iſrael; and there fell of Iſrael ſeventy thouſand men.

15 And God ſent an * angel unto Jeruſalem to deſtroy it: and as he was deſtroying, the LORD beheld, and he repented him of the evil, and ſaid to the angel that deſtroyed, It is enough, ſtay now thine hand. And the angel of the LORD ſtood by the threſhing-floor of ‖ Ornan the Jebuſite.

*2 Sam.24.16. ‖ Or, Araunah, 2 Sam. 24.18.

16 And David lift up his eyes, and ſaw the angel of the LORD ſtand between the earth and the heaven, having a drawn ſword in his hand ſtretched out over Jeruſalem: then David and the elders of Iſrael, who were clothed in ſackcloth f, fell upon their faces.

f i.e. In mourning Garments, humbling themſelves before God for their Sins, and deprecating his Wrath againſt the People.

17 And David ſaid unto God, Is it not I that commanded the people to be numbred? even I it is that have ſinned and done evil indeed; but as for theſe ſheep, what have they done? let thine hand, I pray thee, O LORD my God, be on me, and on my fathers houſe, but not on thy people, that they ſhould be plagued.

18 Then

† Heb. an angel.
* 2 Chr. 3.1.

18 Then † the * angel of the LORD commanded Gad to say to David, that David should go up and set up an altar unto the LORD, in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

19 And David went up at the saying of Gad, which he spake in the name of the LORD.

‖ Or, when Ornan turned back and saw the angel, then he and his four sons with him hid themselves.

20 ‖ And Ornan turned back, and saw the angel; and his four sons with him hid themselves g. Now Ornan was threshing wheat.

g Or, And Ornan turned back (i. e. turned his face from the Angel) for or when (for the Hebrew vau is frequently used both those ways) he saw the angel, and (so did) his four sons with him hiding themselves; partly because of the Glory and Majesty in which the Angel appeared, which mens weak and sinful natures are not able to bear; and partly from the fear of Gods Vengeance which was at this time riding circuit in the Land, and now seemed to be coming to their Family.

21 And as David came to Ornan, Ornan looked and saw David, and went out of the threshing-floor, and bowed himself to David with his face to the ground.

† Heb. give.

22 Then David said to Ornan, † Grant me the place of this threshing-floor, that I may build an altar therein unto the LORD, thou shalt grant it me for the full price, that the plague may be stayed from the people.

23 And Ornan said unto David, Take it to thee, and let my lord the king do that which is good in his eyes: lo, I give thee the oxen also for burnt-offerings, and the threshing-instruments for wood, and the wheat for the meat-offering, I give it all.

24 And king David said to Ornan, Nay, but I will verily buy it for the full price: for I will not take that which is thine for the LORD, nor offer burnt-offerings without cost.

* 2 Sam. 24. 24.

25 So * David gave to Ornan for the place, six hundred shekels of gold by weight.

26 And David built there an altar unto the LORD, and offered burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings, and called upon the LORD; and he answered him from heaven by fire h upon the altar of burnt-offering.

h Heb. by fire sent from Heaven: which was the sign of Gods Acceptance. See Levit. 9.24. 1 King. 18.24,38. 2 Chron. 7.1.

27 And the LORD commanded the angel, and he put up his sword again into the sheath thereof.

28 At that time, when David saw that the LORD had answered him in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite, then he sacrificed there i.

i When he perceived that his Sacrifice there offered was acceptable to God, he proceeded to offer more Sacrifices in that place, and did not go to Gibeon, , as otherwise he should have done.

29 For the tabernacle of the LORD which Moses made in the wilderness, and the altar of the burnt-offering were at that season in the high place at * Gibeon.

* 1 King. 3.4. Ch. 16. 39. 2 Chr. 1. 3.

† Heb. to seek God, 2 Chr. 1. 5.

30 But David could not k go before it l † to enquire of God m; for he was afraid because of the sword of the angel of the LORD n.

k i. e. Durst not. l i. e. Before the Tabernacle, where the Altar stood. m Heb. to seek God, i. e. humbly to beg his Favour by Prayer and Sacrifice. n i. e. When he saw the Angel stand with his drawn Sword over Jerusalem, as is related above, v. 15,16. he durst not go away thence to Gibeon, lest the Angel in the mean time should destroy Jerusalem; for the prevention whereof he thought it most proper to continue to worship God in that place, which he had consecrated by his special Presence and gracious Acceptance.

CHAP. XXII.

* Deut. 12. 5. 2 Sam. 24. 18.

1 THen David said a, * This is the house of the LORD God b, and this is the altar of the burnt-offering for Israel.

a Partly by his Observation of this gracious and glorious Appearance of God, and his Command to erect an Altar, and his Acceptance of a Sacrifice offered in this place: and partly by the Instinct and Direction of Gods Spirit, by which as he is said to have had the pattern of the house, porch, altar, &c. 1 Chron. 28. 11,12, 19. so doubtless he was also instructed as to the place where the House should be built. b This is the place appointed by God for the building of his Temple and Altar.

2 And David commanded to gather together the strangers that were in the land of Israel c, and he set masons to hew wrought stones d to build the house of God.

c The same persons whom Solomon afterwards employed in the same Work: of which see 1 King. 5.15. compared with 1 King. 9. 20,21. d Wherein he could not do much, being prevented by death: but Solomon carried on and perfected what David had begun.

3 And David prepared iron in abundance for the nails for the doors of the gates, and for the joynings e; and brass in abundance without weight.

e To be used together with melted Lead for the joyning of those great and Square Stones together.

4 Also cedar-trees in abundance: for the Zidonians, and they of Tyre, brought much cedar-wood to David.

* Ch. 29. 1.

5 And David said f, * Solomon my son is young and tender g, and the house that is to be built for the LORD, must be exceeding magnifical, of fame and of glory throughout all countries: I will therefore now make preparation for it. So David prepared abundantly before his death.

f Within himself, or in his own thoughts. g And therefore through youthful Vanity, and Folly, and Unsettledness, may not use that Care, and Consideration, and Diligence in making such Provisions as this great Work requires. Of Solomons Age, see 1 King. 3.7.

6 Then he called for Solomon his son, and charged him to build an house for the LORD God of Israel.

* 2 Sam. 7.2. * Deut. 12. 5, 11.

7 And David said to Solomon, My son, as for me, * it was in my mind to build an house * unto the name of the LORD my God.

* Ch. 28. 3. 1 King. 5. 3.

8 But the word of the LORD came to me, saying, *Thou hast shed blood abundantly, and hast made great wars: thou shalt not build an house unto my name, because thou hast shed much blood upon the earth h in my sight i.

h Not that Wars either now are or then were simply Unlawful, or that David sinned in shedding the Blood of War, for it is manifest that Davids Wars were undertaken by Gods Command or with his Leave, and were attended with his Blessing; but partly because Davids Military Employments did for a good while fill his Head and Hands, and gave him no leisure for Temple Work: and principally for mystical Signification, to teach us that the Church (whereof the temple was a manifest and illustrious Type) should, be built by Christ, the Prince of Peace, Isa. 9.6. and that it should be gathered and built up not by might or power, or by force of Arms, but by Gods Spirit, Zech. 4.6. and by the preaching of the Gospel of Peace. i Which I have taken particular notice of. And this expression may possibly be added in reference to Uriah and the rest of the Israelites who were slain at the Seige of Rabbah by Davids contrivance: which peradventure David had in his Eye, Psal. 51.4. where David confessing this Sin useth this very Expression, I have done this evil in thy sight.

9 Behold, a son shall be born to thee, who shall be a man of rest, and I will give him rest from all his enemies round about: for his name shall be ‖ Solomon, and I will give peace and quietness unto Israel in his days.

‖ That is, peaceable.

10 * He shall build an house for my name, and he shall be my son, and I will be his father, and I will establish the throne of his kingdom over Israel for ever k.

* 2 Sam. 7.13. 1 Kin. 5. 5. Ch. 17.12,13.

k Of this see my Notes on 2 Sam. 7.13.

11 Now my son, the LORD be with thee, and prosper thou l, and build the house of the LORD thy God, as he hath said of thee.

l Go on prosperously in carrying on this Work. Or, the Lord give thee that Rest and Prosperity which is necessary for it.

12 Onely the LORD give thee wiſdom and underſtanding; and give thee charge concerning Iſrael m, that thou mayeſt keep the Law of the LORD thy God.

m i. e. Give thee Inſtructions or Direction rightly to manage and rule his People Iſrael. Or, and ſet thee over Iſrael, as the Syriack renders it, whom the Arabick follows: Or, when (as the Hebrew vau is oft uſed) he ſhall ſet thee over Iſrael, i. e. when thou ſhalt be King; for then Solomon would need this Wiſdom, for which therefore he prayeth, 1 *King.*3.9.

13 Then ſhalt thou proſper, if thou takeſt heed to fulfill the ſtatutes and judgments which the LORD charged Moſes with concerning Iſrael. Be ſtrong, and of good courage, dread not, nor be diſmayed.

‖ Or, in my poverty.

14 Now behold, ‖ in my trouble n I have prepared for the houſe of the LORD, an hundred thouſand talents of gold o, and a thouſand thouſand talents of ſilver p; and of braſs, and iron, without * weight (for it is in abundance) timber alſo and ſtone have I prepared, and thou mayeſt add thereto.

* As ver. 3.

n This he alledgeth as a Reaſon why he could do no more, becauſe of the many Troubles and Wars both Foraign and Civil, whereby much of his Treaſures was exhauſted. o A Talent of Gold in the firſt conſtitution was 3000 Shekels, as may be gathered from *Exod.*38.24,25,26. and ſo this amounts to a very vaſt Sum, yet not Impoſſible for David to get, conſidering how many and great Conqueſts he made, and what vaſt Spoils and Preſents he got; and that he endeavoured by all juſt and honourable ways to get as much as he could, not out of Covetouſneſs or for his own Ends, but meerly out of Zeal for Gods Houſe. And whereas ſome object that this quantity of Gold and Silver was ſufficient, though the whole Fabrick of the Temple had conſiſted of Maſſy Gold and Silver; it is to be conſidered that all this Treaſure was not ſpent upon the Materials of the Temple, but a very great part of it upon the Workmen, which were nigh 200000, whereof a great number were Officers, which being employed for ſo long time together, would exhauſt a conſiderable part of it; and what was not employed in the building of the Temple was laid up in the Sacred Treaſures for future Occaſions, there being mention of the great treaſures left by David even in other Authors. But ſome Learned Men make thoſe Talents far leſs than thoſe in Moſes his Time; and they conceive that as there were two ſorts of Shekels both of Gold and Silver, the common and the ſacred Shekel, whereof the latter is commonly thought to be double to the former, ſo alſo there were Talents of divers kinds and values. For the Hebrew word kikkar, which is rendred a Talent, properly ſignifies onely a Maſs or a Piece, as it is uſed, *Exod.*29.23. 1 Sam. 2. 36. Zech. 5. 7. ſo it may indifferently denote either a greater or a leſſer Piece. And this is certain, and obſerved by two Ancient and moſt Learned Writers, Varro and Pollux, and by others, that a Talent among the Greeks and Romans ſometimes notes but a ſmall quantity; and that a Talent of Gold contains onely ſix Drams. And Homer in his Iliads, amongſt other things of no great value, which are propounded as Rewards to the Conquerer at a ſolemn and publick Exerciſe, a Bondwoman, an Horſe, and a Pot, mentions two Talents of Gold; which plainly ſhews that in his time (which was after the building of this Temple) Talents of Gold were very far Inferiour in quantity and price to what they had been in former Ages. And Joſephus a Jew, and therefore the more Competent Judge of theſe things, ſpeaking of this very thing, for 100000 Talents of Gold here mentioned, he puts 10000, and for 1000000 Talents of Silver he puts 100000; either becauſe the Talents in Moſes his time were often times more Bulk and Price than in Davids and Solomons time, and therefore theſe Talents reduced to them amounted to no greater Sum; or becauſe he read ſo in his Copy of the Hebrew Bible. And certainly it is infinitely more tolerable and reaſonable to ſuppoſe that there is a miſtake here in the generality of the preſent Copies of the Hebrew Bible, through the Errour of the Scribe, (which being onely in a numeral and hiſtorical Paſſage, might happen without Impeachment to the Care of Gods Providence, which hath ſo miraculouſly preſerved all the moſt Important and Subſtantial parts of Scripture, as hath been formerly ſaid) than upon ſuch Pretences to deny the Truth and Divine Original and Authority of the Holy Scriptures. Add to this, that all the Gold then uſed was not of equal worth and purity; as appears both by the ſpecial Commendation given to ſome ſorts of Gold in divers parts of Scripture, and particularly by the Difference obſerved in this very Hiſtory between the Gold and Gold which David gave for this uſe; whereof one little part being diſtinctively called pure Gold and refined Gold, 1 *Chron.*28.17,18. it is ſufficiently implied that all the reſt of the Gold was not refined nor pure, which might greatly diminiſh the Worth of it; for in what degree it was impure or allayed with other things in thoſe Times and places we cannot know at this Diſtance: And therefore we cannot make a true Eſtimate what thoſe Talents of Gold did amount to in our Value. p Juſt as much in Silver as in Gold; for this is known and agreed, that the Proportion of Gold to Silver is Ten to One.

15 Moreover, there are workmen with thee in abundance, hewers, and ‖ workers of ſtone and timber, and all manner of cunning men for every manner of work.

‖ That is, maſons and carpenters.

16 Of the gold, the ſilver, and the braſs, and the iron there is no number. Ariſe therefore, and be doing q, and the LORD be with thee.

q To wit, when thou ſhalt come to the Throne in my ſtead.

17 David alſo commanded all the princes of Iſrael to help Solomon his ſon, ſaying, 18 Is not the LORD your God with you? and hath he not given you reſt on every ſide? for he hath given the inhabitants of the land into mine hand, and the land is ſubdued before the LORD, and before his people r.

r Either 1. It is brought under the Command of God and of you his People, all the Enemies of God and of Iſrael in it or near it being now perfectly ſubdued. Or, 2. It is really ſubdued, whereof both God and your own Eyes are Witneſſes.

19 Now ſet your heart and your ſoul to ſeek the LORD your God: ariſe therefore, and build ye the ſanctuary of the LORD God, to bring the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and the holy veſſels of God, into the houſe that is to be built to the name of the LORD.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 SO when David was old and full of days, he made * Solomon his ſon king over Iſrael a.

* 1 Kin. 1. 33, 39. Ch. 28. 5.

a Not that he did reſign the Kingdom to him, but that he declared his Mind concerning his Succeſſion into the Throne after his death. As David himſelf is called King, 1 *Sam.*16.1. becauſe he was appointed and anointed to be King after Sauls death, though till then he was onely a Subject.

2 And he gathered together all the princes of Iſrael, with the prieſts and the Levites b.

b Partly to declare Gods mind and his own Will, that Solomon ſhould be his Succeſſor; and ſo to cut off the Claims and Pretences which others of his Sons might make to the Crown: and partly to acquaint them with thoſe Directions which he had received from God by the Spirit, as appears from ch 28.11, &c. concerning the Eſtabliſhment of a new Order and Method in the Miniſtration of the Prieſts and Levites in the Temple.

3 Now the Levites were numbred from the age of * thirty years and upward c: and their numbers by their polls, man by man, was thirty and eight thouſand.

* Numb. 4. 3.

c Not onely till fifty, as it was appointed, *Num.*4.2,3. but even till their Death: For that was but a Temporary Law grounded upon a ſpecial Reaſon, becauſe the Levites were employed in carrying the Tabernacle and Sacred Veſſels from place to place; and therefore God would have them freed from thoſe Burdens when they came to feel the Infirmities of Age: Which Reaſon wholly ceaſing upon the Building of the Temple, and their Work being far eaſier than it had been, and their Service being more a Priviledge than a Burden, their time of Service is juſtly and fitly prolonged.

4 Of which, twenty and four thouſand were ‖ to ſet forward the work of the houſe of the LORD d: and ſix hundred were * officers and judges e.

‖ Or, or to overſee.

* Deut. 16. 18.

d i. e. To take care that all the Work of the Temple about Sacrifices and other Parts or Means of Gods Service ſhould be punctually and diligently performed either by themſelves or others: Which they were not to do all at once, but by Courſes, 1000 at a time, as we ſhall ſhortly ſee. e Whoſe work it ſeems to have been to judge of and determine all difficult Cauſes or Differences which might ariſe either among the Inferiour Prieſts or Levites about their Sacred Adminiſtrations; or among the People, which being governed in all their Concerns onely by the Laws of Moſes, it was fit and neceſſary that the Prieſts and Levites ſhould be conſulted and concerned in their Matters.

5 Moreover, four thouſand were porters f, and four thouſand praiſed the LORD with the inſtruments g which I made (ſaid David) to praiſe therewith.

f Whoſe

f Whose Office was to take the Charge of all the Gates of the Temple and its Courts, that no forbidden or unclean Person might enter there, and of the Courts themselves, and of several Chambers or Buildings belonging to the Temple and the Service thereof. These also were to do their Work by turns. g Whereof 288 were persons of greater skill than their Brethren, and did Instruct them, and had some Authority over them.

* Exod. 6. 16. Ch. 6. 1, &c. 2 Chr. 8. 14. and 29. 25. † Heb. divisions.

6 And * David divided them into † courses h among the sons of Levi: namely, Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

h Which he did not by his own Invention, but as a man of God, and by the command of God, and with the Advice and Concurrence of Gad and Nathan the Prophets, as is manifest from 2 Chron. 8. 14. & 29. 25.

* Ch. 26. 21. ‖ Or, Libni, Ch. 6. 17.

7 Of the * Gershonites were ‖ Laadan and Shimei.

8 The sons i of Laadan, the chief was Jehiel, and Zetham, and Joel, three.

i i. e. His Posterity: and so in the following Verses: for these could not be their immediate Sons.

9 The sons of Shimei; Shelomith, and Haziel, and Haran, three. These were the chief of the fathers of Laadan.

‖ Or, Zizah, ver. 11.

10 And the sons of Shimei k were, Jahath, ‖ Zina, and Jeush, and Beriah: These four were the sons of Shimei.

k Not that Shimei named v. 9. but another, and possibly the Son or Grandson of that Shimei, † Heb. did not multiply sons.

11 And Jahath was the chief, and Zizah the second: but Jeush and Beriah † had not many sons: therefore they were in one reckoning, according to their fathers house l.

l They were reckoned together as one Family, and were not called by the name of their two immediate Parents, but by the name of their Grandfather Shimei.

12 The sons of Kohath; Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel, four.

* Exod. 6. 20. * Exod. 28. 1. Heb. 5. 4. ‖ Or, to sanctifie him holy of holyes, him and his sons. * Numb. 6. 23.

13 The sons of * Amram; Aaron and Moses: and * Aaron was separated, ‖ that he should sanctifie the most holy things m, he and his sons n for ever, to burn incense before the LORD, to minister unto him, and to * bless in his name for ever.

m Not positively; for so he could not sanctifie them, they being already sanctified by God in the highest Degree; but negatively, i. e. that he might keep them from Pollution: For these most holy things were polluted when they were touched by any other persons. n Not onely his eldest Sons the High-Priests successively, but all his Posterity or all the Priests; for the Works here following were not peculiar to the High-priest, but common to all the Priests, who might all burn Incense, 2 Chron. 29. 11. Luke 1. 9. and to minister in the Temple, and to bless the people in Gods Name, Numb. 6. 23. Deut. 10. 8.

14 Now concerning Moses the man of God, his sons were named of the Tribe of Levi †.

† i. e. They were accounted onely as common Levites, and were not Priests: Which is mentioned partly to secure the Priesthood within the Bounds to which God had confined it, lest they should presume to invade it upon a confidence in the Nobleness of their Extraction: and partly for the Honour of Moses and the demonstration of his Eminent Piety and Self-denial, who willingly left the Government to Joshua, and the Priesthood to Aaron, and was content to have his Posterity reduced to a very private and mean Condition.

* Exod. 2. 22. and 18. 3, 4. ‖ Shubael, Chap. 24. 20.

15 * The sons of Moses were, Gershom and Eliezer.

16 Of the sons of Gershom, ‖ Shebuel was the chief.

* Ch. 26. 25. ‖ Or, the first. † Heb. were very highly multiplyed.

17 And the sons o of Eliezer were, * Rehabiah ‖ the chief p. And Eliezer had none other sons, but the sons of Rehabiah † were very many.

o For, the son: the plural number for the singular, as Gen. 46. 23. 1 Chron. 2. 8, 31. and oft elsewhere. p Heb. the first, i. e. the first-born. He is so called not because others were born after him, but because none were born before him. See on Mat. 1. 23.

18 Of the sons of Izhar ‖ Shelomith the chief. ‖ Shelomoth. Ch. 24. 22.

19 Of the sons of Hebron; Jeriah the first, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth.

20 Of the sons of Uzziel; Micah the first, and Jeshiah the second.

21 The sons of Merari; Mahli, and Mushi: the sons of Mahli; Eleazar, and Kish.

22 And Eleazar died, and * had no sons, but daughters: and their ‖ brethren the sons of Kish took them. * Ch. 24. 28. ‖ Or, kinsmen.

23 The sons of Mushi; Mahli, and Eder, and Jeremoth, three.

24 These were the sons of * Levi, after the house of their fathers; even the chief of the fathers, as they were counted by number of names by their polls, that did the work for the service of the house of the LORD, from the age of * twenty years q and upward. * Numb. 10. 17, 21. * Numb. 1. 3. & 4. 3. & 8. 24.

q As the Levites were anciently numbred from two several times, from the 25*th.* year of their Age, and from the 30*th.* Numb. 4. 3. & 8. 24. In like manner and for the same Reasons they are here numbred both from their 20*th.* year, as here, when they were more solemnly prepared for, and instructed, and by degrees exercised in some parts of their Work; and from their 30*th.* year, above v. 3. when they were admitted to the full and compleat Exercise of all the Parts and Works of their Office. And the Reason why they were now sooner admitted to Service than they had been formerly by the Constitution of Moses, is given in the next Verses, because now their Work was more easie, they being wholly discharged from that Burdensome Work of Carrying the Tabernacle and its Utensils, which was too heavy for young and tender Shoulders. To which may be added, that the Number of the Israelites were greatly increased, and consequently the Services which were to be performed by the Levites on their behalf were multiplied, and the Work of the Temple was much greater than that of the Tabernacle, and therefore more of the Levites were to be employed, and consequently they were to be sooner taken into Service.

25 For David said, The LORD God of Israel hath given rest unto his people ‖ that they may dwell in Jerusalem for ever. ‖ Or, and he dwelleth in Jerusalem, &c.

26 And also unto the Levites r, they shall no more carry the Tabernacle, nor any vessels of it for the service thereof.

r Or rather, as concerning the Levites, of whom he is here speaking.

27 For by the last words of David s, the Levites were † numbred from twenty years old and above. † Heb. numbered

s By his last Order and Constitution made by Gods Direction and by the Spirit, as hath been once and again noted and proved before. This is here added, to signifie that this great Affair was thus settled by David not in his younger years, when it might have been thought to have the Effect of youthful Heat, and confidence, and Presumption, and Rashness, but when he was come to the greatest Maturity, when he was Old and near his Death, and going to give up his Account to his Lord and Maker, of all his Actions, and particularly of the Alterations which he made in the Service of God; which he declared was done by the Spirit of God. These were in a manner his dying Words, which usually make the deepest Impressions.

28 Because † their office was to wait on the sons of Aaron, for the service of the house of the LORD, in the courts, and in the chambers, and in the purifying of all holy things t, and the work of the service of the house of God. † Heb. their station was at the hand of the sons of Aaron.

t i. e. Holy Places, and Garments, and Vessels, and Sacrifices, which were to be washed and cleansed from any Filthiness which possibly might cleave to them.

29 Both for the shew-bread, and for * the fine flour for meat-offering, and for the unleavened cakes, and for that which is baked in the ‖ pan, and for that which is fryed, and for all manner of measure and size u. * Lev. 6. 20. Ch. 9. 29, &c. ‖ Or, flat plate.

u This is to be understood either 1. particularly of the Measure or Quantity of fine Flour, and Wine, and Oil, which was fixed by Gods Law. Or generally of all Measures used either in Sacred or Civil Things, the publick Standards whereof were kept in the Sanctuary or Temple; of which see on Exod. 30. 13. and therefore the care of keeping them inviolable and producing them upon Occasion,

on, must needs belong to the Priests, and under them to the Levites, who were to examine other Measures and all things by them as oft as Occasion required; that so the Priests might be at more leisure for their higher and greater Employments.

30 And to stand every morning x to thank and praise the LORD, and likewise at even x:

x The two Solemn Times of offering Sacrifices: Which Work was attended with publick Prayer and Thanksgiving.

31 And to offer all burnt sacrifices unto the LORD in the sabbaths, in the new moons, and on the set feasts, by number, according to the order commanded unto them y continually before the LORD:

y i. e. Unto those persons, the Levites, of whom he speaks. Or, concerning them, i. e. about those things.

32 And that they should keep the charge of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the charge of the holy place, and the charge of the sons of Aaron z their brethren, in the service of the house of the LORD.

z i. e. What the Priests should commit to their Charge, or command them to do.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 NOw these are the divisions a of the sons of Aaron: * The sons of Aaron; Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.

* Lev. 10.1.5.

a i. e. The several Branches into which that Family was divided or distributed.

2 But * Nadab and Abihu died before their father, and had no children: therefore Eleazar and Ithamar executed the priests office b.

* Numb. 3.4. & 26. 61.

b i. e. Were the onely persons to whom and to whose Families the execution of that Office was committed.

3 And David distributed them, † both Zadok of the sons of Eleazar, and Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar, according to their Offices c in their service.

† Heb. and Zadok, ver. 31.

c Or, courses: or, prefectures, i. e. Allotting to each of them several times wherein they or theirs should by turns have the Government of Holy Ministrations in the Temple Service.

4 And there were moe chief men found of the sons of Eleazar, than of the sons of Ithamar, and thus were they divided. Among the sons of Eleazar there were sixteen chief men of the house of their fathers, and eight among the sons of Ithamar, according to the house of their fathers.

5 Thus were they divided by lot d, one sort with another; for † the governours of the sanctuary, and governours of the house of God e, were of the sons of Eleazar, and of the sons of Ithamar.

† Heb. the princes of the sanctuary, and princes of God, Gen. 23. 6.

d Partly to prevent that Envy or Emulation which otherwise might arise among them: and partly that all mens Minds and Consciences might be fully satisfied in the Order now established by this divine way of Decision. e But that is no other than the Sanctuary; and so it may seem to make this Division improper and irregular, the several Members of it being altogether the same. Or rather, of the things of God, i. e. of all persons ministring in the Sanctuary, and of all Holy Ministrations done in it, and of all other matters of the Lord, as they are called by way of distinction from the kings matters, 2 Chron. 19.11.

6 And Shemajah the son of Nathaneel the scribe, one of the Levites, wrote them before the king, and the princes, and Zadok the priest, and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, and before the chief of the fathers of the Priests and Levites: one † principal household being taken for Eleazar, and one taken for Ithamar f.

† Heb. house of the fathers.

f Or, the Chief (which Word is easily supplied out of the context) of one house of the Fathers was taken (to wit, by Lot) for Eleazar (i. e. out of his Family) and that which was taken after it was taken for Ithamar, i. e. out of his Family. The meaning is, that the first Lot fell to Eleazar, and the second to Ithamar; and the third to Eleazar, and the fourth to Ithamar; and so successively until all the Families of Ithamar had received their Lots: And afterwards all the Lots came forth to the rest of Eleazars Families, which were double in number to those of Ithamar, as was said, v. 4.

7 Now the first lot came forth g to Jehojarib, the second to Jedajah, g To wit, out of the Vessel in which all the Lots were promiscuously put together, and out of which they were severally taken.

8 The third to Harim, the fourth to Seorim,
9 The fifth to Malchijah, the sixth to Mijamin,
10 The seventh to Hakkoz, the eighth to * Abijah,

* Neh. 12.4,17. Luke 1.5.

11 The ninth to Jeshua, the tenth to Shecaniah, 12 The eleventh to Eliashib, the twelfth to Jakim,
13 The thirteenth to Huppah, the fourteenth to Jeshebeab, 14 The fifteenth to Bilgah, the sixteenth to Immer,
15 The seventeenth to Hezir, the eighteenth to Aphses, 16 The nineteenth to Pethahiah, the twentieth to Jehezekel, 17 The one and twentieth to Jachin, the two and twentieth to Gamul.
18 The three and twentieth to Delajah, the four and twentieth to Maaziah.
19 These were the orderings of them in their service h, to come into the house of the LORD, according to their manner i, under Aaron their father k, as the LORD God of Israel had commanded him.

h In this Order and Method they were to come to perform the Offices of the Temple. i. e. To come into the Temple every Sabbath-day, and to continue there all the Week long until the next Sabbath, when they were relieved by others, as the Manner was: See 2 King. 11.5. 1 Chron. 9.25. k i. e. Under the Inspection and Direction of the High-priest, whom he calls Aaron, because he represented his Person and executed his Office, and also came out of his Loyns, and their fathers, because of the Authority which by Gods Appointment he had over them, and that Love, Reverence, and Obedience which they owed to him, 20 ¶ And the rest of the sons of Levi l were these. Of the sons of Amram, * Shubael: of the sons of Shubael; Jehdejah m.

* Ch. 23. 16. Shebuel.

l Either such as were onely Levites and not Priests: or rather, such as were not named or numbred before in this or the former Chapter. m Who being, as it seems, an Eminent Person, or having a very numerous Family, was not reckoned with or under his Fathers Family, but was accounted as a distinct Head of another Family.

21 Concerning Rehabiah n: of the sons of Rehabiah, the first o was Jeshiah.

22 Of the Izharites; * Shelomoth p: of the sons of Shelomoth; Jahath.

* Ch. 23. 18. Shelomith.

p Called also Shelomith, ch. 23. 18.

23 And the sons of * Hebron; Jeriah the first q, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, Jekameam the fourth.

* Ch. 23. 19. & 26. 31.

q Which word is fitly supplied both out of the rest of this verse, the second, third, and fourth having a manifest reference to the first, and out of 1 Chron. 23.19. & 26.31. where it is expressed.

24 Of the sons of Uzziel; Michah: of the sons of Michah; Shamir.
25 The brother of Michah was Isshiah: of the sons of Isshiah; Zechariah.
26 The sons of Merari were, Mahli and Mushi: the sons of Jaaziah r; Beno.

r The Son either of Mahli, or rather of Mushi last named: for Mahli's Posterity comes v. 28.

27 The sons of Merari by Jaaziah; Beno s; and Shoham, and Zaccur, and Ibri.

s Whose Name is here repeated with his Brethren, because he was the First-born, and Head of the rest, who were all reckoned with and under his Family, as if they had been Branches of it.

28 Of Mahli came Eleazer, * who had no sons.
* Chap. 23. 22.

29 Concerning Kish t: the son of Kish was Jerahmeel.

t Another of Mahli's Sons, as appears from 1 Chron. 23. 21.

30 The sons also of Mushi; Mahli, and Eder, and Jerimoth. These were the sons of the Levites, after the house of their fathers.

31 These likewise cast lots over against their brethren the sons of Aaron u, in the presence of David the King, and Zadok and Ahimelech, and the chief of the fathers of the Priests and Levites, even the principal fathers over against their younger brethren x.

u i. e. Answerable for Number and Order to those of the Priests, so as there should be a several course of the Levites for each course of the Priests. This is expressed concerning the Singers, ch. 25. and the like is implied concerning the Porters, ch. 26. and is here sufficiently intimated concerning those Levites which were employed in other Sacred Ministrations. x The Lots of the Elder and Younger Brethren were promiscuously put together, and the order was settled as the Lots came forth, without any regard to the Age or Dignity or Number of the persons or Families, the youngest Family having the first Course if they had the first Lot, &c.

CHAP. XXV.

1 MOreover, David and the captains of the host a separated b to the service of the sons of * Asaph, and of † Heman, and of * Jeduthun c, who should prophesie d with harps, with psalteries, and with cymbals; and the number of the workmen e, according to their service, was;

a Both of the Civil and Sacred Host: to wit, all the Princes of Israel, with the Priests and the Levites, whom David gathered together, ch. 23. 2. for this very end, that in their presence and with their Approbation and Consent all these things might be established; who are here fitly called the Captains of the Host; for the Princes were under David, the Chief Captains or Commanders of the Militia or Trained Bands of the Kingdom; and as the Levites are called an Host, and the Lords Host, Numb. 4. 23. and elsewhere, because of their Number and Order in Holy Ministrations; so these Priests and Levites were the Captains and Governours of the rest. b i. e. Distributed them into their several Ranks and Orders: Which, though chiefly done by David as a Prophet, and by Divine Direction, as hath been oft observed, yet is here imputed in part to the Captains of the Host, because it was done with their Concurrence and Approbation. c i. e. To the service of God under the Conduct and Command of these Persons. d i. e. Praise God by singing the Psalms of David, (of which see on ch. 16. 7.) and other sacred Songs made by themselves, who were Prophets in some sort, or by other Prophets or Holy Men of God. Or this Action of theirs is called Prophesying, because it had been formerly performed by the Prophets and the Sons of the Prophets: of which see 1 Sam. 10. 5. & 19. 20. 2 King. 3. 15. 1 Chron. 15. 19. e Of the Persons employed in this Sacred Work.

3 Of Jeduthun: the sons of Jeduthun h; Gedaliah, and ‖ Zeri, and Jeshajah, Hashabiah, and Mattithiah, ‖ six, under the hands of their father Jeduthun, who prophesied with a harp to give thanks and to praise the LORD.
‖ Or, Izri, ver. 11. ‖ with Shimei mentioned ver. 17.

h Or, his sons, (the construct Form being used before the absolute, of which there are Examples in Scripture) Jeduthun, called by his Fathers Name; Otherwise they are not six; unless either Jeduthun their Father be included in that Number: or Shimei mentioned v. 17. be one of them, as many Learned Men think. See the like, 1 Chron. 24. 23.

4 Of Heman: the sons of Heman; Bukkiah, Mattaniah, ‖ Uzziel, ‖ Shebuel, and Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti and Romamtiezer, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, and Mahazioth.
‖ Or, Azareel, ver. 18. ‖ Or, Shubael, ver. 20.

5 All these were the sons of Heman the kings seer i in the ‖ words of God k, to lift up the horn l. And God gave to Heman fourteen sons, and three daughters.
‖ Or, matters

i Or, Prophet, which is the same thing, 1 Sam. 9. 9. Either he was a Prophet as well as a Singer: or he is thus called because he prophesied in the sence designed, v. 1. And he is called the kings seer, either because the King took special Delight in him: or because he frequently attended upon the King in his Palace, executing his Sacred Office there, while the rest were constantly employed in the Tabernacle. k i. e. To sing such Divine Songs as were inspired by God to the Prophets or Holy Men of God. l Either 1. Metaphorically, to extoll and praise God for exalting the horn (i. e. the Power and Kingdom) of David; of which Phrase see Psal. 92. 10. & 132. 17. Or rather 2. Properly, to praise God with the sound of a Trumpet (as was usual, as 2 Chron. 5. 12. & 13. 12.) or some other Musical Instrument made of Horn, which being a Martial kind of Musick, might be most grateful to Davids Martial Spirit: though he was also skilled in other Instruments of Musick which he used in the House of God, as is expressed in the next Verse.

6 All these were under the hands m of their father, for song in the house of God, with cymbals, psalteries and harps, for the service of the house of God, † according to the kings order, to Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman n.

2 And the ſons of Meſhelemiah were, Zechariah the firſt-born, Jediael the ſecond, Zebadiah the third, Jathniel the fourth,
3 Elam the fifth, Jehohanan the ſixth, Elioenai the ſeventh;
4 Moreover, the ſons of Obed-edom were, Shemajah the firſt-born, Jehozabad the ſecond, Joab the third, and Sacar the fourth, and Nethaneel the fifth:
5 Ammiel the ſixth, Iſſachar the ſeventh, Peulthai the eighth: for God bleſſed ‖ him b.

6 Alſo unto Shemajah his ſon were two ſons born, that ruled throughout the houſe of their fathers c: for they were mighty men of valour d.

c That had the Command of their Brethren and Families, being as ſome ſay, Captains of Hundreds or of thouſands: Of which ſee Exod. 18. 25. 2 King. 11. 9. d This Clauſe is divers times mentioned, becauſe their Office required both Strength and Courage: for they were to ſhut the Doors of the Temple, one whereof was ſo great and weighty that in the ſecond Temple it required the help of twenty men to open and ſhut it, as Joſephus an Eye-witneſs reports. They were alſo to keep the Guard, and to keep out all unclean or forbidden Perſons, who might ſometimes preſumptuouſly attempt to enter into the Temple, as Uzziah did, and to prevent or ſuppreſs any Tumults or Diſorders which might happen in the Temple or in its Courts, and to keep the Treaſures of the Temple, v. 20. 22, 24, 26. and to be Officers and Judges over Iſrael, v. 29. and to manage every matter pertaining to God and the affairs of the King, v. 32.

k Which is noted as an excellent and uſeful Accompliſhment for his Office, in which there was need of Wiſdom as well as Courage, as may appear by the deſcription of their Work, v. 20, &c. See the Note on v. 6.

15 To Obed-edom ſouthward, and to his ſons, the houſe of † Aſuppim l.

m Who for ſome reaſon were joyned together in the Cuſtody of that Gate. n A Gate of the Court ſo called, as ſome think, becauſe the Aſhes and filth of the Temple were caſt out on that ſide, which was the moſt convenient Gate for that purpoſe, becauſe that was a private Quarter, the great Ways to the Temple lying on the other ſides. o By which Cauſey they went up towards the Temple. p Which may reſpect either 1. the time of their Watching, that when one Guard went off another came on. Or rather 2. the place of their Guard: and ſo this may be underſtood either 1. of this Weſtern Quarter, where there was a double Guard, either becauſe there were two Gates there, as ſome think, or for ſome other cauſe now unknown. Or rather 2. Of all the Quarters compared together, of all which having ſpoken he adds this, That as one Gate was over againſt another, the Weſt againſt the Eaſt, and the North againſt the South, ſo one Ward was over againſt another.

17 Eaſtward were ſix Levites q, north-ward four a day, ſouthward four a day, and toward Aſuppim r two and two.

19 These are the divisions of the porters among the sons of Kore, and among the sons of Merari.

20 And of the Levites, Ahijah was over * the treasures of the house of God, and over the treasures of the † dedicate things x.

* Mal. 3. 10.

† Heb. holy things.

x Either these are the same kind of Treasures, the latter phrase onely explaining the former, the particle and being used for that is: or rather they are two differing kinds of Treasures, the former containing the Sacred Vessels and other Treasures which by Gods Command were appropriated to the Maintenance of the House and Worship, and Ministers of God, as Tithes, and First-fruits, and other things; and the latter onely those things which had been freely given or dedicated to God for those Ends; of which see v. 26, 27.

21 As concerning the sons of ‖ Laadan: the sons of the Gershonite Laadan, chief fathers y, even of Laadan the Gershonite were, ‖ Jehieli z.

y i. e. Which sons were Chief Fathers, or Heads of the Houses of their Fathers. z Understand here, and his sons, which here follow.

22 The sons of Jehieli; Zetham, and Joel his brother, which were over the treasures of the house of the LORD a.

a As Shelomith and his brethren were over the treasures of the dedicated things, v. 26. But both may seem to have been subject and accountable to Ahijah, who was over both these kinds of Treasures, v. 20. Or Ahijah might have a general Oversight into the Management of those Treasures as an Auditor of the Account although the others had more dignity and Power in the Disposal of them.

23 Of the Amramite, and the Izharite, the Hebronite, and the Uzzielite b:

b Or, As concerning the Amramite, &c. The meaning is, The persons here following were of these or the most of these Families. Onely here is none of the Family of the Uzzielites; either because that Family was now extinct; whence it is that we read no more of them in the Scripture but onely in this place, and Numb. 3.27. or because there was none of them fit to be employed and trusted in these Matters.

24 And * Shebuel the son of Gershom, the son of Moses, was ruler of the treasures c.

* Ch. 23. 16.

c The Prince or Chief over all the Treasures and Treasurers mentioned either before or afterward, as his very Title shews, which is peculiarly given to him and to none of the rest.

25 And his brethren by Eliezer d; Rehabiah his son, and Jeshajah his son, and Joram his son, and Zichri his son, and * Shelomith his son:

* Ch. 23. 18.

d Another Son of Moses, Exod. 18. 4.

26 Which Shelomith and his brethren, were over all the treasures of the dedicate things, which David the king, and the chief fathers, the captains over thousands and hundreds, and the captains of the host had dedicated.

27 † Out of the spoils won in battels, did they dedicate, to * maintain e the house of the LORD.

† Heb. out of the battels and spoils.

e Heb. To strengthen it, either to make that Building strong and substantial by these and other Charges: or rather to repair it when it should be built; for which they might the rather take particular Care, because it was likely that every one would contribute to the building of the Temple, and there would be no want for that use; but few would provide for the Repairs of it, when by the Injury of Men or Time it should receive any Damage, 28 And all that Samuel the * seer, and Saul the son of Kish, and Abner the son of Ner, and Joab the son of Zerujah had dedicated, and whosoever had dedicated any thing, it was under the hand of Shelomith f, and of his brethren.

* 1 Sam. 9.9.

f Who is particularly named here and v. 26. because they were chiefly committed to his trust, he being, it seems, a person of Eminent Wisdom and Faithfulness.

29 Of the Izharite, Chenaniah and his sons g were for the outward business h over Israel i, for officers and Judges k.

g Who are probably thought to have been 1600; for that Sum added to the 1700, v. 30. and the 2700, v. 32. make up those 6000 Levites which were Officers and Judges, 1 Chron. 23.4. h For that business of the Lord and of the King (as it is explained here, v. 30, 32.) which was to be done without the Temple and without Jerusalem; for what was to be done within them was committed to other hands, as we have seen. i Synecdochically, i. e. over part of Israel, even over the Midland part and that which lay upon the Sea Coast: for the other parts of the Land on both sides of Jordan are here committed to others, v. 30, 31, 32. k Who shall be Officers and Judges over the people in the several Cities and Towns or Parts of the Land, to determine Questions and Controversies which might arise among them. And the reason why the Levites were instructed with these Matters was, because the Common or Municipal Law of Israel, by which they had and held all their Rights, was no other than the Law of God, whereof the Priests and Levites being the best and established Interpreters, must needs therefore be the most proper Judges of things depending thereupon.

30 And of the Hebronite, Hashabiah and his brethren, men of valour, a thousand and seven hundred were † officers among them of Israel on this side Jordan westward l, in all business of the LORD m, and in the service of the king n.

† Heb. over the charge.

l In those parts of the Land of Canaan which border upon Jordan or are not very remote from it. m i. e. In all things which did or should concern the House or Worship of God; partly to take care that such Monies as were either imposed by a Tax or freely given by the People towards the building or repairing of the Temple, or towards the Sacrifices and other Holy Ministrations, should be gathered and received, and faithfully sent up to Jerusalem to be employed in that Work; partly to see to the Execution of all the Laws of God among the People, and to restrain or punish wilful Offenders against it. n Not that all the Kings Businesses were managed by them; for it is apparent both from the nature of the thing and from Scripture, that the Kings Military Affairs were managed by his Captains, and his Political or Civil Affairs were managed by the Princes, and Judges, and Officers of other Tribes: but because they served the King in the Execution of his Decrees made pursuantly to the Laws of God, by which the several Rights of King and People were established, and all things both in Church and Commonwealth were to be ordered. Now as the King was the Principal Person intrusted with the Execution of Gods Laws, so these Levites chiefly were his Eyes, by which he saw his Peoples Transgressions, and his Hands by which he inflicted due and deserved Censures upon them for their Miscarriages. And the doing of this was very much for the Service of the King, whose Throne was established and secured by such Righteous Administrations. Besides they were to take care by their Counsel and Authority to keep the People in Obedience to their King; which the Levites were most obliged and best able to do.

31 Among the Hebronites was * Jerijah the chief, even among the Hebronites, according to the generations of his fathers. In the fortieth year n of the reign of David, they were sought for, and there were found among them mighty men of valour, at Jazer of Gilead o.

* Chap. 23. 19.

n Which was his last year, in which he made all the Orders and distributions of Families and Offices recorded in these Chapters. o Which place is here named, either because they were seated in or near that Place, but for what cause it is now unknown: or because they were numbred there by some Person sent by David to that Purpose.

32 And his brethren men of valour, were two thousand and seven hundred p chief fathers, whom king David made rulers over the Reubenite, the Gadite, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, for every matter pertaining to God, and † affairs of the king.

† Heb. things. 2 Chr. 19.11.

p Which is a very great number to be employed about two Tribes and an half, when all the rest of the Tribes had only 1700, v. 30. besides those under Chenaniah; of whom see on v. 29. But the reason hereof is plain, because the Tribes without Jordan being more remote from the Kings Court and from the place of publick and solemn Worship, needed more than ordinary help to instruct and keep them in the Practice of the True Religion and the Worship of God, and in Obedience to their King.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 NOw the children of Israel after their number, to wit, the chief fathers and captains of thousands and hundreds, and their officers a that served the king in any matter of the courses b, which came in and went out c month by month d, throughout all the months of the year, of every course were twenty and four thousand.

a The standing Force or Militia of Israel, as it was settled under their several Officers, as it here follows. b i. e. in all the business wherein the King had occasion for these Persons who were to attend upon him or his Commands by Courses or by Turns. Or, according to all the order or state of the Divisions, or, about the Companies or Courses into which they were distributed. c i. e. Executed their Offices; which is commonly signified by this Phrase, as Numb. 27.17. and elsewhere. d Who were to be Armed and Mustered and to wait upon the King either at Jerusalem, or in other places as the King should see fit. By this Order near 300000 of his People were instructed and exercised in the use of Arms, and fitted for the Defence of their King and Kingdom when it should be needful, and in the mean time sufficient Provision was made against any sudden Tumults or Irruptions of Enemies. And this monthly Course was contrived, that the Burthen of it might be easie and equally distributed among the People.

2 Over the first course for the first month, was Jashobeam e the son of Zabdiel: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

e Of whom see 2 Sam 23.8. and 1 Chron. 11.11.

3 Of the children of Perez f, was the chief of all the captains of the host for the first month.

f Or, of Pharez, of the Posterity of Judah, Gen 46.12. This seems to be understood of Jashobeam, and to be mentioned as a reason why he was the chief, &c. and the verse may be rendred thus, He was (which is easily understood out of the foregoing words) of the children of Perez (and consequently of the Tribe of Judah, to which the Pre-eminence belonged, and of which Judah was) and he was (or, therefore he was) the Chief (to wit, in Dignity and Precedency, though not in Power and Authority, for these captains were equal in Power, and Joab was their General) of all the Captains of the Host (whose several Names here follow) and was for the first month. Therefore he was first in Order, and was Captain for the first month.

4 And over the course of the second month, was ‖ Dodai an Ahohite, and of his course was Mikloth also the ruler g: in his course likewise were twenty and four thousand.

‖ Or, [Dodo, 2 Sam. 23. 9.

g Who was either 1. the Captain of this Course after the death of this Dodai, as Zebadiah was after Asahel, v. 7. But the differing Phrase there and here sufficiently intimates that the same thing is not meant in both Places. Or, 2. his Lieutenant or Deputy in case of his necessary Absence. But why should such an one be named here and not in the rest of the Courses? Or rather 3. one of the Officers of his Course; who seems here particularly to be named as a person then of great Note and Eminency.

5 The third captain of the host for the third month, was Benajah the son of Jehojada a ‖ chief priest h: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

‖ Or, principal officer.

h Or, the chief Priest. Or rather, a chief Prince, as this Hebrew Word is oft used, as Gen. 41. 45. & 47. 22. 2 Sam. 8.18. & 20.26. 1 King. 4.5. 2 King. 10.11. and elsewhere. Probably he was not only a Captain of this Course, but a great Officer in the Court and State. For although the Priests might take up Arms in some special Cases, yet it is not likely that such were constant Officers in the Kings Army, especially seeing the rest of the Captains here named were of other Tribes. Besides, neither Benajah nor Jehojadah was High-Priest at that time, but Zadok or Abiathar, and before them Abimelech, in whom the Priesthood had been for a long time together, even in the days of Samuel and Saul and David and Solomon.

6 This is that Benajah, who was * mighty among the thirty, and above the thirty: and in his course was Ammizabad his son i.

*2 Sam. 23. 20, 22, 23. Ch. 11. 12, 22.

i Who seems to have been his Fathers Lieutenant, because his Father was Captain of the Kings Guards, 2 Sam. 8.18. and therefore needed a Deputy in the one or in the other place.

7 The fourth captain for the fourth month, was * Asahel the brother of Joab k, and Zebadiah his son after him l: and in his m course were twenty and four thousand.

*2 Sam. 23. 24. Ch. 11. 26.

k By which, it seems, the Foundation of this Project was laid whilst David was in Hebron, during which time Asahel was slain, and David's Forces were then divided into 24 Courses under 24 Chief Commanders, whereof Asahel was one; onely it is probable that the number of their Forces was much less than that which is here mentioned: But when David was fully settled in his whole Kingdom, the design was perfected and the numbers of their Souldiers increased to this Number. l i. e. After his death; of which see 2 Sam. 2. 23. m Not Asahel's, for in his time they were not so numerous, but Zebadiah's his Son.

8 The fifth captain for the fifth month, was Shamhuth n the Izrahite: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

n Supposed to be the same called Shammah, 2 Sam. 23. 11. and Shammoth, 1 Chron. 11.27.

9 The sixth captain for the sixth month, was * Ira the son of Ikkesh the Tekoite: and in his course were twenty and four thousand. * Ch. 11. 28.

10 The seventh captain for the seventh month, was Helez the Pelonite o, of the children of Ephraim: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

o So called also 1 Chron. 11.27. and the Paltite, 2 Sam. 23.26.

11 The eighth captain for the eighth month, was * Sibbecai the Hushathite, of the Zarhites p: and in his course were twenty and four thousand. *2 Sam. 21. 18.

p Of the Family of the Zarhites.

12 The ninth captain for the ninth month, was Abiezer the Anetothite, of the Benjamites: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

13 The tenth captain for the tenth month, was Maharai the Netophathite, of the Zarhites: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

14 The eleventh captain for the eleventh month, was Benajah the Pirathonite, of the children of Ephraim: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

15 The twelfth captain for the twelfth month, was ‖ Heldai the Netophathite of Othniel: and in his course were twenty and four thousand. ‖ Or, Helid, Ch. 11. 30.

16 Furthermore, over the children of Israel q: the ruler of the Reubenites was Eliezer the son of Zichri: of the Simeonites, Shephatiah the son of Maacha.

q i. e. These were the Princes of the Tribes, as they are called below, v. 22. who were the most ancient and constant Rulers of the Tribes at all times whether of War or Peace; who seem to have had a Superiour Power to these 24 Captains, and therefore are named before them, cb. 28. 1. being probably the Kings Chief Counsellours and Assistants in the great Affairs of his Kingdom.

17 Of the Levites, * Hashabiah the son of Kemuel: † of the Aaronites, Zadok: * Ch. 26. 30. † Heb. Aaron.

18 Of Judah, Elihu r one of the brethren of David: of Issachar, Omri the son of Michael:

r Called also Eliab, 1 Sam 16.6.

19 Of Zebulun, Ishmajah the son of Obadiah: of Naphtali, Jerimoth the son of Azriel:

20 Of the children of Ephraim, Hashea the son of Azaziah: of the half-tribe of Manasseh, Joel the son of Pedajah:

21 Of the half-tribe of Manasseh in Gilead, Iddo the son of Zechariah: of Benjamin, Jaasiel the son of Abner:

22 Of Dan, Azareel the son of Jeroham. These were the princes of the Tribes s of Israel.

s Of the most of the Tribes, not of all: for Gad is omitted, probably because that Tribe was joyned with the Reubenites under one Prince; and Asher, for some such reason; or for some other Causes now unknown and not worth our Enquiry.

23 But David took not the number of them from twenty years old and under t: because * the LORD had said, he would increase Israel like to the stars of the Heavens u. * Gen. 15. 5.

t The meaning is, David when he desired to number the people, he designed to number only those who were from twenty years old and upward, or (which is the same thing) those that drew sword,

1 Chron. 21. 5. and not those who were from 20 years old and under. u And therefore to number them all both above and under twenty years old, had been both an infinite trouble and a tempting of God, or a questioning of the Truth of his Promises. And possibly this Circumstance might in part deceive or quiet Davids Conscience, that his desire of knowing the number of his People did not proceed from distrust of Gods Promise or Providence, but from a prudent Care to know the true State and Strength of his Kingdom.

24 Joab the son Zerujah began to number x, but he finished not y, because * there fell wrath for it against Israel z, neither † was the number put in the account of the chronicles of king David a.

*2 Sam. 24. 15. Ch. 21. 7. † Heb. ascended.

x To wit, All from 20 years old and upward, as David commanded him. y For Levi and Benjamin he counted not, 1 Chron. 21. 6. z Whilst he was doing the Work; which was one reason which made him to cease. Heb. and there fell, &c. Though David numbred them with Caution and Limitation, as was noted before, yet this did not hinder Gods Wrath from falling upon Israel for this Sin. a The sence is either 1. That the full number was not registred, because Levi and Benjamin were not counted by Joab. Or rather 2. That David being sensible of and smarting for his Sin, would not have the number brought in by Joab to him put into the publick Register, though God would have it recorded in Scripture for the instruction of succeeding Ages. For he speaks not here of the Account given in to the King, which was done, and was Joab's Act; but of the putting of the Account into the publick Records, which was not done, and which could not be done but by Davids Command or Permission.

25 And over the kings treasures b was Azmaveth the son of Adiel: and over the storehouses c in the fields, in the cities, and in the villages, and in the castles, was Jehonathan the son of Uzziah.

b Of Gold, or Silver, or other things of great price, which for greater security were kept in Jerusalem and in the Kings Palace: and thither the Tribute-money also was sent and committed to his Care. c Of the Fruits of the Earth, or that share of them which belonged to the King, which were laid up in the Fields, or Cities, or Villages, or Castles, as there was conveniency and occasion.

26 And over them that did the work of the field d for tillage of the ground, was Ezri the son of Chelub.

d Over the Kings Husbandry.

27 And over the vineyards e was Shimei the Ramathite: † over the increase of the vineyards for the wine-cellars, was Zabdi the Shiphmite.

† Heb. over that which was of the Vineyards.

e i. e. Over the Workmen and Labourers in the Vineyards; as the next Officer is over the Fruit of the Vineyards. In like manner one man was over the Labourers in the Fields, v. 26. and another over the Fruits of the Fields put into Stores after the manner, v. 25.

28 And over the olive-trees, and the sycamore-trees that were in the low plains, was Baal-hanan the Gederite: and over the cellars of oil was Joash.

29 And over the herds that fed in Sharon f, was Shitrai the Sharonite: and over the herds that were in the valleys was Shaphat the son of Adlai.

f A place Famous for its Fruitfulness. See Isa. 33. 9. & 35. 2.

30 Over the camels also, was Obil the Ishmeelite g: and over the asses, was Jehdeja the Meronothite.

g So called either because he was born of that People, or had lived among them; or from some notable Exploit which he did against them.

31 And over the flocks, was Jaziz the Hagerite. All these were the rulers of the substance which was king Davids.

32 Also Jonathan Davids uncle was a counsellor, a wise man, and a ‖ scribe h: and Jehiel the ‖ son of Hachmoni was with the kings sons i.

‖ Or, Secretary. ‖ Or, Hachmonite.

34 And after Ahithophel m, was Jehojada the son of Benajah, and Abiathar; and the general of the kings army was * Joab.

* Ch. 11. 6.

m i. t. After his death, these were his Chief Counsellors.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 AND David assembled a all the * princes of Israel, the princes of the tribes, and * the captains of the companies that ministred to the kingly course, and the captains over the thousands, and captains over the hundreds, and the * stewards over all the substance and ‖ possession of the king, and of his sons, with the ‖ Officers, and with * the mighty men, and with all the valiant men unto Jerusalem.

* Ch. 27. 16. * Ch. 27. 1, 2. * Ch. 27. 25. ‖ Or, battel. ‖ Or, eunuchs. * Ch. 11. 10.

a This Assembly seems to be distinct from that ch. 23. 2. and more general, as may be gathered from the persons said to be assembled here and there. Though others think them to be the same, and this to be a return to his former Discourse.

2 Then David the king stood up upon his feet b, and said, Hear me, my brethren c, and my people: As for me, I had in mine heart to build an house of rest d for the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and e for the foot-stool of our God, and had made ready for the building:

b Partly out of Reverence to God and his Word, which was the Matter of the following Discourse; and partly out of Respect to this great and honourable Assembly. c So he calls the Princes and chief Rulers, both because they had a Share with him, though under him, in the Government; and in compliance with the Divine Command, that the King should not be lifted up above his Brethren, Deut. 17. 20. d A place where it might be fixed, and no more removed from place to place, as it had been. e Which is here put expositively, for by the Foot-stool, &c. he means the Ark.

3 But God said unto me, * Thou shalt not build an house for my name, because thou hast been a man of war, and hast shed † blood.

* 2 Sam. 7. 5, 13. 1 Kin. 5. 3. Ch. 22. 8. † Heb. bloods.

4 Howbeit the LORD God of Israel chose me before all the house of my father to be king over Israel * for ever: for he hath chosen * Judah to be the ruler; and of the house of Judah, the house of my father; and among the house of my father, he liked me to make me king over Israel.

* 2 Chr. 13. 5. * Gen. 49. 8. 1 Sam. 16. 13. Psal. 78. 68.

5 * And of all my sons (for the LORD hath given me many sons) he hath chosen f Solomon my son, to sit upon the throne of the kingdom of the LORD over Israel.

* Ch. 23. 1.

f It is not my fancy or fond Affection, but Gods express Will, that Solomon should be preferred before his elder Brethren; and therefore all of you are obliged to submit to him and accept of him as your King by Divine Appointment.

6 And he said unto me, * Solomon thy son, he shall build my house and my courts: for I have chosen him to be my son, and I will be his father.

* 2 Sam. 7. 13. 1 Chr. 22. 9. 2 Chr. 1. 9.

7 Moreover, I will establish his kingdom for ever, if he be † constant to do my commandments and my judgments, as at this day.

g As he hath begun and hitherto continued in some good measure to do.

8 Now therefore in the sight of all Israel the congregation of the LORD, and in the audience of our God h, keep and seek for all the commandments of the LORD i your God, that ye may possess this good land, and leave it for an inheritance for your children after you for ever.

h i. t. I do here exhort and charge you every one, calling God who is here present, and this Congregation wherein all Israel are present by their Representatives, for Witness against you if you do not follow my Counsel. i Keep those Commands which you know, and seek for or search into what you are yet ignorant of, that you may distinctly understand the whole Will of God and all the parts of your Duty, and seriously give up your selves to the Practice thereof.

9 And thou, Solomon my Son, know thou the God k of thy father, and serve him with a perfect heart, and with a willing mind; for * the LORD searcheth all hearts, and understandeth all the imaginations of the thoughts l: if thou seek him, he will be found of thee; but if thou forsake him m, he will cast thee off for ever n.

* 1 Sam. 16. 7. 1 King. 8. 39. Psal. 7. 9. & 139. 7. Jer. 11. 20. & 17. 10.

k Know him so as to love him and serve him, as it follows: for Words of Knowledge in Scripture use commonly imply Affection and Practice: or acknowledge him, as thy God, by loving and obeying him: For otherwise, Solomon did already know God, having doubtless been very well instructed in the Knowledge of Gods Nature and Law. l If thou doest onely put on a profession of Religion to please me and secure thy Hopes of the Kingdom, or if thy obedience to God be unsincere and with grudging, thou mayest indeed deceive me, but thou canst not deceive him, for he searcheth thy inward Thoughts and the motions of thy heart. m If when I am dead and gone, and thou art perfectly at thy own disposal, thou shalt cast off that Religion and Fear of God of which thou now makest profession, and shalt continue to do so without true Repentance for thine Errours. n Notwithstanding all his Promises made to me and to my seed, and that great Honour and Favour which he hath shewed to thee, with which possibly thou mayest flatter thy self.

10 Take heed now, for the LORD hath chosen thee to build an house for the sanctuary o: be strong p and do it.

o Or, for a Sanctuary, i. e. which is to be a Sanctuary for him, to wit, for the Ark, to dwell in. p Take Courage and Resolution to break through all Difficulties, Troubles, Discouragements or Oppositions which thou mayest possibly meet with.

11 Then David gave to Solomon his son the pattern of the porch q, and of the Houses thereof r, and of the treasuries thereof, and of the upper chambers thereof, and of the inner parlours thereof s, and of the place of the mercy-seat t.

q To wit, of the Temple; which is necessarily to be understood. r Either 1. the Houses of the Porch, so called because they went thorough the Porch into them. Or rather 2. the Houses of the Temple, manifestly understood in the next foregoing Clause of this Verse; to wit, the Holy Place, and the Holy of Holies; which may well pass for two Houses, because they were separated by a Partition; and because they were of differing dimensions, as appears by 1 King. 6. 2, 20. especially seeing the Holy Place is called the greater House, 2 Chron. 3. 5. comparatively to the Holy of Holies, which was the lesser House, and so you have two Houses. s By these he seems to understand all those Rooms which were made against the Wall of the House round about, as is said 1 King. 6. 5. which are here called by divers names, according to the difference of their situation or use. t i. e. In what particular part of the Holy of Holies it was to be placed.

† Heb. of all that was with him.

12 And the pattern † of all u that he had by the spirit x, of the courts of the house of the LORD, and of all the chambers round about, of the treasuries of the house of God, and of the treasuries of the dedicate things y.

u For, Even the pattern of all: for this clause belongs both to the foregoing and to the following Particulars. x By the Spirit of God, as is evident from v. 19. For seeing all the particulars of the Tabernacle built by Moses were suggested to him by Gods Spirit, by which even the Workmen were inspired, Exod. 25. 40. and 31. 3. it is not credible that God would use less care and exactness in the building of this far more glorious and durable Work. y All which were within the Courts or adjoyning to them, as the other Chambers v. 11. were adjoyned to the House.

13 Also for the courses of the priests and the Levites, and for all the work of the service of the house of the LORD, and for all the vessels of service in the house of the LORD.

14 He gave of gold by weight, for things of gold, for all instruments of all manner of service, silver also for all instruments of silver, by weight, for all instruments of every kind of service.

15 Even the weight for the candlesticks of gold, and for their lamps of gold, by weight for every candlestick, and for the lamps thereof: and for the candlesticks of silver by weight, both for the ‖ candlestick, and also for the lamps thereof, according to the use of every candlestick z.

‖ main body of the.

z Whether they were large and fixed in one place, whereof there were ten in the Holy Place, 1 King. 7. 49. or such as were less and loose, to be carried from place to place, as need required.

16 And by weight he gave gold for the tables of shew-bread a, for every table, and likewise silver for the tables of silver:

a By this and 2 Chron. 4. 19. it appears that there were divers Tables to be used either successively or together about the shew-bread; but one of them seems to have been of more Eminency and use than the rest, and therefore it is most commonly called the Table of the shew-bread in the singular number. But of this and the rest of the Utensils here named, see the Notes on Exodus.

17 Also pure gold for the flesh-hooks, and the bowls and the cups: and for the golden basons he gave gold by weight for every bason, and likewise silver by weight for every bason of silver:

18 And for the altar of incense, refined gold by weight; and gold for the pattern of the chariot of the * cherubims b, that spread out their wings and covered the ark of the covenant of the LORD c.

* 1 Sam. 4. 4. 1 King. 6. 23. &c.

b i. e. Of the Cherubims; which Solomon was to make, of which see 1 King. 6. 23. (for those which were fastened to the Mercy-seat were made by Moses long before) which he fitly compares to a Chariot, because within them God is oft said to sit and to dwell, as 2 King. 19. 15. Psal. 80. 1. & 99. 1. and sometimes he is said to ride upon a Cherub, Psal. 18. 10. And because a Chariot is made to carry a Person from place to place, this Expression may be used to intimate that God was not so fixed to them by the building of this Temple, but that he both could and would remove from them if they forsook him. And when they did so, God did make use of the Chariot of his Cherubims to convey himself away from them, as is noted Ezek. 10. 15, &c. c Not above it, for that was done by Moses his Cherubims, but before it, to keep it from the Eyes of the High-priest, when he entred into the most Holy Place, 1 King. 6. 23.

19 All this, said David, * the LORD made me understand in writing by ‖ his hand upon ‖ me d, even all the works of this pattern.

* Exod. 25. 40. ‖ Or, from. ‖ Or, to, or, within.

d The meaning is, either 1. That God revealed this to Samuel, (see 1 Chron. 9. 22.) or Gad, or Nathan, or some other Man of God who put it into writing, and by them to David. Or 2. That God did as it were by his own Hand and Finger (wherewith he wrote the Ten Commandments, Exod. 31. 18.) write these things upon the Table of my Mind, which now I deliver to thee.

20 And David said to Solomon his son, Be strong and of good courage e, and do it: fear not, nor be dismayed, for the LORD God, even my God, will be with thee, he will not fail thee, nor forsake thee, until thou hast finished all the work for the service of the house of the LORD.

e See the Notes on v. 10.

21 And behold, the courses of the priests and the Levites, even they shall be with thee for all the service of the house of God, and there shall be with thee for all manner of workmanship, every willing skilfull man, for any manner of service: also the princes and all the people will be wholly at thy commandment.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 FUrthermore, David the King said unto all the congregation, Solomon my Son, whom alone God hath chosen, is yet * young and tender a, and the work is great: for the palace is not for man, but for the LORD.

* Ch. 22. 5.

a Comparatively: for he was now married, as appears by comparing 2 Chron. 9. 30. and 12. 13.

2 Now I have prepared with all my might for the house of my God, the gold for things to be made of gold, and the silver for things of silver: and the brass for things of brass, the iron for things of iron, and wood for things of wood; onyx-stones, and stones to be set b, glistering stones, and of divers colours, and all manner of precious stones, and marble-stones in abundance.

b Diamonds, or Emeraulds, or Rubies, or any of those precious Stones which are usually set in Rings or such things.

3 Moreover, because I have set my affection to the house of my God, † I have of mine own proper good c, of gold and silver, which I have given to the house of my God, over and above all that I have prepared for the holy house.

d Which was accounted the best and purest Gold: of which see Job 22. 24. & 28. 16. Isa. 13. 12. By which it appears that those 100000 Talents mentioned before, ch. 22. 14. were a courser and impurer sort of Gold. e The Walls of the Temple with Gold, and of the Rooms adjoyning to it with Silver beaten out into Plates, and put upon the other Materials here and there as it was thought fit.

† Heb. to fill his hand. † to consecrate his service f this day unto the LORD?

f Heb. to fill his hand, i. e. to offer an Offering, as Exod. 32. 29. Levit. 8. 33. as I have done.

‖ Or, families. So Gr. * Ch. 27. 25. 6 Then the chief of the ‖ fathers and princes of the tribes of Israel, and the captains of thousands and of hundreds, with the * rulers over the kings ‖ work, offered willingly.

‖ Or, substance. 7 And gave for the service of the house of God, of gold five thousand talents, and ten thousand drams, and of silver ten thousand talents; and of brass, eighteen thousand talents, and one hundred thousand talents of iron.

8 And they with whom precious stones were found, gave them to the treasure of the house of the LORD,
* Ch. 26. 21. by the hand of * Jehiel the Gershonite.

9 Then the people rejoyced g, for that they offered willingly, because with perfect heart they offered willingly to the LORD: and David the king also rejoyced with great joy.

g Because this was both an Effect of Gods Grace in them, and an Eminent Token of Gods Favour and Goodness to be continued to them, and a good Pledge that this great and long-desired Work of the building of the Temple would receive a certain and a speedy Accomplishment.

10 Wherefore David blessed the LORD before † Gr. thou art to be blessed. † Heb. from everlasting. all the congregation; and David said, † Blessed be thou, LORD God of Israel our father, † for ever and ever.

* Mat. 6. 13. 1 Tim. 1. 17. Rev. 5. 13. 11 * Thine, O LORD is the greatness, and the power h, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven, and in the earth, is thine; thine is the kingdom, O LORD, and thou art exalted as head above all i.

h i. e. Thou art Great, and Powerful, &c. i As the Soveraign Lord and Owner of all Persons and Things.

12 Both riches and honour come of thee, and thou reignest over all k, and in thine hand is power and might, and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all l.

k i. e. Thou disposest of Riches and Honour, as thou pleasest. l Even to the weakest, whom thou canst make strong, and to the strongest, who are weak without thy help.

13 Now therefore, our God, we thank thee, and praise thy glorious name.

† Heb. retain, or, obtain strength. † Heb. of thine hand. 14 But who am I, and what is my people, that we should † be able to offer so willingly m after this sort? for all things come of thee, and † of thine own have we given thee n.

m i. e. That thou shouldest give us both such Riches out of which we should be able to make such an Offering, and such a willing and free heart to offer them; both which are thy Gifts, and the Fruits of thy good Grace and Mercy to us. n We return onely what we have received, and therefore we do only pay a Debt to thee, and do not hereby oblige thee or deserve any thing from thee.

* Psal. 39. 12. Heb. 11. 13. 1 Pet. 2. 11. * Psal. 90. 9. & 144. 4. † Heb. expectation, Lev. 25. 23. 15 For * we are strangers before thee, and sojourners, as were all our fathers o: * our days on the earth are as a shadow, and there is none † abiding p.

o These words may contain a reason either 1. of the first clause of v. 14. Who am I, &c. i. e. What mean and contemptible Creatures are we, and how unworthy of so high a Favour? For, saith he here, we, I and my People, as it is v. 14. are strangers, &c. poor Pilgrims who bring nothing into the World, and pass hastily thorough it, and can carry nothing with us out of it. Or rather 2. of the last clause of that 14*th.* verse, of thine own, &c. For the Land which we possess is thine, not ours, we are not the Proprietors or perpetual Possessors of it, but only thy Tenants: and as our Fathers once were meer strangers in it, even with or before men, Psal. 105. 12. so we at this day are no better with or before thee, having no absolute Right and Title in it, but onely to travel thorough it, and sojourn in it for that short time that we live in the World. And thus the Argument seems to be borrowed from Levit. 25. 23. where this is given as a reason why the Inheritances of the Land of Canaan could not be sold for ever, but only till the Jubily, for, saith God, the land is mine, as to Dominion and Propriety, for ye were (or, for, or, but you are) onely strangers and sojourners with me. p We onely give to thee what we must shortly leave, and what we cannot keep to our selves: and therefore it is a great Favour that thou wilt accept such Offerings; or, and therefore we are not perpetual Possessors of this Land and the Fruits of it, but onely Pilgrims and Passengers thorough it.

16 O LORD our God, all this store that we have prepared to build thee an house for thine holy name, cometh of thine hand, and is all thine own.

* 1 Sam. 16. 7. Ch. 28. 9. 17 I know also, my God, that thou * triest the heart, and hast pleasure in uprightness. As for me, in the uprightness of mine heart I have willingly offered all these things; and now have I seen with † Heb. found. joy thy people which are † present here, to offer willingly unto thee q.

q By the largeness of their Offering I discern the Sincerity, Willingness and Generosity of their Hearts towards thee: for David judged, as in reason and charity he ought, of the Tree by its Fruit, and of their Hearts by their Actions.

‖ Or, stablish. 18 O LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and of Israel our father, keep this for ever in the imagination of the thoughts of the heart of thy people r, and ‖ prepare their heart unto thee s.

r Since it is from thy Grace that thy People have such willing Minds to thy Service, as was before acknowledged, I beg the continuance of that Grace to them, that they may persist in the same generous and Pious Disposition towards thee and thy Worship. s Or rather, as it is in the Margent, stablish or confirm, &c. Thou who hast begun a good Work, confirm and carry it on by thy Grace, otherwise it will languish, and this very People will prove degenerate.

19 And give unto Solomon my son a perfect heart to keep thy Commandments, thy testimonies and thy statutes, and to do all these things, and to build the palace for the which I have made provision t.

t By purchasing the place, 1 Chron. 21. and providing for the Expences of the Work.

20 And David said to all the congregation, Now bless the LORD your God. And all the congregation blessed the LORD God of their fathers, and bowed down their heads, and worshipped the LORD and the king u.

u The Lord with Religious, and the King with Civil, Worship, as it is evident.

21 And they sacrificed sacrifices unto the LORD x, and offered burnt-offerings unto the LORD, on the morrow after that day, even a thousand bullocks, a thousand rams, and a thousand lambs, with their drink-offerings, and sacrifices in abundance for all Israel y:

x Before the Ark, which was there. y Either 1. on the behalf of all Israel, to praise God in their Names, to procure Gods Presence and Blessing for them all. Or 2. so many, that the Feasts which, after the manner, were made of the remainders of the Sacrifices, were abundantly sufficient for all the Israelites which were then present and desired to partake of them; or for all the Governours of Israel there assembled, who may well pass under the name of all Israel, because they represented them all.

* 1 King. 1. 35. 22 And did eat and drink before the LORD z, on that day with great gladness, and they made Solomon the son of David king the second time a, and * anointed him unto the LORD to be the chief governour b, and Zadok to be priest c.

z i. e. Before the Ark, in Courts or Places as near to it as they conveniently could. Or, as in Gods Presence, in a Solemn and Religious manner, praising God for this great Mercy, and begging his Blessing upon this great affair. a This is called the second time in reference to the first time, which was either 1. when he was made King during Adonijahs Conspiracy, of which see 1 King. 1. 34, &c. And so this was done after Davids death, and not upon that day, when this Feasting and Solemnity lasted, as the words at first view seem to insinuate, this being related in the same verse, and immediately after the Relation of the Feast. But these are Examples of things done at distant times put together in one verse, as Act. 7. 15. So Jacob went down into Egypt, and died, he and our Fathers, i. e. first he, and afterward our Fathers. So here, They did eat —— on that day with great gladness, and afterward they made Solomon —— king the second time. And this Opinion seems to be confirmed by the following Passages, in which it is related that at this same time they anointed Zadok to be priest, and that Solomon was King instead of David, and that all Israel, and all Davids sons

submitted to him: All which was not done till after Davids death, as may be gathered by comparing this with 1 King. 1. & 2. or 2. in 1 Chron. 23. 1. where it is said that David — made Solomon his son King over Israel; i. e. he declared him his Successor. And so this second time was during Davids Life. And what David had more privately declared, ch. 23. he now more solemnly owns in this great and general Assembly, in which by Davids Order and the Consent of all that Assembly, Solomon was anointed King, i. e. to be King after his Fathers death. And this Opinion the Text seems most to Favour. For it is said, And they made Solomon King, &c. they, who? That must be fetched out of the foregoing Words and Verses, they who did eat and drink before the Lord on that day with great gladness, as it is here said, and then immediately it follows, and that with a copulative conjunction, and they made Solomon King, &c. which without violence cannot be pulled away from the foregoing Words. And therefore they must be David and all the Congregation, who were then present, v. 20. of whom it is said, they sacrificed, &c. v. 21. and they did eat, &c. and they made Solomon, &c. The great Objection against this Opinion is, that they anointed Zadok to be Priest at this time, which was not done till after Davids death; for till then Abiathar was not thrust out from being Priest, &c. 1 King. 2. 26, 27. This indeed is a difficulty, but not insoluble. It must be remembred that the High-Priest had his Vicegerent, who might officiate in his stead when he was hindred by Sickness or other indispensible Occasion; and that there seems to be something more than ordinary in Zadoks case; for although Abiathar was properly the High-priest, yet Zadok seems after a sort to be joyned in Commission with him, as we see 2 Sam. 15. 29. & 19. 11. and it is expresly said Zadok and Abiathar were Priests, 2 Sam. 20. 25. and 1 King. 4. 4. And it may be further considered that this anointing of Zadok might be occasioned by some miscarriage of Abiathar not recorded in Scripture. Possibly he was unsatisfied with this Design of translating the Crown to Solomon, and did now secretly favour Adonijahs Person and Right, which afterward he did more openly defend: Which being known to David by information, might induce him and the Princes who favoured Solomon to take this course. Which they might the more willingly do in consideration of that Divine Threatning, 1 Sam. 2. 31, &c. of translating the Priesthood from Ithamars and Elies House, of which Abiathar was, to Eleazars Line, to which it had been promised to perpetuity, Numb. 25. 13. of which Line Zadok was. And they might judge this a fit Season, or might be directed by God at this time to execute that Threatning to the one, and promise to the other Family. And yet this Action of theirs in anointing Zadok did not, as I suppose, actually constitute him High-priest, but only settled the Reversion of it upon him and his Line after Abiathar's death. Even as Davids making Solomon king, ch. 23. 1. and their anointing Solomon to be the chief governour here did not put him into actual Possession of the Kingdom, but onely gave him a Right to it in Reversion after the present Kings death, as Samuels anointing of David, 1 Sam. 16. had done to David before him. Hence, notwithstanding this Anointing, Abiathar continued to exercise his Office till Solomon thrust him out, 1 King. 2. 27. and even after he was removed from the Execution of his Office, yet he was reputed the Priest till he died, being so called 1 King. 4. 4. And this, I hope, may in some sort resolve that difficulty. For the other Arguments they seem not considerable. For as for what follows v. 23, 24, 25. Then Solomon sat on the Throne, &c. that indeed seems to belong to the time after Davids death, being sufficiently separated from this 22[d] verse; and not so knit to the foregoing Words, as those words, and they made Solomon King, &c. are. And for the particle, then, that is confessed by all to be often used at large and indefinitely for, about or after that time. b i. e. To be King after Davids death. c Of which the last Note but one.

23 Then Solomon sat on the throne of the LORD d as king instead of David his father, and prospered, and all Israel obeyed him.

On the Throne of Israel, which is called the Throne of the Lord, either more generally as all Thrones are the Lords, by whom Kings reign, Prov. 8. 15. and Magistrates are ordained, Rom. 13. 1, 2. or more specially and peculiarly; Either 1. because the Lord himself was in a peculiar manner the King and Governour of Israel, not onely in the time of the Judges, but afterward, Psal. 44. 4. & 89. 18. & 149. 2. Isa. 33. 22. or 2. because it was the Throne of Christ the Lord, whose Vicegerents David and Solomon and their Successors were, for whom this Throne was reserved, and by whom it was to be established and enjoyed for ever, Luke 2. 32, 33. Or 3. The Throne of the Lord is put for, The Throne of the People of the Lord, by a concise and short manner of Speech, which is frequent in the Hebrew Language, as when the Key of David is put for the Key of the House of David; and the Mountain of the Lord, for the Mountain of the Lords House: Or 4. Because this Throne fell to Solomon not by right of Inheritance, for he had Elder Brethren, but by the special Appointment and Gift of the Lord. CHAP. I.

* 1 King. 2. 45. 1 AND * Solomon the ſon of David was ſtrengthned a in his kingdom, and the LORD his God was with him, and magnified him * exceedingly.

*1 Chr. 23. 17. * Heb.

2 Then Solomon ſpake b unto all Iſrael, to the captains of thouſands and of hundreds, and to the judges, and to every governour in all Iſrael, ‖ the chief of the fathers.

3 So Solomon and all the congregation with him, went to the high place c that was at * Gibeon, for there was the tabernacle of the congregation of God, which Moſes the ſervant of the LORD had made in the wilderneſs.

* 1 King. 3. 4. 1 Chr. 16. 39. & 21. 29.

c Upon which the Tabernacle was placed; whence it is called the great high Place, 1 King. 3. 4.

4 * But the ark of God had David brought up from Kirjath-jearim, to the place which David had prepared for it: for he had pitched a tent for it at Jeruſalem d.

* 1 Sam. 6. 17. 1 Chr. 16. 1.

d He ſeparated the Ark from the Tabernacle, and brought it to Jeruſalem, becauſe there he intended to build a far more noble and laſting Habitation for it.

5 Moreover, * the brazen altar that Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, had made, ‖ he e put before the tabernacle of the LORD: and Solomon and the congregation ſought unto it f.

CHAP. II.

1 AND Solomon determined to build an houſe for the name of the LORD, and an houſe for his kingdom a.

a i. e. A Royal Palace for himſelf and his Succeſſors. This whole Chapter for the ſubſtance of it is contained in 1 King. 5. and in the the Notes there it is explained, and the seeming Differences reconciled.

* 1 King. 5. 15. 2 And * Solomon told out threescore and ten thousand men to bear burdens, and fourscore thousand to hew in the mountains, and three thousand and six hundred to oversee them.

‖ Or, Hiram. 1 King. 5. 1. * 1 Chr. 14. 1. 3 And * Solomon sent to ‖ Huram the king of Tyre, saying, As thou * didst deal with David my father, and didst send him cedars to build him an house to dwell therein, even so deal with me b.

b Which words may be commodiously understood from the nature of the thing and from the following Words, such Ellipses being frequent in the Hebrew. Or, without any Ellipses, the sence being here suspended, is compleated v. 7. so send me, &c. the 4, 5, and 6, verses being inserted by way of Parenthesis to usher in and enforce his following Request.

† Heb. incense of Spices. 4 Behold, I build an house to the name of the LORD my God, to dedicate it to him c, and to burn before him † sweet incense, and for the continual shew-bread d, and for the burnt-offerings morning and evening, on the sabbaths, and on the new-moons, and on the solemn feasts of the LORD our God. This is an ordinance for ever to Israel.

c i. e. To his Honour and Worship. d So called here and Numb. 4. 7. because it was to be there continually, by a constant succession of new Bread when the old was removed: of which see Exod. 25. 30. Levit. 24. 8.

5 And the house which I build is great e: for great is our God above all gods.

e For though the Temple strictly so called was but small, yet the Buildings belonging to it both above and under ground, were large and numerous.

* 1 King. 8. 27. Chap. 6. 18. † Heb. hath retained, or, obtained strength. 6 * But who † is able to build him an house, seeing the heaven, and the heaven of heavens cannot contain him f? who am I then that I should build him an house, save only to burn sacrifice before him g.

f When I speak of building a great House for our great God, let none be so foolish to think that I mean to include or comprehend God within it, for he is Infinite. g i. e. To worship him there where he is graciously present.

† Heb. to grave gravings. 7 Send me now therefore a man, cunning to work in gold, and in silver, and in brass, and in iron, and in purple, and crimson, and blew, and that can skill † to grave with the cunning men that are with me in Judah and in Jerusalem, whom David my father did provide.

‖ Or, almug-trees, 1 Kin. 10. 11. 8 Send me also cedar-trees, fir-trees, and ‖ algum-trees out of Lebanon: (for I know that thy servants can skill to cut timber in Lebanon) and behold, my servants, shall be with thy servants.

† Heb. great and wonderful. 9 Even to prepare me timber in abundance; for the house which I am about to build, shall be † wonderfully great h.

h See the Notes on v. 5.

10 And behold, I will give to thy servants, the hewers that cut timber, twenty thousand measures of beaten wheat, and twenty thousand measures of barley, and twenty thousand baths of wine, and twenty thousand baths of oyl.

11 Then Huram the king of Tyre answered in writing, which he sent to Solomon, Because the LORD hath loved his people, he hath made thee king over them.

12 Huram said moreover, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel that made heaven and earth, who hath given to David the king a wise son, † endued with prudence and understanding, that might build an house for the LORD, and an house for his kingdom.

† Heb. knowing, prudence and understanding.

13 And now I have sent a cunning man (endued with understanding) of Huram my fathers i; i i. e. Who was my fathers Chief Workman. Or, Huram Abi, a Man so called; the Prefix Lamed being here onely a Note of the Accusative Case. See more on ch. 4. 16.

14 The son of a woman of the daughters of Dan k, and his father was a man of Tyre, skilful to work in gold and in silver, in brass, in iron, in stone and in timber, in purple, in blew, and in fine linen, and in crimson: also to grave any manner of graving, and to find out every device which shall be put to him, with thy cunning men, and with the cunning men of my lord l David thy father.

k Of which see the Notes on 1 King. 7. 14. l So he calls David here, and Solomon in the next Verse, either out of singular respect to their Greatness and true Worth: or because he was indeed Tributary to them: or, at least, his Country was nourished by their Country, as it was afterwards, Act. 12. 20.

15 Now therefore the wheat, and the barley, the oil, and the wine which my lord hath spoken of, let him send unto his servants:

† Heb. according to all thy need. † Heb. Japho. 16 And we will cut wood out of Lebanon, † as much as thou shalt need, and we will bring it to thee in flotes by sea to † Joppa, and thou shalt carry it up to Jerusalem.

* 1 King. 5. 13. & 9. 20. and ver. 2. † Heb. the men, the strangers. 17 * And Solomon numbred all † the strangers that were in the land of Israel, after the numbring wherewith David his father had numbred them m; and they were found an hundred and fifty thousand, and three thousand and six hundred.

m For David had not onely numbred his own People, for which he smarted, 2 Sam. 24. but afterward he numbred the Strangers, not out of Vanity, but that Solomon might have a true Account of them, and employ them about his Buildings, as he saw fit. Yet Solomon thought fit to number them again, because Death might have made a considerable Alteration among them since Davids numbring of them; and it behoved him to have an exact Account of them.

* As it is, ver. 2. 18 And he set * threescore and ten thousand of them to be bearers of burdens, and fourscore thousand to be hewers in the mountains, and three thousand and six hundred overseers to set the people a work.

* 1 King. 6. 2. † Heb. founded. 3 Now these are the things * wherein Solomon was † instructed e for the building of the house of God. The length by cubits after the first measure f was threescore cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits.

Or, these were Solomons Foundations, the Hebrew verb being put for the noun, as it is elsewhere. The Sence is, These were the Measures of the Foundations, upon which he intended to build the Temple. f i. e. According to the Measure of the first and ancient Cubit. By which it is evident that there were Cubits of different sorts and sizes; which also appears from Ezek. 40. 5. and 43. 13. But how big those Cubits were, and how much larger than the common Cubits, and and whether this was the Cubit used by Moses in the building of the Tabernacle, which seems most probable, or some other, and yet larger Cubit, is not agreed among learned Men, and cannot now be exactly known, nor is it of any great moment for us to know.

* 1 King. 6. 3. 4 And the * porch that was in the front of the house, the length of it was according to the breadth of the house, twenty cubits, and the height was an hundred and twenty g: and he over-laid it within with pure gold.

* 1 King. 7. 25. 3 * And under it was the similitude of oxen, which did compass it round about: ten in a cubit compassing the sea round about. Two rows of oxen were cast, when it was cast.

4 It stood upon twelve oxen, three looking toward the North, and three looking toward the west, and three looking toward the south, and three looking toward the east: and the sea was set above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

‖ Or, like a lily-flower. 5 And the thickness of it was an hand breadth, and the brim of it like the work of the brim of a cup, ‖ with flowers of lilies; and it received and held three thousand baths.

c Of which see 1 King. 7. 39, &c.

* 1 King. 7. 49. 7 * And he made ten candlesticks of gold according to their form d, and set them in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left.

d Either 1. The Form which was appointed for them by God, who signified it to David: Or rather, 2. The old Form which God prescribed to Moses, Exod. 25. 31, &c. for so these were made. And this clause seems to be added here, because in many things there was a great Variation from the old Form; as in the posture of the Cherubims, the heighth of the Altar, and divers other things.

* 1 King. 7. 48. ‖ Or, bowls. 8 * He made also ten tables e, and placed them in the temple, five on the right side, and five on the left: and he made an hundred ‖ basons of gold.

* 1 King. 6. 36. 9 Furthermore, * he made the court of the priests, and the great court, and doors for the court, and overlaid the doors of them with brass.

15 One sea, and twelve oxen under it.

16 The pots also, and the shovels, and the fleshhooks, and all their instruments did Huram his father g make to king Solomon for the house of the LORD, of † bright brass.

† Heb. made bright; or, scoured.

g i.e. Solomon's Father; the Relative being put before the Antecedent, which is not unusual in the Hebrew Tongue. And he is so called here, because Solomon usually called him by that name out of that great Respect which he bare to him for his excellent Art and Service which he did for him: It being usual to call great Artists and Inventers of things by this Name: Of which see Gen. 4. 20, 21. Or, Huram Abiu, or Abif, a Man so called; or Huram Abi, as ch. 2. 13.

CHAP. V.

1 THus all the work that Solomon made for the house of the LORD was finished: * And Solomon brought in all the things that David his father had dedicated; and the silver, and the gold a, and all the instruments, put he among the treasures of the house of God.

* 1 Kin. 7. 51.

a Or, even (as that Particle is oft understood) the Silver, and the Gold, the Remainder of those vast Sums mentioned, 1 Chron. 22. 14.

2 * Then Solomon assembled the elders of Israel b, and all the heads of the tribes, the ‖ chief of the fathers of the children of Israel unto Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD, out of the city of David, which is Zion.

* 1 King. 8. 2, &c.

‖ Or, rulers of the families. So Gr.

b Of this, and the following Verses, see the Notes on 1 Kin. 8. 1, &c.

3 Wherefore all the men of Israel assembled themselves unto the king in the feast, which was in the seventh month.

4 And all the elders of Israel came, and the Levites took up the ark.

5 And they brought up the ark, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and all the holy vessels that were in the tabernacle, these did the priests and the Levites bring up.

6 Also king Solomon and all the congregation of Israel that were assembled unto him before the ark, sacrificed sheep and oxen, which could not be told nor numbred for multitude.

7 And the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto his place, to the oracle of the house into the most holy place, even under the wings of the cherubims.

8 For the cherubims spread forth their wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubims covered the ark and the staves thereof above.

9 And they drew out the staves of the ark, that the ends of the staves were seen from the ark before the oracle, but they were not seen without. And ‖ there it is unto this day c.

‖ Or, they are there; as, 1 King. 8. 8.

c When this History was first written; not when it was reviewed by Ezra, who made some Additions to it: For after the Return from Babylon, neither Staves nor Ark were any more seen, or heard of.

10 There was nothing in the ark save the two tables which Moses * put therein at Horeb, ‖ when the LORD made a covenant with the children of Israel, when they came out of Egypt.

* Deut. 10. 2, 5.

‖ Or, where.

11 And it came to pass when the priests were come out of the holy place: (for all the priests that were † present were sanctified, and did not then wait by course d.

d According to David's Appointment, 1 Chr. 24 & 25. which was only for the ordinary Service, but in extraordinary Solemnities, such as this eminently was, they all came together.

12 * And also the Levites which were the singers; all of them of Asaph, of Heman, of Jeduthun, with their sons, and their brethren; being arrayed in white linen, having cymbals, and Psalteries, and harps, stood at the east-end of the altar, and with them an hundred and twenty priests sounding with trumpets.)

* 1 Chr. 25. 1.

13 It came even to pass, as the trumpeters and singers were as one, to make one sound to be heard in praising and thanking the LORD: and when they lift up their voice with the trumpets, and cymbals, and instruments of musick, and praised the LORD, saying, * For he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever: that then the house was filled with a cloud, even the house of the LORD;

* Psal. 136.

14 So that the priests could not stand to minister by reason of the cloud: for the glory of the LORD had filled the house of God.

* 1 Kin. 8. 12, &c.

* Lev. 16. 2. Exod. 20. 21.

a This whole Chapter, for the substance, and almost all the words of it, are explained in the Notes on 1 King. 8.

2 But I have built an house of habitation for thee, and a place for thy dwelling for ever.

3 And the king turned his face, and blessed the whole congregation of Israel, (and all the congregation of Israel stood)

4 And he said, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, who hath with his hands fulfilled that which he spake with his mouth to my father David, saying,

5 Since the day that I brought forth my people out of the land of Egypt, I chose no city among all the tribes of Israel to build an house in, that my name might be there, neither chose I any man to be * a ruler over my people Israel.

* 2 Sam. 6. 21. 1 Chr. 28. 4.

6 But I have chosen Jerusalem, that my name might be there, and have chosen David to be over my people Israel.

7 Now * it was in the heart of David my father, to build an house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.

* 2 Sam. 7. 2. 1 Chr. 28. 2.

8 But the LORD said to David my father, Forasmuch as it was in thine heart to build an house for my name, thou didst well in that it was in thine heart:

9 Notwithstanding, thou shalt not build the house, but thy son which shall come forth out of thy loins, he shall build the house for my name.

10 The LORD therefore hath performed his word that he hath spoken: for I am risen up in the room of David my father, and am set on the throne of Israel, as the LORD promised, and have built the house for the name of the LORD God of Israel, 11 And in it have I put the ark, wherein is the covenant of the LORD, that he made with the children of Israel.

12 And

12 And he ſtood before the altar of the LORD, in the preſence of all the congregation of Iſrael, and ſpread forth his hands;

13 (For Solomon had made a brazen ſcaffold, of five cubits † long, and five cubits broad, and three cubits high, and had ſet it in the midſt of † the court, and upon it he ſtood, and kneeled down upon his knees before all the congregation of Iſrael, and ſpread forth his hands toward heaven)

† Heb. the length thereof, &c.
† Heb. auxiliatory; or, place of help.

14 And ſaid, O LORD God of Iſrael, * there is no God like thee in the heaven, nor in the earth; which keepeſt covenant, and ſheweſt mercy unto thy ſervants, that walk before thee with all their hearts.

* Exod. 15.11. Deut. 3.24.

15 Thou which haſt kept with thy ſervant David my father, that which thou haſt promiſed him, and ſpakeſt with thy mouth, and haſt fulfilled it with thine hand, as it is this day.

16 Now therefore, O LORD God of Iſrael, keep with thy ſervant David my father, that which thou haſt promiſed him, ſaying, *† There ſhall not fail thee a man in my ſight to ſit upon the throne of Iſrael; * yet ſo, that thy children take heed to their way to walk in my law, as thou haſt walked before me.

17 Now then, O LORD God of Iſrael, let thy word be verified which thou haſt ſpoken unto thy ſervant David.

* Ch. 2. 6. Iſa. 66. 1. Act. 7. 49.

19 Have reſpect therefore to the prayer of thy ſervant, and to his ſupplication, O LORD my God, to hearken unto the cry and the pray which thy ſervant prayeth before thee:

20 That thine eyes may be open upon this houſe day and night, upon the place whereof thou haſt ſaid, that thou wouldſt put thy Name there, to hearken unto the prayer, which thy ſervant prayeth ‖ towards this place.

‖ Or, in this place.

33 Then hear thou from the heavens, even from thy dwelling-place, and do according to all that the ſtranger calleth to thee for; that all people of the earth may know thy Name, and fear thee, as doth thy people Iſrael, and may know that † this houſe which I have built, is called by thy Name.

† Heb. thy name is called upon this houſe.

34 If thy people go out to war againſt their enemies by the way that thou ſhalt ſend them, and they pray unto thee toward this city which thou haſt choſen, and the houſe which I have built for thy Name:

Because she was a Woman, and attended by many other Women, who besides the common Pollutions of all are subject to many and frequent Ceremonial Pollutions peculiar to their Sex, and either she, or at least many of her followers might be Heathens at this time; and therefore he thought it indecent that such persons should come as it were in Gods stead, and succeed him in the place where he had dwelt. Or, 2. He speaks not of the Time when the Ark was gone, but whilest it was there; and these words contain a Reason not of the more remote words, why he now brought her up thither, but of the words immediately preceding, why he built this House for Her; because the Ark was now in the House of David, which therefore ought to be kept pure and free from the very Danger and Appearance of Poliution.

CHAP. IX.

* 1 Kin. 10. 1. &c. Mat. 12. 42. Luke 11. 31. 1 AND * when the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon, she came to prove Solomon a with hard questions at Jerusalem, with a very great company, and camels that bare spices, and gold in abundance, and precious stones: and when she was come to Solomon, she communed with him of all that was in her heart.

a Almost all this Chapter is contained in 1 King. 10. where it is explained.

2 And Solomon told her all her questions: and there was nothing hid from Solomon which he told her not.

3 And when the queen of Sheba had seen the wisdom of Solomon, and the house that he had built,

4 And the meat of his table, and the sitting of his servants, and the attendance of his ministers, and their apparel, his ‖ cup-bearers also, and their apparel, and his ascent, by which he went up into the house of the LORD, there was no more spirit in her.

‖ Or, butlers.

5 And she said to the king, It was a true † report which I heard in mine own land, of thine ‖ acts, and of thy wisdom:

† Heb. word. ‖ Or, sayings.

6 Howbeit, I believed not their words, until I came, and mine eyes had seen it: and behold, the one half of the greatness of thy wisdom was not told me: for thou exceedest the fame that I heard.

7 Happy are thy men, and happy are these thy servants, which stand continually before thee, and hear thy wisdom.

8 Blessed be the LORD thy God, which delighted in thee to set thee on his throne, to be king for the LORD b thy God: because thy God loved Israel, to establish them for ever, therefore made he thee king over them, to do judgment and justice.

b i. e. In the Lords Name and Stead, both in general, because all Kings have and hold their Kingdoms from God and act as his Vicegerents and Deputies; and in a special manner, because he sat in Gods own Throne and ruled over Gods Peculiar People, and did in a singular and eminent manner maintain the Honour and Worship of God in his Land and in the Eyes of all the World besides.

9 And she gave the king an hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of spices great abundance, and precious stones: neither was there any such spice as the queen of Sheba gave king Solomon.

10 And the servants also of Huram, and the servants of Solomon, which brought gold from Ophir, brought algum trees, and precious stones.

11 And the king made of the algum-trees ‖ † terrises to the house of the LORD, and to the kings palace, and harps and psalteries for singers: and there were none such seen before in the land of Judah.

‖ Or, stays. † Heb. high-ways. Gr. ascents.

12 And king Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba, all her desire, whatsoever she asked, besides that which she had brought c unto the king: So she turned, and went away to her own land, she and her servants.

c Besides what he gave her of his Royal Bounty, as it is expressed, 1 King. 10. 13. which was in compensation for her Presents, as is here noted.

13 Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year, was six hundred and threescore and six talents of gold;

14 Besides that which chapmen and merchants brought: and all the kings of Arabia, and ‖ governours of the country, brought gold and silver to Solomon.

‖ Or, captains.

15 And king Solomon made two hundred targets of beaten gold: six hundred shekels of beaten gold went to one target.

16 And three hundred shields made he of beaten gold: three hundred shekels of gold went to one shield: and the king put them in the house of the forest of Lebanon.

17 Moreover, the king made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it with pure gold.

18 And there were six steps to the throne with a foot-stool of gold, which were fastened to the throne, and † stays on each side of the sitting-place, and two lions standing by the stays.

19 And twelve lions stood there, on the one side and on the other, upon the six steps. There was not the like made in any kingdom.

21 For the kings ships went to Tarshish with the servants of Huram: every three years once came the ships of Tarshish bringing gold and silver, 22 And king Solomon passed all the kings of the earth in riches, and wisdom.

† Heb. face. 23 And all the kings of the earth sought the † presence of Solomon, to hear his wisdom that God put in his heart.

24 And they brought every man his present, vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and rayment, harness, and spices, horses, and mules, a rate year by year.

31 And Solomon slept with his fathers; and he was buried in the city of David his father, and Rehoboam his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. X.

* 1 Kin. 12. 1, &c. 1 AND * Rehoboam went to Shechem a: for to Shechem were all Israel come to make him king.

a The Contents of this Chapter are in 1 King. 12. where see the Notes.

2 And it came to pass when Jeroboam the son of Nebat, (who was in Egypt, whither he had fled from the presence of Solomon the king) heard it, that Jeroboam returned out of Egypt;

3 And they sent b and called him. So Jeroboam and all Israel came, and spake to Rehoboam, saying,

b Or. For (as that Particle is oft used, as hath been noted before) they had sent, &c. So this is the Reason why he returned, as was said v. 2.

4 Thy father made our yoke grievous, now therefore ease thou somewhat the grievous servitude of thy father, and his heavy yoke that he put upon us, and we will serve thee.

5 And he said unto them, come again unto me after three days. And the people departed.

6 And king Rehoboam took counsel with the old men that had stood before Solomon his father, while he yet lived, saying, what counsel give ye me, to return answer to this people?

7 And they spake unto him, saying, If thou be kind to this people, and please them, and speak good words to them, they will be thy servants for ever.

8 But he forsook the counsel which the old men gave him, and took counsel with the young men that were brought up with him, that stood before him.

9 And he said unto them, What advice give ye, that we may return answer to this people, which have spoken to me, saying, Ease somewhat the yoke that thy father did put upon us?

10 And the young men that were brought up with him, spake unto him, saying, thus shalt thou answer the people that spake unto thee, saying, thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it somewhat lighter for us: thus shalt thou say unto them, My little finger shall be thicker than my fathers loins.

11 For whereas my father † put a heavy yoke upon you, I will put more to your yoke: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions. † Heb. laded.

12 So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam on the third day, as the king bade, saying, Come again to me on the third day.

13 And the king answered them roughly, and king Rehoboam forsook the counsel of the old men:

14 And answered them after the advice of the young men, saying My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add thereto, my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

15 So the king hearkned not unto the people, for the cause was of God, that the LORD might perform his word which he spake by the * hand of Ahijah the Shilonite, to Jeroboam the son of Nebat. * 1 Kin.11.29.

16 And when all Israel saw that the king would not hearken unto them, the people answered the king, saying, What portion have we in David? and we have none inheritance in the son of Jesse: every man to your tents, O Israel: and now David, see to thine own house. So all Israel went to their tents.

17 But as for the children of Israel that dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them.

18 Then king Rehoboam sent Hadoram that was over the tribute, and the children of Israel stoned him with stones, that he died: but king Rehoboam † made speed to get him up to his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem. † Heb. strengthened himself.

19 And Israel rebelled against the house of David unto this day.

CHAP. XI.

1 AND * when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem, he gathered of the house of Judah and Benjamin a an hundred and fourscore thousand chosen men, which were warriors, to fight against Israel, that he might bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam. * 1 Kin.12.21, &c.

a Of this verse and v. 2, 3, 4. see the Notes on 1 King. 12. 21. &c.

2 But the word of the LORD came to Shemaiah the man of God, saying,

3 Speak unto Rehoboam the son of Solomon king of Judah, and to all Israel in Judah and Benjamin, saying,

4 Thus saith the LORD, Ye shall not go up, nor fight against your brethren: return every man to his house, for this thing is done of me. And they obeyed the words of the LORD, and returned from going against Jeroboam.

5 And Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem, and built cities b for defence in Judah.

b i.e. Repaired and enlarged, and fortified them: as building is oft used in Scripture, as hath been formerly proved: For these Cities, or divers of them, were built before, as appears from Jos. 10. 10. & 12. 15. & 15. 24, 33, 35, 58. & 19. 42.

6 He built even Beth-lehem, and Etam, and Tekoa,

7. And Beth-zur, and Shoco, and Adullam,

8 And Gath, and Mareshа, and Ziph,

9 And

9 And Adoraim, Lachiſh, and Azekah,
10 And Zorah, and Ajalon and Hebron, which are in Judah and in Benjamin, fenced cities.
11 And he fortified the ſtrong holds, and put captains in them, and ſtore of victuals, and oyl, and wine.
12 And in every ſeveral city c he put ſhields, and ſpears, and made them exceeding ſtrong, having Judah and Benjamin on his ſide.

c To wit, ſo fortified, as he ſaid v. 11.

13 And the prieſts and the Levites that were in all Iſrael, † reſorted to him out of all their coaſts.
14 (For the Levites left their * ſuburbs, and their poſſeſſion, and came to Judah and Jeruſalem: for * Jeroboam and his ſons had caſt them off from executing the prieſts office unto the LORD d.

† Heb. preſented themſelves to him.

d They would not ſuffer them to inſtruct and aſſiſt the Iſraelites in the worſhip and ſervice of God, nor to go up to Jeruſalem to worſhip in their Courſes: and theſe Prieſts would not joyn with them in the Worſhip of the Calves, as they were deſired and commanded to do; and therefore they willingly forſook all their Patrimonies and Poſſeſſions for Gods Sake.

15 And he ordained him prieſts for the high places, and for the devils, and for the calves e which he had made.)

e Or, for the high places, both for the Devils i.e. the Baals or falſe gods, which divers of his People worſhipped, whom he permitted and encouraged to do ſo, giving them liberty to do any thing but to ſerve God at Jeruſalem) and for the Calves. So he erected two ſorts of High places, ſome for Baal, and ſome for the True God, whom he pretended and would be thought to worſhip in and by the Calves.

16 And after them out of all the Tribes of Iſrael, ſuch as ſet their heart to ſeek the LORD God of Iſrael f, came to Jeruſalem, to ſacrifice unto the LORD God of their fathers.

f Such as loved and feared God in truth and with their whole Heart.

17 So they ſtrengthened the kingdom of Judah, and made Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon ſtrong three years: for three years they walked in the way of David and Solomon g.

g This honourable mention of Solomon as a Pattern of Piety, is a conſiderable Evidence of his true Repentance before his death: of which ſee more on 1 King. 11. 43.

18 And Rehoboam took him Mahalath the daughter of Jerimoth to wife, and Abihail the daughter of Eliab the ſon of Jeſſe:
19 Which bare him children; Jeuſh, and Shamariah, and Zaham.
20 And after her, he took * Maachah the daughter of Abſalom, which bare him Abijah, and Attai, and Ziza, and Shelomith.

* 1 Kin. 15. 2. She is called Michaiah the daughter of Uriel. Chap. 13. 2.

21 And Rehoboam loved Maachah the daughter of Abſalom above all his wives and his concubins: (for he took eighteen wives, and threeſcore concubins, and begat twenty and eight Sons and threeſcore daughters.)
22 And Rehoboam made Abijah the ſon of Maachah the chief, to be ruler among his brethren h: for he thought to make him king.

h he declared him his Succeſſor, and gave him the Dominion over his Brethren: wherein (if he was not the Firſt-born, as it ſeems to be implyed, becauſe this is mentioned as an Effect of his Superlative Love to his Mother) he tranſgreſſed that Law, Deut. 21. 15, 16. unleſs God was pleaſed to diſpence with it at this time.

23 And he dealt wiſely, and diſperſed i of all his children throughout all the countries of Judah and Benjamin, unto every fenced city k: and he gave them victuals in abundance: and deſired † many wives l.

† Heb. a multitude of wives.

i Leſt his other Sons ſhould after his death unite their Counſels and Forces together againſt Abijah, he wiſely diſperſed them into ſeveral and diſtant Places, and under pretence of honouring them with the Government of them, he made them Priſoners in a ſort, appointing ſeveral perſons to obſerve their motions and prevent their Combinations. k Agreeable to their Quality, that their Reſtraint might be more eaſie to them. l Either, 1. for his Children: Or rather, 2. for himſelf, by comparing this with v. 21.

2 And it came to paſs, that in the fifth year a of king Rehoboam, Shiſhak king of Egypt came up againſt Jeruſalem (* becauſe they had tranſgreſſed againſt the LORD)

a & 28. 19
* 1 Kin. 14. 24, 25.

a Preſently after the Apoſtacy of the King and People, which was in his fourth year, by comparing this with ch. 11. 17.

3 With twelve hundred chariots, and threeſcore thouſand horſemen: and the people were without number that came with him out of Egypt, the Lubims b, the Sukkiims c, and the Ethiopians d.

b A People of Africa bordering upon Egypt: of whom ſee ch. 16. 8. Dan. 11. 43. Nah. 3. 9. c A People living in Tents, as the Word ſignifies; and ſuch there were not far from Egypt both in Africa and in Arabia. d Either thoſe beyond Egypt, or the Arabians.

4 And he took the fenced cities which pertained to Judah, and came to Jeruſalem.
5 Then came Shemajah the prophet to Rehoboam, and to the princes of Judah, that were gathered together to Jeruſalem becauſe of Shiſhak, and ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the LORD, Ye have forſaken me, and therefore have I alſo left you in the hand of Shiſhak.
6 Whereupon the princes of Iſrael, and the king humbled themſelves, and they ſaid, The LORD is righteous.
7 And when the LORD ſaw that they humbled themſelves e, the word of the LORD came to Shemajah, ſaying, They have humbled themſelves, therefore I will not deſtroy them, but I will grant them ‖ ſome deliverance, and my wrath ſhall not be poured out f upon Jeruſalem by the hand of Shiſhak.

‖ Or, a little while.

e Which though they did but forcedly, yet God was pleaſed ſo far to regard it as to mitigate their Calamity. f I will give ſome ſtop to the courſe of my Wrath which was ready to be poured forth upon them to their utter Deſtruction.

8 Nevertheleſs, they ſhall be his ſervants; that they may know my ſervice, and the ſervice of the kingdoms of the countries g.

g That they may experimentally know and feel the Difference between my Yoke and the Yoke of a Foreign and Idolatrous Prince, and what miſchief they have done to themſelves by forſaking me and my Service.

9 So Shiſhak king of Egypt came up againſt Jeruſalem, and took away the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD, and the treaſures of the kings houſe h, he took all: he carried away alſo the ſhields of gold, which Solomon had * made.

h Upon which condition and Rehoboam's Submiſſion to him he delivered up to him the fenced Cities of Judah, which he had taken v. 4. But of this and the two next verſes ſee on 1 Kin. 14. 26, &c.

10 Inſtead of which king Rehoboam made ſhields of braſs, and committed them to the hands of the chief of the guard, that kept the entrance of the kings houſe.
11 And when the King entred into the houſe of the LORD, the guard came and ſet them, and brought them again into the guard-chamber.
12 And when he humbled himſelf, the wrath of the LORD turned from him, that he would not deſtroy him altogether: ‖ and alſo in Judah things went well i.

‖ Or, and yet in Judah there were good things.

i Heb. There were good things. The meaning is either, 1. Though there were many Corruptions in Judah, yet there were alſo divers good things there, which were not in Iſrael, as the Word and Ordinances and pure Worſhip of God, Prophets and Miniſters of Gods Inſtitution, and divers truly Religious People. And ſo this is an additional Reaſon why God would not deſtroy them. Or, 2. Notwithſtanding this loſs, they began to recruit themſelves and to regain ſome degree of their former Proſperity. Whence it follows v. 13. So, there being ſome reſpite respite given and Peace being restored, Rehoboam strengthened himself, &c.

13 So king Rehoboam strengthened himself in
* 1 Kin. 14 21. Jerusalem and reigned: for * Rehoboam was one and forty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city which the LORD had chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, to put his name there: and his mothers name was Naamah an Ammonitess.

k Or, directed not: or setted not, &c. i. e. Although he humbled himself and seemed penitent for a season, and professed the True Religion and Worship of God; yet he quickly relapsed into his former Sins, because he was not sincere nor serious in his Actions, and his heart was not right with God.

† Heb. words. 15 Now the acts of Rehoboam, first and last, are they not written in the † book of Shemajah the prophet, and of Iddo the seer, concerning genealogies l? And there were wars between Rehoboam and Jeroboam continually.

CHAP XIII.

* 1 Kin. 15. 1, &c. 1 NOw * in the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam began Abijah to reign over Judah.

2 He reigned three years in Jerusalem: (his mothers name also was Micajah the daughter of Uriel a of Gibeah) and there was war between Abijah and Jeroboam.

a Called Maachah the Daughter of Absalom, 1 King. 15. 2 She might be Daughter to one, and Grand-daughter to the other; or the proper and natural Daughter of the one, and the others by Adoption; of which there are Instances in Scripture, or the same Person might be called Uriel and Absalom. See 1 King. 15, 2.

† Heb. bound together. 3 And Abijah † set the battel in array c, with an army of valiant men of war, even four hundred thousand chosen men: Jeroboam also set the battel in array against him with eight hundred thousand men, being mighty men of valour.

c Against Jeroboam. We need not scrupulously enquire into the Lawfulness of this War, for this Abijah, though here he makes a fair Flourish and maintained the better Cause, yet was indeed an Ungodly Man, 1 King. 15. 3. and therefore minded not the satisfaction of his Conscience, but only the Recovery of his Parents Ancient Dominions.

4 And Abijah stood up upon mount Zemaraim d, which is in mount Ephraim, and said, Hear me, thou Jeroboam, and all Israel.

d Some commodious Place whence his voice might be heard by Jeroboam and some of his Host, who possibly were pitched in the Valley, Or, the two Armies being pitched near to one another, Abijah might desire a Parly before they fought, whereupon Jeroboam and some of his Commanders and Souldiers might draw near to him and stand below him at the bottom of the Hill where they might hear his Speech: which Jeroboam was the more willing to do, that in the mean time he might cause an ambushment to come behind Abijah and his Army, as he did, v. 13. whilest he was quietly standing before them, and seemed to hearken to any Terms of Accommodation which might be offered.

5 Ought ye not to know, that the LORD God of Israel gave the kingdom over Israel to David for ever, even to him and to his sons by a covenant of salt e?

e i. e. By a perpetual Covenant, which thy Usurpation cannot disanul. For the Phrase see on Numb. 18. 19.

But herein Abijah forgets his Duty both to his Father, whom he falsly traduceth; and to God, by whose Express Command Rehoboam was restrained from the War against Israel, which otherwise he had both Courage and Resolution to prosecute, as appears from the History, 1 King. 12. 21.

13 But Jeroboam caused an ambushment to come about behind them z: so they were before Judah, and the ambushment was behind them.

z Whilest Abijah was discoursing, Jeroboam takes the Advantage of it to lay an Ambush.

14 And when Judah looked back, behold, the battel was before and behind: and they cried unto the LORD, and the priests sounded with the trumpets.

15 Then the men of Judah gave a shout: and as the men of Judah shouted, it came to pass that God

God smote a Jeroboam and all Israel before Abijah and Judah.

a By strengthening the Hearts and Hands of the Men of Judah, and taking away the Spirits and Power of their Enemies; and, it may be, by some extraordinary Assistance.

16 And the children of Israel fled before Judah: and God delivered them into their hand.

17 And Abijah and his people slew them with a very great slaughter: so there fell down slain of Israel five hundred thousand b chosen men.

b A vast Number: but it hath been oft observed and recorded by sacred and profane Historians, that in those ancient Times there were very numerous Armies, and oft times very great Slaughters; and if this Slaughter was more than ordinary, there is nothing strange nor incredible, because the Almighty God fought against the Israelites.

18 Thus the children of Israel were brought under at that time, and the children of Judah prevailed, because they relyed upon the LORD c God of their fathers.

c They put their Trust in him and confidently expected Help from him: which is a Disposition of heart that God prizeth and taketh kindly. See 2 King. 18. 5. 2 Chron. 20. 20. Psal. 22. 4. Dan. 3. 28.

19 And Abijah pursued after Jeroboam, and took cities from him, Beth-el d with the towns thereof, and Jeshanah with the towns thereof, and Ephraim e with the towns thereof.

d Which Jeroboam recovered afterwards, as appears by the course of the History, though it be not particularly mentioned, which is the case of many other considerable things. And in the mean time it is very probable that, when Jeroboam's Host was discomfited, and he expected that Abijah would pursue his Victory, he removed the Golden Calf from Beth-el, which lay near Abijah's Kingdom, to some fitter Place. e A City so called, possibly the same which is mentioned, Jos. 11. 54. or that which is called Ophra, Judg. 8. 27.

20 Neither did Jeroboam recover strength again in the days of Abijah: and the Lord strook him f, and he died g.

f i. e. Jeroboam, as appears from the contrary condition of Abijah described in the next verse. Him God might strike either with vexation and horror of Mind: or with some painful and lingring but incurable Disease, like that of Jehoram, which tormented him two years together, and at last killed him, 2 Chron. 21. 19. g Not presently, but a year or two after this time.

21 But Abijah waxed mighty, and married fourteen wives, and begat twenty and two sons, and sixteen daughters h.

h Not now after this Victory, for he died presently after it, but in the whole time of his Life, before he was King, and afterward.

22 And the rest of the acts of Abijah, and his ways, and his sayings, are written in the ‖ story of the prophet * Iddo.

‖ Or, commentary.

CHAP. XIV.

1 SO Abijah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David, and * Asa his son reigned in his stead: in his days the land was quiet ten years a.

* 1 Kin. 15. 8, &c.

a i. e. There was no open War, either by Baasha or others; only there were secret Grudges and private Hostilities between his and Baasha's Subjects, 1 King. 15. 16.

2 And Asa did that which was good and right in the eyes of the LORD b his God.

b Of this and the next verse see on 1 King. 15. 11, 12.

3 For he took away the altars of the strange † Heb. statues. gods, and the high places, and brake down the † images, and cut down the groves:

4 And commanded Judah to seek the LORD God of their fathers c, and to do the law and the commandment d.

c By his Royal Edicts he required them to worship God, and him only. d i. e. To practise all which the Laws of Moses required of them.

5 Also he took away out of all the cities of Judah the high places, and the † images: And the kingdom was quiet before him. † Heb. sun-images.

6 And he built fenced cities in Judah: for the land had rest, and he had no war in those years, because the LORD had given him rest.

7 Therefore he said unto Judah, Let us build these cities, and make about them walls and towers, gates and bars, while the land is yet before us d: because we have sought the LORD our God, we have sought him, and he hath given us rest on every side: so they built and prospered.

d i. e. In our Power, as that Phrase is oft used. See on Gen. 13. 9.

8 And Asa had an army of men e, that bare targets and spears, out of Judah, three hundred thousand, and out of Benjamin, that bare shields and drew bows, two hundred and fourscore thousand: all these were mighty men of valour.

e Which, as it seems, he had now gathered together upon the Information of Zerah's Design against him.

9 * And there came out against them Zerah the Ethiopian f with an host of a thousand thousand, and three hundred chariots, and came unto Mareshah g. * Ch. 16. 8.

f Or, the Arabian, as the Hebrew word Cush is commonly used, as hath been noted before: These being much nearer to Asa than the Ethiopians, who also could not have come to Asa but thorough Egypt, which probably the King of Egypt would not permit him to do. g A City upon and within the Borders of Judah, Jos. 15. 44.

10 Then Asa went out against him, and they set the battel in array in the valley of Zephathah, at Mareshah.

11 And Asa cried unto the LORD his God, and said, LORD, † it is * nothing with thee h to help, whether with many, or with them that have no power. Help us, O LORD our God, for we rest on thee, and in thy Name i we go against this multitude. O LORD, thou art our God, let not ‖ man prevail against thee. † Heb. it is not for thee to help amongst many, him that hath no strength. * 1 Sam. 14. 6. ‖ Or, mortal man.

h i. e. There is no difference, or no difficulty, with thee. i By thy Commission, in confidence of thy Assistance, and for the maintenance of thy Honour, and Service, and People.

12 So the LORD smote the Ethiopians before Asa, and before Judah, and the Ethiopians fled.

13 And Asa and the people that were with him, pursued them unto Gerar k: and the Ethiopians were overthrown, that they could not recover themselves, for they were † destroyed before the LORD, and before his host, and they carried away very much spoil. † Heb. broken.

k A City of the Philistins, who probably were Confederate with them in this Design.

14 And they smote all the cities round about Gerar l, for * the fear of the LORD came upon them: and they spoiled all the cities, for there was exceeding much spoil in them. * Gen. 35. 5. Chap. 17. 10.

l Partly because they had joyned with Zerah in this War; and partly because the Ethiopians had sheltred a great part of the Remains of the Army in them.

15 They smote also the tents of cattel m, and carried away sheep and camels in abundance, and returned to Jerusalem.

m i. e. The dwellers in Tents, which were either a part of Zerah's Company, or joyned with them, or had come along with them to furnish that Great Host with necessary Provisions; which their Custom of dwelling in Tents made them more capable of doing.

CHAP XV.

1 AND the spirit of God came upon Azariah the son of Oded.

2 And he went out † to meet Asa, and said unto him, Hear ye me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin, * The LORD is with you a, while ye be with him, and if ye seek him, he will be found of you: but if ye forsake him, he will forsake you b. † Heb. before Asa. * Jam. 4. 8.

a To defend you against all your Enemies, as now you have seen, and you may hereafter expect, if you persist in that good Course into which you are entred. b But let not this Victory make you presumptuous or self-confident; for you are upon your good Behaviour; and if you leave God, he will leave and destroy you after he hath done you Good.

3 Now for a long season * Israel hath been without the true God, and without a teaching priest, and without law c. * Ch. 12. 1.

c Heb. For many days have been to Israel without the true God, &c. i. e. They have long lived without the found Knowledge and Worſhip of the true God. The Prophet confirms his foregoing Exhortation and the Threatning annexed to it, that if they forſook God he would forſake him, from the uſual manner of Gods dealing with Iſrael formerly, and thererefore in the ſame caſe they may expect the ſame uſage. Iſrael here mentioned and propounded as an example is here underſtood, either, 1. Specially of the Ten Tribes diſtinguiſhed by that name from the Kingdom of Judah; whoſe Condition had been ſince Jeroboam's Revolt, and now was ſuch in ſome meaſure, as is here deſcribed, they having been, and ſtill being, without God and his True Worſhip, and therefore expoſed to many Vexations, and Wars, and Miſeries. But theſe had not as yet turned unto God or ſought him, nor was God yet found of them, as is ſaid of this Iſrael, v. 4. Nor had they as yet been exerciſed with thoſe grievous and continual Vexations, and Wars, and mutual Deſtructions, of which he here ſpeaks, v. 5, 6. and which in ſucceeding times they felt. For except that one Blow which they had from Abijah, ch. 13. we read of none other great Miſchiefs which befel them. Or rather, 2. Generally of the whole Nation of Iſrael in former times, and eſpecially in the times of the Judges; to which all that follows ſuits very well: For then many times they were, though not wholly and univerſally, yet in a very great meaſure and for the generality of them without God and his Law, and Teaching Prieſts, as plainly appears from divers paſſages in the Book of the Judges; and then indeed they were brought to all the Exigences and Calamities here following; then they had grievous Wars both Foreign and Domeſtick; and then they did ſometimes turn to the Lord and ſought him, and he was found of them, and did raiſe up Judges and Saviours to them; of which ſee Judg. 2. at large, & Judg. 3. 9, 15. & 10. 10, &c.

4 But when they d in their trouble did turn unto the LORD God of Iſrael, and ſought him, he was found of them.

d i. e. Iſrael, mentioned, v. 3.

5 And in thoſe times e there was no peace to him that went out, nor to him that came in f, but great vexations were upon all the inhabitants of the countries g.

e When Iſrael lived in the groſs Neglect and Contempt of God and his Law and Worſhip. f Men could not go abroad about their private occaſions without great Danger; as it was in the days of Shamgar, Judg. 5. 6. which is a good Comment upon this Text. g Heb. of theſe Countries, i. e. The divers Parts of the Land of Iſrael both within and without Jordan.

† Heb. beaten in pieces.

6 And nation was † deſtroyed of nation h, and city of city: for God did vex them with all adverſity.

h i. e. One part of the people of Iſrael deſtroyed the other by Civil Wars: of which ſee inſtances, Judg. 9. 23, &c. and 12. 1, &c. As all the people of Iſrael are called a Nation, ſo the ſeveral Tribes and Families of them are ſometimes called Nations, as Gen. 17. 4. Ezek. 2. 3. Act. 4. 27. compared with Pſal. 2. 1.

7 Be ye ſtrong therefore i, and let not your hands be weak k: for your work ſhall be rewarded l.

i Go on therefore Courageouſly and Reſolutely to maintain Gods Worſhip, and to root out Idolatry, as you have begun to do; for this is the only right Method of preſerving your ſelves from ſuch Calamities as your Predeceſſors have felt. k Be not diſcouraged with the Oppoſition which you may poſſibly meet with. l What you do for God and for his Honour and Service ſhall not go unrequited.

8 And when Aſa heard theſe words, and the prophecy of Oded the prophet m, he took courage n, and put away the † abominable idols out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he had taken o from mount Ephraim, and renewed the altar of the LORD p, that was before the porch of the LORD.

m To wit, of Azariah, v. 1. who was alſo called by his Fathers Name Oded. Or Oded may be here put patronymically for the ſon of Oded; as David is put for Chriſt the Son of David, Jer. 30. 9. and elſewhere; and Moſes for the Sons of Moſes, Pſal. 90. Title. Or here is an Ellipſes of the Relative Word, of which there are many Inſtances both in ſacred and profane Authors; as 2 Sam. 21. 19 the Brother of Goliah: Mat. 4. 21. John the Son of Zebedee: Luk 24. 10. Mary the Mother of James, by comparing Mark. 15. 40. Joh. 19. 25. Mary the Wife of Cleopas; and many other places. And ſo this place may be thus read, When Aſa heard theſe words, even the Prophecy of the Son of Oded the Prophet. And this Ellipſis is the more eaſie and tolerable, becauſe this Defect might be well enough underſtood and ſupplyed out of v. 1. Though ſome underſtand this to be another Prophecy of Oded the Father, which is not here expreſſed, which Azariah his Son repeated to them for the confirmation of his own Prophecy. n For it required great Courage to put away all the Idols, to which ſo great a number of his People were to this day addicted, and among others, Maachah the Queen, his Mother, whom for this reaſon he depoſed, 1 King. 15. 13. o To wit, Abijah his Father; which was eaſily underſtood from ch. 13. 19. Or, which had been taken, the active word being oft ſo uſed impersonally for the paſſive, as Hebricians know. p Which had been either decayed through Age and long Uſe of it, or broken by his idolatrous Mothers means: Or, he conſecrated or dedicated the Altar, &c. which poſſibly had been polluted by Idolaters, and now needed ſome purification.

9 And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and * the ſtrangers with them, out of Ephraim and Manaſſeth, and out of Simeon q, (for they fell to him r out of Iſrael in abundance, when they ſaw that the LORD his God was with him.)

* Ch. 11. 16.

q Which Tribe, though they had their Inheritance out of the Portion of Judah, did for the generality of them revolt to Jeroboam with the other Tribes, as appears from many paſſages of Scripture. Which they might conveniently do, becauſe their Portion bordered as on one ſide upon that of Judah, ſo on the other ſide upon that of Dan; and therefore might indifferently joyn with the one or other, as they ſaw fit. r To wit from the King of Iſrael.

10 So they gathered themſelves together at Jeruſalem, in the third month s, in the fifteenth year of the reign of Aſa t.

s To wit, of the Sacred Year, in which the Feaſt of Weeks or of Pentecoſt fell: Of which ſee Exod. 23. 16. Deut. 16. 9. t Aſa had Peace but ten years, ch. 14. 1. After which probably there were ſome Bickerings and Skirmiſhes, which ſeem to have been compoſed: And after that Zerah comes againſt him and is diſcomfited. Upon this great Succeſs many of the Iſraelites fall to him; and in his fifteenth year he calls this Aſſembly.

12 And they entred into a covenant x to ſeek the LORD God of their fathers, with all their heart, and with all their ſoul.

x They engaged themſelves by a ſerious and ſolemn Covenant before the Lord and this great Aſſembly.

13 That whoſoever would not ſeek the LORD God of Iſrael y * ſhould be put to death z, whether ſmall or great, whether man or woman.

14 And they ſware unto the LORD with a loud voice, and with ſhouting, and with trumpets, and with cornets.

CHAP.

CHAP. XVI.

1 IN the six and thirtieth year of the reign of Asa a, * Baasha king of Israel came up against Judah, and built Ramah, to the intent that he might let none go out or come in to Asa king of Judah b.

* 1 Kin. 15. 17.

a Or, of the Kingdom of Asa, i. e. of the Kingdom of Judah, which was now Asa's Kingdom; or from the time of the division of the two Kingdoms. Rehoboam reigned 17 years, ch. 12. 13. Abijah 3 years, ch. 13. 2. Asa had now reigned 15 years, ch. 15. 10. all which put together make up the 35 years mentioned, ch. 15. 19. And in the next year Baasha wars against him; and the ground of war was the defection of many of his Subjects to Asa, ch. 15. 9. Whom Asa endeavours to engage together with his own Subjects by an Oath and a Covenant to be true and faithful to God and consequently to himself, which was done in his 15th. year, ch. 15. 9, 10. and therefore in his sixteenth year, called here the 36th. year of his Kingdom he commenceth an open War against him. If it be objected that the Reign, or Kingdom of Asa is otherwise understood of the time of Asa's personal Reign (as I may call it) ch. 15. 10. The answer is obvious, that there are many Instances in Scripture, (some of which have been formerly given, and others will be given in their proper places,) where the same Word or Phrase is taken differently, and that in the very same Chapter and History. And particularly this variety is elsewhere used both by Sacred and Profane Writers, in the Computation of the years of Princes, which are sometimes reckoned from the beginning of their Reign, and sometimes from other remarkable Times and Occurrences. Thus Nebuchadnezzar's years are sometimes computed from the beginning of his Reign, as 2 King. 25. 8. Jer. 52. 12, 29, 30. and sometimes from his Compleat Conquest of Syria and Egypt, &c. as that Passage, Dan. 2. 1. In the second year of Nebuchadnezzar, is by the general stream of Interpreters understood. Thus Ahaziah's years, which doubtless were usually computed from the time of his Birth, are computed from another Head, ch. 22. 2. where see the Notes. And the like differences are observed in computing the years of some of the Syrian Monarchs and Roman Emperors, and particularly of Augustus, the years of whose Reign are variously accounted by the Roman Historians; sometimes from his first Consul-ship, sometimes from the time of the Triumvirate, and sometimes from that Famous Victory at Actium, where he utterly overthrew his Competitor, and made himself sole and unquestionable Emperor: And therefore it is not strange if it be so here. And that it must necessarily be thus understood, appears from hence, that it cannot be the 36th. year of the Reign of Asa in his own person, because Baasha began to reign in Asa's third year, 1 King. 15. 28. and reigned only 24 years, and consequently died in Asa's 26th or 27th year, as it is said he did, 1 King. 15. 8. b That he might keep his Subjects from revolting to Asa, as he perceived they began to do, ch. 15. 9. and keep Asa's Subjects from coming into his Dominions to seduce his People from their Obedience to him.

2 Then Asa brought out silver and gold c out of the treasures of the house of the LORD, and of the kings house, and sent to Ben-hadad king of Syria, that dwelt at † Damascus, saying,

c This verse, and v. 3, 4, 5, 6. are explained, 1 King. 15. 18, &c.

3 There is a league between me and thee, as there was between my father and thy father: behold I have sent thee silver and gold, go, break thy league with Baasha king of Israel, that he may depart from me.

4 And Ben-hadad hearkned unto king Asa, and sent the captains of † his armies against the cities of Israel, and they smote Ijon, and Dan, and Abelmaim, and all the store-cities of Naphtali.

† Heb. which were his.

5 And it came to pass, when Baasha heard it, that he left off building of Ramah, and let his work cease.

6 Then Asa the king took all Judah, and they carried away the stones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baasha was a building, and he built therewith Geba, and Mizpah.

7 And at that time * Hanani the seer came to Asa king of Judah, and said unto him, Because thou hast relyed on the king of Syria, and not relyed on the LORD thy God, therefore is the host of the king of Syria escaped out of thine hand d.

* 1 Kin. 16. 1. Ch. 19. 2.

d And so reserved to be a Scourge to thy Kingdom and Posterity hereafter: Whereas if he had joyned with Baasha against thee, thou shouldest have overthrown them both, and prevented all that Mischief which that Monarch will do one day to thy Family.

f i. e. Upright and sincere, as thine is not. Obj. The heart of Asa is said to be perfect all his days, ch. 15. 17. Ans. He was perfect and sincere in the things here spoken of in the Establishment of the outward Worship of God; but not in the inward Worship of God, trusting, and fearing, and loving him with all his heart, of which he here speaks. Or thus, He was perfect or sincere in the general Course of his Life, though in some particulars, whereof this is one, his heart did not perfectly cleave to God, as it should have done. g With Baasha, ch. 16. 4.

10 Then Asa was wroth with the seer, and put him in † a prison house h, for he was in a rage with him, because of this thing. And Asa † oppressed some of the people the same time.

11 And behold, the acts of Asa first and last, lo, they are written in the books of the kings of Judah and Israel.

12 And Asa in the thirty and ninth year of his reign was diseased in his feet until his disease was exceeding great: yet in his disease he sought not to the LORD, but to the physicians i.

i He did not humble himself before God, nor earnestly desire his Help, but put all his Confidence in the Skill and Faithfulness of his Physicians, of whom, it seems, he had great experience.

13 And Asa slept with his fathers, and died in the one and fortieth year of his age.

14 And they buried him in his own sepulchre, which he had † made for himself in the city of David, and laid him in the bed which was filled with sweet odours, and divers kind of spices prepared by the apothecaries art k, and they made a very great burning l for him.

a Against the King and People of Israel, who had molested the Kingdom of Judah with Wars all the days of Asa after that Sin of his mentioned, ch. 16. 2, &c.

2 And he placed forces in all the fenced cities of Judah, and set garrisons in the land of Judah, and in the Cities of Ephraim, which Asa his father had taken.

3 And the LORD was with Jehoshaphat, because he walked in the first ways of his ‖ father David b, and sought not unto Baalim, ‖ Or, of his father, and David.

b Which David walked in before he fell into those horrid Sins of Murder and Adultery. Or, in the ways of David, and his Fathers first ways: For the beginning of Asa's Reign was Laudable, as we have seen, though he declined at last. For it seems more probable that this Passage is a Reflection upon Asa, whose last ways were much his worst, and of whose Repentance we have no Evidence, than upon David, who, though he fell dreadfully in the Matter of Uriah, yet did manifestly repent of it and return to his first and holy course of Life, in which also he continued until death; having this Character given him by the Holy Ghost after his death, that he did right in all things, saving that of Uriah, 1 King. 15. 5.

4 But sought to the LORD God of his father, and walked in his commandments, and not after the doings of Israel c:

6 And his heart ‖ was lift up e in the ways of the LORD: moreover, * he took away the high places and groves f out of Judah.

‖ That is, was encouraged. * Ch. 19. 3.

e Above all diſcouragements, and difficulties, and fears, by which Men's hearts uſe to be caſt down: He was valiant and reſolute for God and his Ways. f To wit, ſuch only wherein Idols were worſhipped; as appears by comparing this with ch. 20. 33. And though Aſa had done this before, yet either he did not do it throughly, or the Jews (who were many of them mad upon their Idols) had ſecretly made new ones in the latter part of his Reign, when he grew more infirm in Body, and more remiſs in God's Cauſe.

7 Alſo in the third year of his reign, he ‖ ſent to his princes, even to Ben-hail, and to Obadiah, and to Zechariah, and to Nethaneel, and to Michaiah, to teach g in the cities of Judah.

As Judges or Juſtices of Peace teach or inſtruct the People in the Laws of the Land when they deliver their Charges upon the Bench, ſo did theſe Princes in the king's Name admoniſh and require the People to obſerve and obey the Laws of God, which were the Municipal Laws of that Land: The particular Explication and Inforcement whereof they left to the Levites and Prieſts here following, who were ſent for this End, and accordingly taught the People, v. 9.

8 And with them he ſent Levites, even Shemaiah, and Nethaniah, and Zebadiah, and Aſahel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehonathan, and Adonijah, and Tobijah, and Tob-adonijah, Levites; and with them Eliſhama, and Jehoram, prieſts.

9 And they taught in Judah, and had the book of the law of the LORD with them, and went about throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people.

11 Alſo ſome of the Philiſtines i brought Jehoſhaphat preſents, and tribute-ſilver; and the Arabians k brought him flocks, ſeven thouſand and ſeven hundred rams, and ſeven thouſand and ſeven hundred he-goats.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 NOw Jehoſhaphat had riches and honour in abundance, and joyned affinity with Ahab a.

a For Joram, his eldeſt Son, married Athalia, Ahab's Daughter, ch. 21. 6. 2 King. 8. 18. This Chapter is, for ſubſtance, the ſame with 1 King. 22. where it is explained.

2 * And † after certain years, he went down to Ahab to Samaria: and Ahab killed ſheep and oxen for him in abundance, and for the people that he had with him, and † perſwaded him to go up with him to Ramoth-gilead.

* 1 Kin. 22. 2. † Heb. at the end of years. † Heb. incited. Gr. loved him. Compare Mat. 20. 21.

3 And Ahab king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat king of Judah, Wilt thou go with me to Ramoth-gilead? And he anſwered him, I am as thou art, and my people as thy people, and we will be with thee in the war.

4 And Jehoſhaphat ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, Enquire, I pray thee, at the word of the LORD to day.

5 Therefore the king of Iſrael gathered together of prophets, four hundred men, and ſaid unto them, Shall we go to Ramoth-gilead to battel, or ſhall I forbear? And they ſaid, Go up, for God will deliver it into the king's hand.

6 But Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD † beſides, that we might enquire of him?

† Heb. yet, a more.

7 And the King of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, There is yet one man, by whom we may enquire of the LORD: but I hate him, for he never propheſieth good unto me, but always evil: the ſame is Micaiah the ſon of Imla. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Let not the king ſay ſo.

8 And the king of Iſrael called for one of his ‖ officers, and ſaid, † Fetch quickly Micaiah the ſon of Imla.

‖ Or, eunuchs. † Heb. haſten.

9 And the king of Iſrael, and Jehoſhaphat king of Judah ſat either of them on his throne, cloathed in their robes, and they ſat in a ‖ void place, at the entring in of the gate of Samaria, and all the prophets propheſied before them.

‖ Or, floor.

10 And Zedekiah the ſon of Chenaanah had made him horns of iron, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, With theſe thou ſhalt puſh Syria, until † they be conſumed.

† Heb. thou conſume them.

11 And all the prophets propheſied ſo, ſaying, Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and proſper: for the LORD ſhall deliver it into the hand of the king.

12 And the meſſenger that went to call Micaiah, ſpake to him, ſaying, Behold, the words of the prophets declare good to the king † with one aſſent: let thy word therefore, I pray thee, be like one of theirs, and ſpeak thou good.

13 And

13 And Micaiah said, As the LORD liveth, even what my God saith, that will I speak.

14 And when he was come to the king, the king said unto him, Micaiah, shall we go to Ramoth-gilead to battel, or shall I forbear? And he said, Go ye up and prosper, and they shall be delivered into your hand.

15 And the king said to him, How many times shall I adjure thee, that thou say nothing but the truth to me, in the name of the LORD?

16 Then he said, I did see all Israel scattered upon the mountains, as sheep that have no shepherd: and the LORD said, These have no master, let them return therefore every man to his house in peace.

17 (And the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, Did I not tell thee, that he would not propheſie good unto me, ‖ but evil?)

‖ Or, but for evil.

18 Again he said, Therefore hear the word of the LORD: I saw the LORD sitting upon his throne, and all the host of heaven standing on his right hand, and on his left.

19 And the LORD said, who shall entice Ahab king of Israel, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead? And one spake, saying after this manner, and another saying after that manner.

20 Then there came out a * spirit, and stood before the LORD, and said, I will entice him. And the LORD said unto him, Wherewith?

* Job 1.6.

21 And he said, I will go out, and be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And the LORD said, Thou shalt entice him, and thou shalt also prevail: go out, and do even so.

22 Now therefore behold, the LORD hath put a lying spirit in the mouth of these thy prophets, and the LORD hath spoken evil against thee.

23 Then Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah came near, and smote Micaiah upon the cheek, and said, Which way went the spirit of the LORD from me, to speak unto thee?

24 And Micaiah said, Behold, thou shalt see on that day, when thou shalt go ‖ into † an inner chamber to hide thy self.

‖ Or, from chamber to chamber. † Heb. a chamber in a chamber.

25 Then the king of Israel said, Take ye Micaiah, and carry him back to Amon the governour of the city, and to Joash the king's son:

26 And say, Thus saith the king, Put this fellow in the prison, and feed him with bread of affliction, and with water of affliction, until I return in peace.

27 And Micaiah said, if thou certainly return in peace, then hath not the LORD spoken by me. And he said, Hearken all ye people.

28 So the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead.

29 And the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, I will disguise my self, and will go to the battel, but put thou on thy robes. So the king of Israel disguised himself, and they went to the battel.

30 Now the king of Syria had commanded the captains of the chariots that were with him, saying, Fight ye not with small or great, save only with the king of Israel.

31 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, that they said, It is the king of Israel: therefore they compassed about him to fight: but Jehoshaphat cried out, and the LORD helped him, and God moved them to depart from him.

† Heb. incited, ver. 2.

32 For it came to pass, that when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Israel, they turned back again † from pursuing him.

† Heb. from after him.

33 And a certain man drew a bow † at a venture, and smote the king of Israel † between the joynts of the harness: therefore he said to his chariotman, Turn thine hand, that thou mayest carry me out of the host, for I am † wounded.

† Heb. in his simplicity. † Heb. between the joynts, and between the breast-plate. † Heb. made sick.

34 And the battel increased that day: howbeit, the king of Israel stayed himself up in his chariot against the Syrians, until the even: and about the time of the sun going down, he died.

CHAP. XIX.

1 AND Jehoshaphat the king of Judah returned to his house in peace a to Jerusalem.

a Safe, being miraculously delivered from imminent danger, as was related, ch. 18. 31, 32.

2 And Jehu the son of Anani the seer b, went out to meet him, and said to king Jehoshaphat, Shouldest thou help the ungodly, and * love them that hate the LORD c? therefore is wrath upon thee from before the LORD d.

* Psal. 139. 21.

b Of whom see 1 King. 16. 1, 2. c Was this agreeable to thy Duty and Love which thou professedst to God and Godliness, that thou hast entred into so strict an Alliance and Friendship with wicked Ahab, my sworn Enemy, and given such Assistance to him? d Therefore God is angry with thee, and will chastise thee for this Miscarriage. Which he did partly by stirring up the Moabites and others to invade him, ch. 20. partly by permitting his eldest Son Jehoram to kill all his Brethren, ch. 21. 4. and principally by bringing that sore, and almost general destruction upon his Grand-children by Jehu, 2 King. 9. 27. and 10. 13, 14. which was the proper fruit of his Alliance with Ahab.

3 Nevertheless, there are * good things found in thee e, in that thou hast taken away the groves out of the land, and hast prepared thine heart f to seek God.

* Ch. 17. 4, 5.

e i. e Good Works, proceeding from an honest Heart; which God more regards, than this particular Errour: And therefore, though he will chasten thee, yet he will not utterly destroy thee. f Or, directed; or, set thy heart; i. e. Thou hast sought and served God with all thy Heart, and not feignedly, as many others do. And this Work of preparing or directing his Heart is here ascribed to Jehoshaphat, as elsewhere it is attributed to God, Prov. 16. 1. Phil. 2. 13. because it is Man's Action, but performed by God's Grace preventing, enabling, and inclining him to it.

4 And Jehoshaphat dwelt at Jerusalem: and † he went out again g through the people, from Beer-sheba to mount Ephraim h, and brought them back unto the LORD God of their fathers i.

† Heb. he returned and went out.

g Once he went by his Officers, ch. 17. 7, &c. Now he went in his own Person. h i. e. Through his whole Kingdom, whereof these were the two Bounds. i Such of them as had revolted from God to Idols, he reclaimed by his good Counsel and Example, and by the Instructions of the Levites and Priests; whom, doubtless, now he carried with him, as he sent them before with his Officers of State.

5 And he set judges in the land, throughout all the fenced cities of Judah, city by city k, k In every City, for it self and the Country adjacent, that Justice might be administred with the most ease and convenience to the People, and they might not all be forced to go up to Jerusalem.

6 And said to the judges, Take heed what ye do: for * ye judge not for man, but for the LORD l, * who is with you m † in the judgment.

* Deut. 1. 17. * Psal. 82. 1. Eccles. 5. 8. † Heb. in the matter of Judgment.

l You represent God's Person, to whom Judgment belongeth; and you have your Commission and Power from God, and not from Man only: And your Administration of Justice is not only for Man's Good, but also for God's Honour and Service. m Both to observe your Carriage, and to defend you against all those Enemies whom the impartial Exercise of Justice may provoke.

7 Wherefore now, let the fear of the LORD be upon you, take heed and do it: for there is no iniquity with the LORD our God, nor * respect of persons n, nor taking of gifts o.

* Deut. 10. 17. Job 34. 19. Act. 10. 34. Rom. 2. 11. Ephes. 6. 9. Col. 3. 25. 1 Pet. 1. 17.

n And therefore, you who are in God's stead, and do his Work, and must give an Account to him, must imitate God here. Of Respect of Persons, see Deut. 10. 17. Job 34. 19. Act. 10. 34. o So as to pervert Judgment for them, by comparing this with Exod. 23. 8. Deut. 16. 19. Prov. 17. 23.

8 Moreover, in Jerusalem did Jehoshaphat set of the Levites, and of the priests, and of the chief of the fathers of Israel p, for the * judgment of the LORD q, and for controversies r, † when they returned to Jerusalem s.

* Deut. 16. 18. † Heb. and they returned.

p Who were not Priests and Levites, but such Persons of other Tribes as were most eminent for their Dignity, Ability and Integrity. But whether these Persons made up one Court, called the Sanhedrim, by which all Causes Ecclesiastical and Civil were decided; or there were two distinct Courts, the one Ecclesiastical, consisting of the Priests and Levites; the other Civil,

Civil, consisting of the chief of the Fathers of Israel, belongs to another place to determine, and requires more words than the Nature of this Work can permit. q i.e. For sacred Matters concerning the Laws, and Worship and Service of God. r For Matters of Difference between Man and Man. s i.e. When Jehoshaphat and his Company were returned to Jerusalem, then he made this Order concerning establishing Judges there. But so this last Clause may seem superfluous and tautological, being more than implyed in the beginning of the Verse. Or rather, when they, i.e. the Causes and Controversies last mentioned, shall return; or, be returned to Jerusalem; i.e. When the Causes shall be so difficult, that the Judges ordained in every City cannot determine them; or when your Brethren that dwell in every City shall come to you, as it is expressed, v. 10. appealing from their City-Courts, to the great Court or Council at Jerusalem: Of which see on Exod. 18. 26. Deut. 1. 17. & 17. 8. As for the Phrase, not only Persons, but Things are said to return, or be returned, as Blood, 1 King. 2. 33. and Clouds, Eccles. 12. 2. and Reproach, Hos. 12. 14. If it be further objected, that these Causes were never brought to Jerusalem before, and therefore cannot be properly said to be returned thither; That may be answered, both from the usage of our Law, wherein such Causes are said to be returned to Westminster, which never were there before: And from the use of Scripture, wherein Sinners are commonly said to return to the Lord, though they had never been with the Lord in that sense before, but were estranged from God, even from the Womb, till the time of their Conversion. And the Dust, i.e. Man's Body, is said to return to the Earth, Eccles. 12. 7. though it was never there before.

9 And he charged them, saying, Thus shall ye do in the fear of the LORD, faithfully, and with a perfect heart t.

t Passing such Sentences with your Mouths, as your own Minds and Consciences, upon the hearing of the Parties, shall judge to be just; and not acting against your own Consciences for carnal Motives, as corrupt Judges do.

10 And what cause soever shall come to you of your brethren that dwell in their cities, between blood and blood u, between law and commandment, statutes and judgments x, ye shall even warn them that they trespass not against the LORD y, and so wrath come upon you, and upon your brethren: this do, and ye shall not trespass z.

u Of which see the Notes on Deut. 17. 8. x When any Debates or Differences shall arise about the meaning of any of God's Laws; one Party possibly putting this; and the other a quite differing sense upon the same place; or one alledging one place, and the other another place, which may seem to clash with it. y Ye shall not only give a righteous Sentence for what is past, but ye shall admonish the Offender, and others, to take better heed to themselves and their ways for the future. z So you shall not bring Guilt and Wrath upon your selves and others, which otherwise you will certainly do.

11 And behold, Amariah the chief priest is over you a in all matters of the LORD b; and Zebadiah the son of Ishmael, the ruler of the house of Judah c, for all the kings matters d: also the Levites shall be officers before you e. Deal courageously, and the LORD shall be with the good f.

† Heb. take courage and do.

a Shall be your President to direct and assist you. b In spiritual or Ecclesiastical Matters. c Either, 1. The Prince, or chief Ruler under the King, of the Tribe of Judah, which is called the House of Judah, 2 Sam. 2. 4, 7, 10. 1 King. 12. 21, 23. 1 Chron. 28. 4. Jer. 13. 11. Ezek. 4. 6. Or, 2. The Ruler of the King's House; which also seems to be called the House of Judah, 2 Chron. 22. 10. and more fully, the King's House of Judah, Jer. 22. 6. And who so fit to manage the Kings Matters as the Ruler of the King's House? d For Civil Causes or Controversies, which might arise either between the King and his People, or between Subject and Subject; which may be called the King's Matters, because it was a principal part of his Office to see them justly decided. e They shall be at your Command to see your just Sentences executed: Which Work was fitly committed to the Levites, as Persons who might add their Instructions to the Corrections, and might work the Guilty to an Acknowledgment of their Fault, and a Submission to their Punishment. And so this is an Argument to encourage the Judges to proceed courageously and vigorously in their Work, because they had the Levites to stand by them, and assist them. f i.e. Shall protect and bless good Judges in their doing of good and just things.

CHAP. XX.

1 IT came to pass after this also, that the children of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and with them † other beside the Ammonites a, came against Jehoshaphat to battel.

† Gr. Of the Minæans. Compare ch. 26. 7, 8. in Gr.

a To wit, the People that dwelt in Mount Seir, who were now confederate with them; as appears from v. 10. 22, 23. Or, This is the name of a peculiar People, called either Mehunim; of whom you read, 2 Chron. 26. 7. (and so there is only a Transposition of two Letters in the Hebrew Word, which is not unusual in that Language;) or Minæans, as the LXX Interpreters render this word; or Ammonim, or Mehaammonim, as it is in the Hebrew; (the two first Letters being not Prefixes, as they are commonly made; but part of the Word, or proper Name of that People;) who, as it may seem, now dwelt in Mount Seir; being of the old Stock of the Edomites, or another Nation since come in their stead, or mixed with them. Others render the Place thus; for (as the Hebrew vau is oft taken) with them (i.e. with the Moabites) were the Ammonites, or Children of Ammon. Which may be distinctly noted, either to shew the largeness of the Confederacy; in which, not only the Moabites were engaged, who dwelt nearer Jehoshaphat's Kingdom; but the Ammonites also, who lived at a greater distance from him: Or to intimate, that the Ammonites, being possibly instigated by the Syrians, their next Neighbours, were the first Beginners, and chief Promoters of the War, and engaged both the Moabites, and the Inhabitants of Mount Seir in their Quarrel.

2 Then there came some that told Jehoshaphat, saying, There cometh a great multitude against thee from beyond the sea b on this side Syria c, and behold, they be in Hazazon-tamar, which is Engedi.

b To wit, the Dead Sea, beyond which Mount Seir lay. c Or, and from Syria, largely so called; and so it includes the Moabites and Ammonites. And it may be thus expressed, to intimate that they came by the Instigation of the Syrians, who thought by this means to revenge themselves of Jehoshaphat for joyning with Ahab against them.

3 And Jehoshaphat feared d, and set † himself to seek the LORD e, and proclaimed a fast f throughout all Judah.

d Partly from Humane Frailty, and partly from the Remembrance of his own Guilt, and the Wrath of God denounced against him for it, ch. 19. 2. e The Phrase notes his setled Resolution, Seriousness, and Earnestness in it, and the preparing and fixing his Heart for it. f Partly in token of his Humiliation and Penitence for his Sins, and partly to make himself and his People more fervent in their Prayers.

4 And Judah gathered themselves together, to ask help of the LORD, even out of all the cities of Judah they came to seek the LORD.

5 And Jehoshaphat stood in the congregation of Judah and Jerusalem, in the house of the LORD g, before the new court h, g Largely so called; i.e. in one of the Courts of the Temple, even in the Court of the People, and upon that Brazen Scaffold which Solomon had erected for such a purpose, 2 Chron. 6. 13. h i.e. Besides, and before the Priests Court; for there were but two Courts belonging to the Temple; as is noted, 2 King. 21. 5. & 23. 12. And Jehoshaphat stood in the one, which must be that of the People; and before the other, which therefore can be no other than that of the Priests, which is called the New Court, because it had been lately renewed when the Altar was renewed, ch. 15. 8. as the Command of Love is called a new Command, Joh. 13. 34. 1 Joh. 2. 8. because it was so solemnly renewed, and revived and re-inforced by Christ.

6 And said, O LORD God of our fathers, art not thou God in heaven? and rulest not thou over all the kingdoms of the heathen? and in thine hand is there not power and might, so that none is able to withstand thee?

7 Art not thou our God, † who didst drive out the inhabitants of this land before thy people Israel, and gavest it to the seed of Abraham * thy friend for ever i?

† Heb. thou.

* Jam. 2. 23.

i i.e. To whom thou hast engaged thy self by Covenant to be his Friend, and the Friend of his Seed for ever; and therefore we trust thou wilst not forsake us his Posterity.

8 And they dwelt therein, and have built thee a sanctuary therein for thy name, saying,

9 * If when evil cometh upon us, as ‖ the sword, judgment k, or pestilence, or famine, we stand before this house, and in thy presence (for thy name is in this house) and cry unto thee in our affliction, then thou wilt hear and help.

* 1 Kin. 8. 33, 37. Ch. 6. 28.

‖ Or, the sword of judgment.

k Or rather, the Sword of Judgment, or of vengeance; i.e. War, whereby thou judgest and punishest thy People for their Sins. Compare Levit. 26. 25.

10 And now behold, the children of Ammon, and Moab, and mount Seir, whom thou * wouldest not let Israel invade, when they came out of the land of Egypt, but * they turned from them, and * destroyed them not:

* Deut. 2. 4, 9, 19.

* Num. 20. 21.

11 Behold,

11 Behold, I say, how they reward us, to come to cast us out of thy possession, which thou hast given us to inherit.

12 O our God, wilt thou not judge them; for we have no might against this great company that cometh against us l: neither know we what to do, but our eyes are upon thee m.

l Thus he speaks partly, though he had great Armies to be drawn together in due time upon great Occasions, ch. 17. 14, &c. yet he seems to have been surprized by these Men before his Forces were in readiness to oppose them: And partly because he well knew, and piously and wisely considered, that no Humane Forces, though numerous and valiant, were able to defend him without God's Assistance, which he feared, by his Sins, he had forfeited, and then he had really been as weak as Water. m Looking to thee only for Relief and Succour.

13 And all Judah stood before the LORD, with their little ones n, their wives, and their children.

n Whom they used to present before the Lord in times of great Distress, partly to stir up themselves to more fervent and faithful Prayers, that their Eyes being upon their harmless and tender Children, might affect their Hearts with a greater Sense of their Misery: And partly to move God to Compassion; not as if he were capable of Passions or Changes upon such a Sight, but because God hath declared himself, that he will be prevailed with by such methods as these.

14 Then upon Jahaziel, the son of Zechariah, the son of Benaiah, the son of Jeiel, the son of Mattaniah, a Levite of the sons of Asaph, came the spirit of the LORD in the midst of the congregation o.

o He was suddenly inspired by God with the following Message.

15 And he said, Hearken ye, all Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, and thou king Jehoshaphat, Thus saith the LORD unto you, * Be not afraid, nor dismayed by reason of this great multitude; for the battel is not yours, but God's p.

* Exod. 14. 13, 14

p God will fight for you, and he alone will do the Work; you need not strike a Stroak.

16 To morrow go ye down q against them: behold, they come up by the † cliff of Ziz, and ye shall find them at the end of the ‖ brook, before the wilderness of Jeruel.

† Heb. ascent. ‖ Or, valley.

q From Jerusalem, where he and his Army now were; which stood upon high Ground.

17 Ye shall not need to fight in this battel; set your selves, stand ye still, and see the salvation of the LORD with you, O Judah and Jerusalem: fear not, nor be dismayed; to morrow go out against them, for the LORD will be with you.

18 And Jehoshaphat bowed his head, with his face to the ground r: and all Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem fell before the LORD, worshipping the LORD.

r In token of his reverence to God and his Message, his Belief of the Promise, and his Thankfulness for so great a Favour.

19 And the Levites, of the children of the Kohathites, and of the children of the Korhites, stood up s to praise the LORD God of Israel with a loud voice on high t.

s By Jehoshaphat's Appointment. t i. e. With most loud Voice, with Heart and Voice lifted up: Whereby they shewed their full Assurance of the Victory, as if it were already accomplished.

20 And they rose early in the morning, and went forth into the wilderness of Tekoa: and as they went forth, Jehoshaphat stood, and said, Hear me, O Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, * Believe in the LORD your God, so shall ye be established; believe † his prophets u, so shall ye prosper x.

* Isa. 7. 9.

† Heb in his prophets.

u i. e. God's Promise delivered to us by this Prophet, and consequently, all other Predictions of the Prophets that either have been, or shall be. x Take heed, lest by your Unbelief you frustrate God's Promise.

21 And when he had consulted with the people y, he appointed singers unto the LORD z, and † that should praise the beauty of holiness a, as they went out before the army; and to say, * Praise the LORD, for his mercy endureth for ever.

† Heb. praisers. * Psal. 136. 1.

y i. e. With the Elders, or chief of the People; partly to take their Advice about the Expediency of the thing, and partly that they might excite and prepare themselves, and the People under them, to this great Work of praising God. z To the Honour and Service of God. a Or, the Glory, or Magnificence, or Majesty of Holiness; i. e. (by a vulgar Hebraism) the Holy Majesty; a Periphrasis of God: Or, according to the Beauty, or Magnificence of the Sanctuary; i. e. in the same comely Order, and magnificent manner, as they used to do it in the Temple; where the following Song was usually sung; as 2 Chron. 5. 13. & 7. 3, 6.

22 † And when they began † to sing and to praise b, the LORD set ambushments c against the children of Ammon, Moab, and mount Seir, which were come against Judah, and ‖ they were smitten.

† Heb. and in the time that they, &c. † Heb in singing and praise. ‖ Or, they smote one another.

b So acceptable are the fervent Prayers of God's People to God, and so terrible to their Enemies. c Or, Liers in wait; either, 1. The holy Angels, who appeared in the shape of Men, and possibly put on the Appearances and Visages of Moabites or Ammonites, and in that shape slew the rest; who supposing this Slaughter to be done by a part of their own Army, fell upon them, and so broke forth into mutual Slaughters. Or, 2. God raised Jealousies and Animosities amongst themselves, which by degrees broke forth; first, into secret Ambushments, which one Party laid for another; and then into open Hostilities and Outrages, to their utter Destruction. So vain are all Mens Attempts against God, who needs none to destroy his Enemies but themselves, and their own Mistakes and Passions; which he can, when he pleaseth, arm against them.

23 For the children of Ammon and Moab stood up against the inhabitants of mount Seir, utterly to slay and destroy them: and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir, every one helped † to destroy another.

† Heb. for the destruction.

24 And when Judah came toward the watch-tower d in the wilderness, they looked unto the multitude, and behold, they were dead bodies fallen upon the earth, and † none escaped.

† Heb. there was not an escaping.

d Which stood upon the Cliff of Ziz, mentioned above, v 6. or some other Hill which looked toward the Wilderness, where their Enemies lay encamped; whose Numbers, and Order, and Condition they could descry from thence.

25 And when Jehoshaphat and his people came to take away the spoil of them, they found among them in abundance both riches with the dead bodies, and precious jewels e (which they stript off for themselves) more than they could carry away: and they were three days in gathering of the spoil, it was so much.

e Which they brought with them, partly to corrupt any of Jehoshaphat's Officers, as they saw Occasion; partly to procure Necessaries for their vast Army, from time to time; and partly because they came as to a Triumph, rather than to a Fight; being secure and confident of the Victory, because of their great Numbers; and especially, because they thought to surprize Jehoshaphat, ere he could make any considerable Preparations against them; God also permitting them to be puffed up to their own Destruction.

26 And on the fourth day they assembled themselves in the valley of ‖ Berachah f; for there they blessed the LORD: therefore the name of the same place was called, The valley of Berachah unto this day.

‖ That is, blessing.

f Heb. of Blessing: So called, from their solemn Blessings and Praises given to God in it upon this Occasion.

27 Then they returned every man of Judah and Jerusalem, and Jehoshaphat in the † fore-front of them, to go again to Jerusalem with joy: for the LORD had made them to rejoyce over their enemies.

† Heb. head.

28 And they came to Jerusalem with psalteries, and harps, and trumpets, unto the house of the LORD g.

g To renew their Praises in the Court of the Temple, the proper and usual place for it.

29 And * the fear of God was on all the kingdoms of those countries h, when they had heard that the LORD fought against the enemies of Israel.

* Ch. 17. 10.

h Which were near, or which heard these things.

30 So the realm of Jehoshaphat was quiet; for his God gave him rest round about.

31 * And Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah: he was thirty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and five years in Jerusalem: and his mothers name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.

* 1 Kin. 22. 41, &c.

32 And he walked in the ways of Asa his father, and departed not from it, doing that which was right in the sight of the LORD.

33 Howbeit, the high places were not taken away i; for as yet the people had not prepared their hearts unto the God of their fathers k.

i Not fully, nor universally: Of which, see on ch. 17. 6. k The Fault was not in Jehoshaphat, but in the People; who, though they did worship the true God, yet would not be confined to the Temple; but for their own Conveniency, or from their Affection to their ancient Custom, chose to worship him in the High Places: Which Jehoshaphat was forced to connive at, lest those People, being debarred from that dearly beloved Practice, should fall into a neglect of God and his Worship.

34 Now the rest of the acts of Jehoshaphat, first and last, behold, they are written in the † book of Jehu the son of Hanani, * who † is mentioned in the book of the kings of Israel.

† Heb words. * 1 Kin. 16. 1. † Heb. was made to ascend.

35 And after this l did Jehoshaphat king of Judah joyn himself with Ahaziah king of Israel, who did very wickedly m:

l This is mentioned as an aggravation of his Sin, after so great a Favour and Obligation laid upon him by God, and after he had been so sharply reproved and threatned by a Prophet for the same thing, ch. 19. 2. yet he relapsed into the same Sin: Which proceeded partly from that near Relation which was contracted between the two Families, and partly from the Sweetness and Easiness of Jehoshaphat's Temper, which could not resist the Solicitations of others, in such things as might seem indifferent. For he did not joyn with him in a War, as he did with Ahab; but in a peaceable way only, in a matter of Trade and Commerce. And yet God sharply reproves and punisheth him for it, v. 37. to shew his great Dislike and Detestation of all friendly and familiar Conversation of his Servants and People with Idolaters, and professed Enemies of God, and of Religion, as Ahaziah was; who is therefore thus stigmatized in the next words, who did very wickedly. m Or, who did industriously, and maliciously, and constantly work wickedness, as the Hebrew Phrase implies; giving himself up to Idolatry, and all Wickedness.

36 And he joyned himself with him to make ships to go to Tarshish n: and they made the ships in Ezion-gaber.

n Of which see on 1 King. 10. 22. & 22. 48. o Of which see on 1 King. 9 26.

37 Then Eliezer the son of Dodavah of Mareshah, prophesied against Jehoshaphat, saying, Because thou hast joyned thy self with Ahaziah, the LORD hath broken thy works. And the ships were broken, that they were not able to go to Tarshish.

CHAP. XXI.

* 1 Kin. 22. 50. 1 NOw * Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Jehoram his son reigned in his stead.

2 And he had brethren, the sons of Jehoshaphat, Azariah a, and Jehiel, and Zechariah, and Azariah a, and Michael, and Shephatia: all these were the sons of Jehoshaphat king of Israel b.

a Two Sons called by the same Name, though doubtless, distinguished by some additional Title; which is not mentioned here, because it did not concern succeeding Ages to know it: Though indeed, there is a difference in their Hebrew Names; the one being Azariah, the other Azariahu, hu being the last Syllable in his Name; as in Elihu, and others. b So he is called either, 1. Because he was so by Right: Or, 2. Because he was King, not only of Judah and Benjamin, but of a great number of Israelites, who had come into, and setled themselves in his Kingdom, in his, and in his Predecessors days; who being a considerable, and the purest and best part of Israel, may well be called Israel; being more truly and properly God's Israel, than their Apostate Brethren, who were no longer worthy of that Name. Or, 3. Because all his Subjects were Israelites; and therefore he was King of Israel, though not of all Israel. Or, 4. With some Reflection upon his Memory, for making so strict an Alliance and Friendship with the King of Israel, whose Cause he defended with his own and his Kingdom's great Hazard: as if he had been the King, not so much of Judah, as of Israel. And this may be the rather noted here, because here speedily follows a sad Effect of that wicked and cursed Match. Some say, Israel was foisted into some Copies by the Transcriber, instead of Judah, as it was first written.

3 And their father gave them great gifts of silver and of gold, and of precious things, with fenced cities in Judah: but the kingdom gave he to Jehoram, because he was the first-born c.

c Whom he conceived that he ought to prefer, by virtue of that Law of God, Deut. 21. 15. though otherwise he would not have done it; having probably, ere this time, perceived his perverse and wicked Inclinations, and how much he was swayed by his Idolatrous Wife. Now he saw his Error when it was too late.

4 Now * when Jehoram was risen up to the kingdom of his father, he strengthned himself d, and slew all his brethren with the sword e, and divers also of the princes of Israel f. * 2 Kin. 8. 16, 17.

d He took Courage, and hardned his Heart; as the word sometimes signifies. e Partly because they either did, or he knew that they would oppose him in his wicked Designs; and partly for his own Security, lest his People, who, as he believed, would be highly exasperated with the Execution of his Counsels, should advance any of them to the Throne, and depose him. f Either, 1. Of Judah, here called Israel; of which see the Notes on v. 2. Or, 2. The Princes, or chief Men of Israel, properly so called; not the Princes of all Israel, or of the several Tribes thereof; but the chief of those Israelites, who out of Love to God, and to the true Religion, had forsaken their Estates, and worldly Advantages in the Kingdom of Israel, and were now incorporated with the Kingdom of Judah. These he especially struck at, either, 1. Because his Wife instigated him thereunto, both to punish them for their Revolt from her Father, and to deter others from following their Example: Or, 2. Because he justly and truly thought these would be most firm and constant to, and zealous for that Religion which he was resolved to oppose; being both by their Conscience and Interest obliged to it.

5 Jehoram was thirty and two years old g when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.

g Of this, and v. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. see the Notes on 2 Kin. 8. 17, &c.

6 And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, like as did the house of Ahab: for he had the daughter of * Ahab to wife: and he wrought that which was evil in the eyes of the LORD. * Ch. 22. 2.

7 Howbeit, the LORD would not destroy the house of David, because of the covenant that he had made with David h, and as he promised to give a † light to him, and to his * sons for ever. † Heb. lamp, or candle. * 2 Sam. 7. 12. 1 Kin. 11. 36. 2 Kin 8. 19. Psal. 132. 11, &c.

h For which, in 2 King. 8. 19. it is for David his Servant's sake: i. e. Not for David's Merits, but for God's free Promise and Covenant; as it is here explained.

8 In his days the Edomites revolted from under the † dominion of Judah, and made themselves a king. † Heb. hand.

9 Then Jehoram * went forth with his princes, and all his chariots with him: and he rose up by night, and smote the Edomites which compassed him in, and the captains of the chariots. * 2 Kin. 8. 21.

10 So the Edomites revolted from under the hand of Judah unto this day. The same time also did Libnah revolt from under his hand; because he had forsaken the LORD God of his fathers i.

i To wit, publickly and avowedly, setting him at Defiance, as the next Verse shews. And this is mentioned, either, 1. As the Reason why the Priests, whose City Libnah was, forsook him, because he had forsaken God: Or rather, 2. As the reason why God raised up so many Enemies against him, both from abroad and at home.

11 Moreover, he made high places k in the mountains of Judah, and caused the inhabitants of Jerusalem to commit fornication l, and compelled Judah thereto.

k Not to the Lord, whose sworn Enemy he was; but to Baals, or false Gods. l Not only by his Counsel and Example, but, as it follows, by Force, by Threats, and Penalties.

12 And there came a writing to him from Elijah the prophet m, saying, Thus saith the LORD God of David thy father n, Because thou hast not walked in the ways of Jehoshaphat thy father o, nor in the ways of Asa king of Judah;

m Qu. How could this be, when Elijah was rapt up to Heaven in Jehoshaphat's time, 2 King. 2. & 3. 11. Ans. Either, 1. This was Elisha, or some other Prophet called Elijah, because he acted in the Spirit and Power of Elijah; for which Cause, John the Baptist is also so called. Or rather, 2. This was really written by Elijah, who by the Spirit did clearly foresee and foretell the Reign and Acts of Jehoram (as others did of Josiah, 1 Kin. 13. 2. and Isaiah, of Cyrus, ch. 45. 3. long before they were born) and in consideration thereof, left this Prophecy with Elisha, to be delivered in due time by him, or some other person, in his Name, and as from his Mouth. n Whose Name he mentions, either to upbraid him with his Degeneration from so worthy a Parent; or to take off his Presumption and Confidence, which was grounded upon his being the Son and Successor of David; in whose Posterity the Crown was setled for ever, by God's special Appointment, and by the Approbation of the People. o Whose wise Counsel, and good Example thou hast despised.

13 But hast walked in the way of the kings of Israel, and hast made Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem

Jeruſalem to go a whoring, like to the whoredoms of the houſe of Ahab, and alſo haſt ſlain the brethren of thy father's houſe, which were better than thy ſelf p.

p More innocent, and righteous, and pious.

† Heb. a great ſtroak.

14 Behold, with † a great plague will the LORD ſmite thy people q, and thy children, and thy wives r, and all thy goods.

q Qu. Why the People, for his Sin? Anſ. 1. Becauſe the generality of them ſinned in complying with his wicked and idolatrous Commands through Fear, v. 11. 2. Becauſe he ſuffered in his Peoples Deſtruction: For as the Honour, and Safety, and Strength of a King lies in the Multitude and Proſperity of his People, Prov. 14. 28. ſo when they are diminiſhed and deſtroyed, the King is very much weakned and endangered by it. r Whoſe Lives ſhall go for the Lives of thy Brethren, v. 4.

15 And thou ſhalt have great ſickneſs by diſeaſe of thy bowels, until thy bowels fall out, by reaſon of the ſickneſs day by day s.

s i. e. From day to day continually: Or, year upon year; i. e. one year after another; or for the ſpace of two years, as the Event ſhews, v. 19. Heb. days upon days. Days are oft put for a year; as Exod. 13. 10. Levit. 25. 29. Numb. 9. 22. Judg. 17. 10. 1 Sam. 1. 3. & 27. 7. Amos 4. 4.

16 Moreover, the LORD ſtirred up againſt Jehoram the ſpirit of the Philiſtines t, and of the Arabians, that were near the Ethiopians u.

t A People fully ſubdued and diſpirited; but God now raiſeth their Spirits and Courage to do his Work. u Heb. near the Cuſhites; i. e. Either the Ethiopians, from whom they were parted only by the Red Sea, each dwelling upon the oppoſite Shoars of it: Or rather, a People in Arabia, frequently mentioned in Scripture; and ſo called, either for the likeneſs in Colour and Complexion to the Ethiopians, properly ſo called; or becauſe the one of theſe People were a Colony of the other. But the Ethiopians above Egypt were far enough from theſe other Arabians, being ſeparated from them by the Red Sea.

17 And they came up into Judah, and brake in-† Heb. carried captive. to it, and † carried away all the ſubſtance that was found in the king's houſe, and his ſons alſo, and his wives x; ſo that there was never a ſon left him,

18 And after all this, the LORD ſmote him in his bowels with an incurable diſeaſe.

19 And it came to paſs, that in proceſs of time, after the end of two years, his bowels fell out by reaſon of his ſickneſs: ſo he died of ſore diſeaſes: and his people made no burning for him, like the

Or, went away, to wit, out of this World; as this Word is uſed, Job 14. 20. Eccleſ. 5. 15. & 6. 4. there being many ſuch Words and Phraſes uſed concerning Death in the Old and New Teſtament, ſignifying that Death is not an Annihilation, but only a Tranſlation into another place and ſtate; ſee Gen. 15. 15. Philip. 1. 23. ‖ Heb. without deſire: Which may belong either, 1. To himſelf; he had no deſire of living longer, nor any pleaſure in Life; but was heartily weary of it through his exceſſive Pains. Or rather, 2. To his People, who did not deſire that he ſhould live longer, but oft and heartily wiſhed that he had died ſooner. Which Contempt of him they ſhewed, both by making no burning for him, as they uſed to do for good and laudable Kings, ch. 16. 14. and by denying him Burial among the Kings, as it here follows. Deſire is here put for a Perſon or Thing, whoſe Life or Continuance is deſirable, or deſired by others; as Iſa. 2. 6. Ezek. 24. 16, 18, 21, 25. Dan. 9. 23. & 10. 11, 19. And this is an emphatical Expreſſion, becauſe it is uſual with Men to deſire the Deaths of ſome Perſons, whom afterward they lament, and heartily wiſh that they were alive again; as they may have cauſe to do. But for this ungodly and unhappy Prince, his People did not only, in his Life-time, wiſh his Death, but afterwards they did not repent of thoſe Deſires, nor wiſh him alive again; but rejoyced that they were delivered from ſo great a Plague as he was to them.

CHAP. XXII.

1 AND the inhabitants of Jeruſalem made * Ahaziah his youngeſt ſon king in his ſtead: for the band of men that came with the Arabians a to the camp, had ſlain all the * eldeſt. So Ahaziah the ſon of Jehoram king of Judah reigned.

* Ch. 21. 17.

a Either, 1. A cruel ſort of Men, who came along with the Arabians; and therefore ſlew thoſe whom the Arabians had ſpared, and only carried into Captivity; Or, 2. The Philiſtines, who did accompany the Arabians in this Expedition, ch. 21. 16. who lived near the Kingdom of Judah; and therefore thought to make as ſure work as they could in deſtroying all the Branches of the Royal Family; who otherwiſe, they expected, would recover Strength, and revenge themſelves upon them.

2 Forty and two years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign b and he reigned one year in Jeruſalem: his mothers name alſo was * Athaliah the
* Ch. 22. 2. daughter of Omri c.

b Obj. He was then only twenty two Years old, as is affirmed, 2 King. 8. 26.. Beſides, Jehoram his Father died in his fortieth Year; as is twice noted, ch. 21. 5, 20. How then can this be true? Anſ. 1. In the Hebrew it is, A ſon of forty two years, &c. which is an ambiguous Phraſe; and though it doth for the moſt part, yet it doth not always ſignifie the Age of the Perſon; as is manifeſt from 1 Sam. 13. 1. where ſee the Notes. And therefore it is not neceſſary that this ſhould note his Age, (as it is generally preſumed to do, and that is the only Ground of the Difficulty;) but it may note, either, 1. The Age of his Mother Athaliah; who being ſo great, and infamous, and miſchievous a Perſon to the Kingdom and Royal Family of Judah, it is not ſtrange if her Age be here deſcribed; eſpecially, ſeeing ſhe her ſelf did, for a ſeaſon, ſway this Scepter. Or rather, 2. Of the Reign of that Royal Race and Family, from which, by his Mother, he was deſcended; to wit, of the Houſe of Omri, who reigned ſix Years, 1 King. 16. 23. Ahab, his Son, reigned twenty two Years, 1 King. 16. 29. Ahaziah, his Son, two Years, 1 King. 22. 51. Joram, his Son, twelve Years, 2 King. 3. 1. All which put together, make up exactly theſe forty two Years: For Ahaziah began his Reign in Joram's twelfth Year, 2 King. 8. 25. And ſuch a kind of Computation of the Years, not of the King's Perſon, but of his Reign or Kingdom, we had before, ch. 16. 1. where ſee the Notes. And ſo we have an Account of the Perſon's Age in 2 King. 8. 26. and here of the Kingdom to which he belonged. Anſ. 2. Some acknowledge an Error in the Tranſcribers of the preſent Hebrew Copies; in which Language, the Numeral Letters for 22 and 42 are ſo a-like, that they might eaſily be miſtaken: For that it was read twenty two here, as it is in the Book of Kings, in other Hebrew Copies, they gather from hence, that it is at this day ſo read in divers ancient Greek Copies; as alſo in thoſe two ancient Tranſlations, the Syriack, and the Arabick; and particularly, in that famous, and moſt ancient Copy of the Syriack, which was uſed by the Church of Antioch in the primitive Times, and to this day is kept in the Church of Antioch; from which that moſt reverend, learned, pious, and publick-ſpirited Archbiſhop Uſher did, at his own great Charge, get another Copy tranſcribed; in which he hath publiſhed to all the World, that he found it here written, Twenty and two years old, &c. Nor doth this overthrow the Authority of the ſacred Text, as Infidels would have it; partly becauſe it is only an Hiſtorical Paſſage of no importance to the ſubſtantial Doctrines of Faith and a good Life, and partly becauſe the Queſtion here is not whether this Text be true, but which is the true Reading of the Text; whether that of the generality of preſent Copies, or that which was uſed in the ancient Copies, which the ancient and venerable Tranſlators, above-mentioned, did follow? For it ſeems unreaſonable, and uncharitable, to think that all of them would have conſpired to have changed the Text, and put in twenty and two, for forty and two, if they had ſo read it in their Hebrew Copies. Nor can this open any great Door to thoſe innumerable Changes which ſome have boldly and raſhly made in the Hebrew Text, without any ſuch pretence of Authority, as there is for this: Which, as they are affirmed without Reaſon, or Authority, or Neceſſity, ſo they may as eaſily be rejected. If all this will not ſatisfie our preſent Infidels, I deſire them only to conſider what hath been hinted before upon ſuch Occaſions; That many Difficulties, which did ſeem unanſwerable, being now fully cleared by later Writers, it is but reaſonable to think that this may be ſo in after Times, either by finding of ſome Hebrew Copies, in which it may be Twenty and two years, &c. or by ſome other way. c i. e. Of Omri's Family; or of Ahab, Omri's Son. Grandchildren are oft called Sons and Daughters, as Matth. 1. 1. Luk. 3. 26.

3 He alſo walked in the ways of the houſe of Ahab: for his mother was his counſeller d to do wickedly.

d Being a crafty, and an imperious Woman.

4 Wherefore he did evil in the ſight of the LORD, like the houſe of Ahab: for they were his counsellers after the death of his father e, to his destruction.

e Who, whilst he lived, seduced his Son by his Counsel and Authority, and made other evil Counsellors, then unnecessary.

5 He walked also after their counsel, and went with Jehoram the son of Ahab king of Israel, to war against Hazael f king of Syria, at Ramoth-gilead: and the Syrians smote Joram.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 AND * in the seventh year Jehoiada strengthened himself, and took the captains of hundreds a, Azariah the son of Jeroham, and Ishmael the son of Jehohanan, and Azariah the son of Obed, and Maaseiah the son of Adaiah, and Elishaphat the son of Zichri, into covenant with him.

* 2 Kin. 11.4. &c.

a Not all, but those here following, in whom he put most Trust. But this Chapter is almost all taken out of 2 King. 11. where it is explained.

2 And they went about in Judah, and gathered the Levites out of all the cities of Judah b, and the chief of the fathers of Israel c, and they came to Jerusalem.

b Partly because they could do this without any suspicion, upon pretence of some solemn Feast; which time, it is probable, was chosen for this purpose: And partly because he knew them to be well affected to the Cause of God and the King; to which they were obliged by the two firmest Ties, Conscience and Interest. c i. e. Both of the two Tribes and of the ten Tribes; all which are called Israel: And he useth the Name of Israel, rather than that of Judah, because there were now great Numbers of the other Tribes incorporated with Israel; and these he esteemed more faithful than many of Judah, having given better Proofs of the Truth of their Religion than they: And therefore he picked out of the chief Men of the other Tribes, as well as of Judah and Benjamin.

3 And all the congregation made a covenant with the king in the house of God: and he said unto them, Behold, the king's son shall reign, as the LORD hath * said of the sons of David.

* 2 Sam. 7.12. 1 Kin. 2.4. & 9.5. Ch. 6.16. &7. 18.

4 This is the thing that ye shall do; A third part of you entring on the sabbath, of the priests, and of the Levites, shall be porters of the † doors d;

† Heb. three shelds.

d Both that of Shur, 2 King. 11. 6. and other Doors adjoyning, or leading to it.

5 And a third part shall be at the king's house; and a third part at the gate of the foundation e: and all the people shall be in the courts f of the house of the LORD.

e At the East-gate; thought to be so called, because it stood lower than the rest of the doors, at the foot of the steps, by which they went up from the King's House, to the Temple. f Either, 1. In the two Courts; and so by the People, he understands as well the generality of the Levites, who had no particular Stations allotted to them, as their Brethren had, v. 4, 5. which were to be in the Priests Court; as the People, who were in the Court of the People: Or, 2. In the Court of the People, which may be called Courts, the Plural Number being put for the Singular, in regard of great Amplitude, and divers Quarters and Partitions, into which it was, or might be divided: As the Temple is called Sanctuaries, because of its Division into divers Parts, Levit. 26. 31.

6 But let none come into the house of the LORD g, save the priests, and they that minister of the Levites h, they shall go in, for they are † holy: but all the people shall keep the watch of the LORD i.

† Heb holiness. Lev. 21.6.

g Strictly so called, as it is distinguished from the Courts, into which others were permitted to come, v. 5. to wit, into the Holy Place. h They who are to minister in course, or by my present Appointment. i i. e. Of the House of the Lord, as the Phrase may be filled up out of this place, and 2 King. 11. 6. The Sense is, Let them stand in their Court to prevent and oppose any Person who shall endeavour violently to break into the House, to seize upon the King, or to disturb their present Work; which he expected, Athaliah and her Accomplices would do.

7 And the Levites shall compass the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand; and whosoever else cometh into the house, he shall be put to death: but be ye with the king when he cometh in, and when he goeth out.

8 So the Levites and all Judah did according to all things that Jehoiada the priest had commanded, and took every man his men that were to come in on the sabbath, with them that were to go out on the sabbath: for Jehoiada the priest dismissed not the courses.

9 Moreover, Jehoiada the priest delivered to the captains of hundreds, spears, and bucklers, and shields, that had been king David's, which were in the house of God.

people, running and praising the king, she came to the people into the house of the LORD.

13 And she looked, and behold, the king stood at his pillar, at the entring in, and the princes and the trumpets by the king: and all the people of the land rejoyced, and sounded with trumpets, also the singers with instruments of musick, and such as taught to sing praise. Then Athaliah rent her cloths, and said, † Treason, treason.

† Heb. conspiracy.

14 Then Jehoiada the priest brought out the captains of hundreds, that were set over the host, and said unto them, Have her forth of the ranges: and whoso followeth her, let him be slain with the sword. For the priest said, Slay her not in the house of the LORD.

15 So they laid hands on her; and when she was come to the entring of the horse-gate, by the king's house, they slew her there.

16 And Jehoiada made a covenant between him l, and between all the people, and between the king, that they should be the LORD's people m.

l i.e. The Lord, as is sufficiently implied in the end of this Verse, and plainly expressed, 2 King. 11. 17. Or, between himself; that the People might see that he brought them under no Bond, but what he would take upon himself. m i.e. That every one, in his place and station, would maintain the Law and Worship of God, and root out all false Worship; which they did in the next Verse.

17 Then all the people went to the house of Baal, and brake it down, and brake his altars and his images in pieces, and * slew Mattan the priest of Baal before the altars.

* Deut. 13. 9.

18 Also Jehoiada appointed the offices of the house of the LORD by the hand n of the priests the Levites, whom David had * distributed in the house of the LORD, to offer the burnt-offerings of the LORD, as it is written in the * law of Moses, with rejoycing and singing, as it was ordained † by David.

To the Exercise of their Offices, from which they had been, in a great measure, hindred.

19 And he set the * porters at the gates of the house of the LORD, that none which was unclean in any thing should enter in.

20 And he took the captains of hundreds, and the nobles, and the governors of the people, and all the people of the land, and brought down the king from the house of the LORD: and they came through the high gate o into the king's house, and set the king upon the throne of the kingdom.

21 And all the people of the land rejoyced: and the city was quiet, after that they had slain Athaliah with the sword.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 JOash * was seven years old a when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem: his mothers name also was Zibeah of Beer-sheba.

* 2 Kin. 12. 1, &c.

a A great part of this chapter is explained on 2 King. 12.

2 And Joash did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, all the days of Jehoiada the priest.

3 And Jehoiada took for him two wives, and he begat sons and daughters.

4 And it came to pass after this, that Joash was minded † to repair the house of the LORD.

† Heb. to renew.

5 And he gathered together the priests, and the Levites, and said to them, Go out unto the cities of Judah, and gather of all Israel b money to repair the house of your God from year to year c, and see that ye haste the matter. Howbeit the Levites hastned it not.

b i.e. Of all the Israelites that were in the Kingdom of Judah: See ch. 15. 17. and 21. 2. c Either, 1. Repair part of it every Year, till the Reparations be perfected: Or, 2. Gather it from Year to Year, till you get such a Sum as may suffice for the Work. For he supposed one or two Years Collection would not suffice for the Work: Whether it were that Collection of half a Shekel for every man, of which see Exod. 30. 12, 13. 2 King. 12. 14. or a voluntary Contribution required for the present Exigence of the Temple, by virtue of the Command and Example of Moses, who made such a Collection for the building of the Tabernacle, Exod. 35. 5. See also Nehem. 10. 32. which he thought, would not be any great Sum, because of the great Iniquity and Impiety which yet had reigned for many Years, and yet continued in the Generality of the People of the Land, the Levites not excepted; as the last Clause of this Verse shews.

6 And the king called for Jehoiada the chief d, and said unto him, Why hast thou not required of the Levites to bring in out of Judah, and out of Jerusalem, the collection, according to the commandment of * Moses e the servant of the LORD, and of the congregation of Israel, for the tabernacle of witness?

* Exod. 30. 12, 13, 14.

d It is observable, that he is not called the Chief Priest, or High Priest; but only the Chief, or the Head; which he might be in many other Respects; either by reason of his near Relation to the Royal Family, or because he was the Chief of one of the twenty four Families; or because he had been the chief Man in the contriving, and bringing about of this great Change, and the General of the Forces employed about it. And the High Priest seems to be mentioned as a distinct Person from Jehojada here. 2 King. 12. 9, 10. All which make it questionable, whether Jehoiada was the High Priest, or no. e Heb. the collection of Moses; i.e. such an one as he commanded or made in the like Case: Of which see on v. 5. In like manner, we read of the Sins of Manasseh, 2 King. 24. 3. and of the Sin of Jeroboam frequently.

7 For the sons of Athaliah f, that wicked woman, had broken up the house of God g, and also all the dedicate things of the house of the LORD did they bestow upon Baalim.

f To wit, Ahaziah, and his Brethren, before they were carried away captive, ch. 22. 17. who did this by her Instigation, as this Phrase implies. g Both broken up the Treasuries, and defaced the House it self.

8 And at the king's commandment they made a chest, and set it without at the gate of the house of the LORD h.

h i.e. Of the Court of the People, whither all manner of persons might come to offer.

9 And they made † a proclamation through Judah and Jerusalem, to bring in to the LORD the collection that Moses the servant of God laid upon Israel in the wilderness i.

i i.e. A Collection answerable to it; as they are said to be guilty of the Error of Balaam, and Gain-saying of Core, Jud. v. 11. who fell into Sins of the same kind.

10 And all the princes, and all the people rejoyced, and brought in, and cast into the chest, until they had made an end.

11 Now it came to pass, that at what time the chest was brought unto the king's office k, by the hand of the Levites; and when they saw that there was much money, the king's scribe, and the high priest's officer came and emptied the chest, and took it, and carried it to his place again. Thus they did day by day, and gathered Money in abundance.

k From the Gate of the Court, into one of the Chambers belonging to the Temple, which was appointed by the King for this Office.

12 And the King and Jehoiada gave it to such as did the work of the service of the house of the LORD, and hired masons and carpenters to repair the house of the LORD, and also such as wrought iron and brass, to mend the house of the LORD.

13 So the work-men wrought, and † the work was perfected by them, and they set the house of God in his state, and strengthned it.

† Heb. the healing men upon the work.

14 And when they had finished it, they brought the rest of the money before the king and Jehoiada, whereof were made vessels for the house of the LORD l, even vessels to minister, and ‖ to offer withal, and spoons, and vessels of gold and silver: and they offered burnt-offerings in the house of the LORD continually, all the days of Jehoiada.

‖ Or, pestill.

l Because Athaliah and her Sons had taken the old ones away, v. 7.

15 But Jehoiada waxed old, and was full of days when he died; an hundred and thirty years old was he when he died.

16 And they buried him in the city of David among the kings, because he had done good in Israel m, both towards God, and towards his house.

m i. e. In Judah, which was an eminent part of Israel, and the only part of it which owned God, or was owned by God, as his Israel; to whom therefore he oft appropriates this Name, thereby signifying, that the other Tribes were unworthy of that honourable Title, and had forfeited all their Right in it to Judah. See on ch. 21. 2.

17 Now after the death of Jehoiada, came the princes of Judah, and made obeysance to the king n: then the king hearkned unto them.

n In that Posture presenting their Requests to him, that they might not be confined to unnecessary and troublesome Journeys in coming to Jerusalem to worship, but might have the Liberty which their Fore-fathers enjoyed, of worshipping God in the High-places. Which Liberty, when once they had obtained, they knew they could then worship Idols without Observation or Disturbance; which was the thing at which they aimed. And for the prevention of such Abuses, God obliged all to worship him in one place.

18 And they left the house of the LORD God of their fathers, and served groves and Idols: and wrath came upon Judah and Jerusalem for this their trespass o.

o By Hazael, King of Syria: Of which see 2 King. 12. 17, 18.

19 Yet he sent Prophets to them, to bring them again unto the LORD, and they testified against them: but they would not give ear.

†Heb. clothed. So Judg. 7. 34.

20 And the spirit of God † came upon Zechariah the son of Jehoiada the priest, which stood above the people p, and said unto them, Thus saith God, Why transgress ye the commandments of the LORD, that ye cannot prosper? because ye have forsaken the LORD, he hath also forsaken you.

p In an higher place, that his Voice and Message might be the better heard.

21 And they q conspired against him, and stoned him with stones, at the commandment of the King, in the court of the house of the LORD.

q i. e. The People to whom he preached, who were easily corrupted by the Examples of their apostate King and Princes.

22 Thus Joash the king remembred not the kindness which Jehoiada his father had done to him, but slew his son: and when he died, he said, The LORD look upon it, and require it r.

r i. e. Make Inquisition for my innocent Blood. Which he did not wish from any desire of private Revenge, with which so wise and good a Man would never be willing to die; but partly from a Zeal to publick Justice, and the Punishment of such gross Wickedness; and partly to deter them, if possible, from compleating their murtherous Intentions. But these Words may as well be rendred indicatively, as optatively, The Lord will look upon it, and require it; i. e. He will examine this Action, and require Satisfaction from you for it.

†Heb. in the revolution of the year.

23 And it came to pass † at the end of the year s, that the host of Syria came up against him: and they came to Judah and Jerusalem, and destroyed all the princes of the people from among the people t, and sent all the spoil of them unto the king of † Damascus u.

24 For the army of the Syrians * came with a small company of men, and the LORD delivered a very great host into their hand, because they had forsaken the LORD God of their fathers. So they executed Judgment against Joash.

25 And when they were departed from him, (for they left him in great diseases) his own servants conspired against him, for the blood of the sons x of Jehoiada the priest, and slew him on his bed, and he died: and they buried him in the city of David, but they buried him not in the sepulchres of the kings.

CHAP. XXV.

1 AMaziah * was twenty and five years old a when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and nine years in Jerusalem: and his mothers name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem.

* 2 Kin. 14. 1, &c.

a Of this Verse, and v. 2, 3, 4. see the Notes on 2 King. 14. 1, &c.

2 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, but not with a perfect heart.

3 Now it came to pass, when the kingdom was † established to him, that he slew his servants that had killed the king his father.

† Heb. confirmed upon him.

4 But he slew not their children, but did as it is written in the law, in the book of Moses, where the LORD commanded, saying, * The fathers shall not die for the children, neither shall the children die for the fathers, but every man shall die for his own sin.

*Deut. 24. 16. 2 Kin. 14. 6. Jer. 31. 30. Ezek. 18. 20.

5 Moreover, Amaziah gathered Judah together, and made them captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, according to the houses of their fathers, throughout all Judah and Benjamin: and he numbred them * from twenty years old and above, and found them three hundred thousand choice men, able to go forth to war, that could handle spear and shield.

* Num. 1. 3.

6 He hired also an hundred thousand mighty men of valour out of Israel b, for an hundred talents of silver.

b Out of the Kingdom of the Ten Tribes.

7 But there came a man of God to him, saying, O king, let not the army of Israel go with thee; for the LORD is not with Israel c, to wit, with all the children of Ephraim.

c He hath forsaken them, and for their sakes will curse thy Forces if thou joyneſt thy self with them.

8 But if thou wilt go, do it, be strong for the battel d: God shall make thee fall before the enemy: for God hath power to help, and to cast down.

d Take Courage, and strengthen thy self as much as thou canst. It is an Ironical Concession, like that, Go, and prosper.

9 And Amaziah said to the man of God, But what shall we do for the hundred talents which I have given to the † army of Israel? And the man of God answered, The LORD is able to give thee much more than this.

† Heb. band.

10 Then Amaziah separated them, to wit, the army that was come to him out of Ephraim, to go † home again: wherefore their anger was greatly kindled against Judah e, and they returned home † in great anger.

† Heb. to their place.
† Heb. in heat of anger.

e Because they were both disgraced by this Rejection, and disappointed of that Prey and Spoil which they hoped to gain, whereas now they were sent away empty; for the hundred Talents, probably, were given to their Officers only, to raise Men for this Service; that Sum being otherwise too small to be distributed into so many hands.

11 And Amaziah strengthned himself, and led forth his people, and went to the valley of salt, and smote of the children of Seir ten thousand.

12 And

12 And other ten thousand left alive, did the children of Judah carry captive, and brought them away unto the top of the rock, and cast them down from the top of the rock, that they were broken all in pieces.

† Heb. the son of the band.

13 But † the souldiers of the army which Amaziah sent back, that they should not go with him to battel, fell upon the cities of Judah, from Samaria even unto Beth-horon f, and smote g three thousand of them h, and took much spoil.

f To wit, Beth-horon the Lower, which was in the Tribe of Benjamin; and from thence to Samaria, either, 1. To the City of Samaria; for the Kings of Judah had taken divers Places within the Kingdom of Israel. Or, 2. To the Kingdom of Samaria: Beth-horon and all other Places between that City and their own Kingdom. g i. e. Killed, as that word is generally understood. h Not 3000 Cities, but 3000 Persons dwelling in them, who possibly opposed them in taking the Spoil, which was the Thing they sought.

14 Now it came to pass, after that Amaziah was come from the slaughter of the Edomites, that he brought the gods of the children of Seir, and set them up to be his gods, and bowed down himself before them, and burned incense unto them.

15 Wherefore the anger of the LORD was kindled against Amaziah, and he sent unto him a prophet, which said unto him, Why hast thou sought after the gods of the people, which could not deliver their own people out of thine hand i?

i Therefore thou art not only ungrateful and impious, but also ridiculously foolish, in offending that God whose Power and Goodness thou hast now found, and in worshipping such gods of whose Impotency thou hast had late Experience.

16 And it came to pass as he talked with him, that the king said unto him, Art thou made of the kings counsel k? forbear, why shouldest thou be smitten l? Then the prophet forbare, and said, I know m that God hath † determined to destroy thee, because thou hast done this, and hast not hearkned unto my counsel.

† Heb. counselled.

k Who art thou that presumest to direct and govern my Affairs without my Commission? l Provoke me no further, lest I cause thee to be killed for thy Sawciness. m This he might know either by the plain and positive Rules of Gods Word, as Prov. 29. 1. or by the Suggestion of Gods Spirit.

* 2 Kin. 14. 8.

17 Then * Amaziah king of Judah took advice n, and sent to Joash the son of Jehoahaz, the son of Jehu king of Israel, saying, Come, let us see one another in the face.

18 And Joash king of Israel sent to Amaziah king of Judah, saying, The ‖ thistle that was in Lebanon, sent to the cedar that was in Lebanon, saying, Give thy daughter to my son to wife: and there passed by † a wild beast that was in Lebanon and trode down the thistle.

19 Thou sayest, Lo, thou hath smitten the Edomites, and thine heart lifteth thee up to boast: abide now at home, why shouldest thou meddle to thine hurt, that thou shouldest fall, even thou, and Judah with thee.

* Ch. 22. 7.

20 But Amaziah would not hear, for * it came of God o, that he might deliver them into the hand of their enemies, because they sought after the gods of Edom.

o Who gave him up to his own Error and Passion in order to his Ruin.

21 So Joash the king of Israel went up, and they saw one another in the face, both he, and Amaziah king of Judah, at Beth-shemeth, which belongeth to Judah.

† Heb. smitten.

22 And Judah was † put to the worse before Israel, and they fled every man to his tent.

23 And Joash the king of Israel took Amaziah king of Judah the son of Joash, the son of Jehoahaz, at Beth-shemeth, and brought him to Jerusalem, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem: from 24 And he took all the gold and the silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of God with Obed-edom p, and the treasures of the kings house, the hostages also, and returned to Samaria.

p i. e. With Obed-edom's Posterity, to whom the Custody of the Sacred Treasures was committed. See 1 Chron. 26. 15.

25 And Amaziah the son of Joash king of Judah, lived after the death of Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel, fifteen years.

26 Now the rest of the acts of Amaziah, first and last, behold, are they not written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel?

27 Now after the time that Amaziah did turn away † from following the LORD, they † made a conspiracy against him in Jerusalem, and he fled to Lachish: but they sent to Lachish after him, and slew him there.

* 2 Kin. 14. 21. & 15. 1.

1 THen all the people of Judah took * ‖ Uzziah a, who was sixteen years old, and made him king in the room of his father Amaziah.

‖ Or, Azariah.

a Called also Azariah, 2 King. 14, 21. both Names signifying the same thing; Gods Strength or Help. See of this and v. 2, 3, 4. on 2 King. 14, 21, 22. & 15. 2, 3.

2 He built Eloth, and restored it to Judah, after that the king slept with his fathers.

3 Sixteen years old was Uzziah, when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty and two years in Jerusalem: his mothers name also was Jecoliah of Jerusalem.

4 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father Amaziah did b.

b To wit, for a Time, but not perfectly nor constantly, which was Amaziah's Case also.

† Heb. in the seeing of God.

5 And he sought God c in the days of Zechariah d, who had understanding e † in the visions of God f: and as long as he sought the Lord, God made him to prosper.

7 And God helped him against the Philistins, and against the Arabians that dwelt in Gur-baal, and the Mehunims.

9 Moreover, Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem, at the * corner-gate, and at the valley-gate, and at the turning of the wall, and ‖ fortified them.

10 Also he built towers in the desert h, and ‖ digged many wells, for he had much cattel, both in the low-country, and in the plains: husbandmen also and vine-dressers in the mountains, and in ‖ Carmel: for he loved † husbandry.

h Partly to guard his Cattel from the Inroads and depredations which the Arabians were accustomed to make: and partly to give Notice of the Approach of any Enemy, and to give some stop to their March on that Side.

11 Moreover

11 Moreover Uzziah had an army of fighting-men, that went out to war by bands i, according to the number of their account, by the hand of Jeiel the ſcribe, and Maaſeiah the ruler, under the hand of Hananiah, one of the kings captains.

i i.e. Some Bands at one time and ſome at another, as Occaſion required. See the Notes on 1 Chron. 27. 1, &c. and 2 Chron. 13. 14.

12 The whole number of the chief of the fathers of the mighty men of valour, were two thouſand and ſix hundred.

† Heb. the power of an army.

13 And under their hand was † an army, three hundred thouſand and ſeven thouſand and five hundred, that made war with mighty power, to help the king againſt the enemy.

14 And Uzziah prepared for them throughout all the hoſt, ſhields and ſpears, and helmets, and habergeons, and bows, and † ſlings to caſt ſtones.

† Heb. ſtones of ſlings.

15 And he made in Jeruſalem engins invented by cunning men, to be on the towers, and upon the bulwarks, to ſhoot arrows and great ſtones withal: and his name † ſpread far abroad, for he was marvellouſly helped till he was ſtrong.

† Heb. went forth.

16 But when he was ſtrong k, his heart was lifted up to his deſtruction: for he tranſgreſſed againſt the LORD his God, and went into the temple of the LORD * to burn incenſe upon the altar of incenſe.

k When he was ſtrengthned in his Kingdom, and free from the fear of any Enemy. * Into the Holy place, where the Altar of Incenſe ſtood, and into which none but the Prieſts might enter, much leſs offer Incenſe.

17 And Azariah the Prieſt went in after him, and with him fourſcore prieſts of the LORD, that were valiant men:

18 And they withſtood Uzziah l the King, and ſaid unto him, It * appertaineth not unto thee, Uzziah, to burn incenſe unto the LORD, but to the * prieſts the ſons of Aaron, that are conſecrated to burn incenſe: go out of the ſanctuary for thou haſt treſpaſſed, neither ſhall it be for thine honour from the LORD God m.

* Numb. 18. 7.

* Exod. 30. 7.

l Heb. ſtood up againſt Uzziah, not by force or laying hands upon him to reſtrain him, for in the next Verſe you ſtill find the Cenſer in his hand; but only by admonition and reproof, which here follows. m Expect that God will puniſh thee, or put ſome brand of Infamy upon thee for this preſumption. But this they expreſs modeſtly, and by a figure called Meioſis, where more is meant than is expreſſed, becauſe they conſidered that he to whom they ſpake, though an Offender, was their Lord and Soveraign.

19 Then Uzziah was wroth n, and had a cenſer in his hand, to burn incenſe: and while he was wroth with the prieſts, the leproſie even roſe up in his forehead o, before the prieſts in the houſe of the LORD, from beſide the incenſe altar p.

n With the Prieſts. o So as he could not hide his ſhame though it is probable it was alſo in the reſt of his Body. p By a ſtroke from an inviſible hand coming from the Altar; that he might be aſſured that this was the effect of Gods juſt diſpleaſure againſt him.

20 And Azariah the chief Prieſt, and all the prieſts looked upon him, and behold, he was leprous in his forehead, and they thruſt him out from thence q, yea, himſelf * haſted alſo to go out, becauſe the LORD had ſmitten him.

* As Eſth. 6. 12.

q Not by force, as was noted on v. 18. which needed not, for he voluntarily haſted away, as it follows; but by vehement perſwaſions and denunciations of Gods further Judgments upon him if he did not depart. Some ſuppoſe that the Earthquake mentioned Amos 1. 1. Zech. 14. 5. happened upon this occaſion, as another token of God's diſpleaſure againſt this unparallel'd arrogancy.

21 * And Uzziah the king was a leper unto the day of his death r, and dwelt in a * † ſeveral houſe being a leper s, for t he was cut off from the houſe of the LORD: and Jotham his ſon was over the kings houſe, judging the people of the land.

* 2 Kin. 15. 5.
* Lev. 13. 26, 46.
† Heb. free.

r God would have this Leproſie to be incurable, as a laſting monument of his Anger againſt ſuch preſumptuous Invaders of the Prieſts office. s As he was obliged to do by Law, Levit. 13. 46. which he durſt not now reſiſt, being under the hand and ſtroke of God, and under the fear of further and worſe plagues, if he did ſo. t So the following words are a reaſon of the former; he dwelt in a ſeveral houſe, becauſe he might not come into the Temple or Courts, nor conſequently into any publick Aſſembly, or the ſociety of others. Or, and therefore, as the Hebrew Chi oft ſignifies: and the Particle and is oft underſtood. So it is an inference from the next foregoing words, He was a Leper, and therefore he was cut off, &c. He who could not content himſelf with Gods allowance, but uſurped the Prieſts place and office is now deprived of the privilege of the meaneſt of his People. A juſt and moſt ſuitable judgment.

22 Now the reſt of the acts of Uzziah, firſt and laſt, did Iſaiah the prophet the ſon of Amoz write.

23 So Uzziah ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the field of the burial which belonged to the kings: for they ſaid, He is a leper: and Jotham his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 JOtham * was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned ſixteen years in Jeruſalem: his mothers name alſo was Jeruſhah the daughter of Zadok.

* 2 Kin. 15. 33, &c.

2 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that his father Uzziah did: howbeit he entred not into the temple of the LORD a. And the people did yet corruptly.

a To wit, to offer Incenſe. But ſeeing this was commendable, how is this mentioned as an exception from the foregoing Character, that he did as his Father did in that which was right? &c. Anſw. It is an exception only from the laſt clauſe, where alſo one word may be ſupplied out of the foregoing words, as is moſt uſual in Scripture, thus, He did according to all that his father Uzziah did; then it fitly follows, howbeit, &c. i.e. except in his miſcarriages.

3 He built b the high-gate c of the houſe of the LORD, and on the wall of ‖ Ophel d he built much.

‖ Or, the tower.

b i.e. Repaired it: for it was built before, ch. 11. 5. c Otherwiſe called the New gate, Jer. 36. 10. d A Tower upon or near the wall of Jeruſalem, which probably he fortified as his Father had done other Towers, ch. 26. 9.

4 Moreover, he built cities in the mountains of Judah, and in the foreſts he built caſtles and towers.

5 He fought alſo with the king of the Ammonites e, and prevailed againſt them. And the children of Ammon gave him the ſame year, an hundred talents of ſilver, and ten thouſand meaſures of wheat, and ten thouſand of barley. † So much did the children of Ammon pay unto him, both the ſecond year, and the third.

d Or, directed his ways, i.e. his counſels and actions by the rule of God's Law.

7 Now the reſt of the acts of Jotham, and all his wars, and his ways, lo, they are written in the book of the kings of Iſrael and Judah.

8 He was five and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned ſixteen years in Jeruſalem.

9 And Jotham ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David: And Ahaz his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

1 AHaz * was twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned ſixteen years in Jeruſalem: but he did not that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, like David his father.

2 For he walked in the ways of the kings of Iſrael, and made alſo molten images for Baalim a.

the LORD had cast out before the children of Israel.

4 He sacrificed also, and burnt incense in the high places, and on the hills, and under every green tree.

5 Wherefore the LORD his God b delivered him into the hand of the king of Syria, and they smote him, and carried away a great multitude of them captives, and brought them to † Damascus: and he was also delivered into the hand of the king of Israel, who smote him with a great slaughter.

† Heb. Darmesek.

b God was his God, though not by Covenant, and Grace, and special Relation, which Ahaz had renounced, yet by his Soveraign Dominion over him: For God did not forfeit his Right by Ahaz his denying it.

6 For * Pekah the son of Remaliah slew in Judah an hundred and twenty thousand in one day, which were all † valiant men: because they had forsaken the LORD God of their fathers.

† Heb. the second to the king.

8 And the children of Israel carried away captive of their brethren, two hundred thousand women, sons and daughters, and took also away much spoil from them, and brought the spoil to Samaria.

9 But a prophet of the LORD was there, whose name was Oded: and he went out before the host that came to Samaria, and said unto them, Behold, * because the LORD God of your fathers was wroth with Judah, he hath delivered them into your hand, and ye have slain them in a rage that reacheth up unto heaven.

* Psal. 69. 26. Isa. 10. 5. & 47, 6. Ezek. 2. 12, 15. & 26. 2. Obad. 10. &c. Zech. 1. 15.

c i.e. In a most high and fierce manner. An usual Hyperbole, withal signifying that their Rage did cry aloud and was heard to heaven from whence it would pull down Vengeance upon them.

10 And now ye purpose to keep under the children of Judah and Jerusalem for bond-men, and bond-women unto you: but are there not with you, even with you, sins against the LORD your God d?

d Which if not repented of, may bring down the like Vengeance upon your own Heads.

11 Now hear me therefore, and deliver the captives again, which ye have taken captive of your brethren: for the fierce wrath of the LORD is upon you.

12 Then certain of the heads of the children of Ephraim, Azariah the son of Johanan, Berechiah the son of Meshillemoth, and Jehizkiah the son of Shallum, and Amasa the son of Hadlai, stood up against them that came from the war.

13 And said unto them, Ye shall not bring in the captives hither: for whereas we have offended against the LORD already, ye intend to add more to our sins and to our trespass: for our trespass is great, and there is fierce wrath against Israel.

14 So the armed men left the captives and the spoil, before the princes and all the Congregation.

15 And the men which were expressed by name e, rose up, and took the captives, and with the spoil cloathed all that were naked among them, and araied them, and shod them, and gave them to eat and to drink, and anointed them, and carried all the feeble of them upon asses, and brought them to Jericho, * the city of Palm-trees, to their brethren: then they returned to Samaria.

16 At that time did king Ahaz send unto the kings f of Assyria to help him.

f i.e. The King: The Plural Number for the singular; Either, 1. Because he was a Great King and a King of Kings; as the Elephant, or, as others think, the Crocodile is called Behemoth, which signifies Beasts, Job 40. because of his vast Bulk and Eminency above other Beasts. Or, 2 Because he wrote to divers of the Kings or great Princes, who may be called Kings in a more general signification of the Word, and indeed are so called, Isa. 10. 8. Are not my Princes altogether Kings?

17 For again the Edomites had come and smitten Judah, and carried away † captives.

i Taking away their Ornament and their Defence and Strength, to wit, their Treasures, which he sent to the Assyrian to no purpose; their Frontier Towns and other strong Holds, which by his Folly and Wickedness were lost; their Religion and the Divine Protection, which was their great and only firm Security, which by his Sins he forfeited. 20 And * Tilgath-pilneser king of Assyria came unto him, and distressed him k, but strengthened him not l.

* 2 King. 15. 29.

21 For Ahaz took away a portion out of the house of the LORD, and out of the house of the king, and of the princes, and gave it unto the king of Assyria: but he helped him not l.

k Or, straitned him, by robbing him of his Treasures. l A most Emphatical Expression; for tho he weakned his present Enemy the Syrian, as is related, 2 King. 16. 9. yet really and all things considered he did not strengthen Ahaz and his Kingdom, but rather weaken'd them; for by the removing the Syrian, who, though a Troublesom Neighbour, was a kind of Bulwark to him as to many other Enemies, he smoothed the way for himself, a far more Dangerous and Mischievous Enemy, as appears by his Invasion of Judah in the very next Kings Reign.

22 And in the time of his distress did he trespass yet more against the LORD. This is that king Ahaz m.

m That Monster and Reproach of Mankind, that unteachable and incorrigible Prince, whom even grievous Afflictions made worse, which commonly make Men better. This is he whose name deserves to be remembred and detested for ever. Or, King Ahaz was the same, no Changeling, not a whit better by all the Methods which God used with him.

23 For he sacrificed unto the gods of † Damascus, which smote him n: and he said, Because the gods of the kings of Syria help them, therefore will I sacrifice to them, that they may help me. But they were the ruin of him and of all Israel.

n Or, which had smitten him formerly, i.e. had enabled their Worshippers, the Syrians, to smite him, as he fondly imagined: which yet he saw confuted, having now found by experience that they could not save them from the Assyrian Power.

24 And Ahaz gathered together the vessels of the house of God, and cut in pieces the vessels of the house of God, and shut up the doors of the house of the LORD, and he made him altars in every corner of Jerusalem.

25 And in every several city of Judah he made high places ‖ to burn incense unto other gods, and provoked to anger the LORD God of his fathers.

‖ Or, to offer.

26 Now the rest of his acts, and of all his ways, first and last, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.

27 And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city, even in Jerusalem: but they brought him not into the sepulchres of the kings of Israel: and Hezekiah his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP XXIX.

1 HEzekiah * began to reign, when he was five and twenty years old, and he reigned nine and twenty years in Jerusalem: and his mothers name was Abijah the daughter of Zechariah.

4 And he brought in the priests, and the Levites, and and gathered them together into the east-street b.

h So he calls them indifferently, though many of them were elder than himself, because he was by his tender Love and Affection as he was by his Office, obliged to be a Nursing Father to them. See Isa. 49. 23. i In sanctifying your selves and the Temple, v. 5. and in quickning and preparing your selves and the People to Gods Service.

12 Then the Levites arose, Mahath the son of Amasai, and Joel the son of Azariah, of the sons of the Kohathites: and of the sons of Merari; Kish the son of Abdi, and Azariah the son of Jehallelel: and of the Gershonites; Joah the son of Zimmah and Eden the son of Joah:

13 And of the sons of Elizaphan; Shimri, and Jehiel: and of the sons of Asaph; Zechariah, and Mattaniah:

14 And of the sons of Heman; Jehiel and Shimei: and of the sons of Jeduthun; Shemaiah, and Uzziel.

15 And they gathered their brethren and sanctified themselves, and came, according to the commandment of the king, ‖ by the words of the LORD, to cleanse the house of the LORD.

‖ Or, in the business of the LORD.

16 And the priests went into the inner part of the house of the LORD k, to cleanse it, and brought out all the uncleanness that they found in the temple of the LORD, into the court l of the house of the LORD. And the Levites took it to carry it out abroad into the brook Kidron.

k Not the Holy of Holies, into which only the High priest might enter, and that but once in a year, but the Holy Place. l To wit, the Priests Court, called here the Court by way of Eminency.

17 Now they began on the first day of the first month to sanctifie, and on the eighth day of the month came they to the porch of the LORD; so they sanctified the house of the LORD in eight days, and in the sixteenth day of the first month they made an end m.

m In 16 Days purging the House, and Porch, and Courts, and all the Chambers belonging to the Temple. This is noted to imply partly the Universal Abuse and Defilement of all the Parts of it by Ahaz, which required so much time to remove; and partly the Diligence of the Priests in this Work.

18 Then they went in to Hezekiah the king, and said, We have cleansed all the house of the LORD, and the altar of burnt-offering, with all the vessels thereof, and the shew-bread table, with all the vessels thereof.

19 Moreover, all the vessels which king Ahaz in his reign did cast away in his transgression, have we prepared and sanctified, and behold they are before the altar of the LORD.

20 Then Hezekiah the king arose early, and gathered the rulers of the city, and went up to the house of the LORD.

21 And they brought seven bullocks, and seven rams, and seven lambs, and seven he-goats n for a * sin-offering for the kingdom o, and for the sanctuary p, and for Judah q: and he commanded the priests the sons of Aaron to offer them on the altar of the LORD.

* Lev. 4. 3, 14.

n The Number of seven is famous and customary in Sacred matters, and is here used in regard of the vast numbers and various Kinds of Sins, the Guilt whereof yet lay upon the Kingdom which was now to be expiated. Indeed in case of one particular Sin of Ignorance done by the People, there was but one Bullock to be offered, Levit. 4. 13, 14. but here the Sins were many and presumptuous, &c. o To make Atonement for the Sins of the King and the Royal Family, and the Court. p For all the Idolatry and Uncleanness wherewith the Temple had been polluted, which, as it had been cleansed naturally by the Priests Hands, so now was to be purged morally by Sacrifices. q For the Sins of all the people of Judah.

22 So they killed the bullocks, and the priests received the blood, and * sprinkled it on the altar: likewise when they had killed the rams, they sprinkled the blood upon the altar: they killed also the lambs, and they sprinkled the blood upon the altar.

25 * And he set the Levites in the house of the LORD, with cymbals, with psalteries, and with harps, * according to the commandment of David, and of Gad the kings seer, and Nathan the prophet: for so was the commandment † of the LORD † by his prophets.

† Heb. found.

30 Moreover, Hezekiah the king, and the princes commanded the Levites to sing praise unto the LORD, with the words of David, and of Asaph the seer: and they sang praises with gladness, and they bowed their heads and worshipped.

31 Then

31 Then Hezekiah answered and said, Now ye have ‖ consecrated your selves unto the LORD t, come near, and bring sacrifices, and † * thank-offerings into the house of the LORD. And the congregation brought in sacrifices, and † thank-offerings, and as many as were of a free heart, burnt-offerings u.

t Now that you have reconciled your selves and the House to Gods Favour, and that he is willing and ready to accept your Sacrifices. u Wherein there was more generosity than in the other Sacrifices, because they were wholly burnt and offered to God, and the People had no share in them as they had in the rest.

32 And the number of the burnt-offerings which the congregation brought, was threescore and ten bullocks, an hundred rams, and two hundred lambs: all these were for a burnt-offering unto the LORD.

33 And the consecrated things x were six hundred oxen, and three thousand sheep.

x i.e. All the Offerings consecrated to God besides the Burnt offerings already mentioned.

34 But the priests y were too few, so that they could not flay all the burnt-offerings z: wherefore their brethren the Levites † did help them ‖ till the work was ended, and until the other priests had sanctified themselves: for the Levites were more upright in heart, to sanctifie themselves, than the priests.

y To wit, such as were sanctified and fit for their Work, as the following words shew: for otherwise the Number of the Priests was more than sufficient for this Employment. z And much less all the other Sacrifices, which were more numerous; the flaying whereof was the Priests proper Work, Levit. 1. 5, 6. ‖ Necessity excusing their deviation from the Rule, as it hath excused others in like Cases.

35 And also the burnt-offerings were in abundance *, with the fat of the peace-offerings, and the drink-offerings for every burnt-offering. So the service of the house of the LORD was set in order.

* Or, For the Burnt-offerings were to be offered also in abundance. So it is a reason why the Priests could not slay all the burnt-offerings, as was said, v. 34. Because there was so much other work for them, for the Burnt-offerings were not only to be flayed, but also to be offered, to wit, wholly, and with them the Fat of Peace-offerings, &c.

36 And Hezekiah rejoyced, and all the people, that God had * prepared the people: for the thing was done suddenly †.

* 1 Chr. 29. 18.

† It was, as a very great, so a sudden Change that the People who but the other day were so ready to comply with wicked Ahaz in his Idolatrous and Impious Prescriptions, were now so free and forward in Gods Service: whereby it plainly appeared to be the Work of the Almighty God changing their Hearts by his Holy Spirit.

CHAP XXX.

1 AND Hezekiah sent to all Israel a and Judah, and wrote letters also to Ephraim and Manasseh b, that they should come to the house of the LORD at Jerusalem c, to keep the passover unto the LORD God of Israel.

a Whereby he understands all the Persons of the Ten Tribes, who were now setled in his Kingdom; as appears by their contra-distinction to Ephraim and Manasseh here following. b i.e. To all the remainders of the Ten Tribes, v. 5. who are here Synecdochically expressed by the names of Ephraim and Manasseh, as elsewhere by the name of Ephraim only. But he names these two Tribes, because they were nearest to his Kingdom, and a great number of them had long since and from time to time joyned themselves to the Kingdom of Judah, 2 Chron. 15. 8, 9. and therefore had most hopes of success amongst them. c Admonishing them of their Duty to God and perswading them to comply with it.

2 For the king had taken counsel, and his princes, and all the congregation in Jerusalem, to keep the passover in the second * month d.

* Numb. 9. 10, 11.

d Which was against the common Rule and Practice, but was justified by that Supreme Law of Necessity, and by a just Impediment, which made the doing of this in its proper time, to wit, the 14th. Day of the first Month, impossible, because the Temple was not cleansed, nor they prepared till that time was past, ch. 29. 3, 17. Compare Numb. 9. 10, 11.

3 For they could not keep it at that time e, because the priests had not sanctified themselves sufficiently f, neither had the people gathered themselves together to Jerusalem g.

e Which God had appointed for it, Exod. 12. 6. One Reason whereof was evident in it self, because the Temple was not then purified and prepared; to which he adds two other Reasons. f To wit, in such manner and degree as was fit, nor in such Numbers as were necessary for the slaying and offering of so many thousands of Paschal offerings, as appears because they were not sufficient for those Offerings, which were comparatively few, ch. 29. v. 32, 33, 34. g As they used and ought to do at that time from all places: which now they could not do, because neither the thing was agreed upon, nor the People summoned thither till the proper time was past.

4 And the thing † pleased the king, and all the congregation.

† Heb. was right in the eyes of the King.

5 So they established a decree h, to make proclamation throughout all Israel, from Beer-sheba even to Dan, that they should come to keep the passover unto the LORD God of Israel at Jerusalem h: for they had not done it † of a long time in such sort as it was written i.

† Heb. in a great number. ver. 13, 24.

h They fixed this Resolution. i i.e. So as God had commanded them to do it, to wit, That all the Males in Israel should do it: Which Express Command of God they ought to have obeyed rather than the Wicked Commands or Edicts of Men to the contrary: which was both the Judgment and Practice of the Priests and Levites, and other godly Israelites, as is manifest from 2 Chron. 15. 8, &c.

6 So the posts went with the letters † from the king, and his princes throughout all Israel, and Judah, and according to the commandment of the king, saying, Ye children of Israel, turn again unto the LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, and he will return to the remnant of you, that are escaped out of the hands of the kings of Assyria k.

† Heb. from the hand.

k To wit, Pul and Tilgath-pilneser, who had carried their Brethren away Captives, 2 King. 15. 19, 29. 1 Chron. 5. 26. 2 Chron. 28. 20.

7 And be not ye like your fathers, and like your brethren, which trespassed against the LORD God of their fathers, who therefore gave them up to desolation, as ye see.

8 Now † be ye not stiff necked as your fathers were, but † yield your selves l unto the LORD, and enter into his sanctuary which he hath sanctified for ever m: and serve the Lord your God, that the fierceness of his wrath may turn away from you.

† Heb. harden not your necks.

l Heb. Give the Hand to him; i. e. submit your selves to him by obeying his Command, and renew your Covenant with him: both which things were done amongst Men by this Ceremony of giving the Hand. See 1 Chron. 29. 24. Ezra 10. 19. Ezek. 17. 18. m Not for a transient and temporary use; but as long as the State and Church of Israel had a Being, whatsoever Alterations should happen therein.

9 For if ye turn again unto the LORD, your brethren and your children shall find compassion before them that lead them captive, so that they shall come again into this land: for the LORD your God is * gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye return unto him.

* Exod. 34. 6.

10 So the posts passed from city to city through the country of Ephraim and Manasseh, even unto Zebulun: but they n laughed them to scorn, and mocked them.

n i.e. The Generality of the ten Tribes; who by long want of Meat had now lost all their Appetite to Gods Ordinances, and from a Neglect were now fallen into a Contempt and derision of them; for which they paid dear. For about six years after their Refusal of this Offer of Grace they were all carried Captive, 2 King. 18. 1, 10.

11 Nevertheless, * divers of Asher, and Manasseh, and of Zebulon, humbled themselves and came to Jerusalem.

* Ch. 11. 16.

12 Also in Judah the hand of God was to give them one heart to do the commandment of the king, and of the princes by the word of the LORD o.

o i.e. God by the Power of his Grace inclined their Hearts to an unanimous Compliance with Gods and the Kings Will. And this is mentioned as the Reason of this wonderful Change wrought in these Men, who had lately been utterly averse from Gods Worship and wholly given up to Idolatry; as was noted before on ch. 29. 36.

13 And there assembled at Jerusalem much people, to keep the feast of unleavened bread in the second month, a very great congregation.

* Ch 28. 24.

14 And they arose, and took away the * altars p that were in Jerusalem, and all the altars for incense took they away, and cast them into the brook Kidron.

p To wit, of burnt-offerings; because they are distinguished from the Altars of Incense here following; both which were removed and destroyed, partly because all the Israelites were confined to the Altars of the Temple; and partly because these Altars were erected to Idols.

15 Then they killed the passover on the fourteenth day of the second month: and the priests and the Levites were ashamed q, and sanctified themselves, and brought in the burnt-offerings into the house of the LORD.

q Their Negligence and Remisness being upbraided by the great and general Alacrity and Forwardness of the People.

16 And they stood in † their place, after their manner, according to the law of Moses the man of God: the priests sprinkled the blood r, which they received of the hand of the Levites s.

r Of the Sacrifices upon the Altar, Levit. 1. 5. s Who flayed and killed the Sacrifices which the Priests, if they had been sanctified, should have done, as it was observed before, ch. 29. 34.

17 For there were many in the congregation that were not sanctified t: therefore the Levites had the charge of the killing u of the passovers x, for every one that was not clean y, to sanctifie them unto the LORD.

t That had more desire to come to the passover, than care and diligence to cleanse and prepare themselves for it. Now these persons were either, 1. The Priests, who were before taxed with Uncleanness and Unpreparedness. Or rather, 2. the People, as is implied in the word Congregation, and expressed in the next verse, and confirmed by the Reason here following. u Because many of the People were unclean, and therefore many more Sacrifices were to be offered for their Purification than the Priests could kill. x i. e. Either, 1. The Paschal Lambs; which the Levites here offered, because of the Impurity of many of the Masters of Families, who otherwise, as some think, should have killed the Paschal Lambs in their own Houses, Exod. 12. 3. Or, 2. The other Sacrifices which accompanied the Passover, which also are called by the same Name, as is evident from Deut. 16. 2, 3. where see my Notes: Which the Levites here killed, for the Reason now mentioned. y So far as they could make any discovery of their uncleanness either by their own Confession, or otherwise. But there were many whose Uncleannesses were not known, and therefore did not cleanse themselves as is said, v. 18. as they ought to have done.

18 For a multitude of the people, even many of Ephraim and Manasseh, Issachar, and Zebulun had not cleansed themselves, yet did they eat the passover otherwise than it was written z: but Hezekiah prayed for them, saying, † The good LORD pardon every one.

† Heb. the LORD the good pardon.

z They had so eager a Desire to partake of this Ordinance that rather than neglect it, they would venture upon it with some Ceremonial Uncleanness upon them.

19 That prepareth his heart to seek God, the LORD God of his fathers, though he be not cleansed according to the purification of the sanctuary a.

a i. e. With that Ceremonial Purification which was required of them that came into Gods Sanctuary. So he calls it to distinguish from that Moral and Internal Purity which they are here acknowledged to have.

20 And the LORD hearkned to Hezekiah, and healed the people b.

b From their Uncleanness; which it self was a Spiritual Disease, and which probably produced a Disease, or Distemper, or Trouble in their Minds and Consciences; which also had formerly brought and might justly now bring even outward Diseases upon the Body, or, at least, Guilt, which is a Disease upon the Soul: From all which the Lord was pleased now to heal them, by pardoning this their Sin, and accepting them and their Services as if they had been clean. Which it is likely God was pleased to manifest by some outward Sign, possibly by fire from Heaven consuming the Sacrifices; which was the usual Token of Gods Approbation, as hath been formerly noted more than once.

† Heb. to the heart of all, &c.

21 And the children of Israel that were † present at Jerusalem, kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days with great gladness: and the Levites, and the priests praised the LORD day by day, singing with † loud instruments unto the LORD.

22 And Hezekiah spake † comfortably unto all the Levites c that taught the good knowledge of the LORD d: and they did eat throughout the feast seven days, offering peace-offerings, and making confession e unto the LORD God of their fathers.

c Encouraged them to a chearful and diligent Attendance upon their Holy Ministrations by the Promise of his Favour and utmost Care for them, which he faithfully performed, ch. 31. 4, &c. d Who by their office were to instruct and build up the People in the Knowledge and Fear of God: which is mentioned as the Cause of his Respect and Kindness to them, which was for their works sake, as it is said, 1 Thes. 5. 13. e Either, 1. Confessing their Sins: which Work was to accompany many of their Sacrifices: of which see Levit. 5. 5. & 16. 21. Or rather, 2. Confessing Gods Goodness, or praising of God, which oft goes under this Name, as 1 Chron. 16. 8, 24. which also seems to be more proper work for this Season of Joy.

* See 1 Kin. 8. 65.

23 And the whole assembly took counsel to keep * other seven days: and they kept other seven days with gladness f.

f Not in the same manner as they had done the former, with offering new Paschal Lambs and eating only Unleavened Bread, (of which there is not the least intimation in the Text) but only in the solemn Worship of God, by Sacrifices, and Prayers, and Praises, and publick Instruction of that great Congregation in the Good Knowledge of the Lord; which was so dear to Hezekiah, v. 22. and at this time most seasonable and necessary for the People after so long and dismal a Night of Ignorance, Superstition and Idolatry, as both Israel and Judah had been involved in.

† Heb. lifted up, or, offered.

24 For Hezekiah king of Judah † did give to the congregation g a thousand bullocks, and seven thousand sheep h; and the princes gave to the congregation a thousand bullocks, and ten thousand sheep: and a great number of priests sanctified themselves i.

g First to God, to whom the parts appointed were offered in way of Thanksgiving; and then to the People, who feasted upon the Relicks, as the Offerer used to do in Peace-offerings: and Hezekiah, who was the Offerer, gave away his Right in the Remains of the Sacrifices, to the People. h Which Generosity is the more considerable, because it was in the Beginning of his Reign, when he found the Royal Exchequer exhausted and empty; and when he had been at great Expence about the Cleansing and refitting of the Temple, and making Preparations for this great Feast. i Having now both more Time and further Need of sanctifying themselves to offer these Numerous Sacrifices.

25 And all the congregation of Judah, with the priests and the Levites, and all the congregation that came out of Israel, and the strangers that came out of the land of Israel, and that dwelt in Judah, rejoyced.

26 So there was great joy in Jerusalem: for since the time of Solomon the son of David king of Israel, there was not the like in Jerusalem.

27 Then the priests the Levites k arose, and * blessed the people l: and their voice was heard, and their prayer came up to † his holy dwelling place, even unto heaven.

* Numb. 6. 23.

† Heb. the habitation of his holiness.

k Those of the Levites who were Priests also; for to them only this Work belonged, 1 Chron. 23. 13. Or, the Priests and the Levites: For as the Levites did some other part of the Priests Work at this time, it is not strange if they did this also. Or the Priests might bless by solemn pronunciation of the Blessing, and the Levites by their Acclamations or with their Musical Instruments. l Either commended them for their great Zeal and Diligence in Gods Service. Or rather, solemnly prayed to God to bless them; and their Prayer was not in vain, as the following words shew.

CHAP. XXXI.

† Heb. found.

* 2 Kin. 18. 4.

† Heb. statues.

† Heb. until to make an end.

1 NOw when all this was finished, all Israel that were † present, went out to the cities of Judah, and * brake the † images in pieces, and cut down the groves, and threw down the high † places, and the altars out of all Judah and Benjamin, in Ephraim also and Manasseh, † until they had utterly destroyed them all. Then all the children of Israel returned every man to his possession into their own cities.

a Either, 1. In those Cities belonging to Ephraim and Manasseh, which the Kings of Judah had formerly taken from the Kings of Israel. Or, 2. In the Tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh. For although these were a part of Hoshea's Kingdom yet Hezekiah presumed to do this partly by virtue of the Law of God, to which both Israel and Judah owed Subjection, which which commanded the extirpation of these things out of the whole Land of Canaan: Partly by the special impulse and Direction of Gods Spirit, which sometimes did put persons upon Heroical and Extraordinary Actions not to be drawn into Imitation: And partly because he knew that Hoshea contented himself with the Worship of the Calves, and did not practise that great Idolatry which his Predecessors had used, and therefore would patiently suffer the breaking of these Images of Baal and the things belonging to them; which is all that was done at this time.

2 And Hezekiah appointed the courses of the priests and the Levites, after their courses, every man according to his service, the priests and Levites for burnt-offerings, and for peace-offerings to minister, and to give thanks, and to praise in the gates of the tents of the LORD b.

b i. e. Within the Gates of the House of the Lord: which is here called tents, partly because all Houses are oft so called, as Judg. 19. 9. & 20. 8. Psal. 69. 25. And partly because the Host of the Lord, to wit, the priests and Levites, frequently so called, encamped there, and kept their Stations and Orders there by course.

3 He appointed also the kings portion of his substance, for the burnt-offering c, to wit, for the morning and evening burnt-offerings, and the burnt-offerings of the sabbaths, and for the new moons, and for the set feasts, as it is written in the
* Numb. 28. & 29. * law of the Lord.

c Which had hitherto been and were to be taken out of the Treasures of the Temple which were collected from the People, 1 Chron. 26. 20. Nehem. 10. 32, 33. but that he might ease them in their present Poverty, which his Predecessor had brought upon them, and engage them to a more chearful attendance upon Gods Service, he took the Burden upon himself.

4 Moreover, he commanded the people that dwelt in Jerusalem, to give the portion of the priests, and the Levites, that they might be encouraged in the law of the LORD d.

d i. e. Freed from worldly Cares and Distractions, and enabled to give up themselves entirely to the serious Study of Gods Law, in which many of them were ignorant, and to the Instruction, and Direction, and quickning of the People in their several Duties.

5 And as soon as the commandment † came abroad e, the children of Israel brought in abundance the first-fruits of corn, wine, and oil, and ‖ honey f, and of all the increase of the field, and the tithe of all things brought they in abundantly.

e Either, 1. As soon as the Report of this Command of the King, v. 4. was got abroad into other parts. Or, 2. as soon as the King enlarged and extended that Command to all the Parts of his kingdom, which v. 4. was confined to them that dwelt in Jerusalem. f Or, Dates, as the Hebrew Writers generally, and many other Learned Hebricians understand this word, which is given to them, because of the Sweetness of their Taste in some sort resembling Honey. For the Law requires no Tithes but of the Fruits of Trees, or of the Earth, or of Beasts.

6 And concerning the children of Israel and Judah, that dwelt in the cities of Judah, they also brought in the tithe of oxen and sheep g, and the
* Lev. 27. 30. Deut. 14. 28. † Heb. heaps, heaps. * tithe of holy things, which were consecrated unto the LORD their God h, and laid them † by heaps.

g They brought in not only the same Tithes which the Dwellers in Jerusalem did, to wit, of corn, and wine, and oil, &c. which they had in their own Store-houses in that City; but also Oxen and Sheep, which were more proper to the Country: For under the Cities of Judah, are comprehended the Suburbs and Territories adjacent and belonging to them, as is evident from the Nature of the thing and the Law of God. h This may be taken either, 1. By way of Explication, even the Tithe of Holy things, &c. Or rather, 2. By way of Addition, the Tithe of all Holy things which were consecrated unto the Lord, whether by Vow, or voluntary Promise, or otherwise; as the Tithes of Gains by Merchandise, or Spoils of War, &c. of which see Gen. 14. 20. & 28. 22. Numb. 31. 28. 30.

7 In the third month i they began to lay the foundation of the heaps, and finished them in the seventh month k, i To wit, of the Sacred Year, Exod. 12. 2. in which their Harvest began. k In which their Harvest ended and the Feast of Tabernacles was kept, Exod. 23. 16. Levit. 23. 34.

8 And when Hezekiah and the princes came and saw the heaps, they blessed the LORD l, and his people Israel m.

l Both for giving such plentiful Provisions to his Land in this Year, and for giving his People such Liberal and Pious Hearts towards this good Work. m They praised them for their forwardness and faithfulness in it.

9 Then Hezekiah questioned with the priests and the Levites concerning the heaps n.

n How it came to pass that no more of their Provision was spent, and that there yet remained such great Heaps of it.

10 And Azariah the chief priest of the house of Zadok o, answered him, and said, * Since the people began to bring the offerings p into the house of the LORD, we have had enough to eat, and have left plenty: for the LORD hath blessed his people q, and that which is left is this great store. * Mal. 3. 10.

o Either, 1. the High-priest, called also Zadok, 1 Chron. 6. 12. because he was of his Line and Family. Or, 2. The Chief Priest, or the head of that Family of Zadok or of Eleazar; as there was another Chief Priest of the Family of Abiathar or of Ithamar. See 2 Sam. 8. 17. 1 Chron. 24. 3. but both subject to the High Priest. p Which they did from the beginning of the Harvest according to the manner. q In an Extraordinary Degree.

11 Then Hezekiah commanded to prepare ‖ chambers in the house of the LORD r; and they prepared them, ‖ Or, store-houses.

r Largely so called, to wit, in the Courts, or in the Chambers adjoyning to the House.

12 And brought in the offerings and the tithes, and the dedicate things faithfully: over with Cononiah the Levite was ruler, and Shimei his brother was the next.

13 And Jehiel, and Azaziah, and Nahath, and Asahel, and Jerimoth, and Jozabad, and Eliel, and Ismachiah, and Mahath, and Benaiah, were overseers † under the hand of Cononiah and Shimei his brother s, at the commandment of Hezekiah the king, and Azariah the ruler of the house of God t. † Heb. at the hand.

s i. e. To dispose of those Provisions by their Direction, and to be accountable to them therein. t Either the Supreme Ruler, to wit, the High-priest, or the Chief Ruler under him and in his stead, being appointed by him to inspect this Work. See above, v. 10. & 1 Chron. 9. 11. Jer. 20. 1.

14 And Kore the son of Imnah, the Levite, the porter toward the east u, was over the free-will-offerings of God, to distribute x the oblations of the LORD, and the most holy things y.

u At the East-gate of the Lords House; of which see on ch. 23. x To the Priests and Levites, to whom they were appropriated by God. y To wit, the remainders of the Free-will-offering, Levit. 2. 3, 10. The Sin-offering and Trespass offering, Lev. 6. 18, 22. & 7. 1. and the Shew-bread, Levit. 24. 9.

15 And † next him were Eden, and Minjamin, and Jeshua, and Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shecaniah, in * the cities of the priests z in their ‖ set office, to give to their brethren by courses, as well to the great as to the small. † Heb. at his hand. * Josh. 21. ‖ Or, trust.

16 Beside their genealogy of males, from three years old and upward a, even unto every one that entreth into the house of the LORD b, his daily portion for their service in their charges, according to their courses:

a To whom a Portion of these things was allotted, as is here implied. b That were capable of entring thither and doing Service there, which they were at twenty years old, as is expressed here, v. 17. & 1 Chron. 23. 24. Through the whole Company of the Priests and Levites.

17 Both to the genealogy of the priests by the house of their fathers, and the Levites, ‖ from twenty years old and upward, in their charges by their courses: ‖ By the house of their fathers.

18 And to the genealogy of all their little ones, their wives, and their sons, and their daughters, through all the congregation c: for in their ‖ set office they sanctified themselves in holiness. ‖ Or, trust.

c This is alledged as a Reason why their Wives and Children were provided for out of the Holy things, because they sequestred themselves from worldly Affairs, by which they might otherwise have provided for their Families, and intirely devoted themselves to Holy Administrations.

19 Also the sons of Aaron the priests which were in * the fields d of the suburbs of their cities, in every several city, the men that were expressed by name, to give portion to all the males among the priests, and to all that were reckoned by genealogies, among the Levites. * Lev. 25. 34. ‖ Or, in the ſtrong hold.

10 Thus ſaith Sennacherib king of Aſſyria, Whereon do ye truſt, that ye abide ‖ in the ſiege in Jeruſalem?

11 Doth not Hezekiah perſwade you to give over your ſelves to die by famine and by thirſt, ſaying, the LORD our God ſhall deliver us out of the hand of the king of Aſſyria?

12 Hath not the ſame Hezekiah taken away his high places, and his altars, and commanded Judah and Jeruſalem, ſaying, Ye ſhall worſhip before one altar, and burn incenſe upon it?

13 Know ye not what I and my fathers have done unto all the people of other lands? were the gods of the nations of thoſe lands any ways able to deliver their lands out of mine hand?

14 Who was there among all the gods of thoſe nations, that my fathers utterly deſtroyed, that could deliver his people out of mine hand, that your God ſhould be able to deliver you out of mine hand?

15 Now therefore let not Hezekiah deceive you, nor perſwade you on this manner, neither yet believe him: for no god of any nation or kingdom was able to deliver his people out of mine hand, and out of the hand of my fathers: how much leſs ſhall your God deliver you i out of mine hand?

i Seeing I have deſtroyed ſo many Nations, and ſome of them ſtronger than you, in ſpight of all their Gods, it is not probable that your God ſhould defend you, which none of the reſt could do for their People.

16 And his ſervants ſpake yet more againſt the LORD God, and againſt his ſervant Hezekiah.

* 2 Kin.19.9.

17 * He wrote alſo letters to rail on the LORD God of Iſrael, and to ſpeak againſt him, ſaying, As the gods of the nations of other lands have not delivered their people out of mine hand, ſo ſhall not the God of Hezekiah deliver his people out of mine hand.

* 2 Kin 18.28.

18 * Then they cried with a loud voice in the Jews ſpeech, unto the people of Jeruſalem that were on the wall, to affright them, and to trouble them, that they might take the city.

19 And they ſpake againſt the God of Jeruſalem, as againſt the gods of the people of the earth, which were the work of the hands of man.

* 2 Kin.19.15.

20 * And for this cauſe Hezekiah the king, and the prophet Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz, prayed and cried to heaven.

21 * And the LORD ſent an angel, which cut off all the mighty men of valour, and the leaders and captains in the camp of the king of Aſſyria: ſo he returned with ſhame of face to his own land. 3 For † he built again the high places which Hezekiah his father had * broken down, and he reared up Altars for Baalim, and * made groves, and worſhipped * all the hoſt of heaven, and ſerved them.

4 Alſo he built altars in the houſe of the LORD, whereof the LORD had ſaid, * In Jeruſalem ſhall my name be for ever.

5 And he built altars for all the hoſt of heaven, in the two courts of the houſe of the LORD.

6 And he * cauſed his children to paſs through the fire in the valley of the ſon of Hinnom; alſo he obſerved times, and uſed inchantments, and uſed witch-craft, and * dealt with a familiar ſpirit, and with wizards: he wrought much evil in the ſight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

7 And he ſet a carved image (the idol which he had made) in the houſe of God, of which God had ſaid to David, and to Solomon his ſon, In * this houſe, and in Jeruſalem, which I have choſen before all the tribes of Iſrael, will I put my name for ever:

12 And when he was in affliction, he beſought the LORD his God, and humbled himſelf greatly before the God of his fathers, 13 And prayed unto him; and he was intreated of him, and heard his ſupplication, and brought him again to Jeruſalem into his kingdom. Then Manaſſeh knew that the LORD he was God c.

c i. e. He was convinced by his own Experience of God's Power, Juſtice and Goodneſs, that Jehovah alone was the true God; and not thoſe Idols which he had worſhipped, by which he had received great Hurt, and no Good.

He caused them to engage themselves by an Oath, or Covenant, that they would observe and obey the Laws of God, as his godly Predecessors had formerly done, and which, indeed, they were before obliged to do. i They complied with God's and the King's Command, as to the outward Acts of God's Worship, though not with an upright Heart; as appears by the History.

33 And Josiah took away all the abominations out of all the countries that pertained to the children of Israel, and made all that were present in Israel to serve, even to serve the LORD their God. And all his days they departed not † from following the LORD, the God of their fathers.

CHAP. XXXV.

* 2 Kin. 23. 21, 22.

MOreover, * Josiah kept a passover unto the LORD in Jerusalem: and they killed the passover on the * fourteenth day of the first month.

* Exod. 12. 6.

2 And he set the priests in their charges, and encouraged them to the service of the house of the LORD.

3 And said unto the Levites that taught all Israel, which were holy a unto the LORD, Put the holy ark in the house b which Solomon the son of David king of Israel did build; * it shall not be a burthen upon your shoulders c: serve now the LORD your God, and his people Israel.

* 1 Chr. 23. 26.

a Or, and which were holy. b In the Temple: Or, in the Holy of Holies. Whence it may seem, it had been removed, either, 1. By some of the wicked and idolatrous Kings of Judah; possibly, by Josiah's Father Amon; which peradventure, may be implied by that expression, ch. 33. 23. Amon trespassed more and more, i. e. more than he or his Father Manasseh had done; which seems to point at some very enormous Crime committed by him. Or, 2. By Josiah's Order, that the Temple might be throughly repaired both in the Holy Place, and in the Most Holy Place, which some of the Idolatrous Kings of Judah, it may be, had defaced, or defiled; and therefore it was to be searched in order to its Reparation; and to that end it might seem fit to remove the Ark. And upon this Occasion, Hilkiah might find the original Book of the Law, which was written by the Hand of Moses, and by God's Command, was laid beside the Ark; and upon the Removal of the Ark, was easily discovered. c Or, that it might not be a burthen, &c. So these Words are to be joyned with the former, as the Reason why Solomon built this House, that the Ark might have a constant and fixed Habitation, and not need to be carried from place to place upon their Shoulders, as it had been done whilest it was in the Tabernacle. And withal, this is mentioned as an Argument to quicken them to the more diligent Service of God in their present Work, because they were freed from that troublesom part of their Office which lay upon their Fore-fathers.

4 And prepare your selves by the * houses of your fathers, after your courses, according to the * writing of David king of Israel, and according to the * writing of Solomon his son.

* 1 Chr. 9. 10. * 1 Chr. 23. & 24. & 25. & 26. * Ch. 8. 14.

5 And stand d in the holy place e according to the divisions of † the families of the fathers ‖ of your brethren † the people, and after the division of the families of the Levites f.

† Heb. the house of the fathers. ‖ Or, for your brethren. † Heb. the sons of the people.

d Or, minister, as that Word is frequently used. e i. e. In the Court of the Priests, which is so called elsewhere, as hath been noted before. f i. e. According to the several Families both of the People, whom he calls their Brethren, lest they should despise them, or grudge to serve them; and of the Levites: For the Passover was to be eaten by the several Families, according to their Numbers, Exod. 12. 3. And therefore he commands these Persons, that when the Paschal Lambs were brought to them to be killed, as they were, v. 7, 8, 9. they might so order the matter, that they might be distributed to the several Families; whether of the Levitical, or other Tribes.

6 So kill the passover, and * sanctifie your selves, and prepare your brethren g, that they may do according to the word of the LORD, by the hand of Moses.

* Ch. 29. 5, 15. & 30. 3, 15. Ezr. 6. 20.

g By purifying them, and quickning them, to fit themselves for so great and solemn a Work.

7 And Josiah † gave to the people, of the flock, lambs and kids h, all for the passover-offerings, for all that were present, to the number of thirty thousand, and three thousand bullocks i: these were of the king's substance.

h For either of these might be used for the Paschal-offering, Exod. 12. 5. i Which were to be offered after the Lambs, upon the several Days of the Feast of Unlevened Bread.

8 And his princes k † gave willingly unto the people, to the priests, and to the Levites l: Hilkiah, and Zechariah, and Jehiel, rulers of the house of God m, gave unto the priests for the passover-offerings, two thousand and six hundred small cattel, and five hundred oxen.

† Heb. offered.

k Not the Political, but Ecclesiastical Princes, or the chief of the Priests and Levites, whose Names here follow. l For the use of any of the Families of any of them, as need should be; for they supposed the thirty thousand which the King had given, were not sufficient for all the Families; or the King gave his Cattel to the People only, or principally; for they only are mentioned for that Gift, v. 7. And therefore these Persons here named give their Cattel, not only to the People, but also to the Priests, and to the Levites, as it is here expressed. And the Levites being not yet sufficiently provided for, some of their Brethren, named v. 9. gave five thousand more peculiarly unto the Levites, as is there said. m For so they were; Hilkiah being the High Priest, and the other the two Chief Priests, of the two Lines of Eleazar and Ithamar; who many times were to officiate in the High Priests stead, and were in Power and Dignity next to him; and were in some sort, Joynt-commissioners with him in ruling the Affairs of the Temple.

9 Conaniah also, and Shemaiah, and Nethaneel, his brethren, and Hashabiah, and Jehiel, and Jozabad, chief of the Levites, † gave unto the Levites for passover-offerings, five thousand small cattel, and five hundred oxen.

† Heb. offered.

10 So the ſervice was prepared, and the prieſts ſtood in their place, and the Levites in their courſes, according to the king's commandment.

11 And they killed the paſſover, and the prieſts ſprinkled the blood from their hand, and the Levites * flayed them n.

* See Ch. 29. 34.

n Which they did, though properly it belonged to the Prieſts, becauſe the Prieſts, who were ſanctified, were not ſufficient for that Work, there being ſo many thouſands of the Cattel; and they were fully employed in the killing of the Sacrifices, and the ſprinkling of the Blood; which was more properly the Prieſts Work than the other.

12 And they removed the burnt-offerings o, that they might give according to the diviſions of the families of the people, to offer unto the LORD p, as it is written * in the book of Moſes: and ſo did they with the oxen q.

o i. e. Thoſe Cattel which were to be offered for Burnt-offerings, to wit, ſome of the leſſer Cattel; for theſe alſo might be offered as Burnt-offerings, Lev. 1. 10. And hence it may ſeem, that all theſe ſmall Cattel were not given to the People, to be eaten by them for their Paſchal Lambs, but that ſome of them were to be offered as Burnt-offerings for the People. And theſe they put apart by themſelves; partly, leſt they ſhould be confounded with them, which were for another Uſe; and partly, that they might not be hindred from that which was their preſent, and more immediate Work; as it follows, that they might give, to wit, the Paſchal-Lambs, or Kids. p Theſe Words may belong, either, 1. To the more remote Words, The burnt-offerings; the other Words being to be put within a Parentheſis, or there being a Trajection in the Words, which is frequent in Scripture, and which is here obſerved by ſome learned Interpreters: Or, 2. To the laſt Words, and to the Paſchal Lambs; which were firſt to be offered to the Lord, by killing them, and ſprinkling the Blood, as was noted before, and then to be given to the People; though the giving be here mentioned before the offering; ſuch Tranſpoſitions being uſual in Scripture, and other Authors. q To wit, as they did with the leſſer Cattel; of which ſee the firſt Note on this Verſe. They removed thoſe Oxen, which were to be offered as Burnt offerings, from thoſe which were to be offered as Peace-offerings.

13 And they * roaſted the paſſover with fire, according to the ordinance: but the other holy offerings r ſod they in pots, and in caldrons, and in pans, and † divided them ſpeedily among all the people.

r Thoſe from which the Burnt offerings were removed v. 12. to wit, the Peace offerings; part of which fell to the ſhare of the Offerer, who was Joſiah, and by his Gift, to the People.

14 And afterward they made ready s for themſelves, and for the prieſts: becauſe the prieſts the ſons of Aaron were buſied in offering of burnt-offerings, and the fat until night; therefore the Levites prepared for themſelves, and for the prieſts the ſons of Aaron.

By a Dream, as God ſpoke to another Heathen King, Abimelech, Gen. 20. 3. Though it is not impoſſible, that he pretended this for his own Advantage, that Joſiah might not aſſiſt his Enemies.

22 Nevertheleſs, Joſiah would not turn his face from him z, but * diſguiſed himſelf a, that he might fight with him, and hearkened not unto the words of Necho, from the mouth of God b, and came to fight in the valley of Megiddo.

And therefore Joſiah is here blamed for not hearkening to this Meſſage; although if he ſinned herein, it was only a Sin of Ignorance; for he did not know that God had ſpoken this to Pharaoh, and was not bound to believe his Teſtimony, which he had good reaſon to ſuſpect in this matter. Yet, methinks, he ought ſo far to have regarded it, as to have enquired the Mind of God about it; which he neglected to do, and therefore he cannot be wholly excuſed, and is here taxed for it.

c In all their ſucceeding Lamentations for their publick Calamities, and for the Ruin of their City, and Temple, and State, and Church, they remembred Joſiah's Death, as their firſt and moſt fatal blow, and as that which opened the Flood-gates to all their following Miſeries; and it was ordained that they ſhould do as the next Words intimate. d Either in that Canonical Book of Jeremiah's Lamentations, or in ſome other Volume of mournful Ditties, made by divers Perſons, upon occaſion of their following Calamities, which is ſince loſt.

But the former ſeems principally intended, becauſe it beſt agrees both with the Hiſtory of Joſiah, which is wholly taken up with the former, and ſpeaks little or nothing of the latter; and with the following words. And it doth not diſ-agree with the Hebrew word, heſed; which though it doth moſt frequently expreſs kindneſs to Men, yet ſometimes it notes a Man's Piety to God and his Houſe; as is manifeſt from Nehem. 13. 14.

f By Repentance for his paſt Errors, and Obedience to God's expreſs Commands; which he would not yield to, through the Pride of his Heart; as is intimated by this Phraſe, and expreſſed, Jer. 38. 19.

13 And he alſo rebelled againſt king Nebuchadnezzar, who had made him ſwear by God g: but he ſtiffened his neck, and hardened his heart h from turning unto the LORD God of Iſrael.

g Who had required and forced him to ſwear Fealty and conſtant Obedience to him, by the true God, whom he ſerved, and whom he called upon to be a Witneſs againſt him if he broke his Oath. So his Rebellion was aggravated with Perjury, and horrid Contempt of God. Compare Ezek. 17. 18. h i. e. He added Obſtinacy and Incorrigibleneſs to his Sins.

14 Moreover, all the chief of the prieſts, and the people tranſgreſſed very much i, after all the abominations of the heathen, and polluted the houſe of the LORD which he had hallowed in Jeruſalem.

i They were univerſally corrupt, and therefore God juſtly brought upon them a general Deſtruction.

* Iſa. 44. 28. & 45. 13.

c To wit, in thoſe parts of the World, all that vaſt Empire formerly under the Aſſyrians and Babylonians. The Gift of which he aſcribes to the great God, either by virtue of thoſe common notions which were in the Minds of the Heathens, who though they worſhipped Idols, yet many of them did acknowledge a true and ſupream God: Or by that clear and expreſs Prophecy of Iſaiah concerning him, Iſa. 44. 28. & 45. 1, 13. ſo long before he was born; which Prophecy the Jews had doubtleſs ſhewed him, which alſo carried a great evidence with it, eſpecially to him who was ſo highly gratified and incouraged by it: or by a ſpecial illumination which God vouchſafed to him, as he did to Nebuchadnezzar and Darius, and ſome others of the Heathen Princes. d Either by his Prophets, Iſaiah formerly, or Daniel now: or by an inward ſuggeſtion to his Mind.

3 Who is there among you of all his people d? his God be with him e, and let him go up to Jeruſalem, which is in Judah, and build the houſe of the LORD God of Iſrael, (he is the God) which is in Jeruſalem f.

d To wit, of Iſrael. A material clauſe; by virtue of which they juſtly refuſed the help of thoſe Aliens who pretended to joyn with them in the building, ch. 4. 2, 3. e Let his God help him, as I alſo ſhall do. f Or only in Jeruſalem, as it is in the Hebrew. So it notes the place where he allows and requires them to build it.

4 And whoſoever remaineth g, in any place where he ſojourneth, let the men of his place † help him h with ſilver, and with gold i, and with goods, and with beaſts, beſides the free-will-offering for the houſe of his God that is in Jeruſalem.

† Heb. lift it up.

g Who, when his Brethren were gone up, was deſirous to go with them, but forced to tarry there for want of Neceſſaries for his Journey. h I require my Officers to take care that they may be ſupplied, either by the voluntary Contributions of the People, or by a moderate Tax to be laid, either only upon thoſe Jews who were reſolved to ſtay, or upon the Gentiles alſo; which the Perſian Monarchs, being abſolute, had a power to do; and which was the more reaſonable, becauſe the King himſelf ſubmitted to it, and bore a great part of the Burthen; and becauſe it was for the Houſe of that great God, to whom they all owed their preſent Peace, and great Felicity. i Which, upon this Occaſion, I give you leave to tranſport.

5 Then roſe up the chief of the fathers of Judah and Benjamin i, and the prieſts and the Levites, with all them whoſe ſpirit God had raiſed to go up k, to build the houſe of the LORD which is in Jeruſalem.

i And with them ſome of other Tribes, as appears from 1 Chron. 9. 3. but theſe only are named, becauſe they were moſt conſiderable for Number and Quality. k To whom God had given that pious Diſpoſition, and that Fortitude and Reſolution which it required to break through their Difficulties, which were great and many; ſuch as their preſent Penury, the Length, and Hazards, and Coſtlineſs of the Journey, their Settlements in comfortable Habitations, their Diſperſion in ſeveral and diſtant places, which hindred the Conjunction of their Counſels and Actions, the Multitude of their Enemies, the actual Poſſeſſion of their Country by others, the great Backwardneſs of many of their own Brethren to go with them, and many other Diſcouragements.

6 And all they that were about them, ‖ ſtrengthened their hands l with veſſels of ſilver, with gold, with goods, and with beaſts, and with precious things, beſides all that was willingly offered.

‖ That is, helped them.

l Either becauſe they had embraced, or at leaſt favoured the Jewiſh Religion, concerning which they were inſtructed by the Iſraelites that had now for a long time dwelt among them; or rather, that they might hereby gratifie the King's Humour, and purchaſe his Favour; for they perceived him to be hearty and forward in the Work.

7 Alſo Cyrus the King brought forth the veſſels of the houſe of the LORD, * which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth out of Jeruſalem m, and had put them in the houſe of his gods.

* 2 Kin. 24. 13. 2 Chr. 36. 7.

m Obj. Theſe are ſaid to have been cut in pieces, 2 Kin. 24. 13. how then are they here returned? Anſ. That Hebrew word uſed 2 King. 24. 13. ſignifies not ſo properly to cut in pieces, as to cut off, as from the uſe of the word, Deut.

Deut. 25. 12. 2 Sam. 4. 12. 2 King. 18. 16. Jer. 9. 26. And these Veſſels, when they were taken away from the Temple, might very well be ſaid to be cut off from it, becauſe they had for ſo long time been ſo conſtantly, and, as it were, inſeparably united to it, and kept in it. In like manner, the Meat-offering and Drink-offering are ſaid to be cut off from the Houſe of the Lord, Joel 1. 9. And it is very improbable that they ſhould deface and cut in pieces theſe magnificent Veſſels, which they could ſo eaſily tranſport whole to Babylon. Although if ſome of the larger of them had been cut into two or more parts, yet the parts of them might be delivered to the Jews; who could, without great difficulty, reſtore them to their former Unity and Form.

8 Even thoſe did Cyrus king of Perſia bring forth by the hand of Mithredath the treaſurer, and numbred them n unto * Sheſhbazzar o the prince of Judah p.

* See Ch. 5. 14.

n i. e. He cauſed them to be delivered to the Jews by number. o i. e. Zorobabel, as appears by comparing ch. 3. 8. with 5. 16. to whom the Perſians, or rather the Chaldæans, had given this Name of Sheſhbazzar; as they gave other Names to Daniel, and his Companions, Dan. 1. 7. p And the Captain and Governor of theſe returning Jews, ch. 2. 2. So the Scepter is not yet departed from Judah.

9 And this is the number of them: thirty chargers of gold, a thouſand chargers of ſilver, nine and twenty knives q.

q Large knives, uſed in the killing of the Sacrifices; which are here mentioned, becauſe the Hafts of them were made of, or covered with Gold or Silver.

10 Thirty baſons of gold, ſilver baſons of a ſecond ſort r four hundred and ten, and other veſſels a thouſand s.

r The firſt, or chief, were of Gold, and theſe of Silver are called the ſecond, or next to them for worth and uſe. s He ſpeaks of Veſſels of a middle ſize; for great and ſmall were five thouſand four hundred, as it follows here. Or, as ſome render it, other veſſels by thouſands: They were not diſtinctly numbred, according to their various forms and uſes, but were promiſcuouſly put together by thouſands.

11 All the veſſels of gold, and of ſilver, were five thouſand and four hundred. All theſe did Sheſhbazzar bring up with them of † the captivity, that were brought up from Babylon unto Jeruſalem.

† Heb. the tranſportation.

CHAP. II.

* Neh. 7. 6, &c. 1 NOw * theſe are the children of the province a, that went up out of the captivity, of thoſe which had been carried away, whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon had carried away into Babylon, and came again unto Jeruſalem and Judah, every one unto his city b; a i. e. The Iſraelites, called the Children of the Province, either, 1. Of Babylon, of which Province we oft read; as ch. 7. 16. Dan. 2. 48. & 3. 1, 12, 30. called the Province by way of Eminency; of which they are called Children, becauſe of their Birth and Habitation in it for a long time; it being uſual to call the Inhabitants of any City or Place, its Children. Or rather, 2. Of Judæa, called a Province, ch. 5. 8. And he calls it thus emphatically, to mind himſelf, and his Brethren, of that ſad change which their ſins had made among them; that from an illuſtrious, independent and formidable Kingdom, were fallen to be an obſcure, ſervile and contemptible Province, firſt under the Chaldæans, and now under the Perſians. b Either unto thoſe Cities or Towns which belonged to their ſeveral Anceſtors; or rather, to thoſe which were now allotted them, and from this time poſſeſſed by them. For their former Cities were either demoliſhed, or poſſeſſed by other Perſons, which they were not now in a Capacity of diſturbing.

2 Which came with Zerubbabel c: Jeſhuah, Nehemiah, ‖ Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilſhan, Mizpar, Bigvai, Rehum, Baanah. The number of the men of the people of Iſrael.

‖ Or, Azariah, Neh. 7. 7.

c As for this Catalogue, it differs in ſome Names and Numbers from that Nehem. 7. which might be from divers Cauſes; partly becauſe of ſeveral Names given to one and the ſame Perſon, and partly becauſe of the many Changes which might happen in the ſame Families, between the time of the firſt making of this Catalogue by Ezra, and the making of it a-new ſo many Years as that Catalogue, Nehem. 7. was made after the former.

3 The children d of Paroſh e, two thouſand an hundred ſeventy and two.

d i. e. The Poſterity, as that Word is for the moſt part, if not conſtantly taken in this Catalogue. e That deſcended either from Paroſh, or from that Family whereof Paroſh was the Chief: And ſo for the reſt.

4 The children of Shephathiah, three hundred ſeventy and two.

5 The children of Arah, ſeven hundred ſeventy and five f.

f In Nehem. 7. 10. they were only ſix hundred fifty two. It ſeems ſeven hundred ſeventy five marched out of Babylon, or gave in their Names that they would go; but ſome of them died, others changed their Minds, others were hindred by the Sickneſs, or other Caſualties, happening to themſelves, or near Relations; and ſo there came only ſix hundred fifty two to Jeruſalem. And the like is to be ſaid in the like Differences; which it ſuffices to hint once for all.

6 The children of * Pahath-moab, of the children of Jeſhuah and Joab g, two thouſand eight hundred and twelve.

40 The Levites: the children of Jeshuah, and Cadmiel, of the children of ‖ Hodaviah, seventy and four.

56 The children of Jaalah, the children of Darkon, the children of Giddel,

* 1 Chr 9. 2. * 1 Kin 9 21.

59 And these were they which went up from Telmelah, Tel-harsa p, Cherub, Addan, and Immer q: but they could not shew their fathers house, and their ‖ seed, whether they were of Israel:

‖ Or, pedigree.

p The Names of the Places whence they came, and where they had lived in the time of their Captivity. q The Names either of the Heads of the Families living in the places last mentioned, or of other places where the Persons here understood had dwelt.

60 The children of Delaiah, the children of Tobiah, the children of Nekoda, six hundred fifty and two.

61 And of the children of the priests: the children of Habaiah, the children of Koz, the children of Barzillai (which took a wife of the daughters of * Barzillai the Gileadite, and was called after their name. r)

* 2 Sam. 17. 27.

r To wit, Barzillai. Which Name he preferred before that of his own Family; accounting it, as it seems, a greater Honour to be allied to so noble a Family, than to be a Priest of the Lord. But by this Ambition he deprived himself of the Honour and Advantage of the Priesthood; as it is here noted, v. 62.

62 These sought their register among those that were reckoned by genealogy s, but they were not found: therefore † were they, as polluted, put from the priesthood.

† Heb. they were polluted from the priesthood.

s The Jews were generally very exact and careful in their Genealogies; partly from their own Choice and Interest, that they might preserve the Distinctions of the several Tribes and Families, which was necessary, both to make out their Claims or Titles to Offices or Inheritances, which might belong to them by Death, or otherwise, as here we see; and to govern themselves thereby in the matter of Marriages, and some other things, wherein the practice of some Laws required the knowledge of these things: And partly by the special Providence of God, that so it might be certainly known of what Tribe and Family the Messiah was born. For as they took care of all their Families, so doubtless, they took a more punctual and singular care about the Royal Family, upon which all their Hopes depended.

63 And the ‖ Tirshatha t said unto them, that they should not eat of the most holy things, till there stood up a priest with * Urim and with Thummim u.

‖ Or, governor.

* Exod. 28. 30.

t i. e. The Governor; to wit, Zerubbabel. Whence Nehemiah also is so called, Nehem. 8. 9. & 10. 2. u That this Point, which could not be found out by any Humane Skill or Industry, might be determined by Divine Direction. Hereby it appears, that the Urim and Thummim were lost in the destruction of the City and Temple, though the Jews fed themselves with hopes of recovering them, but in vain. Of the Urim and Thummim, see Exod. 28. 30. Numb. 27. 21. 1 Sam. 23. 9.

64 The whole congregation † together was * forty and two thousand three hundred and threescore x, † Heb. as one, ch. 3. 9. * Neh. 7. 66.

x The particular sums here recited come only to Twenty nine thousand eight hundred and eighteen: Unto whom are added in this total Sum, Twelve thousand five hundred forty and two: Which either were of the other Tribes beside Judah and Benjamin; or were such as were supposed by themselves and others to be Israelites, but could not prove their Pedigree by their Genealogies; and therefore could not be so punctually and particularly described as the former.

65 Besides their servants, and their maids, of whom there were seven thousand three hundred thirty and seven: and there were among them two hundred singing-men and singing-women y.

For Women, as well as Men, were devoted to, and employed in this Exercise in the Temple-Service; as appears from 1 Chron. 25. 5, 6. And the Parents of these Persons had taken care to instruct and exercise them, as far as they could, in this Art, both for God's Service, and for their own Benefit, when Jerusalem and the Temple should be re-built; which, they knew, would be done after Jeremiah's Seventy Years were expired.

66 There horses were seven hundred thirty and six: their mules two hundred forty and five:

67 Their camels, four hundred thirty and five: their asses, six thousand and seven hundred and twenty.

68 And some of the chief of the fathers, when they came to the house of the LORD z, which is at Jerusalem, offered freely for the house of God, to set it up in his place.

z i. e. To the Ruins of the House, or to the place where that House stood.

69 They gave after their ability unto the * treasure of the work, threescore and one thousand drams of Gold a, and five thousand pound of silver, and one hundred priests garments.

* 1 Chr. 26. 20.

a A Dram of Gold is supposed to be the weight of the fourth part of a Shekel, and of the value of a French Crown.

70 So the priests and the Levites, and some of the people, and the singers, and the porters, and the Nethenims dwelt in their cities, and all Israel in their cities.

CHAP. III.

1 AND when the ſeventh month was come a, and the children of Iſrael were in the cities, the people gathered themſelves together as one man, to Jeruſalem.

a Or rather, was coming, or drew near: For the Altar was ſet up after this time, v. 3. which yet was employed the firſt Day of this Month, v. 6. This was a ſacred kind of Month, wherein there were divers Feſtivals, as appears from Lev. 23. for which the People had been preparing themſelves, and now came to Jeruſalem, to the Celebration of them.

‖ Or, Joſhua, Hag. 1. 1. Zech. 3. 1. ‖ Called Zorobabel, Mat. 1. 12. Luk. 3. 27. called Salathiel.

2 Then ſtood up ‖ Jeſhua the ſon of Jozadak b, and his brethren the prieſts, and ‖ Zerubbabel the ſon c of * Shealtiel, and his brethren, and built the altar d of the God of Iſrael, to offer burnt-offerings thereon, as it is * written in the law of Moſes the man of God.

b The High-Prieſt. c i. e. The Grand-ſon; for he was the Son of Pedaiah, 1 Chron. 3. 17, 18, 19. d Which was of more preſent and urgent neceſſity than the Temple, both to make Atonement to God for all their Sins, and to obtain God's Aſſiſtance for the building of the Temple, and to ſtrengthen their own Hearts and Hands in that great Work, wherein they ſaw they ſhould have many Enemies.

* Deut. 12. 5.

3 And they ſet the altar upon his baſes, (for fear was upon them, becauſe of the people of thoſe countries) and they offered burnt-offerings thereon unto the LORD, even burnt-offerings morning and evening.

* Exod. 23. 16. * Num. 29. 12, &c. † Heb. the matter of the day in his day.

4 They kept alſo the feaſt of tabernacles e, * as it is written, and * offered the daily burnt-offerings f by number, according to the cuſtom, † as the duty of every day required;

e This ſeems to be mentioned Synecdochically for all the Solemnities of this Month, whereof this was the moſt eminent, and moſt laſting. Otherwiſe it is not probable, that they would neglect the Day of Atonement, which was ſo ſeverely enjoyned, Levit. 23. 27, 28, 29. and was ſo exceedingly ſuitable to their preſent Condition. See on v. 6. f Heb. burnt-offerings day by day; i. e. Every Day of that Feaſt they offered as many Sacrifices as were preſcribed: Of which ſee Num. 29. 13, &c.

5 And afterward offered the continual burnt-offering g, both of the new-moons, and of all the ſet feaſts of the LORD that were conſecrated h, and of every one that willingly offered a free-will-offering unto the LORD.

g The Morning and Evening Sacrifice: Of which, ſee on Numb. 28. 6. h i. e. Set apart for the ſolemn and holy Service of God.

† Heb. the temple of the Lord was not yet founded.

6 From the firſt day of the ſeventh month began they to offer burnt-offerings i unto the LORD: but † the foundation of the temple of the LORD was not yet laid k.

i And the other Sacrifices which were to be offered with them upon that Day, being the Feaſt of Trumpets, Numb. 29. 1, &c. Burnt-offerings are oft put for all Sacrifices, as hath been obſerved once and again. k Though it is probable, they had done ſomething towards the removing of the Rubbiſh, and preparing the way for it.

‖ Or, workmen. * Act 9 36.

7 They gave money alſo unto the maſons, and to the ‖ carpenters; and meat, and drink, and oyl unto them of Zidon, and to them of Tyre, to bring cedar-trees from Lebanon to the ſea of * Joppa: according to the grant that they had of Cyrus king of Perſia.

8 Now in the ſecond year of their coming unto the houſe of God at Jeruſalem, in the ſecond month, began Zerubbabel the ſon of Shealtiel, and Jeſhua the ſon of Jozadak, and the remnant of their brethren the prieſts and the Levites, and all they that were come out of the captivity unto Jeruſalem; and appointed the Levites from twenty years old and upward, to ſet forward the work of the houſe of the LORD.

‖ Or, Hodaviah ch. 2. 40. † Heb. as one.

9 Then ſtood Jeſhua l, with his ſons, and his brethren, Cadmiel and his ſons, the ſons of ‖ Judah † together, to ſet forward the work-men m in the houſe of God: the ſons of Henadad, with their ſons, and their brethren the Levites.

l Not the High Prieſt, ſo called; but a Levite: Of whom ſee chap. 2. 40. m By their Preſence and Favour, to encourage them to a chearful and vigorous Proſecution of the Work.

† Heb. by the hands. * 1 Chr. 6. 31. & 16. 7. & 25. 1.

10 And when the builders laid the foundation of the temple of the LORD, they ſet the prieſts in their apparel with trumpets, and the Levites the ſons of Aſaph, with cymbals, to praiſe the LORD, after † the * ordinance of David n king of Iſrael.

n Heb. By, or According to the hands of David; i. e. in ſuch manner, and with ſuch Pſalms, or Songs, and Inſtruments as God had appointed by the Hands or Miniſtry of David.

* Exod. 15 21. 2 Chr. 7. 3.

11 And they * ſang together by courſe, in praiſing and giving thanks unto the LORD; becauſe he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever towards Iſrael. And all the people ſhouted with a great ſhout, when they praiſed the LORD, becauſe the foundation of the houſe of the LORD was laid.

12 But many of the prieſts and Levites, and chief of the fathers, who were ancient men, that had ſeen the firſt houſe o, when the foundation of this houſe was laid before their eyes, wept with a loud voice p, and many ſhouted for joy:

o Which divers of them might very well do, becauſe it was deſtroyed not quite ſixty Years ago; as is manifeſt from 2 King. 25. 2 Chron. 36. and Ezek. 40. 1. p Partly becauſe of the poor and ſmall Preparations made for this, in compariſon of what was made for the other Temple; partly becauſe this Temple was diveſted and deſtitute of thoſe things which were the principal Glory of the former Temple; to wit, the Ark, and the Urim and Thummim, &c. partly becauſe theſe Foundation-ſtones were far inferior to the former, both for quantity and price, 1 King. 7. 9, 10. and partly becauſe theſe Foundations were of a far narrower compaſs than the former. For although the Foundations of this Houſe of the Lord, ſtrictly ſo called, were, at leaſt, of equal largeneſs with thoſe of the former, by comparing 1 King. 6. 2. and Ezra 6. 1, 2, 3. yet the Foundations of the whole Building belonging to the firſt Temple, and adjoyning to it, or in the Courts of it, were far larger than theſe.

13 So that the people could not diſcern the noiſe of the ſhout of joy, from the noiſe of the weeping of the people: for the people ſhouted with a loud ſhout, and the noiſe was heard afar off.

1 NOW when the adverſaries of Judah and Benjamin a, heard that † the children of the captivity built the temple unto the LORD God of Iſrael:

a The Samaritans, as appears from v. 2, 10.

2 Then they came to Zerubbabel, and to the chief of the fathers, and ſaid unto them. Let us build with you b; for we ſeek your God, as ye do c, and we do ſacrifice unto him ſince the days of Eſarhaddon king of Aſſur d, which brought us up hither.

b This they ſpake not ſincerely, as appears from their Diſpoſition and Deſigns diſcovered in the following Hiſtory; but that by this Conjunction with them they might pierce into their Counſels, and thereby get an Opportunity to find ſome Matter or pretences of Accuſation againſt them. c For ſo they did, though in a mongrel way; ſee 2 King. 17. 26, &c. d Son of Sennacherib; and after him, King of Aſſyria, 2 Kin. 19. 37. who brought or ſent theſe Perſons hither; either, 1. In the Days of Salmanaſar, who lived and reigned in Aſſyria but eight years before Eſarhaddon's Reign; and ſo Eſarhaddon might be one of his moſt eminent Commanders, and the Man by whom that Colony was ſent: Or, 2. In the Reign of Eſarhaddon; who ſent this ſecond Colony, to ſupply and ſtrengthen the firſt.

† Heb. it is not for you, and for us.

3 But Zerubbabel and Jeſhua, and the reſt of the chief of the fathers of Iſrael, ſaid unto them, † You have nothing to do with us e, to build an houſe unto our God; but we our ſelves together f will build unto the LORD God of Iſrael, as king Cyrus the king of Perſia hath commanded us.

e As being of another Nation and Religion, and therefore not concerned in Cyrus his Grant, which was confined to the Iſraelites, and to the Worſhippers of the true God. f i. e. Who are united together, by Cyrus his Grant, in this Work. Or, alone, as this Word is ſometimes uſed; as Job 34. 29. Pſal. 33. 15. Hoſ. 11. 7.

4 Then the people of the land g weakned the hands of the people of Judah, and troubled them in building h, g Heb.

g Heb. of that land; the present Inhabitants of that Province, to wit, the Samaritans. h By false Reports, and Threats, and other means described.

5 And hired counsellors against them i, to frustrate their purpose, all the days of Cyrus King of Persia k, even until the reign of Darius king of Persia l.

i Who by their Artifices and Interests in the Persian Court should give some stop to their work. k For though Cyrus still favoured the Jews, yet he was then diverted by his Wars, and his Son Cambyses was left his Vice roy, who was a very wicked Prince, and an Enemy to the Jews and their Religion. l Heb. and until, &c, i. e. Not only in the reign of Cyrus, but also of Cambyses, and of the Magician, after whom was this Darius, of whom see chap. 5, & 6.

6 And in the reign of Ahasuerus m, in the beginning of his reign, wrote they unto him an accusation against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem.

m Which is supposed by divers learned men to be from this time a common Name to divers succeeding Kings of Persia. And this makes it seem doubtful who this was. This was either, 1. Xerxes the fourth and rich King of Persia, as he is called Dan. 11. 2. Or rather, 2. Cambyses the Son and Successor of Cyrus, as may appear, 1. Because none but he and Smerdis were between Cyrus and this Darius. 2. Because Cambyses was known to be no friend to the Jewish Nation nor Religion; and therefore it is very improbable that these crafty, and malicious, and industrious Enemies of the Jews would omit so great an opportunity, when it was put into their hands.

‖ Or, in peace. † Heb. societies.

7 And in the days of Artaxerxes n wrote ‖ Bishlam, Mithridath, Tabeel, and the rest of their † companies, unto Artaxerxes king of Persia; and the writing of the letter was written in the Syrian tongue, and interpreted o in the Syrian tongue.

n Either, 1. Artaxerxes, the Son of Xerxes. Or, 2. Smerdis the Magician. Or rather, 3. The same Cambyses, called by his Chaldee name Ahasuerus. v. 6. and here by his Persian name Artaxerxes: By which name he is here called in the Inscription of this Letter, because so he was called by himself and others in the Letters written either by him, or to him. o Or, exposed or declared. The sense is, It was written in the Chaldee or Syrian Language, and in the Syrian Character: for sometimes the Chaldee or Syrian words are written in the Hebrew Character, as Hebrew words are oft written in an English Character.

‖ Or secretary.

8 Rehum the chancellor, and Shimshai the ‖ scribe, wrote a letter against Jerusalem to Artaxerxes the king in this sort.

9 Then wrote Rehum the chancellor, and Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their † companions; the Dinaites, the Apharsathchites, the Tarpelites, the Apharsites, the Archevites, the Babylonians, the Susanchites, the Dehavites, and the Elamites p, p Several people thus called from the several places of that vast Assyrian Empire, from whence they were fetched, and who were united together into one Body, and sent as one Colony by the Assyrian Monarchs into these parts.

10 And the rest of the nations, whom the great and noble Asnapper q brought over, and set in the cities of Samaria: and the rest that are on this side the river r, † and at such a time s.

q Either Esarhaddon, or some other Person then of great eminency, especially with his Subjects and Followers, who was Captain of this Colony, and conducted them hither. r To wit, Euphrates. s The date of the Epistle was particularly expressed in the Epistle, but here it was sufficient to note it in the general.

11 This is the copy of the letter that they sent unto him, even unto Artaxerxes the king; Thy servants, the men on this side the river, and at such a time.

12 Be it known unto the king, that the Jews which came up from thee to us, are come unto Jerusalem, building the rebellious and the bad city, and have ‖ set up the walls thereof t, and † joined the foundations.

‖ Or, finished. † Chal. sowed together.

t Either, 1. The Jews had begun to build or repair some part of the Walls which Nebuchadnezzar had left, which they aggravate in this manner. Or, 2. This is a meer fiction, which being confidently affirmed, they thought would easily find belief, with a King whose Heart and Ears they possessed by their hired Counsellours, and others of their Friends, or the Enemies of the Jews.

13 Be it known now unto the king, that if this city be built, and the walls set up again, then will they not † pay toll, tribute, and custom, and so thou shalt endamage the ‖ revenue of the kings.

† Chal. give. ‖ Or, strength.

14 Now because † we have maintenance from the kings palace, and it was not meet for us to see the kings † dishonour u: therefore have we sent and certified the king;

† Chal. we are salted with the salt of the palace. † Chal. nakedness, Deut. 24. 1.

u Thus they pretend the Kings service to their own malicious designs and private Interests.

15 That search may be made in the book of the records of thy fathers x: so shalt thou find in the book of the records, and know that this city is a rebellious city, and hurtful unto kings and provinces, and that they have † moved sedition † within the same of old time: for which cause was this city destroyed.

Isa. 20. 4.

† Chal. made. † Chal. in the midst thereof.

x Political Fathers, i. e. thy Predecessors, the former Emperours of this Empire, namely in the Assyrian and Babylonish Records, which together with the Empire were now in the hands of the Persian Kings, to be searched or read, as the Kings pleasure was, or as the affairs of the Empire required.

16 We certifie the king, that if this city be built again, and the walls thereof set up: by this means thou shalt have no portion on this side the river.

17 Then sent the king an answer unto Rehum the chancellor, and to Shimshai the scribe, and to the rest of their † companions that dwell in Samaria, and unto the rest beyond the river, Peace, and at such a time.

18 The letter which ye sent unto us hath been plainly read before me.

19 And † I commanded, and search hath been made, and it is found, that this city of old time hath † made insurrection against kings, and that Rebellion and sedition have been made therein.

† Chal. by me a decree is set. † Chal. lifted up it self.

20 There have been mighty kings also over Jerusalem, which have ruled over all countries beyond the River, and toll, tribute, and custom was paid unto them.

21 † Give ye now commandment to cause these men to cease, and that this city be not built, until another commandment shall be given from me.

† Chal. make a decree.

22 Take heed now that ye fail not to do this: why should damage grow to the hurt of the kings?

23 Now when the copy of king Artaxerxes letter was read before Rehum, and Shimshai the scribe, and their companions, they went up in haste to Jerusalem unto the Jews, and made them to cease † by force and power.

† Chal. by arm and power.

24 Then ceased the work of the house of God y, which is at Jerusalem. So it ceased unto the second year of the reign of Darius king of Persia z.

y For they neither could nor might proceed in that work against their Kings Prohibition, without a special command from the King of Heaven, which they had ch. 5. 1, 2. z To wit, Darius the Son of Hystaspes, Successor of Cambyses: not as some would have it, Darius Nothus, the Son of Artaxerxes Longimanus, who was not Emperor till above 100 years after Cyrus, and consequently from the beginning of the building of the Temple to the finishing of it must be about 130 years, which is not credible to any one that considers; 1. That the same Zerubbabel did both lay the Foundations and finish the work, Zech. 4. 9. 2. That some of the same persons who saw the finishing of this second house, had seen the glory of the first house, Hag. 2. 3.

CHAP V.

1 THen the prophets, * Haggai the prophet, and * Zechariah the son of Iddo a, prophesied unto the Jews that were in Judah and Jerusalem, in the name of the God of Israel b, even unto them.

* Hag. 1. 1. * Zech. 1. 1.

a i. e. Iddo's Grand-child; for he was the son of Barachiah. b Commanding them from God to return to the work of building the Temple, with promise of his favour and assistance.

2 Then rose up Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Jeshuah the son of Jozadak, and began to build the house of God which is at Jerusalem, and with them were the prophets of God, helping them c.

c Encouraging the People to work by their presence, and assurance of success.

3 At the same time came to them Tatnai, governour on this side the river, and Shethar-boznai, d, and their companions, and said thus unto them, who hath commanded you to build this house, and to make up this wall?

d Not Rehum and Shimshai, &c. who were either dead, or removed from their Offices by the new Emperor Darius, as is very usual.

* Ver. 10. † Chal. that build this building.

4 * Then said we e unto them after this manner, What are the names of the men † that make this building?

e Either, 1. We Tatnai and Shethar-boznai. And so this is an additional and more expres enquiry concerning the names of the Builders. And this sense is favoured by comparing v. 9, 10. where the same questions here severally made, v. 3, & 4. are in like manner distinguished, And so the Sacred Writer speaks this in their Person. Such variation of Persons being frequent in the Hebrew Language, as the learned know. Or, 2. We Jews; and so the Translation must be a little varied, and the words read without an Interrogation thus, Then we told them accordingly, (i. e. according to what they asked) what were the names of the men that made this building, i. e. who were the chief undertakers and encouragers of this work: For although the Hebrew particle, mah, rendred, what, seems always to be used interrogatively, yet the Chaldee particle, man, here rendred what, is used otherwise, as is manifest from Dan. 4. 17.

5 But the eye of their God was upon the elders of the Jews, that they could not cause them to cease f, till the matter came to Darius: and then they returned answer by letter concerning this matter.

f Because God over-ruled their hearts and Hands, that they did not hinder them by force, as they could have done.

6 The copy of the letter that Tatnai, governour on this side the river, and Shethar-boznai, and his companions the Apharsachites g, which were on this side the river h, sent unto Darius the king.

g A People so called, sent hither as a Colony. As for the other people mentioned chap. 4. 9. they seem to have had a greater Power with Rehum and Shimshai than with these new Officers, who made choice of other companions. h Whereby they are distinguished from those of their Brethren, who yet continued in their native Country beyond the River, and were not transplanted hither.

† Chal. in the midst whereof.

7 They sent a letter unto him † wherein was written thus; Unto Darius the king, all peace.

8 Be it known unto the king, that we went into the province of Judea, to the house of the great † Chal. stones of rolling. God i, which is built with † great stones, and timber is laid in the walls, and this work goeth fast on, and prospereth in their hands.

i Whom the Jews account the great God, the God of Gods, esteeming all others to be but little and false gods.

9 Then asked we those elders, and said unto them thus, Who commanded you to build this house, and to make up these walls?

10 We asked their names also, to certifie thee, that we might write the names of the men that were the chief of them.

11 And they returned us answer, saying, We are the servants of the God of heaven and earth, and build the house that was built many years ago, * 1 Kin. 6. 1. which a great king of Israel built, * and set up.

12 But after that our fathers had provoked the God of heaven unto wrath, he gave them into the * 2 Kin. 24. 2. & 25. 8. hand of * Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon the Chaldæan, who destroyed this house, and carried the people away into Babylon.

* Ch. 1. 1. 13 But in the first year of * Cyrus the king of Babylon, the same king Cyrus made a decree to build this house of God.

* Ch. 1. 7, 8. & 6. 5. 14 And * the vessels also of gold and silver of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took out of the temple that was in Jerusalem, and brought them into the temple of Babylon, those did Cyrus the king take out of the temple of Babylon, and they were delivered unto one, whose name was ‖ Or, deputy. Sheshbazzar, whom he had made ‖ governour:

15 And said unto him, Take these vessels, go carry them into the temple that is in Jerusalem, and let the house of God be built in his place.

16 Then came the same Sheshbazzar, and laid the foundation of the house of God which is in Jerusalem. And since that time even until now k, hath it been in building, and yet it is not finished.

k Allowing for some Interruptions.

17 Now therefore, if it seem good to the king, let there be search made in the kings treasure-house, which is there at Babylon, whether it be so that a decree was made of Cyrus the king, to build this house of God at Jerusalem, and let the king send his pleasure to us concerning this matter.

CHAP. VI.

1 THen Darius the king made a decree a, and † Chal. books. search was made in the house of the † rolls, † Chal. made where the treasures † were laid up in Babylon b. to descend.

a Either, 1. To search the Rolls: or rather, 2. To permit and promote the building of the Temple. And so the following words may be rendred, after search was made, &c. the Hebrew particle vau, being oft so used, as hath been noted before. b Either, 1. In the Kingdom or Empire of Babylon, which he now possessed: Or rather, 2. In the City of Babylon, where search was first made, supposing that this Edict which was made presently after Cyrus had taken Babylon, was kept there; but not finding it there, they searched in Ackmetha, and found it there.

2 And there was found c at ‖ Achmetha d, in the ‖ Or, Ecbatana, or in a coffer. palace, that is in the province of the Medes, a roll, and therein was a record thus written:

c Here the Kings answer may seem to begin, and this following account he sends to them, and after that lays down his commands. d The Royal City of the Medes and Persians.

3 In the first year of Cyrus the king, the same Cyrus the king made a decree concerning the house of God at Jerusalem, Let the house be built, the place where they offered Sacrifices, and let the foundations thereof be strongly laid, the height thereof threescore cubits, and the breadth thereof threescore cubits e:
